I use the "literal" method of interpretation in reaching the student with the knowledge he needs concerning such areas of study found in the early websites which deal with Judaism vs Christianity, the Covenant of Noah, the Biblical Pattern of Worship as best expressed today for the non-Jew again as found in Judaism which is without the taint of idolatry, the adulteration and corruption of Christian Scriptures, both the Old and New Testaments, Pauline issues, issues of the Messiah and Messianism as viewed from Judaism vs Christianity, Messianic prophecies, Daniel's 70 weeks prophecy, the Essenes and their corruption of the Hebrew Scriptures when they translated them into the Greek LXX, and finally the introduction of sun worship as applied to the Christian Jesus and his depiction in our New Testament. All of the beginning websites are approached with a "literal" view in order to contrast the teachings of Judaism and history, with those of these Roman Christian texts which are made to say otherwise. In so doing we see contrasts as well as parallels that bring into question the validity and reliability of what we have received as Christian truth and texts through "church tradition" and "Christian doctrine" and "Christian theology" concerning these above many issues and dogmas between these two religions. This is done to make you THINK! I truly believe that if God is not the author of confusion then these studies will expose these contradictions to such a degree that mankind has to be blamed for such confusion of these New Testament texts when compared to the Hebrew Scriptures. The blame lays squarely upon Rome and their replacement religion of Christianity which took the place of Biblical Judaism for both the Jew and the non-Jew.

After seeing these things we move to a deeper understanding of "the Christ" when we look at Gnostic Christianity and their "Gnostic Christ"; the "Christ Within" which I believe to be not only the same understanding of "God Within" mankind as taught by these Ancients but the correct interpretation of the Christ as first held by the earliest Gnostic Christian followers of "the Christ" before the Spiritual concept was later "literalized", "carnalized", and "historicized" by Rome after the Jewish War of 70 A.D. It is here we vindicate the true Paul that our previous attacks upon him as the 2nd Paul of Rome's devise seem to some confusing. The Gnostic Paul never taught a "historical and fleshly" Christ that was limited to but one person. Now Paul can be seen and understood correctly and his religious views concerning "the Christ within" be exalted and promoted and given credit where credit is due but laurels to Paul can ONLY come after you have come to see the big difference between an "internalized Christ" and an "external Christ" made by Rome's forgery of his epistles and letters long after his death. This is why I take great pains to contrast the Hebrew Scriptures and religious teachings vs Roman Pauline Christology and theology that we have inherited in our forged Christian Bibles and New Testaments. Rome has done Paul a great disservice and dishonored his ministry and name for almost 2,000 years presently and few know it due to their lack of study in these critical areas concerning the "Mystical Christ" and the "Gnostic Christ" within. It is in these studies we contrast the "literal interpretation" of "the Christ" with the "allegorical" interpretation of the Christ which we show goes back to the beginning of time as delineated on our Egypt Christian website as well as the Marcion New Testament site. It is here that I expose the fallacy of the "literal" interpretation of "the Christ" and the deceptions behind the "historical Jesus" as a literary creation of Rome when they "carnalized the Christ within" over the early centuries of the emerging Gentile Church. It is here we don't hold back and with prior conditioning of the student and reader from his previous study of the introductory websites (textual corruptions) I expose the sad facts that an unbiased study of history will show you that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the Jesus Story originated as the biography of a man named Jesus, and quite a lot of evidence that it did not. Outside of this one forged book, the Roman Bible and the New Testament, there exists not one piece of unforged or unadulterated evidence for the historical existence of this man from Galilee. I go on to show the reader that an unbiased through study of Comparative Religion will reveal to you that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. Personification of the Sun through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through chapter 28. This is an amazing study to say the least.

For an educated man or woman to believe that the studies included on this CD is but "coincidence" stretches belief beyond limits of sanity. Besides any serious study of Egypt will show you that this "Jesus Story" existed on 2 levels: the Mystical and the Mythical. Only later will Rome come and reinterpret these Divine Truths and forge them into a Historical time line with a fictitious person and in so doing destroy the Ancient truths and Divine Revelation given the Ancients who first developed these "religious doctrines" in the first place. So when you see this, and I mean all of this, then there is no room for a "Historical Jesus". Sad but true.

Yet to teach these truths of ethics and morality that is found in the "mind of Christ" expressed through Judaism to the Gentiles, and having been preconditioned to a Jesus-centric faith into which we are born, it is necessary to teach through the vehicle of this "literal Jesus" in the beginning of our studies and in so doing slowly begin to widen the scope of the reader's learning and thereby gradually introduce him to these other concepts and origins of the "Mystical and Mythical" Christ. In so doing we slowly expose the Historical Jesus for what he is; namely, just an allegory and personification of the indwelling Christ which was later "literalized" and "historicized". This "radical reinterpretation" of God's Christ was later added to Marcion's First New Testament and forged into Rome's New Testament in their grand scheme of replacement religion.

Sadly Egypt is destroyed today but her children and her truths live among her children, the Jewish nation and Biblical and Rabbinic Judaism. For me, if you want to find the Messiah and the mind of such a one like whom this Jesus is for me, an "example to be emulated" for all mankind, then we must begin to look in Judaism and in Egypt for, in my opinion, it is here we find "the mind of Egyptian Karast (Krst)" who is the original Christ. These Egyptian mysteries were continued by the Gnostic Christians and the authentic Paul who only wrote 7 epistles and who never taught a "fleshly Jesus Christ". Only when Rome forged later anti-Gnostic religious writings is Rome's Paul given credit for belief in a "historical Christ" which again I, and other scholars, point out was never his true belief. Only later do we tragically find that these metaphysical concepts revealing God to man, as coming down through recorded history from Egypt, to be destroyed when "literalized", "carnalized", and "Christianized" in Rome's New Testament.

But some might wonder and ask "where did all this come from originally"? Well I deal with that to in revealing the "Mythical Christ" as taken from Astronomy and Astrology of the Ancients as they read the stars and Heavens and saw within them and the movements of the Cosmos the varied messages of the Creator to mankind as interpreted in the cycles, patterns, the path of the Sun, moon, planets, stars, constellations, risings, settings, eclipses, etc. The message of Heaven, the cosmos, came down to Earth. Spiritually insightful people understood it and gave it as best they could to others as they could and would accept it. It is all there and the wonder never stops as these Ancient Spiritual Masters saw and understood "Divine Messages" in the Heavens which they brought down to Earth and applied to the Soul of mankind and its pilgrimage and development into this "Krast-likeness" or "Christ-likeness" which the Creator intended. This might sound impossible to one now who is not well versed in such areas of study but believe me these teaching will take your breath away as you see the depth of spirituality of our Ancients compared with the religious fare we are fed today from our Christian pulpits and TV. If you ever wondered "where is the beef" you have found it here I promise you and the recommended book list on Egypt will feed you forever.

In closing, approaching these websites it is best that you first read the attachment "websites" as I have reworked this presentation and it exists today as a "plan-o-gram" for your studies from beginning to end. This is the best way in my opinion to approach these varied subjects in order where you move from the inherited "historical" view of "Christ Jesus" to the "Mystical Christ" and finally to the "Mythical/Metaphysical Christ" and in so doing keep an organized pattern of study. This is the goal and it can be accomplished quite easily if you do as I recommend. It will only require your desire and time to accomplish.

Also attached is our "recommended book list" to show you where you can go to examine these findings for yourself and I recommend many good books which I own and have devoured over these last 20 years. I leave you with my blessings and again thank you for your gift and support of our small and humble attempt to restore the truth concerning God and His Christ to the world as He was first revealed to mankind in the beginning of time before greed, ambition, antisemitism, and the agenda of men and religious politics robbed us of such wonderful truths concerning "the Christ within". I pray that this CD will not only enlighten you to these higher Spiritual Truths but as well as you to find the fullness and stature of Christ in your own life.

BET EMET MINISTRIES

"Hebrew for "House of Truth"

Craig Lyons Ms.D, D.D., M.Div.

2010 C.E.

The following is the recommended reading list for students of Bet Emet Ministries. Each of these following books is very important in your study of the origins of the Christian Faith for one or more reasons. If I had it to do all over again instead of the several hundred or so books collected and read over 20 yrs these would be the only books I needed to read to get the total picture of the corruption of "the faith once given the saints." From my viewpoint looking backwards, I consider each of these books mandatory for ones understanding of the difficult problems which confront us once we begin to study the origin and corruption of early Christianity. I make few promises but I will make an exception at this time: If one undertakes to read as many of these books in the following categories then there will be little that will escape him in his quest for truth concerning the Christian faith, the "Jesus Story," the truth about the Jewish Messiah, the awakening of the Christ within himself. You will also see that all of the below dogmas in these books have their origins in Ancient Egypt in the beginning of time. This is all the more important when one gets down to the difficult task of trying to reconcile the Jewish Messiah as taught by Judaism and the the "Jesus Christ" in the Second New Testament which Rome gave us in refutation of the earliest Gnostic First New Testament which has been so tragically altered today and which so few tragically are aware. If you take the challenge, and study hard, you will discover, as I did, that Rome merged the concept of the human Jewish Messiah who is to be anointed by God with the Indwelling incarnated Christ in every human, the Christ of St. Paul, who awaits his resurrection from the dead in you and me. Out of this mistaken synthesis, owing to Rome's failure to understand the Ancient Mysteries of Ancient Egypt, the "Jesus Story" of a supposed literal and historical Godman who, we know today, or at least some of us do owing to scholarly studies to find the truth, was never historical existence. The greatest truth of all is that our "Jesus Story" was told as far back as Ancient Egypt and was called the "Horus Story." It should resonate hopefully with you that we need to understand these same texts and "Sayings" in the same manner as they who wrote and authored them some 5000 to 10,000 years B.C.E. Blessings to all in your search for God's truth for your Soul. These books will reveal to you a different "Karest/Christ, or should I say "Jesus," than the one Rome rammed down our throats at the point of a sword. The truth of what I say is found yet today carved in stones and Ancient Egyptian tombs, pyramid walls, and temples. Glory to God, we can read the Ancient Egyptian hieroglyphs once again after two thousand years where they were silent, being that no one could read them. It is here we find our "Christ Story" in its most beautiful depiction and elucidation. This truth was only darkened as it traveled down the path of history and thanks be to God, due to the Enlightenment of Europe and the advances in archaeology and Egyptology, the rocks cry out God truth for the cosmic Souls. Man is a divine being, possessing the status of a god. This wonderful story has been obscured down through history, being veiled by the darkness of man's flesh and finite minds. Only in searching for the truth about the Christ before the Spiritual concept was altered, will one come to see the truth regarding the Christs three different understandings down through history: Mystical, Mythical, and Historical. Only two of these are "true," and one is an absolute falsity and corrupt misunderstanding of the truth of the Christ. Can you guess which one is false?

A Christian's religious belief system, when tested and exposed to contradictory facts from Biblical languages, Biblical history, Biblical culture, the study of Gnosticism as well as Comparative Religions, Astronomy and Astrology, and Archeology, must in the Spirit of Truth and Repentance, be flexible enough to change.

Blessings.....Craig Lyons Ms.D., D.D., M.Div.

Answer for yourself: What will these books teach you?

These books will help the reader confront the many challenges regarding the orthodox approach to the inherited "Jesus Story" and the history of Christianity and its true origins. These books point their critical finger at many of the rigid dogmas of Christianity as well as the LITERAL interpretation of the "Jesus Story" which has sadly created not only mental servitude with attendant idolatry for each who believe in it, but at the same time stifled the real understanding of the original Christian message that goes all the way back to the beginning of time in Ancient Egypt regarding the evolution of the Soul. If you read these books you will come to see beyond any doubt that the true meaning of Christianity is to be found in the Mystical, Mythological, and Metaphysical understanding of the "Christ Stories," the "Sun-god Stories," and the "Jesus Story;" not in the crude literal and historical misunderstanding of them. These books will help you see through the false religious traditions inherited from Rome in our day and will show you the need for a revival of the effort to discover the esoteric significance of the Christian heritage, a revival that will help you understand the allegorical and metaphysical interpretation of all Sacred Scriptures, including our Bible. Behind these supposed literal and historical stories, lie the very ancient metaphysical myths and allegories that the Ancient Egyptians were told, and once you come to recognize this, and then seek their veiled meanings regarding your incarnation into this animal body and nature, then you began to actively participate in the Spiritual evolution of your Soul that is associated with the awakening of the Christ in you! All of this mind you, lies concealed under the myths, legends, dramas, symbols, and allegories in our Bible behind the narratives that we have been falsely told are literal and historical stories, but as archeology and Egyptology has shown us over the last two hundred years, is not! Only when you awaken from the dead can you participate in the new birth for Christianity and the new enlightenment which is so desperately needed in the Christian world comprising over 3 billion people today.

I CONSIDER ALL OF THESE BOOKS A MUST....YOUR LIBRARY NEEDS EACH OF THEM OR AT LEAST REPRESENTATIVE FROM EACH CATEGORY...IF YOU READ THESE BOOKS OR AS LEAST THE "GREAT ONES" THEN YOU WILL KNOW ALL THAT NEEDS TO BE KNOWN...(ALMOST)...BUT YOU GET THE POINT...MOST PROBLEMS WITH CHRISTIANITY ARE DEALT WITH IN THESE BOOKS AND FEW THINGS ESCAPE EXPOSURE IN THESE BOOKS...THEY COVER IT ALL... needless to say I have many more books that I could recommend...but this is the best of the crop... you might can get some of them inexpensively at http://www.amazon.com under the "used" book searches.

Blessings...

If one undertakes the study of Bet Emet's Websites, and understand it is a life's work, then one is prepared to understand what has happened to Christianity down through the centuries and how Divine Truths, once expressed through allegory, metaphor, and simile by the Ancients who first received the Revelations of God, has been suppressed, altered, and tragically lost today through the "literalization" of such revelations given to us by the Ancients. This is a tragic story to say the least and renders us as "believers" and "followers of the New Testament Jesus" as idolators and we never know it because our Bibles inherited from Rome are "forged" in key "theological places". If you are diligent to study and learn from what is shared on these multiple sites then over time you will understand how it is possible to follow the "New Testament Jesus" in one way which ends with idolatry and in another way which ends in holiness and righteousness. The key to all of this rest in the true identity of "the Christ," "the Logos", and "Christ Jesus". We are all familiar with these terms but we will see hopefully there is a big difference between what we have been taught about them today and what they meant to the original Christians. Rome's has played a key role in the loss of these Divine truths and the substitution of falsehoods as you will come to see. "Surely that is not possible I hear you say" but I only wish it were so. For your study and thought are these websites developed and revised over the years as Bet Emet Ministries' studies have progressed and deepened and more parts of the "theological puzzle" of Christianity became apparent to myself and others associated with Bet Emet.

These websites are intended to be "a step by step" process in your pilgrimage of learning. We begin by looking at the surface of the texts and then moving deeper as the websites progress we look often at the hidden and esoteric meanings that lie beneath these same texts. In other words we begin our websites with a "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" and "Jesus Christ" and move later to the "Mystical Christ" and finally to the "Mythical Jesus Christ". As alluded previously we begin by looking at the "literal historical Jesus" and the texts and explain them "literally" as we have been taught since growing up most like since childhood in the Christian faith we inherited. In so doing it is my intent to show you and separate for you a Jewish Messiah and Judaism's truth from a non-Jewish Messiah and untruths given us by Rome. As your studies progress it is my hope that you will come to see the depiction of this "Jesus" in the New Testament in a deeper light; not as a historical-literal person but the "personification of Divine truth" that was entrusted to the Jewish nation for the Gentile world. As the websites progress you will come to see just whom this "Divine Christ within" really is and how this concept has tragically be changed by Rome and given a literal-historical life of its own. It is a real shame that the only Jew to ever came to you and me was this New Testament Jesus dressed up like Constantine and bearing literalized sunworship concepts which simply are not true in their "literal sense" since they bring idolatry with them. Over time you will come to see the Divine Truth within them however when they remain as allegories as they were intended for it is then and only then can they express the Divine truths as originally intended and as understood by the ancients who gave them to mankind in the first place. Rome changes them and never tells us in the book we inherited; the Roman Bible.

In closing it is my intent as a yet ordained Pastor who desired to serve the Creator and help His children do the same that once this information came to light over the years of my studies I realized that someone has to share and tell others of this deception in order that our worship of the Creator be in "Spirit and in Truth. Bet Emet, Hebrew for "House Of Truth", has done as best it can to present these truths in hopes that your love for and worship of God be likewise.

The order of our study is very important. If you start from the beginning and work your way through these websites as if you are reading the "best of many books" (which you are) then you will end your study with few unanswered questions and you will have arrived as the truth you sought and have a very clear picture of whom God is and what He requires of you, the non-Jewish believer in Christianity today. Sure the trip is hard, long, and time consuming and filled with both tears and joy as you deal with what has happened at the hands of men who served themselves rather than God. But the goal must be kept squarely before you....to come to the Truth once known about God by these Ancients who framed many of the very same religious doctrines that sadly have come down to us altered today and sadly cover the pages of our Bibles. You will come to see that there is a very big difference from the Jewish Bible and the corrupted Gentile Christian Bible we inherited from Rome. This is Rome's doing! All of this is dealt with on our websites and you will get to it in time if you are diligent in your study.

Let us end with one passage from the Hebrew Scriptures:

14 Then the LORD said unto me: 'The prophets prophesy lies in My name; I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spoke I unto them; they prophesy unto you a lying vision, and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their own heart.

It is time that we do diligent study in order to overcome these "lies" which we have inherited from Rome and others and repent of such error if it be in our life. It is time we search out and return to the faith of our Fathers who carry the Ancients traditions and truths with them. Today we find that in Judaism, the legacy of Egypt. Few know this because of lack of study but the beginning study has been done for you. It is time you accept the mantle of study which in first century Israel was "the highest form of worship".

Lev 20:77 Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be ye holy; for I am the LORD your God (the Jewish Tanakh)

PRESENTING THE "JESUS STORY" THROUGH THE 4 WAYS OF RABBINICAL TEACHING

The Websites and our spiritual pilgrimage follow but I must say that what I uncovered when getting to the bottom of the origin of the "Jesus Story" is that the "New Testament Jesus" can be understood in many different ways and in so doing yet communicate Divine Truth to the reader. I have discovered through my 20 years of study that we basically have 3 different ways to understand "the Christ" and the "Jesus Story" as I and others see it. We at Bet Emet Ministries have covered all 3 different understandings and presentations of "Jesus Christ" through the totality of our websites. Taken in order our Websites take the student through these 3 different understanding of "the Christ" in systematic order.

- Historically...(myth taught through the medium of a presumed historical person; although not accurate to the existence of a historical person yet important in that it serves as an example to be emulated by all mankind)
- Mythically...(personification of the Sun and its path through the Zodiac and the 4 seasons of the year; the equinoxes and solstices)
- Mystically...(expressing a hidden teaching, a secret doctrine, given under strict and exacting conditions to approved candidates by the Masters of Wisdom regarding the descent of the Logos into matter, ie., mankind). Paul speaks of this:

Col 1:27 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Are all three methods of presenting Jesus Christ equally accurate to truth? No they are not and our Websites will provide the evidence you need to not only see this for yourself but make adjustments in your religious belief system when needed. Our focus needs to be on correctly interpreting the Mystical and Mythical Christ and then dealing with the erroneously interpreted "Historical Jesus...the Christ with flesh".

It goes without saying that we all begin to read and study the Bible from a "literal" perspective assuming that it is the vehicle for "literal truth" about Jesus Christ, never realizing that often these stories were written to be understood as allegories by the original writers let alone ever realizing that our "Jesus Story" can be found in identical form all the way back to pre-dynastic Egypt over 13,000 years ago. Bet Emet Ministries began several years ago to present websites dealing with Christianity which at first adopted this "Literal Interpretation" of Jesus in the "Jesus Story" since the "literal" approach toward Jesus in the New Testament is taught today by almost all of Christianity as they assume that Jesus Christ was a historical person. We all grow up in the Western Hemisphere assuming that the "Jesus Story" is a historical reality; that is until we do the serious study of our faith required to get to the bottom of the "Jesus Story" and the religious synthesis within it. Only with the study of Gnostic Christianity did I come to clearly see the Mystical Christ. Many of our websites, especially the early ones from years ago, begin by approaching the "Jesus Story" from this historical -grammatical method of interpretation because this is how we grow up and first get acquainted with the "Jesus Story". This I felt was necessary to get the reader and student started in order to reveal the greater Spiritual Truths that lay within Biblical Judaism that does not come with the added baggage of idolatry which we find in Gentile Christianity. As a pastor I realized that it takes time for a "seed to grow" and if I strike out and were to say "everything you believe about Jesus is wrong" I would lose any hope of reaching people with the fruits of my studies. So the beginning study of the Jewish Roots of Christianity follows the Rabbinical Methods of teaching and I applied them to Bet Emet's presentation of the "Jesus Story" and the totality of our Websites. There are 4 levels of Rabbinical teaching.

PASHAT

The first level of understanding is PASHAT (simple). The Pashat is the literal meaning. It is similar to what Protestant hermeneutics calls "Grammatical Historical Exegesis" and also similar to what Protestant Hermeneutics calls "The Literal Principle." The PASHAT is the plain, simple meaning of the text; understanding scripture in its natural, normal sense using the customary meanings of the words being used, in accordance with the primary exegetical rule in the Talmud that no passage loses its PASHAT (b.Shab. 63a; b.Yeb. 24a). While there is figurative language (like Ps. 36:7) symbolism (like Rom. 5:14); allegory (like Gal. 4:19-31) and hidden meanings (like Rev. 13:18; 1Cor. 2:7) in the Scriptures, the first thing to look for is the literal meaning or PASHAT. This is how and why I developed the first websites and in so doing try to reveal the beauty of Biblical Judaism to the Christian student desiring the truth of his Jewish Roots. For it is in Biblical Judaism do we find our links with Egypt in their purest form thus preserving better than any these Ancient understandings of God and the Cosmos and man's responsibilities to the Creator. These following websites approaches "the Christ" as an assumed "historical person" yet never telling the reader that behind this motif of a "historical Jesus" lies the greatest deception know to mankind.

 - http://returntofaithofjesus.netfirms.com
 - (The examination of the Jewish and Hebrew Roots of the Christian Faith as taken from a literal perspective. In so doing we expose many of the errors in doctrine and practice of today's Gentile Christianity with special emphasis upon the non-Jewish believer and his Divine place within the Israel of God instead of enmeshed in replacement religion as exists today in Gentile Christianity. We pay no attention in this site to the many problems concerning the Historical Jesus and approach the study from the normal assumption that the historical Jesus is true since that is how most of us grew up believing in the first place...in later sites we look at this problem in greater detail).

- THE COVENANT OF NOAH & THE LAWS OF NOAH AND THEIR RELATIONSHIP TO THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH
 - http://covenantofnoah.netfirms.com
 - (Now we look in depth to the non-Jewish believer and how he fits into true Biblical Faith. This is very important information and necessary for every Christian to read and study in detail. This is a very revealing study of the Covenants of God with special emphasis upon the Covenants concerning the non-Jew which are called today the Covenant of Noah comprising the 66 commandments of Noah; included in this site are OT references to this covenant as well and revealing exposition of this same covenant in the NT as taught to the non-Jews in fulfillment of the Great Commission before Rome would change everything in the 4th century; see how the Pattern of Worship was the same for the Jew and non-Jew and how denominational Christianity has missed the mark throughout history due to it's anti-semitic background and dogmas inherited by Rome).
- THE BIBLICAL "PATTERN" OF WORSHIP & THE GENTILE GOD-FEARER IN THE FIRST CENTURY SYNAGOGUE-"CHURCH"
 - http://jewishrootscx.netfirms.com/
 - (Having learned all of this knowledge from the above websites and fully convinced that repentance is needed in my "Christian religious belief system" then the question that should be asked is this one as I see it: "If I, as a non-Jew, who had not converted to Judaism, had lived in the first century in Israel and had come into contact with the Messianic Movement within Israel as we find it in Acts 15 for example, then what would I have been taught about how a non-Jew is to "worship" the Creator"? Is there a "Pattern of Worship" of God that I need to know about? Other questions come to mind: What was I to do having learned these truths about the early Gentile inclusion into the Israel of God? How was I to worship in contrast as to how I learned from Roman Christianity? How can I bring this understanding into my life today? How can I worship the Creator in "Spirit and in Truth" in light of what I have learned in the above websites that has shown me that I have been badly taught and so badly misquided by my spiritual leaders in Christianity today? If you want those answers then this website is for you. My apologies that it is not finished but under "construction" but better to begin to learn what we can when we can than waste any more time. I trust that in time the website will be finished.

REMEZ

The next level of understanding is called in Hebrew REMEZ (hinting at a prior truth or a hidden truth that goes beyond the current text). Peculiarities and contradictions in the Biblical texts are treated and presented to the reader as hinting at a deeper truth than that conveyed by its PASHAT. The fun of discovering our Jewish Roots, Sabbaths, and Biblical Festivals is over and it is time for serious investigation of our inherited faith. Our Websites get more challenging as I begin using the principle of Remez to hint that there are problems with the "Jesus Story" and begin to question many of the teachings of Christianity and their presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. We still approach these issues as if "historical" but as your studies progress you begin to slowly get the picture that there is severe problems with what Christianity teaches about "the Christ" and its presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. It bears saying again that we approach this information yet as if "historical" but as our websites progress we will soon move to the "Mythical" and the "Mystical" presentations of Jesus Christ. You might say we are in the process of cracking the egg shell regarding the "Jesus Story".

- RETURNING TO THE BIBLICAL FAITH OF JESUS/YESHUA BY EXAMINING CLOSELY OUR BIBLES
 - http://www.christianjewishbible.netfirms.com
 - (We move on and begin to look at our New Testaments since it is within them that we have the core of the problems concerning this Jewish Messiah portrayed as Jesus. Here we encounter examples of such textual and scriptural falsifications in our Christian Bibles, both Old and New Testaments as mentioned in the previous sites.. hundreds of examples where the facts and truths that once existed in the Jewish Masoretic Old Testament texts were purposefully changed in the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures by the Essenes and later incorporated into almost all Christian Old Testaments and the implication of such purposeful alterations by not only the Jews of Alexandria (the Essenes), but the later changing and altering of this solar-mythology by the Gentile Church in their final production...the New Testament. Here we encounter the change of these Divine Concepts as they become altered and reinterpreted and attached to the life of the "supposed literal and historical" New Testament Jesus. So it is necessary that we become very familiar with the document called the New Testament which has incorporated such religious agendas over time)

- AN UNBIASED LOOK INTO THE HISTORY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT…AND THE ROLE OF THE HOLY SPIRIT IN ITS CANONIZATION?
 - http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com
 - (Now we must understand how we actually got this New Testament in the first place. This study is as best as possible an unbiased and intense study into the New Testament, its origins, its canonization, the disagreements of the early Church Fathers as seen for hundreds of years in the conflicts and disagreements concerning it, its falsification and purposeful mistranslation of the Jewish Masoretic text, the role of the Essenes in the falsification of the Jewish Old Testament and its impact of the later developing New Testament, and the determination of the role of the Holy Spirit in the production of the New Testament...if any)

- PAUL...THE TRUE FOLLOWER OF JESUS...OR...SUBVERTER OF THE FAITH OF JESUS AND FOUNDER OF A NEW RELIGION?
 - http://paulproblem.netfirms.com
 - (Now we move to the Paul Problem. Let it be said that I am hard on Paul since he has been presented to us on the pages of this New Testament in a particular way and reinforced by 2000 years of Church Tradition. I must say that I deal with Paul "literally" as this is the way he has again been presented to us on the pages of the New Testament and in so doing I spare no ink in pointing out the problems this presents regarding a Jewish interpretation of "the Christ". Understand that this is a very challenging website which exposes the deception behind the New Testament's presentation of the Apostle Paul...it reveals the truth behind the purposeful manipulation of history and facts to cover up the truth about Paul who was understood by all in the first century to be an enemy of the Jerusalem church and remained so his whole life...I expose what the true religious belief system of Paul really is and show you how it is a synthesis of Gnosticism, Mystery Religions, and Judaism...along with this I reveal his and later pro-Pauline writers purposeful misuse of the Jewish Scriptures by Pauline writers in their presentation to the non-Jewish world of a new religion and how they made it seem as if Jesus was the cause for it...this is strong stuff and not for the faint-hearted. We will look at Paul in a different light when he is later put into his Gnostic setting which is historically accurate then then we can say "kind things" about Paul then...so hold on...we need to find the "real Paul" and we don't have it yet since Rome forged all but 7 authentic epistles which he wrote and put his name on them...so we have to be hard on Paul since Christians believe that he taught all the things that carry his name. We will see as we study that he did not and the blame for this deception is again laid on the lying pens of Rome....so we deal on this site as "if" Paul was responsible for these writings since we are taught he wrote them all by tradition)

- THE JEWISH CONCEPT OF "THE" MESSIAH....WHY CAN'T THE JEWS AND THE CHRISTIANS AGREE?
 - http://jewishmessiah.netfirms.com/
 - (Now we enter the beauty of Judaism and the truths they taught about their own Messiah and once knowing this then it is easy to contrast them with what we have been taught as Christians that come from our forged Christian Bibles. Ever wonder why the Jews and Gentile Christianity cannot agree on the Jewish Messiah? At last the unbiased truth concerning the Jewish Messiah and with it many explanations as to how the Christian theology concerning the Messiah deviates so drastically from the Jewish Messianic concepts as well as emphasis on the corruption of the Gentile's religious texts (OT and NT) which culminates in the creation of a Messiah which was never prophesied by the Jewish prophets.....the answers for the Gentile Christian are not always comforting but if you want the truth it is here for the interested and unbiased student and true seeker of truth. This is a selective summary of what went before on the other sites where I pull together pertinent information concerning one topic and one topic only: THE MESSIAH. If your desire is to study what the Jewish Scriptures taught about the Jewish Messiah before they were altered and changed as they were purposefully mistranslated into the Greek and later carried over in their corrupted forms into the Christian's Old Testament and New Testament texts, then this material is for you. Along with this site is the examination of text after text not only in it's Hebraic original form but as it was altered and changed thereby causing New Testament believers to ignorantly accept and cherish beliefs about Yeshua/Jesus which not only are incorrect but which render them idolators before God).
- A TRUTHFUL ANALYSIS OF MESSIANIC PROPHECIES IN THE HEBREW BIBLE AS CONTRASTED WITH THE CHRISTIAN TRANSLATIONS...DID JESUS FULFILL THEM?
 - http://messianicprophecy.netfirms.com
 - (A very detailed examination of the Hebrew Scriptures and how they were later altered when translated into the Greek, Latin, and English versions of Christian Bibles. We trace the corruption of the Jewish Scriptures from the Hebrew in which they were originally written and show how these Jewish Scriptures were later purposefully mistranslated, misquoted, misapplied, and even invented in order to alter the human messiah into a "cosmic Godman" by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. Later these very same altered passages will become forced "fulfillments" when applied to Jesus in later Latin and English versions taken from the Greek forgeries of the Jewish Scriptures. We show repeatedly how the Greek translations were forged in order to include the Essene concept of their "angel messiah" and "cosmic Godman" and later how this concept would be further adulterated when applied to Jesus some two hundred years later through the further forgery of other Hebrew Scriptures by the Roman Gentile Church. In other words we show beyond any doubt how the Holy Word of God has been corrupted today. No wonder the Jewish people don't believe in the Christian Jesus; their Jewish Scriptures read completely different than those of the Christian Church in "key" messianic places)
- DANIEL 9:17-27: THE SEVENTY WEEKS OF YEARS AS TAKEN FROM THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES
 - http://seventyweeksdaniel.netfirms.com
 - (We now look at a very problematic piece of prophecy. Of all the Old Testament scriptures translated and quoted (or purposely mistranslated or misquoted) by Christian evangelicals in hopes of finding validation to most of their Gentile Christian doctrines, Daniel 9:17-27 and Isaiah 53 are perhaps the two most popular. In both cases, Christianity relies on a claim that the only reasonable interpretation of those scriptures is theirs. But is this true? Have our Christian Bibles been forged to force fulfillments as applied to Jesus when the true Hebrew Scriptures read differently than our Christian Bibles? Well...it is time to see the truth for yourself concerning Daniel's 70 weeks and then you decide who is right....Judaism or Christianity)

- THE ESSENE CHRISTIAN FAITH AND ITS LEGACY OF SUN WORSHIP

- http://essenecx.netfirms.com
- (As stated earlier Divine allegory of the ancients has been "literalized by Rome" and presented to us in our Christian Bibles. We begin to see this through a comprehensive and challenging investigation into the true origins of the Essene-Christian faith as we begin in Egypt and it's worship of God. In so doing we spend some time understanding Egyptian Sun-worship where astral-theology and solar-worship was personified into "savior Godmen"...Osiris being both the first and the "pattern" of all that followed; tracing such solar beliefs through successive Gentile nations and making note of similarities as well as differences, until we come to the Essene/Qumran cult, who, in rejection of Biblical Judaism because of their inability to assume the Priesthood following the Maccabee war, evolved away from Biblical Judaism and adopted these astral-theological religious ideas which had more in common with Egypt, Persian, Zoroastrianism, Buddhism, Pythagorianism, etc., than with Judaism, until we end up with a "corrupted Judaism" which is more commonly known today as Christianity. What we find is that the Essenes "literalized" these prior Divine Allegories concerning Divine Truths expressed by the Ancients through the medium of myths and symbols. It is in the hands of these apostate Essenes where these Divine concepts were "literalized" and were purposefully included in a falsified translation of the Jewish Old Testament called the Greek Septuagint. In so doing these Divine Concepts lose their original meaning and these reinterpreted doctrines become parts of the Greek Old Testament for the Greek speaking world and for all later Christians and the Christian Church; thus providing the substrate for all later quotes of the New Testament. The bottom line being that personified Sun-worship was applied to the life of the Jewish Messiah as recorded in the New Testament and it is we, not knowing that these concepts were only to be taken allegorically, have been misled to see in them a "literal" understanding when they never were originally intended to be taught as such. In so doing we spend a lot of time with the texts in order to see how this was done and how extensive this misrepresentation is in our Bibles).

- THE PAGANIZATION OF THE FAITH OF YESHUA ...AND THE BIRTH OF "GENTILE CHRISTIANITY"
 - http://paganizingfaithofyeshua.netfirms.com
 - (We move on now to look at more "literalization" of Sun-Worship as it was applied to the Jesus of the New Testament by the writers of the this New Testament. This is a very, very challenging study and expose of how Sun-Worship today as masqueraded as "orthodoxy" in Christianity...the subject is diverse and will require adequate reading on your part but well worth the price as you learn of the origin of the Sun Myths which were later personified by the Indo-Germanic nations and later written into the translation of the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. These accounts would be later embellished by the Gentile Church as they applied them to the life of the Jewish Messiah as represented through this Jesus as they build it off the falsifications of the Greek Old Testament as altered by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt; this site exposes the false theology connected with Jesus which lines almost every page in the New Testament in one way or another...a through understanding of this site, as well as the others of Bet Emet Ministry, exposes beyond any doubt the lies and idolatry that has been foisted upon unsuspecting Gentiles who are yet today pawns of this theological deception and antisemitism of Rome)

This approach, teaching God's higher Divine truths through the vehicle of a godly example, the "assumed historical Jesus of the New Testament", works well up to a point because in doing so we are presented with a "Godly" example of a life to be emulated as found in the Jesus of the New Testament (for the most part). A life patterned after the Jesus of the "Jesus Story" will hopefully issue forth in one bearing the fruit of morality and ethics and one lived in the Fruit of the Spirit. This is the reason why Israel does not evangelize today because Christianity has accomplished for them their task as God's Priesthood. As a pastor I wish they could have accomplished this without the masked idolatry connected with the "Jesus Story". The non-Jew has learned of the God of Israel and has learned how to live in peace and harmony through the teachings of Christianity. Sadly in all of this the main character, the Jewish Messiah, has been so badly misrepresented in the character of Jesus who, for example, is made to cleanse all foods and abolish the kosher laws in Mark 7:14. This is rather strange for a Jew who is obligated to observe Kosher.

Hopefully you see the problems of what I speak. Again through our websites the student is made aware of the problems inherent in places in this New Testament's depiction of the New Testament Jesus. Yet, in such a presentation then Jesus is the non-Jew's "pattern" for he, real or not, is the only Jew to ever witnessed to us and came knocking on the doors of our lives as non-Jews. Sadly the Jewish community is closed to the non-Jew for the most part due to the tragic treatment of their people by the Christian Church these last 2000 yrs. As I say often it is sad that when we answered the door of our lives as we heard the "knock" of this New Testament Rabbi named Jesus that we did not possess, at that time, enough knowledge of the truth about "the Christ" and the true "Jewish Messiah" that we could not recognize that this Jew named Jesus, as God's "light to the Gentile world", came dressed like the idolator Constantine teaching a replacement religion. Lacking this knowledge which Bet Emet's Websites provide the student unsuspectingly we bought into the Roman counterfeit and no wonder the Jews cannot accept this Roman Jesus as their Messiah. Good for them! But hopefully as your studies mature you begin to see that there are other ways to understand the "Jesus Story" but surely understanding the "Jesus Story" as a historical truth concerning a literal person who lived 2000 years ago and who embodied the historical Jewish Messiah is not one of them.

DRASH

Another level of Jewish hermeneutic and understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "drash" meaning "search", this is the allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. Creativity is used to search the text in relation to the rest of the Scriptures, other literature, or life itself in order to develop an allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. This process involves eisegesis (reading of the text) of the text. Ironically as I found this expression or interpretation of the texts reflected most accurately the type of "belief" of the earliest Christians who were not only looking for a historical Jewish Messiah to be revealed but at the same time understood that the "logos" or "the Christ/Sophia/Egyptian Karast" lived within all mankind. This understanding of "the Christ" reflects Paul and his 7 authentic epistles where he teaches the "Christ within".

As you might expect a few years later, as time allowed, Bet Emet provided a website dealing with the Mystical Interpretation of the "Jesus Story" and "the Christ" as we showed that the religious beliefs of the earliest "believers" who were called the first "Christians", long before Rome emerged to dominate the Christian faith, did not accept a historical Jesus at all but rather understood "the Christ" as a Divine Concept that lives within every man and woman and is not exclusive to just one person as is portrayed today by "literalistic Roman Christianity. It is in this site that we restore the earliest Gnostic Christian understanding of the "the Christ" as it existed for almost 5 centuries before being utterly destroyed by Rome with its replacement religion we have today which I call "Literal Christianity".

- MARCION AND THE "FIRST" NEW TESTAMENT...WHO WERE THE ORIGINAL CHRISTIANS AND WHAT DID THEY BELIEVE ABOUT "THE CHRIST"?
 - http://firstnewtestament.netfirms.com/
 - (Now we put all the pieces together and the whole picture comes into focus. We now look at the true Paul, a Gnostic which never taught a human Jesus Christ but rather "the Christ within" in his 7 authentic epistles. We trace in this website how the earliest "Christian" believed in the "Christ within" and not "a Christ without". We see how the ancient religious allegories were understood not only by these ancients who were given them but by the Gnostic Jews and Gentiles in the earliest centuries of the church as well long before Rome will come an "literalize" all of it and give it a fictitious historical timeline in creating a "historical Jesus". In so doing we will see how the earliest New Testament expressing these allegorical Divine truths is butchered by Rome and destroyed and how we end up with the forgery we have today. Never let it be said that archeology and hard study are not our friends.

An unbiased study of History will show you that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the Jesus Story originated as the biography of a man named Jesus, and quite a lot of evidence that it did not. An unbiased through study of Comparative Religion will reveal to you that the basic plot of the Jesus Story, from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. Personification of the Sun through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through then end of the book.

This website will be a lot different from anything you most likely have ever studied. Growing up in the Western Hemisphere we are traditionally taught a "literalistic" and not an "allegorical" or "symbolic" understanding of Christianity. This "literalistic" interpretation of "Jesus" and "the Christ" is based upon the inherited religious documents we received from Rome which we were taught to accept as infallible and inerrant without every questioning them. However great advances in Biblical Studies and archeology have been made in the last two hundred years and one in particular in the last 50 years has made a startling impact upon Christianity and few know of this. I am referring to the discoveries of the Nag Hammadi Library along with the Essene's Dead Sea Scrolls in the last 50 years which has turned our traditional Roman understanding of Christianity upside down and basically taught us that almost everything we had through we had "known" from Roman Christianity up to now concerning "Jesus" and "the Christ" was most likely wrong. That is simply because when we discover from study of these archeological finds and see for ourselves that the First New Testament written and given to us by the earliest Gnostic Christians like Marcion and Paul did not teach a "human Jesus Christ" but rather an allegorical and symbolic "Christ" as the Logos within each of God's children. This explains why there were no genealogies, birth or infancy narratives, or the 4 traditional Gospels in the earliest Gnostic Gospels. It is this "allegorical Christ" and "allegorical Joshua-Jesus Christ" [pattern] that the earliest New Testament and the authentic Pauline epistles taught but few know this today since Rome's efforts to destroy all of this literature as well as murder the Gnostics until few remained to safeguard this Revelation which can be traced to the beginning of mankind. In this website I reveal these truths concerning the "allegorical Christ" of the earliest Christians. Along with this we tackle the difficult problem of Christian forgeries of later Pauline Epistles and Gospels in their attempt to create a "historical Jesus" and a "historical Christ" in order to mimic their Godman-Emperor. This information goes a long way not only in explaining the lack of credible and unforged evidences of a historical Jesus but show how a Second New Testament was latter forged in Paul's name, who was long dead, along with the names of long dead Apostles in Rome's attempt to place a historical Jesus within an appropriate timeline. By comparison of what was written and contained within the First New Testament with what was later written later by Irenaeus and others in Rome's attempt to refute the Gnostic Christ and the Gnostic Joshua-Jesus we can easily now come to terms with this creative theology of Rome which was little more than a synthesis of "literalized" Sun Worship as exposed on our other sites. What should strike you as you study these materials is that the concept of the "Logos" and the "allegorical Christ" goes all the way back to the beginning of mankind where God gave Revelation of Himself and His plan to the Ancient Egyptians who first wrote of the Karast/Christ.)

SOD

The 4th and final level of understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "Sod" meaning "hidden". It is here that I reveal the hidden links to Egypt and Astronomy which they "allegorized" to capture for all time the Divine Concepts that they witnessed written in the sky and Heavens above them. God, writing on the blackboard of the sky and Heavens, expressed to these Ancients sages and Priest eternal principles that were later captured in "myths" and "legends" to preserver for all time these Godly truths that would last through all time and yet today survive in spite of the destruction of Egypt by Alexander the Great and later Rome. These Laws of the Cosmos were expressed in allegorical myths that were reaffirmed by the same Laws witnessed operating in Nature. Ancient man, understanding that these same Laws operated within himself and his body saw therefore that "he was created in the image of God "; the image he witnessed operating above and around him when noticing the same Laws and Cycles in the Heavens and in Nature operating within his physical body as well. This is truly beautiful when you see it as it brought tears to my eyes to see and comprehend Gods' earliest message to me and you that has not been changed or adulterated by the agendas of men down through history. It is so simple when you see it. That is the way God intended it to be in the beginning but we strain at a nat and swallow a camel today with our highly developed and evolved theologies down through Christian history.

It has been a hard and long process for me to accomplish but my task is about through when I complete this last website on the "Mythical Jesus Christ" as seen in the stars.

Now it is time to devote this website to the comprehensive understanding of the "Mythical Christ". In so doing we will prove that the "Jesus Story" is actually an allegory for the path of the Sun "personified" as it travels through the 12 Houses of the Zodiac and through the 4 seasons of the years (the Spring Equinox, the Summer Solstice, the Autumn Equinox, and the Winter Solstice). You will come to see that this is the oldest and most important story humans ever knew as it also is full of Divine Truths that are to be understood "allegorically" and not "literally" as we have erroneously been taught today by a literalized Christianity of Rome's making. We owe a great debt to Ancient Egyptians and their great wisdom and their foresight in preserving for the the world this earliest understanding of God.

- THE EGYPTIAN RELIGION AND ITS RELATIONSHIP TO JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY
 - http://www.egyptcx.netfirms.com/
 - We have all heard that "all roads lead to Rome" but in reality all roads lead to Egypt. This is especially true when one studies Christianity and Judaism and finds that these sister-faiths are nothing more than evolutionary developments of the Egyptian Religion. Understand from the beginning that Judaism is a much more faithful picture of this Planet's original understanding of the Divine than Christianity. Judaism comes in a close second. As a Pastor I am amazed where my studies have taken me and the things I have learned over these last twenty years in my pursuit of Jewish Roots of the Christian Faith. Never did I expect to find what I have uncovered and consider myself fortunate to live in an age where archeology and other such disciplines are giving back to mankind what Rome destroyed, covered up, and took from us over the last two thousand years. The study of error is often a little less important than the study of truth. The history of the human mind, in its progress from ignorance towards knowledge should tell us the mistakes into which it has sometimes wandered, as well as its steps in the right path. This is the goal of this website: to re-examine Gentile Christianity as to its earliest roots and determine if what is considered "Christian orthodoxy" today is a faithful representation of the earliest understanding of God by the Ancients since it is they who coined the religious concepts which we are told that we adhere to today in the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere.
 - There is much to say about the knowledge contained in this Website but let me be brief. This website will reveal to you how the Ancients understood the message of God and His revelation to them from their critical observations about the Heavens and the sky as well as Nature. The Egyptians Priests and scholars understood that God was revealing His Laws and intentions in the operations of the Divine Laws that governed the Cosmos. These Ancients holy men saw that these same Laws operated within their own bodies as well and that they were "created in the image of God" as what God was doing "above them" and "around them" He also was doing "within them". These Ancients sought out God and His way like no other nation has ever done on the face of the earth and tragically this knowledge was lost to us until only recently with the discoveries of archeology. We must understand that when allegory, metaphor, simile, and myth which expressed both the identity and actions of the Creator as understood by the Ancients in grasping for understanding of God and His workings in the Cosmos, was altered and stripped of its symbolism and rendered for all time as if "literal" by those who will come later through "conquest" and destroy Egypt and their understanding of God, then not only is Divine Truth lost forever but it plunges its recipients into abject idolatry. Such is the plight of the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere as these allegories and metaphors that once expressed Divine Truth were altered by Rome and "literalized" and applied to men's lives; in this case Jesus. If you have been diligent to study the website referenced just above this one then you saw for yourself this tragic loss of Divine Truth by Rome's "literalization" of such Egyptian Ancient truths concerning the "Logos" and "the Christ".

- ASTROTHEOLOGY AND THE "JESUS STORY" OF THE NEW TESTAMENT: DOES IT ORIGINATE WITH THE STARS?
 - http://jesusastrotheology.netfirms.com/
 - This website is presently under construction*. This will be the last website for Bet Emet Ministries and in so doing we will go where few have gone. In this website we will show beyond any doubt from Astronomical examples of the Sun, Moon, Stars, and Constellations, that the Ancients preserved what they witnessed in the stars and Heavens seen in the cycles, patterns and paths and movements of these Heavenly orbs in "allegories" and in "myths" and "legends" not only concerning physical movements of these Celestial orbs as taken from their observations but expressed within these "solar myths" and "lunar myths" deeper Divine Truths of a Mystical Nature. These hidden deeper Divine Revelations from God to mankind dealing with the Spiritual Nature of mankind and his expected Spiritual maturation were again saved for all time through the agency of Myth which was never to be interpreted "literally" but rather were to function as "allegories" and "symbols" only that were but vehicles for transmission of higher truths from God. From these celestial patterns the Ancients extrapolated the Laws, Ordinances, Commandments, and Covenants of the Creator and gave them to mankind as a "blueprint" for our existence. These myths held the message of God to mankind. Later these myths were told through lives of personified man-gods like Osiris, Dionysus, Attis, Amon, Mithra, and Jesus. Since we include Jesus in the same sentence with other astral myths then this will be a hard study for as you examine the evidence presented you will see without a doubt that an unbiased study of History shows that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a real historical man named Jesus. In fact the evidence, or should I say the lack of it, and the forgery of all that does exist outside this one New Testament, is hard to deny and makes a belief in a historical Jesus almost impossible when knowing from the above studies the hundreds of forgeries in the religious texts of the Christian Bible. Nowhere outside of this one forged book by Rome can we find this "historical Jesus". As if that was not enough an unbiased and through study of Comparative Religion reveals to the reader as seen in the above studies and sites that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. What is most startling is when you see for yourself that the personification of the Sun and its path through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through then end of the book. The Synoptic gospels follow the path of the Sun in its travels through the sky from beginning to end. Most may have no idea of what I am saying I can only tell you to hold on and read the articles on this site and you will quickly come to see of what I spoke. Let it be said when you see this and that all the other "Jesus Stories" are but Ancient allegories of the Heavens and the Sun and its path through the Zodiac which was later "literalized" then without a doubt there is no more room for idolatry connected with any Jesus of any kind. Then we can follow in the footsteps of Moses and quit worshipping a false "god-man" and return to worshipping our Creator in Spirit and in Truth. You come to see that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but a retelling of the "Osiris Story" and the "Horus Story". It is from these two Ancient Egyptian stories that all other "saviors" have come.

Orthodox Christians, since they are committed to a belief in the literal truth of the Bible, hold that after the flood men became even more evil than they were before, so that 4,000 years after the creation of the world, god sent his only begotten son to suffer and die for the salvation of the human race. This ministry of Jesus, the Christ, was supposed to be a unique event in human history but as we show it is anything but that. This opinion is no longer tenable among those who accept reason as the criterion of truth.

If you are diligent to study and read these websites then you have it all. There is little that exists that is not covered in one way or the other or has somehow escaped my attention over these almost 20 years of study. There is nothing I would trade for my years of study and the truths that I have gathered and although it has been challenging to my very core I fully am aware that because of such serious studies my walk with God, the true God, is closer than ever. It is truly well with my soul because "I KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT HIM SEPARATED FROM ALL THE FICTION" that men have written down through history to promote their own religion and political agendas.

So we began our study with the question:

Matt 16:13 13 When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? (KJV)

Now you have you answers! ?The rest is up to you to study to show yourselves approved..needing not be ashamed when you meet this Creator face to face when you cross your Nile/Jordan...(the same)

IN CLOSING

As stated earlier we begin our study with Bet Emet Websites with a "historical" assumption and present studies to show the beauty of Judaism over the dishonesty in Christian theological dogma and do so by using the depiction of the New Testament Jesus as if "historical" because he provides a vehicle for the teaching of Jewish theology, monotheism, morals, values, ethics, etc. It is not my purpose to reveal the weaknesses behind such a historical presentation of Jesus at this time as it will be developed and proven at a later time as one's studies progress through the Mystical Jesus and the Mythical Jesus as detailed on the above websites.

Of concern for us of course is the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament and its reliability as understood "literally" since it is being taught as a literal truth today about a historical man who lived 2000 years ago. You will come to see in time as you study that the Ancients as far back as Egypt understood this "Karast/Christ" entirely different from how we have been taught today under the direction of Roman and Protestant Christianity. Here are some big questions for you to ponder in light that most Christians trust in this Jesus Christ for their Eternal Salvation.

- Answer for yourself: Who or what is truly behind the name "Jesus Christ"? Can it be proven that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but the personification of the Sun and its passage through the various houses of the Zodiac as it passes through the 4 seasons and the equinoxes and solstices? If so then what do you do now?
- Answer for yourself: Are the infancy narratives and later depictions of the life and ministry of Jesus Christ in the New Testament nothing more than solar stories told as allegories which were later "literalized" and subsequently written into Rome's New Testament and depicted as a literalized historical Jesus Christ when in fact they were understood by the Ancients as astrological myths taken from astronomy?
- Answer for yourself: Did Rome destroy the Gnostic Christ of the earliest "Christians" which had existed since the beginning of time over the first 5 centuries of the early Church and replace it one of their own making? What are you to do when you see this from your studies on our Websites?
- Answer for yourself: If I study the Websites and find that the "Jesus Story" follows chronologically the Gospel of Matthew from chapter one through the end of chapter 28 and see for myself that the "Jesus Story" presented there parallels identically the personification of the Sun in its path through the Zodiac then what should this mean to me regarding my belief in Jesus as the historical Christ and him being the Jewish Messiah?
- Answer for yourself: Have we as Christians and followers of the "the Christ" been deceived by Rome and spent a good part of our lives worshipping a man as God as Rome has declared in their New Testament since the Nicean Council (325 A.D.) when in fact we should have been worshipping the one true Creator as the Pharaoh Moses (Akhenaton) instructed when he stood up to the religious establishment of Egypt when some were straying from the truth in their worship of the "godman" similarity to what we have done today with Rome's historical Jesus? Are we guilty of idolatry as Christians because we have believed a fable no more real than Snow White and the seven dwarfs?

Well the following studies in the above websites is not for the weak of heart as I will present over and over again infallible proofs that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is but a hoax perpetrated upon us by Rome in their hatred of the Jewish faith and Jewish Gnosticism back in the first century. You will see, in the last website depicting the Mythical Christ, as we move chronologically from one sign of the Zodiac to the other, from month to month, from season to season, from Spring equinox to Summer solstice, from Autumn equinox to Winter solstice, and repeating again this cycle, along with the study of selected events from the depiction of the life of Jesus in Rome's New Testament, that if you study with us and finish the studies on this website, that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is nothing more than the literalization by Rome of the path of the Sun through the Zodiac along with other solar myths later incorporated into their "Jesus Story" as later literalized by Rome as well. In so doing you will see as I and many others have that we have not been taught the truth about "the Christ within" and how He is so integral to the proper worship of the Invisible God as Egypt and Moses taught. It would seem that Egypt got it right in the beginning but thanks to Hellenism and Romanism we lost these earliest and correct understanding of Divine Concepts witnessed in God's Heaven and Nature. In a way these were our classroom and where we were to be instructed by the Creator about our life and purpose in God's creation. We are truly blessed today to live in an age where archeology and the information age can bring these truths back to life for you and me.

As a "retired Pastor", and moved by what my studies revealed over the years, I feel moved to share this information and evidence from such studies with those interested in the truth behind the origin for "Jesus Story" which is taught to the world today as a historical reality when in fact it is not. In the websites that are delineated above such evidence is presented to the reader in hopes that the missing puzzle pieces concerning the "Jesus Story" will be plainly evident to him and he can, in the light of such knowledge, no longer be deceived by the astrological allegory of "the Christ" as found in the New Testament which is erroneously taught "literally" today. I make very few promises to our readers but I make this one now: If you do these studies, and read these articles on this website then you will be thoroughly convinced as I was that the "Jesus Story" was never meant to be understood "literally" as it has been taught to you and me. Thus the worship of Jesus as a historical person or connecting this assumed historical person with God or believing him to be God is the most vulgar idolatry according to Moses and the Ten Commandments and a terrible affront to the Creator and constitutes blasphemy of the Name of God.

Currently Bet Emet Ministries offers a CD with all our websites contained on it where the above information is available for easy search and study where you can work through this material at your leisure. If you would desire the synthesis of our scholarly studies into these areas concerning the origins for the Christian faith and the truth behind "the Christ" and the Jewish Messiah along with the "Jesus Story" then one is available for a small donation to support the efforts of this ministry. Inquire is you so desire by e-mailing me at the link below. Shalom.

We offer a CD of all out sites contained on one disk if you are interested...please inquire for the CD for such through study will take you some time

GRACE AS AN ACT OF GOD'S UNMERITED FAVOR...OR IS IT MERITED AFTER ALL...AND AGAIN HAS WE BEEN MISLED BY PAUL'S OVEREMPHASIS UPON GRACE?

In the previous articles earlier listed in this website I have tried to make the reader and "truth seeker" think on a deeper level than maybe he has ever done before in his life. I have tried to expose the contradictions in these contrasting "theologies" in order to show the reader that this "One Faith" of which we read in the Book of Ephesians is anything but that! I have tried to expose what we call today "Paul's message gospel" as one of his own creation and one which so often contradicts the very teachings of Jesus as the "Jewish Christ"; a gospel which in reality is not "good news" to anyone who is trying to pattern their lives after Jesus and his teachings concerning the Kingdom of God, let alone the same teaches earlier given man by Moses and the Prophets. A hint is in order to save the reputation of the "true Paul". Our inherited Bibles from Rome contain two completely different Pauls; a Gnostic Paul teaching Metaphysical ideas that express accurately the Divine Realm as well as a counterfeit Paul of Rome's making. Cleverly done these "contradictory" Pauls are synthesized together in such a way that only those with a "keen Spirit" and "sharp eye" notice the "Pauline Problem" in our New Testaments. Let me emphasize again that I take no joy in having to expose Paul in this manner which I must, but you deserve the truth about God and what He has really said to mankind. "Hath God said"? Yes! He has, and if you only read Paul and his epistles without balancing them with the teachings of Moses, the Prophets, and the "mind of the Jewish Jesus" and likewise fail to do comparative studies from the sources from which Paul quotes, I can guarantee you that you have not heard God but rather a humanly conceived "reinterpreted" Spiritual Wisdom which Rome gave the world which deviated from the path of God which had been given to the world "unchanged" for thousands of years previously. The Jewish people, and a few Christians, have always understood and knew this. But most don't because "preaching" has replaced "study"; study being the highest form of Worship one can give God as understood in first century Biblical Judaism. It is part of our calling at Bet Emet Ministries to get the truth to you in order that "you make your calling and election certain."

IS GRACE "UNMERITED FAVOR" AS PAUL WOULD HAVE US BELIEVE?

We most likely grow up in church hearing over and over again that "grace is unmerited favor"; at least I sure did. It may surprise you but I will show you in this article that nothing could be further from the truth. As our study advances I will often mention "Paul"; we must remember that what we often assume is the authentic writings and beliefs of Paul are not that at all; rather, they are the contradictory theology of the later writers of the New Testament replacement theologies emanating from Rome. Having said that then Paul's writing, or a later "pro-Pauline writer", makes it seem that God's "election" of an individual or group to a favored status was a capricious or whimsical decision which "did not depend on man's desire, effort, obedience, or works; but on God's mercy alone". Let us begin to see this by looking at Rom. 9:16:

16 So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth [Paul's reference to actions or works of man], but of God that sheweth mercy. (KJV)

Here again in Romans 9:13 Paul reiterates the same thought; that the grace of God is to be received by faith alone (without works), however clothed in slightly different attire.

Rom. 9:13

As it is written, Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

God's love, as well as his grace, according to this "Romanized" Paul, is unmerited. Paul make it look as if it is arbitrary. In Romans 9:13 Paul illustrated his thesis this time with lines from Malachi 1:2,3: "Jacob I loved and Esau I hated."

Answer for yourself: Could it possibly have been Edom's actions (works) which caused God to hate Esau?

Answer for yourself: Far more than an arbitrary decision by God, can you see that God's grace is measured out to those who deserve it (Let us remember that Edom did not because of their harsh treatment of Israel and the Spiritual seed of God).

Now please pay close attention. Malachi wrote these words in memory of Edom's (Esau's descendants) malicious treatment of Judea and its people. Esau was the ancestor of Edom, therefore his name is used symbolically for that nation as Jacob's is for Israel. The Edomites had gloated over Judea's fall to Babylonia, had cut off the escape of Judean fugitives, and had joined in the plunder of the Temple. Their treachery and malice knew no bounds. Their conduct, like ours as well, brings either the blessings of God or His punishment. Their conduct influenced God's attitude toward them as it does ours as well. Their persecution of Israel brought harshness from God toward them.

Answer for yourself: Have we forgotten God's promise to Abraham in the Abrahamic Covenant which states (Gen. 12:3): "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee:"?

The above passage definitely refers to "merit" and its role in receiving from God His blessings.

This is another way of saying faith is fulfilled with obedience and God "ordained works"!
These "ordained works" are the Commandments and Laws that frame our very Covenant with God. That is why the Torah, the Laws of God, are in Hebrew called "Instruction"; not a curse as Rome's New Testament maintains. In the last article we showed you Paul's stance on the matter from Romans 4:5 "But to him that worketh NOT, but believeth on him who justifieth the ungodly his faith is counted for righteousness." We showed you the folly of such in the last article. God NEVER justifes the "ungodly" but such a condition sure was connivent for Rome and their religious reign of terror called the "Dark Ages". This passage is just another example of a lie written into the Sacred Texts espousing connivent theology for Rome.

Again we encounter the same thought expressed just a little different. Paul ignored the historical reason for God's antagonism to Edom (Esau) which the prophet Malachi expressed in God's name in Mal. 1:2-3. It was because of Edom's conduct (works) that God was displeased with them. Let me remind you that Edom believed in the God of Israel, for it was Esau's seed. Edom failed to "obey" the God they "believed in". But "faith alone" apart from "works" was not enough to justify Edom before God. The Christian Church of today needs to re-think their stance on "faith" and "works" and realize the real reason for the Torah as the "Instruction" of God for mankind; it trains the Soul to practice righteousness which leads to the evolution of the Divine Mind within man and his Spiritual evolution of his Soul. Their violation of the commandments of God brought a strong rebuke from God. It does the same for us regardless of what this Romanized Paul is made to say.

Answer for yourself: Is it misleading for Paul, or the Romanized Paul, to use a quote from an Old Testament Scripture that is tied to a historical event and use it completely differently to reinforce one's own agenda in the New Testament without instructing the readers that you are doing so? You figure it out. To me it sure is!

Answer for yourself: Can you see that God's blessing is not arbitrary or based upon "faith alone" as Rome's Paul would have you believe, but comes in response to man's actions, in this case the blessing of Israel by others and not the punishment of them?

Answer for yourself: Can you see that this Roman Paul's choice of Edom for his example betrays his own doctrine; that he chose a nation which had "faith" but their "works" caused the rebuke of God? It sure seems to me that if Paul were correct, as he wants us to think, then Edom should have been approved of God apart from their works….but they were not!

But when reading this New Testament given us by Rome which was canonized in 380 A.D. we find this Romanized Paul assuring us that "But to him that worketh NOT, but believeth on him who justifieth the ungodly his faith is counted for righteousness", but the example of Edom given by this same Paul for his proof, in reality, proves the exact opposite! This is where we must put our thinking hats on and if we do then we see beneath the deception that lays before us looking "sacred" in a Black leather book.

The prophet Malachi's words did not condone random or arbitrary rejection by God of Esau's descendants; Malachi gave the reason for God's rebuke of Edom, even if Paul didn't. We we look at Malachi and compare what he says with this Romanized Paul's misrepresentation of the truth then we see the deception in the Pauline writings for what it truly is; a theological lie created by Rome that profits not and leads billions astray in their relationship with God.

THE DECEPTION OF PAUL DOES NOT END THERE…HE CONTINUES

Even more devious is the way this Romanized Paul portrayed God in Rom. 9:15 which is derived from Ex 33:19. I say "devious" for his audience was primarily Gentile in its makeup and unaware of the nuances that are inherent in the Hebrew language from which he wrote and spoke. The same surely applies to day to pews filled with Christians who don't know the slightest things about the Hebrew language and how it has been so badly misrepresented in their Christian Bibles. The Greek is not immune from the alteration of these prior Hebrew Sacred ideas either. I want you to notice that in the Greek and English translation below we come to the same conclusion from an English reading and interpretation that would make us think, incorrectly by the way, that God does arbitrarily dispense grace to whom He desires.

The original verse translates as follows:

Exod 33:19

19 And he said, I will make all my goodness pass before thee, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before thee; and will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will shew mercy on whom I will shew mercy. (KJV)

LOOK WHAT IS HIDDEN BEHIND THE HEBREW WORD FOR

"WHOM"

“Whom” in Hebrew is the Strong’s Number 834. 834 'asher-

- 1) (relative pronoun)
 - a) which, who
 - b) that which (what)
- 2) as a conjunction:
 - a) that (in an objective clause)
 - b) when
 - c) since
 - d) as
 - e) *"if" (this means "conditional")

Answer for yourself: Now we must look at all the meanings inherent in the word "whom" as given in the Hebrew language. Now, having read them above, then did you notice that the Hebrew word "whom" carries with it the context of receiving the grace of God as a "conditional aspect"? It is not "automatic"!

Answer for yourself: Can you see for yourself that the passage from Exodus, from which this Paul quotes NEVER contained an idea that God will be gracious arbitrarily to anyone, yet the exact opposite is true, that God’s grace toward man is “conditional” upon man’s beliefs and his resultant obedience and conduct which flow out from his beliefs?

Answer for yourself: What if our Spiritual "beliefs" are incorrect, lets say about the Jewish Law, and we don't know it because we never studied enough to know what lies beneath the texts we read in our Bibles? What if this "Law" never has ceased and we live like it does not matter being basically ignorant of the 66 Laws that frame our Gentile Covenant before God? Could we be blocking receiving the "grace of God" in our lives and not know it? Could this "conditional" aspect of God's grace apply to us and we not know it? And who better merited God’s grace (in this instance to have God revealed to him) than Moses to whom the passage is addressed?

The intent here in the Exodus passage, as seen within the context of the entire Torah, is that God will have pity on those who deserve it, who "merit" it!

The whole Pentateuch is unequivocal and open-and-shut in its message of reward and punishment based upon human behavior. Thus the role of the Torah and the Law and Commandments of God given to teach man the way to receive the Grace of God in his life. Such human behavior is or is not the consequence of obedience to the commands of God which are nothing more than opportunities to exhibit and live out our faith correctly and thereby receive and "merit" the conditional "grace of God"

Exile was the penalty for disobedience to God's laws; prosperity of the nation in its own land was compensation for adhering to God's commands. There is nothing arbitrary, capricious, or random about who enjoys "election” or favor and when he is compensated. It depends on man's effort, not God's whim. This is the message of James and his epistle; not the Romanized Paul which says "Christ is the end of the law".

I am not wanting to kick a dog which he is down, but again, in this instance the Romanized Paul is incorrect in changing the meaning of the original text when he writes about such a doctrine in the New Testament. We need to know this because in recognition of this one very truth is your opportunity to awaken to the truth of the Law and Torah for your life. This truth and reality is beyond doubt to those who will look deeply enough to see if for themselves through their personal study. We at Bet Emet Ministries will help lead you through this Roman maze of convoluted theology created over 2,000 years that has captured your mind and Spirit with a "false gospel". We again are led into deception and error by much but not all of the Pauline literature; the "key" is discerning the "truth" from the "error" when reading Paul. This is not impossible; it only requires your diligent effort to study to find the truths hidden from you by Rome and their "radical reinterpretation" of the Ancient Spiritual Wisdom which we have received in our Christian Bibles today.

As a child growing up in church I heard with regular frequency the phrase "grace is unmerited favor" as it was the fruit of Pauline theology. Now that you have seen past the deception and misinterpretation of the New Testament and just one of the Pauline writings, let me ask you this question.

Answer for yourself: So, is the grace of God "unmerited favor" or "merited favor" as you have now discovered that grace (the word "whom", remember) is always conditional between God and man. It is determined by man and his actions which are a product one way or the other of his faith or lack of it as applied to the Laws of God. Definitely faith "works" either obediently or the lack of faith manifests itself in acts of disobedience to the commands of God. It is either one way or the other.

Answer for yourself: What other foundational doctrines have we learned in error because we have listened to Paul more than Jesus, Moses, and the Prophets, and what sins do we commit unknowingly because we are brainwashed by Pauline theology? Our comprehensive CD has it all for those who want the "truth" and consider themselves "truth seekers".

Answer for yourself: Could you be like Edom, and be "hated" (allegorically) by God and not know this truth until you die, because you, like Edom, have faith with the "wrong works" or "no works at all" and have trusted a Romanized Paul your whole life and therefore stand today guilty before God of having lived your life under "faith only" paying no regard or little toward obedience to the 66 Commandments of God that frame your Covenant with God?

Answer for yourself: Have I caused you to rethink what you have accepted in church unquestioningly? I hope so.

Answer for yourself: What sins do we commit unknowingly because we are brainwashed by Romanized Pauline theology and have failed to understand the message of the real Bible due to reading the New Testament which is full of mistranslations, misquotations, and verses taken out of context to promote "another gospel"? The irony of accepting a Romanized Pauline theology, which is in reality "another gospel" never ceases to amaze me. Oh God give us the desire and ability to study to find Your truth. Shalom.

WHO ARE THE EBIONITES AND WHAT SHOULD THEY MEAN TO THE CHRISTIAN?

The doctrine of Trinity, which is one of the fundamental constituents of Christian dogma, was absent from Christianity during the lifetime of Jesus Christ. The maximum one can grant is that this doctrine started taking shape after the Crucifixion. It took many centuries for it to reach its final well-defined but inexplicable form. It went through a long process of extremely bitter and controversial debates between Christian theologians and philosophers representing different religious, cultural and traditional backgrounds.

It was greatly influenced by the myths and the traditions of various lands which hosted "Christianity" in its early period. The main stem of Christianity, however, which took care of and nurtured the development of "Christian beliefs" and philosophy in its early formative part was of Jewish stock. Jewish influence remained predominant throughout the early part of Christian history. The disciples of Jesus who learned and understood Christianity directly from Jesus and witnessed it in the form of his life, belonged to this stock. They were the primary custodians of Christianity with deeply embedded roots in the holy soil of Jesus' instructions and way of life. It was they who witnessed the Crucifixion and had seen Jesus after the crucifixion.

THE FIRST FOLLOWERS OF JESUS

Early Christians (Jew and Gentile) appear to have been fundamentally divided over both the nature of Jesus and whether to adhere to the Mosaic Law or not. In the second phase of Christian development (after 50 C.E.), St. Paul became the most pivotal character in giving Christianity a new philosophy and ideology. There were fundamental differences of opinion between Paul and James the Righteous. While James looked after the Jerusalem Church, Paul was preaching in the West, particularly to the Gentiles. The Western Church evolved along Pauline doctrinal lines, whereas the Church in Jerusalem developed along monotheistic teachings.

One offshoot of James' ministry were the Ebionites, a sect whose name derives from the Hebrew "ebionim" meaning 'the meek' or 'the poor'. They were the Jewish Christians, for whom Jesus took on the mantle of Messiah and not that of the 'Son of God'. They followed the Mosaic law with great zeal, and had their own "Gospel" known in various contexts as the 'Gospel of the Hebrews', 'Gospel of the Ebionites' or the 'Gospel of the Nazarenes'. Here is a description of the Ebionites drawn from various sources.

In his book The History of the Church written in the 4th century AD in Caesarea, Eusebius mentions the Ebionites in the book Vespasian to Trajan. Eusebius, the most renowned church historian, mocks the Ebionite views (remember he is a Gentile in the Western Church), saying that their name comes from their poor and mean opinion of Jesus. According to Eusebius, the Ebionites regarded Jesus as mortal (human and not divine) and esteemed him as righteous through the growth of his character. As Jews, the Ebionites observed the Sabbath; every detail of the Law, and did not accept the Pauline idea of salvation through faith alone. Eusebius also talks of another group of Ebionites who accepted the virgin birth and the Holy Spirit, but refused to accept Jesus' pre-existence as "God the Word and Wisdom". They followed a 'Gospel of the Hebrews' which could possibly have been St Matthew's Gospel (written in Hebrew but lost to us today). They observed the Sabbath and the Jewish system, but celebrated the resurrection.

In his book describing the background of the Ebionites, R Eisenman in The Dead Sea Scrolls Uncovered writes that James (the 'Zaddik' or 'Zadok', meaning Righteous) was the leader of the Jerusalem Church in the middle of the first century (40-60 AD approx.) The branch which was retrospectively called Jewish Christianity in Palestine. The Ebionites developed from this branch.

The Community who followed James were known as 'the Poor', (Galatians 2:10, James 2:3-5) a designation mentioned both in the Sermon on the Mount and in the Dead Sea Scrolls. In many ways, Eisenman feels that the Ebionites were similar to the authors of the Dead Sea Scrolls. They honored James the Righteous, and believed Jesus to be their mortal Messiah, while Paul had become an "Apostate from the Law". They observed the Law and the Sabbath with great zeal.

They held James in the highest regard, while Paul was considered 'The Enemy' as spoken and warned of by Yeshua (Matt 13:24-43):

Matt 13:24 (KJV) Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: 25 But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. 26 But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. 27 So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? 28 He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? 29 But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. 30 Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn. 31 Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: 32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof. 33 Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened. {measures: the word in the Greek is a measure containing about a peck and a half, wanting a little more than a pint} 34 All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them: 35 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in parables; I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world. 36 Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field. 37 He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man; 38 The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked [one]; 39 The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels. 40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world. 41 The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity; {things...: or, scandals} 42 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. 43 Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

This idea of Paul is definitely different from the light of the redactionist history we find in the New Testament but ample evidence exists which throws a completely different light upon Paul and history. If you would like to see this for yourself it is detailed at our website: http://faithofyeshua.faithweb.com. Thus according to the Jewish Christians, or Yeshua's church, Paul was one who deviated from the Mosaic Laws and Commandments and was as far as they were concerned the "adversary" (devil). This may be hard for Christians to understand, yet believe considering what you have heard taught from pulpits Sunday through Sunday your whole life, but what you have heard does not change the facts that have surfaced from both archeology and in-depth Bible study as well as a detailed examination of the extra-biblical documents that exist today for your inspection. Somewhere you have to come to terms with James and the early church's view of Paul as handed down to us for those who wish to inquire. One cannot discount their extra-Biblical writings that have come down to us that severely impugn the "Gospel" Paul preached to Gentiles, and this explains his resentment to the apostles in Jerusalem as recorded in the epistles (reputed pillars...note the sarcasm in his tone when addressing the leadership of Jesus' church).

According to Baigent, Leigh and Lincoln in The Messianic Legacy, the source of the original teachings of the Ebionites, Gnostics, Manicheans, Sabians, Mandeans, Nestorians and Elkasites has been described as the Nazarene philosophy. They refer to Nazarene thought as: `An orientation towards Jesus and his teachings which derives ultimately from the original Nazarene position, as articulated by Jesus himself, then propagated by James, Jude or Judas Thomas and their immediate entourage.' Their beliefs were:

- strict adherence to the Mosaic Law
- recognition of Jesus as Messiah
- belief in the normal human birth of Jesus
- hostility towards Pauline views

There is a collection of Arabic manuscripts kept in a library in Istanbul which contains quotes from a 5th or 6th Century text ascribed to the `al-nasara', written in Syriac and found in a monastery in Khuzistan in south-west Iran near the Iraq border. It reflects the views of the Nazarene hierarchy escaping from Jerusalem after the destruction in 66 AD. It refers to Jesus as a human being and stresses the Judaic Law (notice that this is the belief of the first century church and those closest to the historical Jesus).

The inescapable conclusion of the scrupulous student of history, language, and Scripture is that Paul's followers "abandoned the religion of Christ and turned towards the religious doctrines of the Romans."

Of all the various doctrines which evolved during the formative stages of Christianity, only those who believed in the Nazarene philosophy can justifiably be given preference. These early Christians were taught the meaning of Christianity by Jesus himself.

THE ROLE OF PAUL

From the time of St Paul onwards, as Christianity spread to alien lands and pagan faiths within the Roman Empire, it began to be powerfully influenced and bent by the cultures and mythologies prevalent in those lands and went further away from its nascent purity. St Paul did his bit in influencing the deterioration of the "original Christian thought" by introducing his own brand of mysticism. He was neither of Jewish stock nor did he have any direct contact with Jesus, except through his claimed vision. He was already, it seems, under the powerful influence of the alien cultures.

Apparently there were two options available to St Paul, either to fight the strenuous battles against a world of superstitions, myths and legends prevalent in the lands of the Roman Empire from times immemorial or to give in to them and let Christianity change to suit their requirements and ambitions. This gave the Gentiles the message that Christianity was not essentially different from their legends and myths. Paul only recast Judaism in terminology which was already familiar to the Gentile to whom he preached. Thus Paul found the adoption of the second option far more profitable and convenient and let Christianity change to suit the ambitions and philosophies popular in the gentile world.

This strategy worked well in as much as it gained a great number of converts to the new faith which otherwise would not have been easily available. But at what cost. Unfortunately, it ended up only in an unholy competition between noble Christian values and pagan myths. What St Paul changed was only the names of the pagan gods and replaced them with Jesus, God the Father and the Holy Ghost. It was not him in fact who invented the myth of Trinity and introduced it to the pagan world in the name of Christianity, on the contrary he borrowed the myth of the Trinity from pagan mythology and bonded it to Christianity. From then on it was the same old paganism but with new names and new faces.

Pauline Christianity, therefore, did not succeed in changing the doctrines, myths and superstitions of the pagan world but only ended in changing "original Christianity" (Messianic Judaism) in accordance with them. If the mountain did not respond to his call, he decided to go to the mountain.

THE REALITY OF A JEWISH JESUS

Of course it is anybody's prerogative to choose between Pauline Christianity and that of James the Righteous and other early leaders of Christianity who were the disciples of Jesus Christ himself. But here we want to establish the point that the main stock of Christianity continued to develop along Jewish lines and kept itself aloof from the later innovations which generated the rigmarole and complexities of Christian dogmas we see today for Gentile imaginations such as the godhead of Jesus as the Son, the Trinity, Inherited Sin, Redemption, the rejection and replacement of Israel by the church, etc. The views of the early leaders of the original Church, among whom James the Righteous is prominent, were simple and honest and had no internal contradictions or paradoxes hiding behind a smoke screen of mystery as we confront today in the Pauline churches of our land. A study of the history of Judaism in Christianity establishes beyond question the fact that the Unity of God, uncomplicated by the slogan of Trinity, remained the official doctrine of the true Church of Christ in its pristine purity. The faith of Yeshua was Jewish, is Jewish, and will always remain Jewish. It is us who need to reevaluate what we have been taught and believe in light of fact and reason.

Please remember that this short treatise is not an attempt to convert Christians to any faith other than that of the faith both held and practiced by Yeshua (Jesus). It is simply a genuine effort to invite the Christians back to the pure unadulterated faith and practice of Jesus himself. It is a sincere attempt to revert the fiction back to the facts of Christianity. Facts that are certainly as beautiful as they are realistic and satisfy both the head and the heart.

For almost two thousand years, it is not the legends woven around the reality of Jesus Christ that has kept Christianity together and has helped it to survive the challenges of reason and ever growing enlightenment borne out of scientific progress, nor is its survival due to the mystic belief of Trinity. What has held the truth and essence of Christianity together is the beauty of the person and the teachings of Jesus Christ. It is the divine conduct and not the divine person of Jesus that has been so beautiful to adhere to. It was the suffering, patience and perseverance for the sake of noble ideals and his bold upright rejection of all despotic attempts to make him change his principles that is the real backbone of Christianity. It is still as beautiful and as lovable today as it was ever before. It has influenced so powerfully the Christian minds and hearts that they remain bonded to Jesus.

His real greatness lies in the fact that he transcended and conquered the forces of darkness that had conspired to vanquish him despite being a frail human being and no more than a human being. That victory of Jesus is something to be shared with pride by the children of Adam. As we see it from the vantage point of in-depth scholarship, he is one of the most noble progeny of Adam who taught humanity by his example of perseverance in the face of extreme suffering and pain. Not to surrender but to remain steadfast in the teeth of extreme trial was the noblest achievement of Jesus. It was his life of suffering and pain that redeemed humanity and made him conquer death.

To share suffering in life is far better than to escape suffering through death. Hence the concept of the supreme sacrifice of Jesus is magnified not only by his death, but by his life lived in total obedience to his Father. Today, we Christians share in his grace.

The greatness of Jesus, we again insist, lay in his supreme sacrifice during his lifetime. All his life, he defied the temptations to compromise, give in and exchange a life of suffering with that of ease and comfort. The same cannot be said for Paul, when in-depth analysis of his teachings as paralleled with those of Jesus and Judaism often diverge. Day in, day out Yeshua confronted death but refused to give in and lived for the sake of the sinful to bring them to life. He conquered death not by surrendering himself to death, but by refusing to bow down to it. He defeated it roundly and emerged from its clutches where a lesser man would have perished. Thus he proved his truth and the truth of his word and message beyond a shadow of doubt. That is how we see Jesus and that is why we love him so. His voice was the voice of God and not the voice of his own ambitions. He said what he was commissioned to say, neither more nor less than what God had told him to say. He worshipped God throughout his life and worshipped Him alone and never did he require any mortal to worship or bow before himself or before his mother. This is the reality of Jesus to which we at Bet Emet Ministries invite the Christians of all denomination and faiths to return.

HERESIES ADOPTED AND PERPETUATED BY THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH....THOSE WHO GAVE YOU THE NEW TESTAMENT NO LESS

Constantly we at Bet Emet are not understood when being critical of much of what the New Testament teaches. We understand such misunderstanding because most of our readers have not had the opportunity to read and study to the level we have over the last 15 years where we discovered much that forced we make changes in our religious belief system. Simply we found, based upon our studies, that much of the New Testament, especially in doctrinal positions, was a replacement of the actual beliefs of a Rabbi named Yeshua who lived in the first century. A cursory reading of the New Testament does not always provide such an understanding, for most read it as if it is "inspired, infallible, and inerrant." Upon just a little personal study into this area and when using good sources one quickly can see that they have deceived in this crucial area of their life.

Understand such a false trust and belief in the New Testament by most Christians today is not based upon the reader's individual study, but rather upon the hearsay he has picked up by listening to others express such trust in the New Testament. The sad fact of the matter is that those who say such things have never done their homework to the depth necessary to see the problems inherent in accepting the New Testament as authoritative.

The New Testament was never meant to be a replacement book for the Jewish Scriptures, but sadly has become that today for the vast majority of non-Jewish believers in God.

Doctrine, when found in the New Testament, to be true must conform to the Word of God.....THE OLD TESTAMENT: "To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." (Isaiah 8:20)

Answer for yourself: Do you believe the above statement by Isaiah the prophet? If you do not, then you need to read no further for this study will not have benefit you for you since you have in reality no substance for your authority. One then believes what he wants and not what was intrusted to Holy men of old preserved and handed down to others who paved the way for the Messiah to come.

Thus if we find doctrines in the New Testament which contradict the Jewish Scriptures...such doctrines are to be understood as fables and lies. To fail to do so contradicts Isaiah the Prophet as well as Moses.

Before you read the following...understand that those who gave you the following man-made doctrines are the same ones who gave you the NEW TESTAMENT that has ended up replacing the Bible Jesus used…the Old Testament as taken from the Jewish Tankah (the true Masoretic Text).

Can we trust the Holy Spirit to have led these early anti-Semitic Catholics into all truth, and should we trust their collection of writings called the New Testament when they, in many places, contradict Moses and Jesus?

We at Bet Emet cannot, and we offer no man apologies.

Just understand that when you read the NT, with all its additions, purposeful misquotes of the Jewish Scriptures, changes, deletions and doctrinal creationism over the early centuries of the Gentile Church, these were the doctrines behind the men who did it!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

HERESY	DATE
OF ALL THE HUMAN TRADITIONS taught and practiced by the Roman Catholic Church, which are contrary to the Bible, the most ancient are the prayers for the dead and the sign of the Cross. Both began 300 years after Christ.	310
Wax Candles introduced in church. about	320
Veneration of angels and dead saints.	375
The Mass, as a daily celebration, adopted.	394
The worship of Mary, the mother of Jesus, and the use of the term, "Mother of God", as applied to her, originated in the Council of Ephesus	431
Priests began to dress differently from the laity	500
The doctrine of Purgatory was first established by Gregory the Great	593
The Latin language, as the language of prayer and worship in churches, was also imposed by Pope Gregory I 600 years after Christ.	600
The Bible teaches that we pray to God alone. In the primitive church never were prayers directed to	600

Mary, or to dead saints. This practice began in the Roman Church (only 2 hundred years after canonizing the New Testament)

The Papacy is of pagan origin. The title of pope or universal bishop, was first given to the bishop of Rome by the wicked emperor Phocas. This he did to spite Bishop Ciriacus of Constantinople, who had justly excommunicated him for his having caused the assassination of his predecessor emperor Mauritius. Gregory 1, then bishop of Rome, refused the title, but his successor, Boniface III, first assumed title "pope." 610

Jesus did not appoint Peter to the headship of the apostles and forbade any such notion. Note:-- Nor is there any mention in Scripture, nor in history, that Peter ever was in Rome, much less that he was pope there for 25 years; Clement, 3rd bishop of Rome, remarks that there is no real 1st century evidence that Peter ever was in Rome."

The kissing of the Pope's feet. It had been a pagan custom to kiss the feet of emperors. The Word of God forbids such practices. 709

The Temporal power of the Popes. When Pepin, the usurper of the throne of France, descended into Italy, called by Pope Stephen II, to war against the Italian Lombards, he defeated them and gave the city of Rome and surrounding territory to the pope. Jesus expressly forbade such a thing, and He himself refused worldly kingship. 750

Worship of the cross, images and relics was authorized. This was by order of Dowager Empress Irene of Constantinople, who first caused to pluck the eyes of her own son, Constantine VI, and then called a church council at the request of Hadrian I, pope of Rome at that time. 788

Such practice is called simply IDOLATRY in the Bible, and is severely condemned. (Read Ex. 20:4; 3:17; Deut. 27:15; Psalm 115).

Holy Water, mixed with a pinch of salt and blessed by the priest, was authorized 850

The veneration of St. Joseph began 890

The baptism of bells was instituted by Pope John XIV 965

Canonization of dead saints, first by Pope John XV. 995

Every believer and follower of Christ is called saint in the Bible.

Fasting on Fridays and during Lent were imposed. 998

Imposed by popes said to be interested in the commerce of fish. (Bull, or permit to eat meat), some authorities say, began in the year 700. This is against the plain teaching of the Bible.

The Mass was developed gradually as a sacrifice; attendance made obligatory in the 11th century.

The celibacy of the priesthood was decreed by Pope Hildebrand, Boniface VII. Jesus imposed no such rule, nor did any of the apostles. On the contrary, St. Peter was a married man, and St. Paul says that bishops were to have wife and children. 1079

The Rosary, or prayer beads was introduced by Peter the Hermit, in the year 1090. Copied from Hindus and Mohammedans. The counting of prayers is a pagan practice and is expressly condemned by Christ. (Matt. 6:5-13). 1090

The Inquisition of heretics was instituted by the Council of Verona in the year 1184. Jesus neve 1184

taught the use of force to spread his religion.

The sale of Indulgences, commonly regarded as a purchase of forgiveness and a permit to indulge in 1190 sin. Christianity, as taught in the Bible, condemns such a traffic and it was the protest against this traffic that brought on the Protestant Reformation in the 16th century.

The dogma of Transubstantiation was decreed by Pope Innocent III, in the year 1215. By this doctrine the priest pretends to perform a daily miracle by changing a wafer into the body of Christ, and then he pretends to eat Him alive in the presence of his people during Mass. The Bible condemns such absurdities. 1215

Confession of sin to the priest at least once a year was instituted by Pope Innocent III., in the Lateran Council. The Bible commands us to confess our sins direct to God. (Read Psa. 51:1-10; Luke 7:48; 15:21; I John 1:8-9). 1215

The adoration of the wafer (Host), was decreed by Pope Honorius. So the Roman Church worships a God made by human hands. This is plain idolatry and absolutely contrary to the spirit of the Gospel. (Read John 4:24). 1220

The Bible forbidden to laymen and placed in the Index of forbidden books by the Council of Valencia. Jesus commanded that the Scriptures should be read by all. (1229

The Scapular was invented by Simon Stock, an English monk. It is a piece of brown cloth, with the picture of the Virgin and supposed to contain supernatural virtue to protect from all dangers those who wear it on naked skin. This is fetishism. 1287

The Roman Church forbade the cup to the laity, by instituting the communion of one kind in the Council of Constance. The Bible commands us to celebrate the Passover. 1414

The doctrine of Purgatory was proclaimed as a dogma of faith by Council of Florence. There is not one 1439 word in the Bible that would teach the purgatory of priests.

The doctrine of 7 Sacraments affirmed. 1439

The Ave Maria. It was completed 50 years afterward and finally approved by Pope Sixtus V, at the end of the 16th century. 1508

The Council of Trent, held in the year 1545, declared that Tradition is of equal authority with the Bible. 1545

By tradition is meant human teachings. The Pharisees believed the same way, and Jesus bitterly condemned them, for by teaching human tradition, they nullified the commandments of God.

The apocryphal books were added to the Bible also by the Council of Trent. These books were not recognized as canonical by the Jewish Church. 1546

The Creed of Pope Pius IV was imposed as the official creed 1560 years after Christ and the apostles. 1560

True Christians retain the Holy Jewish Scriptures as their creed. Hence their creed is 1500 years older than the creed of Roman Catholics.

Pope Pius IX declared the Virgin Mary to have had an Immaculate Conception.. The Bible states that all men, with the sole exception of Christ, are sinners. Mary herself had need of a Savior. (Read Rom. 3:23; 5:12; Psa. 51:5; Luke 1:30,46,47). 1834

In the year 1870 after Christ, Pope Pius IX proclaimed the dogma of Papal Infallibility. This is a blasphemy and the sign of the apostasy and of the anti-christ predicted by St. Paul. Pope's title: "VICARIVS FILII DEI." -- V-5, I-1; C-100, I-1; V-S, I-1; L-50, I-1; I-1; D-500, I-l Total, 666. 1870

Pope Plus X, in the year 1907, condemned together with "Modernism", all the discoveries of modern 1907

science which are not approved by the Church

Pius IX had done the same thing in the Syllabus of 1864.

In the year 1930 Pius XI, condemned the Public Schools 1930

In the year 1931 the same pope Pius XI, reaffirmed the doctrine that Mary is "the Mother of God." 1931

This doctrine was first invented by the Council of Ephesus in the year 431. This is a heresy contrary by Mary's own words. (Read Luke 1:46-49; John 2: l-5).

In the year 1950 the last dogma was proclaimed by Pope Pins XII, the Assumption of the Virgin Mary 1950

UNDERSTANDING THE ABOVE INFORMATION CORRECTLY

Answer for yourself: If you have difficulty in accepting these above heresies as truth, then why do you accept their other beliefs hidden within the New Testament that violate the Laws, the Prophets and the Writings?

This knowledge as given in the above chart alone should at least make one suspicious that other such "heresies" might be contained within the New Testament which you might not at present be aware. This should spur you into your own personal study to find out if such things be so. Believe us at Bet Emet, they are there hidden beneath the contexts of many events which are displayed in the New Testament which are simply unhistorical and can be proven to be in violation of facts and evidence of history which will prove them wrong upon study.

Answer for yourself: If you have difficulty in accepting these above heresies as truth, then why would you accept their other beliefs cleverly contained in the New Testament which, without through knowledge of the Old Testament, will not be noticed as fraudulent in simple reading of the New Testament?

The Roman Church says it never changes; yet, it has done nothing else but invent new doctrines which are contrary to the Bible and the original belief system of Yeshua, and has practiced rites and ceremonies taken bodily from paganism. Some scholar has found that 75% of the rites and ceremonies of the Roman Church are of pagan origin. We trust that you desire to be a follower of Jesus/Yeshua more than a follower of your Denomination or Church and its inherited traditions!

Don't look now my Protestant friends because much of what you practice in your church comes from these pagan background...and most of you are not aware!

THE EARLY CHURCH FATHERS INCRIMINATE THEMSELVES AND THE GENTILE CHRISTIAN FAITH...AND I BET YOU NEVER KNEW THIS...DID YOU?

In Seminary I remember looking at the Library shelves that supported the multiple volumes of the Ante-Nicean Fathers. I beheld thousand and thousands of pages of their writings. I even amused myself that to read and understand such a large volume of literature would take years. It did!

What I came to admire about such writings is when you read enough of them you find that these "pro-Christian" writers often incriminated themselves with what they wrote. The following examples are for your benefit.

JUSTIN MARTYR

Eusebius, in his Church History, tells us that Justin, in his Dialogue with Trypho, says "there exists not a people, civilized or semi-civilized, who have not offered up prayers in the name of a crucified Savior to the Father and Creator of all things" (Hist. Eccl. lib i. ch. iv).

The honesty of Justin Martyr as portrayed here is the heart of the subject matter of these web pages. I intend to show you that from the beginning of time the pagan nations had their "crucified Sun-gods" and much recorded about Jesus of Nazareth in the New Testament is nothing more than the "re-telling" of the same Sun-Myths; the only difference is that now they are applied to the life of Jesus the Jew.

Do you want the truth before you die? Then keep reading.

EUSEBIUS

Eusebius says that "the names of Jesus and Christ were both known and honored by the ancients" (Hist. Eccl. lib. i. ch. iv). How could this be?

Eusebius, the great champion of Christianity, admits in his book: "that which is called the Christian religion is neither new nor strange, but-if it be lawful to testify the truth-was known to the ancients"

(Hist. Eccl. lib. 2, ch. v.). How could this be?

Eusebius, who is our chief guide for the early history of the Church, confesses that he was by no means scrupulous to record the whole truth concerning the early Christians in the various works which he has left behind him (Eusebius, Hist. Eccl., ch. viii. p. 21).

Edward Gibbon, speaking of Eusebius says: "The gravest of the ecclesiastical historians, Eusebius himself, indirectly confesses that he has related what might rebound to the glory, and that he has suppressed all that could tend to the disgrace, of religion. Such an acknowledgment will naturally excite a suspicion that a writer who has so openly violated one of the fundamental laws of history has not paid a very strict regard to the observance of the other; and the suspicion will derive additional credit from the character of Eusebius, which was less tinctured with credulity, and more practiced in the arts of courts, than that of almost any of his contemporaries" (Gibbon, Rome, vol. ii., Philadelphia, 1876).

SAINT AUGUSTINE

Augustine is quoted as saying: "That in our time is the Christian Religion, which to know and follow is the most sure and certain health, called according to that name, but not according to the thing itself, of which is the name; for the thing itself which is now called the Christian Religion really was known to the ancients, nor was wanting at any time from the beginning of the human race until the time when Christ came in the flesh, from whence the true religion, which had previously existed, began to be called "Christian;" and this in our days is the Christian religion, not as having been wanting in former times, but as having in later times received this name" (Opera Augustini, vol. i. p. 12; quoted in Taylor's Diegesis, p. 42).

Now if you read these quotes you have to admit that they are very troubling to the contemporary Christian. I always heard: "Where there is smoke there is fire" [pardon the pun please]. If you find the courage to look beyond these quotes then you will find the kindling used for the corruption of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom by the later Roman Christian Gentile Church whereby it becomes little more than another manifestation of "literalized" Sun Worship. The Jewish Christ knew the difference and you should as well.

TERTULLIAN

Tertullian, one of the Christian Fathers (A.D. 200), originally a Pagan, and at one time Presbyter of the Christian Church in Africa, reasons in the following manner on the evidences of Christianity: "I find no other means to prove myself to be impudent with success, and happily a fool, than by my contempt of shame, - as, for instance, I maintain that the Son of God was born. Why am I not ashamed of maintaining such a thing? Why, but because it is itself a shameful thing. I maintain that the Son of God died. Well, that is wholly credible, because it is monstrously absurd. I maintain that after having been buried he rose again; and that I take to be mainly true, because it was manifestly impossible" (Taylor, Diegesis, p. 326).

For example, early Church Father Tertullian (@ 160-220 C.E.), an "ex-Pagan" and Bishop of Carthage, ironically admits the true origins of the Christ story and of all other such god-men by stating in refutation of his critics, "You say we worship the sun; so do you" (Wheless, Forgery in Christianity, p. 147).

Interestingly, a previously strident believer and defender of the faith, Tertullian later renounced Christianity. (Wheless, Forgery in Christianity, p. 147).

Cardinal Newman, in his book, The Development of the Christian Religion, admits that ... "Temples, incense, oil lamps, votive offerings, holy water, church holidays and season of devotions, processions, blessing of fields, sacerdotal vestments, the tonsure (of priests and monks and nuns), images ... are all of pagan origin..." (Page 359).

HERESIES are those doctrines and practices which are contrary to the Bible. They are also called "human traditions" or "doctrines of men". Both Peter predicted and warned that in the later times "false teachers" would rise within the Church and bring in "damnable heresies" and "doctrines of devils". (Read II Peter 2:1-3). Jesus rebuked the Pharisees, for they transgressed the commandments of God by keeping their traditions. "in vain," He said, [speaking in the first person representing the Father] "they worship me by keeping for doctrines the commandments of men" (Matt. 15:3,9).

The testimony of their heresies can be found in much of the New Testament today which did not even become recognized until the fourth century.

The Word of God commands us to get out of Idolatry and pagan expressions of true religious faith. All true "Christians" SHOULD desire to be faithful to the religion of Jesus as taught in the Jewish Bible and the Jewish Scriptures termed today the Jewish Tanakh, and many of these earlier Spiritual Truths can can still be detected within the New Testament with a little study. However, so much more is alien to what the true Jewish Christ both believed and practiced. Now is the time to study. I hope you take the challenge. Your rewards are eternally waiting as you recover Spiritual Truth kept from you.

"SO AS ABOVE...SO BELOW": THE DIVINE "PATTERN" OF WORSHIP...ARE YOU AWARE?

Look first at the picture above. If you noticed you see that what the Ancients saw in the Sky and Heavens "above" the reconstructed "below" on Mother Earth. In other words they built upon Earth what they saw in the Heavens above. This is called the Uranograph which we will deal with momentarily.

First of all please look at what you recognize as "the Star of David" below and to the right.

Answer for yourself: Do you notice that the star is pointing both upwards and downwards? What could this mean? Is there hidden meaning here that we are missing? Well you have to study Egypt and Egyptian religion to understand the religious concepts hidden in the Star of David. Archeology today is teaching us just whom the identities of the Biblical Patriarch actually are and you be amazed to find out that these Patriarchs are Biblical Pharaohs. In Seminary I always wondered why Amenoteph III wrote many of the Proverbs. Today I know that he is the Biblical Solomon and his father, King David, is Tuthmose III. Well that is a teaching for another day but if one was to undertake such a rigorous study of Egyptian Monotheism then you will find that the center core of all that they believed is that "So above then so beneath". In other words the Divine Pattern is to be reproduced on earth as it is in heaven above and not only their architecture and pyramids reveal this but their very core religious theologies as well. But that study has to wait but understand this as we move on the children of the Egyptians who intermarried with Semites are the Jewish nation and no wonder that Biblical Judaism has almost the same religious tenants of their Egyptian fathers but even the Star of David points "as above so beneath" which reveals to us that Divine Axiom in disguise. Now let us continue since our focus is on the "Pattern of Worship" (above) that is to be reproduces on earth (below) according the Divine Pattern above.

Exod 25:8-9 8 And let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them. 9 According to all that I shew thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the instruments thereof, even so shall ye make it. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Is there a "Pattern" of Worship that we are to follow and if there is what is it? Do we follow it at our Christian churches? Well we need to look into this matter to be certain.

Let us look at the Hebrew word used for "pattern" above:

Strong's Concordance tell us that the word for "pattern" is Strong's number 8403: tabniyth (tab-neeth'); from 1129; structure; by implication, a model, resemblance: KJV-- figure, form, likeness, pattern, similitude.

The word clearly indicates that connected with the worship of God is the necessary construction of an earthly example of something that has a Spiritual/Heavenly existence (similar, like another). The idea carried with this word is one of "comparison" between two items. This "pattern", as a model, refers to a representation, generally in miniature, to show the construction or appearance of something that is a resemblance of "something else". It also carries the idea of a simplified representation of a system or phenomenon, as in this sense the representation of the worship due the Creator. Egypt understood this and coined the terms "So as above, so below" and their offspring the Jewish nation understood this religious concept and adapted it from them. Both Egypt and Israel had in common equinox Temples for example. We find that Egypt build the Giza Plateau as a representation and likeness of what they saw in the Heavens above them. It was a "mirror image" so to speak. We see the same example of this spiritual concept in the New Testament:

Matt 6:10 10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. (KJV)

Earth is to be a carbon copy or reflection of the Divine. We as mankind are to reflect the "real" and manifest as best we can the "image of God" both within us and without through our influence and our conduct. More on this in a second as we continue our thoughts.

Let us examine other passages referring to this "pattern".

Exod 25:40 40 And look that thou make them after their pattern, which was shewed thee in the mount. (KJV)

Num 8:4 4 And this work of the candlestick was of beaten gold, unto the shaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof, was beaten work: according unto the pattern which the LORD had shewed Moses, so he made the candlestick. (KJV)

Josh 22:28-29 28 Therefore said we, that it shall be, when they should so say to us or to our generations in time to come, that we may say again, Behold the pattern of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt offerings, nor for sacrifices; but it is a witness between us and you. 29 God forbid that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn this day from following the LORD, to build an altar for burnt offerings, for meat offerings, or for sacrifices, beside the altar of the LORD our God that is before his tabernacle. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice a strong admonition in the above verse?

Notice in this verse the strong admonition to NOT construct a "false" man-made substitute in worship for what God has commanded to be made and used in His worship which is not according to "the" pattern given by God Himself (selah)!!!

Of course this necessitates that one is aware of this "Pattern of Worship" in the first place. Sadly this "Pattern" of which I speak in hidden behind the Hebrew and Greek words of our Christian Bibles and the English does a poor job at revealing it; in fact is masks it from our view. More verses need to be examined so let us keep reading.

II Ki 16:10 10 And king Ahaz went to Damascus to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, and saw an altar that was at Damascus: and king Ahaz sent to Urijah the priest the fashion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanship thereof. (KJV)

Now here is where it gets very interesting and it is here we find the hidden implications for non-Jews and their worship of God.

1 Chr 28:11-20 11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, and of the houses thereof, and of the treasuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof, and of the place of the mercy seat, 12 And the pattern of all that he had by the spirit, of the courts of the house of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treasuries of the house of God, and of the treasuries of the dedicated things: 13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD. 14 He gave of gold by weight for things of gold, for all instruments of all manner of service; silver also for all instruments of silver by weight, for all instruments of every kind of service: 15 Even the weight for the candlesticks of gold, and for their lamps of gold, by weight for every candlestick, and for the lamps thereof: and for the candlesticks of silver by weight, both for the candlestick, and also for the lamps thereof, according to the use of every candlestick. 16 And by weight he gave gold for the tables of shewbread, for every table; and likewise silver for the tables of silver: 17 Also pure gold for the fleshhooks, and the bowls, and the cups: and for the golden basons he gave gold by weight for every bason; and likewise silver by weight for every bason of silver: 18 And for the altar of incense refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubims, that spread out their wings, and covered the ark of the covenant of the LORD. 19 All this, said David, the LORD made me understand in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this pattern. 20 And David said to Solomon his son, Be strong and of good courage, and do it: fear not, nor be dismayed: for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work for the service of the house of the LORD. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that this "Pattern" was given by the Spirit of God?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice the highlighted words "service"?

Strong's Concordance reveals the true meaning of the word "service" in these verses:

5656 `abodah (ab-o-daw'); or `abowdah (ab-o-daw'); from 5647; work of any kind: KJV-- act, bondage, + bondservant, effect, labour, ministering (-try), office, service (-ile, -itude), tillage, use, work, X wrought.

Answer for yourself: What can we learn from the root word from which "abodah" is taken?

The root word comes from 5647 `abad (aw-bad'); a primitive root; to work (in any sense); by implication, to serve, till, (causatively) enslave, etc.: KJV-- X be, keep in bondage, be bondmen, bond-service, compel, do, dress, ear, execute, + husbandman, keep, labour (-ing man, bring to pass, (cause to, make to) serve (-ingself,), (be, become) servant (-s), do (use) service, till (-er), transgress [from margin], (set a) work, be wrought, worshipper,

Answer for yourself: So now what have we seen? Without a doubt God has commanded His worship according to a particular "Pattern" given to the Jewish people who are his Servants who are commissioned to communicate these truths about God to the whole world.

Isa 49:6 6 And he said, It is a light thing that thou (Israel) shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth. (KJV)

Let us read a few more verses.

Ezek 43:10 10 Thou son of man, shew the house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities: and let them measure the pattern. (KJV)

Heb 8:5 5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount. (KJV)

Strong's Concordance and "pattern"

5179 tupos (too'-pos); from 5180; a die (as struck), i.e. (by implication) a stamp or scar; by analogy, a shape, i.e. a statue, (figuratively) style or resemblance; specifically, a sampler ("type"), i.e. a model (for imitation) or instance (for warning): KJV-- en- ex-) ample, fashion, figure, form, manner, pattern, print.

Thayer's Greek Lexicon and "pattern":

5179 tupos- 1) the mark of a stroke or blow, a print 2) a figure formed by a blow or impression a) used of a figure or image b) used of the image of the gods 3) form: the teaching which embodies the sum and substance of religion and represents it to the mind, the manner of writing, the contents and form of a letter 4) an example: a) in the technical sense, the pattern in conformity to which a thing must be made b) in an ethical sense, a dissuasive example, a pattern of warning; used of ruinous events which serve as admonitions or warnings to others c) an example to be imitated; used of people who are worthy of imitation d) in a doctrinal sense; used of a type, that is, a person or thing prefiguring a future (Messianic) person or a thing

CAN WE DRAW ANY CONCLUSIONS?

I surely think we can.

Plato believed there are two "realities" or "worlds." This is exactly what both Egypt and the Jews believe and expressed in their religious symbolism and religious doctrines and no greater example could be found than the Temple described here and the pattern for its construction which was given to King David by God. Plato, like Moses and King David and the Rabbis knew that there exists an Invisible World and a Visible World. The Visible World is the world we see with our eyes, the world of sights and sounds and it is not "the real" but only a reflection of the "real" which exists in the invisible world of the Spirit/Energy (God). The Invisible World is the world of ideas that exist in the Spiritual realm. It is this second world, the Invisible world, that is the true reality to Plato, Egypt, and the Jewish nation attest. The visible is but a reflection of the "real" and when we see that we are speaking of worship in the verses above this means that there exists in the "Invisible realm" of the Spirit/Heaven a "pattern for worship" of God that needs to be emulated and followed by all mankind in this visible world. The Jewish nation was entrusted with this "Pattern of Worship" for the whole of mankind.

If you understood the above then this becomes all the more important as our studies progress and we see for ourselves that both the Jewish nation and the non-Jewish peoples of the world kept the same "pattern of worship as seen for example in worship of the Creator involving the Biblical Seasons and Biblical Festivals and Sabbaths. This you need to understand can be shown to apply both before Moses and after Moses and the 613 Laws given to the Jews by Moses. This means that long before the Jewish nation non-Jews were keeping these "holy days" by Revelation and the Hebrew texts and Scriptures detail this for us. Often however these "truths" are hidden behind English words that cover up these facts. This is a startling revelation that awaits you as you see with your own eyes for example that Abraham kept the Passover even before it gained the historical significance it holds today. Even more important is the examples we will soon see which teach us that in the New Testament that non-Jews and Jews both kept the Sabbath day and the 7 Biblical Festivals after the time of Christ. We even see Paul teaching non-Jews to observe and keep Havdalah which observes and commemorates the Sabbath as it passes and the new week begins. Paul taught his Gentiles churches this "Pattern" and we in Christianity today are basically ignorant of it and have a substitute religious calendar given us by Antisemitic Rome. Even more startling is the revelation that there are certain passages in the Holy Tanakh that God commanded be read on certain days and that this "pattern" of reading of the Torah/Tanakh at certain times makes all the more sense when one come to understand that God has certain things to say and communicate to His people on special times and days of the year. Simply said you would not say to a person "happy anniversary" on his "birthday" and vice versa. Even more startling is the fact that the very basis for the outline of Mark's Gospel, chapters 1-16, can be shown to follow the Torah readings throughout the year in Palestine. Looking at the chronological sequence from Chapter 1 through chapter 16 we see that each thematic teaching overlaps with the required Torah reading throughout the year. This simply means that we have before us the midrash of the Synagogue readings as told through the life of "the Christ" throughout the calendar year as enumerated between chapters 1-16 in the Gospel of Mark. This "Pattern" of worship is everywhere but seen by few.

To recap even more startling is that it can be shown that even before Moses the Hebrew Scriptures teach us that non-Jews kept these same "appointed times" with God which sadly Gentile Christians are taught today belong and apply only to the Jews. We will see in our studies that in these "appointed times" with God that occur at the equinoxes and solstices is a hidden message of the "true salvation" of God as found in these Biblical Festivals. That should make you wonder if you have heard the right message of God in your Antisemitic Christian Churches. Kind of makes you want to study does it not? Well the opportunity awaits you on this and our other websites at Bet Emet Ministries as the long hidden truths kept from you are revealed.

THE AFTER-LIFE

In a book of instructions, an Egyptian king advised his son, the prince, to attain the highest qualities, because upon his death he will see his whole lifetime in a single instant and his performance on earth will be reviewed and evaluated, by the judges. In recent years, numerous books addressed the near-death experiences of many people. In this phenomenon, it is reported that seeing the person's whole life span in an instant, is a recurrent theme for all persons with near-death experiences. Death is not the end, but rather it is a transitional state. Such an experience matches exactly the Egyptians' belief of the transformation process, which starts with the Day of Judgment where the life of the person is evaluated.

Answer for yourself: Does Judaism teach these same things? Yes and we find this same concept taught in their High Holy Days: Rosh HaShannah and Yom Kippur!

As stated earlier, ancient Egyptians expressed their metaphysical beliefs in story form (myth), like a sacred drama or a mystery play. The following are the Egyptians' symbolic representations of the process of the Judgement Day.

The spirit of the deceased denies committing each sin/fault before its assigned judge, by reciting the forty-two negative confessions (analogous to the famed Ten Commandments). These negative confessions come from The Book of the Coming Forth by Day (commonly and wrongly known as The Book of the Dead.) Above I have provided a translation of these negative confessions. Some of them may seem repetitive, but this was probably caused by not being able to translate the exact intent of the original language.

In the judgment of the dead the heart, as a metaphor for conscience, is weighed against the feather of truth, to determine the fate of the deceased. The seated Grand Ancestor—Ausar (Osiris)—presides in the Hall of Justice. The jury consists of 42 judges/assessors. Each judge has a specific jurisdiction over a specific sin or fault; each wears a feather of truth on his/her head. The assigned juror/judge will declare his/her acceptance of the deceased following his reading of the 42 negative confessions by declaring Maa-Kheru (True of Voice/Action).

Tehuti (Thoth), scribe of the neteru (gods), records the verdict, as Anbu (Anubis) weighs the heart against the feather of truth. The outcome is either:

- If the pans are not balanced, this means that this person lived simply as matter. As a result, Amam (Ammit) would eat this heart. Amam is a protean crossbreed. The unperfected soul will be reborn again (reincarnated) in a new physical vehicle (body), in order to provide the soul an opportunity for further development on earth. This cycle of life/death/renewal continues until the soul is perfected, by fulfilling the 42 Negative Confessions, during his life on earth. This if you have not noticed is reincarnation.
- If the two pans are perfectly balanced, Ausar/Osiris gives favorable judgment, and gives his final Maa-Kheru (True of Voice). The perfected soul will go through the process of transformation and the subsequent rebirth. The outcome of his/her evaluation will determine which heavenly level (2-6) a person reaches.

By maintaining the conditions of the physical vehicle, the body mummifeid, the soul was able to continue its existence in the unknown world of the Duat. As a result, the soul was eventually capable of working towards its own resurrection, and thence, excluding the necessity of another physical reincarnation. The perfected soul will go through the process of transformation, and as the Egyptian writing describes it, "becomes a star (goes to Heaven) and joins the company of Ra, and sails with him across the sky in his boat of millions of years".

THE NETERU...THE ALL WHO ARE ONE

In a previous article I introducted the reader to a new concept: the Neteru as the "Attributes of God" as understood by the Ancient Egyptians. I shared a little about the neteru as the personifications of universal principles, functions and attributes of the one great and supreme God. The neteru who were called "gods" by some, were endorsed and incorporated into Christianity under a new name, "angels".

The ancient Egyptian word "neter," and its feminine form "netert," have been wrongly, and possible intentionally, translated as "god" and "goddess," by almost all scholars. There is no equivalent word in meaning, to the word "neter," in the English language. Honest translation should use the native word, if they cannot find its equivalent in their language. "Neteroo" (plural of "neter/netert") are the Divine Principles and Functions that operate the Universe. They are all aspects and functions of the One Supreme God. The words "god" and "goddess" leave the impression that ancient Egyptians had a multitude of gods, which is absolutely untrue.

As such, an Egyptian neter/netert was not a god/goddess but the personification of a function/attribute of the One God. With this understanding comes likewise the understanding that the labeling of Egyptian religion as "pagan" or "idolatrous" betrays the complete lack of understanding of the Egyptian religion by the writer or would be scholar.

The Song of Moses in Deuteronomy (32:43), as found in a cave at Qumran, near the Dead Sea, mentions the word "gods" in the plural:

"Rejoice, 0 heavens, with him; and do obeisance to him, ye gods."

Answer for yourself: Does this reference by Moses to "gods" by one motivated by Monotheism seem strange? Does this principle possible indicate that the Essenes, who would find their home in Alexandria, Egypt, later were influenced not only by Egyptian religion but by the evolution and paganization of it in their day? The Essene answer will come later for we have not gotten that far yet but the answer you will find upon examination is "yes." I have devoted a whole website to this problem which you need to see for yourself if you want to know how these ancient Divine Revelation and truths and personifications of universal principles, functions and attributes of the one great and supreme God were later corrupted by these Essenes in Alexandria and Qumran where these concepts once expressed as "attributes" of the One True God were later personified as if "real people" and later applied to Jesus; thereby making him God.

The passage we find in the New Testament (Hebrews, 1:6),

Heb 1:6 6 And again, when he bringeth in the firstbegotten into the world, he saith, And let all the angels of God worship him. (KJV) reveals to us the transformation of the idea of the neteru. The the word "gods" as understood by Moses in the Song of Songs pointed about above has been modified. These attributes of the One True God now have a life of their own and they become "angels." The word for "gods" is substituted with "angels of God". Again this concept of the "neteru" shows the hidden influence of Egyptian religion not only among Judaism but even the movement later termed Christianity and because of this fact it is imperative to understand Egyptian religion in its earliest form as well as the corruption of it down through history if one wants to correctly understand both Judaism and the later corruption of Judaism and the simple Divine Revelation under Christian hands and Gentile Christianity. The term "angels", according to the Metaphysical Bible Dictionary, refers to those who "guard and guide and direct the natural forces of mind and body, which have in them the future of the whole man."

Angels, or neteru, are living energies. In the wisdom teaching of various cultures, these Causal Powers are called by many names including Agents, Angels, Conscious Thought Forms, Creative Energies, Devas, Fathers, Fountains, Gates, Governors, Hands of God, Lords, and Shining Ones.

Edwin C. Steinbrecher, an astrologer, metaphysician, and author of, The Inner Guide Meditation, says that angels are, "living energies that contain ideas and information, specific patterns of instinctual behavior and thought. They are the energies which somehow attach themselves, without our conscious awareness, to everything we meet in the world we call real. [They] are the life energies that pour out of each of us unceasingly night and day. . . influencing everyone in our lives and causing us to be influenced in return."

Just like the Egyptian's neteru, each "angel" has been given a name and specific function(s). And just as each neter of Egypt did not always take the same form and shape, so is the case for each angel. As your projection of them changes, so will their appearance. Sometimes, they are so blocked by the ego that you can only see their dim, hazy outlines. Many have seen angels change from a shining light to a form resembling a human being, then into a symbol (cube, triangle, etc.), and back to human features. Upon careful examination, the concept of the Egyptian neteru was accepted by ancient and modern societies, who merely chose new names to express Egyptian ideas. The neteru became angels.

THE TRIADS OF ANCIENT EGYPT

The energies represented by the various neteru may function together in groups or as individuals. The interaction between the neteru are expressed in myth, which is to be understood as the dramatization of cosmic and natural laws. We discussed the role of myth in an earlier article. The union of certain pairs of complementary energies/attributes (masculine and feminine forms) resulted in a third energy/attribute.

Some of the major Egyptian triads are:

- Amen-Mut- Khonsu
- Ausar (Osiris) - Auset (Isis) - Heru (Horus)
- Ptah - Sekhmet - Nefertum

Answer for yourself: What should this teach us? Simply when reading of Osiris and Horus and Isis as well as other "neteru" or "gods of Egypt" we are not speaking of "literal historical people" or actual "competitive gods of the One God" but Divine Concepts that operate in this One God that are very real that are later personified by the Egyptian Spiritual Masters to help mankind better understand and relate to his God and Creator. This is not an odd concept, and it was copied in the trinity of the Christian faith and few know it. This explains why the corridors of history and nation after nation express these same "Divine Concepts" under different names whom we mistakenly believe were "pagan gods" and ridicule them as "stupid" in fact when a proper understanding of this Divine expressed in these concepts are absolutely breathtaking when you see them as they were understood by the Ancients. Our blindness today is due to Rome who burned the worlds libraries and murdered millions to cover up the fact that their "literalization" of these "allegorical expressions of God" was a lie. They basically "literalized" the Christ within as a historical "god-man" whom we know today as

"Jesus" to give validity to their Emperor as the Roman "god-man". Today we don't know this when reading accounts of a "literal" and a "supposed historical Jesus" but in fact the "Christ" was always real...but not a historical person but rather "persons" for God's Christ dwells within us all as does this God Whom we love and Whom Manifests Himself as Osiris, Isis, Horus, etc. When we speak of "resurrection from the dead" we speak of the reality of Osiris. It is but a picture expressing a holy and Divine concept which tragically down through history lost its true meaning and today as Christians we truly look through a glass darkly. Tragically the Bible speaks of what has happened to Christianity since loosing the true "gnosis" behind these concepts:

Isa 42:18-19 18 Hear, ye deaf; and look, ye blind, that ye may see. 19 Who is blind, but my servant? or deaf, as my messenger that I sent? who is blind as he that is perfect, and blind as the LORD's servant? (KJV)

THE BATTLE OF HORUS AND SET: PERSONIFICATION OF LIGHT VS. DARKNESS

When a jealous Seth slew the beloved Osiris and dropped his body into the Nile, the wife of Osiris, goddess Isis, moved all forces of nature to rescue the body of her husband. Isis prepared for the ceremonial burial of Osiris, but his murderer, his brother Seth, stole the body away and hacked it into pieces. Isis searched all of Egypt, gathering together his pieces and, with the god, Anubis, bound him together to make him whole. With the resurrected god Osiris, Isis conceived a son, Horus.

Osiris, then descended into the Netherworld to reign over the kingdom of the afterlife. Isis took her newborn son, Horus and escaped to the papyrus marshes, jealously guarding her son from the vengeful god, Seth. Goddess of love, goddess of protection, goddess of nurturing, Isis, succeeded, raising her son in secret. She raised her son, Horus, to ascend to his rightful throne, take his place over Seth.

Horus, the god, emerged from the marshes. Horus sought his father, Osiris' heritage. Horus presented his claim to the gods. The sun god, presiding over the court, secretly favored Seth and caused the court to procrastinate. The judges retired to an island to deliberate. Other gods came to chide their inaction, to coax their judgment. It is said that the goddess, Hathor, went to the sun god and offered him a blissful joining. But, the negotiations drug on, until the god Osiris sent a letter from the netherworld, to the disagreeable gods. The message is simple: The fearsome and terrifying messengers that brought the message, would drive all of the gods into the land of the dead. It was decided. The verdict, in favor of Horus.

The quarrel did not end there. Seth and Horus had an epic battle, power against power, god to god. And, in this battle, Horus lost an eye and Seth, his testicles. The eye of Horus was found and restored by the god Thoth. Horus presented the healed eye to his father, Osiris. This eye, represented the restoration of royal power. Seth, ultimately, recovered his testicles. And, though these gods, at times, did battle, they would, as well, aid each other.

Pharaohs were seen to be the living Horus. Many of the pharaohs, as did the all ancient Egyptians, still held Seth in fearful reverence. Often, a pharaoh preparing for war, would invoke the spirit of Seth, the god of the unyielding, fierce desert, in order to overpower his enemies. But, always, when pharaoh died, he became Osiris.

Horus is represented as a man, or as a hawk or falcon-headed man, often wearing the Pharaoh's crown or with a sun disc on his head. The god, would likely carry a was scepter and an ankh, the symbol for eternal life. The predator bird, the falcon is a symbol of the god, Horus. Since, Horus lost and regained his eye, the eye itself is a potent symbol, called the eye of Horus. The eye, or wadjet eye as it is called is worn or displayed as a powerful amulet of protection. The retrieved eye is seen as the moon, the other, as the sun, thus Horus has influence over these powerful forces of nature. Seth's testicles, weren't revered, but were commonly referred to in crude oaths. By the balls of Seth! they might say. And, thereafter, the opposing, balancing forces of the two gods lived for all time, with Horus, the god of the pharaoh and the fertile lands; Seth, the god of the desert lands and foreign peoples.

Horus and Set were originally expressions of the primal duality, the two aspects of Heaven, the day-sky and night-sky. As the Egyptian mythology was elaborated towards its final chaotic state, their symbolism drifted away from these absolute poles into the middle ground, first becoming solar, and finally taking on a variety of solar/martial and zodiacal characteristics. Yet their final form can still be expressed in a concise symbology, that of the astrological signs of Aries and Scorpio. Taken whole, their symbolism is that of the primal duality manifesting in its male aspects.

It is worth noting that in the beginning of Egyptian dynastic history Seth was a member of the venerated gods of Egypt. It is Seth that stands in the bow of the boat of Ra and slays the enemies of Ra as the ship traverses the sky on it's daily journey. It seems that in very early times the followers of the god Seth may have been conquered by the followers of the god Horus whom went on to unite upper and lower Egypt. If that is true then Seths fall from power has historical and political beginnings. It also must be considered that the roots of these stories may lie in the fact that Seth was a deity of the night and darkness. Therefore, these battles may represent day verses night or dark verses light as well as the ideas of good verses evil. Set was one of the earliest Egyptian deities, a god of the night identified with the northern stars. In the earliest ages of Egypt this Prince of Darkness was well regarded. If we look at these stories with that in mind we find ideas like; "an aging king fighting the powers of darkness that are conspiring against him". In some texts he is hailed as a source of strength, and in early paintings he is portrayed as bearer of a harpoon at the prow of the boat of Ra, warding off the serpent Apep. Yet the warlike and resolute nature of Set seems to have been regarded with ambivalence in Egyptian theology, and the portrayal of this Neter went through many changes over a period of nearly three thousand years. Pictures of a god bearing two heads, that of Set and his daylight brother Horus the Elder, may be compared to the oriental Yin/Yang symbol as a representation of the union of polarities. In time, the conflict between these two abstract principles came to be emphasized rather than their primal union. This concept can easily be equated with the sun setting and being overpowered by the darkness of night. We can also assume that this battle rages through the night only to find that the sun is once again victorious with the sunrise. By midday, the enemy is all but defeated but the victory slips away as the forces of darkness join the battle as the day grows older towards sunset. And so the battle goes; not only day to day but season to season as the Sun moves through the equinoxes and solstices (the Zodiac yearly). As Set was a god of the desert and probably symbolized the destructive heat of the afternoon sun, and thus was thought to be infertile. The hieroglyph for Set was used in words such as 'turmoil', 'confusion', 'illness', 'storm' and 'rage'. Strange events such as eclipses and thunderstorms were all attributed to him (again all manifestations of darkness).

Set's battle with Horus the Elder grew from being a statement of the duality of day and night into an expression of the political conflict among the polytheistic priesthoods for control of the Egyptian theocracy. This was rewritten as a battle between Good and Evil after Egypt expelled the Hyskos in the 18th Dynasty. Some say the Hyskos were Asiatic invaders, and others say they were an indigenous minority that seized control of the nation. This tribe ruled Egypt for a time and happened to favor the Set cult, seeing a resemblance to a storm-god of their own pantheon.

The Set cult never recovered from this identification with the Hyskos. Images of Set were destroyed or defaced.

By the time Greek historians visited Egypt, wild asses, pigs, and other beasts identified with the Set cult were driven off cliffs, hacked into pieces or otherwise slaughtered at annual celebrations in a spirit akin to the driving out of the Biblical scapegoat. The report of these historians is often thought to be a valid account of a a timeless and immutable theocracy, but just looking at the frequency with which the ruling capital moved to different cities (each being a cult-center) is enough to dispel this idea. One controversial Egyptologist has suggested that the worship of Set might have predated the concept of paternity. Later cults incorporating a father god would reject this fatherless son. This introduces another bizarre factor in the transformation of the Night/Day battle between brothers into an inheritance dispute between Set and Horus the Younger. Any book on Egyptian myth you pick up contains the gory details of this cosmic lawsuit. I have always been intrigued, though, that while all books affirm that Set tore Osiris to pieces, everybody knows about Osiris, and it is quite hard to collect the pieces of the puzzle that is Set. Egyptologists have never agreed what the animal used to symbolize Set actually is. Since the sages of ancient Egypt did not use an unrecognizable creature to represent any other major deity, we may guess that this is intentional, and points to an esoteric meaning.

This mythology of the two heroes has appeared in nearly every human culture (Cain/ Abel, Romulus/Remus, Jacob/Esau myths). The examples above are merely a few of the more familiar past expressions but know that behind them all is the eternal tension between light and darkness.

THE ROMAN PURGE OF TRUTH AND THE DESTRUCTION OF THE LIBRARY OF ALEXANDRIA, EGYPT

"One day in AD 391, the Roman-appointed Bishop Theophilus marched from his headquarters in the Brucheion Royal quarter of Alexandria, at the head of a large howling mob, heading west for the Serapeum in the heart of the Egyptian quarter of Rhakotis. The Serapeum, which had been the centre of Egyptian worship for seven centuries, was adorned with extensive columned halls, almost breathing statues, and a great number of other works of art, as well as being the house of the Great Alexandrian library. The frenzied people rushed through the streets along the Canopic way, turning into the short street that led to the temple-area of Serapis, meeting other crowds there, before climbing up the great flight of marble steps, led by Bishop Theophilus. They jumped across the stone platform and into the temple, where the events of the final tragedy took place."

"In their agitated mood, the angry mob took little heed of the gold and silver ornaments, the precious jewels, the priceless bronze and marble statues, the rare murals and tapestries, the carved and painted pillars of granite and many marbles, the ebony and scented woods, the ivory and exotic furniture - all were smashed to pieces with cries of pleasure. But that was not all. Those shouting men, full of demoniac delight, then turned to the library, where hundreds of thousands of papyrus rolls and parchments, inscribed with ancient wisdom and knowledge, were taken off their shelves, torn to pieces and thrown on to bonfires. A few years later the last of the Alexandrian scholars was torn to pieces by a gang of Christian monks. On a Lenten day in March of the year AD 415 they stopped the carriage of Hypatia, who had succeeded her father as Professor of Philosophy in Alexandria, stripped her naked, dragged her into a nearby church, killed her, cut most of her flesh from her body with sharp oyster shells, and burned what remained of her in the street. The charge against Hypatia, who had taught the philosophy of Plato, was heresy."

"As a result of this barbaric killing of Alexandrian scholars and destruction of its library, which contained texts in Greek of all aspects of ancient wisdom and knowledge, the true Egyptian roots of Christianity and of Western civilization have been obscured for nearly 16 centuries." (Ahmed Osman, Out of Egypt, The Roots Of Christianity Revealed, Aarow Books Limited, 1999, prologue).

The above description tells only part of the story; how antisemitic Gentile Christianity altered the earliest Divine Revelations of God on this planet and through "personification" and later "literalization of this Divine Revelation" constructed an entirely new religion that has obscured and altered what the ancients knew best about God and Creation. Simply said the end result is that 2.5 billion people today who are named by the name "Christian" live and worship in idolatry never knowing until they die the tragic consequences of the destruction of the Alexandrian Library by Rome which was undertaken to cover-up their plagiarism, alteration, mutation, and adulteration of the world's oldest Revelation of God given to mankind. The aim of Bet Emet Ministries is to rediscover these roots, with the help of new historical and archaeological evidence and we have done just that in the various websites provided by this ministry.

With the loss of this knowledge collected by the world since the earliest of time mankind was swept into the Dark Ages by the Roman Church.

- Lost is the understanding that Egyptian thought was presented in allegory and in term of mythology: myth was used to convey insights into the workings of the Divine and Nature and the ultimately indescribable realities of the soul
- Covered up for centuries is the fact that many of the stories of both the Old and the New Testaments are firmly established on models of Ancient Egyptian historical facts.
- Many essential religious doctrines that Judaism and Christianity are credited with, in fact came out of Egypt.
- Covered up throughout history was the fact that all the central characters of both the Old Testament and the New Testament were actually real historical Egyptian figures, who lived in a different period than we have believed up till now.

All of this knowledge was lost when the Alexandria library was razed to the ground by Rome.

Western scholars, whether Christian, Jewish or Atheist, tend to ignore Egyptian views when interpreting the accounts of ancient history. Even Manetho, the great Egyptian scholar responsible for the arrangement of the Alexandrian library, has been dismissed as unqualified to write about scientific matters to the Greeks. Commenting on an account that Manetho wrote in Epitome of Physical Doctrines, W. G. Waddell wrote:

That an Egyptian priest should seek to instruct the Greek-speaking world of his time in the history of Egypt and the religious beliefs of the Egyptians. . . is not at all surprising, hut it seems strange that Manetho should feel called upon, in the third century BC, to compose an Epitome of Physical Doctrines with the apparent object of familiarizing the Greeks with Egyptian science [Manetho, London, 1940, p. xxvii]

In addition, Islamic documents are completely disregarded as a source of ancient tradition, when arguing the history of biblical stories. This cannot be justified, for the stories in the Koran come from the same source as the books of the Bible. Moreover, the Koran accounts agree with those of the Bible in the majority of cases, which makes it more important to examine the reason for various points, of divergence.

The time has come for Egypt's voice to be heard again. If Egypt's voice is heard then Christian theology will be shown to be a fraud and a terrible misrepresentation of the earliest Divine Revelation of God given to mankind which treasured.

Until the destruction of its library in AD 391, Alexandria had remained the most important cultural centre of the ancient world, and the focal point of the mutual influence exercised in the conjunction of Christianity and Hellenism, in spite of four centuries of Rome's political supremacy. Founded by Alexander the Great in 331 BC, it was the first real cosmopolitan city in history, where Macedomans and Greeks lived together with Egyptians and Jews, and scholars flocked from all over the world to do their research. The Essenes would be the dominant force behind this Library and had in this city their own theological university as well. Scholars came from Italy and Greece, from Anatolia and the Levant, from north Africa, Arabia, and even from Persia and India. Not only did they share a common habitation in Alexandria, they all had the same longing for knowledge and the same interest in philosophy and ancient wisdom, as represented in the teaching of Hermes Trismegistus and the worship of Serapis. Thoth, ancient Egyptian god of writing, became identified with the Greek god Hermes. Hermes Trismegistus means 'Hermes the Thrice-greatest'.

As stated before with my comment about the Essenes this city was also the center of Hellenistic Judaism. It was in Alexandria that Philo Judaeus, the first Jewish philosopher, wrote his 38 books in the 1st century AD. The city had, in addition, the only library containing almost all the books of ancient civilizations, including the Greek text of the Old Testament. Hence it is not astonishing that Alexandria rapidly became the main Christian intellectual centre.

The rich collection of ancient written knowledge in the Serapeum proved irresistible for Diodorus Siculus, a Sicilian scholar, when he set out in the first century BC, in the time of Julius Caesar, to research his ambitious Bibliotheca Historica - the "bookshelf of history". The historian Ammanius Marcellinus (c. AD 330-391), who himself visited Alexandria, wrote about this temple: ". . . the Serapeum, which, although no description can do it justice, yet is so adorned with extensive columned halls, with almost breathing statues, and a great number of other works of art, that next to the Capitolium, with which revered Rome elevates herself to eternity, the whole world beholds nothing more magnificent. In this were invaluable libraries . . ." (22: 16, 12-13). Diodorus, who was an enthusiast of the teachings of Hermes Trismegistus (which have survived until today in the teachings of Islamic Sufis, Jewish Qabbalah and Christian Rosicrucians and Freemasons), became convinced of Egypt's importance as a source of knowledge. The Greek and Roman gods, he believed, had been born there, life had originated there, and there the first observations of the stars had been made. Astro-theology was the earliest revelation of God that mankind received. This might sound wrong but not so when such observations of the Heavens and Nature spoke the clearest message about God and His message to mankind. Only later when these observations were personified and then later "literalized" does mankind lose Divine truth. This is explained in great detail on our Essene website and the Essenes are primarily responsible for the loss of such Divine Truth. The last famous scholar associated with the Serapeum before its destruction was Theon, a celebrated mathematician whose recension of Euclid's Element was the only text of this work until the last century, and whose daughter Hypatia was to meet a terrible death at the hands of Theophilus's nephew Bishop Cyril.

Up to the end of the fourth century AD, the time when the Alexandrian library was destroyed, Egypt was regarded as the holy land of the ancient world, the source of wisdom and knowledge where God became known for the first time. Pilgrims then, including Roman emperors, came from all over the world to worship in the temples of Isis and Serapis, as well as at the foot of Mount Sinai.

This situation came to an end, however, in the latter years of the reign of the emperor Theodosius I, who was zealous in his suppression of both paganism - the belief in the many gods of pre-Christianity - and heresy - any opinion contrary to orthodox Roman religious doctrine. Emperor of the East (AD 379-392), and then sole emperor of East and West (AD 392-395), he enforced the Creed of the Council of Nicaea (AD 325) as a universal norm for Christian orthodoxy and directed the convening of the second general council at Constantinople in AD 381 to clarify the formula.

"It is our wish and pleasure that none of our subjects, whether magistrates or private citizens, however exalted or however humble may be their rank or condition, shall presume in any city or in any place to worship an inanimate idol"* declared Theodosius in his last edict. Fanatical mobs of the Church then roamed the lands, razing old temples to the ground and plundering their wealth. Ancient tombs were desecrated, walls of monuments scraped clean of names and depictions of deities, statues toppled over and smashed. In Alexandria, Bishop Theophilus was as ambitious as the emperor, Theodosius I, who had appointed him. It was one of his zealous actions that led to the burning of an estimated half a million books stored in the Alexandrian library, described above.

Theophilus of Alexandria (AD 385-412) was one of the orthodox leaders who represented the imperial government dispatched from Rome to impose official orthodoxy on the Alexandrian Church. He led a campaign against paganism and heresy in Egypt that included destruction of the Serapeum (the temple of Serapis - originally an ancient Egyptian god of the underworld, subsequently reintroduced as the official deity for Alexandria and Egypt by Ptolemy I [305-284 BC]) where the Alexandrian library was placed. The Serapeum, at the same time as being the centre of worship for the ancient Egyptian trinity of Osiris, Isis and Horns, became a focal point for the emerging Christian Gnostic sects - those Christians who sought to gain spiritual knowledge through mysteries and the attempt to know oneself, interpreting the Scriptures allegorically.

The first Christian emperor, Constantine I (AD 324-337), had made Christianity the official religion of the Empire. He also granted political power to the Church. Bishops were not only recognized as councillors of state but obtained juridical rights: their solutions to civil suits were legally enforced. The bishops used their newly acquired power to spread the word of God and stamp out His enemies, who in this case were not only the pagans but the heretics - and Rome regarded Egyptian Christians as heretics. According to tradition, the Church of Alexandria was founded neither by St Peter nor by St Paul but by St Mark the Evangelist, even before what is said to have been the first Apostolic Council of Jerusalem in c. AD 50 (mentioned in the Book of Acts, 15:28). The first theological school to be established in the world also flourished in Alexandria before the end of the 2nd century AD, and became an influential centre of Christian scholarship. Among its directors were the famous Clement of Alexandria and Origen. Christian monasticism as an institution was initiated principally in Egypt by St Antony the Copt (c. AD 251-356), who fled to the solitude of the western desert from his native village of Coma, not far from Tell al-Amama, in Middle Egypt. Others followed his example and a monastic colony arose around his cave in the Red Sea mountains.

Although Alexandria made an important contribution in developing the first systematic Christian theology, the Alexandrian theologists were strongly influenced by the Neo-Platonists' philosophy. Neo-Platonists were Alexandrian philosophers who followed the same philosophy as the Athenian Plato; Plotinus of the 3rd century AD is the most celebrated. Biblical exegesis at Alexandria was allegorical and mystical, following the same method as Philo Judaeus, who tried to harmonize philosophy and the Bible. From the start, Alexandrian exegesis did not attach to the literal sense of the Bible. Their primary interest was concentrated on the mystery of divine revelation revealed in the historical and literary details of the Old Testament. It was therefore a question of discovering Christ in the older revelation.

The Alexandrian authors sought out in the Old Testament symbols of the New. For early Egyptian Christians, accepting one God was an evolutionary process in which the old system was assimilated into the new, and old deities became angelic beings and mediators between man and the unseen Lord. Idols, for them, did not represent the deities themselves, but were merely a physical form in which the spiritual beings could dwell during prayer. The Gnostic teachers found their followers at Alexandria, and much of the ecclesiastical history of this city was concerned with the heresies that appeared there.

The Serapeum, originally established by the Ptolemies (the Macedonian kings who ruled Egypt after the death of Alexander the Great), later became also a centre for Gnostic communities, both Hermetic (i.e. adhering to the teachings of Hermes Trismegistus) and Christian. Some Gnostic Christian sects grew from within the cult of Serapis, who made no distinction between Christ and Serapis - this, too, will be explained as this book unfolds. The general library at the Serapeum gradually became a focal point for scholars and intellectuals, from all over the Roman Empire, whose views contradicted the teachings of the Church. For this reason it became regarded as heretical and had to be destroyed.

With the destruction of the Serapeum, not only Egyptian knowledge was lost; Mesopotamian, Syrian, Phoenician, Jewish and Greek learning also vanished. The whole scientific achievement of the old civilizations, regarded as heresy by Bishop Theophilus, disappeared in a single day - books on astronomy, anatomy, medicine, geometry, geography, history, philosophy, theology and literature, as well as copies of the early Gnostic gospels of Christ. The result was the beginning of the dark ages, which lasted for more than ten centuries after that. All branches of science, as well as heretical writings which did not adhere to the teaching of the orthodox Church, were forbidden by the state. This left the canonic books of the Scripture as the main source of Western knowledge until the Renaissance in the 15th century.

While the discovery of some remaining copies of old forbidden manuscripts, especially the Hermetic and NeoPlatonic philosophies, produced the age of the Western renaissance from the 15th century in art, science and technology, history had to wait for modern archaeologists to dig out old remains and inscribed papyrus rolls before we could regain our memory. In his book Archives In The Ancient World, Ernst Posner, the American historian, has said of the achievements of archaeologists during this period that they are ?momentous - comparable in a way to the discovery of America. . . a new dimension of almost two millennia has been added to the history of mankind as it was known in 1850..."Now we can view with profound respect the cultural achievements of the countries surrounding the eastern Mediterranean, and we can begin to assess their interrelations with, and their possible influence on, the cultures of Greece and Rome."

Egypt was the birthplace of our spiritual teachers - from Imhotep, the first pyramid builder of the 27th century BC, to Moses and Akhenaten, who first recognized one God, to the followers of Osiris (Egyptian god of the underworld and judge of the dead), Hermes Trismegistus and of Jesus Christ who looked for spiritual salvation and eternal life. Thanks to modern archaeologists, a new age now appears on the horizon, with Egypt restored to its original place.

It looks like a fulfillment of an old prophecy which predicted that woes will come upon Egypt, but also promised that order would finally be restored again. This prophecy is found in the Hermetic text of Asclepius, discovered among the Nag Hammadi library. Asclepius is a dialogue between the mystagogue Hermes Trismegistus and an initiate, Asclepius. In an apocalyptic section with significant Egyptian and Israelite parallels, the speaker predicts the fall, then rise again, of Egypt:

are you ignorant, 0 Asclepius, that Egypt is (the) image of heaven? Moreover, it is the dwelling place of heaven and all the forces that are in heaven. If it is proper for us to speak the truth, our land is (the) temple of the world. And it is proper for you not to be ignorant that a time will come in it (our land) (when) Egyptians will seem to have served the divinity in vain, and all their activity in their religion will be despised. For all divinity will leave Egypt and will flee upward to heaven. And Egypt will be widowed; it will be abandoned by the gods. For foreigners will come into Egypt, and they will rule it. . . And in that day the country that was more pious than all countries will become impious. No longer will it be full of temples, but it will be full of tombs. .. Egypt, lover of God, and the dwelling place of the gods, school of religion, will become an example of impiousness . . . [Then Egypt will be restored again] And the lords of the earth... will establish themselves in a city that is in a corner of Egypt that will be built toward the setting of the sun.

Isaiah, the Old Testament prophet of the 6th century BC, confirms this prophecy and foretells the appearance of a saviour in Egypt:

The burden of Egypt. Behold, the Lord rideth upon a swift cloud, and shall come into Egypt: and the idols of Egypt shall he moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst of it. And I will set the Egyptians against the Egyptians: and they shall fight every one against his brother, and every one against his neighbour. . . And the spirit of Egypt shall fail in the midst thereof. . . In that day shall there be an altar to the Lord in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar at the border thereof to the Lord. And it shall be for a sign and for a witness unto the Lord of hosts in the land of Egypt. . . and he shall send them a saviour, and a great one, and he shall deliver them.* [Isaiah 19:1-3; 19-20]

Helmut Koester, Professor of the History of Ancient Christianity at Harvard University, who was responsible for translating the Nag Hammadi Gospel of Thomas (which includes many previously unknown sayings of Christ) into English, spoke about the need for "a thorough and extensive revaluation of early Christian history". He went on to say: "The task is not limited to fresh reading of the known sources and a close scrutiny of the new texts in order to redefine their appropriate place within the conventional picture of the early Christian history. Rather it is the conventional picture itself that is called into question."

CONCLUSION

The Library of Alexandria, in reality two or more libraries in the ancient Egyptian capitol, has achieved an almost mythic stature in the study of classics from the time of the Renaissance. The apocryphal burning of the Library during Julius Caesar's occupation of the city has been described as the greatest calamity of the ancient world, wherein the most complete collection of all Greek and Near Eastern literature was lost in one great conflagration. In reality, the Library and its community of scholars not only flourished during the Hellenistic era of the Ptolemies, but continued to survive through the Roman Empire and the incessant turbulence of the Empire's most volatile and valuable city. For valuable indeed was the granary of the empire, which was also a prosperous trade center between east and west, linked to the Mediterranean and, not far to the east, to the Red Sea and Indian traderoutes via a canal. This cosmopolitan city drew Greeks, Egyptians, Romans, and Jews into a unique and not entirely harmonious coexistence. The Alexandrian Museum and Library, then, was an ideal place for scholars from these different cultures to meet and exchange learning, and was a repository for the literature and accounts of the Alexandrian intelligensia and the Roman Empire in general. However, while sources agree on the Museum's uniqueness and value, no surviving account of its activities actually exists, and modern scholarship has largely ignored this poorly-documented portion of history.

I need to say something about the religion of Serapis and Sophia. At this time the old gods of Egypt, meanwhile, had not died out, but merely been woven together with the pantheons of newcomers. Strabo's contemporary, Vitruvius, describes a festival of the Muses in Alexandria, almost certainly based at the Museum, so it seems that the religious aspect of the institution continued to play an important part in Imperial Alexandria. By Roman times, the worship of purely Olympian gods had altered as the population had become a Greek-Egyptian mix, and all the gods were now worshipped as their Egyptian counterparts with Greek attributes. Besides the Egyptian Greeks, the Jews accounted for a significant amount of the population, living in their own quarter, governed by an ethnarch, and originally exempted from many of the taxes; their ethnarch was replaced by a Council of Elders under Augustus. An intriguing dialogue between Pagan, Jewish, and, later, Christian thought developed among the scholars of Alexandria, as religious thought was refined and ideas adapted not only from the other theologies common in Alexandria, but from the Zoroasterism of Iran, and even, through the founder of Neoplatonism, Ammonius Buddhism and Hinduism from India. Thus, Jewish theologian Philo could discuss a mother goddess figure, Sophia, spirit of wisdom, the messenger from Jehovah, whose logos or existence would otherwise be incomprehensible to humanity. We see the same religious concept written in the Book of Proverbs:

Prov 1:20-21 20 Wisdom crieth without; she uttereth her voice in the streets: 21 She crieth in the chief place of concourse, in the openings of the gates: in the city she uttereth her words, saying, (KJV)

Understand that this is nothing more than the personification of the wisdom of God expressed in allegory. This is not meant to be LITERAL.

Christian thought was both refined and bizarrely altered during this turbulent era in Alexandria. Introduced by the Alexandrian St. Mark according to tradition, it was initially mistaken by the Emperor Hadrian as a troublesome offshoot of the cult of Serapis. Indeed, the Eucharist, resurrection, and reverence to the Mother were developed in Alexandria during this period, and seem to have echoes in the cult of Serapis, with its Dionsian-style feasting and resurrection, and his consort Isis/Cybele/Demeter. And while the religion had previously been a popular movement of the masses, it was at Alexandria that learned intellectual debate discussed the more philosophical parts of the religion and paved the way for Medieval theological debates. Branches of thought such as Arianism and Gnosticism were to be developed here, and, although later declared heretical, grew side by side with what later became Christian orthodoxy. Gnosticism continues to this day in Egypt; it held that the world was actually a mistake created by the Demiurge, son of the true God and Sophia, who was the Jehovah of the old Testament; God pitied humanity and sent Christ to help humanity reunite with Himself. Some held that Jesus had been a man, and the Christ His spirit after death. The Ophites, an offshoot of the Gnostics with Cretan influences, carried the religion a step further, worshipping snakes and the divine mother Sophia, who had actually sent the serpent of Eden to warn Eve and Adam that Jehovah was the Demiurge and that they should seek wisdom or knowledge to link with the true God. And, lest these heresies seem too wild, it should be remembered that the first patron saint of Alexandria for the orthodox Christians of the 4th century was St. Anthony, "who thought bathing was sinful and was consequently carried across the canals of the delta by an angel".

After a mere twenty years since the abdication of Diocletian, Constantine became Emperor and declared Christianity Rome's official religion. Diocletian's First Edict, as described by Lactantius in his How the Persecutors Died, Chap. 13 Date: February 23/24, 303 A.D., teaches us about the beginning of the "Great Persecution" against Christians which directed that the churches to be leveled, the Scriptures burned, Christians in places of honor to be degraded, and provided the loss of freedom to Christian household servants. It deprived the Christians of all honours and dignities; ordaining also that, without any distinction of rank or degree, they should be subjected to tortures, and that every suit at law should be received against them; while, on the other hand, they were debarred from being plaintiffs in questions of wrong, adultery, or theft; and, finally, that they should neither be capable of freedom, nor have right of suffrage. By 391, the Emperor Theodosius had reversed Diocletian's edict and commanded all paganism to be stamped out, signalling the end of the Museum and ultimately the Library as well.

In 412 Theophilus' nephew Cyril succeeded him as Patriarch of Christianity. The Patriarch exercised control of Alexandria, and the conflict between secular and religious authority was decided in 415, when the Roman prefect Orestes, officially still in charge of the province, objected to Cyril's order that all Jews be expelled from Alexandria. Cyril's army of monks murdered the prefect and were canonized by him for this deed. For, throughout the fourth century the power of the church grew and it was this army of Gnostic monks that became the main tool of the Patriarch of Alexandria and enforced his will. After the edict of Theodosius, the mob was led by the Patriarch Theophilus to demolish the Serapeum. Cyril, the Archbishop of Alexandria, persuaded himself that Hypatia's good name and talents were giving the cause of Paganism a dangerous prestige, and thereby preventing the progress of the new faith. Upon his orders these same monks, while marauding through the city came across Hypatia, daughter of the Museum's last great mathematician Theon. She was a Neoplatonist philosopher and astronomer whose teachings are partially recorded by one of her admirers and pupils, the Christian Synesius, and she was also one of the last members of the Museum.

It is said of her: "Her beauty did astonish the survey of eyes, Her words all ears took captive" (From: "The martyrdom of Hypatia, or, The death of the classical world." A speech given before the Independent Religious Society at the Majestic Theater in Chicago By Mangasar Magurditch Mangasarian). Her renown as a lecturer on philosophy brought students from Rome and Athens, and all the great cities of the empire, to Alexandria. It was one of the great events of each day to flock to the hall in the academy where Hypatia explained Plato and Aristotle."

Driving home from her own lectures without attendant, this independent woman and scholar who epitomized the glory of the knowledge bestowed upon mankind by God was dragged from her chariot by the mob, stripped, flayed, and finally burned alive in the library of the Caesareum as a witch (as denoted above). Cyril, who was behind this terrible deed, was made a saint. After Hypatia's death Alexandria became steadily less stable and was soon overrun by the monks who evolved into the Copts who incorporated the old Alexandrian prejudices towards foreigners (already expelled the Jews) with the new prejudice towards any scientific or classical knowledge. The Patriarch Cyril was made a saint for his action behind the destruction of the Library. The library itself was ransacked of any gold or silver and then put to the torch by these monks. Too turbulent even to bow to the Emperor, Alexandria eventually revolted against Constantinople, wound up with two factions contending between two Patriarchs, and eventually fell to Arab conquerors, who had the last of the Library burned as fuel in the bath-houses of the city in 686.

Theodosius was at the time, of which we will now speak, the Christian ruler of the Empire. In reply to a request by the Archbishop of Alexandria, he sent a sentence of destruction against the ancient religion of Egypt. Both the Pagans and the Christians had assembled in the public square to hear the reading of the Emperor's letter, and when the Christians learned that they may destroy the gods of the Pagans, a wild shout of joy rent the air. The disappointed Pagans, on the other hand, realizing the danger of their position, silently slipped into their homes through dark alleys and hidden passage-ways. Yet they did not stand aside and see the temples of their gods razed to the ground without first offering a desperate resistance. Under the leadership of a zealot, Olympus, the Pagans fell upon the Christians, maddened with the cry in their ears of their leader, "Let us die with our gods!" Then came the turn of the Christians. Theophilius, the Archbishop of Alexandria, with a cross in his hand, and followed by his monks, marched upon the temple of Serapis, and proceeded to pull its pillars down. When they came to strike at the colossal statue of the god, for centuries worshiped as a deity, even the Christians turned pale with superstitious awe, and held their breath. A soldier armed with a heavy axe, was hesitating to strike the first blow. Will the god tolerate the insult? Will he not crash the roof upon the heads of the sacrilegious vandals? But the soldier struck the thundering blow right in the cheeks of Serapis, who offered no remonstrance whatever. The sun shone as usual, and the laws of nature maintained their even pace. Encouraged by this indifference of the god to defend himself, the Christian rabble rushed upon the statue, and pulling Serapis off his seat, dragged him in pieces through the streets of Alexandria that the Pagans might behold the disgrace into which their great god had fallen. Thousands of Pagans, seeing how helpless their gods were to avenge this insult, deserted Paganism and joined the Christians. As soon as the ground of the temple was sufficiently cleared, a church was erected on the ancient site. The Alexandrian library was the next point of attack. Its shelves were soon cleared, and you and I, and twenty centuries, were most lamentably deprived of the intellectual treasures which our Greek and Roman forefathers had bequeathed unto us.

Thus the Library of Alexandria and the Museum wended its way through the turbulent history of the Empire and outlived it by a short space of time, although paucity of sources makes it difficult to reconstruct an exact chronology of events. Its research probably reflected the foment of the times, and, while Neoplatonist in the main, also attracted other religious scholars, especially Jews, from Hellenistic times onward. Repeatedly rebuilt, modified, and burned, the few facts that can be determined about its long history justify its semi-legendary status. Haven for scholars of all kinds, its purpose as a center for learning was its eventual downfall. Enduring through Hellenistic civil strife, Dynastic war, the transition from kingdom to Roman province, and the abuses and good fortune it received through the sometimes capricious actions of successive emperors, it could not withstand the violent beginnings of Christianity which the city of Alexandria itself largely shaped.

Now, in closing, if you have been a reader of Bet Emet Ministries for any length of time by now you have seen the corruption of the Hebrew Scriptures when translated into Greek by the Hellenized Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. Whereas the Ancient Egyptians understood the God of the Cosmos and related Eternal concepts and His message to mankind in allegory, symbolism, and myth many who would come later would take these simple truths of Egyptian Religion and "LITERALIZE" them into religious dogmas at Alexandria that blind us to the simple truths that God originally gave mankind. Later Rome will emerge upon the screen of world history with its desire to mix politics and religion and in so doing make sure that all mankind, to the best of their ability, will fall prey to their "brand" of religious thought where these "literalized" religious tenants were to be accepted by all; either through proselytizing or sword. But the task was not easy as first thought knowing as they did that they had to destroy and bury for all time all remnants of the knowledge that existed that betrayed their plagiarism and literalization of these prior allegories and myths. There was no bigger threat to Roman domination of the world than the Library of Alexandria which housed these precious volumes of collected world knowledge (science and religious works) which betrayed not only the Roman theology of the day as false but exposed them for what they truly were: apostates themselves from the original Divine Revelation first given mankind in this world. This Library and storehouse of world knowledge was the greatest threat to the Roman civil-religious agenda and it had to be destroyed and this knowledge kept from the common man. It was been estimated that the library contained more than a half a million volumes before its destruction. This kind of information had to be destroyed and Rome would make sure that it was, and with the later battle for supremacy between Eastern and Western Christianity in which Western Christianity and Constantine would win then the world is plunged into the Dark Ages to which mankind lived blind to these Divine Truths once cherished by the sages of the past who first gave us the revelation of God in the first place.

The Museum of Alexandria was founded at a unique place and time which allowed its scholars to draw on the deductive techniques of Aristotle and Greek thought, in order to apply these methods to the knowledges of Greece, Egypt, Macedonia, Babylonia, and beyond. The location of Alexandria as a center of trade, and in particular as the major exporter of writing material, offered vast opportunities for the amassing of information from different cultures and schools of thought. Its scholars' deliberate efforts to compile and critically analyze the knowledge of their day allowed for the first systematic, long-term research by dedicated specialists in the new fields of science suggested by Aristotle and Callimachus. Whole new disciplines, such as grammar, manuscript preservation, and trigonometry were established. Moreover, the fortuitous collection of documents in an Egyptian city allowed the transmission and translation of vital classical texts into Arabic and Hebrew, where they might be preserved long after copies were lost during the Middle Ages in Europe. Alexandria and its cousins, the Lyceum, Academy, and the younger Pergamon library, were probably the prototypes both for the medieval monastery and universities. While modern scholars often lament the amount of information lost through the centuries since the Museum's fall, an amazing number of Alexandrian discoveries and theories, especially in mathematics and geometry, still provide the groundwork for modern research in these fields. Finally, the methods of research, study, and information storage and organization developed in the Library are much the same as those used today.

Today, several diggings where the library stood, have revealed scientific and historical documents that would have resulted in the industrial revolution having occurred 1500 years earlier. Among the lost documents included the methods used to build the pyramids and the parthenon, alchemy, natural plant medicine and utopian philosophy.

Mankind is yet today struggling to regain the knowledge and ground that Roman Christianity took from mankind. They don't call it the Dark Ages for nothing and there is nothing any more dark than the truth concerning the origins of Christian Dogma!

THE ROSETTA STONE AND THE RESTORATION OF THE LOST LANGUAGE OF EGYPT & THE TRUTH ABOUT "THE CHRIST"

Egyptian hieroglyphics had been used by the Egyptians for thousands of years. However, a particularly bleak period of Egyptian history is the conquest of Egypt by Persia. The Egyptians were dominated by Persian intruders. In the Twenty-sixth Dynasty there was a revival of independence and prosperity, which was followed by the Persian conquest and the period from the Twenty-seventh Dynasty to the Thirtieth Dynasty inclusive was one of Persian domination, except for brief intervals when the Egyptians gained temporary independence. The events that changed the nature of Egypt were not the Persian conquest but rather the war between Persia (the new rulers of Egypt) and the united Greek city-states. Greece had originally been united by Philip of Macedon and then ruled effectively by Alexander the Great. Alexander defeated the Persian forces and then took his army to Egypt. There he was welcomed as a conquering hero by the Egyptians because he brought an end to Persian rule. He was made a god by the Egyptians as well as a pharaoh. He, however, had other campaigns to wage and took his army off to the Middle East and the Indus River Valley leaving a regent in charge of Egypt. After the conquest of the Persians in Asia by the Greeks, Alexander the Great took possession of Egypt and the Greek domination under his successors, the Ptolemies, lasted until Egypt became a Roman province, the country then remaining in Roman occupation until the Arab conquest.

After the death of Alexander the Great in 323 BC, his empire was divided among his three most trusted and powerful generals. The throne of Egypt fell to Ptolemy I, the son of Lagus. Ptolemy took Alexander's preserved body in a jar filled with honey back to Alexandria. Ptolemy ran Egypt like a business, strictly for profit. He was welcomed by the Egyptians as part of Alexander the Great's family. Ptolemy then became the pharaoh, Ptolemy I. By so doing, he set the name standard for the 32nd Dynasty which turned out to be the last of Egypt's great dynasties. All of his male successors were called Ptolemy and all of his female successors were called Cleopatra.

As we move to the end of this Greek Dynasty, there was increasing involvement with the Roman Empire. The Roman civil war between Caesar and Pompeii indirectly involved Egypt. Pompeii lost this war and turned to Egypt for shelter and young Ptolemy (several generations below Ptolemy I) had him executed and delivered to Caesar. The young Ptolemy, thinking this would ingratiate him with Caesar was totally incorrect. His sister, Cleopatra, who was vying for the throne had other ways of ingratiating herself with Caesar - they had children together. Caesar was unfortunately assassinated while visiting Rome and his empire was divided up between General Marcus Antonious and his adopted son, Octavian. Marcus Antonious was better known as Marc Antony. Marc Antony took rulership of that part of the Empire that contained Egypt and that resulted in his inheriting Cleopatra. They, too, had children. His relationship with Octavian broke down and resulted in a war which Marc Antony lost. Antony was killed and Cleopatra committed suicide. Their male children were executed and their female children were probably married off to local princes. The Egyptian dynastic system was ended and a Roman Governorship was established.

During the Ptolemic dynasty, Egyptian and Greek languages were used simultaneously. During the Roman Governorship only Latin was used and occasionally Greek.

Within a hundred years the Egyptian hieroglyphics were no longer used or understood by anyone and even the Roman authors of the time suggested that hieroglyphics was not even a language. In the truest sense this is now a dead language. Thus, following the Roman invasion of Egypt in 30 B.C.E. the use of hieroglyphics began to die out with the last known writing in the fifth century AD.

Ultimately the Roman Empire fell and the Middle Ages "came about". Nevertheless, there existed a constant contact between Europe and Egypt such that hieroglyphics were consistently known by the European elite. The reason for this is that medical practices of the Middle Ages resulted in the prescription of bitumen, ground up mummies as a cure for various kinds of diseases. Thus, there was a trade in whole mummies which resulted in examples of hieroglyphics coming into Europe throughout the Dark Ages.

As a result, there were some early attempts at translation of hieroglyphics. In 1633, a Jesuit priest named Anthanasius Kircher, whose specialities were the humanities, science, language and religion translated the word 'autocrat' or in Greek 'autocratur' into German and did so by substituting ideas for the images. His translation read "the originator of all moisture and all vegetation whose creative forces is brought into this kingdom by the holy mukta" (is this a 'bureaucrat'?)

The history of the deciphering of the Egyptian hieroglyphics during the 16th and 17th centuries took small steps toward final interpretation. Some scholars thought that the hieroglyphics were the origin of other languages. Some believed that hieroglyphics spelled nothing at all. Yet others believed that the hieroglyphics were an indication of social stratification or social significance.

This speculation would have continued had not a political event interceded. The almost constant warfare between Britain and France resulted in a major change in the understanding of hieroglyphics. The French under Napoleon Bonaparte decided that they could defeat the British by attacking Egypt and subsequently controlling the rich food supply from along the Nile.

In August of 1798, 13 French ships landed near Alexandria at Aboukir Bay in Egypt and marched inland to fight the British near Cairo. The night before the battle, Napoleon exhorted his troops on by saying something like "Soldiers, from the tops of these pyramids, forty centuries are looking down at you." The French ground forces won the conflict but the British navy, under the command of Lord Horratio Nelson, defeated the French navy. Napoleon believed that he would be in Egypt for only a few months, but he and his men were stranded there for three years with no way to return home. Napoleon had brought with him between nearly 1000 civilians including 167 of whom were scientists, technicians, mathematicians and artists who studied the art, architecture, and culture of Egypt during their "extended vacation." From 1809-1828, they published a 19-volume work called Description of Egypt. Their observations, drawings and illustrations were circulated throughout Europe and created a tremendous interest in antiquities of Egypt.

The soldiers continued to "dig in" and they reconstructed forts as most soldiers had done during previous centuries by using building stones previously used by earlier peoples. In 1799, while extending a fortress near Rosetta, a small city near Alexandria, a young French officer named Pierre-Francois Bouchard found a block of black basalt stone. It measured three feet nine inches long, two feet four and half inches wide, and eleven inches thick and it contained three distinct bands of writing. The most incomplete was the top band containing hieroglyphics, the middle band was an Egyptian script called Demontic script (he did not know that), and the bottom was ancient Greek (he did recognize the bottom band). This stone was called the Rosetta Stone. He took the stone to the scholars and they realized that it was a royal decree that basically stated that it was to be written in the languages used in Egypt at the time. Scholars began to focus on the Demontic script, the middle band, because it was more complete and it looked more like letters than the pictures in the upper band that were hieroglyphics. It was essentially a shorthand hieroglyphics that had evolved from an earlier shorthand version of Egyptian called Heiratic script.

Material from Egypt was continuously coming into Europe. In order to display their status, the European gentry and nobility normally had some Egyptian relics in their possession, perhaps an art object on a table or if one were quite rich, they might have an obelisk in the front yard of the estate. Material containing hieroglyphics continued to enter Europe at a reasonably accelerated rate.

The first to make any sense of the Demontic script on the Rosetta Stone was a French scholar named Silvester deSacy. Silvestre deSacy was an important and skilled French linguist. He identified the symbols which comprised the word 'Ptolemy' and 'Alexander' thus, establishing a relationship between the symbols and sounds. Johann Akerblad who history records as a Swedish diplomat, looked at the Rosetta Stone with an additional knowledge of Coptic. Coptic was the language used by the Coptic church of Egypt, an early Christian group who preserved the language which was used as early as the 4th century. Coptic was written with the Greek alphabet but utilizes seven additional symbols from the Demontic script. Akerblad's knowledge of Coptic allowed him to identify the words for 'love,' 'temple' and 'Greek' thus, making it clear that the Demontic script was not only a phonetic script but it was also translatable.

The earliest translation of the Greek text on the Rosetta Stone into English was done by Reverend Stephen Weston in London in April 1802 before the Society of Antiquaries . About this time, both deSacy and Thomas Young, attempted to decipher the hieroglyphics on the Rosetta Stone. Young was successful in determining that foreign names could not be represented by symbols because symbols are based upon the words used in a given language. Thus, foreign names had to be spelled phonetically. In hieroglyphics there are groups of symbols that are separated from other symbols. These encircled inscriptions are called cartouches. Thomas Young determined that the cartouches were proper names of people who were not Egyptian like the names of Ptolemy and Alexander which in Greek were Ptolemaios and Alexandrus. He successfully deciphered 5 cartouches. His publication on this matter was far reaching.

At this point there is involvement by a young French historian and linguist named Jean-Fracois Champollion. Champollion had mastered many Eastern languages. In 1807, Champollion went to study for two years with noted French linguist Francois Antoine-Isaac Silvestre deSacy. Later in his career, Champollion had compiled a Coptic dictionary and read Thomas Young in 1819. Looking at Young's writing on the subject of hieroglyphics, he realized that what Young had actually proven was that all of hieroglyphics were phonetic, not just those hieroglyphics that were contained within the cartouches. Utilizing hieroglyphics from an estate at Kingston Lacey in Britain, Champollion correctly identified the names of Cleopatra and Alexandrus and verified Ptolemeus which had previously been identified by Young. He published his results and continued his research. In 1822 new inscriptions from a temple at Abu Simbel on the Nile were introduced into Europe and Champollion had correctly identified the name of the pharaoh who had built the temple. That name was 'Ramses.' Utilizing his knowledge of Coptic he continued to successfully translate the hieroglyphics opening up an understanding of the Ancient Egyptians.

Answer for yourself: And why is this important for our studies? Simply this; had it not been for these efforts to restore the understanding of Egyptian hieroglyphics then we would not have been able to restore the true understanding of Egyptian writings along with their religious writings and without this ability then we would not have seen let alone understand the unbelievable unique parallels and similarities between the "Jesus Story" in the New Testament and the main themes of Egyptian religion as acted out in these hieroglyphics by Osiris, Isis, Horus, and others.

But it does not stop here for detailed study into the "Osiris Story" and Egyptian religion, just like the "Jesus Story", reveals that behind a story of a dying and rising godman like our Jesus and Osiris the Ancients understood the story on a much deeper metaphysical, mystical, and mythological meaning. This "Osiris Story", as well as our "Jesus Story", was never to be taken and understood as if "literal-historical"; rather it was a story built with the aid of allegory, simile, metaphor, personification, and anthropomorphic language to express the hidden Divine Truth of the Descent of the Soul into matter or the Descent of the "Karast/Christ" into matter which ultimately is the "flesh of mankind". Along with this when we read the "Osiris Story" we find these representatives of the Soul in mankind faced with every test and challenge possible to the humankind and teaching abounds in this "Osiris/Jesus" story as to how man is to allow and train his Soul to master his flesh and its propensity to fail and sin while on this plane of existence. All of this understanding of these hidden metaphysical and Spiritual Divine concepts would not be possible today without the aid of the Rosetta stone being recovered.

The pick that struck the Rosetta Stone in the soil of the Nile delta in 1796 also struck a mighty blow at historical Christianity. For it releases the voice of a long-voiceless past to refute nearly every one of Christianity's historical claims with a loud "negative". The cryptic literature of Old Egypt, sealed in silence when Christianity took its rise in the 3rd century and further silenced when Rome burned the ancient libraries of the world, was once again awakened from its long silent slumber and its voice can once again be heard today in our generation. Because of our ability to again read the Egyptian hieroglyphics then the ancient Old Egyptian literature now raises its voice out of the deep abyss of forgetfulness to proclaim the true source of every doctrine found in Christianity as Egyptian, the product and heritage of a remote past and the spiritual heritage of the "black race" of Egypt.

With the restoration of the Egyptian hieroglyphics we now have privy to the translation of the Egyptian Book of the Dead, the Pyramid Texts, and the Book of Thoth as they lay on the table of public awareness the irrefutable data which shows that, Christianity, far from being a first gleam of true light in the world as Rome would have us believe, Roman Christianity is but a sad, deplorable poor and crippled distortion, a deformity if you wish, of the Absolute Truths once treasured by the Ancient Spiritual Masters of Egypt. In it place Roman Christianity has given the world a monstrous, vulgar and gross false illusion and purposeful "reinterpretation" of every religious doctrine that has existed since the beginning of recorded time. The book of old Egypt unroll the sagas of wisdom which announce the inexorable truth that not a single doctrine, rite, tenet, or usage in Christianity was a new contribution to world religion, but that every article and practice of that faith which goes by the name of Roman Christianity was a disfigured copy of ancient Egyptian religion in one way or the other. Christianity today can be shown to have not registered a single advance in any line of wisdom or truth, but deplorably disfigured and purposefully misinterpreted every religious tenet of Egypt religion which it adopted beginning the the late 2nd and early 3rd century and afterwards. If you find such statements hard to believe then you need but study and see for yourself such comparisons from Comparative religions whereby you can see the similarities and later Roman dissimilarities between the religious doctrines of Egypt and 3rd century Rome. If you take my challenge then you will find, as I did, that Roman Christianity and her illegitimate daughter Protestantism and the entire body of Christian religious doctrines and dogmas based upon and associated with a "literalized" and "carnalized Jesus Christ" are nothing more than a revamped and terribly mutilated Egyptianism.

Answer for yourself: What should this tell you if you are an insightful reader? Simply, that "close" only counts in horseshoes. This should alert you to the fact that the entire Christian Bible, creation legend, descent into and exodus from Egypt, the ark and flood allegory, Israelite "history", Hebrew prophecy and poetry, New Testament Gospels, Epistles, and Revelation imagery, Messianism, Immortality of the Soul, Reincarnation, as well as "the Karst/Christ" can now all be proven to have been from the transmission of ancient Egyptian scrolls and papyri which fell into the hands of later ignorant and untaught generations which did not know neither the original true meanings of these doctrines and dogmas let alone their true origin nor their unfathomable meanings. Long after Egypt's voice, expressed through the inscribed hieroglyphics, was hushed in silence, the perpetuated relics of Hamitic (black) Wisdom, with their cryptic message utterly lost, were brought forth and presented to the world by parties of ignorant zealot of both Greece and Rome as a new body of truth. The only thing is that it was never a "new body of truth"; the only new thing about it was the pitiable exegesis that inspired and accompanied the reissuance by the Greeks and later Romans.

Only by acknowledging this fact from your personal study along with your personal adoption of these higher Egyptian religious truths can you and I ever hope as misguided Christians to rise at last back to the nobility and splendor once possessed by the Christian Gnostics of Egypt and Palestine. Judaism is the first step and from there the Christian can begin to see the Egyptian Roots to this Jewish expression of this Egyptian Spiritual Wisdom entrusted to the Jewish race while then sojourned in Egypt. It is time to return home to the cradle of all world religions and we are blessed to be able to see these truths today like not former time on this planet in the last two thousand years.

Through the chance stroke of a trench-digger's pick Christianity, as has been taught for some 1,800 years, is brought to its knees having to face its plagiarism and "reinterpretation" of Divine Concepts held sacred by mankind since the beginning of recorded history. The heathen parentage that it strove so desperately to deny and the marks of which is so sedulously endeavored to obliterate in the early centuries now rise from the dead past to charge the whole of Christianity with deceit, guile, duplicity and deception.

Truly the Rosetta Stone has exposed the lie and revealed the truth about "the Christ" like never before since it is again possible to read and understand this Egyptian language. From the scrolls of papyri five thousand to ten thousand years old there comes stalking forth to view the whole story of an Egyptian Jesus raising from the dead an Egyptian Lazarus at an Egyptian Bethany, with two Egyptian Manes (Marys) present, the non-historical prototype of the incident related (only) in John's Gospel. From the walls of the temple of Luxor, carved there at a date at least 1,700 years B.C., there faces Christianity a group of four scenes that spell the non-historicity of four episodes purveyed as history in the Gospels' recital of the Christ nativity:

- the angels' pronouncement to the shepherds tending their flocks by night in the fields;
- the annunciation of the angel to the virgin;
- the adoration of the infant by three Magi; and
- the nativity scene itself.

Answer for yourself: Sound familiar? Up until 200 years ago we could not read these inscriptions but now we can and in so doing we have to wonder how a historical Jesus can both be in Palestine doing his thing as well as in Ancient Egypt thousands of years prior doing likewise? Are these events concerning "the Christ" intended to be understood "literally" as Rome has taught us or are they to be understood "allegorically" and "mystically" as Egypt taught them to the world? Is "the Christ" to be understood as if "historical-literal" or is "the Christ" but an allegory for the intended "descent and life of the Soul of God in us"?

Answer for yourself: Is such evidence fatal to any hope of finding a "historical Jesus" or a "literal-historical Christ? Well, it should be for there is much more.

Egypt had used the symbol of a star rising in the east as the portent of coming deity for millennia anterior to the Christian era. Egypt had knelt at the shrine of the Black Madonna and child, Isis and Horus, for long centuries before a historical Mary lifted a the "patterned" supposed historical Jesus in her arms. Egypt had from remote times, five to ten thousand years B.C., adored a "Karast/Christ" (Horus) who had raised the dead and healed the lame, halt, blind, paralytic, leprous and all afflicted, who had restored speech to the dumb, exorcized demons from the possessed, dispersed his enemies with a word or look, wrestled with his Satan adversary, overcome all temptation and performed the works of his heavenly Father to the victorious end.

Answer for yourself: Can we find Jesus Christ in Egypt some 10,000 years B.C.E.?

Ancient Egypt had long known a Jesus, Iusa, who had been born amid celestial portents of an immaculate parenthood, circumcised, baptized, tempted, glorified on the mount, persecuted, arrested, tried, condemned, crucified, buried, resurrected and elevated to heaven. Egypt had listened to the Sermon on the Mount and the Sayings of Iusa for ages. Egypt had known a Jesus who long antedated the Gospel Messiah and who presents to the student hundreds and hundreds of items of identity, similarity and correspondence in word, deed and function with his later copy which was presented by Rome as the "unique and only" Jesus.

Answer for yourself: And why is so important for us to understand and know?

What I uncovered in my 20 years of study is absolutely fascinating as I see it. The first of my studies in the early years following Seminary were consumed with viewing the New Testament Jesus through the eyes of the Judaism and their Rabbis where Israel has for 2,000 years flatly denied that the New Testament Jesus is the Messiah of the Hebrew Scriptures. I would come to know why as I would soon come to see that purposeful misquotations, purposeful mistranslations, and pure Scriptural invention of "texts" by Rome in order to present to the unaware Gentiles this "Roman Jesus" as the supposed Messiah of Israel. This creation by Rome of a "false Messiah" was done only by gross textual forgery of our Christian Bibles and few Christians every study hard enough to see the truth. The fruit of such study showed me repeatedly that the Jews are right in their rejection of the New Testament Jesus for we in Christianity today have unbelievably accepted forged Old and New Testament texts that are "fixed" to make this New Testament Jesus appear as the "fulfiller of prophecy" and the awaited Jewish Messiah when in fact he does not and Judaism has for over 2,000 years denied that he is such a one. But again we don't know this as typical Christians because few if any Christians even know to look and compare their passages in their Christian Bibles with the Greek or even earlier Hebrew passages to see if they have been purposefully altered. In doing such studies I was troubled by the many comments by Jewish writers that the New Testament Jesus and his life "mimicked" the lives of prior sungods down through recorded history so I had to delve into this and devoted a website comparing these prior "Jesus Stories" with the one we have been given as "inspired, infallible, and inerrant" in our New Testaments by Rome. I, as a Pastor at a mega church in Dallas, was in tears as such a study was done over the next year or so for without a doubt my Jesus did not do or say one thing that has not been done or said by a host of other "sungods" thousands of years prior to the time the assumed historical Jesus was supposed to live. Along the way in these studies I ran into the doctrine of "gnosticism" which had to be investigated in-depth as well; a study that would take two years to really get my feet wet and which continues today because if opened my eyes to how Rome systematically destroyed the "First New Testament" of the early Gnostic Christians "Chrestians" (Gnostic Chrestians) whom we mistakenly call "Christians" today. In its place we got the counterfeit "rewrite" of the Gnostic New Testament where the mystical Gnostic Christ in us all is replaced by a non-existent "literal-historical" person which today has not one uncontested or unforged piece evidence that exits that can substantiate his very existence and a lot that does not. These Gnostics, I would find out, did not believe in a human Jesus Christ as amazing as that might sound. In facts the earliest New Testament had not infancy narratives or genealogies until the late second century around 180 A.D. when a "human Jesus" all of a sudden shows up. This study of gnosticism is highly important because it gave me an accurate "kodak-moment" of the earliest followers of "the Christ" and then comparisons with Rome and what they have taught us as Christians is easy to make. This study began to open my eyes not only to the "Mystical Christ" but the "Mythical Christ" which comes from the observation of the Sun through the Heavens and the Zodiac; a study which will show you the genius and superiority spirituality of the Ancients and their understanding of the Divine Realm in relation to what we know today. What you see here is that the Sun in its movements through the 12 Houses of the Zodiac, was personified by the Ancients with their keen spiritual insights, reveal to us that the Creator placed the whole intended plan for the Descent and growth, life, and maturation and ascent of the Soul at the end of our lives in the movement of the orbs of the Heavens. As I continued to study these key "issues" as reflected on these websites I began to get the "key" to unlock the common thread between all of these above studies; there exists a common theme repeated over and over again and the picture began to come clear the more I studied but I did not want the results I was finding. There was no Jewish Jesus that Israel would claim, no historical references contemporary to the time in which he supposedly lived from either Roman or Jewish writers. The Gnostic Christians never believed in a historical-Jesus and saw "the Christ" as a personified concept living and dwelling within the flesh of mankind. Unlike Rome who limited this Christ to one person these Chrestians taught that this Christ lives in every child of God and it is man's responsibility to "awaken" to its presence in one's live. Even Egypt and their astronomy only reinforced for me the idea that God is teaching all mankind about "the Christ" that dwells and lives within all matter, in our case mankind, and He does so through the movements of the Sun through the Heavens and Zodiac. Following such a study in Astronomy I saw unbelievably that the personification of the Sun and its path through the Zodiac for one year follows exactly and chronologically the "Jesus Story" from the first chapter in the Gospel of Matthew to the 28th chapter of the Gospel of Matthew. I was floored to see this as it was the final nail in the coffin of the supposed "historical Jesus" for me. Many come to such a conclusion long before this but I had to be certain and left no rock unturned to find the truth about this supposed "historical Jesus". No where is to be found any unforged and unadulterated evidence for the existence of a "literal-historical Jesus Christ" and no matter how far back you study you find the same things taught about this Christ since day one a long time ago in Ancient Egypt; that is until you get to the 3rd century and Constantine and the emerging Roman Church. As far back in time that you wish to look, from 2nd - 3rd century before the rise of the Roman Empire and Constantine, all the way back to Ancient Egypt, we find the same Divine truth and Divine spiritual concepts concerning "the Christ" as taught by Egypt originally. This concept of "the Christ within" remained in tact and unadulterated up until the 3rd century when Rome will come along and "literalize" and "canalize" this Christ and continues to do so today. Sadly the vast majority of 2.5 billion good people and professed Christians in the world today don't know they are deceived and have not the slightest notion of the great need for their personal study in these areas since being ignorantly and falsely assured from their pulpits of their churches that they have the truth and that they are the "light" to a darkened world when the opposite is in ironically true.

No matter how far you go back and the discovery of the Rosetta Stone has allowed us to go back to the beginning of recorded time, Egypt's Christ was never a living person and all later "copies" and "Christ-prototypes" were never taught as if "literal-historical" until the 3rd century. But the fact of this Christ's nonhistoricity rises now out of the past that Christianity thought it had sealed in oblivion forever this ancient truth concerning "the Christ" and "Egyptian religion" by burning the libraries and books of the world along with their devotees. This proven nonhistoricity of "the Christ" strikes the death-knell of a false and spurious religion called Roman and Protestant Christianity as it is taught today. The Gospels' "life" of Jesus turns out to be nothing but the garbled, distorted, confused, perverted, warped, misrepresented, twisted, falsified, fragmentary and a plagiarized copy of an Egyptian prototype of a "Karast" who never lived, but was a purely a typological dramatic figure, portraying as always the Divinity in man (the Descent of the Soul into the flesh of mankind). The Egyptian Christ was always to be understood only "allegorically" and never as if "literal-historical".

Matt 24:23-26 23 Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not. 24 For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect. 25 Behold, I have told you before. 26 Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth: behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What has the Rosetta Stone unlocked for us in restoring the Egyptian language and religion? Many things, but my focus here is on the truth about the "Karast/Christ" which we find throughout the Egyptian writings, Temples, and Pyramids which, thanks to the Rosetta Stone, "speak to us again today".

We learn from deciphering the heiroglyphs that the coming of Christ," means the presence of "the Karast/Christ/Christos" in everyone in everyone and not the literal return of the body of some presumed historical Jew named "Jesus" back again to the earth. This Christ is neither in the wilderness nor in any temple or church built by man; for Christ is the Divine Principle inside every human being. The "Son of Mankind" is the adolescent of mankind's own deeds, and the fruit of their own spiritual work. There is no "end of the world," but the beginning of the age of enlightenment when the Christos is activated in each and every one of us.

The "Christ principle," the awakened and glorified Spirit of Truth, being universal and eternal, is the true Christos which cannot be monopolized by any one person, even though religious leaders have chosen to give themselves the title of the "Vicar of Christ." or of the "Head" of that or another State-religion. The spirits of "Christos" and "Christ" cannot be confined to any creed or sect because that sect chooses to make itself exclusive or better than other.

The first key that one has to use to unravel the mystic name of Christ is the key which unlocked the door to the ancient mysteries of the Gnostics. Here again we can thank no only the Rosetta Stone and its discovery but the African and Egyptian Gnostics and the wonderful discovery of the Nag Hammadi Library just a mere 50 years ago which brought this all to light and exposed this Roman lie and corruption of "the Christ". The Gnosis supplanted by the Christianity were universal. They taught the repetition of the primordial wisdom-religion which had been inherited by all of mankind from its beginning and in its abstract appearance, the Spirit of Christ (the divine Logos) was present in humanity from the beginning.

The mystery of Christos—taught by the Ancient Spiritual Masters and "anointed ones" since the beginning of time just happens to be identical with that which from the first had been communicated concerning "those who were worthy." We may learn from the Gospel according to Luke, that the "worthy" were those who had been initiated into the mysteries of the Gnosis and these deeper Spiritual Truths that lay behind the simple "allegories" and "myths" given to laymen and others who were "accounted worthy" to attain that "resurrection from the dead."

In other words, they were the great adepts of whatever religion; and the words apply to all those who, without being Initiates, strive and succeed, through personal effort to live the life and to attain the naturally ensuing spiritual illumination in blending their personality--(the "Son") with (the "Father,") their individual divine Spirit, the God within them.

This resurrection" can never be monopolized by anyone for it is the spiritual birth-right of every human being endowed with soul and spirit, whatever his religion may be. Such individual is a Christ-man. On the other hand, those who choose to ignore the Christ (principle) within themselves, must die nonbelievers— regardless of baptism, sacraments, lip-prayers, and belief in dogmas.

For this to make sense we must bear in mind the original meaning involved in the two terms Chrestos and Christos. The former means certainly more than merely "a good," and "excellent man," while the latter was never applied to any one living man, but to every Initiate at the moment of his second birth and resurrection.

He who finds Christos within himself and recognizes the latter as his only "way," becomes a follower and an Apostle of Christ, though he may have never been baptized, nor even have met a "Christian," yet alone call himself one.

The word Chrestos existed long before Christianity existed. It is found used, from the fifth century B.C., by Herodotus, by Aischylus and other classical Greek writers, the meaning of it being applied to both things and persons. As St. Paul said," You may find Christos in your inner self through knowledge, not faith.

The Christos is the union of mankind with the divine principle in him. The Golden Age begins with the Spirit of Truth (Christos). The name of Christos was given to the solar gods who opened the gates of light and that it was a Chrestos whom god spoke through. It might come as a shock to you but the "real" Paul was a Gnostic, a founder of a new sect of Gnosis which recognized, as all other Gnostic sects did, a "Christ-Spirit."

Gerald Massey connects the Greek Christos or Christ with the Egyptian Karast/Karest, the "Mummy" of immortality," and proves it thoroughly. He begins by saying that in Egyptian the "Word of Truth" is Ma-Kheru, and that it is the title of Horus (the prototype for all later "Christs" including "Jesus"). Thus as he shows, Horus preceded the "Christian Christ" as but one of many Messengers of the Word of Truth, the Logos or the divine nature in humanity.

In the same paper Gerald Massey writes as follows: The Gnosis had three phases

- astronomical,
- spiritual, and
- doctrinal,

Massey goes on to say that all three phases can be identified with the Christ of Egypt. In its astronomical aspect the constellation Orion is called the Sahu or mummy. The soul of Horus was represented as rising from the dead and ascending to Heaven; in particular in the stars of Orion. Next, the mummy-image of Horus was the preserved one, the saved, therefore a portrait of the Savior, as a type of immortality. This mummy-image of Horus, "the Christ", was as a figure of a dead man, which, as Plutarch and Herodotus tell us, was carried round at an Egyptian banquet, when the guests were invited to look on it and eat and drink and be happy, because, when they died, they would become what the image symbolized—that is, they also would be immortal! Here is your belief in "life after death" and being "in Christ/Karest/Karast".

This image of the Karest was bound up in a woven fabric without a seam, the proper vesture of the Christ! No matter what the length of the bandage might be, and some of the mummy-swathes have been unwound that were 1,000 yards in length, the woven fabric was from beginning to end without a seam just like the one mentioned in the New Testament for Jesus Christ.

Now, this seamless robe of the Egyptian Karest is a very tell-tale type of the mystical Christ, who becomes historic, carnalized, and literalized in the Roman Gospels as the wearer of a coat made without a seam, which neither the Greek nor the Hebrew fully explains, but which is explained by the Egyptian Ketu for the woven fabric, and by the seamless robe or swathing without seam that was made for eternal wear, and worn by the Mummy-Christ, the image of immortality in the tombs of Egypt.

Unknown to most Christians Jesus is depicted in the New Testament put to death in accordance with the instructions given for making the Karest. Not a bone must be broken. The true Karest must be perfect in every member. "This is he who comes out whole; whom men know not is his name."

In the Gospels Jesus rises again with every limb intact, like the perfectly-preserved Karest, to demonstrate the physical resurrection of the mummy. But, in the Egyptian original, the mummy transforms. The deceased says: "I am spiritualized. I am become a soul. I rise as a God." This transformation into the spiritual image, the Ka, has been omitted in the Gospel.

This spelling of the name as Chrest or Christ in Latin is of utmost importance, because it proves the identity with the Egyptian Karest or Karust, the name of the Christ as the embalmed mummy, which was the image of the resurrection in Egyptian tombs, the type of immortality, the likeness of the Horus, who rose again and made the pathway out of the sepulchre for those who were his disciples or followers.

This type of the Karest or Mummy-Christ was duplicated in the Catacombs of Rome. No sign of the supposed historic resurrection of Jesus has been found on any of the early Christian monuments. But instead we find the scene of Lazarus being raised from the dead. This is depicted over and over again as the typical resurrection where there is no real one!

Answer for yourself: What is behind this Lazarus story?

The scene is not exactly like the rising from the grave in the Gospels. It is purely Egyptian, and Lazarus is an Egyptian mummy! Thus Lazarus is the mummy-type of the resurrection; Lazarus is the Karest, who was the Egyptian Christ, and who is reproduced by Gnostic art in the Catacombs of Rome as a form of the Gnostic Christ, who was not and could not become an historical character. Further, as the thing is Egyptian, the name of Lazarus is derived from the Egyptian language. If so, "Laz" (equal to Ras) means "to be raised up", while "aru" is the name of the mummy. In Greek terminology this becomes Lazarus. In the course of humanizing the myth of the typical representation of the resurrection found in the tombs of Rome and Egypt evolves the story of Lazarus being raised from the dead. This Karest type of the Christ in the Catacombs is not limited to Lazarus.

By means of the Karest type the Christ and the Christians can both be traced in the ancient tombs of Egypt. The mummy was made in this likeness of the Christ. It was the Christ by name, identical with the Chrestoi of the Greek Inscriptions. Thus the honored dead, who rose again as the followers of Horus-Makheru, the Word of Truth, are Christians. On the Egyptian monuments "Ma-Kheru" is the term that is always applied to the faithful for the Christ.

The fact that the physical Church was founded by Constantine, and that it was a part of his decree "that the venerable day of the Sun should be the day for the worship of Jesus Christ as Sun-day," indicates that they knew that the allegory was based upon the zodiac for the Puranas (the richest collection of mythology in the world which has been passed down orally since the time of Krishna) and the Bible are full of solar and astronomical metaphors.

Thus "Christos," under whatever name, means more than Karest, a mummy, or even the "anointed" and the chosen ones of the Church. Avatars, who lived and died for humanity, have existed in many and all the ages, and many holy men in ancient times who bore the surname or title of Chrestos before Jesus of Nazareth was born. Therefore the example of the New Testament Jesus was like Socrates, like Theodorus, and so many others surnamed Christos, i.e., the "good, the excellent," the gentle, and the holy Initiate, who showed the "way" to the Christos life, and thus models themselves of "the Way" of Godliness in the world and in the hearts of their enthusiastic followers. The Roman Church has unsuccessfully tried to eliminate all signs of the other Christoi, who have appeared to them as rivals of their Man-God.

To be considered a good Christian as defined by "the Church" one has to affirm and show faith in the dogmas interpreted by the Church; then we are free to live on principles contrary to those expressed in the Sermon on the Mount. How sad. "Faith is the key of Christendom," saith Chaucer, and the penalty for lacking it is as clearly stated as words can make it, in St. Mark's Gospel, Chapter XV1 verse 16: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." But the "Christ Within" teaches otherwise. In closing let it be said that it is difficult for anyone who has studied comparative myths and religions and compared them to the Bible we have today to see it as anything but a watered down version of the Wisdom Religion of ancient Mystery Schools.

Answer for yourself: And who do we owe for this revelation of "the Christ Within"? Well, we can thank 1799 by Napoleon's army in 1799 for preparing the world for the truth about "the Christ" which comes to us from a black stone which unlocked the secrets of the Egyptian Temple walls and Pyramids and in go doing restoring to the world the Ancient Divine Truths from God given mankind which had been destroyed and purposely hidden from the world by the devious agendas and forgeries of Rome in their Christian Bible which furthered their political ambitions.

With this one revelation of lost truth and lost light, namely, that as Christians and followers of the Christ, we have been once again given the lost the "keys" necessary to understanding the "Jesus Story" as it has been handed down for thousands and thousands of years before Rome's reinterpretation of it. Given this and its proper understanding the structure of a "literal-historical Christianity" tumbles to the ground. This ruse and deception must come to an end and today finally it can be replaced by a purely spiritual Christianity since the facts and archeological truths are surfacing daily; and all thanks to a black rock. The Dark Ages can be brought to their dismal end at last and this only because some trench-digger hit a buried treasure and old back rock that has laid buried for thousands of years waiting for the saying of "the Christ" to be fulfilled: "the rocks will cry out" and they have. Have you heard them?

THE EXODUS ALLEGORY AND THE GNOSTIC CREATION OF THE JESUS MYTH OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

Let's examine the various elements from which the Jesus myth was constructed, beginning, as the original Christians undoubtedly did themselves, with the myth of Exodus.

THE EXODUS ALLEGORY:

This famous Jewish myth relates the story of Moses leading his people out of captivity in Egypt by miraculously parting the Red Sea. There follows 40 years of wandering in the wilderness in search of the Promised Land, at the end of which Moses dies. It is his successor, Joshua ben Nun, who miraculously parts the river Jordan to lead the Jews to the destined homeland. So far so good as this sticks to the "literal" understanding of the text that we are familiar with.

It is important to understand right up front that the name "Jesus" itself comes from Exodus (Joshua/Jesus makes his first appearance in Exodus 17:8). In Greek the Hebrew name "Joshua" becomes "Jesus".

Answer for yourself: How come most of us are not aware of this fact? Now hold on to your seat for I assure you that I am not craze but only "well taught". Could this "Joshua" of history, whose name also means "Jesus", who once lived in Egypt and the time of Moses, be the substrate from which all later "historical Jesus stories" and myths were told? "Impossible", you say then I challenge to look at the evidence seriously and you will think different.

When we can find no evidence for a historical Jesus in the first century other than a few clumsy forgeries in Josephus and have to "misinterpret" the references to the Gnostic Christ in the writings of Pliny, Sutonius, and Tacticus in order to try to place a literal and historical "Christos" in the first century, when all their writings mentioned the "Chrestus", the Gnostic Christ, and not the "Christos" (later the historical Christ of Rome), then maybe we should look for existing evidence that could place this "Jesus" in Egypt during the 18th Dynasty. If we know to do so then we finally find our "Historical Jesus" who was slain on the eve of the Passover and hung on a tree like Paul says. Well, first of all, we don't know to look there and second few if any Christians every find out that there is no credible, unforged evidence for a historical Jesus existing in the first century. Now on with this study.

Few know this because today it is normal practice to use Joshua for the hero of Exodus and "Jesus" for the hero of the gospels, which avoids any comparison of the two. In the days of the first century, however, it would have been completely obvious that they shared the same name. In fact if a Gnostic Jew was writing for a Gentile audience then he would have written "Jesus" and not "Joshua" long before the time of the supposed historical Jesus.This is not a coincidence.

Answer for yourself: Could it be remotely possible that the Christian Jesus is a mythic development of the Jesus/Joshua of Exodus? Well that is a very serious question but with our previous study into the importance of "myths" as a vehicle for encoded Divine Truth then let us examine this possibility as best as possible.

- In Hebrew the name Joshua/Jesus is written with the letters *Yod Heh Shin Vah Heh.
- The letters Yod Heh Vah Heh (minus the Shin) is known as the Tetragrammaton and was extremely significant to Jewish Gnostics, as they were used to signify the unpronounceable name of God, usually rendered today with added vowels as either Jehovah or Yahweh.

As Philo explains, when the middle letter Shin, known as the Holy Letter, is added, the name means "Saviour of the Lord".

Answer for yourself: Then does "Joshua" and or "Jesus" mean "Savior of the Lord"? Yes!

The "Christ" is also linked to the Exodus myth. Paul tells us that, as well as Jesus, Moses was also "God's Christ" (Heb. 11:24-27).

Heb 12:24-27 24 And to Jesus the mediator of the new covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel. 25 See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven: 26 Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven. 27 And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain. (KJV)

"Christ", which means "Anointed One", is a Greek rendering of the Hebrew word "Messiah", which was an epithet for a leader, used of Jewish kings. Although today the name "Jesus Christ" is inextricably linked to the Literalist figure of the supposed founder of Christianity, in the first century C.E. the name would have been heard as obviously symbolic, meaning "The Saviour King".

Jewish Gnostics, and Christian Gnostics after them, understood Exodus to be an initiation allegory.

THE ALLEGORY EXPLAINED...COMING OUT OF EGYPT

Egypt represents the physical body in Ancient Wisdom teachings and Ancient Scriptures. When the initiate identifies with only the body and the flesh they are "in captivity". To "come forth out of Egypt" was understood as leaving behind the idea of being merely a body and discovering the Soul. This was the beginning of the Spiritual experience and discovery of God. Hippolytus recounts for us that those who are ignorant...are Egyptians in need of departing Egypt; that is from their body centered existence (Hippolytus, Ref., 5.11). The ignorant Egyptians represent those "without Gnosis", without the knowledge of the Divine Spark within them (the Christ dwelling within). It was this class of people who remain identified with their physical selves and who did not possess the "knowledge/Gnosis"; that they were Divine Sparks of God entrapped in these fleshy and carnal bodies.

CROSSING THE RED SEA..."BAPTISM"...FIRST STAGE

Crossing the Red Sea was understood as symbolizing a purifying baptism, which is the first stage of initiation on the path of spiritual awakening for those who are "conscious". This in Judaism was called being "born again". Explaining that Exodus should be understood "allegorically", Paul writes:

"Our ancestors passed through the Red Sea and so received baptism into the fellowship of Moses" (I Cor. 10:1-6):

1 Cor 10:1-6 1 Moreover, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea; 2 And were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea; 3 And did all eat the same spiritual meat; 4 And did all drink the same spiritual drink: for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them: and that Rock was Christ. 5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness. 6 Now these things were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted. (KJV)

Initiation by baptism begins a process in which initiates must face their doubts and confusion, symbolized by the Jews being afflicted in the desert for 40 years.

THE DEATH OF MOSES...SECOND STAGE

Having come to possess this "knowledge" & "Gnosis" that within their body dwells the Divine Spark or Soul of God then the next stage is experiencing the "death" of the old self which was represented by the death of Moses. Moses is mythically reborn as Joshua/Jesus (Joshua was his successor).

THE PROMISED LAND ACHIEVED...SALVATION...THIRD STAGE

It is through this "new Moses, this Joshua/Jesus, that one completes the journey to the Promised Land, representing the "reborn" initiate who realizes Gnosis. It is only thought this "new man" (Joshua/Jesus) that the goal of salvation can be achieved in the Old Testament for Israel. All of this was understood in a "literal" sense. But that will change with the Gnostic New Testament of Marcion.

The basic structure of the Exodus allegory, representing the fundamental stages of Gnostic initiation, is the framework upon which the Jesus myth was constructed. When you possess the keys to the "Jesus Story" it can be seen on a deeper level to be the birth, life, death, and rebirth of the Soul, of the Divine in us.

PARALLELS TO THE JOSHUA/JESUS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

This same Exodus story is retold through the Gnostic Christ of the New Testament.

BEING BORN AGAIN...BAPTISM...FIRST STAGE

The first stage of initiation into this higher self-awareness of one's self and the "Soul within" is one of cleansing and purification and struggle. In the Exodus myth this is the crossing of the Red Sea, which inaugurates 40 years of wandering in the wilderness. We find the exact same thing inn the Jesus story represented by Jesus" baptism, followed by his 40 days in the wilderness.

DEATH OF THE OLD SELF...THE "OLD MAN"...SECOND STAGE

The next stage in the process of initiation is the "death" of the old self which precipitates Gnosis. This is represented in the Exodus myth by the death of Moses and in the Jesus myth by the death of Jesus on the cross.

Answer for yourself: Does Paul teach this Gnostic Exodus allegory through the New Testament "Christ"? He sure does.

Rom 6:6 6 Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him (Christ), that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin. (KJV)

Eph 4:22-23 22 That ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; 23 And be renewed in the spirit of your mind (to the revelation of Christ-God within you); (KJV)

Col 3:9-10 9 Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; 10 And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him: (KJV)

In Col 3:9-10 Paul appeals to believers who have come to the "Gnosis" of God within them and that they have been created in the image of God, to not fall back into lives typified by sin and fleshly deeds. Live according to the higher knowledge that they have received:

Col 1:27 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

JESUS' RESURRECTION FROM THE DEAD...SALVATION...THIRD STAGE

The experience of Gnosis is represented in Exodus by Joshua-Jesus crossing to the Promised Land. This is the salvation of Israel as depicted in the Old Testament. Its paralleled in the New Testament if found in Jesus' resurrection from the dead and ascension to Heaven.

COMPARING THE STRUCTURE OF THE EXODUS WITH THE JESUS STORY IN THE NEW TESTAMENT...SEEN AS GNOSTIC INITIATION ALLEGORIES

INITIATION PROCESS

- PURIFICATION
 - Old Testament...Exodus' example: Crossing of the Red Sea
 - New Testament...Jesus example: Baptism by John
- DEATH OF THE OLD SELF
 - Old Testament...Exodus example: Death of Moses
 - New Testament...Jesus example: Crucifixion of Jesus
- REALIZATION OF GNOSIS
 - Old Testament...Exodus example: The Promised Land
 - New Testament...Jesus example: Crucifixion and Resurrection

The earliest Christians understood the Exodus allegory as we do not today as contemporary Christians and followers of "the Christ". That being so the original Christians classified people as "the captive, the called and the chosen". These were the Naasene Gnostics as described by Hippolytus, op. cit., 5.1-2 ff. Hippolytus relates to us of three churches of the Gnostics, the angelis, the psychic and the earthly, and their names are the chosen, the called and the captive. These terms clearly derive from the myth of the Exodus. Those yet to undergo initiation and still trapped in the idea of being a physical body are like the Jews captive in Egypt. Those who have heard the call to awaken and begun the spiritual journey by being initiated into the Outer Mysteries of Christianity are like those Jews who were "called out of Egypt" to begin the journey to their true home. Those who have undergone the process of purification and spiritual struggle necessary to prepare themselves for Gnosis and been chosen to be initiated into the secret Inner Mysteries of Christianity are like those "chosen people" whom Joshua-Jesus leads across the river Jordan to the Promised Land. Clement regarded those Christians who have yet to reach Gnosis as being of three different types, defined by their relationship to God, as the slave, the faithful slave and the friend (Clement, Strom., 3). Initiates who finally realized Gnosis were known as "those who have crossed over" (Mead, Fragments of a Faith Forgotten, 1906, p. 186).

Early Christians were well aware of the parallels between their Jesus Christ and the Jesus Christ of Exodus. Justin Martyr, for example, explains that the Christian Jesus will lead his people to the Promised Land just as the Jesus of Exodus led his people to the Promised Land (Justin Martyr, Dialogue with Typho, chap. 113). Justin entitled this chapter "Joshua was a figure of Christ." Justin referred to the Old Testament Joshua 38 times in an effort to convince the Jew Typho that the Hebrew Scriptures are full of references to Jesus. Justin traces the motif of the cross to Exodus, where Moses holds up a serpent on a cross and says, "If you look at this image and believe, you shall be saved by it" (Num. 21:8). In this Justin claims that Plato borrowed his idea of the "Son of God" crucified in the cosmos (Timaeus, 34) from Moses. This source is made explicit in The Gospel of John, where Jesus is made to announce:

"The Son of Man must be lifted up as the serpent was lifted up by Moses in the wilderness." (John 3:14)

Other, more incidental, mythic motifs found in the Jesus myth also come from Exodus. Once he has crossed the river Jordan, the Jesus of Exodus selects 12 men to represent the 12 tribes of Israel. After his baptism in the river Jordan, the Jesus of the gospels likewise selects 12 men as his immediate followers (John 3:13).

Answer for yourself: What is the origin for these references to the number "12"?

Both motifs refer to the 12 astrological signs of the zodiac." After the crossing of the Jordan Joshua-Jesus orders that 12 stones be set up, one for each of the 12 tribes, at a place called Gilgal.

Answer for yourself: What are we missing? The Hebrew word for Gilgal means "wheel" or "circle". This is an illusion to the Zodiac once again. In the later "Jesus Myth" Gilgal was interpreted as the zodiac and the Jordan as the Milky Way. Important to note is that Attis was born by a river which symbolized "the Galaxy, or the milky circle, from which a passive body descends to the Earth" (Sallust, On The Gods and the World, 4). In mystical Judaism reincarnation is still called "Gilgul". Jesus' appearance in Galilee (which comes from the same root word) where he selects the 12 disciples, echoes those early exploits of the Old Testament Joshua-Jesus (A. Drews, The Christ Myth, 1968, p.240). Such a reference is not surprising. The Jews had adopted astrology from both Egypt and later with the Babylonians whilst in exile in Babylon, eventually becoming renowned throughout the ancient world as astrologers. They even claimed that the Jewish Patriarch Abraham had been the inventor of this ancient science.

In the myth of Moses, at his birth the evil Pharaoh, fearful of a prophesy that Moses would be the cause of his downfall, commits mass infanticide in an attempt to kill him, In the gospel myth of Jesus this becomes the "slaughter of the innocents" perpetrated by the evil King Herod who, fearful of a prophesy that the true King of the Jews has been born, attempts to kill the infant Jesus (Matt. 2:2-16). Kronos devours all his children of Rhea because of a prophesy that he would be overthrown by one of them. Rhea is smuggled away to a secret cave where she gives birth to Zeus, who later supplants his father.

Answer for yourself: Sound familiar?

Mary the sister of Moses becomes Jesus' mother Mary, a correspondence pointed out in many Christian texts, as well as in the Muslim Qur'an.

Like the Jews in Exodus, in the gospel story Jesus is called out of Egypt, where he has been in hiding, like the Soul lying hidden within the fleshly body. The Gospel of Matthew explains that this is to fulfil the prophesy

"Out of Egypt I have called my Son" (Matt. 2:15). Here, as elsewhere in the gospels, we should read "fulfill the prophesy" as a coded reference to the source of the symbolic motif and its intended allegorical meaning. This is prophesy in retrospect.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that almost all the Messianic prophecies in the New Testament were written and intended to be taken "allegorically" and not "literally"? Read that again!

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the translation of the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures was altered for this purpose by the Therapeutae-Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt? This was done to spread the "allegorical" understanding of "the Christ" as Joshua-Jesus to the Greek speaking world. This translation of the Hebrew Scriptures took great license with the Hebrew Scriptures and we end up with a Greek translation that was intended to be taken "allegorically" at best but sadly has been taken "literally" by the world today. By these translators, the expected human Jewish Messiah was, as shown in prior articles, blended with Mystery Religions and Gnosticism in presenting the Jewish Messiah as a dying - resurrecting Godman which was NEVER to be interpreted "LITERALLY" in the first place. This brings us to the forgery of Marcion's and the first New Testament by Rome where they took the Gnostic "allegorical" Christ-Concept and put flesh on him in the late second century by adding to Marcion's Gnostic First New Testament the genealogies, infancy narratives, and anti-Gnostic writings to which they placed Paul's name like the Pastoral epistles!!!

Piecing together previously existing mythological material in a new way was a traditional Jewish technique known as midrash. It has long been known to scholars, for example, that the entire passion narrative in the gospels has been created from motifs taken from Psalms 22, 23, 38 and 39 and from the depiction of the "suffering servant" in The Book of Isaiah (E. Doherty, The Gospels as Midrash and Symbolism, 1999, 225 ff.).

The Essenes taught that in ancient times the Jesus of Exodus had hidden secret teachings, so only those who were worthy could discover them at the appropriate time (The Essene Damascus Document, 5:2-4). These Essenes developed a contemporary mythic Christ figure called the "Teacher of Righteousness", whom they identified with the Jesus of Exodus (S. A. Hoeller, Jung and the Lost Gospels: Insights into the Dead Sea Scrolls and the Nag Hammadi Library, 1989, p. 50). This figure eventually became the Jesus of the gospels, a mythical reincarnation of the great hero of the most important of all the Jewish Gnostic myths. The secret teachings hidden by Jesus the Christ of Exodus are finally made public by the reworked figure of Jesus the Christ in the gospels. This is the "secret not revealed in former times" but "now disclosed" of which Paul writes in his letters.

Eph 3:3-6 3 How that by revelation he made known unto me the mystery; (as I wrote afore in few words, 4 Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ) 5 Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit; 6 That the Gentiles should be fellowheirs, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ by the gospel: (KJV)

CONCLUSION

As you are beginning to see "the Christ" written of by Paul in his authentic and earliest epistles was not a human Christ in the form of a human Jesus. Rather "the Christ" was the embodiment of the Divine come to tabernacle within mankind and bridge the gap from the Spirit realm to the realm of physical existence. This Logos and "the Christ" was an intermediary in non-human form that connects mankind to God (Energy/Spirit to matter). Coming to the understanding of the self-knowledge that God dwells within you was explained to initiates who were coming to this understanding through an allegory based upon the Exodus of history. The "literal" history of Israel was expressed as an "allegory" and applied to a higher salvation experience in those coming to the knowledge of God in centuries before and after the first century. The old man of fleshly lusts was dying when coming to this "Gnosis" and being resurrected as a "new man" with a new spiritual revelation of God within and the purpose for one's existence above a life of sin.Through the "myth" of the dying-resurrecting Godman, which was at this time ONLY UNDERSTOOD ALLEGORICALLY, one was to identify with the "pattern" of salvation in the Old Testament as lived out in his own personal life.

This plan of salvation was, for the earliest Chrestians (Christians), coming to the understanding that through baptism (being born again), repentance (death of self and flesh) and resurrection (living with a new awareness and surrender to the will of God and His Christ within them) one was one achieving the New Testament salvation.

That is until Rome will later come along and take this allegorical New Testament of Marcion that expressed the above Spiritual beliefs and change it almost beyond recognition with their "literalized" and "carnalized" Christ. It was God in Christ within mankind and that is it. The Jews still looked and prayed and hoped for one to come in the power and Spirit of David but this "Christ" within all mankind was not it. The whole narrative of the baptism, crucifixion, and resurrection of "the Christ" in the First New Testament was only intended to be a parallel and allegory of what "physically" happened to Israel in the Old Testament. The principles in this story were "allegorized" by the earliest Christian Gnostics and Essenes-Therapeutae and applied to the awakening of the Spirit within mankind and the liberation from darkness into the light of God. Later Rome will come and reinterpret "the Christ" as if a "literal" incarnation of God within a human as was thought of their Roman Emperors. This "literalized" godman, in the form of the Roman historical Jesus, only gave sanction to the Emperor who was a self-declared "literal God". In so doing they will in time though first oral reinterpretation and teaching and later through forgery of Marcion's First New Testament and invention of other documents espousing their theological views distort beyond recognition the earliest understanding of "the Christ" as had been held by the earliest Gentile and Jewish Gnostic Christians. With the purge of Gnostic materials and the subsequent burning of the world's libraries over the next two or more centuries the censorship of Rome was complete. The knowledge of "the Christ", that was to be understood only "allegorically" and which had been since Egypt, was now lost to mankind; that is until the discovery of the Nag Hammadi library some fifty years ago. Throughout the last two hundred years sporadic voices were heard faintly as to this truth but today with the aid of archeology and the proliferation once again of this knowledge we can learn of this deception and restore the truth concerning God's Christ. No longer must we be enslaved to a "literal" interpretation of "the Christ" as the Joshua-Jesus of the New Testament and be overtaken by idolatry and false worship since accepting these "literal" views of supposed historical Jesus Christ instead of the indwelling Christ within the whole of humanity as the Divine Mind of the Creator. Man is gestating a divinity within himself whereby this Creator has implanted Himself within us in order that He manifest Himself in and through each of His children. You are divine.

DO WE FIND CHRISTIAN CENSORSHIP IN JOSEPHUS?

There is some debate among scholars over the authenticity of certain paragraphs in Jospehus' Antiquites of the Jews that reference Jesus:

- Most scholars believe that the majority of the paragraph is authentic, with a few crucial sentences inserted later by Christian scribes.
- Some scholars think that the entire paragraph is a later Christian insertion.
- A few scholars believe that the entire passage is indeed authentic, and that Josephus himself wrote it down in the form seen here, without later revision.

"Jewish Antiquities" was published in Rome in 93 A.D., but the original manuscripts have been lost. The earliest surviving copies of "Jewish Antiquities" all contain the disputed passage containing the "Jesus" reference otherwise known as Testimonium Flavianum. There are two quotes that mention Jesus in Josephus' Antiquities: A smaller and a larger one. There is another shorter reference to Jesus in 20.9.1 Testimonium Flavianum is quoted by Esusebius in his History Of The Church in about 324 C.E.

Any revision to the works of Josephus would have had to occur between 93 and 324 A.D.

Answer for yourself: What is the truth of the matter? Have the works of Josphus been worked over by later Christians and "Jesusized"? Let us investigate for ourselves these three above scholary stances.

Answer for yourself: When do we find the first historical reference to Testimonium Flavianum and the supposed attestation from Josephus that Jesus was the Messiah?

Eusebius was the earlist commentator to quote the Testimonium Flavianum in 340 C.E. There are many problems that surround Eusebius. These problems include the allegation (although false) that Eusebius said that pious fraud is acceptable, and that he invented much of his historical evidence such as the Bishop's lists. This in itself is proof enough for most skeptics who reject the Testimonium Flavianum that Eusebius made it up. This is quite possible but in my opinion not probably. Since the eariliest quotation of it comes from Eusebius, some skeptics make an argument that this is proof enough that he invented the Testimonium Flavianum. Yet it is crucial to note that we have other readings that have the same core information about Jesus but lack the same emminadations as we will see below. This proves, in my opinion, that Eusbius didn't make up the core information about Jesus. It also proves that previous readings existed which lacked the emmindations but which did not lack the mention of Jesus. That builds the probability that Jospehus really did mention Jesus. That probality is very high.

Answer for yourself: But which of the references in Antiquities are authentic and which ones, if any, were elaborated upon to bolster, enhance, and propagate later Christian theology as attached to Jesus in the selling of Jesus as Messiah to the Gentile world?

Regardless of Eusbeius truthfulness in recounting Josephus in his writings Christians and non-Christians alike realize that this passage is important. Indeed, it is the earliest reference to Jesus outside the New Testament. If what Josephus has said here is true, if Jesus was the Messiah and if he rose from the dead, it makes a big difference in our lives today! The reverse can be said as well. No other passage in the works of Josephus has provoked as much debate as this one.

Flavius Josephus was the Roman name of Joseph ben Matthias. Josephus, during the second half of the first century AD, produced two long and detailed histories of the Jews and the events leading to the Roman victory in the Jewish Wars, History of the Jewish War and Antiquities of the Jews, but has almost nothing to say about Jesus and many scholars believe that these short referenes to Jesus are probably added by Christians later when Rome and Christianity took over the editing of religious books after Rome adopted Christianity as the state religion after Constantine.

Answer for yourself: Is there any possible way that we can come to any reliable answers concerning the possible forgery of the works of Josephus by Rome where the name of Jesus was possible added by Christian redactors later in history? I believe that there is but it will require some diligent and throughful study on our parts. Are you ready?

PRELIMINARY BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Josephus was born in Jerusalem only a few years after the crucifixion of Jesus.

Answer for yourself: What should this fact teach us?

First of all we should remember the Messianic milleau into which Josephus was born and the tumultious events that befell the citizens of Jerusalem during this time and leading up to the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 C.E. It is not streatching the point to say that there existed in Israel a Messianic hysteria during and up to the eventual destruction of the Temple and without a doubt Josephus would have grown up knowing quite well the Messianic hope of Israel and the many Messianic pretenders to which people attached their failed hopes. To think for a moment that Josephus would not have very familiar with the events surrounding the live of Jesus let alone his death and crucifixion at the hands of Rome for sedition against the Roman state defies imagination. So let it be said that as Josephus would later write in his works concerning these failed "messiahs" and that Jesus and the events surrounding his life would have been quite well known by him. This is all the more problematic when we will see later the length to which Josephus goes in detailing the events of these "messianic pretenders" but only gives two short snipits to the vents surrounding Jesus and his messianic bid in Israel.

Josephus's writings shows the readers his interest in the Jewish religious groups of the time. He tells us about the Jewish religious parties, about John the Baptist who Christians say was the herald of the Messiah and about Jesus's brother, James, whose death he says was a reason for the start of the War in 66 AD. But he tells us nothing about the crucifixion of Jesus or how it occurred. It should give you cause to think that a man who was almost contemporaneous with Jesus and his failed messianic bid in Israel and whose reputation was built on detailed histories of the Jewish people fails to mention Jesus as Israel's hoped-for Messiah except in two very brief passages. This gives us our first pause to think if these two references to Jesus in the works of Josephus are genuine. This fact alone is not enought to prove that the references in to Jesus in the works of Josephus are forgeries by later Christian monks and redactors but let it not be forgotten as we progress in our study facts like this because when we are done we will see a much clearer picture that will lead us, in my opinion, to make a sound judgment and conclusion as to the veracity and reliability of these Jesus accounts in Josephus writings.

The precocious Josephus had studied all the Jewish religious sects before the age of 19 when he decided to become a Pharisee. He became a clerk to the Sanhedrin and at 26 went as an envoy to Rome to plead for some priests sent to Nero by Procurator Felix for trial. With the help of Poppaea, the Empress, who was possibly a Jewish proselyte or at least a godfearer, he succeeded. He was thus in Rome at much the same time as Paul, the Apostle to the gentiles.

Back in Jerusalem in 64 AD, revolt was simmering. Josephus was patriotic enough but had seen the power and extent of the Empire and knew that rebellion was futile. When the war broke out Josephus was made a general by the Sanhedrin and fought in Galilee with John of Gischala, the Zealot leader of the Galilaeans. Vespasian captured him after the town of Jotapata had been sieged for 47 days and decided to use him as an interpreter. Josephus got on well with Vespasian, predicting that he would become Emperor, which he did. Vespasian asked Josephus to write an account of the Jewish War for his campaign Triumph, a Roman victory parade. It was to be a warning to the people of the East not to try to defy Roman might.

Josephus wrote a draft in his native Aramaic which he called On the Capture of Jerusalem. This he polished into his book, the Jewish War. To gather his material, as the appointed historian of the Emperor, he was granted access to official archives, to the Reports of Roman Governors, the campaign diaries of Vespasian and Titus, the Emperor's commentaries and he also corresponded with Agrippa I, for a short while King of Judaea before the war. His work had the ultimate stamp of approval - that of the Emperors themselves.

When Josephus uses official sources it is usually evident. He often tells us who filed the report from which he is quoting and transcribes it verbatim with little effort to paraphrase. Thus even non-signalled passages from official sources can be identified by their style. When writing from experience he is more informal, sounds less official and is less impersonal in the information he imparts.

Our present versions of the Jewish War fails to mention Jesus, John the Baptist or Menehem, who revolted in 66 AD, but they do tell us of Judas of Galilee and Theudas, both messianic nationalist leaders who failed in their messianic hopes.

- From Josephus it appears that in the first century before the destruction of the Temple a number of messiahs arose promising relief from the Roman yoke, and finding ready followers. Josephus speaks of them thus: "Another body of wicked men also sprung up, cleaner in their hands, but more wicked in their intentions, who destroyed the peace of the city no less than did these murderers [the Sicarii]. For they were deceivers and deluders of the people, and, under pretense of divine illumination, were for innovations and changes, and prevailed on the multitude to act like madmen, and went before them in the wilderness, pretending that God would there show them signs of liberty" (Josephus, "B. J." ii. 13, §; 4; idem, "Ant." xx. 8, §; 6). Matt. 24:24, warning against "false Christs and false prophets," gives testimony to the same effect.
- Judah the Galilean, about 10 B.C.E., is known to us from Josephus, who identifies him as Pharisaical in overall orientation, but with a strong emphasis on allegiance to G-d alone. He claimed it was shameful to pay tribute to Romans, and founded the movement known as the Zealots to oppose Roman domination. Josephus notes with admiration their determination and bravery, which indeed is legendary, yet it is evident from history that they did not usher in the Messianic age. [Jos., Ant. 18:23].
- Theudas led a group of people to the Jordan River, claiming that he would miraculously part the waters before them. According to Acts 5:36 (which seems to refer to a different date), he secured about 400 followers. Cuspius Fadus sent a troop of horsemen after him and his band, slew many of them, and took captive others, together with their leader, beheading the latter [Jos. Ant. 20-97ff]. A religious impostor of this name is also mentioned in the New Testament as an example of cult leaders who come and go. [Acts 5:35-39].
- Josephus also mentions a Jew from Egypt who led 30,000 men to the Mount of Olives, opposite Jerusalem, with the intent of forcibly taking Jerusalem from the Romans. He promised that at his command the walls of Jerusalem would fall down, and that he and his followers would enter and possess themselves of the city. But Felix, the procurator (c. 55-60), met the throng with his soldiery. The prophet escaped, but those with him were killed or captured, and the multitude dispersed. He was intercepted by the forces of the Roman procurator, and Josephus reports that the Egyptian fled, leaving many of his unfortunate followers to be killed in battle. [Jos. Wars, 2:261ff]. [Acts 5:35-39].
- Another messiah, Josephus reports, promised the people "deliverance and freedom from their miseries" if they would follow him to the wilderness. Both leader and followers were killed by the troops of Festus, the procurator. Even when Jerusalem was already being destroyed by the Romans, a prophet, according to Josephus suborned by the defenders to keep the people from deserting, announced that God commanded them to come to the Temple, there to receive miraculous signs of their deliverance. Those who came met death in the flames.

He records that the Jews merely protested when the Romans erected a statue of Caligula in the Temple, an act grossly contemptuous of the Jewish religion. This is a curiously subdued response for the fanatically religious Jews. In their outrage, history suggests they must surely have rioted, if not revolted. Also strange is the omission of the fire in Rome in 64 AD which Nero attributed to the Christians. Such passages smack of censorship because Josephus usually fastidiously records the smallest detail of events relevant to his subject. It looks as though a whole chapter might have been erased by Christian censors because it depicted Jesus and his followers as fomenters of rebellion. Some manuscripts of the Jewish War contain a passage on Jesus extracted from Josephus's companion volume, the Antiquities of the Jews, proving that someone has tampered with the original text, presumably in an attempt to fill the obvious gap left by the initial excision.

The inserted passage is favourable towards Jesus even though he was viewed, rightly or wrongly, by the Roman hierarchy as a terrorist. Josephus would have been taking an unlikely risk by making such an assessment. Remember he was a captive who had been adopted by Vespasian and given certain privileges in return for certain duties - privileges which could easily have been withdrawn. Domitian, who was Emperor when the Antiquities of the Jews was published, could have been no lover of Jesus or his followers. He even ordered all descendants of King David to be rounded up for questioning in an attempt to detect potential rebels and he banished two members of his own family for wanting to be Christians.

THE JESUS REFERENCES IN JOSEPHUS

In versions of the Antiquities of the Jews by Josephus, edited by Christians, are two passages describing Jesus. Neither is in the Jewish version of the Josephus's Antiquities. The longer passage, the so called Testimonium Flavianum, is cited by Christians as independent confirmation of Jesus' existence and resurrection.

Testimonium Flavianum is the only direct discussion of Jesus to be found in the writings of Josephus. Unfortunately, the text as we have it in extant copies of Josephus' Antiquities, as attested to by many scholars, appears to have been dramatically re-written from a Christian point of view. We need to take pause again to remember that the writings of Josephus were brought down to us from antiquity not by the Jewish community, but by the Christians.

Lets read Testimonium Flavianum. Josephus, Antiquities 18.63, probably in a Christian redaction Tr. I. H. Feldman, Loeb Classical Library, vol. 9, pp. 49ff.

About this time there lived Jesus, a wise man if indeed one ought to call him a man. For he was one who wrought surprising feats and was a teacher of such people as accept the truth gladly. He won over many Jews and many of the Greeks. He was the Messiah. When Pilate, upon hearing him accused by men of the highest standing among us, had condemned him to be crucified, those who had in the first place come to love him did not cease. On the third day he appeared to them restored to life. For the prophets of God had prophesied these and myriads of other marvellous things about him. And the tribe of the Christians, so called after him, has still up to now, not disappeared.

We have only three Greek manuscripts of this section of Josephus, all from the 11th century.

Answer for yourself: Besides the Jewish copy of Jospehus that lacks these Jesus references are there other copies of Josephes writings and are in existance today; possibly even earlier than these 11th century copies of Josephus Testimonium Flavianum that read somewhat different? Yes there is.

There also exists a copy of this disputed passage in Arabic. Not surprisingly the Arabic quotation of the Josephus passage has a much less Christian flavor. Some scholars have argued that the Arabic version has a more likely claim to originality.

Arabic summary, presumably of Antiquities 18.63. From Agapios' Kitab al-'Unwan ("Book of the Title," 10th c.). The translation belongs to Shlomo Pines. One finds the same reference in James H. Charlesworth, Jesus Within Judaism.

It reads:

Similarly Josephus the Hebrew. For he says in the treatises that he has written on the governance of the Jews: At this time there was a wise man who was called Jesus. And his conduct was good, and he was known to be virtuous. And many people from among the Jews and the other nations became his disciples. Pilate condemned him to be crucified and to die. And those who had become his disciples did not abandon his discipleship. They reported that he had appeared to themafter his crucifixion and that he was alive; accordingly, he was perhaps the Messiah concerning whom the prophets have recounted wonders.

Answer for yourself: What do we see when we closely compare these two references; one in Greek and one in Arabic?

As intimated earlier scholars today suggest quite stronlgy that in existing copies of Josephus' Antiquities the reference to Jesus appears to have been dramatically re-written from a Christian point of view. This becomes all the more clearer when we remember that the writings of Josephus were brought down to us from antiquity not by the Jewish community, but by the Christians.

Scholars, in comparing the Arabic with the Greek Testimonium Flavianum say:

- The Arabic quotation of the Josephus passage has a much less Christian flavor (says "believed" to be Messiah instead of "was" the Messiah).
- The Arabic version has a more likely claim to originality; althought itself not exenmpt from possible editing.
- Although editing is highly probable, it should be noted that even the Arabic version is a good deal kinder to Jesus than Josephus usually is to messianic claimants.
- Scolars mention that it is harder to see why the Christian scribe would feel so compelled to change it. It is possible that the original may have been much more insulting, in keeping with Josephus' normal pattern as seen above in his discussion of other failed messianic deliverers, and that the Greek and Arabic versions are simply two different recensions of a Christian rewrite.

Making note of the above we need to look closely at the last sentence in the Arabic version as it is also problematic for us. Some scholars suggest that the last sentence (accordingly ...wonders) is little more than a pious expansion and if removed then we are left with a non-committal report on the martyrdom of a pious Jew at the hands of Rome. This would not be at all inconsistent with Josephus' style, particularly if he discounted as later followers' embellishments the claims made by Christians that Jesus was the Messiah (which he did). Josephus was not a belever in any Messiah let alone Jesus as the messiah. This last suggestion is to some extent crippled by the less controversial reference to James and Jesus that we find in Antiquities 20 if it is genuine.

JESUS AND THE JAMES PASSAGE IN ANTIQUITIES 20.9.1

The only usually undisputed allusion to Jesus in Josephus is actually only a passing reference in the context of the trial of James.

Let us read this now from Josephus, Antiquities 20.9.1

Since Ananus was that kind of person, and because he perceived an opportunity with Festus having died and Albinus not yet arrived, he called a meeting of the Sanhedrin and brought James, the brother of Jesus (who is called 'Messiah') along with some others. He accused them of transgressing the law, and handed them over for stoning.

James is identified, not as James son of ???? as one would normally expect in typical Jewish speech and writings but as brother of Jesus. This departure from usual Jewish writings (son of so an so) and typical Jewish speech when referencing names of jewish people betrays the thought process of the later Gentile Christians and not Jews; again betraying that we are reading something that Josephus most likely did not write. While this James reference in Antiquities 20 has a greater chance to be authentic than the one above in Antiquities 18, it is not without problems.

Origen, one of the most distinguished of the Fathers of the early Church, was born, probably at Alexandria, about 182; and died at Caesarea not later than 251. In all of Origen's writings and quotes of others Origen knows and cites this passage from Antiquities 20 (the James reference) but does not reference the much in question Antquities 18 reference to Jesus (Testimonium Flavianum) above. This indicates strongly that Origen was unaware of the existence of the Jesus reference in Antiquities 18 in his day. Yet to be fair Origen's reference to the James passage (Antiquities 20) provides some evidence for its presence in Josephus's Antiquities before the launching full time of the Christian forgery mill of Rome. So we find in and around 200-250 C.E. that there is a reference most likely to James as the brother of Jesus, the possible Messiah, but most likely there did not exist as of yet the reference to Jesus in what would later become known as Testimonium Flavianum.

Answer for yourself: If we can assume that Antiquites 20 might be somewhat authentic or at least much more so than Antiquities 18 then what was Josephus actually saying about Jesus in this James passage?

JOSEPHUS AND HIS USE OF THE TERM "MESSIAH":

Now we come to a problem that few see. We are so conditioned to read our received religious beliefs and concepts into what we read that often we fail to understand correctly what we do read.

The term "Messiah" comes from the Hebrew word "moshiach", meaning "anointed". In its Jewish context it refers to the new leader (moshiach) who will rebuild the land of Israel and restore the Davidic Kingdom. It a non-Jewish context the word has come to mean a reference to Jesus Christ as the would-be Messiah and Christianity often uses the words Messiah and Christ synonymously. In all thirty-nine instances of its occurring in the Old Testament, it is rendered by the Septuagint as christos. The New Testament records the Greek form "messias" only twice. According to the Old Testament in the Hebrew Scriptures it referred to priests, prophets, and kings who were anointed with oil, and so consecrated to their respective offices. The moshiach is anointed "above all his fellows" (Psalms 45:7), and therefore embraces himself in all the three offices. According to Jews, the Hebrew Bible contains a small number of prophecies concerning a future descendant of King David, who will be annointed as the Jewish people's new leader (moshiach). This leader will rebuild the land of Israel and restore the Davidic Kingdom. The Jewish concept of moshiach (the messiah) has little, if anything, in common with the Christian concept of Jesus Christ as messiah.

To anyone who has ever investigated the subject of Josephus and his views on the Jewish Messiah it is an understatement to say that Josephus was not a fan of these "would-be" anointeds of God; least of which would be Jesus whom he would have considered, like most Jews in that time period, a failed messiah at best since the expected Hebrew prophecies given by the prophets and holy men of old were not fulfilled during or following the life of Jesus of Nazareth. Nor in the lives of anyother (Judah the Galilean, Theudas, the "Jew from Egypt, etc.). In fact in many instances the opposite occured as Jewish history attests.

I want to draw your attention to both these quotes that mention the "Messiah'; the one in Greek and the one in Aramaic. If you noticed both the Greek verision and the Arabic version mention this "anointed one" and refer to him as Messiah with a "capital M." If you know anything about Hebrew these terms for all the anoineds of God in the Tanakh were small letters and not capitals. But when we come to the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures we find that in one chapter, Daniel chapter 9, the word is translated into the Greek with a capital "M" as in "Messiah" when all the other references were translated as "anoined" with a small initial letter. Only here is the writer carrying an intended meaning with a capital "M" as in "the Messiah. That alone would not be a problem had it not been that there are two different "anointed ones" mentioned in Daniel 9 separated by hundreds of years. So we find that the capitalization of "M" designates this "anointed one" from all others anointeds mentioned in the Jewish Scripures as the eschatological messiah of messiah.

Answer for yourself: What are we to make of such a change in the Hebrew Scriptures let alone later references to this change as we find in the Greek Josephus account and the Arabic account?

This change in "messiah" to "Messiah" with a capital "M" is a theological designation from the hands of hellenized Essenes or pseudo-Christians redactors not only in the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures but also in the accounts before us of Josephus' works (Greek and Arabic) where these concepts were most likely added as alterations of existing Josephus' texts. Josephus, not only not a believer in Jesus as the Jewish "messiah," surely did not carry any christological ideas concering the expected Jewish "messiah" as Christianity would later impose as reflected by the use of a capital "M" for the term "messiah." We find proof here of alterations of the works of Josephus based upon theological necessity.

On the other hand, Origen's version contains the unlikely addition in which Josephus also says that it is as punishment for the execution of James that Jerusalem and the temple are destroyed. The possibility suggests itself that even Origen's Josephus has undergone Christian reworking, simply of a different variety, in which, perhaps, the insulting Testimonium has been expunged, and James has been introduced as a pious Jewish hero.

So now let us focus on the Josephus account and let us highlight the suspected additions and alterations imposed upon the text.

Now there was about this time Jesus, a wise man IF IT BE LAWFUL TO CALL HIM A MAN, for he was a doer of wonders, A TEACHER OF SUCH MEN AS RECEIVE THE TRUTH WITH PLEASURE. He drew many after him BOTH OF THE JEWS AND THE GENTILES. HE WAS THE CHRIST. When Pilate, at the suggestion of the principal men among us, had condemned him to the cross, those that loved him at the first did not forsake him, FOR HE APPEARED TO THEM ALIVE AGAIN THE THIRD DAY, AS THE DIVINE PROPHETS HAD FORETOLD THESE AND THEN THOUSAND OTHER WONDERFUL THINGS ABOUT HIM, and the tribe of Christians, so named from him, are not extinct at this day (Antiquities 18:63-64)

Above we saw the Testimonium Flavianum where all the words in ALL CAPS are likely interpolations added by Christian copyists over the centuries in an attempt to make Josephus support faith in Jesus as the Christ. We have only three Greek manuscripts of this section of Josephus, all from the 11th century. These phrases, added rather clumsily, appear to be rather obvious additions even to the modern reader in English. Indeed, it is the earliest reference to Jesus outside the New Testament. It is worth noting that in his earlier work, The Jewish War, written shortly after the revolt under the auspices of the Emperor Vespasian, he mentioned neither Jesus, nor John the Baptist, nor James, while in Antiquities, written in the early 90s C.E., he mentions all three.

Though this passage was quoted by Eusebius writing in about 320-340 C.E., earlier Christian writers make no reference to Josephus's commendation of Jesus even when it would have suited them, as they must surely have done had it existed.

Indeed Origen, writing in about 250 AD, puzzled:

Though he [Josephus] did not admit our Jesus to be the Christ he none the less gave witness to so much righteousness in James.

Elsewhere Origen added:

although [Josephus] disbelieved in Jesus as Christ, contradicting the extant text.

Answer for yourself: In light of the fact that we have seen that Josephus was not a positive devotee to "would-be" messiah, then do you not find it strange that Origen would mention that Josephus was not a believer in Jesus as "Messiah" yet we find supposedly from Josephus' pen positive references to Jesus as "the" Messiah; especially in the Greek and to a lesser extent in the Arabic version?

Let us take a second to refocus. Origen, in 250 C.E., makes mention that Josephus spoke positively of James but definately was not a believer in Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. Yet we find some 70-90 years later this same passage from the pen of Eusebius, known as one of the biggest Chritian liars ever, that the passages in question from Josephus are flowing with nicities and accolades toward Jesus as the Messiah of Israel.

Answer for yourself: How can this be? Simply said Christian forgery accomplishes the task quite well.

The conclusion that any thinking beliver would have to make is that theological changes to Josephus had already taken place by 320 C.E. in the now famed Roman Forgery Mill.

Plainly Origen's EARLIER version of Josephus's works did NOT have the passage to which we are referring, but by 340 C.E. the version used by Eusebius did.

Jerome's Latin version has the insertion but it is less assertive, rendering He was the Messiah by He was believed to be the Messiah. It shows that the text of Josephus has been altered. St. Jerome quoted from the Testimonium Flavianum as saying "he was believed to be the Messiah," rather than "he was the Messiah." This has led many scholars to believe that Jerome knew of another, perhaps older version of the Testimonium Flavianum that read differently and lacked the "tweeked" parts of the passage.

Answer for yourself: Did you see any similarity between the Arabic copy of *Testimonium Flavianum*Testimonium and the Jerome's quote of it from Josephus? You should have seen that they both agreed in saying that Jesus was "believed" to be the Messiah instead of "was" the Messiah as the passage read after alterations by Christians monks and redactors.

In the second major twentieth century controversy over the authenticity of the Testimonium Flavianum, the erudite Near Eastern studies scholar, Shlomo Pines, tried to argue that the paraphrase of the Testimonium that appears in a Christian Arabic chronicle dating from the tenth century might be more authentic than the textus receptus Testimonium. Reaction to Pines' thesis was mixed, but the most important piece of evidence that Pines' scholarship on Christian Semitic sources brought to light was not the Arabic paraphrase of the Testimonium that he proposed was more authentic than the textus receptus, but the literal Syriac translation of the Testimonium that is quoted in a twelfth century chronicle compiled by the Syrian Patriarch of Antioch (1166-1199). It is this version of the Testimonium, not the Arabic paraphrase of it, that has the greatest likelihood of being, at least in some ways, more authentic than the textus receptus Testimonium because, as noted earlier, this version of the text agrees with Jerome's Latin version of the text in the same crucial regard. The medieval Syriac Testimonium that Pines uncovered is very strong evidence for what many scholars had argued since birth of the controversy over the text in the Renaissance, namely that Jerome did not alter the Testimonium Flavianum to read "he was believed to be the Christ" but rather that he in fact knew the original version of the Testimonium, which he probably found in Eusebius' Historia Ecclesiastica , which read "he was believed to be the Christ" rather than "he was the Christ."

Answer for yourself: Who would or could have altered it; Jews or Christians? Only the Christians out of theological necessity.

The passage is too pro-Christian. Josephus, a Jew in the pay of the Roman Emperor and at his mercy as a captive, could not possibly praise a man killed—as far as the Romans knew—as a rebel and a threat to Rome. Only a Christian could write this.

Answer for yourself: So, what do we find? Not only that the passage was most likely altered and forged but, that later Christians are writing backwards their "theology" and imposing it upon Josephus by declarin through such forgeries that Josephus was a secret Christian in spite of the witness of Jospehus'other writings and Origen's testimony that he was a disbeliever in Jesus as Messiah.

The passage sounds very much like Josephus in style. If it is a bald insertion it has been written in a style compatible with Josephus's, but it could be a skilful redaction of a genuine passage. Phrases such as "tribe of Christians" and "wise man" which are typical of Josephus are possibly relics of the original. Christian editors who Christianised the text might have cleverly retained these phrases to keep the flavour of Josephus.

However, because the passage was evidently totally absent in early editions since otherwise it would have been quoted even in an attenuated form, we can conclude that originally Jesus was not mentioned, or, more likely, the reference was too defamatory for Christian bishops to quote owing to Josephus' disdain for Israel's failed messiah and messianic movements!

The Jesus reference as "Messiah" must have been added to Antiquities some time between Origen and Eusebius, when Christians got the power to edit books. After the Christians became supreme in the reign of Constantine they planted evidence on Josephus, turning the leading Jewish historian of his day into a witness for Jesus as Christ. Christian redactors found unsuitable references to Jesus or none at all and interpolated brief but suitable references based purely on Christian belief.

So, many Biblical scholars reject the entire Testimonium Flavianum as a Christian insertion. Josephus's work will have referred to Jesus but unfavourably.

Answer for yourself: But what of the other reference to Jesus in Josephus?

Antiquities, does mention both John the Baptist and James, the brother of Jesus as we saw above in Antiquities (20.9.1):

So he [Ananus, son of Ananus the high priest] assembled the sanhedrin of judges, and brought before him the brother of Jesus, he who was called Christ, whose name was James, and some others (or some of his companions) and when he had formed an accusation against them, he delivered them to be stoned.

Many scholars think this too is forged as addressed above. If not it confirms that a previous mention had been made of Jesus. An unfavourable reference to Jesus in the original version by Josephus due to his feelings about failed "messianic hopes" must have been excised to render it publishable but Christian copyists, finding that their crudely censored versions contained no reference to Jesus felt obliged to insert one. So what Origen could not see Eusebius could. More space is devoted to John the Baptist in our editions of the Antiquities than to the master whose coming the gospels assure us he was proclaiming. Again it is untenble to think that the whole Roman war that was motivated by Messianic fevor of the Jews would contain only slight references to Jesus as the expected Messiah by the pen of Josephus while at the same time he allowing more much more press for the announcer of the Messiah's coming to Israel.

We need to take note of something very interesting. The passage giving testimony to Jesus in Antiquities comes during a catalogue of calamities that the Jews experienced at the time of Pilate taking office. Josephus seems here to be drawing upon official sources and lists Pilate's raising of the standards in Jerusalem and his taking Temple funds to finance the construction of an aqueduct into the city. Then he mentions Jesus and concludes with two incidents in Rome that occurred, according to Tacitus, in 19 AD. This chronology implies that Pilate was governor and Jesus was active much earlier than Christians today believe. The next section of Antiquities has skipped almost two decades to a revolt led by "The Egyptian" (the one that Paul was mistaken for in Acts) in Samaria in 35 AD. So two tumults in Jerusalem and two incidents in Rome bracket a short paragraph praising Jesus, then there is a jump forward of 15 years to the next strand of the story. Something looks amiss.

Following the testimonial to Jesus, the first of the two incidents in Rome is introduced by: "About the same time also another sad calamity put the Jews into disorder..." but there follows a description of a woman tricked into intercourse with a man pretending to be a god in the Temple of Isis in Rome, a passage eight times longer than that allocated to Jesus and of no apparent relevance to the Jews, despite its introduction.

Answer for yourself: Does it seem proper for Josephus to mention such a trival event as the taking advantage sexually of one young woman in such a fashion to where he pens passages eight times longer than he writes concerning the expected Messiah of Israel?

Logic requires this introduction to be that of a passage about the tumult accompanying the arrest of Jesus and described in the gospels. This section was deleted in some copies of Josephus and strongly edited and put forward in others so that the ministry of Jesus would not be described as a calamity.

There are other problems to notice as well. The passage is peppered with statments and phrases that are obviously Christian. The use of the phrase "on the third day" to describe the resurrection is practically a signature that says "by a christian." The Phrases such as "if it be lawful to call him a man, for the he was the Messiah," are clear evidence of Christian tampering.This phrasing seems to have some similarity with Luke, thus leading to a major argument that the forger barrowed his phrasology from the Gospel of Luke.

DO WE FIND CHRISTIAN CENSORSHIP IN JOSEPHUS? #2

Late in the first century Josephus wrote his celebrated work, The Antiquities of the Jews, giving a history of his race from the earliest ages down to his own time. Modern versions of this work contain the following passage:

"Now, there was about this time Jesus, a wise man, if it be lawful to call him a man, for he was a doer of wonderful works; a teacher of such men as receive the truth with pleasure. He drew over to him both many of the Jews, and many of the Gentiles. He was [the] Christ; and when Pilate, at the suggestion of the principal men amongst us, had condemned him to the cross, those that loved him at the first did not forsake him; for he appeared to them alive again the third day, as the divine prophets had foretold these and ten thousand other wonderful things concerning him; and the tribe of Christians, so named from him, are not extinct at this day" (Book XVIII, Chap. iii, sec. 3).

HAS THE ACCOUNT ABOVE BEEN FORGED BY CHRISTIANS?

For nearly sixteen hundred years Christians have been citing this passage as a testimonial, not merely to the historical existence, but to the divine character of Jesus Christ. And yet a ranker forgery was never penned.

- Its language is Christian.
- Every line proclaims it the work of a Christian writer.
 - "If it be lawful to call him a man." "He was the Christ."
 - "He appeared to them alive again the third day, as the divine prophets had foretold these and ten thousand other wonderful things concerning him."

These are the words of a Christian, a believer in the divinity of Christ.

Josephus was a Jew, a devout believer in the Jewish faith -- the last man in the world to acknowledge the divinity of Christ.

The inconsistency of this evidence was early recognized, and Ambrose, writing in the generation succeeding its first appearance (360 A.D.) offers the following explanation, which only a theologian could frame: "If the Jews do not believe us, let them, at least, believe their own writers. Josephus whom they esteem a very great man, hath said this and yet hath he spoken truth after such a manner; and so far was his mind wandered from the right way, that even he was not a believer as to what he himself said; but thus he spake, in order to deliver historical truth, because he thought it not lawful for him to deceive, while yet he was no believer, because of the hardness of his heart, and his perfidious intention."

Its brevity disproves its authenticity. Josephus' work is voluminous and exhaustive. It comprises twenty books. Whole pages are devoted to petty robbers and obscure seditious leaders. Nearly forty chapters are devoted to the life of a single king. Yet this remarkable being, the greatest product of his race, a being of whom the prophets foretold ten thousand wonderful things, a being greater than any earthly king, is dismissed with a dozen lines.

Answer for yourself: Does that seem somewhat out of place for the style of writing of Josephus mentioned above?

It interrupts the narrative.

Answer for yourself: How is that?

Section 2 of the chapter containing it gives an account of a Jewish sedition which was suppressed by Pilate with great slaughter. The account ends as follows: "There were a great number of them slain by this means, and others of them ran away wounded; and thus an end was put to this sedition." Section 4, as now numbered, begins with these words: "About the same time also another sad calamity put the Jews into disorder." The one section naturally and logically follows the other.

Yet between these two closely connected paragraphs the one relating to Christ is placed; thus making the words, "another sad calamity," refer to the advent of this wise and wonderful being (THINK)!

Evidence attests that the early Christian fathers were not acquainted with the reference to "Christ" in Josephus in their day. Justin Martyr, Tertullian, Clement of Alexandria, and Origen all would have quoted this passage had it existed in their time. The failure of even one of these fathers to notice it would be sufficient to throw doubt upon its genuineness; the failure of all of them to notice it proves conclusively that it is spurious, that it was not in existence during the second and third centuries.

Answer for yourself: Where do we find the first mention of this "Christ" passage in Josephus as mentioned by an early Church father or Church dignitary? Eusebius the "liar"; who else?

As this passage first appeared in the writings of the ecclesiastical historian, Eusebius, as this author openly advocated the use of fraud and deception in furthering the interests of the church, as he is known to have mutilated and perverted the text of Josephus in other instances, and as the manner of its presentation is calculated to excite suspicion, the forgery has generally been charged to him. In his Evangelical Demonstration, written early in the fourth century, after citing all the known evidences of Christianity, he thus introduces the Jewish historian: "Certainly the citations I have already produced concerning our Savior may be sufficient. However, it may not be amiss if, over and above, we make use of Josephus the Jew for a further witness" (Book III, p. 124).

Chrysostom and Photius both reject this passage. Chrysostom, a reader of Josephus, who preached and wrote in the latter part of the fourth century, in his defense of Christianity, needed this evidence in preaching against the Jews' rejection of the Christian Jesus, but was too honest or too wise to use it since knowing then that it was a "forgery". Photius, who made a revision of Josephus, writing five hundred years after the time of Eusebius, ignores the passage, and admits that Josephus has made no mention of Christ.

Modern Christian scholars generally concede that the passage is a forgery. Dr. Lardner, one of the ablest defenders of Christianity, adduces the following arguments against its genuineness:

- "I do not perceive that we at all want the suspected testimony to Jesus, which was never quoted by any of our Christian ancestors before Eusebius.
- "Nor do I recollect that Josephus has anywhere mentioned the name or word Christ, in any of his works; except the testimony above mentioned, and the passage concerning James, the Lord's brother.

- "It interrupts the narrative."
- "The language is quite Christian."
- "It is not quoted by Chrysostom, though he often refers to Josephus, and could not have omitted quoting it had it been then in the text."
- "It is not quoted by Photius, though he has three articles concerning Josephus."
- "Under the article Justus of Tiberias, this author (Photius) especially states that the historian [Josephus], being a Jew, has not taken the least notice of Christ."
- "Neither Justin in his Dialogue with Trypho the Jew, nor Clemens Alexandrinus, who made so many extracts from ancient authors, nor Origen against Celsus, has ever mentioned this testimony."
- "But, on the contrary, in chapter xxxv of the first book of that work, Origen openly affirms that Josephus, who had mentioned John the Baptist, did not acknowledge Christ" (Dr. Lardner, Answer to Dr. Chandler).

Answer for yourself: How can you refute what is said above? The evidence is fairly straightforward. Now how can we refute what is said below?

Again Dr. Lardner says: "This passage is not quoted nor referred to by any Christian writer before Eusebius, who flourished at the beginning of the fourth century. If it had been originally in the works of Josephus it would have been highly proper to produce it in their disputes with Jews and Gentiles. But it is never quoted by Justin Martyr, or Clement of Alexandria, nor by Tertullian or Origen, men of great learning, and well acquainted with the works of Josephus. It was certainly very proper to urge it against the Jews. It might also have been fitly urged against the Gentiles. A testimony so favorable to Jesus in the works of Josephus, who lived so soon after our Savior, who was so well acquainted with the transactions of his own country, who had received so many favors from Vespasian and Titus, would not be overlooked or neglected by any Christian apologist" (Lardner's Works, vol. I, chap. iv).

Bishop Warburton declares it to be a forgery: "If a Jew owned the truth of Christianity, he must needs embrace it. We, therefore, certainly conclude that the paragraph where Josephus, who was as much a Jew as the religion of Moses could make him, is made to acknowledge Jesus as the Christ, in terms as strong as words could do it, is a rank forgery, and a very stupid one, too" (Quoted by Lardner, Works, Vol. I, chap. iv).

The Rev. Dr. Giles, of the Established Church of England, says:

"Those who are best acquainted with the character of Josephus, and the style of his writings, have no hesitation in condemning this passage as a forgery, interpolated in the text during the third century by some pious Christian, who was scandalized that so famous a writer as Josephus should have taken no notice of the gospels, or of Christ, their subject. But the zeal of the interpolator has outrun his discretion, for we might as well expect to gather grapes from thorns, or figs from thistles, as to find this notice of Christ among the Judaizing writings of Josephus. It is well known that this author was a zealous Jew, devoted to the laws of Moses and the traditions of his countrymen. How, then, could he have written that Jesus was the Christ? Such an admission would have proved him to be a Christian himself, in which case the passage under consideration, too long for a Jew, would have been far too short for a believer in the new religion, and thus the passage stands forth, like an ill-set jewel, contrasting most inharmoniously with everything around it. If it had been genuine, we might be sure that Justin Martyr, Tertullian, and Chrysostom would have quoted it in their controversies with the Jews, and that Origen or Photius would have mentioned it. But Eusebius, the ecclesiastical historian (I, 11), is the first who quotes it, and our reliance on the judgment or even honesty of this writer is not so great as to allow our considering everything found in his works as undoubtedly genuine"* (Christian Records, p. 30).

The Rev. S. Baring-Gould, in his Lost and Hostile Gospels, says:

"This passage is first quoted by Eusebius (A.D. 315) in two places (Hist. Eccl., lib. i, c. xi; Demonst. Evang., lib. iii); but it was unknown to Justin Martyr (A.D. 140), Clement of Alexandria (fl. A.D. 192), Tertullian (A.D.

193), and Origen (A.D. 230). Such a testimony would certainly have been produced by Justin in his apology or in his controversy with Trypho the Jew, had it existed in the copies of Josephus at his time. The silence of Origen is still more significant. Celsus, in his book against Christianity, introduces a Jew. Origen attacks the argument of Celsus and his Jew. He could not have failed to quote the words of Josephus, whose writings he knew, had the passage existed in the genuine text. He, indeed, distinctly affirms that Josephus did not believe in Christ (Contr. Cels. i)."

Dr. Chalmers ignores it, and admits that Josephus is silent regarding Christ. He says: "The entire silence of Josephus upon the subject of Christianity, though he wrote after the destruction of Jerusalem, and gives us the history of that period in which Christ and his Apostles lived, is certainly a very striking circumstance" (Kneeland's Review, p. 169).

Referring to this passage, Dean Milman, in his Gibbon's Rome (Vol. II, p. 285, note) says: "It is interpolated with many additional clauses."

Cannon Farrar, who has written in ablest Christian life of Christ yet penned, repudiates it. He says: "The single passage in which he [Josephus] alludes to him is interpolated, if not wholly spurious" (Life of Christ, Vol. I, p. 46).

The following, from Dr. Farrar's pen, is to be found in the Encyclopedia Britannica: "That Josephus wrote the whole passage as it now stands no sane critic can believe."

"There are, however, two reasons which are alone sufficient to prove that the whole passage is spurious -- one that it was unknown to Origen and the earlier fathers, and the other that its place in the text is uncertain" (ibid). He refers here to the passage mentioned above: another sad calamity made to refer to the Christ.

Theodor Keim, a German-Christian writer on Jesus says: "The passage cannot be maintained; it has first appeared in this form in the Catholic church of the Jews and Gentiles, and under the dominion of the Fourth Gospel, and hardly before the third century, probably before Eusebius, and after Origen, whose bitter criticisms of Josephus may have given cause for it" (Jesus of Nazara, p. 25).

Concerning this passage, Hausrath, another German writer, says it "must have been penned at a peculiarly shameless hour."

The Rev. Dr. Hooykaas, of Holland, says: "Flavius Josephus, the well known historian of the Jewish people, was born in A.D. 37, only two years after the death of Jesus; but though his work is of inestimable value as our chief authority for the circumstances of the times in which Jesus and his Apostles came forward, yet he does not seem to have mentioned Jesus himself. At any rate, the passage in his 'Jewish Antiquities' that refers to him is certainly spurious, and was inserted by a later and a Christian hand" (Bible for Learners, Vol. III, p. 27). This conclusion of Dr. Hooykaas is endorsed by the eminent Dutch critic, Dr. Kuenen.

Dr. Alexander Campbell, one of America's ablest Christian apologists, says: "Josephus, the Jewish historian, was contemporary with the Apostles, having been born in the year 37. From his situation and habits, he had every access to know all that took place at the rise of the Christian religion.

"Respecting the founder of this religion, Josephus has thought fit to be silent in history. The present copies of his work contain one passage which speaks very respectfully of Jesus Christ, and ascribes to him the character of the Messiah. But as Josephus did not embrace Christianity, and as this passage is not quoted or referred to until the beginning of the fourth century, it is, for these and other reasons, generally accounted spurious" (Evidences of Christianity, from Campbell-Owen Debate, p. 312).

Another passage in Josephus, relating to the younger Ananus, who was high priest of the Jews in 62 A.D., reads as follows:

"But this younger Ananus, who, as we have told you already, took the high priesthood, was a bold man in his temper and very insolent; he was also of the sect of Sadducees, who are very rigid in judging offenders, above all of the rest of the Jews, as we have already observed; when, therefore, Ananus was of this disposition, he thought he had now a proper opportunity. Festus was dead, and Albinus was but upon the road; so he assembled the Sanhedrin of judges and brought before them the brother of Jesus, who was called Christ, whose name was James, and some others; and when he had formed an accusation against them as breakers of the law, he delivered them to be stoned" (Antiquities, Book XX, chap. ix, sec. I).

This passage is probably genuine with the exception of the clause, "who was called Christ," which is undoubtedly an interpolation, and is generally regarded as such. Nearly all the authorities that I have quoted reject it. It was originally probably a marginal note. Some Christian reader of Josephus believing that the James mentioned was the brother of Jesus made a note of his belief in the manuscript before him, and this a transcriber afterward incorporated with the text, a very common practice in that age when purity of text was a matter of secondary importance.

The fact that the early fathers, who were acquainted with Josephus, and who would have hailed with joy even this evidence of Christ's existence, do not cite it, while Origen expressly declares that Josephus has not mentioned Christ, is conclusive proof that it did not exist until the middle of the third century or later.

Those who affirm the genuineness of this clause argue that the James mentioned by Josephus was a person of less prominence than the Jesus mentioned by him, which would be true of James, the brother of Jesus Christ. Now some of the most prominent Jews living at this time were named Jesus. Jesus, the son of Damneus, succeeded Ananus as high priest that very year; and Jesus, the son of Gamaliel, a little later succeeded to the same office.

To identify the "James" of Josephus with "James the Just", the brother of Jesus, is to reject the accepted history of the primitive church which declares that James the Just died in 69 A.D., seven years after the James of Josephus was condemned to death by the Sanhedrin.

Whiston himself, the translator of Josephus referring to the event narrated by the Jewish historian, admits that James, the brother of Jesus Christ, "did not die till long afterward."

The brief "Discourse Concerning Hades," appended to the writings of Josephus, is universally conceded to be the product of some other writer -- "obviously of Christian origin" -- says the Encyclopedia Britannica.

CONCLUSION

Often serious study takes you where you really did not want to go if you get my drift. Having now seriously considered the scholarly evidence of the historical record and the testimony of many scholars it is safe to say that the mention of "Christ" in Josephus is little more than a Christian forgery. One has to stop and ask why this was necessary in the first place. Again pondering such a question when coupled with other facts from our studies as we have seen on this new website often takes us where we had hoped we need not go. I mentioned in the first article that these Josephus reference to Jesus as "the Christ" is the first historical mention of Jesus outside the New Testament. It is the first historical marker that the Jesus of the New Testament is a real person. But when these references are shown to be but Christian forgeries then we are again shaken to come to the same conclusion that our studies had hoped to disprove; namely, that the Jesus of the New Testament is not a real person but a synthesis of personified sun worship, mystery religions, gnosticism, and Judaism.

As we are seeing as we study Gnosticism, the Sophia, the Logos, the Christ, Marcion, and the earliest unforged Pauline Epistles and Marcion's gospel that the earliest Christians were Gnostics which believed in "the Christ" not as a human being but only a Divine Principle of God that operated not only within the world but within them and bodies as well: Christ in you! The more we study and examine the historical and textual evidences before us we come to the same conclusion over an over; namely, that the earliest Christians were Gnostics that believed in a Spiritual Son of God as "the Christ" and NEVER believed this to be a human being as such. That is why the earliest New Testament given to us by Marcion did not contain any genealogies, virgin birth stories, infancy narratives, etc. The Christ was not a person. That is why the authentic Pauline Epistles teach a non-human Christ. Only with the later forgery of the Pastoral Epistles in Paul's name will we find the anti-Gnostic Paul but again scholarship reveal them as outright Christian forgeries as we find in Josephus. We need to become aware that the earliest Christians understood "the Christ" in only an "allegorical" sense and not in a "literal" sense. This explains the need to fabricate a human Jesus in a historical record by later Christians in their debates not only with Jews who knew better but Pagans as well. In the absence of a historical Christ Jesus proto-Roman Catholics will create one not only by forgery of existing religious documents but by pure invention of them as we find with Irenaeus in 180 C.E. when he refutes the Gnostic First New Testament with a very "literal" Roman Second New Testament. Let us end remembering it is at this time that all of a sudden the 4 Gospels appear which up to now had never been quoted by any Church Father. It is in these Gospels we find the genealogies, virgin birth stories, and a host of infancy narratives. As well it is at this time that we find the Pastoral Epistles of Paul that suddenly appear which put flesh upon "the Christ". All of this was Irenaeus' anti-Gnostic polemic in trying to discredit the earliest Gnostic Christians. The power of Rome and their organizational might will in another century be unstoppable and the "literal Christ Jesus" of the Roman juggernaut will purge out of existence the "allegorical Christ" as God's mediator between Himself and mankind. Every Christian needs to study Gnosticism thoroughly in order to see the purity and simplicity of their understanding of God and realize that it is this "literalism" of Rome which has made Christians today believe in and worship a man instead of God and rendered all as idolators. It is time we learn the truth and repent and truly worship in Spirit and Truth while we yet have time. Blessings...

JESUS AND THE MESSIANIC GENEALOGY? FULFILLED OR UNFULFILLED?

According to the Jewish Bible, one of the requirements for the messiah is that he must be a descendant of King David. All of the major Messianic prophecies indicate this (Ezekiel 34:23, 37:21-28; Isaiah 11:1-9; Jeremiah 23:5, 30:7-10, 33:14-16; and Hosea 3:4-5).

In Jeremiah chapter 33, verse 17, G-d says that the royal House of David will never lack a man to sit on the throne of Israel. The Christian Bible, recognizing this vital requirement, spends almost two chapters to establish the genealogical record of Jesus as going back to King David.

Answer for yourself: Do the genealogies in the New Testament prove that Jesus can be connected to King David and thus give evidence toward his "Messiahship?"

However, when the genealogical records, as recorded by Matthew and Luke are examined, critical problems are revealed.

ACCORDING TO THE WRITER OF THE GOSPEL OF MATTHEW

In the gospel of Matthew, the genealogy of Joseph, who was the husband of Mary, is traced back to King David. However, Matthew then shoots himself in the foot by claiming that Joseph was never the father of Jesus. He does this in order to establish his claim that Jesus did not have a normal birth. His claim is that Jesus was the product of a miraculous virgin birth; that Mary never had sexual relations with her husband Joseph, and that Jesus was conceived through the "Holy Spirit." Therefore, since the genealogy as recorded in Matthew only traces Joseph back to King David, but never connects Joseph as the father of Jesus, it is clear that Jesus has no established genealogical record going back to King David.

Christian apologists answer that, even though Joseph wasn't the biological father of Jesus, he was the legal father, and, therefore, passed on his genealogical line through adoption.

There are several problems with this answer.

First of all, there is no indication from any of the records in the Christian Bible that Joseph actually adopted Jesus. However, even if a case for his adoption could be made, it is absolutely impossible to pass on one's genealogy through adoption.

For example, a priest (Kohain) is someone who is born to another priest. If your father is a priest, then you are a priest. If a priest (Kohain) adopts a boy who is the son of someone who was not a priest, that child does not become a priest through adoption.

An additional problem still remains, even if one would want to conclude that, through adoption the genealogy is adopted as well. We find that when Matthew traces the genealogical line of Joseph back to King David, this line goes through a King named Jeconiah (also known as Coniah or Yehoaikin). The problem arises in Jeremiah, chapter 22, verse 30, when the ancestor of Joseph named King Jeconiah was cursed by G-d:

"Write this man childless, a man that shall not prosper in his days. For no man of his seed shall prosper sitting upon the throne of David and ruling anymore in Judah."

We see from this passage in Jeremiah that any descendant of Jeconiah would be disqualified from ever being a Messianic candidate; and therefore, if Christians insist upon making Jesus the legal adopted child of Joseph, then it is obvious that Jesus would be disqualified from even potentially being the messiah.

Answer for yourself: Now, having seen these problems can you say that the Gospel of Matthew's genealogical record of Jesus proves anything? If anything, it casts doubt on his "Messianic link."

ACCORDING TO THE WRITER OF THE GOSPEL OF LUKE

In order to answer this difficult problem, Christian apologists claim that Jesus also traces himself back to King David through his mother, Mary. This claim is made relative to the genealogy recorded in the third chapter of the book of Luke, which is also traced back to King David.

There are also a number of problems with this claim.

First and foremost, there is no evidence at all that the genealogy listed in Luke is that of Mary. The chapter clearly says that this is the genealogy of Joseph. Mary isn't even mentioned. In an article written by Arnold Fruchtenbaum, and circulated by "Jews for Jesus," the author makes the following claim:

"In the Greek text of Luke's genealogy, every single name mentioned has the Greek definite article 'the' with one exception: the name of Joseph (Luke 3:23). Someone reading the original would understand by the missing definite article from Joseph's name that this was not really Joseph's genealogy, but his wife Miriam's (Mary)."

David L. Blank, Professor of Classic Languages at The University of California-Los Angeles, made the following observations about the above comments:

"According to the Greek original, Eli is indeed the father of Joseph. There is a definite article before each name, except that of Joseph, and that definite article is in each case the masculine genitive singular article -- you. Not only does this not clearly indicate that Joseph is skipped in the genealogy, it cannot by any stretch of the imagination be taken as so indicated. The author's comments on the Greek grammar of the passage are absurd and manifest an appalling ignorance of the facts of Greek syntax."

Other Greek scholars agree with Professor Blank.

And, even if Mary could trace herself back to King David, it still wouldn't help Jesus. According to the Torah, the mother (the matrilineal) determines if someone is Jewish (Deuteronomy 7:3-4), but tribal affiliation and family genealogy can only be traced through the person's father (the patrilineal in accordance with Exodus 28:4, 29:9-30, 30:30, and 40:15 [Priesthood Lineage]; Numbers 36 [Tribal Lineage]; Genesis 49:10, I Kings 11:4, and I Chronicles 17:11-19 [Kingship Lineage].).

For instance, in Numbers, chapter 1, verse 18, we're told that the Jewish people declare their pedigrees according to their fathers' houses. When Queen Athaliah wanted to eliminate the Royal Line of David, she only killed the males knowing full well that a female descendant of David couldn't pass on the right to the throne (II Kings 11; II Chronicles 22).

The fact that the daughters of Zelophchad inherited their father's property (Numbers 27) doesn't prove that genealogy can be passed through the daughters. This is born out by Numbers 36, where they are told that they must marry someone from their father's tribe, otherwise the inheritance would pass out of their family.

Finally, a Third problem presents itself.

Even if it could be maintained that a family line could be passed on through the mother, Mary herself was not from a legitimate messianic family. According to the Bible, the messiah must be a descendant of King David through his son Solomon (II Samuel 7:12-13; I Chronicles 17:11-14, 22:10, 28:4-7).

It's glaring that in the book of Matthew, the genealogy of Joseph is traced back to King David through his son Solomon, but ultimately down to the cursed King Jeconiah. However, in the book of Luke, the genealogy goes from David, not through his son Solomon, but through his son Nathan. The problem is that even if one wants to maintain that the book of Luke is tracing the genealogy of Mary and that it's possible to pass on genealogical lineage through the mother, Mary would still not be of help to Jesus, because her line does not go back to David through the King's son, Solomon.

Answer for yourself: How does the Holy Spirit, who is supposed to have "inspired" these writers make so many mistakes; not just simple ones, but ones that betray they have little or no knowledge of Judaism (and yet we are supposed to believe these documents were written by Jews, Apostles no less?

DOES WHAT THE JEWISH BIBLE SAYS "MATTER?"

We at Bet Emet have demonstrated beyond any doubt over the years that the Jewish prophecies contained in the Jewish Bible were not fulfilled in the first century; by Jesus or by anyone. This fact is unknown to most Christians because they have a terrible lack of understanding of the Old Testament thanks to the Church who considers such a document as "superceded" by the New Testament. As if that is not enough, when such Christians read their New Testament they find on page after page references to "thus being fulfilled" and they are mistakenly led to believe what they are reading is "Jewish prophecy fulfilled by the Messiah." Thus they make the connection with Jesus being the Messiah. The truth of the matter is that we just don't know for sure since the "REAL PROPHECIES" in the Jewish Bible were not fulfilled, and remain today unfulfilled. That being the case the writers of these two Gospels wrote for the Jews and non-Jews of their day who had doubts concerning the identity of the Messiah. To help deal with such doubts a "concocted genealogy" was created whereby they could pass off Jesus as the intended fulfillment of the Messianic promises. We must remember that they had "hoped" that it would be he, but in the wake of the terrible repercussions that followed his death by Rome, and in the absence of any of the Messianic promises being fulfilled, they were left only with hope and faith that the Messiah would yet come (or return). The Essene's teaching of the return of their Teacher of Righteousness played well in igniting the hopes that this "returning redeemer" might yet come. Many hoped and believed it might be Jesus no less.

What you, the Christian believer, should want to know is the facts and the truth; no matter what it is. As it stood then, and as it stands now, Jesus failed to fulfill any of the major messianic prophecies; he was never anointed as King, he never ruled Israel, and the world was certainly not perfected in his time. In addition, he was not preceded by the return of the prophet Elijah (Malachi 4:5). Finally, he was disqualified from ever being a messianic candidate due to his lack of the necessary family background (if we are to believe these Gospel accounts are "true").

The Jewish people never rejected Jesus. He just never measured up to the description that G-d gave to the Jewish people, of who the messiah would be. Yet take heart, as we at Bet Emet have shown, that the failure of the prophecies to be fulfilled was not the failure of Jesus or any other "messenger" from G-d. The failure must be laid upon a people who refused to "turn their hearts back to their fathers." Repentance was for someone else, and that being the case, the necessary requirements for the manifestation of the Kingdom and her King went lacking. Any Messiah "in the wings" would not be brought forth from G-d. Thus we look back at history today and know two things:

- The Messianic prophecies were not fulfilled
- The identity of the Messiah, if he lived in the first century, cannot be fully maintained with any certainty without some measure of doubt

We are left with inaccurate texts passed off as the truth and we call it "the New Testament" and such errors, when believed without question, ensures the deception and error of tens of millions. You are confronted with a choice: you can believe what G-d said when he promised the Jewish people a messiah from the House of David through Solomon his son, or you can decide that G-d was lying when He made these vital promises and believe the writer of the Gospel of Luke. But you cannot have both!

We aren't talking about a crisis in faith, but, rather, a search for the truth.

Answer for yourself: Do you have the courage to make that search, or even continue it?

If one undertakes the study of Bet Emet's Websites, and understand it is a life's work, then one is prepared to understand what has happened to Christianity down through the centuries and how Divine Truths, once expressed through allegory, metaphor, and simile by the Ancients who first received the Revelations of God, has been suppressed, altered, and tragically lost today through the "literalization" of such revelations given to us by the Ancients. This is a tragic story to say the least and renders us as "believers" and "followers of the New Testament Jesus" as idolators and we never know it because our Bibles inherited from Rome are "forged" in key "theological places". If you are diligent to study and learn from what is shared on these multiple sites then over time you will understand how it is possible to follow the "New Testament Jesus" in one way which ends with idolatry and in another way which ends in holiness and righteousness. The key to all of this rest in the true identity of "the Christ," "the Logos", and "Christ Jesus". We are all familiar with these terms but we will see hopefully there is a big difference between what we have been taught about them today and what they meant to the original Christians. Rome's has played a key role in the loss of these Divine truths and the substitution of falsehoods as you will come to see. "Surely that is not possible" I hear you say, but I only wish it were so. For your study and thought are these websites which were developed and revised over the years as Bet Emet Ministries' studies have progressed and deepened and more parts of the "theological puzzle" of Christianity became apparent to myself and others associated with Bet Emet.

These websites are intended to be "a step by step" process in your pilgrimage of learning. We begin by looking at the surface of the texts and then moving deeper as the websites progress we look often at the hidden and esoteric meanings that lie beneath these same texts. In other words we begin our websites with a "literal-historical" interpretation of "the Christ" and "Jesus Christ" and move later to the "Mystical Christ" and finally to the "Mythical Jesus Christ". As alluded previously we begin by looking at the "literal historical Jesus" and the texts and explain them "literally" as we have been taught since growing up most like since childhood in the Christian faith we inherited. In so doing it is my intent to show you and separate for you a Jewish Messiah and Judaism's truth from a non-Jewish Messiah and untruths given us by Rome. Only in such a "literal-historical" interpretation can we at first compare and contrast Judaism's truths against the later corruption of them by antisemitic Rome.

I don't expect all the readers to "agree" with what I write and reveal from my 20 years of scholarly studies from must reading an "article" or "two", but I do expect you to listen and take seriously what I show you since more than likely you have never looked into these matters and studied them out for yourselves as of yet. So be patient and "think" and in time I promise you as you get more of the puzzle pieces of this "Jesus Story" you will come to agree with what I have shown you in these articles for the facts and evidences, once possessed by you, will bring the necessary repentance in many areas of our Christian religious belief system which is so desperately needed today.

As your studies progress it is my hope that you will come to see the depiction of this "Jesus" in the New Testament in a deeper light; not as a historical-literal person but the "personification of Divine truth of 'the Christ'" that was entrusted to the Jewish nation for the Gentile world. As the websites progress you will come to see just whom this "Divine Christ within" really is and how this concept has tragically be changed by Rome and given a literal-historical life of its own. It is a real shame that the only Jew to ever came to you and me was this New Testament this "Christ" dressed up like Constantine and bearing "literalized sunworship concepts" which simply are not true in their "literal sense" since they bring idolatry with them. Over time you will come to see the Divine Truth within them however when they remain as allegories as they were intended for it is then and only then can they express the Divine truths as originally intended and as understood by the ancients who gave them to mankind in the first place. Rome changes them and never tells us in the book we inherited; the Roman Bible.

In closing it is my intent as a yet ordained Pastor who desired to serve the Creator and help His children do the same that once this information came to light over the years of my studies I realized that someone has to share and tell others of this deception in order that our worship of the Creator be in "Spirit and in Truth. Bet Emet, Hebrew for "House Of Truth", has done as best it can to present these truths in hopes that your love for and worship of God be perfected by what you learn from these articles.

The order of our study is very important. If you start from the beginning and work your way through these websites as if you are reading the "best of many books" (which you are) then you will end your study with few unanswered questions and you will have arrived as the truth you sought and have a very clear picture of whom God is and what He requires of you, the non-Jewish believer in Christianity today. Sure the trip is hard, long, and time consuming and filled with both tears and joy as you deal with what has happened at the hands of men who served themselves rather than God. But the goal must be kept squarely before you....to come to the Truth once known about God by these Ancients who framed many of the very same religious doctrines that sadly have come down to us altered today and sadly cover the pages of our Bibles. You will come to see that there is a very big difference from the Jewish Bible and the corrupted Gentile Christian Bible we inherited from Rome and for this reason I adopt a "literal-historical" approach to "Jesus Christ" in order to contrast Judaism's truths vs the Roman deception that lines the pages in our Christians Bibles. As we study we will come to see that the depiction of this "literalized Jesus Christ" as the "Jewish Messiah" by Rome in our forged Christian Bibles is a total deception. There are many reasons why the Jewish people and their Rabbis don't accept our "Christian Jesus". This forgery and deception and destruction of Divine Truths is Rome's doing! All of this is dealt with on our websites and you will get to it in time if you are diligent in your study. But to see this then we are forced to approach "Jesus Christ" assuming that what we read in our New Testaments is a "literal-historical" reality and only later will we examine in detail the evidence for a "literal-historical Jesus Christ" and in so doing come to see that the concept of "Jesus Christ" existed in Ancient Egypt over ten thousand years ago and begin to correctly see "the Christ" through eyes that see this Divine Concept "mystically" and "mythologically" as did the Ancients for thousands of years; that is until the 3rd century when Rome "reinterpreted" this Christ for the world at the point of a sword.

Let us end with one passage from the Hebrew Scriptures:

14 Then the LORD said unto me: 'The prophets prophesy lies in My name; I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spoke I unto them; they prophesy unto you a lying vision, and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their own heart.

It is time that we do diligent study in order to overcome these "lies" which we have inherited from Rome and others and repent of such error if it be in our life. It is time we search out and return to the faith of our Fathers who carry the Ancients traditions and truths with them. Today we find these "truths" in Judaism which itself is the Spiritual legacy of Egypt. Few know this because of lack of study but the beginning study has been done for you by Bet Emet where you can come to the knowledge of these things which were almost destroyed out of existence by the Roman purges of knowledge during the Dark Ages. It is time you accept the mantle of study which in first century Israel was "the highest form of worship".

Lev 20:77 Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be ye holy; for I am the LORD your God (the Jewish Tanakh)

PRESENTING THE "JESUS STORY" THROUGH THE 4 WAYS OF RABBINICAL TEACHING

The Websites and our spiritual pilgrimage follow but I must say that what I uncovered when getting to the bottom of the origin of the "Jesus Story" is that the "New Testament Jesus" can be understood in many different ways and in so doing yet communicate Divine Truth to the reader. I have discovered through my 20 years of study that we basically have 3 different ways to understand "the Christ" and the "Jesus Story" as I and others see it. We at Bet Emet Ministries have covered all 3 different understandings and presentations of "Jesus Christ" through the totality of our websites. Taken in order our Websites take the student through these 3 different understanding of "the Christ" in systematic order.

- Historically...(Ancient myths which were taught by Rome through the medium of a presumed historical person; although not accurate to the existence of a historical person yet important for us in that it can and does serves as an example of spirituality and righteousness to be emulated by all mankind)
- Mystically...(expressing a hidden teaching, a secret doctrine, given under strict and exacting conditions to approved candidates by the Masters of Wisdom regarding the descent of the Logos into matter, ie., mankind), which when properly understood with the necessary "keys of interpretation" is revealed as the metaphysical teaching of the Descent of the Soul into matter; said more simply the Descent of God/Spirit/Energy into matter (eventually the flesh of mankind) and we see this presence of God in man as the indwelling Christ within).
- Mythically...(personification of the Sun and its path through the Zodiac and the 4 seasons of the year; the equinoxes and solstices, which when properly understood with the necessary "keys of interpretation" is revealed as the mystical teaching of the gestation, birth, life, death, and rebirth of the Soul/Christ in mankind).

Paul speaks of this Mystical and Mythical Christ:

Col 1:27 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Are all three methods of presenting Jesus Christ equally accurate to truth? No, they are not, and our Websites will provide the evidence you need to not only see this for yourself but make adjustments in your religious belief system when needed. We will show you how Judaism maintained these Divine truths of "the Christ" and how later Rome will not only burn the libraries of the world to cover up their adulteration of the truth about "the Christ within" but almost eradicate this knowledge for the world by the "literalization" of "the Christ" where He is limited to only one man instead of indwelling in every child of God. Our focus needs to be on correctly interpreting the Mystical and Mythical Christ and then dealing with the erroneously interpreted "Historical Jesus...the Christ with flesh".

We must study in order as we progress from a "literal-historical" understanding of "the Christ" which we were given first in our Christian experience and progress to the deeper understandings of "the Christ". It goes without saying that we all begin to read and study the Bible from a "literal" perspective assuming that it is the vehicle for "literal truth" about Jesus Christ, never realizing that often these stories were written to be understood as allegories by the original writers let alone ever realizing that our "Jesus Story" can be found in identical form all the way back to pre-dynastic Egypt over 13,000 years ago. Bet Emet Ministries began several years ago to present websites dealing with Christianity which at first adopted this "Literal Interpretation" of Jesus in the "Jesus Story" since the "literal" approach toward Jesus in the New Testament is taught today by almost all of Christianity as they assume that Jesus Christ was a historical person. We all grow up in the Western Hemisphere assuming that the "Jesus Story" is a historical reality; that is until we do the serious study of our faith required to get to the bottom of the "Jesus Story" and the religious synthesis within it. Only with the study of Comparative Religions where I found "my Jesus Story" repeated over and over again since Ancient Egypt in almost ever nation under the Sun but also later in my studies of Gnostic Christianity did I come to clearly see the Mystical Christ "within" which had been so tragically altered by Rome beginning in the second century. Many of our websites, especially the early ones from years ago, begin by approaching the "Jesus Story" from this historical-grammatical method of interpretation because this is how we first meet this "Christ" and grow up hearing only of a "literal-historical Christ". This is how we first get acquainted with the "Jesus Story". This "literal-historical" approach I felt was necessary to get the reader and student started in order to reveal the greater Spiritual Truths that lay within Biblical Judaism that does not come with the added baggage of idolatry which we find in Gentile Christianity. As a pastor I realized that it takes time for a "seed to grow" and if I strike out and were to say that "almost everything you believe about Jesus that Rome taught us in their Second New Testament is wrong" I would lose any hope of reaching people with the fruits of my studies. So the beginning study of the Jewish Roots of Christianity follows the Rabbinical Methods of teaching and I applied them to Bet Emet's presentation of the "Jesus Story" and the totality of our Websites. There are 4 levels of Rabbinical teaching.

PASHAT

The first level of understanding is PASHAT (simple). The Pashat is the literal meaning. It is similar to what Protestant hermeneutics calls "Grammatical Historical Exegesis" and also similar to what Protestant Hermeneutics calls "The Literal Principle." The PASHAT is the plain, simple meaning of the text; understanding scripture in its natural, normal sense using the customary meanings of the words being used, in accordance with the primary exegetical rule in the Talmud that no passage loses its PASHAT (b.Shab. 63a; b.Yeb. 24a). While there is figurative language (like Ps. 36:7) symbolism (like Rom. 5:14); allegory (like Gal. 4:19-31) and hidden meanings (like Rev. 13:18; 1Cor. 2:7) in the Scriptures, the first thing to look for is the literal meaning or PASHAT. This is how and why I developed the first websites and in so doing try to reveal the beauty of Biblical Judaism to the Christian student desiring the truth of his Jewish Roots. History teaches us today that, yes, Israel was hoping for and looking for one that might come like their famous King David and conquer the Gentiles, but more than this history today also teaches us that these first believers in "the Christ" in Israel, both Jew and Gentile, were followers of "Chrestus" (the Christ within). We must not confuse these two terms for "Chrestus (the Christ within) is NOT the "Christos" of Rome's later imagination. You have to study to see this. For it is in Biblical Judaism do we find our links with Egypt in their purest form thus preserving better than any these Ancient understandings of God and the Cosmos and "the Christ within" and man's responsibilities to the Creator. These following websites approaches "the Christ" as an assumed "historical person" yet never telling the reader that behind this motif of a "historical Jesus" lies the greatest deception know to mankind (the Christ within was later 'literalized' and placed in a 'historical' setting of Rome's choosing.

 - http://returntofaithofjesus.netfirms.com
 - (The examination of the Jewish and Hebrew Roots of the Christian Faith as taken from a literal perspective. In so doing we expose many of the errors in doctrine and practice of today's Gentile Christianity with special emphasis upon the non-Jewish believer and his Divine place within the Israel of God instead of enmeshed in replacement religion as exists today in Gentile Christianity. We pay no attention in this site to the many problems concerning the Historical Jesus and approach the study from the normal assumption that the historical Jesus is true since that is how most of us grew up believing in the first place...in later sites we look at this problem in greater detail).

- THE COVENANT OF NOAH & THE LAWS OF NOAH AND THEIR RELATIONSHIP TO THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH
 - http://covenantofnoah.netfirms.com
 - (Now we look in depth to the non-Jewish believer and how he fits into true Biblical Faith. This is very important information and necessary for every Christian to read and study in detail. This is a very revealing study of the Covenants of God with special emphasis upon the Covenant concerning the non-Jew which are called today the Covenant of Noah comprising the 66 commandments of Noah; included in this site are OT references to this covenant as well and revealing exposition of this same covenant in the NT as taught to the non-Jews in fulfillment of the Great Commission before Rome would change everything in the 3rd and 4th century; see how the Pattern of Worship was the same for the Jew and non-Jew as they both kept and observed the same Biblical Festivals (equinoxes and solstices) and how denominational Christianity has missed the mark throughout history due to it's antisemitic background, the reinterpretation of these sacred times and appointed times of God along with altering Ancient spiritual dogmas).
- THE BIBLICAL "PATTERN" OF WORSHIP & THE GENTILE GOD-FEARER IN THE FIRST CENTURY SYNAGOGUE-"CHURCH"
 - http://jewishrootscx.netfirms.com
 - (Having learned all of this knowledge from the above websites and fully convinced that repentance is needed in my "Christian religious belief system" then the question that should be asked is this one as I see it: "If I, as a non-Jew, who had not converted to Judaism, had lived in the first century in Israel and had come into contact with this "Joshua-Jesus Movement within Israel as we find it in Acts 15 for example, then what would you have been taught about how a non-Jew is to "worship" the Creator"? Is there a "Pattern of Worship" of God that I need to know about? Other questions come to mind: What are we to do as we study and learn the truth about the early Gentile inclusion into the Israel of God? How are we to worship today since learning these truths which reveal the ruse and deception of Rome which changed the worship of God in the 3rd century? How can I bring this understanding into my life today? How can I worship the Creator in "Spirit and in Truth" in light of what I have learned in the above websites that has shown me that I have been badly taught and so badly misquided by my spiritual leaders in Christianity today? If you want those answers then this website is for you. My apologies that it is not finished but under "construction" but better to begin to learn what we can when we can than waste any more time. I trust that in time the website will be finished.

The next level of understanding is called in Hebrew REMEZ (hinting at a prior truth or a hidden truth that goes beyond the current text). Peculiarities and contradictions in the Biblical texts are treated and presented to the reader as hinting at a deeper truth than that conveyed by its PASHAT. The fun of discovering our Jewish Roots, Sabbaths, and Biblical Festivals is over and it is time for serious investigation of our inherited faith. Our Websites get more challenging as I begin using the principle of Remez to hint that there are problems with the "Jesus Story" and begin to question many of the teachings of Christianity and their presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. We still approach these issues as if "historical" but as your studies progress you begin to slowly get the picture that there is severe problems with what Christianity teaches about "the Christ" and its presentation of Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. It bears saying again that we approach this information again as if "historical" but as our websites progress we will soon move to the "Mythical" and the "Mystical" presentations of Jesus Christ. You might say we are in the process of cracking the egg shell regarding the "Jesus Story".

- RETURNING TO THE BIBLICAL FAITH OF JESUS/YESHUA BY EXAMINING CLOSELY OUR BIBLES
 - http://www.faithofyeshua.faithweb.com
 - http://geocities.com/thefaithofjesus
 - (We move on and begin to look at our New Testaments since it is within them that we have the core of the problems concerning this Jewish Messiah portrayed as Jesus. Here we encounter examples of such textual and scriptural falsifications in our Christian Bibles, both Old and New Testaments as mentioned in the previous sites.. hundreds of examples where the facts and truths that once existed in the Jewish Masoretic Old Testament texts were purposefully changed in the Greek translation of the Jewish Scriptures by the Essenes and later incorporated into almost all Christian Old Testaments and the implication of such purposeful alterations by not only the Jews of Alexandria (the Essenes), but the later changing and altering of this solar-mythology by the Gentile Church in their final production.. .the New Testament. Here we encounter the change of these Divine Concepts as they become altered and reinterpreted and attached to the life of the New Testament Jesus. So it is necessary that we become very familiar with the document called the New Testament which has incorporated such religious agendas over time)

This study is as best as possible an unbiased and intense study into the New Testament, its origins, its canonization, the disagreements of the early Church Fathers as seen for hundreds of years in the conflicts and disagreements concerning it, its falsification and purposeful mistranslation of the Jewish Masoretic text, the role of the Essenes in the falsification of the Jewish Old Testament and its impact of the later developing New Testament, and the determination of the role of the Holy Spirit in the production of the New Testament...if any)

- PAUL...THE TRUE FOLLOWER OF JESUS...OR...SUBVERTER OF THE FAITH OF JESUS AND FOUNDER OF A NEW RELIGION?
 - http://paulproblem.netfirms.com
 - (Now we move to the Paul Problem. Let it be said that I am hard on Paul since he has been presented to us on the pages of this New Testament in a particular way and reinforced by 2000 years of Church Tradition. I must say that I deal with Paul "literally" as this is the way he has again been presented to us on the pages of the New Testament and in so doing I spare no ink in pointing out the problems this presents regarding a Jewish interpretation of "the Christ". Understand that this is a very challenging website which exposes the deception behind the New Testament's presentation of the Apostle Paul and his assumed rejection of Judaism. This site reveals the truth behind the purposeful manipulation of history and facts to cover up the truth about a Gnostic Paul who actually and historically only wrote 7 epistles where he espouses a synthesis of Gnosticism, Mystery Religions, and Judaism...along with this I reveal his and later pro-Pauline writers purposeful misuse of the Jewish Scriptures by Pauline writers in their presentation to the non-Jewish world of a new religion and how they made it seem as if Jesus was the cause for it...this is strong stuff and not for the faint-hearted. We will look at Paul in a different light when he is later put into his Gnostic setting which is historically accurate and only then we can say "kind things" about Paul...so hold on...we need to find the "real Paul" and we don't have it yet since Rome forged all but 7 of his epistles which he wrote and put his name on all others which they forged....modern scholarship will teach you this and how to spot this...so we have to be hard on Paul for right now since Christians believe that he taught all the things that carry his name. We will see as we study that he did not express an anti-Jewish faith and and anti-Law bias as portrayed in the Roman New Testament and the blame for this deception is again laid on the lying pens of Rome....so we deal on this site as "if" Paul was responsible for these writings since we are taught he wrote them all by Roman tradition)

- THE JEWISH CONCEPT OF "THE" MESSIAH....WHY CAN'T THE JEWS AND THE CHRISTIANS AGREE?
 - http://jewishmessiah.netfirms.com
 - (Now we enter the beauty of Judaism and the truths they taught about their own Messiah and once knowing this then it is easy to contrast them with what we have been taught as Christians that come from our forged Christian Bibles. Ever wonder why the Jews and Gentile Christianity cannot agree on the Jewish Messiah? At last the unbiased truth concerning the Jewish Messiah and with it many explanations as to how the Christian theology concerning the Messiah deviates so drastically from the Jewish Messianic concepts as well as emphasis on the corruption of the Gentile's religious texts (OT and NT) which culminates in the creation of a Messiah which was never prophesied by the Jewish prophets.....the answers for the Gentile Christian are not always comforting but if you want the truth it is here for the interested and unbiased student and true seeker of truth. This is a selective summary of what went before on the other sites where I pull together pertinent information concerning one topic and one topic only: THE MESSIAH. If your desire is to study what the Hebrew Scriptures taught about the Jewish Messiah before they were altered and changed as they were later purposefully mistranslated into the Greek and even later carried over in their corrupted forms into the Christian's Old Testament and New Testament texts by Rome, then this material and information is for you. Along with this site is the examination of text after text not only in it's Hebraic original form but as it was altered and changed thereby causing New Testament believers to ignorantly accept and cherish beliefs about Yeshua/Jesus which not only are incorrect but which render them idolators before God).
- A TRUTHFUL ANALYSIS OF MESSIANIC PROPHECIES IN THE HEBREW BIBLE AS CONTRASTED WITH THE CHRISTIAN TRANSLATIONS...DID JESUS FULFILL THEM?
 - http://messianicprophecy.netfirms.com
 - (A very detailed examination of the Hebrew Scriptures and how they were later altered when translated into the Greek, Latin, and English versions of Christian Bibles by Rome. We trace the corruption of the Jewish Scriptures from the Hebrew in which they were originally written and show how these Jewish Scriptures were later purposefully mistranslated, purposefully misquoted, purposefully misapplied, and even invented out of thin air in order to alter the hoped for human messiah into a "cosmic Godman" by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt. Later these very same altered passages will become forced "fulfillments" when applied to a supposed "literal-historical" Jesus in later Latin and English versions taken from the Greek forgeries of the Jewish Scriptures. We show repeatedly how the Greek translations were forged in order to include the Essene concept of their "angel messiah" and "cosmic Godman" and later how this concept would be further adulterated when applied to Jesus some two hundred years later through the further forgery of other Hebrew Scriptures by the Roman Gentile Church. In other words we show beyond any doubt how the Holy Word of God has been corrupted today. No wonder the Jewish people don't believe in the Christian Jesus; their Jewish Scriptures read completely different than those of the Christian Church in "key" messianic places)

- (We now look at a very problematic piece of prophecy. Of all the Old Testament scriptures translated and quoted (or purposely mistranslated or misquoted) by Christian evangelicals in hopes of finding validation to most of their Gentile Christian doctrines, Daniel 9:17-27 and Isaiah 53 are perhaps the two most popular. In both cases, Christianity relies on a claim that the only reasonable interpretation of those scriptures is theirs. But is this true? Have our Christian Bibles been forged to force fulfillments as applied to Jesus when the true Hebrew Scriptures read differently than our Christian Bibles? Well...it is time to see the truth for yourself concerning Daniel's 70 weeks and then you decide who is right....Judaism or Christianity)

- THE ESSENE CHRISTIAN FAITH AND ITS LEGACY OF SUN WORSHIP
 - http://essenechristianfaith.netfirms.com
 - (As stated earlier Divine allegory of the ancients has been "literalized by Rome" and presented to us in our Christian Bibles. We begin to see this through a comprehensive and challenging investigation into the true origins of the Essene-Christian faith as we begin in Egypt and it's worship of God. In so doing we spend some time understanding Egyptian Sun-worship where astral-theology and solar-worship was personified into "savior Godmen"...Osiris being both the first and the "pattern" of all that followed; tracing such solar beliefs through successive Gentile nations and making note of similarities as well as differences, until we come to the Essene/Qumran cult, who, in rejection of Biblical Judaism because of their inability to assume the Priesthood following the Maccabee war, evolved away from Biblical Judaism and adopted these astral-theological religious ideas which had more in common with Egypt, Persian, Zoroastrianism, Buddhism, Pythagorianism, etc., than with Judaism, until we end up with a "corrupted Judaism" which is more commonly known today as Christianity. If these beliefs of "personified Sun worship" had remained but allegories and symbols we would not have a problem since they taught about the Descent of the Soul again in matter and the flesh of mankind, but they will not and under the Essenes were applied first to a "historical person" who lived long before the first century. The pattern is forged and later applied through oral tradition to one who was expected to come but did not. Thus we get the "literalized-historical Jesus Story" in hindsight. What we find is that the Essenes "literalized" these prior Divine Allegories concerning Divine Truths expressed by the Ancients through the medium of myths and symbols and first applied them to a man and later to the "Joshua-Jesus" we see in our "Jesus Story" today as if a "historical reality". It is in the hands of these apostate Essenes where these Divine concepts were "literalized" and were purposefully included in a falsified translation of the Jewish Old Testament called the Greek Septuagint. In so doing these Divine Concepts lose their original spiritual meanings and these reinterpreted doctrines become parts of the Greek Old Testament for the Greek speaking world and for all later Christians and the Christian Church; thus providing the substrate for all later quotes of the New Testament. The bottom line being that personified Sun-worship was applied to the life of the human Jewish Messiah as recorded in the New Testament and it is we today, not knowing that these concepts were only to be taken allegorically, have been misled to see in them a "literal" understanding when they never were originally intended to be taught as such. In so doing we spend a lot of time with the texts in order to see how this was done and how extensive this misrepresentation is in our Bibles).

- THE PAGANIZATION OF THE FAITH OF YESHUA ...AND THE BIRTH OF "GENTILE CHRISTIANITY"
 - http://paganizingfaithofyeshua.netfirms.com

This approach, teaching God's higher Divine truths through the vehicle of a godly example, the "assumed historical Jesus of the New Testament", works well up to a point because in doing so we are presented with a "Godly" example of a life to be emulated as found in the Jesus of the New Testament (for the most part). A life patterned after the Jesus of the "Jesus Story" will hopefully issue forth in one bearing the fruit of morality and ethics and one lived in the Fruit of the Spirit. This is the reason why Israel does not evangelize today because Christianity has accomplished for them their task as God's Priesthood. As a pastor I wish they could have accomplished this without the masked idolatry connected with the "Jesus Story". The non-Jew has learned of the God of Israel and has learned how to live in peace and harmony through the teachings of Christianity. Sadly in all of this the main character, the Jewish Messiah, has been so badly misrepresented in the character of Jesus who, for example, is made to cleanse all foods and abolish the kosher laws in Mark 7:14. This is rather strange for a Jew who is obligated to observe Kosher. Hopefully you see the problems of what I speak. Again through our websites the student is made aware of the problems inherent in places in this New Testament's depiction of the New Testament Jesus as the expected "Jewish Messiah". Yet, in such a presentation then Jesus is the non-Jew's "pattern" for he, real or not, is the only Jew to ever witness to us and came knocking on the doors of our lives to teach us of God. Sadly the Jewish community is closed to the non-Jew for the most part due to the tragic treatment of their people by the Christian Church these last 2000 yrs. As I say often it is so sad that when we answered the door of our lives as we heard the "knock" of this New Testament Jewish Rabbi named Jesus that we did not possess, at that time, enough knowledge of the truth about "the Christ within" and the true "Jewish Messiah" as taught from the Hebrew Scriptures and not the forged ones Rome gave us, that we could not recognize that this Jew named Jesus, as God's "light to the Gentile world", came dressed like the idolator Constantine teaching a replacement religion that nullified Judaism's truths. Lacking this knowledge which Bet Emet's Websites provide the student we bought unsuspectingly into the Roman counterfeit and no wonder the Jews cannot accept this Roman Jesus as their Messiah. Good for them! But hopefully as your studies mature you begin to see that there are other ways to understand the "Jesus Story" but surely understanding the "Jesus Story" as a historical truth concerning a literal person who lived 2000 years ago and who embodied the historical Jewish Messiah is not one of them. The facts and evidence proving this cannot be denied when seen by any "thinking believer".

DRASH

Another level of Jewish hermeneutic and understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "drash" meaning "search", this is the allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. Creativity is used to search the text in relation to the rest of the Scriptures, other literature, or life itself in order to develop an allegorical, typological or homiletical application of the text. This process involves eisegesis (reading of the text) of the text. Ironically as I found this expression or interpretation of the texts reflected most accurately the type of "belief" of the earliest Chrestians, mistakenly called Christians by Rome later, who were not only looking for a historical Jewish Messiah to be revealed but at the same time understood that the "logos" or "the Christ/Sophia/Egyptian Karast" lived within all mankind. This understanding of "the Christ" reflects Paul and his 7 authentic epistles where he teaches the "Christ within".

As you might expect a few years later, as time allowed, Bet Emet provided a website dealing with the Mystical Interpretation of the "Jesus Story" and "the Christ" as we showed that the religious beliefs of the earliest "believers" who were called the first "Christians", long before Rome emerged to dominate the Christian faith, did not accept a historical Jesus at all but rather understood "the Christ" as a Divine Concept that lives within every man and woman and is not exclusive to just one person as is portrayed today by "literalistic Roman Christianity. It is in this site that we restore the earliest Egyptian and later Gnostic Chrestian (Christian) understanding of the "the Christ" as it existed for almost 5 centuries before being utterly destroyed by Rome with its replacement religion we have today which I call "Literal Christianity".

- MARCION AND THE "FIRST" NEW TESTAMENT...WHO WERE THE ORIGINAL CHRISTIANS AND WHAT DID THEY BELIEVE ABOUT "THE CHRIST"?
 - http://firstnewtestament.netfirms.com
 - (Now we put all the pieces together and the whole picture comes into focus. We now look at the true Paul, a Gnostic which never taught a human Jesus Christ but rather "the Christ within" in his 7 authentic epistles. We trace in this website how the earliest "Christian" believed in the "Christ within" and not "a Christ without". We see how the ancient religious allegories were understood not only by these ancients who were given them but by the Gnostic Jews and Gentiles in the earliest centuries of the church as well long before Rome will come an "literalize" all of it and give it a fictitious historical timeline in creating a "historical Jesus". In so doing we will see how the earliest New Testament expressing these allegorical Divine truths is butchered by Rome and destroyed and how we end up with the forgery we have today. Never let it be said that archeology and hard study are not our friends.

An unbiased study of History will show you that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence or any "unforged" anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a man named Jesus, and quite a lot of evidence exists that will prove that it did not. An unbiased through study of Comparative Religion will reveal to you that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. To you amazement, if you continue your study, the personification of the Sun through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods as it moves through the Zodiac and as followed in chronological procession through the year matches EXACTLY the chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through then end of the book at Matthew 28. This will take your breath away for event after event, saying after saying, from chapter to chapter parallels the Ancients' story of the personified "sungods" in their lives and events. There truly is nothing new under the Sun (forgive the pun). But take heart, a deeper spiritual understanding of this cycle is before us as again God is teaching man of the "gestation, birth, life, death, and rebirth" of the Soul in mankind and when expressed through allegory and simile it took the form of the stories of the lives of the sungod which later the "Jesus Story" was copied from. That explains why they read the same.

This website will be a lot different from anything you most likely have ever studied. Growing up in the Western Hemisphere we are traditionally taught a "literalistic" and not an "allegorical" or "symbolic" understanding of Christianity. This "literalistic" interpretation of "Jesus" and "the Christ" is based upon the inherited religious documents we received from Rome which we were taught to accept as infallible and inerrant without every questioning them. However great advances in Biblical Studies and archeology have been made in the last two hundred years and one in particular in the last 50 years has made a startling impact upon Christianity and few know of this. I am referring to the discoveries of the Nag Hammadi Library along with the Essene's Dead Sea Scrolls in the last 50 years which has turned our traditional Roman understanding of Christianity upside down and basically taught us that almost everything we had through we had "known" from Roman Christianity up to now concerning "Jesus" and "the Christ" was most likely wrong. That is simply because when we discover from study of these archeological finds and see for ourselves that the First New Testament written and given to us by the earliest Gnostic Christians like Marcion and Paul did not teach a "human Jesus Christ" but rather an allegorical and symbolic "Christ" as the Logos within each of God's children. This explains why there were no genealogies, birth or infancy narratives, or the 4 traditional Gospels in the earliest Gnostic Gospels until the second century when Rome created the "literal-historical" Jesus Christ. It is this "allegorical Christ" and "allegorical Joshua-Jesus Christ" [pattern] that the earliest New Testament and the authentic Pauline epistles taught but few know this today since Rome's efforts to destroy all of this literature as well as murder the Gnostics until few remained to safeguard this Revelation which can be traced to the beginning of mankind. In this website I reveal these truths concerning the "allegorical Christ" of the earliest Chrestians (Christians). Along with this we tackle the difficult problem of Christian forgeries of later Pauline Epistles and Gospels in their attempt to create a "historical Jesus" and a "historical Christ" in order to mimic their Godman-Emperor. This information goes a long way not only in explaining the lack of credible and unforged evidences of a historical Jesus but show how a Second New Testament was latter forged in Paul's name, who was long dead, along with the names of long dead Apostles in Rome's attempt toplace a historical Jesus within an appropriate timeline. By comparison of what was written and contained within the First New Testament with what was later written later by Irenaeus and others in Rome's attempt to refute the Gnostic Christ and the Gnostic Joshua-Jesus we can easily now come to terms with this creative theology of Rome which was little more than a synthesis of "literalized" Sun Worship as exposed on our other sites. What should strike you as you study these materials is that the concept of the "Logos" and the "allegorical Christ" goes all the way back to the beginning of mankind where God gave Revelation of Himself and His plan to the Ancient Egyptians who first wrote of the Karast/Christ.)

SOD

The 4th and final level of understanding the Scriptures is called in Hebrew "Sod" meaning "hidden". It is here that I reveal the hidden links to Egypt and Astronomy which they "allegorized" to capture for all time the Divine Concepts that they witnessed written in the sky and Heavens above them. God, writing on the blackboard of the sky and Heavens, expressed to these Ancients sages and Priest eternal principles that were later captured in "myths" and "legends" to preserver for all time these Godly truths that would last through all time and yet today survive in spite of the destruction of Egypt by Alexander the Great and later Rome. These Laws of the Cosmos were expressed in allegorical myths that were reaffirmed by the same Laws witnessed operating in Nature. Ancient man, understanding that these same Laws operated within himself and his body saw therefore that "he was created in the image of God "; the image he witnessed operating above and around him when noticing the same Laws and Cycles in the Heavens and in Nature operating within his physical body as well. This is truly beautiful when you see it as it brought tears to my eyes to see and comprehend Gods' earliest message to me and you that has not been changed or adulterated by the agendas of men down through history. It is so simple when you see it. That is the way God intended it to be in the beginning but we strain at a nat and swallow a camel today with our highly developed and evolved theologies down through Christian history.

It has been a hard and long process for me to accomplish but my task is about through when I complete this last website on the "Mythical Jesus Christ" as seen in the stars.

Now it is time to devote this website to the comprehensive understanding of the "Mythical Christ". In so doing we will prove that the "Jesus Story" is actually an allegory for the path of the Sun "personified" as it travels through the 12 Houses of the Zodiac and through the 4 seasons of the years (the Spring Equinox, the Summer Solstice, the Autumn Equinox, and the Winter Solstice). You will come to see that this is the oldest and most important story humans ever knew as it also is full of Divine Truths that are to be understood "allegorically" and not "literally" as we have erroneously been taught today by a literalized Christianity of Rome's making. We owe a great debt to Ancient Egyptians and their great wisdom and their foresight in preserving for the the world this earliest understanding of God.

- THE EGYPTIAN RELIGION AND ITS RELATIONSHIP TO JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY
 - http://www.egyptcx.netfirms.com
 - We have all heard that "all roads lead to Rome" but in reality all roads lead to Egypt. This is especially true when one studies Christianity and Judaism and finds that these sister-faiths are nothing more than evolutionary developments of the Egyptian Religion. Understand from the beginning that Judaism is a much more faithful picture of this Planet's original understanding of the Divine than Christianity. Judaism comes in a close second. As a Pastor I am amazed where my studies have taken me and the things I have learned over these last twenty years in my pursuit of Jewish Roots of the Christian Faith. Never did I expect to find what I have uncovered and consider myself fortunate to live in an age where archeology and other such disciplines are giving back to mankind what Rome destroyed, covered up, and took from us over the last two thousand years. The study of error is often a little less important than the study of truth. The history of the human mind, in its progress from ignorance towards knowledge should tell us the mistakes into which it has sometimes wandered, as well as its steps in the right path. This is the goal of this website: to re-examine Gentile Christianity as to its earliest roots and determine if what is considered "Christian orthodoxy" today is a faithful representation of the earliest understanding of God by the Ancients since it is they who coined the religious concepts which we are told that we adhere to today in the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere.
 - There is much to say about the knowledge contained in this Website but let me be brief. This website will reveal to you how the Ancients understood the message of God and His revelation to them from their critical observations about the Heavens and the sky as well as Nature. The Egyptians Priests and scholars understood that God was revealing His Laws and intentions in the operations of the Divine Laws that governed the Cosmos. These Ancients holy men saw that these same Laws operated within their own bodies as well and that they were "created in the image of God" as what God was doing "above them" and "around them" He also was doing "within them". These Ancients sought out God and His way like no other nation has ever done on the face of the earth and tragically this knowledge was lost to us until only recently with the discoveries of archeology. We must understand that when allegory, metaphor, simile, and myth which expressed both the identity and actions of the Creator as understood by the Ancients in grasping for understanding of God and His workings in the Cosmos, was altered and stripped of its symbolism and rendered for all time as if "literal" by those who will come later through "conquest" and destroy Egypt and their understanding of God, then not only is Divine Truth lost forever but it plunges its recipients into abject idolatry. Such is the plight of the primarily Christian Western Hemisphere as these allegories and metaphors that once expressed Divine Truth were altered by Rome and "literalized" and applied to men's lives; in this case Jesus. If you have been diligent to study the website referenced just above this one then you saw for yourself this tragic loss of Divine Truth by Rome's "literalization" of such Egyptian Ancient truths concerning the "Logos" and "the Christ".

- ASTROTHEOLOGY AND THE "JESUS STORY" OF THE NEW TESTAMENT: DOES IT ORIGINATE WITH THE STARS?
 - http://jesusastrotheology.netfirms.com
 - This will be the last website for Bet Emet Ministries and in so doing we will go where few have gone. In this website we will show beyond any doubt from Astronomical examples of the Sun, Moon, Stars, and Constellations, that the Ancients preserved what they witnessed in the stars and Heavens seen in the cycles, patterns and paths and movements of these Heavenly orbs in "allegories" and in "myths" and "legends" not only concerning physical movements of these Celestial orbs as taken from their observations but expressed within these "solar myths" and "lunar myths" deeper Divine Truths of a Mystical Nature. These hidden deeper Divine Revelations from God to mankind dealing with the Spiritual Nature of mankind and his expected Spiritual maturation were again saved for all time through the agency of Myth which was never to be interpreted "literally" but rather were to function as "allegories" and "symbols" only that were but vehicles for transmission of higher truths from God. From these celestial patterns the Ancients extrapolated the Laws, Ordinances, Commandments, and Covenants of the Creator and gave them to mankind as a "blueprint" for our existence. These myths held the message of God to mankind. Later these myths were told through lives of personified man-gods like Osiris, Dionysus, Attis, Amon, Mithra, and Jesus. Since we include Jesus in the same sentence with other astral myths then this will be a hard study for as you examine the evidence presented you will see without a doubt that an unbiased study of History shows that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a real historical man named Jesus. In fact the evidence, or should I say the lack of it, and the forgery of all that does exist outside this one New Testament, is hard to deny and makes a belief in a historical Jesus almost impossible when knowing from the above studies the hundreds of forgeries in the religious texts of the Christian Bible. Nowhere outside of this one forged book by Rome can we find this "historical Jesus". As if that was not enough an unbiased and through study of Comparative Religion reveals to the reader as seen in the above studies and sites that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus and if you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology you will find that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. What is most startling is when you see for yourself that the personification of the Sun and its path through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through then end of the book. The Synoptic gospels follow the path of the Sun in its travels through the sky from beginning to end. Most may have no idea of what I am saying I can only tell you to hold on and read the articles on this site and you will quickly come to see of what I spoke. Let it be said when you see this and that all the other "Jesus Stories" are but Ancient allegories of the Heavens and the Sun and its path through the Zodiac which was later "literalized" then without a doubt there is no more room for idolatry connected with any Jesus of any kind. Then we can follow in the footsteps of Moses and quit worshipping a false "god-man" and return to worshipping our Creator in Spirit and in Truth. You come to see that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but a retelling of the "Osiris Story" and the "Horus Story". It is from these two Ancient Egyptian stories that all other "saviors" have come.

Orthodox Christians, since they are committed to a belief in the literal truth of the Bible, hold that after the flood men became even more evil than they were before, so that 4,000 years after the creation of the world, god sent his only begotten son to suffer and die for the salvation of the human race. This ministry of Jesus, the Christ, was supposed to be a unique event in human history but as we show it is anything but that. This opinion is no longer tenable among those who accept reason as the criterion of truth.

If you are diligent to study and read these websites then you have it all. There is little that exists that is not covered in one way or the other or has somehow escaped my attention over these almost 20 years of study. There is nothing I would trade for my years of study and the truths that I have gathered and although it has been challenging to my very core I fully am aware that because of such serious studies my walk with God, the true God, is closer than ever. It is truly well with my soul because "I KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT GOD AND HIS CHRIST AS SEPARATED FROM ALL THE FICTION" that men have written down through history to promote their own religion and political agendas.

So we began our study with the question:

Matt 16:13 13 When Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? (KJV)

Now you have you answers! ?The rest is up to you to study to show yourselves approved..needing not be ashamed when you meet this Creator face to face when you cross your Nile/Jordan...(the same)

IN CLOSING

As stated earlier we begin our study with Bet Emet Websites with a "historical" assumption and present studies to show the beauty of Judaism over the dishonesty in Christian theological dogma and do so by using the depiction of the New Testament Jesus as if "historical" because he provides a vehicle for the teaching of Jewish theology, monotheism, morals, values, ethics, etc. It is not my purpose to reveal the weaknesses behind such a historical presentation of Jesus at this time as it will be developed and proven at a later time as one's studies progress through the Mystical Jesus and the Mythical Jesus as detailed on the above websites.

Of concern for us of course is the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament and its reliability as understood "literally" since it is being taught as a literal truth today about a historical man who lived 2000 years ago. You will come to see in time as you study that the Ancients as far back as Egypt understood this "Karast/Christ" entirely different from how we have been taught today under the direction of Roman and Protestant Christianity. Here are some big questions for you to ponder in light that most Christians trust in this Jesus Christ for their Eternal Salvation.

- Answer for yourself: Who or what is truly behind the name "Jesus Christ"? Can it be proven that the "Jesus Story" is nothing but the personification of the Sun and its passage through the various houses of the Zodiac as it passes through the 4 seasons and the equinoxes and solstices? If so then what do you do now?

- Answer for yourself: Are the infancy narratives and later depictions of the life and ministry of Jesus Christ in the New Testament nothing more than solar stories told as allegories which were later "literalized" and subsequently written into Rome's New Testament and depicted as a literalized historical Jesus Christ when in fact they were understood by the Ancients as astrological myths taken from astronomy?
- Answer for yourself: Did Rome destroy the Gnostic Christ of the earliest "Christians" which had existed since the beginning of time over the first 5 centuries of the early Church and replace it one of their own making? What are you to do when you see this from your studies on our Websites?
- Answer for yourself: If I study the Websites and find that the "Jesus Story" follows chronologically the Gospel of Matthew from chapter one through the end of chapter 28 and see for myself that the "Jesus Story" presented there parallels identically the personification of the Sun in its path through the Zodiac then what should this mean to me regarding my belief in Jesus as the historical Christ and him being the Jewish Messiah?
- Answer for yourself: Have we as Christians and followers of the "the Christ" been deceived by Rome and spent a good part of our lives worshipping a man as God as Rome has declared in their New Testament since the Nicean Council (325 A.D.) when in fact we should have been worshipping the one true Creator as the Pharaoh Moses (Akhenaten) instructed when he stood up to the religious establishment of Egypt when some were straying from the truth in their worship of the "godman" similarity to what we have done today with Rome's historical Jesus? Are we guilty of idolatry as Christians because we have believed a fable no more real than Snow White and the seven dwarfs?

Well the following studies in the above websites is not for the weak of heart as I will present over and over again infallible proofs that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is but a hoax perpetrated upon us by Rome in their hatred of the Jewish faith and Jewish Gnosticism back in the first century. You will see, in the last website depicting the Mythical Christ, as we move chronologically from one sign of the Zodiac to the other, from month to month, from season to season, from Spring equinox to Summer solstice, from Autumn equinox to Winter solstice, and repeating again this cycle, along with the study of selected events from the depiction of the life of Jesus in Rome's New Testament, that if you study with us and finish the studies on this website, that the "Jesus Story" as depicted in the New Testament is nothing more than the literalization by Rome of the path of the Sun through the Zodiac along with other solar myths later incorporated into their "Jesus Story" as later literalized by Rome as well. In so doing you will see as I and many others have that we have not been taught the truth about "the Christ within" and how He is so integral to the proper worship of the Invisible God as Egypt and Moses taught. It would seem that Egypt got it right in the beginning but thanks to Hellenism and Romanism we lost these earliest and correct understanding of Divine Concepts witnessed in God's Heaven and Nature. In a way these were our classroom and where we were to be instructed by the Creator about our life and purpose in God's creation. We are truly blessed today to live in an age where archeology and the information age can bring these truths back to life for you and me.

As a "retired Pastor", and moved by what my studies revealed over the years, I feel moved to share this information and evidence from such studies with those interested in the truth behind the origin for "Jesus Story" which is taught to the world today as a historical reality when in fact it is not. In the websites that are delineated above such evidence is presented to the reader in hopes that the missing puzzle pieces concerning the "Jesus Story" will be plainly evident to him and he can, in the light of such knowledge, no longer be deceived by the astrological allegory of "the Christ" as found in the New Testament which is erroneously taught "literally" today. I make very few promises to our readers but I make this one now: If you do these studies, and read these articles on this website then you will be thoroughly convinced as I was that the "Jesus Story" was never meant to be understood "literally" as it has been taught to you and me. Thus the worship of Jesus as a historical person or connecting this assumed historical person with God or believing him to be God is the most vulgar idolatry according to Moses and the Ten Commandments and a terrible affront to the Creator and constitutes blasphemy of the Name of God.

Currently Bet Emet Ministries offers a CD with all our websites contained on it where the above information is available for easy search and study where you can work through this material at your leisure. If you would desire the synthesis of our scholarly studies into these areas concerning the origins for the Christian faith and the truth behind "the Christ" and the Jewish Messiah along with the "Jesus Story" then one is available for a small donation to support the efforts of this ministry. Inquire is you so desire by e-mailing me at the link below. Shalom.

ONE EXAMPLE OF HOW CHRISTIANITY HAS MISUNDERSTOOD THE ANCIENT SPIRITUAL WISDOM...THE HIDDEN TRUTH BEHIND LUCIFER

I wish I could say that there is only one example where Christianity has misunderstood and incorrectly interpreted the ancient Spiritual Wisdom. But such is not the case. Try hundreds of examples! Let us look at one; a big one, but there are many like this as we will see as our studies advance.

This may be a surprise to you but the word "Lucifer" appears only one time in the King James translation of the Bible and the Old Testament book of Isaiah and not in the Hebrew Scriptures at all. That should call to your mind the admonitions to not "add to or take away" from the Word of God first given us in Deuteronomy and later in the book of Revelation. We we did it anyway, or at least Christianity did. Also surprising is the fact that in other Christian translations who are more true to the Hebrew the word "Lucifer" does not appear even one time! But in the KJV, the most popular of all Christian Bibles, it does. The verse in which the King James Bible uses the word "Lucifer" is Isa. 14:12, which states: "How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! How are thou cut down to the ground, which did weaken the nations!"

Now if you spoke or studied in Hebrew (let us not forget that is the language originally used in the Bible) you would find that the Hebraic translation of the verse (the Jewish Tanakh) reads differently: "How you have fallen from the heavens, shining star, son of the morning! You who weakens the nations are cut down to the ground."

Answer for yourself: Did you notice a difference? Notice that the word "Lucifer" is not in the original text of the Bible at all!

In fact, Isa. 14:12 is the only place in the entire King James Bible that the word "Lucifer" appears. The word "Lucifer" never appears in the Hebrew text.

Answer for yourself: Then why is it in your and my Bible?

It should not be.

Answer for yourself: What about the inerrancy and infallibility question?

Answer for yourself: Are our Bibles correct or have then been tampered with?

Answer for yourself: And if we can prove that doctrines were "created" for selfish ends, then can we recognize them?

Answer for yourself: And after recognizing them will we continue to play into the hands of those who created these man-made doctrines by adhering to them in our churches?

I want you to read the context of the verses that surround these verses in Isaiah. After you have read them you should notice that the name "shining star, son of the morning" refers to the king of Babylon, and not the Devil.

Now I must ask you:

Answer for yourself: Why did the translators of the King James Bible of 1611 A.D. insert the word "Lucifer: in Isa. 14:12?

Answer for yourself: How did the words "Lucifer" and "Satan" become to mean the same individual?

Answer for yourself: If we can prove in this instance that words were added to our Bible to create or perpetuate a man-made doctrine, and doctrines, then has it occurred at other places in our Bibles and can we know where it occurs?

Answer for yourself: What are we currently practicing in our churches as part of our worship of God is directly attributed to "additions" to the text by men with "hidden agendas?"

Answer for yourself: When we locate such man-made traditions and doctrines, do we continue to follow such fables & false doctrines in our worship of God?

Answer for yourself: Are we truly worshipping our God in "Spirit and in truth?

The word "Lucifer" is Latin for:

- 1) Phosphorous
- 2) Venus as the morning star
- 3) The light-bringer which announces the dawn of the Sun

The name "Lucifer" is sometimes applied to the planet Venus as the evening star as well. Interestingly enough, the passage in Luke 10:18 ("I saw Satan fall like lightening from heaven") was thought by some to refer to the Isa. 14:12 passage in which the star was used metaphorically for the king of Babylon. According to the Funk and Wagnalls Dictionary of Folklore, Mythology, and Legends of 1984 this "Lucifer" would become the chief of fallen angels and the name for Satan before his rebellion. "Lucifer", as a name given to the devil, comes from this passage, which the early Catholic Church Fathers interpreted, without any corroborating evidence, as relating to the apostasy & punishment of angelic leaders. Such an application was tied to the King of Babel according to Keil & Delitzsch in their Commentary on the Old Testament. Thus we now find that the Devil is become the chief of the fallen angels or evil spirits. Thus we find in Christian theology today that his personal name was originally Lucifer or light-bearer (Isa. 14:12) and is the term applied for the king of Babylon. "Lucifer", in religion, is a name that was thus given to Satan by early Christians and was adopted without question in the middle ages because no one sought to study the Scriptures in Hebrew.

Let's summarize:

- 1) The words "Lucifer" and "Satan" have been connected by the erroneous association of Isa. 14:12 with Luke 10:18.
- 2) This association was made by Roman Catholic Church Fathers after the deaths of the Apostles.
- 3) The association of the "Devil" as "Satan" is a fabrication of Christian theology.
- 4) This is not the only religious fabrication in the Christian faith today.

Answer for yourself: Do you know the others?

One of the church fathers who was the leading proponent in creating this man-made theology which connected "Satan" with "Lucifer" was Origen. He is known for writing "The prophet says, 'How is Lucifer, who used to arise in the morning, fallen from heaven! He who assailed all nations is broken & beaten to the ground...' Most evidently by these words he is shown to have fallen from heaven, who formerly was Lucifer, and who used to arise in the morning...Nay, even the Saviour Himself teaches us, saying of the devil, 'Behold, I see Satan fallen from heaven like lightening..."

It is Origin who established for us today the link between Isa. 14:12 & Luke 10:18. Origen took two verses completely out of their original context and created a new doctrine for the church. From the time of Origen onward Lucifer & Satan become synonymous.

Hebrew scholars of the Jewish faith never associated Satan with the verse found in Isaiah. It would be the early Greek Catholic Fathers who would re-define the meaning of these two scriptures and create a new identity for Satan. This error in Christian theology became part of Christian beliefs around 210-225 A.D. This concept has been in place for over 1700 years and is rarely questioned today.

I don't want to shock you but you better be seated for this. There are many who see in these verses materials derived from a Canaanite myth concerning Helal, the Day Star or Lightgiver, son of Shahar the Dawn. Many connect with this myth the ultimate conflict of good versus bad as manifested on Earth. We know today that there was a god Shahar in Canaanite (Ugaritic) mythology who was the god of dawn or the morning star. Connected to this myth is Helal the son of Shahar. Connected again to both is the mythological concept of the "mount of assembly of the gods in the far north" which is also the point around which all the constellations turned. It was here, also, where the summit of the heavenly mountain & throne of the Most High was located. The passage in Isa. 14:12 preserves for us the Canaanite for a nature myth, which tells of the attempt of the morning star to scale the heights of Heaven, thus surpassing all other stars only to be cast down to the Earth by the victorious Sun. Thus we see in this myth the story of the aspiring of a minor deity to reach the highest Heaven where the supreme God dwelt. The goal of such was to replace the supreme ruler with the minor ruler. Such later was borrowed to describe the king of Babylon and his ambition for prominence which tragically ended in his downfall.

Let me ask you:

Answer for yourself: Did early Christian theologians substitute the name of "God" in the place of "the Canaanite most High god"?

Answer for yourself: Did early Christian theologians substitute the name "Lucifer" or "Satan" in the place of "Helal, son of Shahar?"

Answer for yourself: Have you heard this Canaanite account preached in your churches before but with new characters and identities?

Think of the numerous commentaries that have been written, sermons that have been preached, and prayers that have been prayed, which assume that Lucifer and Satan are one and the same.

Answer for yourself: Why is this false-doctrine perpetuated by Protestant denominations, seminaries, pastors & teachers of churches, and the Catholic Church?

Answer for yourself: Why have few discovered this error? Do they not have the resources to discover this lie?

You may be surprised to find out that they are aware of the error because many of their books document it.

Answer for yourself: Then why don't they preach the truth about this addition to the scriptures?

This is not only a matter of ignorance, but deception. Once this false-doctrine became part of the Christian Belief System there was no limit to the innovative teachings which would be built around it.

According to the Bible, except for I Chron. 21:1, Satan is not a proper name referring to a particular being and a demoniac one who is the antagonist or rival of God. It is, in it's original application, understood as a common noun meaning an "adversary who opposes and obstructs". It is applied to human adversaries in I Sam. 29:4 where the Philistine questioned David's loyalty to them in battle and were fearful that David would become a "satan" against them in battle. In II Sam. 19:22 David accused the sons of Zeruiah of beings "satans" to his restoration to the throne of Israel. In I Kings 11:14 the Lord raised up "a satan" against Solomon in the person of Hadad the Edomite who stood against Solomon in his idolatries. In I Kings 11:23 & 25 we see God raised up another "satan" against Solomon as an adversary to his rule.

Satan (meaning adversary) as a verb is used of prosecution in a law court (Psm. 109:6) and the role of an antagonist in general (Psm. 38:20-21; 109:4,20,29). The angel of the Lord who was sent to obstruct Baalam in Num. 22:31 was chosen by God to fulfill the role of "a satan" in order to oppose and obstruct Baalam. God sent "satan" to Baalam. This angel was accomplishing good for God but was a termed a "satan". The will of God would be done because of the testing and trial of Baalam. There is nothing in the Hebrew to suggest that this "opposition" presented to Baalam was the permanent function of that or any other particular angel. "The Satan" as a role or function of a particular angel first appears around 520 B.C. in Zech. 3 and then in Job 1-2.

In I Chron. 21:1 it states that "Satan stood up against Israel and moved David to number Israel". Notice there is no article before the noun, thus more than likely Satan seems to be a real proper name. In Zech 3, Satan acts as a prosecutor in a celestial court. In Job 1-2 Satan questions Job's integrity and suggests to the Lord that Job be tested to prove his love and commitment to God. In all these accounts "Satan" or "satans" are clearly in subjection & subordinate to God. In neither of the accounts listed are there "warfare" occurring between The God and His Satan or satans. The only warfare going on is between men's flesh in it's submission to the will and purposes of God. Satan, the angel, is clearly obedient to all of God's commands is unable to act of his own free will and cannot do anything without God's permission. Nowhere is he in any sense a rival of God. In I Chron. 21:1, it states that Satan is said to have incited David to take a census of Israel, which resulted in the death of 70,000 Israelites (21:14). If we contrast that with 2 Sam. 24:1 it states "the anger of the Lord was aroused against Israel, and He (God) moved David against them to say, 'Go number Israel and Judah'". Here the text says that God caused David to take the census. Notice that one Scripture blames the census on Satan and the other Scripture on God.

Answer for yourself: How do we reconcile?

It is rather simple. God is David's adversary (satan-small "s") since David is relying on the flesh for the defense and protection of Israel instead of God. God being angered in David's rejection of Him and His protection and provision, dispatched an adversary (satan) to David. It happens that the adversary (satan) dispatched happened to be "the" Satan, himself. Satan obeys God's wishes and judges David and Israel for the king's transgression and sin.

Answer for yourself: Did Satan fight God or David?

Answer for yourself: Who disobeyed God?

Answer for yourself: Who needed to repent here; Satan or David?

You be the judge. God is not fighting Satan but the "satans" (men-as adversaries to the will of God in the Earth) created in the image of God. This is all "allegory" and not literalism which we seem to not know today. All the more important that we gather some knowledge in order to interpret out Bibles correctly. You got it! God fights the flesh of men to submit to the Spirit of God, thus accomplishing His purposes, and not ours.

Answer for yourself: It's exciting to finally know the truth, isn't?

Now best you set down from this. Later in this website I will show you how the ancients already knew of the concept of the "Lightbearer" and "Lucifer" and they used this symbolism for thousands and thousands of years to depict the "indwelling Krst/Christ" within all humanity. Let this sink in; let it sink in that for thousands of years until the rise of Roman Catholic theology the concept of "Lucifer" was likened to the "incarnated Christ" who brings light to our darkened Souls incarnated, trapped and mummified in "matter" and "crucified in the bodies of 'matter'". Let it sink in that in the hands of Rome the ancient Spiritual Wisdom and symbol of Lucifer, the ancient symbol for "the indwelling Christ", was altered into Satan and evil. Again we find the complete radical reinterpretation of the ancient understanding of "the Christ" at the hands of Rome. Here we have the insertion of a "Christly Spiritual Concept" inserted into the Hebrew Scriptures where it never was originally and not only did early Roman Christianity "add to" the Word of God, which we are told not to, but in so doing the very meaning of this Spiritual concept was 180 degrees changed from Christ to Satan. That should make us upset; it does me! Who wants the truth out there?

THE BIBLE AND ASTROLOGY: WHAT IS THE TRUTH ABOUT ASTROLOGY?

Answer for yourself: What does the bible teach about astrology and the Heavens?

More than likely you know that from the very very ancient mankind observed the Heavens and the stars in them. What you more than likely did not know that likewise from the beginning Gods people were instructed to and encouraged to study the stars and the signs in the heavens. We find this admonition right in the beginning of our Bibles and the Hebrew Scriptures.

Gen 1:14 14 And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years: (KJV)

God instructs us from the beginning that the stars and the heavens are for signs!

Answer for yourself: What is the meaning of these "signs"? Signs for what?

Well it cannot be for seasons (spring, summer, etc) because that is mentioned in addition to "signs" in the same verse so "signs" must mean something else.

Strong's Concordance

226 'owth (oth); probably from 225 (in the sense of appearing); a signal (literally or figuratively), as a flag, beacon, monument, omen, prodigy, evidence, etc.: KJV-- mark, miracle, (en-) sign, token.

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

226 'owth- 1) a sign, a signal

- a) a distinguishing mark
- b) a banner
- c) remembrance
- d) a miraculous sign
- e) an omen
- f) a warning

2) a token, an ensign, a standard, a miracle, a proof

Answer for yourself: Could these "lights" in the firmament mean more than the Sun and the Moon? Could these "lights" in the firmament possibly mean astrological signs or the signs of the Zodiac? Does the bible ever mention the Zodiac? You might be surprised but the Bible surely does mention the Zodiac and often synagogues had a zodiac in their floor.

In 1928, Israeli farmers in Beth Alpha, located at the base of Mount Gilboa in the Valley of Jezreel, were digging an irrigation ditch when they unearthed a brightly colored mosaic chip. A Hebrew inscription on the piece was cause for consultation with Professor Eliezer Sukenik of the Hebrew University, who immediately ordered an archaeological dig. This led to the discovery of the remains of a fifth century synagogue's pillars and walls. The greatest surprise came when they unearthed an almost completely intact zodiac mosaic floor.

The elegant floor of warmly colored stones contains an instantly recognizable image of the twelve signs. The Greek Sun god Helios is the largest image, appearing in the center of the horoscope wheel. He's crowned and is shown inside his chariot surrounded by stars and a crescent Moon. Four horses appear with him, and his chariot has multi-colored wheels.

Beautiful renditions of the zodiac signs appear in the house sectors, starting with Libra at the rising sign point, rather than traditional Aries. Angels of the four seasons decorate the corners. Twenty-two different stones were used to create this masterpiece; the Hebrew alphabet is comprised of the same number of letters. The pavement was made in the time of Emperor Justin the First, who reigned from 518 to 527. It covers the entire nave area and has inscriptions referring to the zodiac in Hebrew and Greek. Examples of the twelve zodiac signs with Helios in his sun chariot surrounded by angels have been discovered in seven ancient synagogues in Israel. In addition to Beth Alpha, the zodiacs appear at Hammath Tiberias, Khirbet Susiya, Yafia, Sepphoris, Beth Shean, Husifa, and Na'aran.

ASTROLOGY AND ANCIENT JUDAISM

Hebrew tradition believes the first Jewish patriarchs used astrology, including Abraham. Abraham came from Babylon or Mesopotamia, a city with a name that translates as "light of the astrologers," where planetary deities were worshipped. One astrological treatise possibly written by Abraham is known to have existed in the third century B.C. Abraham's father Terah was also an astrologer.

Moses (c.1200-1100 B.C.), as Pharaoh's adopted son, was also an astrologer. He correlated the attributes of the twelve signs to the twelve tribes of Israel, then took the people from the tabernacle in the wilderness on their pilgrimage, lined up by zodiacal order. Rabbinical tradition asserts that the signs of the zodiac have represented the twelve tribes since antiquity.

Beth Alpha's floor is renown as one the most important mosaics in Israel. The synagogue is now part of a National Park on Kibbutz Hefzibah. Visitors can tour the Beth Alpha Synagogue National Park and see the most complete zodiac floor from the time when astrology held a place in the synagogue.

We should expect and do find multiple references to the Zodiac in the Bible.

Job 38:31-33 "Canst thou bring bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion? Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season? Or canst thou guide Arcturus with his sons? Knowest thou the ordinances of heaven? Canst thou set the dominion thereof in the earth?"

Answer for yourself: Did you notice the word "Pleiades"? Pleiades is a "cluster of seven stars in the neck of the constellation Taurus." Then there is Orion. Orion is "constellation in the southern hemisphere containing seventy-eight stars."

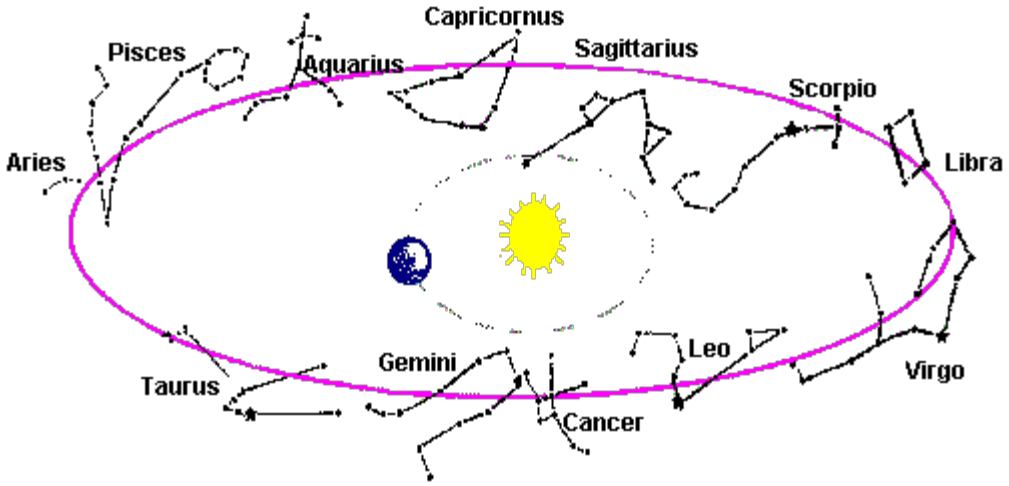
Answer for yourself: Did you notice the word Mazzaroth? What does this word mean?

Strong's Concordance:

4216 Mazzarah (maz-zaw-raw'); apparently from 5144 in the sense of distinction; some noted constellation (only in the plural), perhaps collectively, the 12 signs of the Zodiac: KJV-- Mazzoroth. Compare 4208.

Brown-Driver-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

4216 mazzarah- Mazzaroth; the 12 signs of the Zodiac and their 36 associated constellations



Here we have a verifiable account of the Zodiac being looked upon with a "holy reverence".

Job is actually asking if Yahweh (the so called sacred name for the tribal god of the Jews) God can bring the Zodiac about each day and according to the dates thereof. So it is very clear that we are talking about Astronomy here.

Amos 5:8 "He who made the Pleiades and Orion, and changes deep darkness into morning."

These people knew the Zodiac and Astrology.

Answer for yourself: Why would God mention the Zodiac in the Hebrew Scriptures if we are not to understand it? It would appear without a doubt that these people knew the Zodiac and Astrology!

Answer for yourself: Why should this surprise anyone; it is all right there in the Bible?

Even Yahweh himself was fascinated with His stars that He even named them.

Ps 147:4 4 He telleth the number of the stars; he calleth them all by their names. (KJV)

The Book of Jasher is given scriptural authority in Joshua 10:13 and II Samuel 1:18.

Answer for yourself: Why have we as Christians and followers of "the Christ" not ever been taught or know much concerning the Book of Jasher? The reason this book has not been very popular and probably hidden, is because what it says about astrology. One of the many problematic passages in the book is the one concerning Abraham's father Terah who "had twelve gods of large size, made of wood and stone, after the twelve months of the year, and he served each one monthly" (Jasher 9:8). Abraham himself is depicted as worshipping the sun and the moon:

"And Abram served the sun in that day and he prayed to it…and Abram served the moon and prayed to it all that night." (Jasher 9:14-17)

Then we have recorded that the Jews did the same thing later, "And he (Josiah) did away with the idolatrous priests…who burned incense to Baal, to the sun and the moon and to the constellations and to all the host of heaven." (II Kings 23:5)

These Jewish kings were sun-worshippers as it is stated in II Kings 23:11, "removed the horses that the kings of Judah had dedicated to the sun…"

This is where it really gets interesting. We see the phrase "all the host of heaven" in the passage above.

Answer for yourself: What is meant by "all the host of heaven"?

It is clearly referring to the stars and the constellations and such. That is what is meant by the "host of heaven", it is basically astrological.

Now we have a problem in the next passage which seems contradictory to what we have seen up to this point and especially so when comparing what we saw written in Genesis earlier in this article. Notice with we the diametrically opposite position now taken concerning the Sun and the stars:

Yahweh warned his people, "And beware, lest you lift up your eyes to heaven and see the sun and the moon and the stars, all the host of heaven, and be drawn away and worship them and serve them…" So we see here that "all the host of heaven" is the stars and such and that Yahweh warned to not even look up at them.

Answer for yourself: What is going on? Isn't this contradicting from Genesis 1:14 where it says that these "host of heaven" were given for a sign to his people? Something is wrong and unless one studies hard he will forever confused when contrasting these several passages; some for and some against astronomy and astrology.

Deut. 17:3 is another place where Yahweh condemns his people who "has gone and served other gods and worshipped them, or the sun or the moon or any heavenly host, which I have not commanded'. The interesting thing is here is that Yahweh, God the creator of all these things, the stars, the Sun and Moon NEVER once says that these things are not real, living creatures. Think about it. These verses go on to call them "gods". It is as if Yahweh and His people all believed that these "host of heaven" had personalities and were living entities.

Answer for yourself: Is the Universe "alive"? Is our galaxy but a small microcosm of this living being that we call God?

I've learned enough astronomy to discover something that's completely changed my view of cosmology. This is that the idea that there are principles of self-organization acting on astronomical scales which seems really to be true. During the last ten years or so, people who study galaxies have discovered evidence that feed-back effects and mechanisms of self-organization are indeed happening at the level of the galaxies: they are, in fact, essential for galaxies to form stars. They're also necessary to the existence of spiral galaxies. The idea that a galaxy is a self-organized system - more an ecology than a nonliving clump of stars and gas - has become common among astronomers and physicists who study galaxies. Thus, it seems to me quite likely that the concept of self-organization and complexity will more and more play a role in astronomy and cosmology. This is exactly what is described in the earliest chapters of Genesis. It was only in the 1980's that the idea that our entire planet could be regarded as a single living stystem, called "Gaia", began to be taken at all seriously, and the Gaia hypothesis is itself still the subject of intense debate. We have not yet really grasped the notion of a single planet as a living system, so it is small wonder that it needs a large leap of the imagination to regard the entire Milky Way Galaxy as a living system. And yet, the concept of Gaia, and Jim Lovelock's insight into the nature of life itself, provide just the springboard needed to make that leap.

John Gribben, from In The Beginning: The Birth of the Living Universe, states:

- "Lovelock realized that the key feature of life on Earth is that the entire ecosystem of the planet is far from chemical equilibrium, and stays far from equilibrium. Even from a distance, a visitor from outer space could analyse the composition of the Earth's atmosphere, using spectroscopy, and infer that life was at work, creating and maintaining these non-equilibrium conditions. But a galaxy like the Milky Way is also in a far from equilibrium state, and is being maintained in that state by processes going on within it! The very criterion that led Lovelock to the insight that the entire Earth could be regarded as a living system applies to the Milky Way itself. (. . .)"
- "If you had a lifespan of a few billion years, so that you could sit and watch galaxies rotate, and if you had a vantage point in the far depths of space, high above the Milky Way, looking down on its spiral patten, you would see individual stars moving through the spiral pattern. Following their orbits in obedience to the simple laws of physics. But the pattern itself, flying in the face of those simple laws, would not be disrupted as a result. Instead it would persist, refusing to be destroyed by the movement of the stars. It would be as obvious to you that something odd was going on as it would be to an alien spectroscopist that there is something odd about the atmosphere of the Earth. And as you watched the spiral arms grow, and move around the Galaxy seeemingly independently of the differential rotation of the stars, it would be obvious that you were watching a living system. (. . .)"
- "I have argued that our Galaxy is alive - literally alive, in the full biological meaning of the term. Like other galaxies it has been produced by a process of evolution and competition within the Universe, following the Big Bang. The end-product of this evolutionary process has been spiral galaxies that are very efficient supernova-nurseries."

The underlying theme here, which is found in the Ancinet Spiritual Wisdom, is that the Cosmos is alive and is the living expression of God.

Answer for yourself: Can we prove this, that the Cosmos is alive? To prove my point: Nehemiah 9:6 "Thou, even thou, art Lord…and all the host of heaven worshippeth thee." So here we see the stars as worshipping Yahweh. This must mean that the writer believed that the stars were actually living creatures.

Judges 5:20 "The stars fought from heaven, from their courses they fought against Sisera."

Answer for yourself: What did we see in the above verse from Judges 5:20? Here we see that the stars are actually fighting in battle. The writer of the book of Judges seemed to think that stars were living beings.

Job 38:7 "When the morning stars sang together, all the sons of God shouted for joy."

This is basically saying that the "sons of God" were in reality the stars or host of heaven.

Ps 147:4 4 He telleth the number of the stars; he calleth them all by their names. (KJV)

Here the bible says that even Yahweh himself gave the host of heaven, the stars, names.

Ps 148:1-3 1 Praise ye the LORD. Praise ye the LORD from the heavens: praise him in the heights. 2 Praise ye him, all his angels: praise ye him, all his hosts. 3 Praise ye him, sun and moon: praise him, all ye stars of light. (KJV)

So here we see that the stars and sun and the moon are told to praise God as if they were living souls. We can clearly see that this is exactly what the Hebrews believed. They believed that the stars were living beings.

Dan 12:3 3 And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. (KJV)

So here Daniel said that those who have a "special" insight will be like the stars and that the stars are actually righteous.

Answer for yourself: How can a mass of organic and gaseous substance be righteous?

The only way is that Daniel thought that the stars had souls and were living. This is what was generally believed in ancient times as well as the Hebrews as we will see as our studies advance.

Answer for yourself: So who exactly was Yahweh? We have all been taught that Yahweh is believed to be a name for God but when we look deeper we see what we have missed our whole lives.

I King 22:19 19 And he said, Hear thou therefore the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting on his throne, and all the host of heaven standing by him on his right hand and on his left. (KJV)

We have already seen in this article as discussed above that the "host of heaven" is the stars of the heavens. Then this verse is referring to the stars in the Heavens which surround the Yahweh's throne. More specific it refers to all the Heavenly orbs in the Heavens above which include the planets, the sun or the moon.

Answer for yourself: Is there anywhere that tells us exactly who Yahweh might be?

Ps 89:36-37 36 His seed shall endure for ever, and his throne as the sun before me. 37 It shall be established for ever as the moon, and as a faithful witness in heaven. Selah. (KJV)

The verse says that Yahweh's throne is as the sun, and that it stands as a witness in heaven! This means that we should be able to "see" this witness and see Yahweh's throne as we look into the sky above. This is all the more amazing when it dawns upon us that we have seen the Throne of Yahweh our whole lives and never recognized it as we looked at the Sun over and over again.

Answer for yourself: Could it be that this verse is saying that the ancient Hebrews viewed the Sun as if it was Yahweh or at least a symbol of Yahweh? Is this any different from Egypt who likewise looked at the Sun as the representation of God as their Savior?

Ps 50:1-2 1 The mighty God, even the LORD, hath spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the sun unto the going down thereof. 2 Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty, God hath shined. (KJV)

So here we see that the rising of the Sun and its going down has something to do with Yahweh speaking.

Answer for yourself: Is God communicating a message to us from the Sun and other stars in the Heavens and we not know it?

- What is this message?
- Is there any connection between God's message to mankind in movement of the Sun and its path through the Heavens?
- Did the Ancient Egyptians understand this message of God and can we know it today?
- Has this message from God as understood by the Ancients been changed over time and have we lost the original understanding of what God was speaking as the Ancients understood it and has this message been replaced by a counterfeit message by Rome?

These are very, very important questions. I realize that this is new material for most but that does not change the fact that unlike "literal Christians today" and "literal followers of the Christ" the Ancients and their Priests understood the movement of the Heavens as the message of God and the voice of God to them. God's salvation message was proclaimed on the chalkboard of the Heavens above and the wisdom of the Ancients reveal to us such wisdom if only we knew to look. This concept of God speaking to us from the Sun and the Stars is totally foreign to Christianity in the Western Hemisphere today since we are taught since childhood that Astrology and Astronomy is evil.

The above passage goes on to say that God (the sun) hath shined. This is clearly speaking of the sun.

We all have at one time or another in our lives heard of Malachi 4:2

"But for you who fear my name the SUN of Righteousness will rise with healing in its wings…"

Here the SUN is referred to as being righteous and able to heal. This next verse should wrap this up and really expose just who Yahweh was.

Ps 84:11-12 11 For the LORD God is a sun and shield: the LORD will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. 12 O LORD of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee. (KJV)

It is as plain as can be that this verse refers to Yahweh as being a star or the sun! How much more evidence do we need to see that the Ancients, and even the Hebrews, understood God as associated with the Sun and saw a message being proclaimed by the Creator by the movement of the orbs of the Cosmos?

Yahweh was worshipped in the symbol of the SUN!

Job 37:14-21 14 Hearken unto this, O Job: stand still, and consider the wondrous works of God. 15 Dost thou know when God disposed them, and caused the light of his cloud to shine? 16 Dost thou know the balancings of the clouds, the wondrous works of him which is perfect in knowledge? 17 How thy garments are warm, when he quieteth the earth by the south wind? 18 Hast thou with him spread out the sky, which is strong, and as a molten looking glass? 19 Teach us what we shall say unto him; for we cannot order our speech by reason of darkness. 20 Shall it be told him that I speak? if a man speak, surely he shall be swallowed up. 21 And now men see not the bright light which is in the clouds: but the wind passeth, and cleanseth them. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Now what does this mean? This is talking about God's light shining through a cloud. Now what is the bright light in the clouds? It is the SUN!

Let us consider these other verses.

Isaiah 2:5 "…walk in the light of the Lord."

Isaiah 60:1 "Arise shine for thy light is come and the glory of the Lord is risen."

Numbers 24:17 "…a STAR shall come forth from Jacob…"

There are many more examples as these. As stated before the bible is nothing more than Astrotheology and is not to be taken literally in many places where we have erroneously done so because of inadequate teachings. One might say that the whole book can be shown to be nothing but myths, astral worship, and personification of the movement of the Heavens rolled into one book which is dispersed among the history of a people; the Hebrews.

Answer for yourself: Is there proof that the early Christians and even recent day Christianity still worship the sun? And what about Jesus?

- Is he really just another SUN God? Did he really exist?
- Can it be shown that the depiction of "Jesus Christ" in the New Testament is nothing more than the personification of the SUN and its path through the Zodiac?
- Can it be shown that Jesus Christ's father is the whole heavens and the 12 Houses of Israel is the 12 Houses of the Zodiac and the 12 disciples are the 12 signs of the zodiac?
- What about the New Testament? Has Astrology in the New Testament been interpreted "literally" as a historical "Jesus Christ" when in fact the Ancients who originally taught these concepts which were later written down never intended them to be understood other than an allegorical expression of Divine Truth and the Message of God as heard from the movement of the orbs in the Heavens above?

THE NEW TESTAMENT AND ASTROLOGY...HIDDEN IN PLAIN SIGHT

If you have read the New Testament much then you have read astrology over and over again and never possibly noticed it. Let us look quickly at only a few examples before we move to a deeper study.

Matthew 2:2 "Where is he that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east, and have come to worship him."

Here we see that Jesus "the Christ" had his own star for they saw his star.

Matthew 2:10 "And when they saw the star, they rejoiced exceedingly with great joy."

Answer for yourself: Is this not worship of the stars?

I Corinthians 15:40-41 "There are also heavenly bodies and earthly bodies, but the glory of the heavenly is one, and the glory of the earthly is another. There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars, for star differs from star in glory."

It is interesting that Paul states that some stars are different from others and compares the resurrection with the glory of a star.

Answer for yourself: Are stars born? Do they die? Does this have anything to do with them rising in the horizon and setting below the horizon and was this understood by the Ancients that God was speaking to them of "birth, life, death, and rebirth"? Was the rising and setting of the Sun and Stars a symbol of a theological Divine Truth; one of "birth" and "death" and "rebirth"? Did the Ancients see the same message spoken to them by God in Nature with the seasons which itself was controlled by the "signs" of Heaven? You bet they did and in fact in time they came to see these same Divine Principles working in their own bodies. In such a way Ancient mankind and the Egyptians and their Priests, who just happen to be the biological parents of the later Jewish race, came to see that mankind was "created in the image of God" which they saw above their heads, around them on earth, and within their own bodies. Keep that in mind.God was speaking to them of "life after death" and "Eternal Life" through the message of the Sun and Stars. Understand these movements of the Cosmos were understood allegorically by the Ancients of deeper Divine Principles and these Divine Principles later became religious Dogmas that were always understood "allegorically" and not literally. Literal truths were expressed through the medium of allegory by Ancient sages and Priests of Egypt for example but the myths created to express them were never meant to be believed literally. For example Osiris was a type and shadow of a Divine Concept and never meant to be understood as a historical person. Keep that in mind when we look at the life of "Jesus Christ" in the New Testament. Personification is fine to teach Divine Truths if we understand it as such but when personification and allegory become "literalized" without the reader's knowledge then deception enters into the mix and in the case of Christianity the personification of the allegorical "Christ" into a historical literal "Jesus Story" has rendered us as idolators since the vast majority of Christians today worship Jesus as a godman instead of worshipping the Invisible Divine Creator as instructed by Moses and the Ten Commandments.

Answer for yourself: Did we miss something of major importance in I Corinthians 15:44-41? Yes we did.

We must take time to notice something very important in this verse which was the very substrate of Egyptian and Jewish religion. Egypt understood and the substructure of their whole worship of God was the Divine Principles that "So Above, So Beneath". Let me explain. There is a heavenly and an earthly figure or pattern for everything. Two different concepts. Remember this it is very important.

Malachi 1:11 "For from the rising of the sun to it's setting my name (Yahweh) is great among the nations."

Answer for yourself: But Yahweh's name is not said to be great after the setting of the sun. Why? Because his name was that of the Sun.

Before we go on we need to learn a little more of what the Ancients understood of the Sun. This brings us to Horus, the Son of God in Egypt. The name Horus comes from the Egyptian word "Hor", which translates as 'face'. We find that he had many names because of the different aspects connected to him. We find him worshipped as Mekhenti-irry which translates as 'He who has on his brow Two Eyes', the sun and moon representing his eyes. The followers of Horus invaded Egypt in pre dynastic history, at this time he was venerated as a victorious warlord. He became a part of the state religion and was associated with the sun god, Ra. Horus was so important to the state religion that Pharaohs were considered his human manifestation (representatives) and even took on the name Horus. In the more popular religious beliefs of the Osiris cults he was the son of Osiris and Isis. The avenger of his father's murder and the model of a dutiful son. It is in these stories that we find him doing battle with his uncle, Seth (personified darkness). This sure should make us think of the Sun battling darkness on a daily basis; especially when the Sun sets in the western horizon and "dies" only to be "resurrected later".

Other Names For Horus:

- Haroeris (Horus the Elder): An early form of Horus. He was a god of light. His eyes represented the sun and the moon.
- Ra-Harakhte: (Horus of the two horizons): This horus was identified with Ra and the daily voyage of the sun from horizon to horizon.
- Harpokrates (The infant Horus): As a child he represented the new born sun and was often pictured being suckled by Isis. In this form he is often depicted as a naked child seated on Isis's lap. This motif later become the icon for baby Jesus and Mary.
- Harmakhet (Horus in the Horizon): In this form he represented the rising sun.
- Horus Behudety: In the form of Horus of Edfu, he represented the midday sun.
- Harmachis: (Heru-Em-Akhet, Harmakis): "Horus in the horizon". Horus as symbol of resurrection, linked with the setting sun.

Isis - Horus

The picture of Isis and Horus is another "image" that has supposedly been "Christianized". The worship of the mother and her child, the re-incarnated sun god, has been one of the main components of sun worship since ancient times. The child represented the reborn sun god, proclaimed to be husband of the mother. That enabled her to claim the title "mother of god" – "queen of heaven". Please notice the "nimbus" surrounding the heads in many depictions of the “mother and child”. This “nimbus” or radiant light, in the form of a circle or halo, originated in the sun worship. The nimbus was used to indicate the radiance of the sun gods or goddesses. As if that was not enough often Catholic theology is betrayed by their artwork and no greater example could be found that this next picture of Mary and baby Jesus, not only with the nimbus of the sun above their heads but they are surrounded by the constellations of the Zodiac. Notice also the rays of the Sun behind her and let us never forget that we get the word for "ray", as in rays of the Sun, from Ra, the personification of God the Creator as the Sun in Egypt.

Answer for yourself: In the myth of Horus did the Ancients understand by watching the path of the Sun that God was speaking to them of higher Divine Truths such as "birth, life, death, and resurrection"? It sure appears so and they immortalized this Divine Truth in the allegory of Horus, the Son of God. We should expect to find the same Divine Truth in the "Jesus Story" and we do but like Horus it was never meant to be taken "literally" as a historical person. Modern scholarship reveals this to today if we only look.

DID EGYPT KNOW YAHWEH FIRST?

Answer for yourself: Since we saw earlier that Yahweh was often depicted as the Sun then is there a possibility the Yahweh was first know by the Egyptians long before the Jewish people which again modern scholarship today shows us were their biological children? Did you know that the name "Yahweh" is from an Egyptian word Ioa?

Exod 3:13-14 13 And Moses said unto God, Behold, when I come unto the children of Israel, and shall say unto them, The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you; and they shall say to me, What is his name? what shall I say unto them? 14 And God said unto Moses, I AM THAT I AM: and he said, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I AM hath sent me unto you. (KJV)

The Egyptian name for God was "Nuk-Pa-Nuk," or "I Am That I Am". James Bonwick, in Egyptian Belief and Modern Thought, goes on to teach us that this Egyptian phrase, "I Am That I Am" should recall to our memory the Mosaic narrative. Also he informs us that the secret Name of God was earnestly sought for in prayer. On an ancient image of a priest, the Deity is styled "Divine Father." It was a solemn declaration on the tomb of an Egyptian worthy the cry of a pious Israelite-"The Lord is God, there is but one God for me". This is all the more understandable when we come to realize that all the various names for their "gods" and "goddesses" but nothing more than expressions of the Many in the One or the various attributes of the Creator individualize and expressed individually (James Bonwick, Egyptian Belief and Modern Thought, p. 395). In none of these forms or attributes, however, not even in the naked shining sun, was it the literal object that was worshiped, but certain functions or powers, of which these were but the representations. It was observed that the sun in cooperation with the earth and the atmosphere which gave rain, caused all manner of verdure to spring forth and bear its proper fruit. It was held, therefore, that the sun was the supreme formative power, the mighty author of fruitfulness, and that the greatest and most glorious manifestation and exertion of his powers were employed in reproduction. Sun worship was therefore nothing more nor less than the worship of the principle of reproduction in man and nature and symbolized the very gift of life which came ultimately from the invisible Creator Himself. And as the influence of the real sun was extended over and through all nature, so this principle was extended through all worship.

Godfrey Higgins, in his Anacalypsis, vol. ii, p. 17, informs us that this Egyptian name "I Am That I Am" was found on the temple of Isis at Sais in Egypt. "'I Am' was a Divine name understood by all the initiated among the Egyptians" says Higgins. He goes on to say that "The 'I Am' of the Hebrews and the 'I Am" of the Egyptians are identical." Furthermore he make note of the fact that the name esteemed the most sacred by the Egyptians was that which the Hebrews later adopted; namely Y-Ha-Ho (Yahweh or Jehovah to us today). He says it is variously pronounced: but Clement, of Alexandria, Egypt, assures us, in his Stromatis, that all those who entered into the temple of Serapis, were obliged to wear on their persons, in a conspicuous place on their breast or forehead, the name of "I-ha-h", (Jao) or "I-ha-hou" (J-ha-ho), which signifies "the God eternal." Now for a remarkable statement: From this, I think, we may fairly infer, that the Egyptians were of the same religion, in its fundamentals, as the Jews (Godfrey Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. ii, p. 17).

Answer for yourself: Then does it not appear that the name "Jehovah" or "Yahweh", which was adopted by the Hebrews, was a name esteemed sacred among the Egyptians? The Hebrews called "Nuk-Pa-Nuk" which they learned of only in Egypt by the name recognized today which is "Y-ha-Ho" or "Yahweh" (Godfrey Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i, p. 329; vol. ii. p. 17). Bonwick goes on to say that this name was well-known to the Egyptian Gentiles long before the Jewish nation there can be no doubt. Bonwick also make mention of the fact that the Egyptian expression "Nutar Nutra" exactly corresponds in sense to the Hebrew "El Shaddai," the very title by which God tells Moses he was known to Abraham and Isaac and Jacob (Prof. Renouf: Religion of Ancient Egypt, p. 99). For those who want to check this out and learn more in detail a fantastic book I highly recommend is Bible Myths and Parallels in Other Religions by T. W. Doane (1910) and you can these things in greater detail.

Answer for yourself: What other "Divine Truths" did Egypt know which we have today inherited from the hands of antisemitic Rome (remember the Jewish nation would be not only the children of the Egyptians but inherit their religion of the Sun as well) altered and changed? Has the allegories and symbolisms expressing Divine Truth as taught by Egypt and Judaism been "literalized" by Rome in the New Testament and in so doing we have lost the true message of God which He spoke from the Sun and the Stars which the Ancients priesthoods knew?

One more thing before we move on. Amen-Ra was another name for this Divine Father in heaven, who has the title of "Huhi" the eternal, from which the Hebrews derived the name "Ihuh." The closest the Jews come to a name for their god is Yahweh or as some call him Jehovah. But Jehovah had never been pronounced until the 17th century when the letter J was added to the English alphabet. Yahweh is translated in the Bible as LORD. But Lord is just another title, making the name of the Jewish god two titles, lord and god. It was their Shem Hammephorash for which neither Yahweh nor Jehovah are the correct pronunciations. The Jews considered the name of their god to be so sacred that it was only pronounced once a year and only by the High Priest in the temple in Jerusalem. Additionally, only the Hebrew consonants which correspond to IHUH or later JHUH, which comprise the Tetragrammaton - the Ineffable name, were written. Instead of pronouncing the name, the Jews substituted the name "Adonai" for the name of their god. Or so they now claim. But Adonis is the Phoenician God of love and beauty. It is quite probable that the Jews simply did not have a name for their god, so they borrowed the Greek name early in Jewish history. Whatever the name of the Jewish god may have been, there hasn't been a high priest who could pronounce the name in the temple for 1900 years. The fact is, there is not a modern Jew, or anyone else who knows how to pronounce his own god's name. And the Christian god does not even have a name. For the derivation and origin of the name "Jesus Christ" we must look to Ancient Egypt for it began there thousands of years before the first century.

Psalms 68:32-34 "Sing praises to the Lord, to him who rides upon the highest heavens, which are from ancient times…and his strength is in the skies."

This makes it clear that Yahweh rides in the heavens and in the sky is his strength.

Jesus, as "the Christ," was also worshipped as the sun.

Answer for yourself: When did Paul see Jesus?

Acts 26:13 "At midday, O king, I saw on the way a light from heaven, brighter than the sun, shining around me…"

Here Paul says he seen this bright light at midday, the time of day when the sun is the brightest (Horus Behudety: Paul saw in this Jesus another form of Horus of Edfu as he represented the midday sun).

II Peter 1:19 "And so we have the prophetic word made more sure, to which you do well to pay attention as to a lamp shining in a dark place, until the DAY DAWNS and the MORNING STAR arises in your hearts."

Answer for yourself: What exactly does Peter mean by morning star and the reference to the "dawning of the day"? Could he possibly mean Jesus Christ?

Revelation 2:27 "And I will give him the MORNING STAR."

Well we finally get our answer as to whom Jesus Christ is and he himself admits it.

Revelation 22:16 "I Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. I am the root and the offspring of David, and the BRIGHT and MORNING STAR."

Well we have our answer but it is not comforting for some who have been taught a historical "Jesus" their whole lives. Jesus Christ tells us who he is just as God did in Psalms 84:11.

Ps 84:11 11 For the LORD God is a sun and shield: the LORD will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. (KJV)

God and Jesus are the SUN in many of the texts within our Scriptures and we fail to recognize it today! And these bible verses and the earliest Christian history which escapes the literary purge and destruction of Rome clearly prove that "Jesus Christ" was but an allegory for deeper Divine Concepts and was not worshipped as a historical person but as the Sun and the heavens was his father's house. The Bishop of Carthage Tertullian says that Christians were considered as sun worshippers because they prayed towards the east just like their pagan counterparts who also worshipped the sun. Tertullian goes on to say, "You say we worship the sun; so do you." (CE xiv, 525; Ad. Nationes, xiii; Ante-Nicene Father. iii, 123) Tertullian went on to renounce Christianity and admitted that he was in error.

DID THE EARLIEST CHURCH FATHERS KNOW JESUS WAS THE SUN BUT "LITERALIZED" THE SUN IN THEIR INTERPRETATIONS?

Other orthodox Christian fathers had interesting things to say also.

- St. Cyprian (258 CE) spoke of Christ as "the true sun (sol verus)."
- St. Ambrose (339-397 CE) the Bishop of Milan said of Christ, "He is our new sun."
- St. Gregory of Nazianzus (330-389) called Christ, "Sol noster, sol verus."
- St. Zeno of Verona (375) called Christ, "Sol noster, sol verus."
- Leo the Great (440-461) said that it was custom of many Christians to stand on the steps of the Church of St. Peter and pay homage to the Sun by obeisance and prayers.

- Emperor Hadrian could see not difference between the Christians and the followers of the Egyptian god Serapis who was the Sun. He states, "There are there [in Egypt] Christians who worship Serapis and devoted to Serapis are those who call themselves 'Bishops of Christ.' (Giles, Hebrew and Christian records, vol. ii p, 86)

This is really where the beginning of Christianity lays, in Egypt. There was a group there called the Therapeutae. For many centuries before the time of Jesus there lived a sect of religious monks in Egypt known as Essenes, or Therapeutae. Numerous bodies of ascetics (Therapeutae), especially near Lake Mareotis, devoted themselves to discipline and study, abjuring society and labor, and forgetting it is said, the simplest wans of nature, in contemplating the hidden wisdom of the Scriptures. Eusebius even claimed them as Christians and some of the forms of monasticism (by Christians) were evidently modeled after the Therapeutae" (Smith's Bible Dictionary, art, "Alexandria"). As Eusebius states in his Ecclesiastical History, Book II chapter 17, "Those ancient Therapeutae were Christians, and that their writings are our Gospels and Epistles." This sect of mystical Jews who lived near Alexandria in Egypt at the beginning of the first century CE. They are described by Philo in his book On the Contemplative Life as a Jewish Pythagorean school which also included the Essenes. Some say that Philo himself may have been a member. Although the Church historian Eusebius argued that the Therapeutae were the first Literalist Christians, as Philo wrote about them in 10 CE, 20 years before the supposed date of the crucifixion, this theory has now been thoroughly discredited. Philo writes about the Therapeutae in terms suggesting that they were practising a Jewish version of the Pagan Mysteries. Ironically, Eusebius may well have been right. The Therapeutae are most likely the proto-Christians who created the Jesus story.

The Gnostics Jews had a very big influence on Christianity. Time and space will not allow me to go into the connection here but as we have seen before on our other websites the Gnostics did not believe that the bible should be taken literally. The early Jewish and Gentile Gnostics believed that the bible should be interpreted allegorically. It is no coincidence that there are 12 patriarchs, 12 tribes of Israel and 12 disciples. 12 is the number of astrology and the 12 "houses" that the sun passes through every day and the 12 hours of night and day. The seven branched candlesticks seen in all Catholic churches are taken from, Revelation 1:12-16. These seven candlesticks are nothing more than the Sun as the central light and represented as Jesus again, and the Moon, Mercury, and Venus on one side and Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn of the other. Because in the "middle of the lamp stand one like a son of man,…girded across his breast with a golden girdle, and his head and hair were white like wool, …and his eyes were like a flame of fire. (Vs. 16) And in his right hand he held seven stars;… and his face was like the SUN shining in its strength."

Answer for yourself: What did we just read? We just read another account where Jesus Christ is being described as the Sun again!

Revelation 4:7 "And the first creature was like a lion (Leo), and the second creature like a calf (Taurus the bull calf), and the third beast had a face as a man (Aquarius, the waterman) and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle (Aquila)."

Answer for yourself: Does this sound familiar? This is basically a copy of what Ezekiel chapter one states.

Answer for yourself: How did Ezekiel view this relationship?

Ezekiel states in 1:1 "…the heavens were opened and I saw visions of God."

We should notice right off that Ezekiel got his vision from the heavens.

Matt 28:20 20 Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the word "world" is purposefully mistranslated in your Christian New Testaments? Why?

Strong's Concordance:

165 aion (ahee-ohn'); from the same as 104; properly, an age; by extension, perpetuity (also past); by implication, the world; specially (Jewish) a Messianic period (present or future): KJV-- age, course, eternal, (for) ever (-more), [n-] ever, (beginning of the while the) world (began, without end). Compare 5550.

Thayer's Greek Lexicon:

165 aion-

- 1) forever, an unbroken age, perpetuity of time, eternity
- 2) the worlds, the universe
- 3) a period of time, an age

You hear often the talk about the "new age" coming. Well in this verse we find that the word "aion" is a reference to the divisions of the Zodiac that reveal to us the precession of the equinoxes. Gerald Massey says this about the "end of an age". *"When Horus had fulfilled the period of 2155 years with the Easter Equinox in the Sign of Aries, the birthplace passed into the Sign of Pisces, when the Ever Coming One, the Renewer as the Eternal Child who had been brought forth as a Lion in Leo, a Beetle in Cancer, as one of the Twins in Gemini, as a calf in the Sign of the Bull, and a Lamb in the Sign of the Ram, was destined to manifest as the Fish, in the Sign of the Fishes...Pisces."*The Zodiac moves in the Heavens and every 2160 years one sign of the Zodiac moves out from the Vernal Equinox and is replaced by the next revolving sign of the Zodiac and a complete cycle of the Zodiac and all 12 constellations takes 26,000 years. In other words the time of the era of Jesus everywhere they were looking for a Messiah because of the Zodiac cyclic calendar. Massey goes on to state, "The Messiah who manifested in this sign was foreordained to come as Ichthys the fisherman, or, doctrinally, the fisher of men"(G. Massey, The Light of Egypt, p.20). ICHTHYS is an anagram for "Jesus Christ, Son of God, Savior" and also ichthys is the Greek word for fish. Early Christians were called "Pisciculi" or "little fishes" (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i, p. 568). Augustine said of Jesus, "he is the fish of the living water," (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i, p. 636). Tertullian calls Jesus, "our fish". Thus every where you look you see a fish symbol on the back of cars that is suppose to represent a historical person but now you know it is all just Astrotheology. I think that there is more than enough proof here to say that the Egyptians and their children the Jews had a love affair with the heavens and even worshipped them for they were for them the picture of the Invisible God. We must never forget that the worship of the Invisible God was aided by what they saw from the hands of this God and by that I mean the Heavens from which He spoke to them. To think that they physically and literally worshiped an orb and not the God which made them is foolish. We have seen Yahweh and Jesus the Christ both referred to as the Sun.

Answer for yourself: What do with do with the many stories of Jesus in the New Testament? Are all of them Astrotheology literalized? Where does the Astrotheology stop and literal truth begin? Was Jesus Christ really a historical person or a personified Divine Concept later "literalized"? Can we be sure? Will checking out the evidence for ourselves help us come to the truth about the "Jesus Story"?

Answer for yourself: After what we have seen thus far don't you owe it to yourself to check out the evidence for what this article contends for yourself?

- If then the New Testament can be shown to be but myths and Astrotheology then should we not be wise like the Egyptian sages and Priest and men like Moses, himself an Egyptian Pharaoh, and come to the original message and proper understanding of what the Ancients understood this God speaking to all mankind from these Heavens?

- Is this message of God from Heaven capable of being restored today and will it help expose the lies given to us by an antisemitic Rome?
- Will our worship of God, once repenting and unlearning the errors taught to us by a false "literalization" of "Jesus Christ" and learning of these hidden Divine truths spoken from Heaven by God which have been long kept from us, benefit and help us worship the Creator in Spirit and in Truth as He desires of us?

You bet it will and we move on to this task at present.

HOW THE ANCIENTS VIEWED THEIR SUN GODS AND ITS SPIRITUAL IMPLICATION FOR US TODAY #1

Let us begin with two questions.

Answer for yourself: Why is it important that we have a correct grasp and understanding of how the Ancients viewed and understood their Sun-gods and in so doing then do we find the hidden secret behind the "Jesus Story" that we have heard and read our whole lives?

Simply said we have not been taught the truth concerning how the Ancients understood the "Sun" let alone their representative Sun-gods. So the answer to the above questions is "yes" on both accounts; by correctly understanding how the Ancients viewed what is today termed "Sun worship" we can come to see just whom this "Jesus Christ" truly was before Rome will take this spiritual concept of "the Christ" and put "flesh" on it and create a historical "Jesus" of Nazareth for the world. This might might seem to be an over simplification but you will better understand when finishing this article and as your studies into Gnosticism and Astronomy increase. I strongly suggest that all readers of Bet Emet consume this article and begin your own personal study in these areas to verify what I have discovered over my years of study and humbly attempt to lay out for the reader in this article.

In order to understand accurately how the Ancient viewed their "Sun-gods" and the importance of possessing such knowledge and its implications to how we should correctly approach the "New Testament Jesus" we have to begin at the beginning and we must develop a realization of the spiritual nature of our universe. The Spiritual Masters and Ancients Priests of Egypt saw the universe, as a whole, as a spiritually living being, a living organism which we might call a complete system. To them the Universe was a picture of "the" One supreme God. Let it suffice to say that our solar system is one small living part of that being Whom we call typically call "God" today, as a cell is one small living part of a larger organism.

The center of our solar system is, of course, the Sun. What is often overlooked by modern man is the fact that the Sun is more than the physical center of our solar system; to the Ancient Priests of Egypt and subsequent nations who learned from them as well as their own observations and reasonings the Sun was the spiritual center of the solar system as well. This explains why so much of the Egyptian religion and understandings of God, the Creator, was based upon observations and measurements of the visible Cosmos. If this is a new idea to the reader then I suggest you begin a study of Egypt and their "sacred geometry" and you will quickly see the point beyond any doubt for them "so as above so below" is reflected not only in their architecture but their religious writings as well.

Now I want you to think at what I will say next. All life on the planet Earth is derived from, dependent upon, and expresses the sun's ENERGY. The Sun was a picture of the Energy form which all life forms was nurtured. The Ancients understood this God, the Creator, as the sum of all energy which is expressed in the living, ordered, and conscious universe. The totality of the Egyptian civilization was built upon a complete and precise understanding of universal laws. This profound understanding manifested itself in a consistent, coherent and inter-related system where art, science, philosophy and religion were intertwined, and were employed simultaneously in a single organic Unity. This "Unity" was for them the manifestation of God, the Creator. As you can see they understood that God isn't a supernatural entity apart from the material universe and us. The Egyptians regarded the universe as a conscious act of creation by the One Great God. The fundamental doctrine connected with this One Great God was the unity of the Deity. This One God was never represented contrary to what you might think when looking at pictures of the multiple "gods" and "goddesses". When you study you see the genius of their understanding of this One Great Unity, the God. These "representations" of this One Great God, this "Unity", were but reflections of Him; more like His "attributes". It is the functions and attributes of this One Great God and his domain that were represented. Once a reference was made to His functions/attributes, He became a distinguishable agent; reflecting this particular function/attribute, and its influence on the world which included the highest of His creations...mankind. His various functions and attributes as the Creator, Healer, and the like, were called the neteroo (singular: neter in the masculine form and netert in the feminine form). As such, an Egyptian neter/netert was not a 'god/goddess' but the personification of a function/attribute of the One God. To call these Spiritual Masters of Egypt "pagans" and "polytheists" shows one's complete ignorance of the Egyptian religion but this has been done by Christians writers for centuries and goes on today. Of course in so branding these Ancients worshippers of the One Great God and Unity have been severely stigmatized and in so doing no one, especially a Christian, will have a desire to look toward "pagan" Egypt and Egyptian religion, or that is at least the hoped for result for it you do and seriously "crack the egg shell" of Egyptian religion and see these understanding of God and the very depth of their knowledge of this God then chill bumps will rule your body as you drift into deeper understandings of this God and Creator then you ever dreamed possible.

Central to their complete understanding of the universe, was the knowledge that man was made in the image of God, and as such, man represented the created image of all creation. Accordingly, Egyptian symbolism and all measures were therefore simultaneously scaled to man, to the earth, to the solar system, and ultimately to the universe.

The Egyptian thinking that the One God can be represented through his functions/attributes has its equivalence in mankind. Each one of us have various functions and attributes. A person can be a scientist in a laboratory or a mechanic in a garage, a father or mother to their children, a husband or a wife, a player on his team, ... etc. This person does not have multiple personalities, but multiple functions/attributes. Egyptians recognized the universal validity of this kind of thinking, and applied it to all the levels of the hierarchically organized world. Even though it may appear complex at first sight, it is both coherent and consistent with experience. This was the essence of the Egyptian philosophy. It is a real philosophy based on organized, systematic, self-consistent and coherent principles.

Modern science uses terminology which is comparable with the Egyptian thinking of neteroo (gods). We speak of the four force fields of the universe - the weak force, the strong force, gravity, and electromagnetism (and perhaps a fifth, if there is a fifth). These forces have to be subordinate, since they all came from somewhere. The ultimate thing is God. the One. As such, it might be said that the Egyptian neteroo (gods) represent what we today would consider scientific theories that are continually refined, the way Newtonian physics moves toward quantum physics. This is very important for the Ancients "theorized" that Energy/Spirit became "matter" in the visible world, the invisible became visible. Today with the aid of Albert Einstein and others who are proponents of quantum physics we have proved that the "invisible world of energy" (God) becomes matter (the visible cosmos and mankind). They were right tens of thousands of years ago and these ideas are expressed in their religious writings as explained in the examples of these "neteroo". Neteroo is the ancient Egyptian word for Gods, which when literally translated, means Natures. As stated contrary to popular belief, the Egyptians did not believe in many different Gods and Goddesses. The 'gods and goddesses' in their ancient myths were actually the 'natures' of 'The One & All' or Creator God or Goddess. They were but "representations" of the many sides and actions of this "Cosmic Unity"; representations which were described anthropomorphically through the medium of personification. These "representations" were given lives in the form of beings, both human, animal, half human and half animal, but again these were but representations of Cosmic forces and powers at work in the visible world.

Answer for yourself: Would these "representations" of God and His workings in his "Cosmic garden", as expressed through symbols, legends, metaphors, and myths be much, much later be mistaken by subsequent nations for "literal" heroes and heroines and were they taught to those not possessing the correct "interpretative keys" of the Egyptian "neteroo" as literal historical persons in other religions? Do we find this in Christianity with the "Jesus Story"? THIS IS THE BIGGEST QUESTION THAT YOU WILL EVERY HAVE TO ANSWER; THE ANSWER TO WHICH IS NOT EASY TO DISCERN SOME 2000 YEARS REMOVED FROM THE CREATION OF THIS "JESUS STORY".

Answer for yourself: Could this explain why there is no existing unforged or tamped evidence that exists today for a historical Jesus outside of one book, given to us by Rome and not the Jews, that is filled with contradictory accounts of him and his life?

Answer for yourself: Could this explain why we cannot find one shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the Jesus Story originated as the biography of a historical man named Jesus?

Answer for yourself: Can these much earlier representations of this One Great Invisible God, explain why that outside of this one demonstratively forged book, the Roman Bible and the New Testament, that there exists not one piece of unforged or unadulterated evidence for the historical existence of this man from Galilee because "the Christ" is to be understood ONLY as a representation of a spiritual reality that resides inside every man and woman and not "externally"?

If the reader is intrigued at this point then let me recommend a great writer who tells it like it is on a level that all can comprehend. Let me recommend that be become familiar with Moustafa Gadalla as well as all of his books on Egyptian religion for in them you find "Jesus Christ" but not represented as a Christian nor as a "historical personage" but as an Egyptian concept that existed for tens of thousands of years for he is but one of many "neteroo" or representations and working of this One Great God and Unity who works and sustains all matter...including us as His children. I suggest you begin with his book The Egyptian Cosmology, The Absolute Harmony by Moustafa Gadalla.

The cosmological ideas of ancient Egypt were expressed by myth and symbolism, which are a superior means for expressing metaphysical concepts. Understand that these "spiritual concepts" are "literally real" but not necessary "literally historical" as we might expect being programed to think with a Western mindset in this revised Roman empire called America today. Philosophy, mathematics and science are dry subjects with many abstracts. Mythology incorporates philosophical and scientific ideas into a story form, like a sacred drama or mystery plays, which can be easily digested. Pure philosophical and scientific abstracts and terms do not guarantee understanding. Information alone is useless, unless it is transformed into understanding. Well-crafted mythology can achieve understanding of knowledge and it fact it has and this is easy to see and comprehend when studying Egyptian religion and their "neteroos".

Myth is an intentionally chosen means for communicating knowledge. Myth dramatizes cosmic laws, principles, processes, relationships and functions, and expresses them in an easy to understand way. Meaning and the mystic experience are not tied to a literal interpretation of events. A myth has no historical value. Once the inner meanings of the myths have been revealed, they become marvels of simultaneous scientific and philosophical completeness and conciseness. The more they are studied, the richer they become. And, rooted in the myth as it is, the part can never be mistaken for the whole, nor can its functional significance be forgotten or distorted. No where is this more true than when you do such studies into "the Egyptian Karast/Christ" and come to see the "Egyptian Logos" and subsequent "Logos" of successive nations was NEVER to be understood as some historical carnalized and fleshly manifestation to the exclusion of the "Logos" in all of God's children. In simple language the "Logos" or "Christ/Sophia" in each of mankind, both masculine and feminine, is the link and communicative pathway between this "Cosmic Unity and Energy" and matter in which "God" had come to dwell (incarnated). You might have recognized a similar idea here which is very true but not "historical-literal" to the exclusion of all others as has been done in the "Jesus Story".

The Ancients understood that air is to the physical world as God is to the spirit world. God is life, light, time and space, the pattern for all life, that God is the energy of all matter (including flesh), the heart of all that matters, the very essence of all being, the source behind every Sun and star, the source of all light and love, the core of all things, the single point of infinite light and absolute love, and the very life force of the universe. For them no greater symbol could be designated to refer to this God which brings life to all things then the Sun. Naturally, this energy is manifested in other ways as well: the moon, understood by Egypt as symbolic of man's soul and his spiritual transformation in reflecting the light of the Sun (the Sun being symbolic of God and His life). The moon, as it supplies reflected energy from this Sun, is but a reflection of the Sun and in so doing was again but a representation of a reflected source for God and His Life and Energy and in so doing then all mankind was to progressively reflect as well God's image as he progressively reflects more of God in his life as understood in the phases of the moon which mimics increasingly the light and life of the Sun). The soul of man is to spiritually mature and reflect more of God and His will in the world as he chronologically ages and matures whereby he comes to fully manifest, the fullness of God as does the moon when full. Again we see Egypt through the use of "symbol" express a "literal truth" but again man is not a historical "literal moon". You are beginning to see how the Ancient Spiritual Masters used the Sun as a symbolic representation of this One Great God in all of their myths and stories as found in the accounts of Osiris, Hours, and Isis for at the bottom of these myths are the deepest spiritual realities confronting man and his soul let alone his deeds and behaviors in his visible existence.

From this same Sun the seas absorb, transform, and release that same solar energy; plant life stores the energy in a profoundly altered form; etc. And, most importantly, each and every living human being is a repository for the sun's energy, and is blessed with the capacity for using that energy in a highly complex and creative way. In this way man was understood to be the highest manifestation of the "image of God" in the world since it was given to him to manifest God like no other creation made by this Creator in this visible world. Within the hearts of all mankind was God's home....the soul. The Sun you see was not worshiped as if "God" but was but a picture to all mankind what this God is and has to say in its distribution to mankind of God's love as seen in its light, heat, safety, photosynthesis, and resultant harvests that ensured the food chain and provided the sustenance for man's existence. Primitive mankind saw that the Sun was but a picture of this loving Creator God, Whom shared His Life and Energy with man and this was symbolized best by the energy of the Sun. So you see that this Sun was but a picture of the true energy of the Cosmos whom is this God we speak of today. The Kabbalah, known to Egypt by the way, and quantum physics today teaches us this same principle; namely, that energy can and has become "matter". Within the heart of man is a small Kabbalah or ladder to Heaven as such whereby man was eternally linked with this "Sun" and giver of all life. In such a way the Egyptian priests understood that God comprises all things at all times and lives within us and there was no better way for the Ancients to express this concept than looking to the primary visible energy source above their heads...the Sun.

Archeological history demonstrates for us today that from the earliest times, man has recognized the various sources and centers of this spiritual energy from the Sun, and has expressed this recognition in a process of deification of the natural features of the world and its surroundings (the moon, stars, etc.). But remember these "deific representations" are but pictures of the indescribable and man's finite minds struggle, as they do today to express the inexpressable and the invisible whom we call this Unity, this Energy, this God. For most peoples of history, as you are beginning to see, the Sun has played a major and central role in this process, as it should.

To equate the designation of Jesus, or Yawheh for that matter, as a Sun-god with the idea that his worshippers view him simply as a giver of life and warmth, however, is to seriously misunderstand the matter. As an organism or mankind for that matter absorbs, transforms, and expresses the sun's energy, it partakes of the spiritual essence of the Sun, and moves in the direction of becoming one with that being on a metaphysical plane. Furthermore, just as one kind of plant will share in this process in a way that differs from that of another kind of plant, so the various genetic strains of humanity each have their own way of expressing the sun's energy. The ancient Egyptians, for example, stressed the idea of Majesty, and this theme dominated every aspect of their lives. In contrast to this, the Zoroastrian tradition saw the Sun as man's champion in the struggle against the forces of darkness. For a Christian, the Sun represents a stern but protective father who will save his worshippers if they will only accept him and his ways. Examples could be cited almost endlessly, but the same implicit concept will be found again and again in almost every nation and its history since the beginning of recorded time: the Sun/deity is an all-powerful spiritual being that imposes his will on the people of the world and to whom the world is dependent upon for their very lives.

With the understanding of the above it become apparent that there is not a theme within the entire range of religious interest of such importance as the subject of the Sun-gods and their proper interpretation; especially to a Christian today which has grown up with Christian teachings that stress that Christianity is the only way to God and which stresses that way comes only through faith in and acceptance of the religious doctrines and dogmas connected with historicized, carnalized, and literalized "Jesus Christ". The reason why I can say this is having done the studies necessary over these many years I have "cracked the egg" so to speak concerning the secret of the ancient Sun-gods and their hidden mysteries as connected to various religious icons down through history; for example as manifested in such characters as Osiris, Horus, Attis, Dionysus, Mithra, and of course the final expression of the same as found in the New Testament as the "Jesus Christ" of supposed history. It is a shame that we live our whole lives as Christians and followers of "the Christ" never possessing the knowledge behind the concept of true "Jesus Christ" and believe him to have been a "literal" historical person based upon the writings of one book; a book by the way inherited and accepted blindly without on one's part any scholarly study into the origins for such a book and its plagiarism of Ancient Divine concepts which were "reinterpreted" which were but allegories of the Sun and its path through the Zodiac as well as the Heavens and various associated constellations. If you understood the above then you should by now understand how the Ancient related important spiritual concepts concerning the soul of man through the myths of the Sun which were never to understood and interpreted "literally" as if these spiritual concepts had somehow become "carnalized" and had somehow been "incarnated" in but one person to the exclusion of all others in mankind. This "literalization" and "historicization" of prior spiritual concepts will be Rome's doing where they will not only put "flesh" on this "Christ with" and drop this literary creation into a supposed historical timeline of their choosing but in their ignorance of the Hebrew religion they would later write terribly conflicting genealogies which are but an embarrassment to the learned which were added to their forgeries of the life of "Jesus of Nazareth" after in the early 3rd century. Their goal was to create a "literal god-man" which was to be a spiritual representative of their horrific and monestrous Emperors who set on literal thrones and who were already self-confessed "literal gods" and worshipped as "literal god-men" by the fearful masses. The sword of Rome had terrific power for they not only won the wars but rewrote world history along with the worlds understanding of "the Christ" which as been preserved since Ancient Egypt. The world has never suffered such a great loss of knowledge as we have at the hands of Rome.

The matter at hand is the most important issue we deal with in life. I have come to believe that the study and proper interpretation of the Ancients and their understanding of their Sun-gods to be the most important subject that one can study in his search for God. In the study of the Ancients' understanding of the Sun and their fashioning from it their religious legends and myths of the Sun-gods we find the very central thesis of all world religions. If you begin a personal study of the same you will find as I did that this subject, the proper interpretation of the Ancient Sun-gods to be the cardinal principle of all true religion.

In doing such studies over the years it is my conclusion that the world, especially the Christian world, has drifted so far away from its original base that it no longer recognizes the very first and fundamental conception about which it was in the beginning constructed. The myth of the Sun-gods and their proper interpretation is the very heart's core of religion at its best but their misinterpretation its worst and this is sadly to which we have fallen prey today. Sadly we grew up in a country conditioned by the biases of Rome and have been led to completely misinterpret such spiritual concepts of "the Christ" and "logos". Sadly the spirituality of the Ancients who compared the soul within mankind to Gods' Sun and its workings have relegated to the trash heap by branding them with the indelible stain of being "ignorant pagans". If you take the time to look and read these supposed Ancient "pagans" and not what some biased Christian writers have to say about them, who inherit blinding one ignorant tradition after another, and erroneously thinking that they have the "only way" to God, who never realizing that they are quoting a forged and highly unreliable New Testament, then you will find as I did that more often than not these Ancients expressed the most pure and most exalted concepts of the Divine that you have ever read.

It is commonly supposed and usually reinforced by Christianity that religious honors were paid to the Sun as a deity by a few isolated and misquided peoples or sects, such as the Egyptians, the followers in India of Zoroaster and some other African tribes. In correction of this view the real truth of the matter is that the worship of the Sun-god (which I found to be always a religious and spiritual concept and not a historical person but we are not supposed to know that) was quite universal in the ancient world and not isolated to a few "misdirected and ignorant folks". It ranged from China and India to Yucatan and Peru. The Emperor and the Mikado, as well as the Incas, and the Pharaohs were Sun-god figures. It appears upon study that the worship of God, symbolized and represented by the Sun, was almost universal and is to be recognized as the highest embodiment of religious conception in the spiritual history of mankind. For us the negative connotations of the Sun-gods inherited from the Christian perspective predisposes us to approach such a topic with a closed-mind more often than an objective mind when reading or doing such studies into the Ancient Sun-gods. I know from experience that it sure did for me and it was only in continuing such studies and covering related topics did I stumble onto the "keys" that opened the topic anew for me where I saw beyond the inherited negative bias of misdirected Christian writers to see the beauty and glorious truths expressed by the Ancients when they cloaked their hidden wisdom concerning God and knowledge of the Divine behind the veil and myths of their Sun-gods.

We will continue in the second article in this series.

EGYPT AND THE ANGELS OF GOD

Ptah was, according to the Egyptian texts, the Father of the fathers of all neteroo (gods) ... Who bore himself and was not borne.

Ptah manifested himself in many ways and under many aspects, and, as such, the neteroo (gods) have their forms in Ptah and are nothing but Ptah.

The neteroo (gods) were the personification of the energies/powers/forces that, through their actions and interactions, created, maintained, and continue to maintain the universe. As such, there are numerous (several thousands) neteroo (gods) in the universe.

In order to simplify and convey the scientific and philosophical abstracts of the neteroo (gods), some fixed representations were invented. As a result, the figures of Ptah, Osiris, Amen, Horus, Ma-at, Mut, etc., became the signs of such attributes/functions/ forces/energies.

These figures were intended merely to fix the attention or represent abstract idea(s), and were not intended to be looked upon as real personages. Therefore, there was no prescribed form for a neter/netert, and the Egyptians believed that a neter/netert could take on any shape that a person desired.

The worshipping of a netert (goddess) like Isis was actually worshipping the mother principle. Those worshipping Osiris were worshipping the resurrection principle, . . .etc. Again Egypt understood that these principles and forces seen in the Cosmos were manifestations of the One True God. In reality such "worship" was the worship of the One True God in His many manifestations.

The Egyptians gave a neter/netert (god/goddess) different names. This should not confuse us when we deal with philosophical/scientific abstracts, which were called neteroo (gods). Names in ancient Egypt were not just labels. A name was like a short resume or synopsis of the principle.

As an example, let us review the neter Ra, who personifies the solar principle responsible for all creation. This solar prinaiple has different roles, in the universe. Let us review three such roles which were mentioned in the Unas Funerary (Pyramid) Texts:

- They cause thee to come into being as Ra, in his name of Khepri.
- Thou ascendest unto them like Ra, in his name of Ra.
- Thou turnest back from their presence like Ra, in his name of Atum.

- The aspect of Ra, at sunrise, was called Khepri (which means coming into being).
- When the sun is high in the heavens, Ra is fully Ra.
- The aspect of Ra, as the sun at the end of the day i.e. as the completing or setting sun, becomes Atum.

An Egyptian temple was the shrine for the neter (god), who represented some specific aspects of the One God. It was a model of the universe seen from the point of view of the neter (god), to which it was consecrated. Only the priesthood had access to the inner sanctuaries, where the sacred rites and ceremonies were performed. In some instances, only the King himself, or his authorized substitute, had permission to enter.

THE TRIADS

The energies represented by the various neteroo (gods) may function together in groups, or as individuals. The interaction between the neteroo (gods), which are usually expressed in myth, are to be understood as the dramatization of cosmic and natural laws. The union of certain pairs of complementary energies/attributes (masculine and feminine forms) resulted in a third energy/attribute.

There were numerous trinities in ancient Egypt. Some examples are:

- Amen - Mut - Khonsu
- Mar - Met - Heru (Osiris - Isis - Horus)
- Ptah - Sekhmet - Nefertum

SIMILARITIES WITH ANGELS

The concept of neteroo (gods), as the personifications of universal principles, functions and attributes of the one great and supreme God, was later acknowledged by others as angels.

Just like the Egyptianµs neteroo (gods), each angel was given a name and specific function(s).

Edwin C. Steinbrecher, an astrologer, metaphysician, and author of The Inner Guide Meditation, says that angels are "living energies that contain ideas and information, specific patterns of instinctual behavior and thought. They are the energies which somehow attach themselves, without our conscious awareness, to everything we meet in the world we call real. [They] are the lift energies that pour out of each of us unceasingly night and day... influencing everyone in our lives and causing us to be influenced in return."

And just as each neter (god) of Egypt may have several forms and shapes, so is the case for each angel. The spheres of angels in Christianity are comparable with ancient Egypt's hierarchy of neteroo (gods/goddesses). Both these spheres or hierarchies describe the realms to which our senses have no access, but which are necessary within the universal scheme of things.

SYMBOLISM AND NETEROO (GODS)

In Egyptian symbolism, the precise role of the neteroo (gods) was revealed in many ways: by dress, headdress, crowns, feathers, animal, plant, color, position, size, gesture, sacred object, or type of symbolic equipment (e.g., flail, scepter, staff, ankh). Only those initiated into symbolic language - can contemplate a wealth of physical, physiological, psychological and spiritual data, in all the symbols. Compare the same concept to a modern-day caricature in the newspaper.

Crowns and ceremonial headdress of the neteroo (gods, goddesses) were never found, because they were symbols and not real.

The hieroglyph for a neter is a human figure dressed in the shepherd's long robe, and seated in the classic shepherd's pose as he tends his flock. Asar/Heru (Osiris/ Horus) was portrayed as the Perfect Shepherd (the good Shepherd).

Neteroo (gods) were always shown in action because God never sleep and is always acting in this continous Creation that is ever expanding and growing.

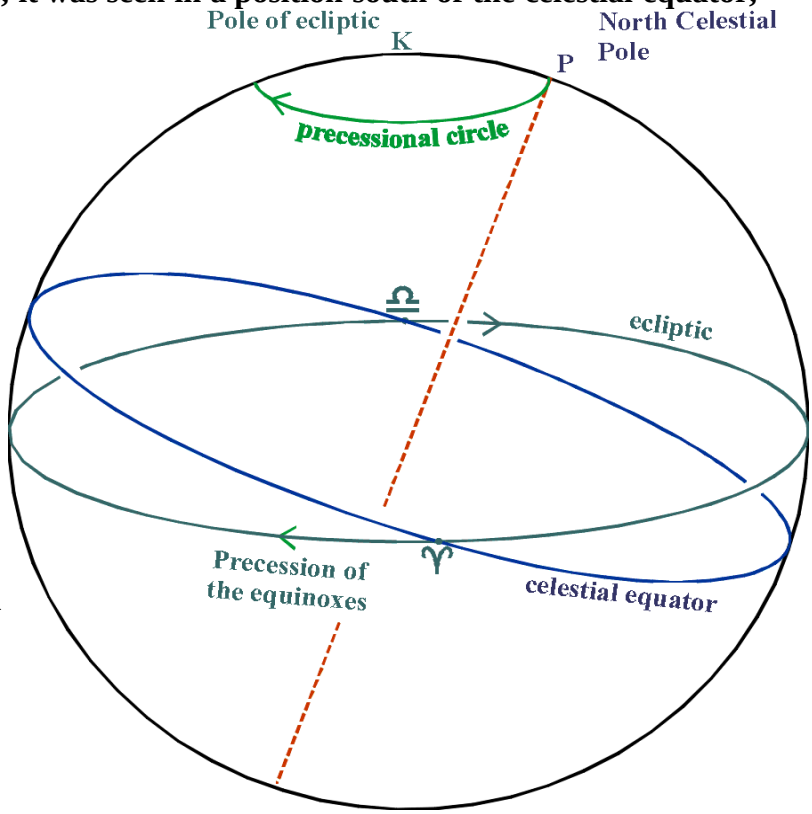
THE PRECESSION OF THE EQUINOXES



Being a circle, the Zodiac has no obvious beginning, so a specific point must be determined from which measurement can commence. This is where the problems begin to occur, in particular because astrologers sought to align the Zodiac with the four cardinal points that mark the alteration of seasons: the equinoxes (where the Sun crosses the equator in spring and autumn) and the solstices (where it is furthest from the equator in summer and winter). In the early Classical period these were regarded as fixed in space although, in fact, they are subject to an almost imperceptible precession at the rate of 50 seconds per year. What this means in simple terms, is that the Sun does not cross the equator at exactly the same place on the ecliptic each year. It crosses at a point 50 seconds of arc to the east of the previous year. During a lifetime this shifting point of intersection between the ecliptic and equator is so small as to be negligible, but over several centuries it will be noticed that the backdrop of stars that once lay behind the crossing point is moving westwards. In layman's terms "the Heavens are moving" slowly and almost imperceptibly but this can be noticed over hundreds and thousands of years and was done by the Ancient nations like Egypt who studied the stars. This is the phenomenon called "Precession" and this celestial phenomena is caused by the Earth's axis slowly rotating around the celestial poles. Whilst the background of the fixed stars remain more or less constant to each other, at least for a long time, the ecliptic's intersection with the equator slides backwards through the Zodiac, completing one circuit in approximately 26,000 years - the 'Great Astrological Age'. It common knowledge that the day marks the period of the Earth's rotation upon its axis, while the year marks the period of its revolution around the Sun. However, many people to not realize that there is also a period of approximately 25,800 years known as the Great Year, during which the poles of the Earth's axis trace an imaginary circle in the sky. This gyration of the Earth's poles occurs because our planet is an ellipsoid, flattened top and bottom and bulging at the equator. The gravitational pull of the Sun and Moon on the equatorial protuberance produces an oscillating movement similar to the wobble of a spinning top which tilts first one way and then another. Astronomers call this wobbling motion "nutation," a word derived from the Latin word "nutare", meaning to nod. Consequently, the Earth's axis is not always inclined in the same direction. About five thousand years ago, the North Pole pointed toward the star Alpha Draconis. By 2100 A.D., it will be pointing almost directly at Polaris, the present North Star. In the year 7500 A.D. Alpha Centei will be the Earth's polestar, and by 14,000 A.D., it will be Vega (Alpha Lyrae). The celestial equator is a projection of the Earth's equator upon the imaginary sphere of the heavens. Similarly, the extensions of the Earth's poles are called the north and south celestial poles. The ecliptic is the apparent path of the Sun through the heavens, and can be imagined as a line passing through the zodiacal constellations as they are seen at night. Since it is the Earth, and not the Sun, which moves, the ecliptic is really the plane of the Earth's orbit extended to meet the celestial sphere. The angle between the ecliptic and the celestial equator is called the obliquity of the ecliptic. At the present time, it measures nearly twenty-three degrees thirty minutes.

During the course of the year, the Sun appears to move slowly along the ecliptic to the left. When it reaches the point where the equator of the sky intersects the ecliptic, days and nights are of equal length. These points of intersection are called Equinoxes from the Latin "equi", equal, and "nox", night. The spring, or vernal equinox, which occurs on or about the twenty-first of March, marks the point at which the Sun enters the sign (not the constellation) Aries. Before that time, it was seen in a position south of the celestial equator, and the nights were longer than the days in the Northern Hemisphere. After the passing of the Sun over the celestial equator for southerly to northerly declination, the days are longer than the nights. Take note please where the lines of the "celestial equator" intersect with the "ecliptic" for it is at this point that the Sun "passes-over" each year; one moving from the southern hemisphere to the northern hemisphere at the Vernal Equinox and correspondingly 6 months later as it moves again over this same plane and the same intersection of the "celestial equator" with the "ecliptic" at the Autumn Equinox.

Answer for yourself: Why is this so important? It is at this moment the "Sun was on the Cross" and this concept is at the heart of the "dying/rising" god theologies we find all the way down through recorded history and which is at the core of the "Jesus Story" as well as a host of other "crucified sungods".

Due to the Earth's nutation, the point at which the Sun passes the intersection of the ecliptic and the celestial equator is seen each year in a slightly different position against the background of stars. Thus, the signs which are measured from the equinox, gradually move away from the constellations, whose names they bear and which provide the unmoving sphere against which the vernal point shifts slowly backward. This retrograde movement is called the precession of the equinoxes.

In astrology, the thirty degrees of the ecliptic, known as the sign Aries, are always counted from the vernal equinox, even though year by year the slow retrograde motion of the equinoctial point along the ecliptic amounts to about fifty seconds of a degree, or a degree every seventy-two years. (This makes the normal human lifetime equal to one degree, or one day, of the Great Solar Year.) The vernal equinox marks a natural point of beginning, shown by the balancing of days and nights (think Ma'at, harmony, peace, the Kingdom of God), whereas the constellations are arbitrary divisions of the heavenly sphere and no one is yet certain where they begin.

The movement of the Vernal Equinox from one Zodiacal sign to the next - by which we are presently moving from the Age of Pisces to Aquarius - is a subdivision of this cycle that takes approximately 2,160 years.

The need to correctly identify the position of the Vernal Equinox, which sees the crossing of the Sun from the southern hemisphere to the north around 21 March, was a matter of vast significance to ancient civilizations.

Answer for yourself: And why was this?

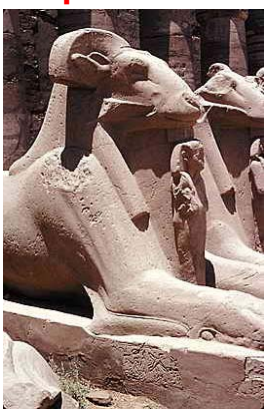
The Sun's return to the equinox gave the official signal for the start of spring, a time of great jubilation and spiritual worship, where whole communities engaged in New Year festivities and ceremonies that spanned several days, dedicated to celebrating the return of the Sun's domination over the darkness of winter, the return of life over death. Let us not forget that man's greatest enemy and greatest fear since the beginning of time was his "fear of darkness". This "fear of darkness" lies at the very heart of so much of our "religious beliefs and doctrines" in Biblical Judaism and Christianity and few every know this. If you have never read this article stop right now and do so before you continue.

The great civilizations of the Egyptians and Mesopotamians placed tremendous importance on precisely locating and dating the "return of the Sun." The astrologers of the ancient period were observers, driven by religious and social needs to correctly locate the Vernal Equinox in order to set their calendars and regulate society. The people of ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia were not using the tropical Zodiac (it hadn't been invented yet), and so they had no need to establish a fixed reference point from which it could commence. But they were concerned with astronomical measurement of the cosmic points that indicated seasonal change, and they placed a heavy investment in their astrologers to keep their yearly cycles up to date by reference to the stars.

For our purposes in this study one of the most important things for us to understand is the previous precessional shift - the movement of the Vernal Point out of Taurus and into Aries, which took place within the golden heyday of ancient astrological worship, in the 2nd millennium BC.

Answer for yourself: Why is this time period of great importance to Judaism and Christianity today? It was during this time we have the great nations of Egypt and Israel from which much of our religious theology originated in Christianity.

Taurus has one of the longest histories of the Zodiac signs. The Sumerians refer to a star-bull ushering in the springtime, a reference to the Vernal Equinox being placed in Taurus sometime between the fourth and second millenniums BC (the 2,160 year of the Age of Taurus). This was the age in which the bull cult arose in Minoan Crete, the age of Montu the Bull in Egypt and the era of the biblical golden calf.



Bulls, ploughs and agriculture seem such an essential and mundane part of ancient life that one might expect them to be taken for granted. But domestication of the ox and bull and the invention of the plough was no mean accomplishment; in the native civilizations of North and South America neither occurred, a major factor in the failure of these civilizations to develop technology and effective defences. It was during the period of the great astrological age of Taurus that the people of the Middle East made this breakthrough, and around the same period began to employ the wheel, the lever and the most powerful invention of agriculture, the plough.

The first sign of the appearance of the wheel is traced to Mesopotamia and dates to just after 3500 BC. The earliest finds are solid wooden wheels which were attached to rafts for drawing loads upon a primitive cart. Shortly afterwards wheels and axles appear, along with levers and wedges from the earliest ploughs. Pulleys and large-scale irrigation systems had not yet been devised but the mechanical principles were in gestation, waiting for man's inventiveness to catch up with the potential of exploiting powers other than his own physical labour. The harnessing of animal power in the domestication of the ox opened the door to organized and efficient farming and that in turn allowed communities to settle, mature and develop their infrastructure. The tireless oxen, a creature capable of matching the strength and productivity of many men, provided the means whereby supplies of food stock could become far greater than the supplies required for its production. Domestication of the ox was a genuine cause for human celebration. The creature was honored for its resilience and strength and also for the fertility that it conveyed upon the land. From the Old Testament we can see how they were viewed as sacred, to be treated with great respect.

The Egyptians have a long history of bull-centered symbolism in their worship of God and it is here that we find "sacred bulls" (Apis bulls). These were said to incarnate the spirit of their gods and their death was followed by a period of national mourning. Often, these were depicted with the crescent Moon for horns.

Prior to the Age of Aries the predominant iconography in Egypt was the Bull of Heaven, which was replaced by an endless array of ram images from the 2nd millennium BC onwards. It is noteworthy that the physical manifestation of the god Montu was in the form of the bull, and the pharaohs who ruled at the end of the Taurean age bore names that spoke of the completion of his power. Mentuhotep (literally 'Montu is satisfied') reigned from 2060 - 2010 BC, followed by his successors Mentuhotep II and III. Some scholars have also dated the story of Moses overturning the Golden Calf to this same period, suggesting that there was a widespread awareness amongst rulers that they were ushering in a brand new age and needed to respond with demolition of the old (the Age of Aries replacing the Age of Taurus....Ram symbolism for the prior Bull symbolism). Throughout the ancient world there are numerous depictions of the Sun god wrestling with and overthrowing the Bull, most of which have been translated as pictorial celebrations of the shift from the Age of Taurus to Aries. Some have carried other interpretations, mainly based on the Sun god overcoming darkness because the stars of Taurus were illuminated by the full Moon in the midst of winter.

In ancient Egypt the ram was revered as an emblem of the Sun and held sacred except during the New Year ceremonies when lambs were offered to the Sun in sacrifice. The same is largely true in ancient Greece. Hamal, the alpha star of Aries, was worshipped by the Greeks at the festival of Jupiter Ammon, where they celebrated the return of the Sun to Aries with the slaughter of rams.

Answer for yourself: Do you remember Mithra and the slaying of the Bull (symbolic for the Constellation of Taurus)? This is the same idea; namely the Constellation of Taurus being replaced after 2,160 years by the Constellation of Aries at the Vernal Equinox.

Answer for yourself: Why was this a great "Spiritual Time" for all of mankind in the northern hemisphere?

This was a time of great spiritual significance; the re-emergence of the Sun from death at the Winter Solstice where correspondingly the Earth "had died" and withheld her food and her "salvation" to mankind. It is the time of the resurrection of the light and with the understanding that God's Sun was a "symbol" for the God of the Cosmos who provided His "salvation" to mankind through the medium of light, heat, warmth, the renewed chain, the vanquishing of darkness and its threat of "death" to all life then you can easily see how the Ancients came to understand at this great time of the year that it is the time of the "resurrection of God".

Now you see the importance of the article on the "fear of darkness" even better.

Like the mythical phoenix, which arose in its own ashes, the Ram was chosen as a natural symbol of resurrection because of its ability, when shorn, to replenish its stock of wool. In so many ways and in so many places man was continually taught by God, in Nature as well as in the Sky and in the Heavens, that God was "life" and that God provided for all life "a rebirth" of the "same"; not different but the "same". It was this "same Sun" that was reborn, it was this "same" plant that grew again, it was this "same" tree that blossomed again, it was this "same moon" that was born from the dead each month, it was this "same" Sun that rose from the dead daily, it was this "same" Sun that rose from the dead of the Winter Solstice each year in renewed life, it was this "same" Constellation that reappeared at the Vernal Equinox every 25,920 years (12 Houses, each ruling the Vernal Equinox for 2,160 years according to the Precession of the Equinox". Man understood like the Ram in the Sky and like "Mother Earth" he will follow this SAME PATTERN of all life above him (Sky/Heaven) and around him (Nature); man will live again! We have here "Eternal Life" at is foundation. Man will follow in the "same order" what God was speaking to him "above him, and around him".So as Above, So beneath!

"The Ram, who is rich with an abundance of wool and, when shorn of this, with a fresh supply, will ever cherish hopes", writes Manilius in the first century BC. Astronomica; Loeb, p.233; Ch 4. 124-128. This may help some Christian theologians place into better context the reference to Jesus as the "Lamb of God"; and demonstrates that the phrase need not imply that Christ was the literal sacrificial atonement for man's sins, which many find confusing and clearly contradictory to Christian teachings. Biblical references draw heavily on the symbolism in the description of Christ as the Light, the Resurrection, the Lamb of God. It is not by accident that Easter - the resurrection of the Lord - is held in the full Moon period that follows the Sun's entry into Aries, and our western custom of giving eggs is based on a similar need to offer symbols of new life and new opportunities.

It was a natural act by which the stars of the constellation that held our attention at this period, the final death of winter and darkness, the re-emergence of the Sun's full glory, should be characterized in the form of a living representation. Principally a symbol of the resurrected Sun, the ram became a visible manifestation and symbol only of the Sun-god and its creative power; subsequent generations spoke of a mythical golden fleece, able to return life to the dead in the same way that Aries heralded the end of the season of death. Through this association the sacred Ram was an embodiment of the principles of fertility, vitality, new life and creative energy. The connection with the Sun was also reinforced by the culmination of Aries as Sirius rose heliacally and announced the annual inundation of the Nile for Egypt. It was the opportunity for mankind to experience renewed life from God and this "renewed life" came to man in many forms. It is the time to focus on God and His love and His salvation and provision given to mankind in many a forms and ways and with that man's attendant responsibilities to his Father in Heaven!

Man realized he was "IN COVENANT" with the Creator!

The glory that Egypt invested in the ram can be witnessed at the Great Temple of Amon-Ra at Karnak, built in 1480 BC. This includes an impressive avenue of ram-headed sphinxes and is oriented to the Summer Solstice at sunset. The temple is designed around a long passage, arranged to permit a beam of light from the Sun to reach down to a darkened sanctuary at the end. The path was narrowed so that the chamber could only be illuminated for a few moments on the day of the Summer Solstice. Impressive arguments have also been made that Karnak, together with other Sun temples such as the one at Luxor, form part of a huge reconstruction of the constellation Aries over the Egyptian landscape.

We are only just beginning to scratch the surface with our understanding of how deep and impressive was the full extent of the Egyptian worship of God, symbolized as the resurrected sun, which was also characterized in the symbol of Aries; or in our acceptance of how firmly this has underpinned the origins of Christianity.

It is no longer ground-breaking to demonstrate how many of the New Testament Psalms are translations of ancient Egyptian hymns to the Sun-god, or how biblical symbolism draws heavily on astrological ideas, motifs and parallels. It is no longer controversial to maintain the obvious fact that Easter, the pivotal point of the Christian calendar, is simply an altered form of worship of God, symbolized as the resurrected Sun as it reappears in its crossing of the Vernal point and initiates the season of spring. The name itself ties it to the astrological philosophy that recognizes the East, the point of ascension, as the spiritual source of new life and growth. It is the same astrological symbolism that proclaimed the birth of the 'New King' by the bright star rising in the east. The resurrection of Christ - the 'light too bright to look upon', the lamb (ie., 'resurrection') of God is now justly, irrefutably accepted as a mythological continuance of the New Year festivities that were so important to our ancestors.

But what has been dismissed far too lightly, is the apparent 'coincidence' that the transition of an astrological age accurately dated the coming of a new world order, and spanned the lifetime of a new physical manifestation of the 'one true god'. Astrologers have been too quick to 'turn the matter upside down', verifying the value of astrology by claiming that the onset of Christianity is reflected astrologically by the Christian adoption of the fishes as its symbolic motif.

Answer for yourself: Would it not be more likely, that astrologers were forewarning of the monumental significance of this precessional event with a view to past dynasties having trashed the iconatry of the old gods the last time that it happened? We only have to look at the turmoil in Egypt at the changing of the Age of Taurus where the Age of Aries displaced it and the resultant Exodus to understand the importance and huge ramifications of such "Celestial" and "Spiritual" events.

Answer for yourself: Would an attempt to create a new world order, based on a new spiritual source, not attempt to identify itself with the fishes, precisely because this was the sign of the Zodiac whose age was about to begin?

Answer for yourself: Could an attempt to redefine man's relationship with his God not be consciously manipulated or developed at a time that was perfectly suited to symbolically reinforce a spiritual need to do so?

Answer for yourself: Whereas Taurus justly was the age of the Bull and left its mark in the Heaven because of the benefits mankind accrued from the association at the time, was the overt use of fish symbolism in the rise of Christianity at the start of the Piscean Age, a deliberate attempt to identify with a symbol that was assumed to hold the new age power?

To my knowledge, these questions have never been properly probed or explored by historians, religious leaders or astrologers. But they appear to leave us with one of two very radical and startling suppositions. Either astrology verifies the Christian faith in a way that has never been fully appreciated or acknowledged, or Christianity is far more a mythological expression of ancient astrological belief than anyone in the organized church is willing to admit.

WHO WAS THE TRUE FATHER OF ISAAC?

Let us not forget that we are trying to determine just why and how we find a lineage of Hebrew Pharaohs on the throne of Egypt during the 18th Dynasty. We ended the prior article asking a major question: "Who is the true father of Isaac?". Normally some might think that this "Egyptian-Hebrew" link began with the Biblical Joseph since he married the daughter of the Priest of Heliopolis and that would be a good guess but the truth is the link of which I speak began long before that as we shall see. It began with Abraham and Sarah.

Now we are all familiar with the story of Abraham and Isaac because the Old Testament assures us repeatedly that Abraham was the father of Isaac and also that Abraham was the founder of the twelve tribes of Israel. As we have seen Sarah was marrier to both Abraham and the Pharaoh Tuthmose III and the child that necessitated the "handmaid" could have belonged to either of them. So we need to go very carefully if we are to amass the evidence necessary to make a definitive decision as to whom the real father of this child might be.

Answer for yourself: Could it be that Abraham was only the adoptive father of Isaac and that Isaac's real father and the founder of the twelve tribes of Israel was Tuthmose III (King David)?

Before you think I and others who have studied this out have lost their minds understand as I have already stated that the Biblical chronology and identities of certain Biblical characters are purposely misrepresented and are presented out of proper chronological sequence by Ezra in the 6th century B.C.E. as well as other redactors which followed him. The reason for this as I have stated began primarily due to the then present contention between Persia and Egypt in Ezra's day. Wanting to conceal the true identities of the parents of these returning Jews and at the same time provide them with "roots" for their race Ezra purposefully concealed the true parentage of these "returning black-skinned Jews" and provided them with an alternate history as to their origins. The Egyptian heritage of these returning Hebrew-Jews was covered up for if Persia ever intended to use these Jews as a "buffer" between them and Egypt as they were positioned in the Fertile Cresent then they certainly could not tell them that at present Persia was at war with their family. This fact was addressed elsewhere in a prior article on this website.

Now we must turn to Abraham, Sarah, and Isaac if we are ever to get to the bottom of this puzzle. Modern scholarship will teach us today that Abram and his wife Sarai, who were both renamed by the Lord later as Abraham and Sarah, made their way to Egypt from Canaan at a time of famine. As we have previously stated if "food" was the only motive for the trip to Egypt then Abraham and Sarah had no need to travel so deeply into Egypt to the place where the Pharaoh lived.

Answer for yourself: Who was the Pharaoh in Egypt at this time? You will be surprised to know that it was Tuthmose III (whom we have identified with the Biblical King David). Take a seat for a second and catch your breath.

Again I must reiterate that if you read article 2 linked above then you saw beyond any doubt that the character named "David" in the Old Testament is in reality Tuthmose III, a ruling Pharaoh of the 18th Dynasty of Egypt.

Egyptian records indicate that this young King David-Tuthmose III was sharing a co-regency with his aunt-stepmother Queen Hatshepsut. On Abram's and Sarai's arrival, fearing he might be killed because Sarai's good looks, Abram took the precaution of introducing her as his sister as recorded in Genesis, 12:11-12). The precaution proved to be the right decision for Abram because this will provide ultimately the link to the throne of Egypt for the later Jewish race.

Gen 12:14-15 14 And it came to pass, that, when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman that she was very fair. 15 The princes also of Pharaoh saw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's house. (KJV)

On hearing of her beauty and good looks, Tuthmose III took Sarai as his wife, having paid Abram her bride-price.

Gen 12:16 16 And he entreated Abram well for her sake: and he had sheep, and oxen, and he asses, and menservants, and maidservants, and she asses, and camels. (KJV)

Gen 13:2 2 And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold. (KJV)

Love and affection sometimes played a role (Ancient Egypt is a good example), but marriage was always an economic union. Every business transaction has financial questions that have to be answered, and marriage is no exception.

Answer for yourself: What guarantee is there that the groom will not change his mind between the betrothal and the wedding? A "bride price" was paid to the family of the bride. This was usually a sum of money or property paid as a gesture of sincerity. This is similar to the modern engagement ring except that the bride price usually went to the bride's father and was usually just a token.

Answer for yourself: Is it a coincidence that the following verse after mentioning that Sarai "was taken into Pharaohs' house" is the description of the "bride price". Sarai became the wife of Pharaoh and you can expect that they "became one flesh".

Abraham was paid well according to the custom of Egypt. However, his transgression in having married another man's wife resulted in what the Bible describes as "a plague" descending on Pharaoh's house. When he eventually discovered the reason, the Pharaoh sent Abram and Sarai back to Canaan.

As marriage in those days meant having sexual intercourse with a woman after having paid her bride-price with the intention of keeping her. That being so there is no question of sex not having taken place between Sarai and the Pharaoh Tuthmose III. The very fact that the Bible confirms the marriage also means that it had been consummated. This idea is reinforced, moreover, by the punishment of the plague said to have descended on Pharaoh's house.

Now for the big, big question since we saw that Sarai and Pharaoh were "man and wife".

Answer for yourself: Was Isaac, the son born to Sarai after her return to Canaan, the child of Abram or Pharaoh Tuthmose III?

After this event we find that many things happened to this couple. We find that the names of Abram was changed to Abraham and Sarai's to Sarah.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that this "name change" confirms that Pharaoh Tuthmose III was Isaac's father? Let us see how by examining some Hebrew Scriptures and thinking as we read them.

Genesis, 15:13

13 And He said unto Abram: 'Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years;

This passage speaks of Abram's descendants. Or does it? At this time if we are correct then "thy seed" refers to Sarai's seed and not Abraham since Abraham is not the biological father. Inn fact, only the descendants of Sarai are meant in the above passage. Although Abram fathered seven other sons, none of them is included here, and we have the promise that they will return to Egypt.

Genesis, 15:18

18 In that day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying: 'Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt (Nile) unto the great river, the river Euphrates;

Wait a minute. Here is this same promise that we saw in fulfilled in the prior articles on Tuthmose III (King David) and Amenhotep III (King Solomon).

If you missed it then I highly recommend that you re-read them right now.

Answer for yourself: Who was at this time the only "seed" of Abram? It was Isaac by the marriage of Sarai with Pharaoh Tuthmose III.

Answer for yourself: Having seen the unbelievable parallels between King David and Tuthmose III and King Solomon and Amenhotep III in these above article and that both recovered and managed the "land between the Nile and the Euphrates" which is described in both Egyptian records and the Old Testament when speaking about King David and King Solomon then does it not stand to reason that Egypt would not be giving it land to "Jews" but to those inheriting the legacy of Pharaoh? THINK!

This passage is terribly important is just another puzzle piece that helps us identity just whom this lineage of Abram is really all about. This passage, so often overlooked in reading the Old Testament, if of major importance since it contains the further promise that Isaac's descendants are later to inherit the Egyptian empire existing at the time of Tuthmose III, "from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates". In this case God's Covenant is not to be transferred to all of Abram's children, but only to those of Isaac. Now that sounds more familiar but lacking due to our confused genealogy is the real identities of Isaac's descendents who are to come later whom we read never realizing that they are Egyptian royalty.

Now we move on.

Genesis, 16:3

3 And Sarai Abram's wife took Hagar the Egyptian, her handmaid, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to Abram her husband to be his wife.

Answer for yourself: Was Sarai now of Egyptian royalty, although she did not live with Pharaoh, even though she lived in Canaan and we not know it? Yes she is as we will soon see.

Let me remind you it was Sarai and not Abram "who took Hagar as her Egyptian handmaid".

Answer for yourself: Did Abram have the authority or power to do this or did only Sarai owing to her prior position as Pharaoh's wife and giving the Pharaoh a son?

What the typical reader of the Bible unfamiliar with Egypt and its customs fails to realize when reading the account of Hagar is that the only reasonable way for Sarai to have had an Egyptian maid in those days was if her royal husband, Tuthmose III and not Abram, had presented her with one and he would have been more likely to do that had he expected her to give birth to his child whom we now is beginning to see is Isaac. We make the mistake of thinking that Hagar was given to Sarai after ten years but in reality that is not true as she was given to Sarai to help with the birth of Isaac ten years earlier. Abram, failing to have his own offspring was after ten years given Hagar to provide his children.

Abram's and Sarai's name are now changed by the Lord to Abraham. Now this get really interesting!

Genesis 17:5

5 Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be Abraham; for the father of a multitude of nations have I made thee.

Answer for yourself: What was the new addition to the name of Abram? Well we see it was two letters..."ha". Abram became Abra-"ha"-am.

Answer for yourself: What does Egyptian hieroglyphs have to do with this if anything? A lot. According to Egyptian hieroglyphs, the insertion of "ha" into Abram's name gives us "ham" which means majesty, and his new name can be translated as "heart of the majesty of the sun god Ra".

That ought to take your breath away for a second.

Gen 17:15 15 And God said unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife, thou shalt not call her name Sarai, but Sarah shall her name be. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What does "Sarah" mean?

At the same time, Sarai's name was changed to Sarah, which meant "queen" in the ancient languages of western Asia.

Strong's Concordance is a big help to us now:

The word in the text in Gen. 17:15 is "saw-raw":

8283 Sarah (saw-raw'); the same as 8282; Sarah, Abraham's wife: KJV--

Let us look at the root word which according to Strong's Concordance "is the same":

Sarah. 8282 sarah (saw-raw'); feminine of 8269; a mistress, i.e. female noble: KJV-- lady, princess, queen.

Answer for yourself: How in the world is Sarah a queen? Was it by Abram? Where does it say Abram was a King and a King of what? The text is completely silent on Abram being a King so we have to look elsewhere for the link to Sarah being a Queen. Or could it be that Sarah is a "queen by being previously married to to Tuthmose III? Well now you see it.

Answer for yourself: Was Sarai a Pharaohs' queen? The text would lead us to believe that she was purchased by the Pharaoh and became the wife of Pharaoh.

Genesis, 17:16

16 And I will bless her, and moreover I will give thee a son of her; yea, I will bless her, and she shall be a mother of nations; kings of peoples shall be of her.'

Answer for yourself: Were "kings" to come from Sarah or Abraham? They were to come from Sarah because she was the wife of Pharaoh. Were Pharaohs ever addressed as "sar" which is the masculine form for Sarah? Yes, in fact they were. The evidence keeps mounting does it not?

The Amarna letters, which are basically the foreign archives of the Eighteenth Dynasty of Pharaohs of Egypt, make it clear that the Pharaoh was sometimes addressed as "sar", the masculine form of Sarah: it was the term, for instance, that Tarkhun Dara, the Hittite prince, used in addressing Amenhotep III, the great-grandson of Tuthmose III (Conder, The Tell Amarna Tablets).

Answer for yourself: Does this foretelling of the royal character of Sarah's descendants (kings of peoples shall be of her) confirms the royal nature of their father, the Pharaoh, and therefore does this mean by default that Abraham must be only the adoptive father? It certainly does. Had Isaac been the natural offspring of Abraham then the text would have read "Kings of peoples shall be of Abraham" but it does not say that. It has to be of Sarah for the Pharaoh's blood runs through her first son Isaac and not the other children she was later to have.

But that is not all.

Answer for yourself: What does circumcision have to do with any of this?

Before the account of the change in Sarai's name, we are told that part of the Lord's covenant with Abraham involved the stipulation that, before the birth of the child to be born to Sarai, all male children should be circumcised when eight days old.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware at that time circumcision was a practice that had originally been confined solely to the Egyptians among ancient nations? Egypt was the only nation at that time to circumcise their male children of all the nations of the earth.

Answer for yourself: Since Isaac has the blood of the Pharaoh Tuthmose III then should we not expect that it necessary to circumcise him? You bet it was.

Gen 21:1-4 1 And the LORD visited Sarah as he had said, and the LORD did unto Sarah as he had spoken. 2 For Sarah conceived, and bare Abraham a son in his old age, at the set time of which God had spoken to him. 3 And Abraham called the name of his son that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him, Isaac. 4 And Abraham circumcised his son Isaac being eight days old, as God had commanded him. (KJV)

A further indication that the line of descent from Abraham will be through Isaac rather than any of his other sons is to be found in Genesis, 21:12 where the Lord instructs him ". . . in all that Sarah hath said unto thee, hearken unto her voice; for in Isaac shall thy seed be called."

It is not surprising that Sarah has such authority in a time and in a place when women were not considered equals with men. It makes all the more sense when you realize that Sarah was of royalty and wife and queen to the Pharaoh Tuthmose III.

If you have followed the story up to now then you have seen that behind the traditional Biblical account we have the hidden story of the royalty of the Pharaoh Tuthmose III, the great military genius of the world at that time who had "recovered" the glory of past Egypt and ancestor Tuthmose I and who had fathered a son by Sarai who was the Biblical Isaac to whom promises of future inheritance was repeatedly reiterated in the Old Testament. Poor Abraham did not have much. His only son was not his and his wife when he looked at her was a daily reminder that she was the wife of Pharaoh and mother of Pharaoh's child. Not only that but she acted like royalty and carried the authority of royalty stemming from the throne of Egypt. She was after all "the queen" of the strongest man in the world...Tuthmose III. King Tuthmose III, let us not forget, is remembered as The Napoleon of Ancient Egypt. He succeeded his stepmother Hatshepsut to the throne and was then responsible for a number of highly successful military campaigns to expand and secure Egypt's boundaries. The reign of Tuthmose III marked an increase in the power, wealth and influence of Egypt which became the pre eminent power in the area at this time. So Sarai was no light weight and I always used to wonder when reading these accounts why Sarai/Sarah seemed to be the central and dominant figure in these stories with Abraham and why she was the catalyst that made everything go. Now I know why. Hidden behind the Biblical story is the real identity of Sarah....wife and Queen of Egypt.

Now for something somber. You can expect that human nature would eventually show up in the life of Abraham and it does in Genesis, 22:9-12. Genesis 22:9-12 records how Abraham took his son, Isaac, the heir of Egypt, to the top of a mountain where he proposed to sacrifice him as a burnt offering. That always bothered me for it is almost unbelievable that Abraham would kill his own son; that is if Isaac was his own son. But if Isaac was a constant reminder to Abraham of the Pharaoh's son then Abraham might not hesitate to remove this thorn in his flesh which reminded him daily of his failure as a man to sire children.

Answer for yourself: But now understanding the dynamics behind the story then is it not more reasonable to now understand the motives of Abraham in taking Isaac to the mountain to "sacrifice him"? Poor old Abraham had it up to here with Egypt. Isaac was a goner; that is until the Lord intervened (Osman, The House of the Messiah, p. 91.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that a tradition in the Talmud relates that Sarah's death, reported in the Bible after this event, came as a result of someone telling her of Abraham's intention to kill Isaac (Polano, Selections from the Talmud, p. 72).

Let us think and jump ahead for just a second.

Gen 25:33-34 33 And Jacob said, Swear to me this day; and he (Esau) sware unto him: and he sold his birthright unto Jacob. 34 Then Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and rose up, and went his way: thus Esau despised his birthright. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What was this birthright?

When Esau, the elder of Isaac's twin sons, sold his "birthright" to his younger brother Jacob (Genesis, 25:33-34), Esau seems to have transferred to him some honorary position or title rather than material inheritance.

Gen 37:3 3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was the son of his old age: and he made him a coat of many colors. (KJV)

This honorary position in turn, appears to have been transferred from Jacob to Joseph, his favorite son, when he presented him with his many-colored coat (Genesis, 37:3), a gift which helped to increase the enmity of the half-brothers who, shortly afterwards, were to sell him into slavery in Egypt (Osman, The House of the Messiah, p. 91).

As you might be beginning to think something is going on behind the scenes of these simple stories that simply does not become revealed without much study into Egyptian history and archeology. You would be right.

Ahmed Osman, in his The House of the Messiah, p. 92-26, reminds us that this view that Isaac was not the son of Abraham but rather Tuthmose III and Sarai does not rest solely on interpretation of these biblical texts although they are helpful when examined through "Egyptian eyes and Egyptian history". Judaism teaches that since that time, the time of Sarah for instance, and even to the present day, a child cannot be regarded as a Jew no matter who the father may have been, unless the mother was herself Jewish.

Answer for yourself: Is this a hint that again indicates that the descendants of Sarah were not the biological descendants of Abraham? The idea expressed is that even if the husband (Abraham) is not the natural father the seed from the woman is what matters concerning primogeniture. Through the mother, in this instance the seed sown in her womb by Tuthmose III, we find the system of inheritance or succession by the firstborn, specifically the eldest son. This makes all the more sense when we know the Egyptian history and Biblical word origins of Sarah and if we read between the lines and compare all this with Egyptian chronology.

Now for a most enlightening piece of information.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the Jewish Talmud preserves a tradition in its texts that nobody who knew Abraham believed that Isaac was his son? This is absolutely startling when you see this! The Jews have the truth of their origins but bury it out of sight so no one but the most dedicated students will ever find it.

It says: "On the day that Abraham weaned his son Isaac, he made a great banquet, and all the peoples of the world derided him, saying: 'Have you seen that old man and woman who brought a foundling from the street, and now claim him as their son? And what is more they make a great banquet to establish their claim'" (Moustafa Gadalla, Historical Deception: The Untold Story Of Ancient Egypt, p. 145).

Answer for yourself: Could this verse give us a clue as to why the Bible states that after the birth of this child, Isaac, that Abraham built an altar and was ready to slaughter Isaac with a knife as a sacrifice to the Lord? If you are like me then you should find it rather difficult to believe that Abraham would want to kill his own son if Isaac was truly of his own blood. Even more startling is the fact that human sacrifices were not the custom of this time in this area of the world, and even if it was the custom one has to wonder why Abraham would not have sacrificed his supposedly oldest son names Ishmael.

A verse in the Koran (The Prophets, Sura XXI:72) says of Abraham:

We bestowed on him Isaac and, as an additional gift, (A grandson), Jacob.

Answer for yourself: Is this verse alluding to the fact that possibly Isaac is not the biological offspring of Abraham and since Jacob is the son of Isaac then neither is Jacob the biological offspring of Abraham but carries within him the blood of Pharaohs? If Jacob is the seed of Isaac and Isaac is the seed of an Egyptian Pharaoh then then lineage of Egypt runs through Isaac, Jacob, and the sons of Jacob culminating with David and Solomon, etc.

The verse indicates that Isaac and Jacob were not Abraham's originally. Muslim scholars interpret the passage by claiming that what it really means is: "We gave him Isaac because he was asking for a son, and another as a gift whom he was not asking for." It is easy to see, however, that this cannot have been the case because it goes much deeper than that and has biological ties with historical Egypt. In the first place, Jacob had not been born when Abraham died. Furthermore, at the time Jacob was born Abraham already had seven other sons - one, Ishmael, by Hagar, Sarah's Egyptian maid, and six by another wife, Keturah. A third point is that Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Tuthmose III, was not the first-born of Isaac's twin sons, but gained importance and ties to the throne of Egypt when Esau sold him his birthright (Osman, The House of the Messiah, p. 92-93. THINK. Jacob inherited primogeniture when he purchased the birthright of the Pharaoh from Esau. Little did Esau value such a promise and position and figured that such a reality would never materialize itself since being a half-blood and the odds were not in his favor that he could ever ascend to the throne of Egypt since not being of pure Egyptian blood.

Another Sura of the Koran, having mentioned three of the prophets - Moses, Aaron and Ishmael - speaks of them in Mary, Sura XIX: 58, as being:

The posterity of Abraham And Israel (Jacob)...(Ibid., p. 92-93).

Answer for yourself: Did you notice the "and" separating the posterity of both Abraham and Jacob? Why does this passage separate Abraham from Jacob? The Koran is making a simple statement that leads the reader to believe that there exists "two" separate posterities; one belonging to Abraham and one belonging to Jacob. What we have here is two completely different bloodlines and they are not the same.

The Koran states that Moses, Aaron, and Ishmael are associated with two "different" posterities or succeeding - future generations. These three, Moses, Aaron, and Jacob are not from the "same" lineage!

Answer for yourself: Does this fit perfectly with our understanding of Isaac being fathered by Tuthmose III and Ishmael being fathered from Abraham with Hagar as his mother? It sure does!

What I am telling you is that we have discovered a hidden bloodline connected to the throne of Egypt that will find expression through later Pharaohs of the 18th Dynasty. No wonder Moses had a Pharoanic staff in the wilderness.

We have literally two different bloodlines. We know that Ishmael carried the blood of Abraham through Hagar but we also know that through Isaac we have the bloodline that flowed originally through Tuthmose III and later flowed through the veins of Moses and Aaron. It was through this bloodline that we have the later "Messianic Prophecies"! They find historical fulfillment with Tuthmose III and Tutankhamun. Thus if you follow the storyline then you see that the Koran is telling us that Moses and Aaron came from a different blood line than Abraham; a royal blood tied to the throne of Egypt that came through the marriage of Sarai with Pharaoh Tuthmose III.

So we must keep in our minds this separation if we are ever to put this puzzle together correctly. We know that Ishmael comes from the loins of Abraham but the line of Moses (Pharaoh Akhenaten) and Aaron are descendants of Isaac and Jacob whom we saw is the offspring of Tuthmose III! This has unbelievable ramifications when we get to the 18th Dynasty of Pharaohs of Egypt.

The only possible explanation of this verse is that some of these three prophets were descendants of Jacob, but not of Abraham. Now we have to put our thinking caps on and leave them on if we are to continue to see this twisting road laid out for us in the Old Testament; especially in light of our prior teachings to the contrary.

The above passage from the Koran literally names two sets of people:

- two ancestors (Abraham and Jacob) and
- three named descendants (Moses, Aaron and Ishmael).

Answer for yourself: Does it not strike you rather odd that Jacob (Israel) is not listed as a descendant of Abraham but rather as separate posterity and complete other line of ancestry? We usually think of Abraham being a "father of nations" and he surely was through Ishmael but now we must re-think that Jacob is now a separate "father of nations" as well.

Had Jacob been of the bloodline and loins of Abraham he should have been listed among the descendants along with Moses, Aaron, and Ishmael but he is not. Instead the Koran lists him as a separate family lineage (coming from Tuthmose III and Sarai and not from Abraham's loins). But instead we find Jacob (the son of Isaac who is the son of Tuthmose III) listed separately as we do Abraham as the fountainhead of a different people; a people of royalty tied to the greatest nation of the world...Egypt. The fact that Jacob's name is placed in an equal position as an ancestor as Abraham signifies that we are dealing with two separate lines of descent, in which case Jacob himself could not have been descended from Abraham (by default that means that Isaac, his father, could not have been descended from Abraham as well). The correct interpretation is that Ishmael was descended from Abraham, and Aaron and Moses were descended from Jacob whose father was Isaac whose father was Tuthmose III, a 18th Dynasty Pharaoh.

The fact that the Koran gives Abraham and Jacob equal position as ancestors - the former of the Ishmaelites, the latter of the Israelites - is also a strong indication that the Israelites were not to be regarded as descendants of Abraham. That blows the Old Testament and what we have been taught about Israel from "tradition" completely out of the water!

The confusion that surrounds the identity of Isaac's father has, I believe, historical roots that go beyond the "adulterous and sinful" marriage between Sarah and Tuthmose III. We must remember that the biblical account of these events was not put down in writing until many centuries after the Israelites' Exodus from Egypt. By that time Egypt and its Pharaoh had become a symbol of hatred for the Israelites. As I have repeatedly referred in prior article the biblical redactor, in this case Ezra, took great pains to conceal any bloodline connection between Israel and Egypt and often painted Egypt in the worst of colors. This is all the more understandable as our studies into the true identity of Israel progress. Ezra, and other redactors and creators of the Hebrew Old Testament, were faced with a very difficult task, for the information available confirmed that Sarah had been married to an Egyptian Pharaoh, then returned with Abraham to Canaan, where she gave birth to Isaac. Anyone who reads the story, told in this form, would conclude automatically that Pharaoh must have been Isaac's father. However, at a time when the oral tradition and cornerstone of biblical teaching was to emphasize how God saved the Israelites from their Egyptian oppressors, the narrator had to find some means of separating the two events; the departure of Sarah from Egypt and the birth of Isaac. In so doing he hid the identity of the real father of Isaac.

Ezra, or other redactors of the Old Testament have a problem. They have to separate the birth of Isaac from the time-frame of historical events that might expose the marriage and conception of Isaac by Tuthmose III. In so doing they decide to cover it up and bury it in a forged and man-made history as we now see. The texts teach us that once Sarah and Abraham had resettled in Canaan, we have the interjecting of another story in which is described how Abraham sought to free his nephew, Lot, who had been captured by some enemies. But that is not all. Following the Lot story we have the appearance of the Lord to Abraham, foretelling what can only be the birth of Isaac, whose descendants are said would return to Egypt. After such a promise of a son by the Lord we should expect an account of Isaac's birth to follow, but it does not. Instead it is stressed in Genesis, 16:1 that Sarah was unable to bear children.

Answer for yourself: Is this "barrenness" story used to again cover up any and all attempts to connect the birth of the soon coming child with the possibility of having an Egyptian father let alone a Pharaoh for a father?

This is very connivent and serves the purpose to separate any and all attempts to connect the birth of Isaac with Tuthmose III as his possible father. Now a great length of time will passes to further separate Tuthmose III from the coming "child" of promise. Now ten years passes since Abraham and Sarah returned to Canaan and we now find Sarah giving Abraham her Egyptian maid, Hagar, as a wife, and lshmael was born of their union. This again separates any and all ideas that the "child of promise" was the son of a Pharaoh. But the redactor is not through. Fourteen more years are allowed to pass, according to the biblical narrator, who again stresses that Sarah was barren for the second time, and adds to the picture her advancing age. At ninety we are conditioned to believe that she was too old to give birth. Now enter three messengers of God appear and announce that Sarah will have a son the following year.

It would appear in light of what we have learned up to now concerning King David and King Solomon that the biblical narrator did not feel safe in introducing the birth of Isaac so close to Abraham and Sarah leaving Egypt. Certainly he feared that someone might still relate him to his real father, so he presents us with yet another character, Abimelech, king of Gerar. On a visit to Gerar, we are told, Abraham again took the precaution of claiming that Sarah was his sister and, although we have been assured that she was an old woman of ninety, Abimelech fell in love with Sarah and was about to marry her when the Lord appeared to him in a dream and warned him not to marry a woman who was already someone else's wife. And it is only at this point when a great deal of time had been made to pass and great number of other events took place that the Biblical redactor and narrator felt it at last safe to introduce the birth of Isaac (Osman, The House of the Messiah, p. 92-96).

Answer for yourself: In spite of these "cover-ups" can we see through these clumsy attempts to conceal the truth about the identity of Isaac and Jacob? We sure can. The birth of Isaac has been purposely delayed over and over again through adjustment and tinkering with part of the chronology and not with others. But in so doing the biblical narrator has betrayed himself; that is if you have a keen eye for such detail.

If you caught it we have a period of over ten years that is made to pass since Abraham and Sarah returned to Canaan before Sarah gives Abraham her Egyptian handmaid Hagar to sire offspring.

Answer for yourself: Why give Sarai a handmaid in the first place? What was her need that necessitated such a gift of the handmaid in the first place? We are led to believe that Sarah received the services of an Egyptian handmaid but no need or mention of "why" is mentioned in the text. This is confusing especially in light of the tampering with the chronology.

Answer for yourself: Could it have been a pregnancy that necessitated the giving of the handmaid to Sarah by the Pharaoh within the first year of their leaving Egypt and we miss it because the text has artificially separated such events by ten years?

If we put our thinking hats on again it seems likely that the reason for the gift of the handmaid was that she was expecting Pharaoh's child.

Answer for yourself: Now have you ever noticed the age of Ishmael in the Old Testament texts?

Therefore, if Hagar was given to Sarah to help with the birth of Isaac then one would expect Isaac to be older than lshmael, the child born to the maid, Hagar, after Sarah had given her to Abraham as a wife. But this is just opposite to what the received text of the Old Testament given us by the pen of Ezra. The biblical narrator tries to persuade us that the opposite is true by a wide margin. We are told (Genesis, 17:25) that Ishmael was thirteen years of age when he was circumcised, a year before the birth of Isaac (Ibid.).

Gen 17:25 25 And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Thinking hats still one? The biblical account four chapters later of Hagar's flight with her son, after Sarah had sent them away, gives quite a different impression of his age: "And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and the child, and sent her away: and she departed, and wandered in the wilderness of Beersheba. And the water was spent in the bottle, and she cast the child under one of the shrubs. And she went, and sat her down over against him a good way off, as it were a bowshot: for she said, Let me not see the death of the child. And she sat over against him, and lift up her voice, and wept. And God heard the voice of the lad; and the angel of God called to Hagar out of Heaven, and said unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is. Arise, lift up the lad, and hold him in thine hand; for I will make him a great nation. And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water; and she went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink" (Genesis, 21:14-19).

Answer for yourself: Does the above account make it seem if Ishmael is but a small child? If his mother had to carry Ishmael, and when she placed him under a bush and he was unable to move, then he cannot, unlike Isaac, have yet reached walking age. How strong was Hagar to carry a 13 year old child in the first place? Was she the female Sampson of the Bible? Seriously, if Hagar had to carry Ishmael, and when she placed him under a bush because he was unable to move then he cannot, unlike Isaac, have yet reached walking age. Although this story is not mentioned in the Koran, Islamic tradition agrees with the Bible in this account, representing Ishmael as a mere baby, carried by his mother and unable to move from the spot where she placed him; but a fountain of water, identified with the present Zamzam in Mecca, appeared suddenly beneath his feet.

If we look at Genesis 26:3 we read that the Lord told Isaac: "Go not down into Egypt". It is logical to assume that there is no reason for this instruction to Isaac unless it was to forbid him to see out his real father's identity and inheritance. The Bible goes on to relate that Isaac grew up and married Rebekah. This is the Biblical account of which we are all familiar. But there is much more to this simple story which will be revealed later so hang in there. Picking up this "simple story" we find that the Bible relates that Isaac and Rebekah has twins named "Esau and Jacob" and we all are familiar with Esau selling his "birthright". Jacob had eleven children and the youngest was Joseph who began the Israelite Sojoun into Egypt.

Answer for yourself: What are the meanings of these "key" names when translated back into the Egyptian language?

- Abraham=(in Egyptian) means "heart of the majesty of Ra"
- Sarah=(in both Hebrew and Egyptian) is the feminine form of "Sar"(Queen)
- Ysra/Sar=(in both Hebrew and Egyptian) means "Prince/Princess (Queen) or High Official)
- El=(in Hebrew) is the short from of Elohim (God)
- Ysrael (Israel)=means ("Elohim [God] rules"), which is the same title given to the ruling Pharaoh of Egypt

Answer for yourself: So what have we seen up to now?

If we look closely and read "between the lines" then we see that Sarai left Egypt with Abram, Sarai was already pregnant by Tuthmose III, who gave her Hagar as a maid to assist in the birth and subsequent nursing of Isaac. Abraham later took Hagar as another wife and she gave birth to Ishmael. Sarah, at this time regarded herself as a Kings wife, a Pharaoh's wife, and her son, Isaac, as a prince. Sarai, knowing her position of royalty and the bloodline that flowed in Isaac's veins was not prepared to grant equal status to Ishmael. This makes all the sense in the world. That is why she sent Hagar and Ishmael away and why only Isaac of Abraham's sons is to be regarded from the Israelite point of view as his heir and why Abraham had not reservations to sacrifice a "son" which was not his in the first place and who was a constant reminder to him of his humiliation.

Despite all the efforts of the biblical narrator to distort his account of these events, the Israelites knew the truth about Isaac and never lost sight of the true identity of their great ancestor, Tuthmose III (the Biblical King David).

Later, not long after Abraham's death, we are told, Jacob assumed the role of this ancestor when the Lord changed his name to Israel: "And God appeared unto Jacob again. . . And God said unto him, Thy name is Jacob: thy name shall not be called any more Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name: and he called his name Israel" (Genesis, 35:9-10).

Answer for yourself: What is so important about this passage? The name Israel. The significance of this passage lies in the name as we saw briefly above.

- The Hebrew term "el" is the short form of Elohim (God)
- "Ysra" or "sar" indicates a prince/princess/ or a ruler.

Therefore "Ysraei" means "Elohim" rules, like Egyptian gods (Pharaoh, too, was looked upon as a ruling god).

In the early centuries, Abraham appeared in Israelite writings as their great ancestor. However, from the time of Saul's subsequent Israelite kingdom, five centuries later, and even into Christian times, the warrior King David (Tuthmose III) came to be regarded as the only accepted ancestor for any legitimate king or Messiah.

Answer for yourself: Did you ever notice that the first messianic promise of a savior in the Book of Isaiah is given to Egypt?

Isa 19:20 20 And it shall be for a sign and for a witness unto the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt: for they shall cry unto the LORD because of the oppressors, and he shall send them a saviour, and a great one, and he shall deliver them. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Who is this "savior" who will deliver these Egyptian-Israelites? Is this a reference to the Hebrew Pharaoh of Egypt known as Akhenaten (the Biblical Moses)? Is this a reference to the 18th Dynasty of Egypt?

Well I hope I have made you think. The messianic implications for what we have learned is staggering. The more study you do the more you will come to see and understand the incredible links between Judaism and Egypt and the truth behind the "messianic prophecies" which were given to Egypt first. Sadly the bottom line is that our inherited religious texts are not reliable in all parts but let us be encouraged that with study and perseverance we can find the truth behind the stories we cherish. I hope you gathered an appreciation for the awesome 18th Dynasty of Egypt and their legacy of monotheism to the world. Let us believe "the truth".

400 YEARS OR 4 GENERATIONS...HOW LONG WAS THE SOJOURN OF ISRAEL IN EGYPT?

For two thousand years, there has been, and still is, an on-going debate over the sources of the Old Testament. When one undertakes such a study he is immediately besieged by a host of questions from his reading into such a topic:

- How many different sources are used in the composition of the Old Testament?
- When was each of these different sources written?
- Who were the actual authors of such varying sources?
- How many evidences of editing and tampering can be found in these sources?
- Does the Bible describe actual historical events?

The questions are almost endless to one who considers himself a seeker of truth. What you find when you begin to do some reading in archeology is that the Biblical dates and ages depicted in the texts are so badly off from the archeological record that no rational person can take many of these Biblical dates seriously. God created the world, according to the Bible chronology, in 4004 B.C.E. However, we know from other evidence that the earth was already inhabited in 4004 B.C.E.; in fact the Sphinx has recently been dated to having existed at least 13,000 B.C.E. The ages of many biblical characters are unbelievable and many novel explanations have come forth trying to explain them. The explanation that they may have attached a different meaning than we do to the word "year", does not explain errors in biblical chronology. For example, we are told that Terah, Joseph's great-great-grandfather, was seventy when his son, Abram, was born. Terah, we are later told, died at the age of two hundred and five. Astonishingly, a few biblical verses later we learn that Abram was seventy-five when his father died, when according to biblical calculations, Abram should have been one hundred and twenty-five years old and not seventy-five. I always hated math! Something is wrong here and we so often read over such passages never taking the time to see if there are mistakes and this one only highlights the fact that there are other "mistakes" in this revelation we have received which is called the Old Testament that escapes the eyes of most.

But it is not just the "math" that is so often wrong. Because of its long oral tradition, biblical narration often confuses the names of places and people as well as the chronology of events. Scholars teach us, if you read them, that when one give a careful examination to many Old Testament texts, a rational conclusion could be drawn that many of these events took place chronologically in a different order to that described in the biblical account. In other words we have a very confused chronology and that is nowhere demonstrated more graphically than when we get to the Patriarchs which we find upon study are often Egyptian Pharaohs "made to be Jews" by the writers of the Biblical texts. I direct you to our articles onKing David and King Solomon for evidence to prove this point.

Answer for yourself: How could this be? How could the identities of such great men be covered to such a degree that they are not even mentioned in the context of the nation in which they really lived? How could a Pharaoh be made out to be a "Jew" when in fact he was not? Is there an agenda at work here by the writers of the Old Testament texts?

There can be several reasons for the above confused chronology and mistaken identities. In reading the Old Testament and particularly the five books of the Pentateuch, one should consider the following facts:

- These stories were transferred by word of mouth over several centuries, before they were written down. It is inevitable to end up with distorted stories as a result of this long oral tradition.
- Upon writing the stories, the priests and the editors made their own "contribution" to the text that we have now.
- Translators have altered portions of the texts so as to comply with their *"standard of morality".
- Translation is difficult. One Hebrew word may need a dozen English words to explain its exact meaning.

Of course we are all aware that ancient tradition ascribed the authorship of the Pentateuch to Moses. There are about two dozen verses in the Hebrew Scriptures and one dozen in the Christian Scriptures which state or strongly imply that Moses was the author.

- Exodus 17:14 "Then the Lord instructed Moses, 'Write this down as a permanent record...'"
- Exodus 24:4 "Then Moses carefully wrote down all the Lord's instructions."
- Exodus 34:27 "And the Lord said to Moses, 'Write down all these instructions, for they represents the terms of my covenant with you and with Israel.'"
- Leviticus 1:1 "The Lord called to Moses from the Tabernacle and said to him, 'Give the following instructions to the Israelites...'"
- Leviticus 6:8 "Then the Lord said to Moses, 'Give Aaron and his sons the following instructions...'"
- Deuteronomy 31:9 "So Moses wrote down this law and gave it to the priests."
- Deuteronomy 31:24-26 "When Moses had finished writing down this entire body of law in a book..."
- Joshua 1:7-8 "...Obey all the laws Moses gave you."
- Joshua 8:31-34 "He followed the instructions that Moses the Lord's servant had written in the Book of the Law..."
- Joshua 22:5 "...obey all the commands and the laws that Moses gave to you."
- 2 Chronicles 34:14 "...Hilkiah the high priest...found the book of the Law of the Lord as it had been given through Moses."

But nowhere in the Bible is it specifically stated that Moses wrote the entire Pentateuch. Even if one believes in the inerrancy of the Bible, a case can be made that he authored only parts of the Torah, and that other writers added sections of their own and/or edited the resultant text.

BELIEF OF MAINLINE AND LIBERAL THEOLOGIANS

The view that Moses composed the Pentateuch - the first five books of the Old Testament - from composite sources, which had been transmitted over several centuries, is no longer a valid opinion among the biblical scholars.

The Pentateuch includes the account of Moses' death. it is naturally impossible that Moses could have written about his own death. Therefore, it is logical to conclude that the writing of the Pentateuch took place long after Moses' death. Moses is described as going to the Tabernacle in a passage where the Tabernacle had not yet been built. There are many verses in the Torah that state that something has lasted "to this day". That appears to have been written by a writer who composed the passages at a much later date. Deuteronomy 34:10 states "There has never been another prophet like Moses...". This sounds like a passage written long after Moses' death.

Answer for yourself: What does these few examples above mean? Simply it means that the Pentateuch is essentially composed from the following five sources:

- A Jehovistic source, dating from the 9th century BCE. [J: a writer who used JHWH as the "unpronounceable name of God." It is often translated as Jehovah]
- An Elohistic document, dating from the 8th century BCE. [E: a writer who used Elohim as the divine name]
- The book of Deuteronomy, to be considered as a separate source, dating from the 7th century BCE. [D: the author of the book of Deuteronomy]
- A priestly source, dating from about the 5th century BCE. [P: a writer who added material of major interest to the priesthood].
- The work of an editor who revised and edited the entire collection around the 2nd century BCE. [R: a redactor who shaped the contributions of J, E, P and D together into the present Pentateuch]

The above is the accepted understanding prevalent today as to how we received the Old Testament texts and explains this convoluted chronology and concealing of the real identities of the Partriarchs of which I spoke above.

THE HEBREW & GREEK TEXTS OF THE BIBLE

Our standard translations of the Old Testament are based on the Massoretic Hebrew text, which came into existence in the 9th or 10th centuries C.E. This text was originated in the 2nd century C.E. after a council had been assembled at Jamnia, a small town near Jaffa, in 70 CE. At Jamnia the council agreed to the form and content of the Old Testament.

Hebrew, like hieroglyphics and other Semitic languages, does not have any written vowels. The true pronunciation and interpretation of the texts were accomplished by a body of Jewish scholars, who formulated a standard pronunciation of the Massorah (tradition of measure), between the 7th and 10th centuries CE.

The Hebrew Massoretic text is not the only Canon we have for the Old Testament. The Greek text of Alexandria is even older.

In a letter written by an unknown author about 100 BCE, Ptolemy II, the King of Egypt (285-247 BCE), ordered a Greek translation of the Bible. As the legend goes the High Priest of Jerusalem sent seventy-two elders to Alexandria, six scholars from each of the twelve tribes of Israel, together with an official copy of the Pentateuch. They worked for 72 days to produce the final copy of the Pentateuch in Greek. Later, the other books of the Old Testament were also translated into Greek by other scholars and the whole work became known as the Septuagint, which means "The Seventy". This story is but a fantasy as the historical record attests today but you get the point. Not only that this Greek translation, often called "the world's worst translated book" disagrees dramatically in "key" places with the prior Hebrew. So we end up with a mess of conflicting garbled accounts which are at best a "shadow" of the real that these texts profess to reveal; texts in both the Hebrew and Greek who are unreliable in many regards. It is now that the "thinking" believer must consult "extra-Biblical" records to help sort out this tangled web of confused accounts which are often jumbled in the history of this "holy book". This Greek text was adopted as the Bible of the early Church, but was abandoned later in favor of the Hebrew Massoretic text which ironically does not agree with the Massoretic texts of the Jewish people. The confusion is endless and for me and others we find that other disciplines like "extra-Biblical" historical records and archeology must be consulted to both "confirm" and "correct" the good book if we are ever to make sense of it and get to the truth behind the stories we have inherited.

THE BIBLICAL AND ANCIENT ENCOUNTERS BETWEEN EGYPT AND ISRAEL

There is no doubt that there are serious problems with the chronology of many events in the Bible. We have touched on some of the reasons for this above but it is time we focus on some others. Problem in Old Testament chronology, for example, came about as a result of the many narrators and editors working along the span of centuries, as well as the bad blood between the Jews and Egypt, after the Exodus. When you get to the truth behind the Exodus and see that the real reason for the Exodus was different understandings of God among Egyptians (Priesthoods and reigning Pharaohs...in particular a Hebrew Pharaoh names Akhenaten) then this becomes crystal clear. The encounters between the Israelites and ancient Egypt can be divided into three eras:

Pre Sojourn in Egypt

As we all know Abram and Sarai came down into Egypt for a period of time. Upon Abram and Sarai's return from Egypt to Canaan (present-day Israeli Lebanon), major changes began to occur to their small tribe. The Bible tells us that the Lord told Abram,

Gen 15:13 13 And he said unto Abram, Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years; (KJV)

But...the Bible also says:

Gen 15:16 16 But in the fourth generation they shall come hither again: for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: So what is it? Is it 400 years or 4 generations?

One cannot underestimate the importance of determining the correct time for the sojourn of Israel (400 years or 4 generations) and determining the true identities of the characters we read about in the Old Testament let alone the Exodus. Many scholars today say they cannot find any evidence for the Exodus but that is simply because they follow the traditional Judeo-Christian tradition of 400 years instead of 4 generations. They are looking for the Exodus in a time period some 400 years off from its actual event. If one looks closely at these texts and dates this Exodus to 4 generations then we find plenty of evidence for this Exodus in Egyptian history.

God also made a covenant with Abram, saying,

Gen 15:18 18 In the same day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates: (KJV)

Sarah gave birth to Isaac who was not allowed to go to Egypt.

Isaac begat Jacob in Canaan.

Jacob begat Joseph.

Answer for yourself: When in history did the "seed" of Abram and Sarah inherit this land from the Nile to the Euphrates? And what is this land? It is Egypt.

What we find when we get into this study and examination of the evidence from the ancient Egyptian history is that:

Tuthmose III was the Pharaoh in the Abraham and Sarah story and that Tuthmose III and the biblical King David are one and the same.

Israelites' Sojourn in Egypt

Joseph's half brothers sold him as a slave, in Egypt. He later became the second in command to the Pharaoh. The Pharaoh allowed Joseph to bring his family to Egypt. Jacob (Joseph's father) who was also known as Israel, took his tribal family of seventy to settle in Goshen, east of the tile delta.

Answer for yourself: When did the Israelites enter Egypt and how long did they remain there before the Exodus?

It is generally accepted that they were in Egypt at the end of the 18th Dynasty, and into the Nineteenth (c. 1308 BCE). Scholars will disagree on when they arrived and when they departed. The Old Testament does not provide any dates, or the name of the Pharaoh's capital city at the time, or the name of the Pharaoh, referring to him only as "Pharaoh", "King" or "Pharaoh, King of Egypt!"

So what we find involved with the above events is that the Old Testament gives two contradictory accounts about the length of time the Israelites spent in Egypt:

Duration of 430 years:

Exod 12:40 40 Now the sojourning of the children of Israel, who dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years. (KJV)

Duration of four generations:

The warning to Abraham

Gen 15:13 13 And he said unto Abram, Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years; (KJV)

Gen 15:16 16 But in the fourth generation they shall come hither again: for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: So what is it? Is it 430 years or 4 generations? The duration of four generations, and not 430 years, is the correct duration for the following reasons:

The Hebrew says: "wa dor rabi'i yashwbw hena"

That being so then the exact translation of this Hebrew verse is: "And the fourth (dor) return they here." Grammatically "the fourth dor" is the subject of the verb. Therefore, 'dor' can only mean "generation". The word "dor" was never used to mean a hundred-year cycle in Hebrew or Assyrian. or Ugaritic texts.

What confirms the biblical word "dor" to mean "a generation" is the fact that the Pentateuch names only four generations between the time of the Descent into Egypt and the Exodus.

THE RECORD OF THE TALMUD

The Talmud does not agree with 430 years either as the length of the Israelites' sojourn in Egypt; "And the children of Israel journeyed from Raamses to Succoth. two hundred and ten years after their entrance into Egypt, the Israelites departed therefrom, six hundred thousand men, with wives and children."

The evidence from the ancient Egyptian history show us:

- Joseph entered Egypt and became the vizier (second in command) to Pharaoh Tuthmose IV (1413-1405 BCE.) and was the vizier for the succeeding Pharaoh, Amenhotep III (1405-1367 BCE).
- Joseph's daughter, Tiye, was married to Amenhotep III. Tiye gave birth to Akhenaton (the Biblical Moses) and Semenkhkare.
- Akhenaton begat Tutankhamen.

Answer for yourself: So when we put all this together what do we get once we know the truth of the matter is "four generations" and not "4 hundred years"?

- The four generations of the Sojourn are actually
 - Joseph
 - Tiye
 - Akhenaton (to be identified later as the biblical Moses)
 - Tutankhamen (the crucified savior...the prototype for the later "historical Joshua/Jesus"...more on that later)
- Amenhotep III and the biblical King Solomon are one and the same.

THE EXODUS AND THE PROMISED LAND

A short summary for later study is needed now as we close. Egyptian history show us that Moses (Akhenaton) would later live in exile in Sinai for several years and went back to Egypt to challenge the authority of the self-appointed Pharaoh. He was allowed to leave with the Israelites (his followers, followers of the Aten) from Egypt in what is known as the Exodus. After wandering in the desert, Moses died and the Israelites settled in their promised land. This land had been previously ruled by King David (Tuthmose III) whose empire extended from the Nile to the Euphrates. This King David (Tuthmose III) begat Solomon (Amenhotep III), who sat on his father's throne after his death. The new Israelite Kingdom vanished after Solomon's death as quickly as it was created by King David.

Now we have not finished the story but the historical evidence from ancient Egypt when studied reveals some very interesting facts:

- The biblical Moses was killed by King Seti I (1333-1304 B.C.E.) and the Israelites wandered the desert for forty years before settling in Canaan.
- The occupation of Canaan was a gradual process, as also confirmed in the Book of Judges.

When we study all of this we find amazing things that defy our traditional Judeo-Christian understanding. Amazingly King David's war accounts match precisely with those of King Tuthmose III (1490-1436 BCE). King Solomon's life and lack of wars match precisely with those of King Amenhotep III (1436-1413 BCE). Interesting for our study however is the fact of "4 generations" and not 400 years for the Israelite Sojourn which helps us identify these characters from Egyptian history that surround the Exodus event. All that remains for us is to understand "why" the Exodus happened in the first place and we get to that shortly.

TRACING THE HEBREW PHARAOHS OF EGYPT...WHO WAS THIS KING SOLOMON?

I assume that the reader of this article has previously read articles #1 and #2 in this series. If you have read article #2 dealing with the Biblical King David we saw a preponderance of evidence that teaches us that King David of the Old Testament is the historical Pharaoh Thutmose III.

Answer for yourself: If King David is to be properly identified as an adaptation of the Pharaoh Thutmose III, then should we not expect that from through his loins, one way or the other, would come one whom we know today as King Solomon? Should we expect that he should also be a Pharaoh and also be found in Egypt?

Our study will focus on the most important Pharaohs of the 18th dynasty:

- Ahmose
- Amenhotep I
- Thutmose I
- Thutmose II
- Hatshepsut
- Thutmose III (King David)
- Amenhotep II
- Thutmose IV
- Amenhotep III (King Solomon)
- Amenhotep IV (Akhenaten-Moses)
- Neferneferuaten
- Tutankhamen
- Ay
- Horemheb

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that out beside three names of these 18th Dynasty Pharaohs are the more familiar Biblical names of familiar Jewish heroes and Kings? What could we possibly mean by that? Have we lost our mind at Bet Emet Ministries? Are we insinuating that the real identities of these Biblical characters are possibly Egyptian Pharaohs? Yes that is exactly what we are saying and we have the evidence to prove such an identification as you will see if you continue to study.

You should have noticed one other thing that is quite startling considering what we have been taught by the Old Testament. It must be said at the beginning that the chronology of the Bible represents Solomon as the son of King David. However when we get to Egypt we see that the Biblical chronology is questionable due to highly detailed and accurate Egyptian records and as you study you will see this for yourself. As our study progresses and the evidence mounts that the King Solomon of the Bible is in reality Amenhotep III; the great-grandson of King David (Tuthmose III). We will also begin to notice that unlike what we have led to believe; for example, that King Solomon is the son of King David, such is not the truth. We will find that King Solomon is not the son but rather the great-grandson of Tuthmose III (King David of the Bible).

Answer for yourself: So what is the truth? Well let us do our study and examine the historical evidence and and assorted historical facts we find outside the Old Testament and then you will see quite clearly which is true and let me give you a hint...it is not the Biblical account. Now on with the study. What we will find is that by marrying Tiye, the daughter of Yuya (the Biblical Joseph) and his wife who was the daughter of the priest of Heliopolis, we see that Tiye was half Hebrew. Amenhotep III, the Biblical King Solomon, by marrying Tiye thus "re-establishes the connection of the Jews with the Egyptian line when Sarah and Abraham has left Egypt and when Sarah gave birth to Isaac, the son of Tuthmose III (the Biblical King David). Tiye's father, Yuya, the Biblical Joseph, had been commander of the chariotry under Tuthmose IV (Cyril Aldred, Cyril, Akhenaten: King of Egypt, 1987). Tiye's features and dark skin as represented in artwork from the time indicate African origins and attest to the the racial color of the Egyptians whom the Biblical Joseph marries. This begins the "black skinned" Jewish race which many historians are amiss to attest. To inherit the throne, however, Amenhotep III (the Biblical Solomon) had to have a royal Egyptian wife. Thus he also marries his sister Sitamun, (thus explaining the Bible's reference to his marrying an Egyptian princess, whereas as King of Israel, it would have been impossible). By Amenhotep III, Tiye had at least six children. She had two sons (Tuthmose V and Amenhotep IV, the second of whom went on to become pharaoh and is better known today as the Biblical Moses. Let us not forget that Tiye, as seen in the above picture with her husband Amenhotep III (the Biblical Solomon) was a girl of common birth from her Hebrew father Joseph (Yuya) but yet history records here as a person of very strong character. Evident from records, she was a beautiful young Black queen. A woman of great intellect, ability, and a powerful influence. She shared the crown with her husband Amenhotep III (the Biblical Solomon) as though she had been its lineal heiress. Queen Tiye had such an important part in the affairs of Egypt, that foreign diplomats often appealed directly to her in matters affecting certain international relations. Make no mistake about it; Queen Tiye was a full-blooded African. Her son, Akhenaton (the Biblical Moses) and his wife, Nefertiti are the parents of King Tutankhamen, who is also known as "King Tut." From Akhenaton on down to the end of the 18 Dynasty we find the Hebrew Pharaohs that came from the marriage of Amenhotep III and the daughter of Joseph:

- Akhenaton (the Biblical Moses)
- Smenkhkare (the brother of Moses)
- Tutankhamen (the son of Moses)
- Ay (the Biblical Ephraim)

The Hebrew Old Testament contains a lot of information about King Solomon. Much of it is true and some is not. In the Hebrew Scriptures it is said of King Solomon:

- Solomon inherited a enormous empire conquered by his father King David that extended from the Nile in Egypt to the Euphrates River in Mesopotamia;

I Kings 4:21 21 And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms from the river unto the land of the Philistines, and unto the border of Egypt: they brought presents, and served Solomon all the days of his life. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: If we can prove that King Solomon is a Pharaoh then what does that say about about the same promise made earlier to the Hebrew "Patriarchs"; for example the one which we find in Gen 15:18 which was made to Abraham?

Gen. 15: 18 18 In the same day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Could Abraham have been a Pharaoh and we not know it? Would this explain why Josephus writes that Abraham had 318 "officers" indicating an vast army of legions when the inherited Hebrew Texts given us by Ezra says "318 servants"? Did Ezra cover this up? I again refer you to article #2 to begin to see the truth about Ezra. Now let us look at more of the "same" promises in the Hebrew Texts and to "whom" they were made.

Deut 1:6-7 6 The LORD our God spake unto us in Horeb, saying, Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount: 7 Turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto all the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the south, and by the sea side, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river, the river Euphrates. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Where did Moses get the authority to promise this land which was owned by Egypt to these "fleeing" Hebrews? Could it have been that Moses was a Pharaoh and we not know it?

Josh 1:1-4 1 Now after the death of Moses the servant of the LORD it came to pass, that the LORD spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' minister, saying, 2 Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel. 3 Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses. 4 From the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Where did Joshua get the authority to promise this land which was owned by Egypt to these "fleeing" Hebrews? Could it have been that Joshua also was a Pharaoh and we not know it?

2 Sam 8:1-3 1 And after this it came to pass, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them: and David took Metheg'ammah out of the hand of the Philistines. 2 And he smote Moab, and measured them with a line, casting them down to the ground; even with two lines measured he to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive. And so the Moabites became David's servants, and brought gifts. 3 David smote also Hadadezer, the son of Rehob, king of Zobah, as he went to recover his border at the river Euphrates. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Where did King David get the ownership of this Egyptian land? Could King David have been a Pharaoh? Well we saw that he was in article #2. That determination is not hard for you now once reading article #2. We will deal with these other Patriarchs in future articles. Now let us get back to Solomon.

The Hebrew Scriptures teach us that King Solomon accumulated great wealth and wisdom.

23 So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth in riches and in wisdom. (1917 Tanakh)

- The Hebrew Scriptures teach us that King Solomon administered his kingdom through a system of 12 districts (1 Kings 4:7).

7 And Solomon had twelve officers over all Israel, who provided victuals for the king and his household: each man had to make provision for a month in the year.

- The Hebrew Scriptures teach us that King Solomon possessed a large harem, which included "the daughter of Pharaoh"

1 ¶ And Solomon became allied to Pharaoh king of Egypt by marriage, and took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into the city of David, until he had made an end of building his own house, and the house of the LORD, and the wall of Jerusalem round about (I Kings 3:1)

1 ¶ Now king Solomon loved many foreign women, besides the daughter of Pharaoh, women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites; (I Kings. 11:1)

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines; and his wives turned away his heart. (I Kings 11:3)

- The Hebrew Scriptures teach us that King Solomon honored other gods in his old age:

4 For it came to pass, when Solomon was old, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods; and his heart was not whole with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father. 5 For Solomon went after Ashtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after Milcom the detestation of the Ammonites. (I Kings 11:4-5).

- The Hebrew Scriptures teach us that King Solomon was a master builder who created buildings of royal proportions like the Egyptians. He built "the house of the Lord, and his own house as we know. devoted his reign to great building projects;

15 ¶ And this is the account of the levy which king Solomon raised; to build the house of the LORD, and his own house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem, and Hazor, and Megiddo, and Gezer. (1 Kings 9:15).

17 And Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon the nether, 18 and Baalath, and Tadmor in the wilderness, in the land, 19 and all the store-cities that Solomon had, and the cities for his chariots, and the cities for his horsemen, and that which Solomon desired to build for his pleasure in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion. (I Kings 9:17-19).

Answer for yourself: What were some of these building accomplishments:

- The Temple (I Kings 6)
- The Royal Palace (I Kings 7:2-12)
- The walls of Jerusalem
- The millo (an eastern fill made to enlarge Jerusalem (I Kings 11:27)
- The Royal Cities of Megiddo, Hazor, and Gezer,
- Many garrisons and fortifications
- The store cities, the cities for his horsemen and the cities for his chariots throughout his empire.

I must address the building of the Temple. Amenhotep III, the Biblical Solomon, embarked on massive building campaigns which are partly confirmed in the list in I Kings but there is a problem. This temple was built in the 14th century B.C.E. and not in the 10th century as the Bible states. The problem we find is that the palace he is supposed to have built in Jerusalem cannot be found by archeologists, but the description tallies exactly with the Amenhotep III's palace in Thebes which was built in the 14th century.

Also of importance is the fact that Amenhotep III is responsible for what we call the "12 Tribes" of Israel. Let me explain. It was he who organized Egypt into twelve administrative districts ("12 tribes"); the organization which was taken from the pattern of the Zodiac.

Answer for yourself: In reading a book entitled Egypt, Canaan, and Israel in Ancient Times by Redford he asks a good question so let me paraphrase it: Since archeology and history testifies to a pattern where other great Bronze and Iron Age cultures in the ancient Near East (Egyptian, Babylonian, Assyrian, and Hittite) left as a legacy numerous documents, art, and inscriptions on buildings or public monuments would should we not expect to have such testimony left by such a great king and master builder let alone by the descendants and admirers of King Solomon in order to honor him? Of course we would expect this to occur yet the hard facts of archeology and history hits us right between the eyes. No article of any king bearing the name of "King Solomon" has ever been found as of today (Ibid. p. 309) anywhere!

The cities of Hazor, Megiddo and Gezer, which as we have seen were built by King Solomon, have now been extensively excavated and all artifacts discovered examined and categorized. Hazor was a large Canaanite city state in Upper Galilee and has been identified as modern Tell el-Qedah only 14 kilometers north of the Sea of Galilee. It was one of the major commercial centres in the Fertile Cresent and we find references to it in both Egyptian and Mesopotamian texts going as far back as the eighteenth century B.C.E. Megiddo, which has been identified as modern Tell el-Mutesellim, was the largest of he ancient fortified city states in Canaan, overlooking the Jezreel Valley of Central Palestine, while Gezar, located in the foothills of the Judean Rang east of Jerusalem, was another important fortified city. A stratum containing large palaces, temples and strong fortifications was found in each of these cities. The name of Solomon, however, was not found.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that all three of these cities were conquered by Tuthmose III (King David) in the middle of the fifteenth century B.C.E.? This has been confirmed by archeological digging , which has produced evidence of the cities' destruction in the right strata for this period (Osman, The House of the Messiah, p. 212).

Answer for yourself: Now since King Solomon is King David's grandson, and we know that King David is really Thutmose III, then should we not expect to find compelling evidence and parallels between the lives of the Biblical King Solomon and Thutmose III's grandson named Amenhotep III? We should and we do.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that in all three cases evidence has been found of large-scale reconstruction work 50 years later during the reign of Amenhotep III (the Biblical Solomon) who was Tuthmose III's (David's) grandson?

Answer for yourself: Can you guess what of earth shattering proportions was also found in the excavations of these three cities? A cartouche containing the name not of Solomon but Amenhotep III. A Cartouche is an oval band symbolizing continuity which enclosed a god's or Pharaoh's name (nomen and prenomen) similar to a modern logo, and which was the symbol of an Egyptian name in hieroglyphics. A cartouche of the 18th Dynasty Pharaoh Amenhotep III, Thutmose III's grandson (King David) was found in the strata belonging to this period and nothing was found indicating a "King Solomon" had been connected with any of these 3 cities in any way whatsoever. (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 212).

In Jerusalem, it has not been possible to excavate the temple mount, however, extensive excavations in the city, including the areas adjacent to the temple mount have not revealed the existence of a Solomaic palace complex (Osman, The House of the Messiah, p. 216). Moreover, excavation of the Millo has revealed (due to pottery found in the Millo) that its original construction was also contemporary with the Egyptian 18th Dynasty of Amenhotep III (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 200-201; Rohl, Pharaohs and Kings, p. 181).

Amenhotep III of Egypt, Pharaoh of the Egypt's glorious 18th Dynasty, was known in ancient times as the "King of Kings" and "Ruler of Ruler's" (Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 35). He, like the Biblical Solomon, inherited a vast empire whose influence extended quite literally from the Nile to the Euphrates (Osman, House of Messiah, p. 202).

Answer for yourself: Does it stand to reason that any Jewish king would ever inherit the Nile in Egypt? (THINK).

In contrast to the empire of Solomon, which we can find no trace outside of the inherited adulterated Hebrew texts bequeathed to us by Ezra, the empire of Amenhotep is indisputable (Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 43). The buildings, monuments, documents, art, and numerous other vestiges of his reign are universal and unparalleled (with the possible exception being those left by the 19th Dynasty Pharaoh, Ramses II).

The entire reign of Amenhotep III was devoted to monumental construction throughout Egypt, Canaan, and Syria (Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 147). In addition to the ancient world's most glorious temple at Luxor (Osman, The House of Messiah, p. 216), he built many other temples of similar design throughout Egypt and in the rest of his empire (Ibid. p. 217), including the Canaanite garrison cities of Hazor, Megiddo, Gezer (Ibid, p. 212), Lachish and Beth-shean (Ibid., p. 218).

According to Egyptian records, Amenhotep's father Thutmose IV and grandfather Amenhotep II deported over 80,000 Canaanites. The Canaanite inhabitants of Gezer were specifically included in this deportation (Redford, Egypt, Canaan, and Israel in Ancient Times, p. 165, 208). It was during Amenhotep III's reign (King Solomon) that Gezer and other major Palestine cities were refortified as royal Egyptian garrisons, and endowed with fine temples and palaces.

The Bible states that in Solomon's day, the Pharaoh of Egypt captured the Canaanite city of Gezer and presented it to his daughter as a dowry upon her marriage to Solomon (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 205; Redford, Egypt, Canaan, and Israel in Ancient Times, p. 310).

16 Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and taken Gezer, and burnt it with fire, and slain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city, and given it for a portion unto his daughter, Solomon's wife. 17 And Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon the nether,

We made mention in earlier articles that sons of Pharaohs inherited the throne by marrying their "sisters". And we saw in the case of Tuthmose III, being of mixed blood, distanced from the throne of Egypt by failing to marry the daughter of Pharaoh thus necessitating his "adoption" by Amun in Psalm 2:6. Here we find again this example but now it applies to King Solomon. It stands to reason, if we recall, that if Tuthmose III, the grandfather of Amenhotep III, was of mixed blood then his grandson, be it Amenhotep III or Solomon would be of mixed blood and it would again be necessary to marry "the throne" by marring a daughter of a Pharaoh and this is exactly what the Hebrew Scriptures tell us Solomon did. Thus we now better understand why it was customary and obligatory for Amenhotep III to marry "the daughter of Pharaoh" in order to secure the throne (Osman, House of Messiah, p. 204-205). This is precisely what was done when he was married to Sitamun, the daughter of his father, Pharaoh Thutmose IV.

The network of Egyptian 18th Dynasty garrison cities also included the most important city of all.

Answer for yourself: Can you guess which city I am speaking about?

I bet most of you guessed it as I am speaking concerning Jerusalem. If construction by Amenhotep III at Gezer, Hazor, Megiddo and other garrison cities is any indication, then a magnificent temple undoubtedly was also built by Amenhotep II on Jerusalem's venerated Temple Mount (Osman, The House of Messiah, p. 218; Redford, Egypt, Canaan, and Israel in Ancient Times, p. 310).

Answer for yourself: Should we not be surprised to learn that the structure adjacent to Jerusalem's Temple Mount, known traditionally as "Solomon's stables," is consistent with the architecture of Amenhotep's garrison cities according to Osman? (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 218). Archaeology has also confirmed that chariots were kept in these cities during his reign in groups of between thirty to one hundred and fifty each

Answer for yourself: Was Israel or Egypt known for their chariots? They both were! Is this a link between Solomon and Amenhotep III?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the ancient mining operations at Timna in the Negev desert, known as "Solomon's mines," "are much earlier than the Biblical dating for King Solomon by some three hundred years [in the conventional chronology]? This little know fact, given to us by Mazar, Archaeology of the Land of the Bible, is but one more piece of puzzle that is showing us that Amenhotep III is the Biblical Solomon.

Answer for yourself: This should expect and do we find that the date and times of Amenhotep III correspond exactly to the Biblical dating for "Solomon's mines? Yes we do!

Copper from Timna, gold from the Sudan, other precious metals, jewels and high quality stone were used in great abundance in Amenhotep's temples, just as they were in Solomon's (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 217). A stela from Amenhotep's mortuary temple boasts that the temple was "embellished with gold throughout, its floor shining with silver ... with royal statues of granite, of quartzite and precious stones." The list of materials used in another temple built by Amenhotep is also "staggering: 3.25 tons of electrum [an alloy of silver and gold], 2.5 tons of gold, 944 tons of copper..." (Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 45, quoted by Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 217).

The Hebrew Scriptures, in Ecclesiastes 2:4-11), teach us that the Biblical Solomon's greatest satisfaction is said to have been the challenge of completing grand projects.

Answer for yourself: Can the same be said for Amenhotep III? Yes. A royal Egyptian text of the period reads, "Lo, His Majesty's heart was satisfied with making very great monuments, the like of which had never come into being since the primeval age of the Two Lands" (Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 43).

Only an enormously wealthy king of a long established empire could have built so splendidly and in so many widely distributed locations in the ancient world. Amenhotep III was arguably the ancient world's wealthiest king. The completion of such magnificent projects required management of a considerable and constant source of labor and revenue extending over a period of many decades.

Earlier we mentioned that the Biblical Solomon had, I Kings 4:7:

7 And Solomon had twelve officers over all Israel, who provided victuals for the king and his household: each man had to make provision for a month in the year.

Answer for yourself: Should we expect and do we find that Amenhotep III had a similar if not exact administration and taxation system with 12 districts as did King Solomon as described in the Bible? Yes we should and we find the exact system in Egypt under Amenhotep III.

Amenhotep III also dedicated himself to rediscovering the wisdom, mysteries and traditions of earlier Egyptian Dynasties (Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 151, 162, 164; Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 52).

Answer for yourself: If Solomon is Amenhotep III as were are seeing then does this explain his strong admonition to get knowledge and wisdom as we see in Proverbs and as was exhibited by Amenhotep III when studying intensely to rediscover ancient wisdom and the hidden mysteries of earlier Egyptian dynasties?

Answer for yourself: Do you recall in an earlier article that I mentioned when taking Proverbs in Seminary I ran across the connection between Solomon and Amenhotep III in the Anchor Bible Commentary on Proverbs? That being the case then this explains the strong relationship has been established between the "Proverbs of Solomon" in the Bible and the "Maxims of Amenhotep III" found in Egypt (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 222; quoting from Bright, A History of Israel, p. 199).

In addition to the projects already mentioned, Amenhotep III also built a completely new palace complex in Thebes.

Answer for yourself: Should we be surprised by now to find that this new royal residence included all of the elements contained in the palace complex of Solomon which are described in the Bible in 1 Kings 7:2-12)? Not at all really; at least not by now having previously read the article on Tuthmose III and having read this far into the article on Amenhotep III

Answer for yourself: What were these elements? Osman, in his House of the Messiah, p. 214-216, states that they were:

- a house made almost entirely out of cedars of Lebanon (built for Amenhotep's Jubilee festival);
- a colonnade (hall of columns) fronted by a portico (porch) and surrounded by a column-lined courtyard;
- a throne room built with many wooden columns and whose floor was a painted lake scene (identical to the one crossed in wonder by the Queen of Sheba when she approached the throne of Solomon, as described in the Koran);
- a separate palace built for Sitamun, "the daughter of Pharaoh;"
- a royal palace (consisting of his own residence, the residence of his Great Wife, Tiye, and a residence for the royal harem).

Answer for yourself: Should we be surprised any longer that Amenhotep III, like Solomon, were relentless in their pursuit of women for their harem, especially beautiful foreign women of both royal and common backgrounds alike (Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 37). No; not really.

Amenhotep III's harem included two princesses from Babylon, two princesses from Syria, two princesses from Mitanni, and like Solomon's harem.

Answer for yourself: Should be any longer surprised that Amenhotep III's harem included a princess from each of the seven nations listed in 1 Kings 11:1 which is mentioned for King Solomon as well? (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 204). As the mightiest king of the Middle East, Amenhotep did not send any of his own daughters to other kings in exchange, nor did any other Pharaoh of this dynasty (or likely any other throughout Egypt's history). He specifically denied a request by the king of Babylon for an Egyptian wife (Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 37). Importantly, the Bible emphasizes Solomon's Egyptian bride, but does not mention that Solomon had any Hebrew wives (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 204-205). Rehoboam, who is said to have succeeded Solomon, was the son of an Ammonite princess and not a Hebrew wife (Ibid., p. 2040205).

The court of Amenhotep III was an extremely liberal one, and reflected every possible excess of an affluent and secure kingdom (Redford, Akhenaten the Heretic King, p. 46). Eroticism in art and court life reached its height during the reign of Amenhotep III (Aldred, Akhenaten King of Egypt, p. 132). The famous "nude dancing girls" mural dates to Amenhotep's reign (Aldred, Egyptian Art, p. 176; Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 131-132).

As with Solomon, Amenhotep III denied himself nothing "his eyes desired" and "refused his heart no pleasure" (Ecclesiastes 2:10).

10 And whatsoever mine eyes desired I kept not from them; I withheld not my heart from any joy, for my heart had joy of all my labour; and this was my portion from all my labour

However, the last years of Amenhotep III's thirty-eight year reign were not pleasant ones. The long years of indulgence had taken their toll and he had many ailments.

Answer for yourself: What have we seen?

The "inescapable conclusion" to any "thinking believer" is that the story of Solomon was patterned specifically after the life of Amenhotep III. The name Solomon itself, which literally means "peace" or "safety" points to Amenhotep III whose long and pervasive reign in the 14th Century B.C. did not include any major military campaigns, but was characterized by unprecedented stability throughout the Near East (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 202). After the Egyptian 18th Dynasty, the region between the two great rivers was not controlled by a single power again until the Assyrian empire of Ashurbanipal (the grandson of Sennacherib) who invaded Egypt and pillaged Thebes in the 7th Century B.C. (Redford, Egypt, Canaan, and Israel in Ancient Times, p. 364), and the 6th Century B.C. empire of Cyrus, who also conquered Egypt and made it a Persian province (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 88). There is no evidence of any empire at any time controlling this region whose capital was Jerusalem.

BIRTH OF HORUS: WAS THIS THE PROTOTYPE FOR THE BIRTH OF JESUS?

If one does the necessary study and reads the right sources then beyond any doubt he sees that much of the Christian History was pre-extant as Egyptian Mythology.

Answer for yourself: Why has this not been public knowledge and is only now begun to be taught and revealed to interested readers and students of Biblical history? Well the main reason is that it has only been in the last two hundred years that we have been able to rediscover how to read the Egyptian hieroglyphics which was prompted by the discovery of the Rosetta Stone.

The answer is not too difficult to comprehend. The facts concerning the "Jesus Story" being patterned after the Horus of Egypt like other foundations, have been buried out of sight for thousands of years in a hieroglyphical language, that was never really read by Greeks or Romans, and could not be read until the lost clue was discovered by Champollion, almost the other day! Champollion was a French Egyptologist, who is acknowledged as the father of modern Egyptology. He achieved many things during his short career, but he is best known for his work on the Rosetta Stone. It was his deciphering of the hieroglyphics contained on the Stone that laid the foundations for Egyptian archaeology. Hidden for a thousand years in the lost language of Egypt and their hieroglyphics is to be found the exact replica of the later Roman "Jesus Story". This is almost too incredible to believe until you examine the results for yourself and if you do then you see that the "logia" or the "sayings of the Christ" can be found in the rituals contained in the Egyptian Book of the Dead as uttered by Horus as well as others. This information has laid beyond the knowledge of moderns until the efforts of Champollion and his work on the Rosetta Stone in the latter 1820s. Provided for the interested reader is the necessary link to examine the history for himself to see how the earlier "Horus/Jesus Stories" were lost to the world for thousands of years but now resurrected with the restoration of Egyptian hieroglyphics through the efforts of Champollion.

This lose of ability to decipher Egyptian Hieroglyphics is the reason why the original sources of our Mytholatry and Christology remained as hidden as they have; that is until the century in which we live. The mystical matter enshrouded in this language was sacredly entrusted to the keeping of the buried dead, who have faithfully preserved it as their Book of Life, which was placed beneath their pillows, or clasped to their bosoms, in their coffins and their tombs.

As Christians we all fell into the same pit of ignorance. We all were taught to accept the Canonical Gospels as containing an assumed undoubted human history, and we assumed, as others taught us to do, that the assumed history on the pages of our New Testament proved itself. Everything goes well with such an approach until one decides to study the origin of the Christian Faith and do so in a scholarly fashion.

The first thing we encounter in such study is the fact that a Jesus, or Jehoshua Ben-Pandira, was an historical character, known to the Talmud. The only problem with this is that this historical character, Jehoshua Ben-Pandira is found in history 100 years too early for the assumed New Testament Jesus. Without such study we all make the same mistake; namely, approaching the New Testament supposing that this New Testament and its record of a Jesus, the events surrounding his life and his sayings proved the personal existence of this Jesus as found portrayed in the Canonical Gospels.

The hardest thing in my life as an Ordained Pastor was to study to the point where I found that this depiction of Jesus in the New Testament was a fraud. After dedicated and sustained serious study of the origins of Christianity one is hard pressed to believe this account of an assumed historical when confronted with the records of Egyptian history and religion as you are about to see for yourself.

THE VIRGIN BIRTH OF THE EGYPTIAN MESSIAH...HORUS & THE PATTERN FOR THE LATER JESUS STORY

The mythical Messiah was always born of a Virgin Mother. It finds its ultimate expression from the constellation virgo. Understand that most all of the Ancient "saviors" had virgin-births?

Answer for yourself: Why was a virgin birth necessary in the instance of Horus? Simply because his father, Osiris, had been murdered by his brother (the Cain and Able story). If you are familiar with the Osiris Myth then you would already know this but if not I suggest that you become very familiar with this story as it is the undergirding tale that lies behind the "Jesus Story". You will find upon study that the Jewish race was heavily influenced by both Egypt and Babylon and many of their "religious myths" become incorporated in their religious heritage and find expression in the Tanakh.

Answer for yourself: Why is the constellation virgo connected with all this virgin birth stuff? Well you have to know a little astronomy to understand the role of Virgo in the mind of the Ancients (http://jesusastrotheology.netfirms.com). If you take the time to get into such stellar astronomy and religion then you will see that most religious stories found in the Christian New Testament come from the personification of the movement of the orbs in the Heavens. I was blown away by such revelations the more I studied this topic when reading books from such men like:

- The Origin Of All Religious Worship by Charles Dupuis
- The Origin and Evolution Of Religion by Albert Churchward
- Ruins Or Meditation On The Revolutions Of Empires And The Law Of Nature by C.F. Volney
- The Historical Jesus And The Mythical Christ by Gerald Massey
- Ancient Egypt: The Light Of The World by Gerald Massey

This information was so overwhelming and earth-shattering that it answered for me any and all questions that remained unanswered concerning the possibility for a historical Jesus that lingered after yeas of advanced study. This of course, a virgin birth, is an event unknown to the medical profession as well as being opposed to all natural phenomena observed in the operation of the laws of nature given to us by the Creator. Therefore such an event as a possible virgin birth to a "thinking believer" should be first of all suspect and understood as an impossible historical event and one should be aware that such an event, as recorded in almost every ancient religion is one that can only be explained by means of a Mythos which incidentally can be found preserved in numerous Ancient theologies long before the birth of Christianity. This astronomical phenomena is replayed over and over down through history since all nations saw the same constellations in the night sky and with trade, travel, and military conquest these myths of the constellations and the path of the Sun moved around the globe given enough time.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the "Virgin Mother" was represented in Egypt by the maiden Queen, Mut-em-ua, the future mother of Amenhept III some 16 centuries B.C.? Truly there is nothing new under the Sun and one only has to undertake a serious study of Egypt and Egyptian religion to find the "Jesus Story" and the "Logia" (the sayings of the Lord) which we find later reproduced in the New Testament as put into the mouth of the later "messiah" of Rome's invention.

Answer for yourself: Have you ever heard of the Temple of Luxor? The Luxor area of Upper Egypt was the Thebes of the ancient Egyptians - the capital of Egypt during the Middle and New Kingdoms. Today it is famous for its temples and the nearby Valley of the Kings.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that on the walls of the Temple of Luxor we find carved in stone what appears to be the "first" nativity from which all others are patterned?

THE EGYPTIAN NATIVITY

Of great interest to us in this article are four consecutive scenes reproduced in Temple which are found portrayed upon the innermost walls of the Holy of Holies in the Temple of Luxor, which was built by Amenhept III, a Pharaoh of the 17th dynasty. Below is the depiction taken from the wall of this Temple of Luxor. It is important for our study to examine this depiction of events on the wall of the Temple of Luxor very closely so we will refer to this picture in the following article repeatedly.

What appears to be a meaningless depiction of scattered events is pregnant with meaning (excuse the word play).

The Legend of Osiris is one of Egypt's most Ancient literature myths. So old, it's origins have been lost in time. It was an important story to the Egyptians because of Osiris' role as the king who is resurrected as the "King of the dead". A king that every Egyptian, from the mightiest pharaoh to the lowliest peasant, hoped to join in the afterlife. Other important themes that we find in the story are; the trials of Isis in which she is idolized as a dutiful wife and protective mother. And the revenge of Horus against his evil uncle Seth who killed his father Osiris, which is a powerful struggle of good verses evil. In an effort to avoid confusion you should be aware that there are two forms of the god Horus in this story, first we find him as the brother of Osiris, then later we find him called Harpocrates or Horus his infant son.

It may be worth noting that in all the vast amount of text that we have from the ancient Egyptians, we find no complete version of this tale. We find only pieces, references and additions to it. One of the most important versions of the story comes to us from a Greek writer named, Plutarch, who lived in the first century A.D.

We find the Legend of Osiris literally portrayed on the walls of the Holy of Holies of the Temple of Luxor. Unknown to the reader of this article at this time is that the Legend of Osiris and his son Horus is the very same story of the birth of the Jesus as depicted in the New Testament thousands of years later.

We find that the "Gospel Story" was written on the walls of this Temple of Luxor (Thebes) thousands of years before the assumed Jesus of history. The story of the divine Annunciation, the miraculous Conception (or Incarnation), the Birth, and the Adoration of the Messianic Child (originally Horus), had already been engraved in hieroglyphics and represented in 4 consecutive scenes upon the innermost walls of the holy of holies in the Temple of Luxor which was built by Amenhept III, a Pharaoh of the 18th dynasty, long before there was any concept of Jesus existing in the first century A.D. In these scenes the maiden queen Mut-em-ua, the mother of Amenhept III, her future child, impersonates this "virgin-mother" (originally Isis) who was miraculously impregnated following the death of her husband Osiris and consequently bore a child without sexual intercourse since her husband had been murdered by his evil brother (see the Osiris Myth).

Let us look at the above picture as we describe the scenes for the reader.

Annunciation: The first scene on the left hand shows the God Taht (Thoth) [the New Testament Gabriel] the Lunar Mercury, the Annunciator of the Gods, in the act of hailing the Virgin Queen, Mut-em-ua, [Mary] and announcing to her that she is to give birth to the coming Son (Amenhotep III in the character of Horus, the divine child [prototype for the later Jesus]. Originally the story finds its first telling when the god Thoth announces to a virgin, Isis, the impending birth of her son, Horus.

Luke 1:26-33 26 And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, 27 To a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. 28 And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. 29 And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be. 30 And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God. 31 And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS. 32 He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: 33 And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end. (KJV)

Immaculate Conception: In the next scene the god Kneph (the Egyptian Holy Ghost) and the goddess Hathor hold crosses, sign of life, originally to the head and nostrils of Isis and mystically impregnate her. Of course this myth is retold later in the account of Queen Mut-em-ua, the future mother of Amenhept III. Kneph ("the Egyptian Holy Spirit") descends and assisted by Hathor, impregnates the virgin [the New Testament Mary] by holding the "ankh", symbol of life, to her head, mouth, nostrils.

Gen 2:7 7 And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. (KJV)

Luke 1:31-35 31 And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS. 32 He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: 33 And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end. 34 Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man? 35 And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that Pharaohs were called "Sons of God"?

The "ankh" is the Egyptian cross having a loop for its upper vertical arm. The Ankh, known in Latin as a crux ansata ("handle-shaped cross"), is the Egyptian hieroglyphic symbol for "life". Kneph is the form of the Holy Ghost or Spirit that causes the Immaculate Conception, Kneph being the "spirit" by name in Egyptian. Impregnation and conception are made apparent in the virgin's fuller form (see the picture). The natural effects of this "miracle conception" are made apparent in the virgin's swelling form (just look at her abdomen in the 2nd depiction on the 'left' of the mural).

The Birth Of The Child God: In the next scene we see the mother is seated on the midwife's stool, and the child is supported and lifted up by the hands of one of the nurses. Originally, the mother, Isis, sits on a midwife's stool, and the newly born infant, Horus, is held by attendants. With the development of the mythos we find that next the mother, Queen Mut-em-ua, the future mother of Amenhept III, is seated on the mid-wife's stool, and the newborn child is supported in the hands of one of the nurses. Later this same story is told only the names of the virgin mother has been altered [Mary] as well as the name of the child god [Jesus instead of Horus].

Luke 2:4-7 4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:) 5 To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. 6 And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. 7 And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. (KJV)

Adoration: The fourth scene is that of the Adoration. Here the child is enthroned, receiving homage from the gods and gifts from men. Behind the deity Kneph, on the right look for 3 figures who are men kneeling and offering gifts with the right hand and life (ankh cross) with the left hand.

Originally the infant Horus receives homage from gods and Three Kings, the Magi, who offer him gifts. In a re-adaptation of the earlier myth we find here the child of Queen Mut-em-ua is enthroned, receiving homage from the Gods and gifts from men as well. As children growing up in the mainly Christian Western Hemisphere we heard this same story over and over never suspecting that it is but a retelling of the Osiris Myth. Never did we know that when we heard of the birth of Jesus and read the birth narratives with our families at Christmas time that we were reading the same story told for over 10,000 years. Never did we suspect that as these men who worshipped Jesus in the New Testament account were but a re-adaptation of those who originally worshipped Horus. All along we had a re-adaptation of these 3 wise men who found baby Horus; in our case the name was changed: Horus became Jesus and Mut-em-ua became Mary. These same 3 wise men worshipped Jesus (the New Testament Horus), and offered gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. But lets look deeper. In the depiction of this miraculous birth on the walls of the Temple of Luxor Isis has been replaced by Queen Mut-em-ua [later to be replaced by Mary]. Behind the deity Kneph, on the right, three spirits--the Three Magi, or Kings of the Legend, are kneeling and offering presents with their right hand, and life with their left. The child thus announced, incarnated, born, and worshipped, was the Pharaonic representative of the Aten Sun in Egypt, the God Adon of Syria, and Hebrew Adonai; the child-Christ of the Aten Cult; the miraculous conception of the ever-virgin mother, personated by Mut-em-ua, as mother of the "only one," and representative of the divine mother of the youthful Sun-God.

Luke 2:8-20 8 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. 9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. 10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. 11 For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. 12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. 13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, 14 Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men. 15 And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us. 16 And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. 17 And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child. 18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds. 19 But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart. 20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them. (KJV)

Matt 2:1-2 1 Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, 2 Saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. (KJV)

These scenes, which were mythical in Egypt, have been copied or reproduced as historical in the Canonical Gospels. In this [set of engravings] we have the Annunciation, the Conception, the Birth, and [the] Adoration as described in the first and second chapter of Luke's Gospel. John G. Jackson, in Christianity Before Christ [American Atheist Press, PO Box 2117, Austin, TX 78768-2117, 1985, pp. 43-46.], cites Gerald Massey in Ancient Egypt: Light of the World, Vol. II, p. 757 [London, T. Fisher Unwin, 1907], as providing this information concerning the mythical elements of an annunciation, an immaculate conception, a virgin birth, and an adoration as presented as consecutive engravings on the inner walls of Temple of Luxor, in Luxor, Egypt, from the time of King Amenhotep III (1538-1501 B.C.). These books are must reads in my opinion if you want to see these things in more detail let alone follow the story of the evolving Horus-Jesus in the New Testament. On my websites I devote considerable space to this very important myth for behind it all again one finds astronomical origins for such a myth.

It needs to be said that critics should remember that the scenes described are literally carved in stone on the walls of the Temple at Luxor and stand as an original source of mythical elements of the Horus myth let alone the source for the later "Jesus birth myth".

John G. Jackson, in Christianity Before Christ, p. 109, states that the resurrection of Osiris is depicted by bas-reliefs (stone carvings on the a wall or a side of an altar, a statue, etc.) of the walls of a Temple of Osiris at Denderah, Egypt, in which Osiris is presented (1) as a mummy on his bier, (2) he arises, and (3) stands erect, with Isis standing behind him, and a male figure hold a crux ansata, an Egyptian symbol of life. Jackson also states that another Osiris resurrection is depicted at the Temple of Isis in Philae, Egypt, upon which is this inscription: "This is the form of him whom one may not name, Osiris of the Mysteries (myths), who springs from the returning waters." Again, critics should remember that the Osiris myth resurrection scenes described are literally carved in stone on the walls of the Temple of Osiris at Denderah and the Temple of Isis at Philae and stand as original sources of mythical elements of the Osiris myth. We herein have an ancient Egyptian mythical element of a death and resurrection and a parallel to the death and resurrection mythical element in the "Jesus Story".

Answer for yourself: Is the "Jesus Story" as we have inherited it a historical reality? Was it meant to be understood mystically and metaphysically but later came to be taught by Rome as a "literal" and "historical" reality that stood of falsehoods? How can such archeological evidence point to Horus thousands of years before the time given for the New Testament Jesus but be literally truthful as applied to a supposed human being named Jesus when studies show that there exists a "pattern" that all the sungods and "christs" followed to the "t"? When religion after religions presented to their peoples in myth and symbol a "pattern" of the God incarnated in mankind, a "pattern" to be emulated and followed by all, then what makes our "Jesus Story" any different? How can our "Jesus Story" be limited to but one when all previous "patterns" and "templates" applied to the whole of mankind? Who would do such a thing? Who would monopolize such a Divine Truth for their selfish motives? Who would turn the evolving Divinity in mankind into a solitary person whose only access was through one door, the door of the Roman Church? Opps, I gave the answer away. The second through the fifth century was the beginning of the Dark Ages, a darkness created by Roman Christianity that few even today, either Catholic or Protestant, have escaped from regarding Divine Truth.

That question plagued me after Seminary after digging deeply into the Jewish Roots of Christianity. Not only the purposeful forgery of the Hebrew Scriptures in making this New Testament Jesus that Rome gave us in the Bible into the supposed "Jewish Messiah", but the unbelievable parallels in Comparative Religions to the template of "crucified sungod" repeated almost verbatim in the "Jesus Story" were most troublesome to me and would be to any "truth-seeker". Added to that when one studies Astro-Theology he finds that the personification of the Sun as it moves through the twelve houses of the Zodiac each year is personified into the "savior stories" of nations; our "Jesus Story" as found in Matthew chapter one through chapter 28 can be seen to be nothing more than the personification of the Sun as it moves through the heavens. Each event, in order, can be traced from Matthew 1 through chapter 28 as the Sun moves from mansion to mansion through our Father's House, the Zodiac. But I would come to see that what I believed to be "literal" and "historical" as applied to my "Jesus Story" was not only the greatest story every told, but the oldest story ever told as well. What I did not know that would come later when studies would advance to Gnosticism, Hermeticism, Mysticism and Metaphysics would be what lies behind all of these surface "god and man stories" which are the personified "messas" and "anointed ones" of nation after nation. Behind each one, whether it be a "god" or a "goddess" story is the personification of the descent of God into "matter" (material existence) which is often termed the "death of God" or the "crucifixion of God on the planes of energy/matter". As God fell into "material existence" down the Ladder of Heaven the ancients termed it the "crucifixion of God" that man might live. Here is found the "key" to all savior stories; the "key" to the hidden truth behind our "Horus/Jesus Stories"; in fact all of them. The evidence is out there for those who want to know the truth about religions let alone the God of the cosmos. The Lesser Mysteries told people only the simple stories, myths, and parables that were moralistic to their core to order society and hopefully motivate people to a life of love and balanced behaviors. But for those who wished to draw closer to God the opportunity was made available for an initiate to come to the deeper truths of the birth of God in "matter"; in mankind. These "secrets" and the "powers that go with them" were reserved in the Higher Mysteries for the chosen and proven few. The reader is called to decide for himself upon what we show him as to the validity of such knowledge for his personal life. You must decide on evidences like these presented in this article and the recommend books that we often point out to the readers for their edification in Godliness. The sole pursuit of such study is to come to the truth of such matters surrounding the New Testament Jesus in hopes that our worship of the Creator be not tainted with idolatry and blasphemy when we worship a false god but offered solely to the Only Creator grounded in truth. I have found that the study of Egypt as well as the other disciplines listed above will give you the answers to these most difficult questions that surround the truth concerning the New Testament Jesus.

THE RE-BIRTH OF THE SUN...THE WINTER SOLSTICE

The Winter Solstice is also known as Yule, Christmas, and Saturnalia, occurs in mid December.

It is when the ancients celebrated the birth of the new Solar year and the beginning of Winter. The Goddess manifests as the Great Mother and the God as the Sun Child (the pattern as applied to many personified gods and godmen as well as Jesus). The God also appears as Santa Claus and Old Man Winter. The colors connected with the Winter Solstice are Red, Green, and White. This is a festival of inner renewal.

Today, many people in Western-based cultures refer to this holiday as "Christmas." Yet a look into its origins of Christmas reveals its Pagan roots. Emperor Aurelian established December 25 as the birthday of the "Invincible Sun" in the third century as part of the Roman Winter Solstice celebrations. Shortly thereafter, in 273, the Christian church selected this day to represent the birthday of Jesus, and by 336, this Roman solar feast day was Christianized. January 6, celebrated as Epiphany in Christendom and linked with the visit of the Magi, was originally an Egyptian date for the Winter Solstice.

Most of the customs, lore, symbols, and rituals associated with "Christmas" actually are linked to Winter Solstice celebrations of ancient Pagan cultures. While Christian mythology is interwoven with contemporary observances of this holiday time, its Pagan nature is still strong and apparent.

Winter Solstice has been celebrated in cultures the world over for thousands of years. This start of the solar year is a celebration of Light and the rebirth of the Sun. In old Europe, it was known as Yule, from the Norse, Jul, meaning wheel.

Today, many people in Western-based cultures refer to this holiday as "Christmas." Yet a look into its origins of Christmas reveals its Pagan roots.

The primary, motivating factor that inspired early man to worship god, was his fear and dread of the potential fierceness of his environment. His (primitive man) major impetus for worshipping and sacrificing to the Sun God was to assure that the Sun God would continue protecting mankind from the ravages of the dreaded winter.

So for primitive man, the inception of winter, Dec. 22, was the worst day of every year for him. This day, Dec. 22 was the start of winter and marked the beginning of the worst stage of his yearly struggle for survival. This day, Dec. 22, is referred to by astronomers as the Winter Solstice. This word, Solstice, according to Webster's Dictionary means "to stand still, pause, a turning point." Primitive man even believed the Sun had died as he could detect no movement of the Sun in the sky for 3 days and and these 3 days were days having the shortest daylight of the year. This day, Dec. 22, the start of winter, was the harbinger of his potential perdition.

Answer for yourself: Now, does this fact not remind you of our "Jesus Story"? Could our "Jesus Story" be a personification of the Sun and its death and subsequent rising again in the sky at the Winter Solstice? How many other events in our "Jesus Story" can be found in the personification of the Sun in its path in the sky and through the Zodiac? Could the whole of the New Testament be a personification of the Sun, as God's "Life-Giver" to makind in this solar system? Let us understand and be wise.

OnDec. 22 of each year, the Sun reached its Winter Solstice, the lowest point of the trajectory (angle of rays) of the entire year. After Dec. 22 (the turning point), the Sun again rises northward, which is a sign that summer shall come again!

Even though Dec. 22 marks the beginning of winter and the weather turns progressively worst from that point (Dec. 22) until the spring (March 21), all is not lost. Because the fact that the angle of the Sun's rays projecting on the earth, was moving progressively northward told early man that the warmth and comfort of the summer Sun would eventually prevail. But there was a period of doubt, for early primitive civilization. Primitive man did not understand our universe and solar system as we do today. We, today, know exactly what causes the four seasons of the year. But early man did not. He did not possess knowledge of our Solar System, the axis of the earth, its rotation and revolving around the Sun. He did not understand that these forces operated by a Natural, Providential Law, that would stay its course, no matter what. Early man only understood the result, not the cause. Because of this he would "reason" such events as best he could and these resulting "myths" would be handed down among mankind until Science would advance to replace such foolishness. The problem is that such foolishness would be later personified into acts of each nation's heroes and later ascribed to Jesus by the Sun-worshipping Romans who had control over the New Testament.

Now you can better understand that each year, early society awaited the approach of Dec. 22, with foreboding. Dec. 22, the day of the Winter Solstice (definition is to stand still) was a day of reckoning for them. Because it seemed to them, as they observed and tracked the North to South movement of the Sun, that on this day DEC 22, the sun entered its grave. The North to South progression of the Sun can be likened to a swinging pendulum. You know that when a pendulum reaches its solstice (the point where it swings back - its turning point), that for a slight imperceptible moment, it actually stands still. But in terms of our vast solar system, the point of solstice is not imperceptible. It lasts for days, three days to be exact. For three days, after the sun reaches its solstice, it appears to stand still. This period of pause, between the Suns descent and ASCENT, wrought paralyzing dread and fear into the hearts and minds of the early pre-Christians. Over time, they established rituals and traditions concerning this period (DEC 22 to DEC 25). They passed the word through oral tradition, and eventually, after their societies established writing, wrote it down, concerning their Sun God: the sun shall lay in a grave (point of solstice) for 3 days. But after 3 days the sun shall rise, be resurrected, (according to Webster's Dictionary, the word resurrect is linked to the word resurge, which means "To Rise Again", to revive), and ascend toward heaven, (progressively ascend northward to the position of the summer Sun). And when the sun completes its ascent upward toward the point of its summer solstice, it will comfort us and bless us with warm weather and long days and will save us (be a savior) from the ravages of winter. So, this, that I have explained to you here, is the ORIGINAL, authentic, true CONCEPT of the resurrection. As the revelation of God would grow among Mankind, men could see how the God of the Universe has spoken such to them in the Cosmos.

When the pre-Christians spoke and wrote of the resurrection of the Sun; they meant exactly that. It did not refer to a person, but to the SOLAR SUN. That would come later. We see the the culminating of it in the teachings later connected to Jesus.

What you, the reader must be sharp enough to see, is that many "untruths" have been mixed with "truths" in the life of Jesus as portrayed in the New Testament and "cast out the leaven."

But, when the Gentile Church broke from their Jewish Roots the Gentile priesthood began to associated with the inherited traditions about Jesus their older "religious traditions" of the Sun-gods. Long ago their Gentile ancestors had changed the "Sun" to "Son". This, if you remember is personification; in particular the personification of the Sun which lies at the foundation of almost all world religions. The priesthood told the pagans that the SON (Christ) was born on DEC 25, just like their SUN. They told them that the Son had been dead in a grave for three days and then was resurrected (revived) and ascended to heaven (upward) just like their Sun. This is totally a matter of faith for you, the reader.

WHAT CAN WE LEARN...AND WOULD GOD WANT US TO?

Emperor Aurelian established December 25 as the birthday of the "Invincible Sun" in the third century as part of the Roman Winter Solstice celebrations. Shortly thereafter, in 273, the Christian church selected this day to represent the birthday of Jesus, and by 336, this Roman solar feast day was Christianized. January 6, celebrated as Epiphany in Christendom and linked with the visit of the Magi, was originally an Egyptian date for the Winter Solstice. If you have ever studied the Jewish Roots of Christianity you can easily see that Yeshua was conceived at Hanukkah (the Festival of Lights...light to the world) and was born at the High Holy Days (9 months later). This is why Bet Emet exists for we desire to help the readers to sanctify themselves before the L-RD and one day meet Him with truth in their lives instead of paganism passed off as truth!

Most of the customs, lore, symbols, and rituals associated with "Christmas" actually are linked to Winter Solstice celebrations of ancient Pagan cultures. While Christian mythology is interwoven with contemporary observances of this holiday time, its Pagan nature is still strong and apparent. Pagans today can readily re-Paganize Christmas time and the secular New Year by giving a Pagan spiritual focus to existing holiday customs and by creating new traditions that draw on ancient ways.

JESUS CHRIST'S DESCENT INTO HELL AS RECORDED IN THE NEW TESTAMENT....TRUTH... OR A SUN-MYTH RETOLD?

The doctrine of Christ Jesus' descent into hell is emphatically part of the Christian belief, although not alluded to by Christian divines excepting when unavoidable. In the first place, it is taught in the Creed of the Christian Church.

The Nicene Creed was created at the Synod at Nicea in 325 A.D. and set forth this Creed: We believe in one God, the Father Almighty, maker of all things visible and invisible; and in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God, the only-begotten of his Father, of the substance of the Father, God of God, Light of Light, very God of very God, begotten, not made, being of one substance with the Father. By whom all things were made, both which be in heaven and in earth. Who for us men and for our salvation came down [from heaven] and was incarnate and was made man. He suffered and the third day he rose again, and ascended into heaven. And he shall come again to judge both the quick and the dead. And [we believe] in the Holy Ghost. And whosoever shall say that there was a time when the Son of God was not, or that before he was begotten he was not, or that he was made of things that were not, or that he is of a different substance or essence [from the Father] or that he is a creature, or subject to change or conversion--all that so say, the Catholic and Apostolic Church anathematizes them (From The Seven Ecumenical Councils, ed. H. Percival, in the Library of Nicene and Post Nicene Fathers, 2nd series (New York: Charles Scribners, 1990), Vol XIV, 3).

Notice if you will the "third day" portion; this is a clear reference to the New Testament doctrine of Jesus' descent into hell prior to the resurrection.

The gospels pretend to be matter of fact stories of some events in the life of the Christian God. The various "Creeds" reflect such a story. They tell what people saw or heard. They claim they saw Jesus rise to heaven, but it is difficult to know how they could have known he descended to hell, unless they simply had the risen Jesus confessing it in one of his mysterious post mortem appearances. Anyway, it was not expressly written into the gospels. Nevertheless, it became and remains a firm belief among Christians that Jesus did descend to Hell. A Christian writer explains that the early Christians were united on the doctrine of Christ's underground mission. It was too well settled to admit of dispute

The Apostles' Creed teaches the doctrine explicitly and it was once thought of as equal in authority to the gospels, being supposedly written by the apostles themselves.

The New Testament attests to this as well: Peter (1 Peter 3:18) is thought to be referring to the descent into Hell when he writes: being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the spirit, by which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison. Prison must mean Hell.

In Acts 2:31 we find that his soul was not left in hell. The writer plainly considered Jesus's soul had been there. The most positive declaration that Christ did descend into hell could not make it more certainly a scriptural Christian doctrine.

WHERE DID SUCH A BELIEF ARISE?

Answer for yourself: Where then did such a belief arise?

You need to know that the most important event in the lives of Pagan Saviours, after their crucifixion, is that of their descent into the infernal regions. In the Hindu bible, written more than three thousand years ago, the Saviour Krishna:

…went down to hell to preach to the inmates of that dark and dreary prison, with the view of reforming them, and getting them back to heaven, and was willing himself to suffer to abridge the period of their torment.

Elsewhere we find that Krishna even descended into hell to teach souls in bondage. We have references to prison and to bondage. Hell is a prison and souls are in bondage. Souls are therefore in prison just as Peter says. The writers of the Gospel of Luke and the first epistle of Peter seem greatly indebted to the Hindu bible in these passages.

Another God who descended into hell was Quexalcoatl of Mexico (300 BC). The story will be found in the Codex Borgianus, wherein is related the account of his death, and burial after crucifixion, his descent into hell, and subsequent resurrection. After Adonis descended into hell, he rose again to life and immortality. Prometheus of Caucasus (600 BC) also suffered and descended into hell, rising again from the dead, and ascending to heaven. Horus first reigned a thousand years, then died, and was buried for three days, at the end of which time he triumphed over Typhon, the evil principle, and rose again to life evermore. And Osiris of Egypt also descended into hell and after a period of three days rose again. Homer and Virgil speak of Hercules, Ulysses and AEneas descending into Hades. The Gods became incarnate, and descended into hell to teach humility and set an example of suffering. The story of their descent into hell was doubtless invented to occupy them during their three days in the tomb.

THE EARLY CHURCH FATHERS TEACH THE SAME DOCTRINE ABOUT THE CHRIST

The doctrine was also taught by the Fathers of the Church. St. Chrysostom (born 347 A.D.) asks:

"Who but an infidel would deny that Christ was in hell?"* (quoted by Bonwick; Egyptian Belief, p. 46).

And St. Clement of Alexandria, who flourished at the beginning of the third century, is equally clear and emphatic as to Jesus' descent into hell. He says:

"The Lord preached the gospel to those in Hades, as well as to all in earth, In order that all might believe and be saved, wherever they were. If, then, the Lord descended to Hades for no other end but to preach the gospel, as He did descend, it was either to preach the gospel to all, or to the Hebrews only. It accordingly to all, then all who believe shall be saved, although they may be of the Gentiles, on making their profession there"

Origen, who flourished during the latter part of the second, and beginning of the third centuries, also emphatically declares that Christ Jesus descended into hell (Origen, Contra Celsus, bk.ii. c. 48).

Ancient Christian works of art represent his descent into hell (Jameson, Hist. Of Our Lord in Art, vol. ii. pp. 364-365).

The apocryphal gospels teach the doctrine of Christ Jesus' descent into hell, the object of which was to preach to those in bondage there, and to liberate the Saints who had died before his advent on earth.

On account of the sin committed by Adam in the Garden of Eden, all mankind were doomed, all had gone to hell excepting those who had been translated to heaven—even those persons who were "after God's own heart," and who had belonged to his "chosen people." The coming of Christ Jesus into the world, however, made a change in the affairs of man. The saints were then liberated from their prison, and all those who believe in the efficacy of his name, shall escape hereafter the tortures of hell. This is the doctrine to be found in the apocryphal gospels, and was taught by the Fathers of the Church (Jameson, Hist. Of Our Lord in Art, vol. ii. pp. 250-251).

THE GOSPEL OF NICODEMUS

In the Gospel of Nicodemus (apoc.) is to be found the whole story of Christ Jesus' descent into hell, and of his liberating the saints. It goes like this:

Satan, and the Prince of Hell, having heard that Jesus of Nazareth was almost to descend to their domain, began to talk the matter over, as to what they should do, etc. While thus engaged, on a sudden, there was a voice as of thunder and the rushing of winds, saying: " Lift up your gates, O ye Princes, and be ye lifted up, O ye everlasting gates, and the King of Glory shall come in."

When the Prince of Hell heard this, he said to his impious officers: "Shut the brass gates . . . and make them fast with iron bare, and fight courageously."

The saint having heard what had been said on both sides, immediately spoke with aloud voice, saying: "Open thy gates, that the King of Glory may come in." The divine prophets, David and Isaiah, were particularly conspicuous in this protect against the intentions of the Prince of Hell.

Again the voice of Jesus was heard saying: " Lift up your gates, O Prince; and be ye lifted up, ye gates of hell, and the King of Glory will enter in." The Prince of Hell then cried out: " Who is the King of Glory" upon which the prophet David commenced to reply to him, but while he was speaking, the mighty Lord Jesus appeared in the form of a man, and broke asunder the fetters which before could not be broken, and crying aloud, said: " Come to me, all ye saints, who were created in my image, who were condemned by the tree of the forbidden fruit . . . live now by the word of my cross."

Then presently all the saints were joined together, hand in hand, and the Lord Jesus laid hold on Adam's hand, and ascended from hell, and all the saints of God followed him (Nicodemus; Apoc. Ch. xvi and xix).

When the saints arrived in paradise, two " very ancient men " met them, and were asked by the saints: " Who are ye, who have not been with us in hell, and have had your bodies placed in paradise?" One of these " very ancient men" answered and said: " I am Enoch, who was translated by the word of God, and this man who is with me is Elijah the Tishbite, who was translated in a fiery chariot" (Nicodemus; Apoc. Ch. xx).

THE NEW TESTAMENT'S WITNESS

The doctrine of the descent into hell may be found alluded to in the canonical books; thus, for instance, in I Peter:

"It is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well doing, than for evil doing. For Christ also bath suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the spirit: by which he also went and preached unto the spirits in prison" (I Peter 3:17-19).

Again, in "Acts," where the writer is speaking of David as prophet, he says:

"He, seeing this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption" (Acts 2:31)

The reason why Christ Jesus has been made to descend into hell, is because it is a part of the universal mythos, even the three days' duration. The Saviors of mankind had all done so, he must therefore do likewise. The Gentile redactors and writers of the New Testament only "patterned" the life of Jesus after their own pagan beliefs. Events in the life of the pagan Sun-gods and Saviors were transposed into the life of Christ.

- Crishna, the Hindu Savior, descended into hell, for the purpose of raising the dead (the doomed), before he retired to his heavenly seat (Asiatic Researches, vol. i. p. 237; Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 168).
- Zoroaster, of the Persians, descended into hell (Monumental Christianity, p. 286).
- Osiris, the Egyptian Savior, descended into hell (Dupuis, Origin of Religious Belief, p. 256; Bonwick Egyptian Belief, pp. 125).
- Horus, the virgin-born Savior, descended into hell.
- Adonis, the virgin-born Savior, descended into hell (Bell, Pantheon, vol. i. p. 12).
- Bacchus, the virgin-born Savior, descended into hell (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i. p. 322; Dupuis, Origin of Religious belief, p. 257; Dunlap, Mysteries Adoni, p. 33).

- Baldur, the Scandinavian god, being killed ,descended into hell (Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 169).
- Quetzalcoatle, the Mexican crucified Savior, descended into hell (Mexican Antiquities, vol. i. vi. P. 166).

All these gods, and many others that might be mentioned remained in hell for the space of three days and three nights. "They descended into hell, and on the third day rose again."

SO WHY THE THREE DAY TIME PERIOD THAT THEY HAD TO REMAIN IN HELL?

One only need look at the stars to know the story. Also, this explains why nation after nation had the same story of the Sun-gods. They all studied the stars.

Thus the story of the three days' entombment has an astronomical explanation...the winter soltice. The sun lies still and apparently motionless, neither ascending nor descending, for nearly three days at the midwinter solstice. It was thought by primitive man that the sun was in a tomb for three days having descended to Hell, the lowest point of its annual cycle. In tracking the course of the sun man could detect the time when the sun shown least every year. For 3 days when the sun is the lowest in the horizon it appears to be motionless for 3 days then beings it northward ascent again. These 3 "shrortest" days of the year provided the least amount of light of the whole year. The sun was believed to have died. The prayer was that it would rise again and the prayer always worked, the sun was born-again each year at midwinter (raised from the dead) as it began it northward track in the sky. However the battle of light with darkness (temptation) continued until the vernal equinox and only when the days became longer than the nights were the ancient astrologer priests happy to celebrate the sun's rebirth. So, the birth of god was at the midwinter solstice but he was fully born again at the vernal equinox (spring). Hence, spring was chosen to represent this "three days' descent of the gods into hell and death because very shortly the days would get longer and spring would arrive with its new life and vegetation after the "death" of winter. The Persians had an astronomical figure representing the descent of a god into hell and returning at the time that Orsus, the goddess of spring, had conquered the god of winter. The author of Revelation describes the Lamb of God (Rev 12) as conquering the dragon, which is the Scorpion or Dragon of the first month of winter, October, being conquered by the Lamb of March or spring.

NOW FOR SOME TOUGH QUESTIONS

If you are a "thinking believer" then you can easily see that the above story concerning Jesus is pure fiction based upon the primitive fears and suspicions of mankind. What was understood metaphysically was later radically reinterpreted as if a "literal" and a "historical" event. Such was never the case.

We as Christians possess a document that is touted to be "inspired, infallible, and inerrant"; the New Testament. As you can see we have a severe problem here both in I Peter and Acts let alone the doctrines emanating from such a book as expressed in the "Creed" of the Church.

Answer for yourself: If I Peter can be shown to be in error, what other "errors" are contained within it let alone other books in the New Testament?

Answer for yourself: If the writer of I Peter got it wrong about the descent into hell, which is allegorical for the Descent of the Soul "into matter" by this Krst/Christ, then what about other doctrines that are connected with this same verse? Have we misunderstood other religious dogmas that Rome has connected to this supposed "literal" and "historical" death of "the Jesus Story" of their own making and "radical reinterpreation"?
Could he be wrong about these as well?

Answer for yourself: What about the book of Acts as well as it represents the Pauline mission with its many anti-Gnostic doctrines as well?

RETURNING TO GOD'S TRUE SALVATION MESSAGE AS SEEN IN THE BIBLICAL FESTIVALS

It has always been God's intention to break down the middle wall of partition separating Jew and Gentile, thus uniting both Jew and Gentile as one with Him. It is God who is to be the Savior of the Gentiles (Isaiah 11:10, 42:6; Acts 2:39; Ephesians 2:11-18).

Isa. 11:10 And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek: and his rest shall be glorious. {glorious: Heb. glory}

Isa. 42:6 I the LORD have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles;

Acts 2: 39 For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, [even] as many as the Lord our God shall call.

Eph 2:11 (KJV) Wherefore remember, that ye [being] in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands; 12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world: 13 But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. 14 For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition [between us]; 15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, [even] the law of commandments [contained] in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, [so] making peace; 16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby: {thereby: or, in himself} 17 And came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh. 18 For through him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.

In the Old Testament (Hebrew Scriptures) God provides a written record of the both "Jews" and "non-Jews" as they not only relate to each other but to God as well; and often that realationship involves worshipping God according to the same "Pattern". This "Pattern" of Worship of God can be demonstraed to have existed as far back as Ancient Egypt and carried own down through history in the Jewish people and Judaism today. This "Pattern of Worship" not only concerns the worship of God but there is a "hidden" message from God in how we worship Him that involves the path given mankind for his salvation. The New Testament has a very important statement that needs our attention:

John 4:22 22 Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews. (KJV)

This is of major importance for in this statement is all we ever need to know concerning God, His proper worship according to this "Pattern" and the path given by God to all mankind that "they might be saved". The Apostle Paul teaches us that Gentiles, who turn from idols to serve the living God, are grafted into Israel by faith; thereby becoming "fellow-citizens" with the saints.

Speaking to "non-Jews" in Ephesus Paul says something else that needs our attention and of great importance, and mind you this is "said" long after the New Testament's depiction of Jesus' death. This is of major importance to us, the "non-Jew", Christian, and follower of "the Christ" today.

Eph 4:4-6 4 There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; 5 One Lord, one faith, one baptism, 6 One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What is this "one faith"? Let me cut to the chase. Historicans and scrutiniy of the New Testament Biblical texts, when consulting the Greek, show without a doubt that the "non-Jews" in the first century in Jerusalem and in Asia, Minor, came to the understanding of God under the "wings" of Biblical Judaism. James gives us a dramatic picture of Gods' will in this matter:

Acts 15:15-21 15 And to this agree the words of the prophets; as it is written, 16 After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down; and I will build again the ruins thereof, and I will set it up: 17 That the residue of men (non-Jews, Gentiles) might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles, upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, who doeth all these things. 18 Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world. 19 Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles are turned to God: 20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood. 21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, being read in the synagogues every sabbath day. (KJV)

Of course most likely by now you know from previous studies that James alludes in this passage to the Covenant of Noah and the Laws of Noah in these 4 "summary statements" in Acts 15:20. Unknown to you is that these "non-Jews", "who doeth all these things", by revelation also kept the "Appointed Times" of God long before the Jews were ever a people. These "special times" with God were recognized by the Ancient to be connected with the Equinoxes and Solstices since the beginning of recorded time and we find in almost every nation the worship of the God of the Cosmos at these times; these times by the way which coincide with the Jewish Biblical Festivals and Feasts. What I discovered in my studies over the years is that beneath the "external rites" of these celebrations and observations of mankind at this special "Appointed Times with God" is a deeper message given by God that affects and shows the path for the salvation of the Soul of mankind. In nation after nation these "non-Jew", long before there were every a Jewish nation, saw in the stories, myths, and legends of their "personified sungods" this descent of the Soul, its birth, life, evolution, and maturation, death and its final resurrection" which goes hidden in the flesh of mankind. Events in the lives of these "personified sungods" that occurred at these different times of these Equinoxes and Solstices were markers for this development of the Soul within mankind. All of these "Divine Truths" were handed down through time by these Ancient Spiritual masters in the "Hidden Mysteries" of various world religions and when we look at Egypt we can understand how Moses, being reared in Pharaoh's house, would be privy to such knowlege.

Acts 7:22 22 And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds. (KJV)

This Moses possessed this "Message of God" and this "Pattern for the worship of God" and we find it duplicated in the Laws of Moses and the examples given us in the Old Testament where we find this "mixed multitude"of both "Jews" and "non-Jews" worshipping together in the Sinai according to this same "Pattern" and "one faith". This"one faith" is the "same" faith shared in the New Testament by both "Jew" and "non-Jew"; the same faith with the same religious doctrines concerning not only this "Pattern for the worship of God", but the same doctrines concerning Faith, Baptism, Repentance, Good Works, Covenants, Atonement, Salvation, Eternal Life, Eternal Judgment, Resurrection, etc. Our focus in this article is how the "Jew" and the "non-Jew" understood this "Salvation Message" of God hidden in the worship of God; in particular the observation of the Biblical Festivals and Feasts.

THE GREAT SEPARATION BETWEEN JEW AND NON-JEW

Following the destruction of the Temple in 70 C.E., the assembly of Gentile Messianic Believers (Church) became more "Gentilized" under the influence of Rome and lost much if not all of the "Jewish Roots". Thus Jews and Christians began to go their separate ways. It wasn't long before the fruit of the Jerusalem Church in Asia, Minor, was flooded with Gentile unbelievers who embraced the "Messianic-Christian faith" as best they could but never had a background in the Jewish faith. It is these Gentile "converts" who lacked the foundations of Torah and who would, under the influence and teachings of others who separated from the mandates of the Jersualem Church, would not accept the Jewish customs and began to drift from this "Pattern of Worship". These Gentile "converts" would forget one important thing: Jewish often meant BIBLICAL! Because of this lack of understanding of the Jewish faith, and distrusting things that are often different from their prior religious customs, these Gentile "converts" brought their hatred and bigotry against the Jews with them into this new Jewish faith. About the same time, some of the genuine Gentile Christian leaders developed a faulty theology that created an anti-Semitic mentality in the Gentile Church that further divided the Christian world from the Jews. These early anti-Jewish declarations laid the foundation for the tragic future of Jewish Christian relations that would see the Gentile Church lose sight of its Jewish roots and persecute the Jews down through the centuries. Constantine's Easter Letter is a good place to start to see how the "non-Jew" looses it "Jewish Roots".

GOD IS DOING A NEW THING IN OUR DAY....SHALL WE NOT SEE IT?

But in these last days, God is doing a marvelous thing. He is breaking down the walls of hate and misunderstanding that have divided the Jews and Gentile believers. He is sovereignty pouring out His Spirit on thousands of Jews and at the same time, God is stirring in the hearts of Christians a holy love for the Jewish people and awakening them to the Jewish roots of their Christian faith and all the "truths" that go with that which reveal Western antisemitic Constantinian Christianity for what it really is.

Many Christians are realizing that the origin of our faith is Jerusalem, not Athens, Rome, Geneva, Wittenberg, Aldersgate, Azusa Street, Springfield, Nashville, Tulsa, etc.

As a result, Christian Churches around the world are reaching out to the Jewish people in their communities, singing songs from the Old Testament, rediscovering their Jewish roots and celebrating the Jewish Feasts and Festivals and Sabbaths. It is clearly God's appointed time to reconcile Jew and Gentile, binding us together by His Spirit.

THE CELEBRATION OF THE BIBLICAL FESTIVALS BY THE NON-JEWISH BELIEVER

Because of the prophetic season in which we are living, many Christian Churches are realizing that it is proper, good and pleasing to the Lord to celebrate the Jewish Feasts of Passover, Pentecost and Tabernacles (Romans 14:5-6).

Rom 14:5-6 5 One man esteemeth one day above another: another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind. 6 He that regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks. (KJV)

Not only that but when we study the original languages of the Bible, both Greek and Hebrew, we find that these Festivals are not merely suggested for the Gentiles to observe, but expected and commanded!

THERE A NUMEROUS BENEFITS THAT ARE BEING EXPERIENCE BY CHURCHES WHO KEEP THE FESTIVALS

Some of these are:

- 1. Better understanding of the Bible
- 2. Rediscovery of the Jewish roots of Christianity
- 3. Fuller comprehension of God's plan of redemption
- 4. Deeper revelation of the work of "the Christ" within us all
- 5. Greater insights into God's prophetic seasons
- 6. Clearer and more powerful teachings through visual aids
- 7. Discovery of the Biblical Church calendar.

Answer for yourself: What Church that desires more of God would not want these benefits!

You can realize them in your own congregation by celebrating the Feasts.

GETTING STARTED WITH THE PASSOVER

Historically, Passover marks the national liberation of the Hebrews from Egyptian slavery. Pesach, the Hebrew name of the feast literally means "the lamb". God instructed each family to take an unblemished year-old male lamb to their home on the tenth day of the first month, Nisan. This corresponds to the months of March and April. They were to examine the lamb for four days to see that it was perfect. On the fourth day at twilight (the beginning of the fifth day), they were to kill the lamb and take some of the lamb's blood and place it on the two doorposts and the lintel of their house. On the first Passover, the avenging angel of God killed every first born male throughout the land, from Pharaoh, to slave, to camel. The angel would "Passover" those homes that protected themselves by placing the blood of a lamb on their doorposts and lintels.

Today the Feast of Passover is celebrated by Jewish people and many Christian churches around the world with a Passover Seder which commemorates the liberation from Egyptian slavery which is a picture of God's salvation. The Feast of Passover, properly understood, is a picture of the salvation provided by God to those who believe His Word and respond to it in proper faith and proper works. The Passover Seder is a meal with special foods, practices and Scripture readings. The Passover Seder commemorates the liberation from Egyptian slavery, in accordance with God's instructions (Lev. 23:1,4, Exodus 12:14,24-27).

Lev. 23:1 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, ...

Lev. 23:4 These [are] the feasts of the LORD, [even] holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their seasons.

Exod. 12:14 And this day shall be unto you for a memorial; and ye shall keep it a feast to the LORD throughout your generations; ye shall keep it a feast by an ordinance for ever.

Exod. 12:24 (KJV) And ye shall observe this thing for an ordinance to thee and to thy sons for ever. 25 And it shall come to pass, when ye be come to the land which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service. 26 And it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, What mean ye by this service? 27 That ye shall say, It [is] the sacrifice of the LORD'S Passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And the people bowed the head and worshipped.

UNLEAVENED BREAD

Hag ha-Matsot, the Festival of Unleavened Bread is described in Ex. 12: 15.

Exod 12:15 15 Seven days shall ye eat unleavened bread; even the first day ye shall put away leaven out of your houses: for whosoever eateth leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that soul shall be cut off from Israel. (KJV)

This stems from the commandment to eat unleavened bread (Matsah) and the prohibition against eating "hamets" or leavened food, in commemoration of the Israelites' hasty exodus from Egypt when they had time to prepare only unleavened bread. While the prohibition against hametz applies to the entire festival, the commandment to eat matsah applies, strictly speaking, to the first night only.

Answer for yourself: What is the connection between the "Passover" and "Unleavend Bread"?

One needs to understand that after one receives the gift of salvation from HaShem which is by birthed by God's love fo mankind and sent to us by His grace, then as God's redemned children we are obligated to "cast out the leaven" from our lives. Repentance from sin is the heart of the issue "after we are saved" as we slowly sanctify our lives by "casting out the leaven" as our Souls mature within us. Leaven is used as a metaphor for "sin" in the Bible and it is understandable that after one comes to God then God expects us to clean up our lives in response to God's gracious gift of salvation. Thus the observation of "unleavened bread" by a Child of God is an immense lession and necessary as the next step in our sanctification and Salvation since God's Salvation is a "process" that is accomplished over time by our due diligence to continullay "seek out" and "cast out the leaven" in our lives.

Rom 12:2 2 And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (KJV)

THE FEAST OF PENTECOST

The Feast of Pentecost is celebrated on the sixth day of the Hebrew month of Sivan. This corresponds to the months of May and June on the Gentile calendar.

Historically, the main activity on the Feast of Pentecost was the presentation of a wave offering to the Lord, two loaves of baked bread with leaven (Lev. 23:15-21). The wave offering expressed the Hebrews' dependence on God for the harvest and their daily bread. This was a thanksgiving offering. Not only that but it is a picture of the people of God; two loaves representing the two "peoples of God"; the Jew and the non-Jew as the peoples of God (the two oliver branches in Joseph's hand).

Later when the Jews were dispersed among the nations, the Feast of Pentecost lost its primary significance as a harvest festival and the Feast of Shavuot, Pentecost, was celebrated as a memorial to the time when God gave the law at Sinai. It is this "Law" which is given to both the Jew and the non-Jew through the various Covenant's of God. This is because the Jews have traditionally believed that God gave the law to Moses on the Day of Pentecost (Ex. 19:1,11).

Exod. 19:1 In the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they [into] the wilderness of Sinai.

Exod 19:11 And be ready against the third day: for the third day the LORD will come down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai.

Answer for yourself: Why is this giving of the Laws of God contained in the Torah so imporant for our salvation? Simply said it is by the knowledge of and the obedience to these Laws and Commandments of God that our Souls grow as we elevate them Spiritually and in so doing supress our carnal and animal natures in our bodies. This is the very same Salvation Message of the Jewish Jesus in the New Testament which we have seen and studied before. This is the path of progressive sanctification that leads to Eternal Life.

Salvation is achieveable to all mankind by their faithfulness to the Torah of God. The fruit of the Torah lived out in one's life is a total reorientation of one's life: a repentance in terms of turning to God. Such is love of God. A potent form of anti-Judaism still remains in Christian theology today as seen in its exclusivist concepts of salvation. Exclusivist forms of salvation affect the Christian approach to mission; i.e. if the Christian Jesus Christ is the only way for salvation, then Christians have an obligation to preach the Gospel and convert all people - including Jews. Within this traditional thinking, if salvation is only available through Jesus Christ, then the Jewish tradition is incapable of securing salvation for the Jewish people let alone "non-Jews". This ultimately leads to denigration and anti-Judaism because Judaism is deemed to be inferior, it has insufficient power for salvation, it is ineffective, and perhaps demonic in some Christian teaching seen with Augustine and Luther. This has happened continuously throughout the ages in Christian preaching and the teachings of the Church Fathers. The most potent forms of anti-Judaism and the persecution of Jews can be traced back to mission and behind that an underlying assumption that salvation is only available through Christ.

Christianity maintains that all men are doomed to sin, and everyone will go to everlasting hell unless they accept this New Testament Jesus as their savior. Judaism has always held, and has for thousands of years, that we do not need that sort of salvation, for we are not doomed or damned at birth. We are not doomed or fated to sin. Quite the contrary. The Torah says: "If you do good, won't there be special privilege? And if you do not do good, sin waits at the door. It lusts after you, but you can dominate it." (Genesis 4:7) In other words, you can do good, and if you do, things will be better for you. If you do not do good, sin wants to be partners with you. But you can control sin, you can control your evil desires, and you can be good. So we have free will, and that is what Judaism has always believed, because that is what the Torah teaches. The Torah does not teach -- or even mention -- that we are "born in sin," or that we are fated to sin. Just the opposite. We have the ability to choose. Which means that we can be good, or we can be evil. It's up to us. And if can be good, that means we can be righteous. I cannot understand how or why Christians like to say that no one can be righteous in the eyes of God. The Torah says otherwise.

"All your nation is righteous, they will inherit the earth eternally; the shoot that I have planted, the work of My hands, something to be proud of" (Isaiah 60:21).

So we are righteous, and Hashem is proud of us. And it says, "Open the gates, so that the righteous nation that keeps the faith may enter" (Isaiah 26:2). We Children of the Israel, both Jew and "non-Jew" are righteous "if" we keep God's Laws and Commandments like Jesus says in his Salvation Message in the New Testament. For the Torah of the Jews says so and always has since the beginning. Before that Egypt said the same things. God laid all this out believe in or not in the Sky and Heavens above in His Laws that operate in the Cosmos and in Nature and the Ancient sages and Spiritual Masters saw and knew this and taught these Divine Concepts to mankind since the beginning of time. For us today, walking in tis same revelation and knowledge, we see that we must uphold the Torah, or otherwise we might cease to be righteous. But as long as we keep the Torah, we are righteous.

The Prophets of the Torah warned us about this many times. They often called man wicked.

Answer for yourself: When is man called "wicked"? When he did not obey the Commandments of the Torah.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that not once, not once, did anyone in the Old Testament warn the Jews or any man for that example to not fail to "believe in Jesus" or the Salvation Message that will one day connected by Rome to this man called Jesus?

The problem is that Christians do not understand the meaning of the concept "righteousness." They think it means that one has never sinned. Never sinning is almost impossible. The Torah says that "There is no person on earth so righteous that he does only good and never sins" (Eccl. 7:20) Rather, the definition of a righteous person is as taught in Proverbs 24:16: "The righteous fall even seven times and still get up, but the wicked stumble in evil." Being righteous does not mean that one never sins. It means that after you sin you get back up again, repent, and try again. You keep on trying. That is being righteous. This is again progressive sanctification and the path to Eternal Life and the true Salvation Message of God.

Not only that, but even if you keep on trying, and you don't succeed very well, and you have many sins, you can still be forgiven and go to Heaven. In the Book of Job (33:23) it says that if someone has even only one merit and 1000 sins, he is rescued from hell. So we are not doomed to hell. That's what Judaism teaches concerning Eternal Life and Salvation, as we see from the Torah.

The Christian bible, on the other hand, teaches that there is no repentance after sinning. Here is what it says in the christian bible: For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning. For it would have been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them. -- 2 Peter 2:20-21 In other words, if anyone accepted Jesus as savior, and then sins, they are in worse trouble than they were before they accepted jesus.

Answer for yourself: So what then is the advantage of accepting Jesus? It seems better to stay with Hashem! Hashem accepts repentance, and loves all those who turn away from sin, no matter how many times they have sinned and repented. "For the righteous stumble even seven times, but they get up again!" And they are still called righteous!

And the wicked who repent are no longer called wicked. Even when I have told the wicked that he will die, but then he repents, and he does justice and righteousness; he returns the collateral when he is supposed to, he repays what he stole, he begins to live by the Laws of Life, and does not do evil, he will live, and he will not die. All the sins that he committed will not be held against him, for he has begun to do judgment and righteousness; he shall surely live. -- Ezekiel 33:14-16

We see, therefore another fallacy of the Christians, who argue that "sin has separated us from a perfectly holy G-d." We are not separated from Hashem at all. All we need to do is repent.

But no, say the Christians. Repentance won't work, for some reason that we cannot understand. They claim that "no one can be close to G-d without jesus." This is completely wrong. The righteous live by their own faith. (Habbakuk 2:4) We do not gain life or atonement by the faith or righteousness of someone else like this Jesus. We are masters of our own fate, because the choice to do good or bad is our own. In Judaism, it is entirely up to you. If you do good, you will get good. If you "choose life" you "get life".

I suggest that if Christians wish to combat anti-Judaism, Christians must now re-examine their concepts of salvation and Biblical Atonement and recognize Judaism as God's legitimate path of salvation for Jews and "non-Jews" without any belief in the Christian doctrines connect to the "Roman Christ". Understand that some of these "doctrines" are correct and so tragically wrong. If Judaism has salvific power (to use Christian language), then there is no necessity for a mission to Jews or anyone for that matter whereby we teach a false atonement and the wrong Salvation Message from God as Christianity teaches today due to its indoctrination and forged texts.

Answer for yourself: But what are we to do with the New Testament examples of Moses being taught to the "non-Jews" in "every city" as seen in Acts 15:21 21?

For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, being read in the synagogues every sabbath day. (KJV) ynagoges in Asia, Minor, in the earliest centuries of the emeging Christain era.

Answer for yourself: What are we to do with the many, many examples in the New Testament where we find that both Jews and "non-Jews" observed together the Sabbath, Passover, Unleavend Bread, First Fruits, Shavuot (Penecost), Rosh HaShannah, Yom Kippur, Tabernacles, as well as Paul's example of him teachingthe "non-Jews" in Asia to keep the Sabbath Havdalah service, etc.?

Answer for yourself: What of the examples were we find in the New Tesament "non-Jews" keeping the Torah along with the Jews after this death of Jesus as depicted in the New Testament? Did these early "non-Jewish" believers know something that today as Christains we don't; namely, that it was in keeping this Jewish Torah that they had discovered the "Salvation Message of God" and that is why they kept it? Do you think that they viewed this as a "curse" or "death" of the higest expression of Love of God for them, to show them the way to Him when they die?

Without a doubt in this Torah we find not only the true Salvation Message of God for all mankind but as well this "Pattern of Worship of God" given all mankind in the beginning of time. Accompanying this "Pattern of Worship" in this Torah and Old Testament we also find a distinct and unique message from God as well concerning our Souls and how they are to grow and inherit Eternal Life in this plane of existence. This "Plan of Worship" and "Plan of Salvation" is laid out in the Biblical Feasts and Festivals of the Jews and their Sabbaths. These Jewish people and their Rabbis, of all peoples today, have preserved this Ancient Message of God concerning His Salvation for mankind in its purest form which can be seen when comparing this "Message" with the same earlier "Message of Ancient Egypt" and the later altered "Message" of Rome.

So it was at Shavuot, the Day of Pentecost, when God gave the roadmap of "How to be Saved" at Sinai when He gave Moses the Laws and Commadments which comprise the respective Covenants of the Jew and "non-Jew". The Day of Pentecost did not originate with Christianity as many Christians maintain and would like you to believe, but it is the day when the Jews and all Gentile converts traveled to be in Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast and the giving of God's Law and Salvation Message to all mankind along with this Pattern for His Worship. These Laws given in the Torah were understood by both the Jew and the "non-Jew" as their Covenant responsibilities to God.

From Luke's account in Acts 2 we see the marvelous timing of God. Thousands of Jews had journeyed to Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of Pentecost. It was then that the followers of "the Christ" were waiting in the upper room and were filled with the Holy Spirit. There was such a loud noise accompanying this experience, that it attracted the attention of the Jewish visitors who went to see what the commotion was all about. Peter then stood up and preached a bold sermon to this Jewish crowd. This outpouring of the Holy Spirit was taking place on the very day when the Jews were offering the two wave loaves to God (symbolizing the two peoples of God, the Jew and the "non-Jew") and celebrating the Law symbolizing their dependence on God. One wave loaf symbolized the Jews and the other the Gentiles who would also receive the Holy Spirit in like manner as recorded in Acts 10.
The Middle Wall of partion between these two peoples were cumbling and would do so until Constantine in the 3rd century when it would be rebuilt and sadly it reamins upright today.

It is this Spirit of the Lord which is given to empower the child of God, now saved as his "personal Passover" through faith, and "cleaned up from his sin through repentance from sin through his observance of his "personal unleavened bread" and resultant obedience to the Law and Commands of God" given him at "his personal Sinai", is now equipped to live thourghout his life a victorious life over sin.

Answer for yourself: What are we to learn from this?

We see from this that we all are to expereince in our lives our very own personal Passover, our very own personal Unleavened Bread, and our very own personal Pentecost/Shavuot for this is God's "Salvation Message" for our Souls and in it is the very "Pattern for Worship" of the Creator in both our bodies and Souls. We as Christains were not commanded in the Laws of Noah to keep these Appointed Times with God that occur at these Equinoxes and Solstices but according to Isaiah 56 "we get to" if we "choose those things that please God". I choose to. By examples in the Old Testament we are shown other "non-Jews", long before the Jewish nation, observee and keept these Holy Days, these Appointed Times with God, learning the lessons concerning their Souls and Eternal Life buried deep in these Equinoxes and Solstices. Anceint mankind read God's blackboard of the Sky and Spiritually discerned by observing the motion of the orbs of Heaven, His Sun, Moon, and Constellations, that in Gods' Heaven lies a Salvation Message of God for all mankind that was brought to earth by the Spiritual Masters of antiquity: "So Above, So Benath". This "Messge of Salvation" and "Pattern for Worship" of God, first recongnized in the Heavens "above" and in Nature "below" the Spiritual Masters of antquity shared God's Divine Message with mankind and it lies there for your receiving yet today.

It is God's Spirit in us, this "anointing", which empowers the child of God to live the mitzvoth and the commands of God in his life. Even Jesus said his yoke was easy. God made it so easy for us if we will lean upon Him and His power in us that enables us to live a Torah obedience and love filled life.

ROSH HA-SHANNAH, YOM KIPPUR, AND THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES (SUKKOT)

On Rosh HaShanah, God gives us a pictur of the "future judgment" of mankind. Judaism teaches, just like Egypt before them, that everyone is judged by God based on his or her actions during the previous year. The resulting judgment is inscribed by God and a person's future is determined for the following year. Don't lose sight of the over all picture of man being judged by his "deeds" and "actions" and not by his "creeds" as the Romanized Paul teaches us in the New Testament. Though that judgment is inscribed, it is not yet sealed and can still be changed at least for another ten days. For the "non-Jew" the next passage is very important.

Acts 11:18 18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life. (KJV)

God waits until Yom Kippur to seal the book for the year.

Answer for yourself: How can a person change their judgment for the better?

"Repentance, Prayer, and Charity can remove the bad decree." Notice if you will we are speaking of "deeds" again and not "creeds". This is very important. God looks especially at three areas during the time between Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur, the Ten Days of Repentance. By doing teshuvah with true regret for the past and commitment for the future, a person can erase his misdeeds and hence improve his judgment before it is sealed on Yom Kippur. Similarly, by praying with greater concentration before God, and by giving charity with the proper spirit, one can also upgrade one's status. This is how we atone for our sins, through righeous deeds that are the fruits of our obedience of the Commandments and Laws of God as taught by the "Gospel of Jesus" in the New Testament. This is how we prepare our lives to be judged by God at our deaths. We next come to Yom Kippur when our atonement accomplished during our lives is weighted in the balance and judgemed by God.

As I noted in Days of Awe, by S. Y. Agnon, Yom Kippur atones only for sins between man and God, not for sins against another person (the Second Tablet of the Law). Now you see the importance of repentance and the Second Tablet of the Law and its various Commandments between mankind.

Answer for yourself: Now, do you understand Jesus' answer on Eternal Life asked him by the lawyer where he mentioned only the Second Tablet of the Law?

To atone for sins against another person, you must first seek reconciliation with that person, righting the wrongs you committed against them if possible. That must all be done before Yom Kippur. By Yom Kippur the 40 days of repentance, that begin with the first of Elul, have passed. On Rosh Hashanah God has judged most of mankind and has recorded his judgement in the Book of Life. But he has given a 10 day reprieve. On Yom Kippur the Book of Life is closed and sealed. Those that have repented for their sins are granted a good and happy New Year. Since Yom Kippur is the day to ask forgiveness for promises broken to God, the day before is reserved for asking forgiveness for broken promises between people, as God cannot forgive broken promises between people. Since Yom Kippur is the day to ask forgiveness for promises broken to God, the day before is reserved for asking forgiveness for broken promises between people, as God cannot forgive broken promises between people. Yom Kippur is a day of "NOT" doing. The is no blowing of the Shofar and Jews may not eat or drink, as fasting is the rule. It is believed that to fast on Yom Kippur is to emulate the angels in heaven, who do not eat, drink, or wash. An important part of the Yom Kippur service is the "Vidui" (Viduy) or confession. The confessions serve to help reflect on ones misdeeds and to confess them verbally is part of the formal repentance in asking God's forgiveness. Because community and unity are an important part of Jewish Life, the confessions are said in the plural (We are guilty). As Yom Kippur ends, at the last hour a service called "Ne'ila" (Neilah) offers a final opportunity for repentance. It is the only service of the year during which the doors to the Ark (where the Torah scrolls are stored) remain open from the beginning to end of the service, signifying that the gates of Heaven are open at this time.

Answer for yourself: What should we learn from this? That repentance from sin, confession, and obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God, just like "the Christ" taught in his Gospel in the New Testament, is the way to Eternal Life and Salvation. All that we do on Yom Kippur is but a picture of the reality that awaits us all at the end of our physical existence.

The last major feast on the Jewish calendar is Tabernacles. It is celebrated in the Fall in the Jewish month of Tishri, which corresponds to the month of September/October on the Gentile calendar.

The Feast of Tabernacles came at the final ingathering of the harvest season. The fruit of the land had been reaped so the people could rest from their labors. It was a time of great rejoicing and was celebrated from the fifteenth to the twenty-first. Then on the twenty-second (the eighth day), there was a special Sabbath which was a day of rest characterized by further rejoicing (Lev. 23:33-41).

Levi 23:33 (KJV) And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, 34 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, The fifteenth day of this seventh month [shall be] the feast of tabernacles [for] seven days unto the LORD. 35 On the first day [shall be] an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work [therein]. 36 Seven days ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: on the eighth day shall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it [is] a solemn assembly; [and] ye shall do no servile work [therein]. {solemn...: Heb. day of restraint} 37 These [are] the feasts of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim [to be] holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt offering, and a meat offering, a sacrifice, and drink offerings, every thing upon his day: 38 Beside the sabbaths of the LORD, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your freewill offerings, which ye give unto the LORD. 39 Also in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days: on the first day [shall be] a Sabbath, and on the eighth day [shall be] a Sabbath. 40 And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; and ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God seven days. {boughs of goodly trees: Heb. fruit of, etc} 41 And ye shall keep it a feast unto the LORD seven days in the year. [It shall be] a statute for ever in your generations: ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month.

The primary activity during this feast is the building of booths or shelters (Sukkah). God commanded the Hebrews to build shelters to live in during the Feast as a reminder of how He cared for them during their wilderness wanderings and the fact that they were pilgrims passing through this life (Lev. 23:42-44).

Levi 23:42 (KJV) Ye shall dwell in booths seven days; all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths: 43 That your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I [am] the LORD your God. 44 And Moses declared unto the children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

The shelters were loosely constructed and decorated and the roof covered with branches. This allowed the Hebrews to see through the roof into heaven and be reminded of an even greater rest and rejoicing when God's hoped for Messiah would rule on the earth. Thus, the Feast of Tabernacles symbolizes the Messianic age.

The Feast of Tabernacles has such universal significance in God's redemptive program, that He requires all nations to go to Jerusalem to celebrate this feast in the world to come (Zech. 14:16).

Zech. 14:16 And it shall come to pass, [that] every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall even go up from year to year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles.

I, as well as the untold multitudes in the various Messianic Ministries of the world, rejoice to see the many thousands of Gentile believers which are returning to the Biblical Roots of their faith in this day and time as a sign of the prophetic season in which we are living.

WHAT SHOULD THE BIBLICAL FESTIVALS MEAN TO THE CHRISTIAN?

I am aware that many teach that the Festivals were fulfilled in the life and ministry of the Jesus of the New Testament. Much of that understanding is taken from the Gospel of John and other passages in the New Testament. It is not my intent here to discuss such a matter, but when one undergoes a serious and intensive study of the New Testament and its "forged texts" as compared with the Hebrew Old Testament for accuracy one is saddened by the purposful gross misapplication of Old Testament passages, purposful mistranslation of Old Testament passages, and the hundreds of Old Testament passages purposfully taken out of context in the New Testament which are purposefully manipulated to provide "false proofs" that make it appear as if this New Testament Jesus fulfilled the Old Testament prophetic passages and the Biblical Feasts. I used to believe that as well from reading "only" the New Testament, but after years of serious study, where I compared line upon line of Hebrew Old Testament and true Masoretic text from the Jewish Scriptures and not the "altered" Christian Old Testaments with New Testament text, I came to see the error of my previous religious belief system. I had put my faith in the wrong document. Along with that I had the "Wrong Salvation Message" and the "Wrong Pattern of Worship". In light of such a study and the convincing results from it then the bottom line is that we cannot be certain that this Jesus of Rome's New Testament was the Messiah or even historically existed in the first place.

If you find it hard to believe what I just said, then I suggest you purchase only one book and be awakened to the serious flaws in the Christian Bible and the New Testament which has so severely been "added to and taken from" by the Roman Church over the centuries: Antisemitism In The New Testament by Lillian Freudmann. What a book! What a book! What a book! Read it and you will never be the same again and not sorry that you did and then you will not be able to question what I say or write for when you take her challenge and compare the Hebrew texts, line upon line, and precept upon precept with the later Greek and English Christian Old Testaments and New Testament you will see how doctrine after doctrine was altered and changed from the Hebrew; in so doing you will see "another Gospel" created, "another Pattern of Worship" was instituted by Rome, and "another Salvation Message" replaced the only one mankind had known since the beginning of time!!!

IN SUMMARY....GOD'S TRUE PLAN OF SALVATION

Having said that, then let me explain God's true plan of salvation as seen in the Biblical Festivals as taught in the Bible that a Jew like this Jesus used and believed in the first century...the Holy Tanakh:

- God makes His salvation available through faith as pictured in the physical salvation of Israel from Egypt at the Passover where God passed over those who responded to Him in faith and obedience. Works accompany such belief for if the Israelites had not responded accurately to their faith and failed to apply the blood to their door then they would likewise had died.
- Once we are saved at Passover one comes to Unleavend Bread as it is time to get the "leaven" (picture of sin in the Bible) or sin out of our lives. This is a sanctification whereby we make ourselves through repentance and obedience to the Word of God acceptable vessels for God's Spirit to inhabit. God's Spirit comes to such a one in the fulfillment of Pentecost.
- We then leave the first harvest season during the year and encounter the dry period as symbolized by the whole of life of mankind. Once we are saved, cleansed, and filled with God's Spirit, we are equipped to live out our lives where we must deal with the good and the bad as we encounter them in life. Sometimes life is hard as seen in the dry season following Pentecost; yet we have the Spirit of HaShem to comfort and sustain us.
- The next Festival is Rosh HaShannah which symbolizes our death at the end of our life. It is appointed for man to once die and then the judgment which is also a second part of Rosh HaShannah.
- After the resurrection at Rosh HaShannah and the judgment and reward for believers as well as non-believers, then one awaits final atonement at Yom Kippur.
- The only thing lacking is the eternal dwelling of the Spirit of God with mankind at the Festival of Tabernacles. This is the eternal Sabbath where God and man are one.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that not only did the above plan of YHVH'S salvation make sense, but Yeshua's name was not mentioned once?

This is only a summary to say the least of what the Biblical Festivals reveal...the Plan of Salvation of God for man's Soul while on this plane of existence. And if you noticed, this plan is very understandable to the Jew and non-Jew without trying to "force" Jesus to fulfill passages that yet remain unfulfilled. Sadly the Christian Church has not heard this message and yet it is the very core of the whole of the Bible a Jew like Jesus would read! So sad! I thank God above that He put into my heart the love for Him and the desire to study as I have to find these truths and be able to share them with other Christian brothers and sisters who are in Churches that teach them wrong Salvation Message of God let alone the wrong Pattern of Worship of God.

These Biblical Festivals, correctly understood as given above, will further enable the Jew and the non-Jew to become one and lead to the sanctification and salvation of one's Soul.

CONSTANTINE'S EASTER LETTER AND THE LOSS OF THE FAITH ONCE GIVEN TO THE SAINTS

I have up to this point given a detailed account of the apostasy encountered by the early Gentile Church under the influence of Constantine. Why did this man turn from established orthodoxy handed down by the apostles? The answer comes when we see what was in the heart of such a man that caused him to accept certain values and beliefs. We are the recipients of his "false-belief system today." For an example, let us see into his heart as we examine why the Christian Church today celebrates and observes Easter instead of Passover as God commanded!

CONSTANTINE I: ON THE KEEPING OF EASTER

From the Letter of the Emperor to all those not present at the Council. (Found in Eusebius, Vita Const., Lib. iii., 18-20.)

When the question relative to the sacred festival of Easter arose, it was universally thought that it would be convenient that all should keep the feast on one day; for what could before beautiful and more desirable, than to see this festival, through which we receive the hope of immortality, celebrated by all with one accord, and in the same manner? It was declared to be particularly unworthy for this, the holiest of all festivals, to follow the custom [the calculation] of the Jews, who had soiled their hands with the most fearful of crimes, and whose minds were blinded. In rejecting their custom, (1) we may transmit to our descendants the legitimate mode of celebrating Easter, which we have observed from the time of the Saviour's Passion to the present day [according to the day of the week]. We ought not, therefore, to have anything in common with the Jews, for the Saviour has shown us another way; our worship follows a more legitimate and more convenient course (the order of the days of the week); and consequently, in unanimously adopting this mode, we desire, dearest brethren, to separate ourselves from the detestable company of the Jews, for it is truly shameful for us to hear them boast that without their direction we could not keep this feast. How can they be in the right, they who, after the death of the Saviour, have no longer been led by reason but by wild violence, as their delusion may urge them? They do not possess the truth in this Easter question; for, in their blindness and repugnance to all improvements, they frequently celebrate two passovers in the same year.

Answer for yourself: Did you know that often two Passovers were observed in the same year? Why?

If Constantine had read the Bible, the Old Testament, he would have seen that God allows for the celebration of Passover exactly one month later for those who were unclean when it was supposed to be celebrated, or who traveled from such far distances that they could not make it in time) Again Constantine is wrong!

We could not imitate those who are openly in error. How, then, could we follow these Jews, who are most certainly blinded by error? for to celebrate the passover twice in one year is totally inadmissible. But even if this were not so, it would still be your duty not to tarnish your soul by communications with such wicked people [the Jews]. Besides, consider well, that in such an important matter, and on a subject of such great solemnity, there ought not to be any division. Our Saviour has left us only one festal day of our redemption, that is to say, of his holy passion, and he desired [to establish] only one Catholic Church. Think, then, how unseemly it is, that on the same day some should be fasting whilst others are seated at a banquet; and that after Easter, some should be rejoicing at feasts, whilst others are still observing a strict fast. For this reason, a Divine Providence wills that this custom should be rectified and regulated in a uniform way; and everyone, I hope, will agree upon this point. As, on the one hand, it is our duty not to have anything in common with the murderers of our Lord; and as, on the other, the custom now followed by the Churches of the West, of the South, and of the North, and by some of those of the East, is the most acceptable, it has appeared good to all; and I have been guarantee for your consent, that you would accept it with joy, as it is followed at Rome, in Africa, in all Italy, Egypt, Spain, Gaul, Britain, Libya, in all Achaia, and in the dioceses of Asia, of Pontus, and Cilicia. You should consider not only that the number of churches in these provinces make a majority, but also that it is right to demand what our reason approves, and that we should have nothing in common with the Jews. To sum up in few words: By the unanimous judgment of all, it has been decided that the most holy festival of Easter should be everywhere celebrated on one and the same day, and it is not seemly that in so holy a thing there should be any division. As this is the state of the case, accept joyfully the divine favour, and this truly divine command; for all which takes place in assemblies of the bishops ought to be regarded as proceeding from the will of God. Make known to your brethren what has been decreed, keep this most holy day according to the prescribed mode; we can thus celebrate this holy Easter day at the same time, if it is granted me, as I desire, to unite myself with you; we can rejoice together, seeing that the divine power has made use of our instrumentality for destroying the evil designs of the devil, and thus causing faith, peace, and unity to flourish amongst us. May God graciously protect you, my beloved brethren.

THE CONSTANTINE CONSPIRACY

We at Bet Emet Ministry are aware through the study of history of the compromise which led the institutional church into apostasy (departure from the true faith). We at Bet Emet feel the Lord has called us to awaken those who are asleep to the facts of the terrible apostasy from the faith of Jesus and who are comfortable in their compromise with paganism in the practice of their own faith (mainline Christianity). I do hope this treatise peeks the interests of many, causing more investigation of the subject and more light on the nature of the great apostasy to whom multitudes are not aware. With the intriguing prospect that mysteries and conspiracies of the past can become common knowledge, perhaps more "ordinary" believers like myself will join in the process of the restoration of the truth in these latter times.

This anti-Judaism which became anti-Semitism, exempted the church, in its opinion, from following the scriptural commands of the Sabbath and the holy feasts, such as Passover. The church equated obedience to these scriptural mandates with following Judaism (called today "being under the Law"). They supposed that since the Jews were so proud of observing the Sabbath and holy feasts, they would be in league with Judaism if they also followed these things. Of course, since many in Judaism (but not all) denied the Roman depiction of Jesus as Messiah, the church thought keeping the Sabbath and Passover would be equated as associating with those who deny Messiah (Christ).

Answer for yourself: Have you ever investigated why the Jews reject the "Christian Jesus?" Well, until you do then you will not possess the knowledge that explains why, and once having such knowledge, then your study of the "Jesus Story" becomes paramount in your life because the arguments of the Jews are irrefutable when one is armed with the facts from both unbiased history as well as the true Hebrew Scriptures.

All Christians and Jews, centuries later, are affected by this apostasy. Most Christians think of Sunday and Easter as biblically mandated holy days and are totally ignorant of this being false doctrine and pagan worship days. Also, there are many Jewish people who think of this Jesus as leader of a Gentile (thusly pagan) religion, forgetting he is often depicted with his Jewishness and in defense of the Law as a rabbi. Both mainstream Rabbinical Judaism and mainstream Christianity stubbornly follow their respective traditions, voicing the idea that to do otherwise would leave one "not a Jew" or "not a Christian" as the case may be. The few Christians who faithfully keep the Sabbath and enjoy the Jewish holy feasts are consigned to being a cult by mainstream Christianity. They are mostly not respected as real Christians. The minority of Jewish people who accept Jesus are viewed as traitors and apostate Jews by the mainstream Jewish community. By some they are likened to being non-persons.

In many of our writings at Bet Emet we are dealing with the problem of the historical denial of the scriptures by the Gentile church. What I found was that the whole issue of church apostasy comes down to a time and a man who transformed the environment and system in which Christianity and Judaism operated. I propose that the events which culminated in and included the rule of an Emperor named Constantine formed a satanic conspiracy; one that must be overturned by an equally powerful divine conspiracy, prayerfully accomplished in our time, whereby the truth behind the "Jesus Story" is known by all.

HORUS & JESUS....SIMILARITIES....WAS HORUS THE "PATTERN" FOR THE LATER "JESUS CHRIST" OF CHRISTIANITY?

The story of Horus, a major Egyptian God, is told in the Book of Vivifying the Soul Forever over 3,000 years before the birth of Christ. The Jesus story in the Bible is in many places a recycled version of the Horus story. The comparisons given below prove without a doubt that much in the New Testament is full of myths and stories recycled from earlier times and made to fit the various characters of the Bible.

- Horus is the Father seen in the son.. Jesus said he was the way, the truth and the life.
- Horus claims to be the light of the world represented by the symbolic eye, the sign of salvation. Jesus stated that he is the light of the world.
- Horus said that he was the way, the truth, the life. Jesus said he was the way, the truth and the life.
- Horus was the plant, the shoot. Jesus says "I am the true vine."
- Horus says It is I who traverse the heavens, I go round the Elysian Fields. Eternity has been assigned to me without end, Lo! I am heir to endless time and my attribute is eternity. Jesus says I am come down from heaven, for this is the will of the Father, that everyone who beholdeth the Son and believeth in him should have eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day.
- Horus...I open the Tuat that I may drive away the darkness. Jesus says I am come a light unto the world.
- Horus says I am equipped with thy words O Ra [Father in Heaven] and repeat them to those who are deprived of breath. These were the words of the Father in heaven. Jesus says The Father which sent me, he hath given me a commandment, what I should say and what I should speak. Whatsoever I speak therefore even as the Father said unto me, so I speak. The word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me."
- Horus baptized with water by Anup. Jesus baptized with water by John the Baptist.
- Horus-Aan, the name of the divine scribe. Jesus-John the divine scribe.
- Horus born in Annu, the place of bread. Jesus Born in Bethlehem, the house of bread.
- Horus The good shepherd with the crook on his shoulders. Jesus The good shepherd with a lamb on his shoulders.
- Horus Seven on board the boat with him. Jesus Seven fishermen on board the boat with Jesus.
- Horus Depicted as the Lamb Jesus depicted as the lamb.
- Horus as the Lion. Jesus as the Lion.
- Horus identified with the Tat or cross. Jesus identified with the cross.
- Horus of 12 years. Jesus of 12 years.
- Horus A man of 30 years. Jesus a man of 30 years at his baptism.
- Horus the KRST. Jesus the Christ.

- Horus the manifesting son of God. Jesus the manifesting son of God.
- Horus The trinity...Atum the Father, Horus the son, Ra the Holy Spirit. Jesus...God the Father, Jesus the son, and the Holy Spirit.
- Horus The first Horus as a child of the virgin, the second as son of Ra. Jesus as a child of the virgin, Christ as the son of the Father in heaven.
- Horus...Horus the sender and Set the destroyer in the harvest field. Jesus...Jesus the sender or the good seed, Satan the sender of tares.
- Horus carried off by Set to the summit of Mount Hetep. Jesus carried by Satan to an exceedingly high mountain.
- Horus and Set contending on the Mount. Jesus and Satan contending on the Mount.
- Horus...The star was the announcer of the child Horus. Jesus...The Star in the East indicated the birth-place of Jesus.
- Horus...the avenger. Jesus who brings the sword.
- Horus...as Iu-em-hetep comes with peace...Jesus...the bringer of peace.
- Horus...the afflicted one. Jesus...the afflicted one.
- Horus...as the type of life eternal.
- Jesus...as the type of life eternal.
- Horus as Iu-em-hetep the child teacher in the temple. Jesus as the child teacher in the temple.
- Horus The mummy bandage was woven without seam. Jesus The vesture of the Christ was without seam.
- Horus As Har-Khutti has twelve followers... Jesus has twelve disciples.
- Horus The revelation written down by divine scribe Aan (Tehuti). Jesus the Revelation written down by John the Divine.
- Horus-Aani bears witness to the word of Ra. Jesus...John bears witness to the word of God and testimony of Jesus Christ.
- Horus The secret mysteries revealed by That-Aan. Jesus The secret mysteries made known by John.
- Horus The morning star. Jesus The morning star.
- Horus Who gives the morning star to his followers. Jesus who gives the morning star to his followers.
- Horus The name of Ra on the head of the deceased. Jesus The name of the father written on the forehead.
- Horus The paradise of the Pole star...Am-Khemen. Jesus The Holy City lighted by one luminary that is neither the sun nor the moon.
- Horus Har-Seshu or servants of Horus. Jesus The servants of Jesus Christ.

Now it is up to the "thinking" believer to decide for himself if the above examples are plagiarism as applied to Jesus by the New Testament writers, coincidental, or Divine Revelation! At the heart of such parallels lies the question as to the "literal" interpretation of the "Jesus Story" and the true historicity of such a person. Could Jesus be but a personification of the Soul, its birth, life, evolution and Spiritual attainment and eventual ascension and return to God at the death of the biological body? The ancient "Krst/Christ Stories" tell us it is! Such knowledge explains all the purposeful misquotations, purposeful mistranslations, and pure inventions of the Hebrew Scriptures in the New Testament in trying to create a "literal" and "historical" Jesus when there was never one. This explains why there exists no unforged evidence to the historical existence of such a person. Yet, we are to learn from this "Jesus Story" about our very Soul, its birth into our incarnational experience, its trials and triumphs awaiting it, along with is Spiritual evolution and eventual return to our Fathers' House. Rightly understood, mystically, metaphysically, allegorically, and not "literally" or "historically," the "Jesus Story" is the most precious story in the world and the ancients, who had this same story only with different names and symbols owing to a different culture, understood this. It is we who don't having inherited a falsified Sacred Book not accurate to the Sacred Books of antiquity. Discerning this truth is not easy, yet not impossible. I pray you ask God to make you "hungry" for Him and His Truth and the Spiritual discovery before you becomes easier.

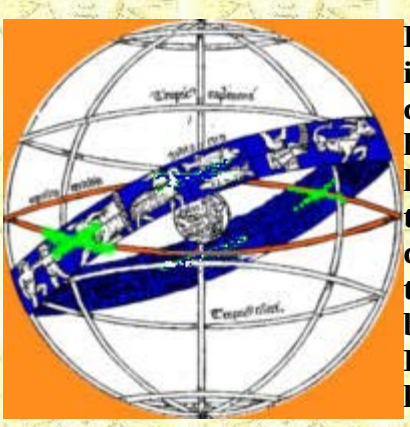
THE SUN DIES ON THE CROSS...TO BE LATER PERSONIFIED INTO THE SON THAT DIES ON THE CROSS

By now you have read enough to know the ancients looked to the Heavens and were in wonder at what they saw and in order to make sense out of the forces of the Heavens and it's influence upon them and Nature often resorted to symbolism, myth, and personification of these forces and observations which gave them a sense of understanding of these things. Since all nations saw the same things in the sky and the Heavens then there was to be expected very similar understanding of these events around the world as recorded in almost every nation under the sun and this is exactly what we find if we look. Christianity is not immune to such things as well as you are finding out. What should be of concern for us is the concept that we find in almost all of these nations that the SUN, PERSONIFIED AS "THE SON OF THE SUN," WAS CRUCIFIED IN THE HEAVENS BEFORE THE FOUNDATION OF THE WORLD!



It might surprise you but the doctrine of salvation by crucifixion had, like many of the ancient forms of religious faith, an astronomical origin. The sun is hung on a cross or crucified when it passes through the two equinoxes each year. People in northern climates were "saved" by the sun's crucifixion when it crossed (crossification) over the equatorial line into the season of spring, at the vernal equinox at Easter, and thereby gave out a saving heat and light to the world that was emerging from the "death of winter" and stimulated the generative organs of animal and vegetable life. The sun that is crucified is the dark and colder winter sun, lacking the warmth and brightness of the summer. It is resurrected as, or supplanted by, its twin, the bright warm fertilizing summer sun that continues on to ascend into heaven following its resurrection from the dead at the winters solstice. When the dark sun is the undesirable one that is crucified, it shows that the myth is appropriate to northern climates. The legend is read as the salvific death of the evil winter sun to resurrect the summer sun. This seems to have been the Persian new year ceremony when it was the wicked Haman who was crucified. The Persians coming from the north and settled on the cooler Iranian plateau will have had the northern view originally, but changed it when they adapted to hot Babylonian conditions, and changed their calendar, as historians know they did.

In the hot climates of the ancient near east, the summer sun is undesirable because its heat burns up the landscape, so the myth was read as the unjust death of the desirable winter sun having nourished the land, leaving the people forlorn until he came (second coming of the Sun (often personified as the 2nd coming of the Son of God) again in the autumn at the autumn equinox. The cool winter sun that had brought the rains, the bounteous sun, made the sacrifice, and his death was bewailed. He had done nothing but kindness, but still had to die at the hands of his cruel adversaries. In Ezekiel, the women outside the temple gates bewailed the death of Tammuz, suggesting the latter interpretation.

The date of Jesus' resurrection, as is the resurrection of all solar Sungods, is the position of the sun at the time of the vernal equinox when the priests could declare that the winter sun was dead—the day was now longer than the night. March 25th was considered the end of the sun's passing through the vernal equinox. Christ is plainly the loved sun god not the hated one, so he is the dark winter sun of the ancient near east, like Krishna, and is depicted as dark skinned in some pictures. Moreover, the "black but comely" lover of the Song of Songs was said to mean God's Christ/Krishna or our Jesus as well. At a later part of the year the autumn equinox sees the bright summer sun transform into the dark winter sun as the sun is now descending to darkness (dark-evil on its way to its death where it fights darkness for 3 days only to resurrect once again and begin is renewed ascent into Heaven once again). The ancients in the near east celebrated the death of the blazing summer sun and the arrival of the stormy sun at the autumn equinox, when they carved or painted sexual organs on the walls of their holy temples with fertilization in mind. This was certainly the case with the temple at Jerusalem, the symbolism of which is purely sexual, the temple being the womb of the land, fertilized by Yahweh at the autumn equinox when its rays shone directly into the holy of holies from the Mount of Olives.

The fertilizing winter sun having been crucified, and the summer sun risen into the heavens in resurrection, the blood of the grape, ripened by its the heat, was symbolically "the blood of the cross," (the subsequent event of the Sun crossing the equinox) or "the blood of the Lamb." The "blood of the Bull" can be found mentioned during the Age of Taurus which was only repeated with the changing of the equinoxes when Taurus is replaced by Aries (the ram/lamb) later in the history of the world. Thus, God's Christ is the true vine as was Dionysus before and others that followed during the age of Aries such as our "Jesus Story". Instead of the symbol being the "blood of the Bull" during the age of Taurus we find the Jesus was likened to the "blood of the lamb" given the fact that although the Age of Aries had faded and was replaced by the Age of Pisces much New Testament symbolism is about "sheep" and "shepherds"; thus the connotation.

Because of our Christian culture and its imagery, the cross is necessarily the instrument of the saviour god's torture. However, because the celestial origin of crucifixion in solar myths is that the sun crosses over the celestial equator, the heavenly sign of the equinoxes, the image of a crossover in the sky would be a cross like the Greek letter Chi (X) not a Plus-like cross (+). Besides it is a known fact that Rome crucified historically with "single stakes"; not using cross bars as is commonly represented today. Constantine's cross in the heavens that signalled his victory at the Milvian bridge was a Chi not a Plus, and the traditional Roman sign of the Christian was Chi Ro, the first two letter of the name Christ. This shape is the shape a man takes when he is stretched out by bonds such as he might have if tied to the ground, to a tree or a wheel. So we might be looking for icons in which the god is depicted such that his body forms a cross, like that of the famous illustration by Leonardo.

The disciples of the Christian faith have burnt books, whole libraries down through history, gone so far as to have blotted out passages and modified ancient passages considered objectionable in other sacred writings because they suggested the opposite of the accepted Roman Christian belief Not only that, they have demolished monuments showing crucifixions of previous atoning gods so that they are now unknown. Hence, the disbelief of Christians when other cases and such evidence is mentioned. These crucifixions and atoning deaths are not vouchsafed as actual occurrences. They are mythical not real events and intended to be understood only "mythically" and "metaphysically" since they involve the Descent of God into "matter".

It has always been presumed that death, and especially death by crucifixion, involved the highest state of suffering possible to be endured by mortals. Hence, the gods must suffer in this way as an example of courage and fortitude which their followers must emulate. To do this they must be superior to their devotees. They must not merely die, but submit to the most ignominious mode of suffering death that could be devised—crucifixion. This gave the highest finishing touch to the drama. And thus the legend of the crucifixion became the crowning chapter, the aggrandizing episode in the history of the lives of the gods. It was presumed that nothing less than a god could endure such excruciating tortures without complaining. Hence, when the victim was reported to have submitted with such fortitude that no murmur was heard to issue from his lips, this circumstance of itself was deemed sufficient evidence of his godship. Such pain and anguish of "crucifixion" is allegorically depicted by Paul in the New Testament in teaching of the "Indwelling God/Christ" in humanity as seen in Philippians 2:5-9:

Phil 2:5-9 5 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. 9 Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name: (KJV)

Nowhere in the mind of Paul is to be found "an old rugged wooden cross". This reference above is purely astronomical and metaphysical.

Now for a little astronomy and theology. When the Sun reached his extreme Southern limit in the sky, then his career was ended and it was assumed by primitive man that the Sun had been overcome by his arch enemy of darkness. The Sun was now dead. If you remember in our study on the Winter Solstice that the Sun, for 3 days a year, remains motionless in the sky at it descend and stops its descent for 3 days each year before rising again "from the dead". The Sun reaches a point in its descent into darkness that it does not move lower on the horizon in its track across the sky nor does it begin its upward journey either. The Sun remains motionless as if "dead" for 3 days. Again if you remember this was the origin of the "descent into hell" stories as the Sun was submitted to the the "Dark-Evil" or the "D-Evil" (Devil). The powers of darkness, and of winter, which had sought in vain to wound him, have at length won the victory: The bright Sun of summer is finally slain, crucified in the heavens at the autumn equinox as its "falls" in the sky to its death in the chaos of winter, and was likened by the ancients as being pierced by the arrow, spear or thorn of winter. If need be refresh yourself with our articles on the "Son or Sun of God" as you see for yourself how the Sun was submitted to the "cross" of the equinoxes and later the "Sun" was personified into the "Son" who was submitted to the same "cross of the equinoxes."

The intersection of the 4 equinoxes is represented as a "cross" by primitive man. Again, notice the angle at which the Sun crosses the equinoxes this is not such that is makes an "even" cross like we would expect (+) in our current symbolism of the crucifixion of Jesus but as a Chi (X). As the Sun was placed on this cross it was easily seen and understood by primitive man that the Sun is divided up into 4 parts, or should I say that the Sun divides the year into 4 parts (spring, summer, autumn, winter...easily seen in the picture above). Pictured this way the Sun as on the cross was understood to be "crucified" as it "crossed" the intersection of the ecliptic and the celestial equator by primitive man. When you then remember how the Sun, when personified by the ancients, became the Son then you have the Son being "crucified" on the Cross in the Heavens, not on Earth! In the black and white graphic we see what the Anciens knew; namely, that the plane of the zodiac intersects the celestial equator of the earth at an angle of approximately 23° 28´. The two points of intersection (A and B) are called the equinoxes and from this they reasoned the "crossing" of these two intersections as the Sun submitted to this cross in the Heavens and not on Earth. We often forget this as does the makes of theology for they have transposed this crucifixion of God/Christ from Heaven to Earth. This is understandable, however, if we remember the Earth was thought to be the center of the Universe at that time. No wonder the Christian Church fought against science; especially when challenged by them by saying the Sun is the center of this Solar System and not the Earth. When you personify the "Sun" into the "Son" then we have the "Son on the Cross". Oh by the way

Jesus was crucified on a single stake by the Romans but the myth must live and the theology stand again any intellectual assault.

The crucifixion of the Sun-gods is simply the power of Darkness triumphing over the "Lord of Light," and Winter overpowering the Summer. It was at the Winter Solstice that the ancients wept for Tammuz, the fair Adonis, and other Sun-gods, who were put to death by the boar, slain by the "thorn" of winter (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. ii. p. 13).

Other versions of the same myth tell us of Eurydike stung to death by the hidden serpent, or Sifrit smitter by Hagene (the Thorn), of Isfendiyar slain by the thorn or arrow of Rustem, or Achilleus vulnerable only in the heel, of Brychild enfolded within the dragon's coils, of Meleagros dying as the torch of doom is burnt out, of Baldur, the brave and pure, smitter by the fatal mistletoe, and of Chrishna and others being crucified.

These solar myths all began in Summer and later carried on in Egyptian mythology, Set, the destroyer, triumphs in the West which was understood as the Sun dying at sunset where Darkness triumphed over the Light of the Sun. Set is the personification of Darkness and Winter, and the Sun-god whom he puts to death, is Horus the Savior (himself the "son" of Osiris himself the personified Sun) (Renouf, Hibbert Lectures, pp. 112-115).

Throughout this tale, the Sun-god was but fulfilling his doom as seen in the heavens. This natural laws of the universe were interpreted by primitive man and later personified as we have seen into mythos of his culture. Everyone on the planet saw the same things and this explains the uncanny similarities of the Sun-Myths around the globe from thousands of years ago. The suffering of a violent death was a necessary part of the mythos; and, when his hour had come, he must meet his doom, as surely as the Sun, once risen, must go across the sky, and then sink down into his bread beneath the earth or sea. It was a fate from which there was no escaping.

THE DEVELOPING MYTHS OF THE NATIONS

Answer for yourself: Has the Gospel borrowed historical accounts describing Jesus from previous Eastern scriptures which existed centuries before the Bible?

Krishna was depicted as if crucified. The Persian remembered only the atoning sufferings on the cross of Mithras the Mediator. Aztecs prayed for the return of their crucified saviour, Quexalcoatl, and were rewarded with Cortez. Caucasians chanted praises to their slain Divine Intercessor, Prometheus, for voluntarily offering himself upon the cross for the sins of a fallen race. Yet the Christian disciple hugs to his bosom the bloody cross of the murdered Jesus, confident that only one god ever died for the sins of man.

To retain their following, Christianity is based on unchangeable dogmas which disciples must accept to the exclusion of all knowledge adverse to their own creed. Whenever they are able they actually destroy contrary evidence for fear of rivalry. Then they magnify their own religion to a unique position above all others.

The earlier Christian saints, having determined like Paul, to know only Jesus Christ and him crucified, made stern efforts to obliterate from the page of history facts damaging to their case.

A report on the Hindu religion, made out by a deputation from the British Parliament, sent to India to examine their sacred books and monuments, was left in the hands of a Christian bishop at Calcutta, with instructions to forward it to England. On its arrival in London, it was so horribly mutilated as to be scarcely recognizable. The account of the crucifixion was gone. The inference is patent.

The disciples of the Christian faith have burnt books, blotted out passages and destroyed opposing testaments which suggested the opposite of their belief. Not only that, they have demolished monuments showing crucifixions of previous atoning gods so that they are now unknown. Hence, the disbelief of Christians when other cases are mentioned.

For the same reasons stated above the dates of the occurrence of these crucifixions are doubtful and because chronology before the time of Alexander the Great (330 BC) is far from certain, and the dating of icons, especially from distant or isolated cultures is uncertain. Even mainstream studies of the ancient Near East are involved in controversy over dates, Peter James for example claiming in a well argued case that several centuries have been mistakenly inserted into near Eastern chronologies. It is certain these crucifixions occurred before the time of Christ, but their exact date cannot be fixed with absolute certainty but fairly accurate estimates are given.

These crucifixions are not conceded as actual occurrences. The objective is not to prove them real events but simply that the belief in the crucifixion of gods was prevalent long before the crucifixion of Christ. To establish this point then six will prove it as well as sixteen. Indeed, one case is sufficient. The reader is left to decide.

EXAMINING THE EVIDENCES

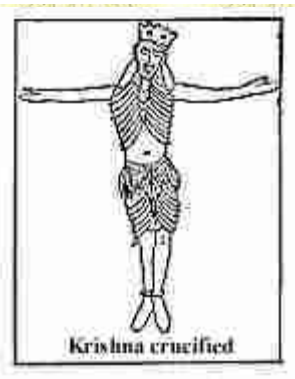
Osiris And Hours Pre 4,000 BC.

Osiris, the Egyptian Savior, was crucified in the heavens and was the "pattern" for all other crucified saviors which would follow; including his son Horus. To the Egyptian the cross was a symbol of immortality, an emblem of the Sun, and the god himself was crucified to the tree, which denoted his fructifying power (Ibid. pp. 115, 125).

Horus was also crucified in the heavens. He was represented, like Chrishna and Christ Jesus, with outstretched arms in the vault of heaven (Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 157).

As a side note the principal Phenician deity, El, which says Parkhurst, in his Hebrew Lexicon, "was the very name the heathens gave to their god Sol, their Lord or Ruler of the Hosts of Heaven," was called "The Preserver (Savior) of the World," for the benefit of which he offered a mystical sacrifice (Wake, Phallism, p. 55). Notice again the connection between the Sun's (Sol's) sacrifice on behalf of mankind!

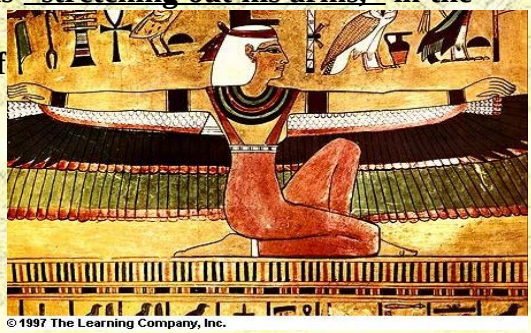
Thulis of Egypt 1700 BC.



Thulis of Egypt, whence comes Ultima Thule, died the death of the cross about thirty-five hundred years ago. Ultima Thule was the island which marked the ultimate bounds of the extensive empire of this legitimate descendant of the gods. This Egyptian saviour appears also to have been known as Zulis. His history is curiously illustrated in the sculptures, made seventeen hundred years BC of a small, retired chamber lying nearly over the western adytum of the temple. Twenty-eight lotus plants near his grave indicate the number of years he lived on the earth. After suffering a violent death, he was buried, but rose again, ascended into heaven, and there became the judge of the dead, or of souls in a future state. He came down from heaven to benefit mankind, and that he was said to be full of grace and truth.

Crite of Chaldaea 1200 BC.

The Chaldeans have noted in their sacred books the crucifixion of a god with the above name. He was also known as the Redeemer, and was styled the Ever Blessed Son of God, the saviour of the Race, the Atoning Offering for an Angry God. When he was offered up, both heaven and earth were shaken to their foundations.



Chrishna 1200 BC.

Chrishna, the crucified Savior of the Hindoos, is a personification of the Sun crucified in the heavens. One of the names of the Sun in the Vedic hymns is "Vishnu" and it is very important to know that in the Rig-Veda the god Vishnu is often named as a manifestation of Solar Energy, or rather as a form of the Sun (Indian Wisdom, p. 322).

Chrishna is Vishnu symbolized in human form as Jesus Christ is the same.
Chrishna says: "I am Vishnu, Brahma, Indra, and the source as well as the destruction of things, the creator and the annihilator of the whole aggregate of existences (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. ii. p. 131).

In the hymns of the Rig-Veda the Sun is spoken of as "stretching out his arms," in the heavens, "to bless the world, and to rescue it from the terror of darkness." This reminds me of many of the examples of Isis with the Sun-disk on her head as she "stretches out her arms.

Attis of Phrygia 1170 BC.

Speaking of this crucified Messiah, the Anacalypsis informs us that several histories are given of him, but all concur in representing him as having been an atoning offering for sin. And the Latin phrase "suspensus lingo", found in his history, indicates the manner of his death. He was suspended on a tree, crucified, buried and rose again.

Tammuz of Mesopotamia 1160 BC.

Tammuz of Mesopotamia is dated around 1160 BC. Tammuz was a god of Assyria, Babylonia and Sumeria where he was known as Dumuzi. He is commemorated in the name of the month of June, Du'uzu, the fourth month of a year which begins at the spring equinox. The fullest history extant of this saviour is probably that of Ctesias (400 BC), author of Persika. The poet has perpetuated his memory in rhyme.

- Trust, ye saints,
- your Lord restored,
- Trust ye in your risen Lord;
- For the pains which Tammuz endured Our salvation have procured.

Tammuz was crucified as an atonement offering: Trust ye in God, for out of his loins salvation has come unto us. Julius Firmicus speaks of this God rising from the dead for the salvation of the world. This saviour which long preceded the advent of Christ, filled the same role in sacred history as we later see reenacted by Jesus in the New Testament.

Wittoba is represented in his story with nail-holes in his hands and the soles of his feet. Nails, hammers and pincers are constantly seen represented on his crucifixes and are objects of adoration among his followers, just as the iron crown of Lombardy has within it a nail claimed to be of his true original cross, and is much admired and venerated for that reason. The worship of this crucified God prevails chiefly in the Travancore and other southern states of India in the region of Madura.

Hesus of the Celtic Druids 834 BC.

Around 834 B.C.E. the Celtic Druids depict their god Hesus as having been crucified with a lamb on one side and an elephant on the other, and that this occurred long before the Christian era. The elephant, being the largest animal known, was chosen to represent the magnitude of the sins of the world, while the lamb, from its proverbial innocent nature, was chosen to represent the innocence of the victim, the god offered as a propitiatory sacrifice. We have the Lamb of God taking away the sins of the world. The Lamb of God could therefore have been borrowed from the Druids. This legend was found in Gaul long before Jesus Christ was known to history.

Indra of Tibet 725 BC.

Indra, the crucified Savior worshipped in Nepal and Tibet, is identical with Chrishna, the Sun. Indra, who was represented as a crucified god, is also the Sun. No sooner is he born than he speaks to his mother. Like Apollo and all other Sun-gods he has "golden locks (reminiscent of the Sun rays of golden light," and like them he is possessed of an inscrutable wisdom. He is also born of a virgin...the Dawn. This Tibetan saviour is shown nailed to the cross. There are five wounds, representing the nail-holes and the piercing of the side. The antiquity of the story is beyond dispute. Marvellous stories are told of the birth of the Divine Redeemer. His mother was a virgin of black complexion, and hence his complexion was of the ebony hue, as in the case of Christ and some other sin-atoning saviours. He descended from heaven on a mission of benevolence, and ascended back to the heavenly mansion after his crucifixion. He led a life of strict celibacy, which, he taught, was essential to true holiness. He inculcated great tenderness toward all living beings. He could walk upon the water or upon the air; he could foretell future events with great accuracy. He practised the most devout contemplation, severe discipline of the body and mind, and completely subdued his passions. He was worshiped as a god who had existed as a spirit from all eternity, and his followers were called Heavenly Teachers. Chrishna and Indra are one (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. i. pp. 88, 341; vol. ii. p. 131).

Bali of Orissa 725 BC.

In Orissa, in Asia, they have the story of a crucified God, known by several names, including the above, all of which, we are told, signify Lord Second, his being the second person or second member of the trinity. Most of the crucified gods occupied that position in a trinity of gods, the Son, in all cases, being the atoning offering. This God Bali was also called Baliu, and sometimes Bel. Monuments of this crucified God, bearing great age, may be found amid the ruins of the magnificent city of Mahabalipore, partially buried amongst the figures of the temple.

Iao of Nepal 622 BC.

Next we find the crucified Iao around 622 B.C.E. in Nepal. Iao (Divine Love personified) is the crucified Adonis, the Sun. The Lord and Savior was called Iao (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. ii. p. 113). Iao was crucified on a tree in Nepal. The name of this incarnate god and oriental saviour occurs frequently in the holy bibles and sacred books of other countries. Some suppose that Iao is the root of the name of the Jewish God, Yehouah (Jehovah), often abbreviated to Yeho.

Mithras of Persia 600 BC.

This Persian God was slain upon the cross to make atonement for mankind, and to take away the sins of the world. He was born on the twenty-fifth day of December, and crucified on a tree. Christian writers both speak of his being slain, and yet both omit to speak of the manner in which he was put to death. And the same policy has been pursued with respect to other crucified gods of the pagans, as we have shown.

Devatat of Siam, Ixion of Rome, Apollonius of Tyana in Cappadocia, are all reported to have died on the cross.

Alcestos of Euripides 600 BC.

A less usual crucified God was Alcestos, who was female, the only example of a feminine God atoning for the sins of the world upon the cross. The doctrine of the trinity and atoning offering for sin was inculcated as a part of her religion.

Quezalcoatl of Mexico 587 BC.

Historical authority of the crucifixion of this Mexican god is explicit, unequivocal and ineffaceable. The evidence is tangible, and indelibly engraven upon metal plates. One of these plates represents him as having been crucified on a mountain. Another represents him as having been crucified in the heavens, as St Justin tells us

Christ was. Sometimes he is represented as having been nailed to a cross, sometimes with two thieves hanging with him, and sometimes as hanging with a cross in his hand.

Prometheus 547 B.C.

The story of the crucifixion of Prometheus was allegorical, for Prometheus was only a title of the Sun, expressing providence or foresight, wherefore being crucified in the extremities of the earth, signified originally no more than the restriction of the power of the Sun during the winter months (Knight, Ancient Art and Mythology, p. 88). The crucifixion of Prometheus of Caucasus, described by Seneca, Hesiod, and other writers, states that he was nailed to an upright beam of timber, to which were affixed extended arms of wood, and that this cross was situated near the Caspian Straits. The modern story of this crucified God, which has him bound to a rock for thirty years, while vultures preyed upon his vitals, is a Christian fraud. The poet, in portraying his propitiatory offering, says: "Lo! streaming from the fatal tree His all atoning blood, Is this the Infinite?–Yes, 'tis he, Prometheus, and a god! Well might the sun in darkness hide, and veil his glories in, when God, the great Prometheus, died for man the creature's sin." It is doubtful whether there is to be found in the whole range of Greek letters deeper pathos than that of the divine woe of the beneficent demigod Prometheus, crucified on his Scythian crags for his love to mortals. When he dies: That the whole frame of nature became convulsed. The earth shook, the rocks were rent, the graves were opened, and in a storm, which seemed to threaten the dissolution of the universe, the solemn scene forever closed, and Our Lord and saviour Prometheus gave up the ghost. The cause for which he suffered was his love for the human race. The whole story of Prometheus' crucifixion, burial and resurrection was acted in pantomime in Athens five hundred years before Christ, which proves its great antiquity. Minutius Felix, one of the most popular Christian writers of the second century addresses the people of Rome: Your victorious trophies not only represent a simple cross, but a cross with a man on it, and this man St. Jerome calls a god. These coincidences are more proof that the tradition of the crucifixion of gods has been very long prevalent among the heathen.

Quirinius of Rome 506 BC.

The crucifixion of Quirinus the Roman saviour is remarkable for the parallel features to that of the Judaean saviour, not only in the circumstances of his crucifixion, but also in much of his antecedent life. He is represented, like Christ:

- As having been conceived and brought forth by a virgin.
- His life was sought by the reigning king, Amulius.
- He was of royal blood, his mother being of kingly descent.
- He was put to death by wicked hands or crucified. At his mortal exit the whole earth is said to have been enveloped in darkness, as in the case of Christ, Krishna, and Prometheus.
- And finally he is resurrected, and ascends back to heaven

Ixion 400 BC.

Ixion was crucified on a wheel, the rim representing the world, and the spokes constituting the cross. He bore the burden of the world, the sins of the world, on his back while suspended on the cross. He was therefore called the crucified spirit of the world. Ixion, who was bound to the wheel (Sun wheel), was none other than the god Sol, crucified in the heavens. The Sun, as climbing the heights of heaven, was sometime interpreted by men as the Sun being "arrogant" since for himself he made exorbitant claims. He was punished by being bound to a "fiery cross." Stories were invented of the Sun revolving daily on a four-spoked cross (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. ii. p. 27). Whatever be the origin of the name, Ixion is the "Sun of noonday," crucified in the heavens, whose four-spoked wheel is seen whirling in the highest heaven. So was Ixion bound on the fiery wheel, and the sons of men see the flaming spokes day by day as it whirls in the big heaven. The "wheel" upon which Ixion and criminals were said to have been executed was a cross, the name of the thing was dissembled among Christians; it was a St. Andrew's cross, of which two spokes confined the arms, and two the legs.

It is curious that Christian writers will recount a long list of miracles and remarkable incidents in the life of Apollonius of Tyana, the Cappadocian saviour, forming a parallel to those of the Christian saviour, yet say not a word about his crucifixion.

Christian writers find it necessary to omit the crucifixion of these saviours fearing the telling would lessen the spiritual force of the crucifixion of Christ, which has to be unique. They thus exalted the tradition of the crucifixion into the most important dogma of the Christian faith. Hence, their efforts to conceal from the public the fact that it is of pagan origin.

Mackey's Lexicon of Freemasonry says that Freemasons secretly taught the doctrine of the crucifixion, atonement and resurrection preceded the Christian era, and that similar doctrines were taught in all the ancient mysteries.

THE ALLEGORICAL REPRESENTATION OF THE GENERATIVE AND DESTRUCTIVE ATTRIBUTES OF THE SUN-GODS

Hercules is torn limb from limb; and in this catastrophe we see the "blood-red sunset" which closes the career of Hercules (Cox, Tales of Ancient Greece, p. xxxii). The Sun-god Hercules cannot rise to life of the blessed gods until he has been slain. The morning cannot come until Eos who closed the previous day has faded away and died in the black abyss of night.

Achilleus and Meleagros represent alike the "short-lived Sun," whose course is one of toil for others, ending in an early death, after a series of wonderful victories alternating with periods of darkness and gloom (Ibid., p. xxxiii). In the tales of the Trojan war, it is related of Archilleus that he expires at the Skaian, or western gates of the evening. He is slain by Paris, who here appears as the Pani, or dark power, who blots out the light of the Sun from the heaven

We have the story of Adonis, born of a virgin, and known in the countries where he was worshipped as "The Savior of Mankind," killed by the wild boar, afterwards "rose from the dead, and ascended into heaven." This Adonis, Adonai in Hebrew or "My Lord," is simply the Sun. He is crucified in the heavens put to death by the wild boar (personified Winter). "Babylon called Typhon or Winter 'the boar;' they said he killed Adonis or the fertile Sun" (Muller, Science of Religion, p. 186).

The Crucified Dove worshipped by the ancients, was none other than the crucified Sun. Adonis was called the "Dove." At the ceremonies in honor of his resurrection from the dead, the devotees said, "Hail to the Dove! the Restorer of Light" (Calemt, Fragments, vol. ii. pp. 21-22). This Crucified Dove" is described by Pindar, the great lyric poet of Greece, born about 522 B.C.E.

"We read in Pinda of the venerable bird Iynx bound to the wheel, and of the pretended punishment of Ixion. But this rotation was really no punishment, being, as Pindar saith, voluntary (compare to Jesus' death), and prepared by himself and for himself; or if it was, it was appointed in derision of his false pretensions, whereby he gave himself out as the crucified spirit of the world." "The four spokes represent St. Andrew's cross, adapted to the four limbe extended, and furnish perhaps the oldest illusion to the crucifixion. The same cross of St. Andrew was the Taw (T), which Ezekiel commands them to mark upon the foreheads of the faithful, as appears from all Israelitish coins whereon that letter is engraved. The same idea was familiar to Lucian, who calls T the letter of crucifixion. Certainly, the veneration of the cross is very ancient. Iynx, the bird of Mautic inspiration, bound to the four-legged wheel, given the notion of Divine Love crucified. The wheel denotes the world, of which she is the spirit, and the cross the sacrifice made for that world" (Pindar, Nimrod: vol. i. p. 278; Higgins, Anacalypsis, p. 503).

This "Divine Love," of whom Nimrod speaks, was "The First-begotten Son" of the Platonists. The crucifixion of "Divine Love" is often found among the Greeks. Ionah or Juno, according to the Iliad, was bound with fetters, and suspended in space, between heaven and earth. Ixion, Prometheus, Apollo of Miletus were all crucified. At Miletus was the crucified Apollo who overcomes the Serpent of evil and the evil principle in the world.

Semi-Ramis was both a queen of unrivaled celebrity, and also a goddess, worshipped under the form of a Dove. Her name signifies the "Supreme Dove." She is said to have been slain by the last survivor of her sons, while others say, she flew away as a dove. In both Grecian and Hindu histories this mystical queen Semiramis is said to have fought a battle on the banks of the Indus, with a king called Staurobates, in which she was defeated, and from which she flew away in the form of a Dove.

Of this Nimrod says:

"The name Staurobates, the king by whom Semiramis was finally overpowered, alluded to the cross on which she perished," and that, "the crucifixion was made into a glorious mystery by her infaturated adorers"

Make no mistake about it. This Oriental story has had unbelievable impact and influence in almost every nation of the world. These words apply to Christ Jesus , as well as Semiramis, according to Christian Father Ignatius. In his Epistle to the Church of Ephesus, he says: "Now the virginity of Mary, and he who was born of her, was kept in secret from the prince of this world, as was also the death of our our Lord: three of the mysteries the most spoken of throughout the world, yet done in secret by God."

Here we have the crucified Dove, the Sun, for it is well known that the ancients personified the Sun female as well as male.

We also have the fable of the Crucified Rose, illustrated in the jewel of the Rosicrucians. The jewel of the Rosicrucians is formed of a transparent red stone, with cross on one side and a red rose on the other thus forming a crucified rose. This idea stems from the fable of Adonis who was the Sun whom we have seen often crucified whereupon he was then changed into a red rose by Venus (The Rosicrucians, p. 260).

The emblem of the Templars is a red rose on a cross. Often we find this symbol surrounded with a glory, and placed on a calvary. This is the Naurutz, Natsir, or Rose of Isuren, of Tamul, or Sharon, or the Water Rose, the Lily Padma, Pena, Lotus, crucified in the heavens for the salvation of man (Ibid.). The Knights Templars also have a "Cross and the Crown" symbol. A frequent Masonic symbol often seen on churches or religious literature such as the "Bible Tract Watchtower" magazine of the Jehovah's Witness. Charles Tess Russell was a 32nd Degree Freemason. As well as Mary Baker Eddy's Christian Science. Her husband was a Freemason. This symbol can be found on the side of USC Medical Center. The Cross represents the "Cross of the Zodiac" or the Separation of the four seasons. The Crown represents the SUN dying on the cross of the zodiac.

Answer for yourself: Is it just coincidence that Jesus Christ was called the Rose, the Rose of Sharon?

Jesus was believed by his followers to be the incarnation of Divine Wisdom. He was the son of Mair or Maria. He was the Rose of Sharon and the Lily of the Valley, which bloweth in the month of his mother Maia. Thus, when the angel Gabriel gives the salutations to the Virgin, he presents her with the lotus or lily; as may be seen in hundreds of old pictures in Italy. We see therefore that Adonis, "the Lord," "the Virgin-born," "the Crucified," "the Resurrected Dove," "the Restorer of Light," is one and the same with the "Rose of Sharon," the crucified Christ Jesus.

Plato (429 B.C.E.) in his Pimaeus, philosophizing about the Son of God says:

"The next power to the Supreme God was decussated or figured in the shape of a cross on the universe."

This brings to recollection the doctrine of certain so-called Christian heretics, who maintained that Christ Jesus was crucified in the heavens and not on Earth. These Christian Gnostics who believed in "the Chrestos" and not Rome's "Christ" just happened to be right.

The Chrestos was the Logos, the Sun was the manifestation of the Logos or Wisdom to men; or, as it was held by some, was his peculiar habitation. The Sun being crucified at the time of the winter solstice was represented by the young man playing the Bull (emblem of the Sun) in the Mithraic ceremonies. The Chrest was the Logos, or Divine Wisdom, or a portion of divine wisdom incarnate; in this sense he is really the Sun or the solar power incarnate, and to him everything applicable to the Sun will apply.

Lund, in his Monumental Christianity, provides a great picture of the Christian Savior crucified in the heavens. The pattern of the illustrations can be traced to Chrishna who is also represented crucified in "space." This is exactly displayed in the form of a Roman crucifix, but not fixed to a piece of wood, though the legs and feet are put together in the usual way. There is a glory over the top of it, coming from above, not shining from the figure, as is generally seen in a Roman crucifix. It has a pointed Parthian coronet instead of a crown of thorns. All the avatars, or incarnations of Vishnu, are painted with Ethiopian or Parthian coronets. For these reasons the Christian author will not own that it is a representation of the "True Son of Justice," for he was not crucified in space; but whether it was intended to represent Chrishna, Wittoba, or Jesus, it tells a secret: it shows that someone was represented crucified in the heavens, and undoubtedly has something to do with "The next power to the Supreme God," who, according to Plato, "was decussated or figured in the shape of a cross on the universe." The Sun-gods Apollo, Indra, Wittoba, or Chrishna, and Christ Jesus, are represented as having their feet pierced with nails (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. ii. p. 28).

Answer for yourself: Who was the crucified god whom the ancient Romans worshipped, and whom they, according to Justin Martyr, represented as a man on a cross?

Answer for yourself: Can we doubt, after what we have seen, that he was this same crucified Sol, whose birthday they annually celebrated on 25th of December?

In the poetical tales of the ancient Scandinavians, the same legend is found. Frey, the Deity of the Sun, was fabled to have been killed, at the time of the winter solstice, by the same boar who put the god Adonis to death, therefore a boar was annually offered to him at the great feast of Yule (Knight, Anct. Art and Myth, pp. 87-88). "Baldur the Good," son of the supreme god Odin, and the virgin-goddess Frigga, was also put to death by the sharp thorn of winter.

The ancient Mexicans crucified Savior, Quetzalcoatle, another personification of the Sun, was sometimes represented as crucified in space, in the heavens, in a circle of nineteen figures, the number of the metonic cycle. A serpent (emblem of evil, darkness, and winter) is depriving him of the organ of generation (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. ii. p. 32).

It is a well known fact that Christ Jesus, and many of the heathen saviors, healers, and preserving gods, were represented in the form of a Serpent. This is owing to the fact that, in one of its attributes, the Serpent was an emblem of the Sun (think of Moses and the serpent on the cross...the Sun crucified). It may, at first, appear strange that the Serpent should be an emblem of evil, and yet also an emblem of the beneficent divinity; but, as Prof. Renouf remarks, in his Hibbert Lectures, "The moment we understand the nature of a myth, all impossibilities, contradictions, and immoralities disappear."

The serpent is an emblem of evil when represented with his deadly sting; he is the emblem of eternity when represented casting off his skin; and an emblem of the Sun when represented with his tail in his mouth, thus forming a circle. This idea is quite consistent with the ideas entertained by the Phenicians as to the Serpent, which they supposed to have the quality of putting off its old age, and assuming a second youth (Sanchoniation: quoted by Wake: Phallism, p. 43). This idea even existed in the Americas. The great century of the Aztecs was encircled by a serpent grasping its own tail, and the great calendar stone is entwined by serpents bearing human heads in their distended jaws. The annual passage of the Sun, through the signs of the zodiac, being in an oblique path, resembles, or at least the ancients thought so, the tortuous movements of the Serpent, and the facility possessed by this reptile of casting off his skin and producing out of itself a new covering every year, bore some analogy to the termination of the old year and the commencement of the new year. Accordingly, all the ancient spheres: Persians, Indian, Egyptian, Barbaric, Mexican, etc., were surrounded by the figure of a serpent holding its tail in its mouth (Squire: Serpent Symbol, p. 249).

Thus there came to be, not only good, but also bad, serpents, both of which are referred to in the narrative of the Hebrew exodus, but still more clearly in the struggle between good and the bad serpents of Persian mythology, which symbolized Ormuzd, or Mithra, and the evil spirit Ahriman (Wake, Phallism, p. 42).

As the Dove and the Rose, emblems of the Sun, were represented on the cross, so was the Serpent (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. ii. p. 128). The famous "Brazen Serpent," said to have been "set up: by Moses in the wilderness, is called in the Targum (the Aramaic versions of the Old Testament) the Savior! It was probably a serpentine crucifix, as is called a "cross" by Justin Martyr. The crucified serpent denoted the Phallos, or the Sun after it had lost is power. It is the Sun in winter, crucified on a tree, which denoted its fructifying power. Being the most intimately connected with the reproduction of life on earth, the Linga became the symbol under which the Sun, invoked with a thousand names, has been worshipped throughout the world as the restorer of the powers of nature after the long sleep or death of Winter. In the brazen Serpent of the Pentateuch, the two emblems of the Cross and the Serpent, the quiescent and energizing Phallos, are united (Cox, Aryan Mythology, vol. ii. pp. 113-118). As Mr. Wake remarks, "There can be no doubt that both the Pillar (Phallus) and the Serpent were associated with many of the Sun-gods of antiquity (Wake, Phallism, p. 60).

This is seen often when the serpent is represented with rays of glory surrounding its head.

The Ophrites, who venerated the serpent as an emblem of Christ Jesus, are said to have maintained that the serpent of Genesis, who brought wisdom into the world, was Christ Jesus. The brazen serpent was called the Word by the Chaldee paraphrast. The Word, or Logos, was Divine Wisdom, which was crucified; thus we have the cross, or Linjga, or Phallus, with the serpent upon it. Besides considering the serpent as the emblem of Christ Jesus, or of the Logos, the Ophites are said to have revered it as the cause of all the arts of civilized life. Several females have been believed to have been selected and impregnated by the Holy Ghost, and is was, in some cases, the form of a serpent which was the form the Holy Ghost chose to impregnate them. This was the incarnation of the Logos.

The serpent was held in great veneration by the ancients, who, considered it as the symbol of the beneficent Deity, and an emblem of eternity. As such it has been variously expressed on ancient sculptures and medals in various parts of the globe.

Although generally, it did not always, symbolize the god Sun, or the power of which the Sun is an emblem; but, invested with various meanings, it entered widely into the primitive mythologies. As Mr. Squire observes:

"It typified wisdom, power, duration, the good and evil principles, life, reproduction; in short, in Egypt, Syria, Greece, India, China, Scahdinavia, America, everywhere on the globe, it has been a prominent emblem" (Squire, Serpent Symbols, p. 155).

The serpent was the symbol of Vishnu, the preserving god, the Savior, the Sun (Wake, Phallism in Acnt. Religs., p. 72). It was an emblem of the Sun-god Buddha, the Angel-Messiah (Ibid. p. 73; Squire, Serpent Symbol, p. 195). The Egyptian Sun-god Osiris, the Savior, is associated with the snake (Faber, Orig. Pagan Idol., in Squire, p. 158). The Persian Mithra, the Mediator, Redeemer, and Savior, was symbolized by the serpent (Ibid.). The Phenicians represented their beneficent Sun-god, Agathodemon, by a serpent (Kendrick, Egypt, vol. i. p. 375). The serpent was, among the Greeks and Romans, the emblem of a beneficent genius. Antipator of Sidon, calls the god of Ammon, the "Renowned Serpent" (Ibid.). The Grecian Hercules, the Sun-god, was symbolized as a serpent; and so was AEsculapius and Apollo. The Hebrews, at one time in their antiquity, worshipped the Sun-god Sol, and represented him in he form of a serpent. This the the "seraph" spoken of above as set up by Moses (Num. 21:3) and worshipped by the children of Israel. Seraph is the singular of seraphim, meaning Semilice (splendor, fire, light); emblematic of the fiery disk of the Sun, and which, under the name of Nehush-tan, "Serpent-dragon," was broken up by the reforming Hezekiah.

The principal god of the Aztecs was Tonac-actcoatl, which means the Serpent Sun (Squire, p. 161).

The Mexican virgin-born Lord and Savior, Quetzalcoatle, was represented in the form of a serpent. In fact, his names signifies "Feathered Serpent." Quetzaloatle was a personification of the Sun (Ibid. p. 185).

So we see it is relatively easy to connect the Serpent and the Sun, as corresponding symbols of the reproductive or creative powers.

The mysteries of Osiris, Isis, and Horus, in Egypt; Attis and Cybele, in Phrygia; Ceres and Proserpine, at Eleusis; of Venus and Adonis, in Phenicia; of Bona Dea and Priapus, in Rome, and all susceptible of one explanation. They are all set forth and illustrated, by solemn and impressive rites, and mystical symbols, the grand phenomenon of nature, especially as connected with the creation of things and the perpetuation of life. In all, it is worthy of remark, the Serpent was more or less conspicuously introduced, and always as symbolical of the invigorating or active energy of nature, the Sun.

In early Christian art Christ Jesus was represented as a crucified lamb. The crucified lamb is "the Lamb of God taking away the sins of the world, and slain from the foundation of the world" (Lundy, Monumental Christianity, p. 185). In other words, the crucified lamb typifies the crucified Sun, for the lamb was another symbol of the Sun and one of the signs of the Zodiac (Aires which in those days had displaced Taurus in the precession of the equinox...the beginning of a new age had come with the prominence of Aires..the ram/lamb).

We find, then, that the stories of the crucifixion of the different so-called Saviors of mankind all melt into one, and that they are allegorical, for "Savior" was only a title of the "Sun," and his being put to death on the cross, signifies no more than the reconstruction of the power of the Sun in the winter quarter.

With Justin Martyr, an early Church Father of 150 A.D. then, we can say:

"There exists not a people, whether Greek or barbarian, or any other race of men, by whatsoever appellation or manners they may be distinguished, however ignorant of arts or agriculture, whether they dwell under the tents, or wander about in crowed wagons, among whom prayers are not offered up in the name of a CRUCIFIED SAVIOR to the Father and creator of all things" (Justin Martyr, Dialogue With Trypho, quoted in Gibbons' Rome, vol. i. p. 582).

Now you know what has been kept from you...that these same concepts were applied to "the Jesus" of the New Testament.

I guess Pontus Pilate said it best: "What is truth?"

Answer for yourself: What is all of this to mean? Do we throw out our "Jesus Story" as a lie, or is there yet something there we fail to understand? Does it stretch believability to know that there is something in common between our "Jesus Story" and the story of all previous gods and goddesses since the dawn of time? What are we missing? Is our "Jesus Story" to be understood as if a "literal" and "historical" story that must be believed in order to escape the fires of Hell as Rome and Protestantism would have us believe? How did the ancients understand their versions of this same "Jesus Story" under their different names like Osiris, Isis, Horus, Dionysus, Quezalcoatl, Krishna, Tammuz, Thulis, Attis, Mithras, etc? Why did the ancients understand that their "crucified Krst/Christ Stories" were never "literal" or "historical" but metaphysical allegories teaching of the Descent of God, Divine Mind, and Soul into incarnational "matter"? Why did they come to understand that they are the evolving "Christs" of God and not us? If God is the same yesterday, today, and tomorrow then how can the "pattern for man's evolution of his Divinity" change? Well, you have to ask Rome and Constantine about that.

EXAMINING THE CRUCIFIXION OF JESUS AND PARALLELS TO CRUCIFIED SUN-GODS #1

Over the years our faithful readership has learned a lot. Again we make significant strides in this current study in discerning truth from error that surrounds such very important topics for the Christian like the crucifixion of Jesus and its relationship to atonement as taught by Paul in the New Testament. Again, if you have read this ministry's materials over the last years you have come complete understanding that much that is found in the New Testament has pagan origins and often this involves such "sacred" Christian doctrines like atonement. This escapes the new believer and often the "seasoned" believer if he has never had the opportunity for such study. If you are a new reader of our ministry's materials then the above statements can be quite difficult to handle and often this diminished one's desire to even look into such subjects. But truth is truth and lies are lies and anyone's worship of the Creator demands faithfulness to our Creator's Truth.

Not often, but in this case I feel warranted to caution my readership that certain necessary foundations will be necessary to be able to comprehend, understand, assimilate, and draw the proper conclusions from the data that will be presented in this series of articles. Let me explain.

Over the years we at Bet Emet have demonstrated that the Christian Old Testament in the vast majority of Christian Bibles are a compilation of purposeful misquotes and mistranslations of the Jewish Masoretic Palestinian text which has been preserved by the Jewish people for over thousands of years. This shocking revelation is open for all to see if they only knew it existed and were interested to look. Of paramount importance for the Christian are their cardinal doctrines of atonement as much of it is taken from Isaiah 53. The problem is that Isaiah the prophet as read in the Hebrew Masoretic text in pertinent passages like Isa. 53 reads completely different than the "Christian edition". We as followers of Yeshua deserve a translation and not a fictional creationism. This purposeful errors in translation was done long, long ago and few Christians and Pastors are aware. They never knew to look! This fact alone means the Isaiah 53 that Christians read is not the Isaiah 53 that Yeshua read! This should upset you; especially since most of the New Testament's atonement teachings are grounded in a falsified text. So, before you read this series of articles, it is mandatory for you to become aware of such a terrible problem that exists with the Christian's Old Testament in the places enumerated. Understand as well that when the New Testament references Isaiah that it as well is mistaken and is quoting and referring to an adulterated text. You should understand up front that the Jews can be shown to only have translated the first five books of the Old Testament into Greek and the rest was done later by non-Jews at the religious capital of the world in that day…Alexandria Egypt. This explains how "pagan ideas" and "pagan religious beliefs" were intermixed among the pages of your Christian Old Testament and was later by default referenced by the New Testament. Our ministry has prepared a detailed expose of such conspiracy and have available on request the documentation of such errors in Isaiah 53. This material is necessary for anyone who desires to read the articles forthcoming in this current series.

Likewise, it is necessary before continuing this series of articles for one to completely understand the Sacrificial System in 'DETAIL". Over the years of my pastorate I encountered continually a level of misinformation and misinstruction in Gentile Christianity that was of a staggering proportion. Whether one listens to the radio, tunes in on the television, or even listens to Pastors Sunday after Sunday the level of misinformation is staggering. I ought to know; I used to be part of it. I was well educated in one of the finest religious institutions in America where I obtained a Masters in theology with high honors. I continued to study and dedicated myself to such following Seminary and it was there by using the many skills acquired in Seminary that I researched almost every area of my faith. My intentions were not to prove anything wrong at all; I was just in love with God. I wanted to draw closer to Him and help my fellowship do likewise and the better equipped and prepared I made myself the better I could serve the people in this capacity. However, over the years I encountered many things that challenged my "faith" and what I had been taught to accept on "faith alone". Not wishing to be bested, I set out to prove the detractors wrong and vindicate myself and my faith. Honestly, over the years my knees had to bow to a higher truth often as I encountered facts, archeological evidence, reproducible history, and unrefutable evidence that proved that much of what I had accepted by "faith alone" was in truth "lies and error". I had been duped and never knew it; that is, until I studied my blessed assurance off. I could list almost innumerable accounts where by Christian religious belief system was shown to be in error. This is simply because my Christian religious belief system was grounded in a document that could, with just a little effort, be shown to be incompatible with the "facts". I had no choice but to repent because now God and me both knew the truth. If I had to pick an area in Christian theology where almost little light and truth resides that would be in the Christian's understanding of the Sacrificial System. My whole Christian life I had been taught that the "Jews" believe "this" and "that" about the Sacrificial System. Again, I was taught wrong. It was not until I met some Rabbis and asked them one on one about many questions that I had about the Bible that I was able to be the beneficiary of the "light" to the nations. Imagine my surprise when I found out that what I had been told by my Christian leaders that the Jews believe was just the opposite. These encounters only provoked more study on my part. I have said all this to say this: it is mandatory that you have an accurate understanding of the Sacrificial System, the dynamics involved in the role of the blood as it "represents" the soul of the sacrifice. You will come to understand that the whole of the Sacrificial System in reality did not PROVIDE ATONEMENT, it only "WITNESSED" to an already received atonement prior to the slaying of the animal! This crucial truth is mandatory for any Christian to understand even if his goal was not to read the remainder of these articles.

If you have not had the opportunity yet to acquaint yourself with this necessary knowledge, STOP right not and request these valuable and vital informative articles be sent you at once. I tell everyone to believe nothing I say or teach. You must study this out for yourself to prove to yourself these things be so. The references are available to the serious student…just ask. We will be glad to help you find the source documents that expose your "falsehoods" and that will lead you to repentance and more proper worship of God. My prayer is that you will respond and study these articles in detail and let it soak in. Use the greatest organ God ever gave man; his mind and THINK! Now and only now will you be able to handle what comes next.

It is taken for granted that the current reader has accomplished the goal of the first article: you have read the materials necessary to continue our study in this set of articles. Hopefully the goals were reached:

- You now possess a more complete understanding of what the original Isaiah both wrote and taught. Along with this comes a major change in your understanding of "the Suffering Servant" as Israel and the role it plays in the atonement. You now know better that to read only "Jesus" into every verse!
- You now possess a complete understanding of how atonement was accomplished prior to the sacrifice of the animal and it's blood being placed on the altar in communion and right standing with God. You now understand the whole process of animal sacrifice was but a picture of the soul of the sacrificer "at that moment". It either was "right" with God or not when then animals was sacrificed. Along with this you can now understand Isaiah 1, for instance, when such wanton destruction of animal life without the necessary spiritual dynamics at work in the heart of the sacrificer "wearied" God.

THE ORIGIN OF ATONEMENT…YOU MIGHT BE SURPRISED

Almost everyone will point to Adam and Eve and the animals skins and say: "see there, that is the first sacrifice for sin". Where is the word "sin offering" mentioned in the text? Somehow I missed it. Well, then they will say: "Cain and Abel brought offerings and these were for sin". Again, where does it say that these were "sin offerings" or that they brought atonement? We could go on and mention Noah, but again such offerings have something in common with all that went before: the complete silence or mention of : "sin offering", or "atonement". Dear one, if we choose to read into anything we read what we want to "believe" then there is no purpose in continuing our study of anything. We are to draw out, exegete, the text to discern what is meant in the event under question.

For your information the first mention of "sin offering" and "atonement" in the Bible is found FOLLOWING THE GOLDEN CALF incident:

Exod 29:14

14 But the flesh of the bullock, and his skin, and his dung, shalt thou burn with fire without the camp: it is a sin offering.

Exod 29:33

33 And they shall eat those things wherewith the atonement was made, to consecrate and to sanctify them: but a stranger shall not eat thereof, because they are holy.

What should concern us is if these two related incidents are the first examples of "sin offering" and

"atonements" known to man.

The punishment of an individual by crucifixion, for claiming to be "King of the Jews," "Son of God," or "The Christ;" which are the causes assigned by the writers of the New Testament for the Crucifixion of Jesus, would need but a passing glance in our study, were it not for the fact that there is much attached to it of a DOGMATIC and HEATHENISH nature. Therefore this topic demands more considerably more than a "passing glance." The doctrine of atonement for sin has been preached long before the doctrine was deduced from the Christian Scriptures; even longer than the writing of the Old Testament. Before the period assigned for the birth of Christ Jesus, the poet Ovid had assailed the demoralizing delusion with the most powerful shafts of philosophic scorn: "When thou thyself are guilty," says he, "why should a victim die for thee? What folly it is to expect salvation from the death of another."

The idea of expiation by the sacrifice of a god was to be found among the Hindus even in Vedic times. The sacrificer was mystically identified with the victim, which was regarded as the ransom from sin, and the instrument of its annulment. The Rig-Veda represents the gods as sacrificing Purusha, the primeval male, supposed to be coequal with the Creator. This idea is even more remarkably developed in the Tandya-brahmanas, thus:

"The lord or creatures offered himself a sacrifice for the gods."

And again, in the Satapatha-brahmana:

"He who, knowing this, sacrifices the Purusha-medha, or sacrifice of the primeval male, becomes everything" (Monier Williams: Hinduism, pp. 36-40).

Prof. Monier Williams, from whose work on Hinduism I quoted above, brings to our attention that long before Moses and any Old Testament there existed in pagan religion mystical allusions to the sacrifice of a representative man.

THE $64,000 DOLLAR QUESTION

In the pursuit of truth I want to be above board and fair at all costs. This is not always done by those who publish or print their findings. You many not know it but many "opinions" are sold today and read as fact. This is not what we do at Bet Emet. We provide the facts and the evidence and let the reader make up his mind. I believe that you need to make an intelligent decision and that is impossible unless you have the facts.

Such a revelation of the "sacrificial representative man" means either ONE OF three things:

- YHVH gave primeval mankind the paradigm or pattern of the sacrificial representative man for all mankind…and and there was no need for Israel to be a "light" to anyone…
- Primeval mankind developed such a pattern of the sacrificial representative man from evolutionary beliefs connected with sun worship…and Paul and others only incorporated Yeshua within an already existing pagan religious belief system when "evangelizing" the Gentiles….these Gentile ambassadors gave the non-Jews nothing new….that that did not already believe or cherish…they only changed the names of their sun gods and elaborated upon these god's atoning deaths..
- Having read the prior articles on Isaiah 53 and the Sacrifical System (at the bottom), you are beginning to see the horrible evidence that you have not the truth concerning atonement and the meaning of the death of Yeshua

WE BETTER LISTEN TO YESHUA'S WARNING

24 For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.

First of all you need to understand the word translated "Christs" in verse 24 only means "anointed" and not what you more than likely thought….a False Messiah. The warning is not to be deceived by many who present themselves as anointed of God for this or that purpose. Believe me, this is rampant today. One only needs to listen to the multitude of conflicting doctrines emanating from over the 2000 different Christian denominations that all preach different Jesuses.

To our question in point.

Answer for yourself: It is possible that in your Christian religious belief system you have, without knowing, accepted a belief in a sacrificial representative man that originated with sun worship and paganism, and have rejected or never known up to now the truths concerning these things addressed in this article?

In the pages that follow I will present OVERWHELMING evidence to help you see the truth. I will not tell you now which of the above 3 scenarios is true. I want you to see the evidence for yourself and you make up your own mind. Understand that faith is necessary and I consider myself a man of faith. However, faith is only necessary in the absence of facts and reproducible evidence. When one deals with facts and evidence little "needs to be hoped for" as Hebrews says except the common sense to recognize truth and facts when you see it. Unfortunately to come to knowledge that dispels the darkness of doubt and error one must read and often reading is technical. In the next pages you will encounter hundreds and hundreds of facts and evidence that will paint for you a picture that will be undeniable to the mind. And before some of our detractors say that faith is not to be intellectualized, let me remind you what Yeshua said was the Greatest Commandment……

36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law? 37 Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. 38 This is the first and great commandment.

Notice Yeshua said man was to love God FIRST with all his heart….what did he mean? Love God with my blood pumping organ? No!

Let us examine the Greek behind the English and see what we learn!

2588 kardia-heart

- a) that organ in the animal body which is the center of the circulation of the blood, and, hence, was regarded as the seat of physical life
- b) denotes the center of all physical and spiritual life
- a) the vigor and sense of physical life
- b) the center and seat of spiritual life
 - 1) the soul or mind, as it is the fountain and seat of the thoughts, passions, desires, appetites, affections, purposes, endeavors
 - 2) used of the understanding, the faculty and seat of the intelligence
 - 3) used of the will and character
 - 4) used of the soul so far as it is affected and stirred in a bad way or good, or of the soul as the seat of the sensibilities, affections, emotions, desires, appetites, passions
- c) used of the middle or central or inmost part of anything, even though inanimate

If you read the above definitions you found something rather interesting…Yeshua said that the Greatest Commandment was to first love God with all your MIND. He tells us we are to use our seat of intelligence to understand God. So help me that is impossible from prayer alone or else there would not be over a billion Catholics in the world to day praying to Mary. So knowledge of God is very important…and let us understand we are concerned about knowledge that is true and not false.

Hosea 6:6

6 For I [God speaking] desired mercy, and not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.

There we find it again. More than any sacrifice, possibly more than any sacrificial representative man [but we are yet to determine that], God says He desires mankind possess the knowledge of Him more than any sacrifice. Wow! As we continue our study you will be able when finished to say unequivocally whether such sacrifices would include a "representative man" or not.

I would have you hold one thought before we move to the next article.

Answer for yourself: If it can be shown to you that this "representative man and his sacrifice" originated not with YHVH but with sun worship and pagans, then why then were not the Pagans the Lord's chosen people instead of the children of Israel who have rejected such crucified representative men since their origin and yet do so today? Wow, the implications of such a question let alone it's answers are devastating for the New Testament's doctrines and Paul's teachings. Shalom.

Let us continue our study in the next article in this series.

EXAMINING THE CRUCIFIXION OF JESUS AND PARALLELS TO CRUCIFIED SUN-GODS #3

THE ORIGIN OF SACRIFICE

The idea of redemption from sin through the sufferings and death of a Divine Incarnate Savior, is simply the crowing point of the idea entertained by primitive man that gods demanded a sacrifice of some kind, to atone for some sin, or avert some calamity.

In primitive ages, when men lived mostly on vegetables, they offered only grain, water, salt, fruit, and flowers to the gods, to propitiate them and thereby obtain temporal blessings. But when they began to eat meat and spices, and drink wine, they offered the same; naturally supposing the deities would be pleased with whatever was useful or agreeable to themselves. They imagined that some gods were partial to animals, others to fruits, flowers, etc. To the celestial gods they offered white victims at sunrise, or at open day. To the infernal gods they sacrificed black animals in the night. Each god has some creature peculiarly devoted to his worship. They sacrificed a bull to Mars, a dove to Venus;, and to Minerva, a heifer without blemish, which had never been put to the yoke. If a man was too poor to sacrifice a living animal, he offered an image of one made of bread.

In the course of time, it began to be imagined that the gods demanded something more sacred as offerings or atonements for sin. This led to the sacrifice of human beings, principally slaves and those taken in war, then, their own children, even their most beloved "first born." It came to be an idea that every sin must have it prescribed amount of punishment, and that the gods would accept the life of one person as atonement for the sins of others. This idea prevailed in Greece and Rome; areas where much of the New Testament would be written later [THINK].

In the beginning such sacrifices by one for the sins of others were found only among heroic self-sacrifice for the public good but that would change over time. Cicero says: "The force of religion was so great among our ancestors, that some of their commanders have, with their faces veiled, and with the strongest expressions of sincerity, sacrificed themselves to be immortal gods to save their country" (Prog. Relig. Ideas, Vol. I, p. 303).

In Egypt, offerings of human sacrifices, for the atonement of sin, became an almost daily occurrence. When the Egyptian priests offered up a sacrifice to the gods, they pronounced the following imprecations on the head of the victim:

"If any evil is about to befall either those who now sacrifice, or Egypt in general, may it be averted on his head" (Herodotus: bk. ii, ch. 39).

The idea of atonement finally resulted in the belief that the incarnate "Christ", the Anointed one, the representative man, the God among us, was to save mankind from a curse imposed by God. Man had sinned, and God would not and did not forgive without a propitiatory sacrifice. The curse of God must be removed from the sinful society, and the sinless must bear the load of that curse. It was asserted that divine justice required blood . Now notice this is the religious belief system of Pagans and not Moses or Joshua or David. This religious belief system occurred long, long before Moses, Sinai, or Torah. These are the beliefs of pagans as found from nation to nation as archeology and anthropology have proven. The facts of this religious system are found around the globe and the evidence confront us with the reality of what I said!

You should be curious as to how nations on the other side of the globe, deprived of cell phones in their day, was able to have almost identical copies of the same religion long before there was ever an Abraham or a Moses. The key, as you will find, as I did, was that sun worship was the tie that bonded their religious beliefs together. More on that later.

The belief of redemption from sin by the suffering of a Divine Incarnation, whether by death on a stake, pole, tree, or cross or otherwise, was general and popular among the heathen, centuries before the time of Jesus of Nazareth, and this dogma, no matter how sacred it may have become, or how consoling it may be, must fall along with the rest of the material of which the Gentile Church is built.

Julius Firmicius, referring to this popular belief among the Pagans, says: "The devil has his Christs". This will amaze you but this was the general off-hand manner in which the Christian Fathers disposed of such matters when pagans accused them of copying their pagan religious doctrines. The only resource at hand when cornered was to blame it on the Devil. The Devil was for the Gentile Church, when cornered and exposed by the facts by Pagans who confronted them about their plagiarized religious doctrines, a religious counterfeiter. The Devil, for the church, served as a prophet for things to come. Surely you see the incredibility of such a statement. But what else is new? Most Protestants resort to the same techniques today when such facts come across their path. Some, a little more original, will say that the whole this is nothing but types and figures played over and over again from nation to nation and finally culminating in Jesus of Nazareth. This sounds plausible if it were not for one thing….the existing evidence of sun worship and its inherent doctrines. When one comes to the full understanding of such Pagan worship, along with its manifested evolutionary and variegated religious doctrines, and if one happens to be a traditional Christian, then there is no nightmare worse that this in this life. The absolute horror of the reality will strike home….you are a sun-worshipper for YHVH….and the last time I looked He called people to repent of this and continually spoke very negatively about such religion and people in the Tanakh!

As I have done in prior articles, I will now present a parade of information of staggering proportion. I will first turn to India, where we shall find, in the words of M. l'Abbe Huc, that "the idea of redemption by a divine representative," who came into the world for the express purpose of redeeming mankind, was "general and popular" (Huc's Travels, Vol. I, pp. 326-327).

"A sense of original corruption," says Prof. M. Williams, seems to be felt by all Hindus, as indicated by the following prayer used after the Gayatri by some Vaishnavas:

"I am sinful, I commit sin, my nature is sinful, I am conceived in sin, Save me, O thou lotus-eyed Heri (Savior), the remover of sin" (M. Williams, Hinduism, p. 214).

Chrishna, the virgin-born, "the Divine Vishnu himself," (Vishnu Purana, p. 440), "he who is without beginning, middle or end," (Ibid.), being moved "to relieve the earth of her load," (Ibid.), came upon earth and redeemed man by his suffering…to save him. You need to understand right now we are dealing with a religious belief system of Pagans that preceded Jesus of Nazareth by some 800 years!

The accounts of the deaths of most all virgin-born Saviors of whom I shall speak, are conflicting in some areas. It is stated in one place that such an one died in such a manner, and in another place we may find it stated altogether differently. One might be so inclined to dismiss the matter because of the lack of uniformity surrounding the deaths of the various virgin-born Saviors. But let me assure you that once you come to the knowledge of the vast storehouse of religious doctrines that evolved from Sun Worship, then you will completely understand that each different variety of virgin-born Savior's deaths are nothing more different manifestations of the sun; it setting, the sun being occluded by storms, the change of seasons, eclipse, etc. This will simply amaze you when we come to it!

As the Rev. Geo. W Cox remarks, in his Aryan Mythology, Chrishna is described, in one of his aspects, as a self-sacrificing and unselfish hero, a being who is filled with divine wisdom and love, who offers up a sacrifice which he alone can make (Aryan Mythology, Vol. ii, p. 132). I hope you noticed but not all Pastors are ignorant of this deception. Some have studied to the level to see these things and have been so moved to alert and warn the flock of the terrible conspiracy which has overtaken the brethren. Such a one I believe I am as well.

The Vishnu Purana speaks of Chrishna being shot in the foot with an arrow [think], and states this was the cause of his death. Other accounts, however, state that he was suspended on a tree [think], or in other words "crucified" [think] (Vishnu Purana, pp. 274, 612). Remember this was 800 years prior to Jesus of Nazareth.

Confirmation of the above can be found from Mons. Guigniaut, in his Religion de Antiquite, where he says: "The death of Chrishna is very differently related. One remarkable and convincing tradition makes him perish on a tree, to which he was nailed by the stroke of an arrow".

Rev. J. P. Lundy alludes to this passage of Guigniaut's in his Monumental Christianity, and translates the passage as a "cross" instead of a "tree." One can often find Chrishna as represented as hanging on a cross, and we know that a cross was frequently called the "accursed tree." It was an ancient custom to use trees as gibbets for crucifixion, or, if artificial, to call the cross a tree (Higgins, Anacalypsis, Vol. I, p. 499 and Mrs. Jameson's History of Our Lord in Art, ii, 317, where the cross is called the "accursed tree").

Even later in the Old Testament the writer of Deuteronomy is so influenced as he speaks of hanging criminals upon a tree, as though it was a general custom, and says in Deut. 21:22-23:

22 And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree:

23 His body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day; (for he that is hanged is accursed of God;) that thy land be not defiled, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

The subject of the verses is that if one breaks the Law of God and it just so happens to demand the death penalty, then it shall be carried out. Such a criminal must pay the price for his sin for the wages of sin is death, and in particular sometime death in this life! His body was to be hung publicly as a deterrent for others to learn not to follow such disastrous ways. Yet the body, tattered and bruised as it became, was yet made in the image of God and to allow the public display of such a body beyond a day was an affront to God and God would bring judgment on the community if such a body was not removed.

Later Paul recasts Jesus in the tradition of Chrishna when he says in Galatians 3:13: "Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us; for it is written, 'Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree.'"

It is evident, then, that to be hung on a cross was anciently called hanging on a tree, and to be hung on a tree was called crucifixion. We may therefore conclude from this, and from what we will now see, that Chrishna was said to have been crucified.

It the earlier copies of Moor's Hindu Pantheon, is to be seen representations of Chrishna, with marks of holes in both feet, and in others, of holes in the hands. Some representations show holes in both feet and some even have a round hole in his side like Jesus. Some have hanging from his collar or shirt the emblem of a heart which we often see in pictures of Jesus in the Catholic Church. Instead of the crown of thorns usually put on the head of the Christian Savior, Chrishna has the turreted coronet of the Ephesian Diana.

Rev. J.P. Lundy, speaking of the Christian crucifix, says: "I object to the crucifix because it is an image, and liable to grown in abuse, just as the old Hindu crucifix was an idol" (Lundy, Monumental Christianity, p. 128).

And Dr. Inman says: "Chrishna, whose history so closely resembles our Lord's, was also like him in his being crucified" (Ancient Paths, vol. I, p. 411).

The writers of the New Testament relates that when Jesus was crucified two others were crucified with him, one of whom, through his favor, went to heaven. One of the crucified others reviled him, but the other said to Jesus: "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.: And Jesus said to him: "Verily I say unto thee, to-day shalt thou be with me in paradise." According to the Vishnu Purana, the hunter who shot the arrow at Chrishna afterwards said unto him: "Have pity upon me, who am consumed by my crime, for thou art able to consume me!" Chrishna replied: "Fear not thou in the least. Go, hunter, through my favor, to heaven, the abode of the gods." Then it is reported that Chrishna, having united himself with his own pure, spiritual, unborn, undecaying, imperishable and universal spirit, which is one with Vasudeva (God) [the same concept of John 1:1 in describing the Word with God], abandoned his mortal body, and the condition of the threefold equalities [a term used for the same concept of the Christian Trinity] (Vishnu Purana, p. 612). As it the plagiarism has not been proven satisfactorily, one of the titles of Chrishna is "Pardoner of sins," another is "Liberator from the Serpent of death" (Prog. Relig. Ideas, vol. I, p. 72).

The monk Georgius, in his Tibetinum Alphabetum (p. 203) drew the character of a crucified god who was worshiped in Nepal. These crucifixes were to be seen at the corners of roads like the burma shave signs long ago that said "Jesus saves". The monk Georgius called this god Indra.

P. Andrada la Crozius, one of the first Europeans who went to Nepal and Thibet, in speaking of the god whom they worshipped there…Indra…tells us that they said "he spilt his blood for the salvation of the human race, and that he was pierced through the body with nails" [remember this is long before Jesus ever existed]. He further says that, although they do not say he suffered the penalty of the cross, yet they find, nevertheless, figures of it in their books (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. ii. P. 118).

What you need to know is that although the nations of Europe have changed their religions during the past eighteen centuries, the Hindoo has not done so, except very partially. The religious creeds, rites, customs, and habits of though of the Hindus generally, have altered little since the day of Manu, 500 years B. C. (Prof. Monier Williams, Indian Wisdom, p. iv). This means that the concepts we are reading predated Jesus and by over 500-800 years at least and served as a pattern for the crucified representative man of the orient that we find recorded thought the Eastern nations. We find the same story in the New Testament. This should not surprise you. What is of major importance is the absence of such a story from a group of literature…the Jewish Scriptures. The reason is very plain…God sent His revelation to Israel as they were to be a light to these Gentile nations which all have in one way or the other an adaptation of Sun Worship with its hanged/crucified representative man. That is why the Jews have not and will never accept the Jesus' myth for that is what it is.

Answer for yourself: Can anyone wonder why the Jews will not believe the "stores" about Jesus in the New Testament?

In India, in the South at Tanjore, and in the North, at Oude or Ayiondia, was found the worship of the crucified god Bal-li. This god, who was believed to have been an incarnation of Vishnu, was represented with holes in his hands and side (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i. pp. 147).

The incarnate god Buddha, although said to have expired not on a tree but at the foot of a tree, is nevertheless described as a suffering Savior, who, "when his mind was moved by pity (for the human race) gave his life like grass for the sake of others" (Max Muller, Science of Religion, p. 224).

28 Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.

John 10:11

11 I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

A hymn, addressed to Buddha could just as easily be sung to Jesus:

"Persecutions without end, revilings and many prisons, death and murder, these has thou suffered with love and patience, to secure the happiness of mankind, forgiving thine executioners" (Lilly, Buddhism, p. 93).

Buddha was called the "Great Physician" (Bunson, Angel-Messiah, p. 20), the "Savior of the World" (Ibid., p. 20, 25, 35; Prog. Relig. Ideas, vol. i. p. 247; Huc's Travels, vol. i. pp. 326, 327, and almost any work on Buddhism), the "Blessed One" (Bunson, Angel-Messiah, p. 20), the "God among Gods" (Johnson, Oriental Religions, p. 604), the "Anointed," or the "Christ" (Ibid.), the "Messiah" (Ibid.), the "Only Begotten" (Ibid.), etc. Remember again this was long, long before Jesus.

Buddha is likewise described as sacrificing his life to wash away the offenses of mankind and thereby to make them partakers of the kingdom of heaven (Cambridge Key, vol. i. p. 118). Referencing New Testament passages to show the similarity would take to much space but you are most likely well aware that this topic occupies a lot of space in the New Testament.

As a spirit in the fourth heaven, he resolves to give up "all the glory, in order to be born into the world," "to rescue all men from their misery and every future consequence of it." He vows "to deliver all men, who are left as it were without a Savior" (Bunson, Angel-Messiah, p. 20).

Most are familiar with Paul's account in Philippines where he speaks of Jesus emptying himself of his godliness as he takes upon himself frail humanity. In Seminary we called this the "Great Kenosis" passage…kenosis is Greek of empty.

Phil 2:6-8

6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God:

7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men:

8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

While in the realms of heaven, and when about to descend upon the earth to be incarnated as a man, Buddha said: "I am now about to assume a body; not for the sake of gaining wealth, or enjoying the pleasures of sense, but I am about to descend and be born, among men, simply to give peace and rest to all flesh; to remove all sorrows and grief from the world" (Beal, Hist. Buddha, p. 33).

M. l'Abbe Huc says: "In the eyes of the Buddhists, this personage (Buddha) is sometimes a man and sometimes a god, or rather both one and the other…a divine incarnation, a man-god, who came into the world to enlighten men, to redeem them, and to indicate to them the way of safety. This idea of redemption by a divine incarnation is so general and popular among the Buddhists, that during our travels in Upper Asia we everywhere found it expressed in a neat formula. If we addressed to a Mongol or a Thibetan the question "Who is Buddah?" he would immediately reply: "The Savior of Men!" (Huc's Travels, vol. i. pp. 326,327).

According to Prof. Max Muller, Buddha is reported as saying: "Let all the sins that were committed in this world fall on me, that the world may be delivered" (Muller, Hist. Sanscrit Literature, p. 80).

Answer for yourself: Can a Christian doubt that these Gentile sun gods, or Buddah, or even Chrishna for that matter, was the "TYPE" of the Savior of the World to which Jesus was made to fit by the writers of the New Testament?

The people of India are no strangers to the doctrine of original sin. It is their invariable belief that man is a fallen being. This is admitted by them from time immemorial (Maurice, Indian Antiquities, vol. v. p. 95, and Williams, Hinduism, p. 214). And what we have seen concerning their beliefs in Chrishna and Buddha unmistakenly shows a belief in a divine Savior, who redeems man, and takes upon himself the sins of the world; so that "Buddha paid it all, all to him is due" (Prog. Relig. Ideas, vol. ii. P. 86). It is said of Buddha: "He in mercy left paradise, and come down to earth, because he was filled with compassion for the sins and miseries of mankind. He sought to lead them into better paths, and took their sufferings upon himself, that he might expiate their crimes and mitigate their punishment that they must otherwise inevitably undergo. The object of his mission on earth was to instruct those who were straying from the right path, expiate the sins of mortals by his own sufferings, and produce for them a happy entrance into another existence by obedience to his precepts and prayers in his name. They always speak of him as one with God from all eternity. His most common title is "The Savior of the World" (Ibid., vol. i. p. 247).

By now you should be understanding that the Sun myths were long in place and were being told over and over again from nation to nation and the similarities are astounding.

There truly is nothing new under the sun (forgive the pun)!

Shalom.

EXAMINING THE CRUCIFIXION OF JESUS AND PARALLELS TO CRUCIFIED SUN-GODS #4

The idea of redemption through the sufferings and death of a Divine Savior, is to be found in almost all the Gentile nations of antiquity. For example, lets begin with the nations of the East, in particular the ancient religions of China. One of their five sacred volumes, called the Y-King, says, in speaking of Tien, the "Holy One": "The Holy One will unite in himself all the virtues of heaven and earth. By his justice the world will be re-established in the ways of righteousness. He will labor and suffer much. He must pass the great torrent, whose waves shall enter into his soul, but he alone can offer up to the Lord a sacrifice worthy of him" (Prog. Relig. Ideas, vol. i. p. 211).

An ancient commentator says: "The common people sacrifice their lives to gain bread; the philosophers to gain reputation; the nobility to perpetuate their families. The Holy One (Tien) does not seek himself, but the good of others. He dies to save the world" (Ibid.).

I cannot read the above without thinking of the Gospel of John.

John 3:16

16 For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. (KJV)

John 5:30

30 I can of mine own self do nothing. I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me. (KJV)

John 8:50

50 And I seek not mine own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth. (KJV)

Tien, the Holy One, is always spoken of as one with God, existing with him from all eternity, "before anything was made". Again John comes to mind.

John 1:1-3

1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

2 The same was in the beginning with God.

3 All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.

Many will think this is just coincidence. So let us continue to see what we can find.

THE CRUCIFIED "SAVIORS" OF PAGANISM

Osiris and Horus, the Egyptian virgin-born gods, suffered death (Renouf, Religions of Ancient Egypt, p. 178). Mr. Bonwick, speaking of Osiris, says: "He is one of the Saviors or deliverers of humanity, to be found in almost all lands" [only his name was changed from country to country]. "In his efforts to do good, he encounters evil; in struggling with that he is overcome; he is killed" (Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 155).

Alexander Murray says: "The Egyptian Savior Osiris was gratefully regarded as the great exemplar of self-sacrifice, in giving his life for others" (Murray, Manual of Mythology, p. 348).

The writers of the New Testament carry on this same idea.

Matt 20:28

28 Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.

1 Tim 2:6

6 Who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time.

Sir. J. G. Wilkinson says of Osiris: "The sufferings and death of Osiris was the great Mystery of the Egyptian religion, and some traces of it are perceptible among other peoples of antiquity (remember Sun Worship?). His being the Divine Goodness, and the abstract idea of "good," his manifestation upon earth (like a Hindu god), his death and resurrection, and his office as judge of the dead in a future state, look like the early revelation of a future manifestation of the deity converted into a mythological fable" (Rawlinson, Herodotus, vol. ii. P. 171).

Horus was also called "The Savior." "As Horus Sneb, he is the Redeemer. He is the Lord of Life and the Eternal One" (Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, P. 185). He is also called "The Only-Begotten" (Mysteries of Adonai, p. 88).

Attis, who was called the "Only Begotten Son" (Knight, Ancient Art and Mythology, p. xxii.) and "Savior," was worshipped by the Phrygians (who were regarded as one of the oldest races of Asia Minor). He was represented by them as a man tied to a tree, at the foot of which was a lamb (Dupuls, Origin of Religious Belief, p. 255). He is also characterized as a man nailed to the tree, or stake, for we find Lactantius making this Apollo of Miletus (anciently, the greatest and the most flourishing city of Ionia, in Asia Minor) say that : "He was a mortal according to the flesh; wise in miraculous works; but being arrested by an armed force by command of the Chaldean judges (Sadducee like), he suffered a death made bitter with nails and stakes" (Dupuls, Origin of Religious Belief, vol. ii).

In this god of the Phrygians, we again have the same myth of the crucified Savior of Paganism.

By referring to Mrs. Jameson's History of Our Lord in Art, it can easily be seen that a common mode of representing a crucifixion was that of a man, tied with cords by the hands and feet, to an upright beam or stake.

Tammuz, or Adonis, the Syrian Adonai (Lord) was another virgin-born god, who suffered for mankind, and who had the title of "Savior." The accounts of his death are conflicting, just as it is with almost all of the so-called Saviors of mankind (including the Christian Savior). As we progress we shall see that the reason for such variation is the multiple variety of Sun Myths that deal with the dying of the sun. Every nation had their own spin to the story it seems, but the basic story was the same.

As if this was not enough evidence and facts from history and the religions of the world to arouse more than an idle curiosity in the Christian believer, the ancients who honored Tammuz and Adonis as their Lord and Savior also celebrated a feast in commemoration of his death (it was their Lord's Supper). An image, intended as a representation of their Lord, was laid on a bed or bier, and bewailed in mournful hymns just as the Roman Catholics do at the present day in their "Good Friday" mass.

During this ceremony the priest murmured: "Trust ye in your Lord, for the pains which he endured, our salvation have procured" (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. ii. p. 114).

The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, in his Hebrew Lexicon, after referring to what we have just stated above, says: "His other name, Adonis, is almost the very Hebrew Adonai or Lord, a well-known title of Christ."

Prometheus was a crucified Savior. He was "an immortal god, a friend of the human race, "who does not shrink even from sacrificing himself for their salvation."

The tragedy of the crucifixion of Prometheus, written by Eschylus, was acted in Athens five hundred years before the Christian Era, and is by many considered to be the most ancient dramatic poem now in existence. The plot was derived from materials even at that time of an infinitely remote antiquity. Nothing was ever so exquisitely calculated to work upon the feelings of the spectators. "His (Divine Sufferer) sorrows were endured for their salvation." The majesty of his silence, whilst the ministers of an offended god were nailing him by the hands and feet to Mount Caucasus, could only be equaled by the modesty with which he relates, "while hanging with arms extended in the form of a cross," his services to the human race, which had brought on him that horrible crucifixion (Eschylus, Prometheus Chained, Harper and Bros., N.Y.). In the myth relating to Prometheus, he always appears as the friend of the human race, suffering in its behalf the most fearful tortures. More than strange is the unique story of Prometheus' friend, Oceanus, the fisherman, as his name Petrroeus indicates. This Oceanus tries unsuccessfully to influence Prometheus to not die for mankind, but being unable to prevail on him to make his peace with Jupiter, by throwing the cause of human redemption out of his hands, forsook him and flew. Now contrast this with Matt. 16:22

22 Then Peter took him, and began to rebuke him, saying, Be it far from thee, Lord: this shall not be unto thee.

None remained to be witness of his dying agonies but the chorus of ever-amiable and every-faithful which also bewailed and lamented him

Luke 23:27

27 And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

In the words of Justin Martyr: "Suffering was common to all of the sons of Jove." They were called the "Slain Ones," "Saviors," "Redeemers," etc.

Bacchus, the offspring of Jupiter and Semele, was called the "Savior" (Knight, Anct. Art and Mythology, p. 98) He was called the "Only Begotten Son," the "Slain One" (Knight, Ancient Art and Mythology, p. xxii), the "Sin Bearer"(Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 169), the "Redeemer" (Dupis, Origin of Religious Belief, p. 135), etc. Evil having spread itself over the earth, through the inquisitiveness of Pandor, the Lord of the gods is begged to come to the relief of mankind. Jupiter lends a willing ear to the entreaties, "and wishes that his son should be the redeemer of the misfortunes of the world; The Bacchus Savior. He promises to the earth a Liberator..and the universe shall worship him, and shall praise in songs his blessings." In order to execute his purpose, Jupiter overshadows the beautiful young maiden, the virgin Semele, who becomes the mother of the Redeemer."

"It is I (says the lord Bacchus to mankind), who guides you; it is I who protects you, and who saves you; I who am Alpha and Omega." (quoted on the monument of Bacchus)

Hercules, the son of Zeus, was called "The Savior" (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i. p. 322). The words "Hercules the Savior" were engraven on ancient coins and monuments (Celtic Druids, Taylor, Diegesis, p. 153). He was also called "The Only Begotten," and the "Universal Word." He was re-absorbed into God. He was said by Ovid to be the sun "Self-produced," the Generator and Ruler of all things, and the Father of time (Mysteries of Adonai, p. 91, and Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i. p. 322).

Esculapis was distinguished by the epithet "The Savior" (Taylor, Diegesis, p. 153). The Temple erected to his memory in the city of Athens was called: "The Temple of the Savior."

Apollo was distinguished by the epithet "The Savior" as well (Dupuis, Origin of Religious Belief, p. 264). In a hymn to Apollo he is called: "The willing Savior of distressed mankind" (Monumental Christianity, p. 186).

Serapis was called "The Savior" (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. ii. p. 15). He was considered by Hadrian, the Roman emperor (117-138 A.D.), and the Gentiles, to be the peculiar god of the Christians (Giles, Hebrew and Christian Records, vol. Ii. p. 86). A cross was found under the ruins of his temple in Alexandria in Egypt (Anacalypsis, vol. ii. p. 15). And notice also that much of the New Testament was written from Alexandria, Egypt along with the translation of the LXX which is corrupted in many places when compared with the Palestinian Masoretic text. It is very evident that the pictures of Christ Jesus, as we know them today, are simply the pictures of some of the Pagan gods. A cursory study of religious art in the early days of Christianity and before will show you the resemblances. One should expect that Jesus of Nazareth to resemble a Jew and have Jewish features and these early pictures do not betray such a fact.

Mithras, who was "Mediator between God and man" (Dunlap, Spirit History, pp. 237, 242) was also called "The Savior." He was the peculiar god of the Persians, who believed that he had, by his sufferings, worked their salvation, and on this account he was called their "Savior" (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. ii, p. 20). He was also called "the Logos" (Dunlop, Son of Man, p. 20). According to the most ancient tradition of the East-Iranians recorded in the end-Avesta, the God of Light (Ormuzd) communicated his mysteries to some men through his "Word" (Bunsen, Angel-Messiah, p. 75).

The Persians believed that they were tainted with "original sin" owing to the fall of their first parents who were tempted by the evil one in the form of a serpent (Wake, Phallism, p. 47).

They considered the law-given Zoroaster to be also a Divine Messenger, sent to redeem men from their evil ways, and they always worshipped his memory. To this day his followers mention him with the greatest reverence, calling him "The Immortal Zoroaster," "The Blessed Zoroaster," "The First-Born of the Eternal One," etc. (Prog. Relig. Ideas, vol. i. pp. 258, 259).

"In the life of Zoroaster the common mythos is apparent. He was born in innocence, of an immaculate conception, of a ray of Divine Reason. As soon as he was born, the glory arising from his body enlightened the room, and he laughed at his mother. He was called a Splendid Light from the Tree of Knowledge, and, in find, he or his soul was hung upon a tree, and this was the Tree of Knowledge" (Malcolm, Hist. Persia, vol. i. pp. p. 494; Nimrod, vol. ii. P. 31; Anacalypsis, vol. il. P. 649).

How much this resembles "the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints" (Col. 1:26).

Hermes was called "The Savior." On the altar of Pepi (B.C. 3500) are to be found prayers to Hermes…"He who is the good Savior" (Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 102). He was also called "The Logos." The church fathers, Hippolytus, Justin Martyr, and Plutarch assert that the Logos is Hermes (Dunlap, Son of Man, p. 30). The term "Logos" is Greek and signifies literally "Word" (John 1:1). He was also "The Messenger of God" (Bell, Pantheon, vol. ii, pp. 69-71).

Dr. Inman says: "There are few words which strike more strongly upon the senses of in inquirer into the nature of ancient faiths, than Salvation and Savior. Both were used long before the birth of Christ, and they are still common among those who never heard of Jesus, or of that which is known among us as the Gospels" (Inman, Ancient Faiths, vol. ii. p. 652).

Besides the titles of "God's First-Born," "Only Begotten," the "Mediator," the "Shepherd," the "Advocate," the "Paraclete or Comforter," the "Son of God," the "Logos," etc., being applied to heathen virgin-born gods, before the time assigned for the birth of Jesus of Nazareth, we have also that of Christ and Jesus. This terminology can be studied out by you in detail if you acquire copies of Bunsen, Angel-Messiah, p. 119, Knight, Ancient Art and Mythology, pp. xxii and 98, Dunlap, Son of Man, p. 71, and Spirit History, pp. 183, 205, 206, 249, Bible for Learners, vol. ii. p. 25, Isis Unveiled, vol. iii pp. 195, 237, 516, etc.

THE GENTILE'S SAVIOR GODS CALLED "CHRISTS"

We now turn our attention to the many uses of the term "Christ" as used long before the time of Jesus of Nazareth and how they were previously connected with the Gentile's "Saviors".

We not continue our study by examining the terms for other Gentiles Savior-gods of which most will be unfamiliar. I am referring tot the use of the terms "Christ" as it was applied to the representative redeemer men that long predated Jesus of Nazareth.

Cyrus, King of Persia, was called the "Christ," or the "Anointed of God" (Bunsen, Bible Chronology, p. 5, Keys of St. Peter, p. 125). As Dr. Giles says, "Christ" is "a name having no spiritual signification, and importing nothing more than an ordinary surname" (Giles, Hebrew and Christian Records, p. 64, vol. ii). The worshippers of Serapis were called "Christians," and those devoted to Serapis were called "Bishops of Christ" long before the birth of Jesus of Nazareth (Ibid. p. 86; Taylor, Diegesis, pp. 202-206, 407). This fact is amazing. Eusebius, the ecclesiastical historian says, that the names of "Jesus" and "Christ," were both known and honored among the ancients (Eusebius, Eccl. History, lib. 1. Ch. iv.).

Mithras was called the "Anointed" or the "Christ;" (Dunlap, Son of Man, p. 78) and Horus, Mano, Mithras, Bel-Minor, Iao, Adoni, etc., were each of them "God of Light," "Light of the World," the "Anointed," or the "Christ" (Ibid. p. 39).

It is said that Peter called Yeshua "the Christ," whereupon "he straightway charged him (the disciples), and commanded them to tell no man "that thing" (Luke 4:21).

The title of "Christ" or "the Anointed," was held by the kings of Israel. "Touch not my Christ and do my people no harm," says the Psalmist (Psalm 105:15).

The tern "Christ" was applied to religious leaders, leaders of factions, necromancers or wonder-workers, etc. This is seen by the passage in Matthew, where the writer says: "There shall arise false Christs and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders, insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect" (Matt. 24:24).

The virgin-born Chrishna and Buddha were incarnations of Vishnu, called Avatars. An Avatar is an Angel-Messiah, a God-man, a Christ; for the word "Christ" is from the Greek "Christos," an Anointed One, a Messiah.

Let us continue our study in the veneration of "crosses" by the non-Jews in their worship and portrayal of their Savior gods.

EXAMINING THE CRUCIFIXION OF JESUS AND PARALLELS TO CRUCIFIED SUN-GODS #5

You will probably find this next piece of information amazing. The holy Father Minucius Felix, in his Octavius, written as late as 211 A.D., indignantly resents the supposition that the sign of the cross should be considered exclusively as a Christian symbol, and represents his advocate of the Christian government as retorting on an infidel opponent. His words are: "As for the adoration of crosses which you (Pagans) object against us (Christians), I must tell you, that we neither adore crosses nor desire them; you it is, ye Pagans…..who are the most likely people to adore wooden crosses…for what else are your ensigns, flags, and standards , but crosses gilt and beautiful. Your (speaking of the Pagans) victorious trophies not only represent a simple cross, but a cross with a man upon it" (Octavius, c. xxix).

In this Christian's defense of his faith and theological doctrines he admits that the Pagans also have crucified saviors on crosses. When I first ran across such admissions by early Church fathers I was puzzled and disturbed to my very core. I had to find out why Pagans had the same religious belief system that my Christian forefathers did.

Answer for yourself: How could Christianity be the truth for the world when the world already had the Christian crucified Savior? Where did the Pagans get the same ideas which were held sacred by Gentile Christians let alone get them hundreds and thousands of years before the revelation of Jesus of Nazareth?

YOU ARE NOT PREPARED FOR THE INEVITABLE TRUTH

I was to discover through many tears that my whole Christian religious belief system could be traced to Sun Worship and it's many variegated forms. The next years of my study were both insightful but the hardest years of my life. The results of my inquiries yielded tons of insurmountable proofs and facts to substantiate the plagiarism of Sun Worship by the Gentile Christian Church. To make matters worse it would be these Gentile Christians which would craft the document called the New Testament which is filled with Sun Worship as masqueraded through the events of the life of Yeshua. These "sun myths" literally became personified in the personage of Jesus of Nazareth. Later such "sun myths," because they were connected with the life of Yeshua, became religious "dogmas" and "doctrines." We now look more deeply into such myths as seen in the veneration of crosses by the Christian Church over the ages.

CHRISTIAN SUN WORSHIP….THE ATONEMENT OF THE SUN… AND THE CROSS

The above declaration in the writings of Father M. Felix is a miracle. It is a miracle that it was not destroyed by Rome in the early ages of the Christian movement. Its existence is probably owing to an oversight of the destroyers of all evidences against the Gentile Christian religion that could be had. The practice of the Romans, here alluded to, of carrying a cross with a man on it, or, in other words, a crucifix, has evidently been concealed from us by the careful destruction of such of their works as alluded to it. The priests had everything their own way for centuries, and to destroy what was evidence against their claims was a very simple matter.

It is very evident that this celebrated Christian Father alludes to some Gentile mystery, of which the prudence of his successors has deprived us. When we compare this with the fact that for centuries after the time assigned for the birth of Christ Jesus, he was not represented as a man on a cross, and that the Christians did not have such a thing as a crucifix, we are inclined to think that the effigies of a black or dark-skinned crucified man, which were to be seen in many places in Italy even during the last century, may have had something to do with it (Anacalypsis, vol. ii. p. 110).

While speaking of a "cross with a man on it" as being carried by the Pagan Romans as a standard, we might mention the fact related by Arrian the historian, that the troops of Porus, in their war with Alexander the Great, carried on their standards the figure of a man on a cross (Anacalypsis, vol. ii. p. 118). Here is evidently the crucifix standard again.

Tertullian, a Christian Father of the second and third centuries, writing to the Pagans, says: "The origin of your (Pagans) god is derived from figures moulded on a cross. All those rows of images on your standards are the appendages of crosses; those hangings on your standards and banners are the robes of crosses" (Apol. C. 16; Ad Nationes, c. xii.).

We have it then, on the authority of a Christian Father, as late as 211 A.D., that the Christians "neither adored crosses nor desired them," but that the Pagans "adored crosses," and not that alone, but "a cross with a man upon it." Jesus, in those days, nor for centuries after, was NOT represented as a man on a cross. He was represented as a lamb, and the adoration of the crucifix, by the Christians, was a later addition to their religion.

WHO WAS THIS CRUCIFIED MAN WHOM THE PAGANS ADORED BEFORE AND AFTER THE TIME OF JESUS?

Answer for yourself: Who did the crucifix represent?

If you have read these articles you now know. It was "the Savior crucified for the salvation of mankind," long before the Christian Era, whose effigies were to be seen in many places all over Italy and the world. These Pagan crucifixes were either destroyed, corrupted, or adopted; the latter was the case with many ancient paintings of the Bambino (the baby in his mother's arms named differently in almost every culture world-wide). Christians called the mother with child "Mary and baby Jesus." In Babylon it was called "Semiramis and Tammuz." You get the picture. On these paintings we often find the words "Deo Soli." Now, these two words can never apply to Christ Jesus. He was not Deus Solus, in any sense, according to the idiom of the Latin language, and the Romish faith. Whether we construe the words "the only God," or "God alone," they are equally heretical. No priest, in any age of the church, would have thought of putting them there; but finding them there, they tolerated them.

In the "Celtic Druids," Mr. Higgins describes a crucifix, a lamb, and an elephant, which was cut upon the "fire tower," so called at Brechin, a town of Forfarshire, in Scotland. Although they appeared to be of very ancient date, he supposed, at that time, that they were modern, and most likely belonged to Christianity. He would later change his mind and write: "I now date the modern date of the tower, for we have, over and over again, seen the crucified man before Christ. We have also found "The Lamb that taketh away the sins of the world,: among the Carnutes of Gaul, before the time of Christ; and when I contemplate these…I am induced to doubt my former conclusions. All these superstitions must have come from India."

On one of the Irish " round towers" is to be seen a crucifix of unmistakable Asiatic Origin (Lundy, Monumental Christianity, pp. 253, 254, 255).

Answer for yourself: As you contemplate what is being shown to you, and as God watches the uncovering of lies before your face, are you now more determined than ever to study your faith in detail and then compare it with Biblical Judaism, the faith of Yeshua of Nazareth? What is truth? Now do you think as a Christian you have it?

Let us study the last article in this series.

EXAMINING THE CRUCIFIXION OF JESUS AND PARALLELS TO CRUCIFIED SUN-GODS #6

Not forgetting what we have already learned, if we turn to the New World, we shall find, strange though it may appear, that the ancient Mexicans and Peruvians worshipped a crucified Savior as did those on the opposite side of the globe. This is utterly amazing considering in those days the limited travel and communication on this planet. Yet there is unmistakably a common denominator behind all these "crucified representative Saviors" that existed thousands of years before the time of Jesus of Nazareth.

This "crucified Savior" of the New World was the virgin-born Quetzalcoate whose crucifixion is represented in the paintings of the "Codex Borgianus," and the "Codex Vaticanus."

These paintings illustrate the religious opinions of the ancient Mexicans, and were copied form the hieroglyphics found in Mexico. The Spaniards destroyed nearly all the books, ancient monuments and paintings which they could find; had it not been for this, much more regarding the religion of the ancient Mexicans would have been handed down to us. Many chapters were also taken, by the Spanish authorities, from the writings of the first historians who wrote on ancient Mexico. All manuscripts had to be inspected previous to being published. Anything found among these heathens resembling the religion of the Christians, was destroyed when possible (Kinsgborough, Mexican Antiquities, vol. vi. pp. 165 and 179).

The first Spanish monks who went to Mexico were surprised to find the crucifix among the heathen inhabitants, and upon inquiring what it meant, were told that it was a representation of Bacob (Quetzalcoate), the Son of God, who was put to death by Eopuco. They said that he was placed on a ben of wood, with his arms stretched out, and that he died there (Kingsborough, Mexican Antiquities, vol. vi. p. 166).

All of this information can be and is quite troubling to a Christian who is indoctrinated since childhood that a historical Jesus was crucified as a substitutionary atonement for his sins. All of this information and evidence makes such a belief preposterous let alone false. However, when the "Jesus Story" is compared to the life of the crucified Sungods and when the proper hermeneutic and interpretation is given to it as was understood by the ancients who had similar parallels to their crucified Sungods, then we see that the "Jesus Story", and its crucified savior, is but the personification of the descent of the Soul into "matter," into you and me. One needs to investigate for himself this Ancient Mystery and the Mystery Religions that taught such metaphysical and mystical dogmas of the Soul of mankind to understand not only how the "Jesus Story" was taught for the first two centuries of the common era before the rise of Roman Catholicism but what it means to you and your Soul. Here is where the "Jesus Story" is redeemed from such gross and vulgar misunderstanding given us by Rome. The evidence speaks for itself and all that is needed is your desire to find the divine truths that lie behind the "Jesus Story" that were kept from us by Rome over these last 1,800 years.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #1

If you are a Christian this article contains the most important piece of information you will ever read. I behoove you to read the whole article if you want to understand the death of Jesus as God intended. The facts presented speak for themselves. I pray you will quietly and prayerfully speak to the Father as you read this most enlightening articles. My prayers and blessings are with you.

For the purpose of coming to a correct understanding of Judaism and the "Sacrificial System" and the dynamics on how it operated the articles in this series will be approached from the viewpoint that the Jesus of the New Testament was a "historical person".

That might seem strange that I said that we have to assume that the Jesus of the New Testament is a historical person. Let me say for now that is our premise until proven otherwise but in this early study it is necessary to view the New Testament depiction of Jesus/Jesus as a historical person. As our studies advance we will examine this premise in detail but for now we approach all early studies with this as our premise.

As a Christian you have been told your whole life that two great objectives were accomplished by Jesus in his mission to this world.

- The removal of the curse under which mankind labored as a result of the disobedience and fall
- The restoration of men to the image and fellowship of God.

Both of these things accomplished by the historical Jesus we are taught are essential to mankind's salvation as taught by Gentile Christianity. Christianity teaches that the work of Jesus Christ in reconciling God and mankind is called "the" Atonement; and this doctrine lies at the very heart of the Christian system. Sadly few understand correctly this very important doctrine, the origin of Christianity's claims, nor can the Biblical teaching on Atonement be understood correctly without a proper understanding of the Hebraic roots from which it came. We are altogether dependent on Old Testament Scripture and Jewish writings for our knowledge concerning the doctrine of the Atonement and can know only what God has seen fit to reveal concerning it by examining thoroughly the Sacrificial System through the eyes of Biblical Judaism.

Now what I say next is very important to remember as our studies in Biblical Atonement begin because it is the very foundation of what lies behind the death of Jesus when depicted as a historical person; when "allegory" of the "descent, death, and resurrection of God", as taken from the ancient Mystery Religions, is altered at the hands of Rome to become a "literal-historical" event by later Roman redactors of the New Testament. What most don't know as our study of atonement begins is that when one encounters the teachings of Atonement in the New Testament, which were collected and altered repeatedly by the Gentile Church over the earliest centuries by the way, one is reading the "Gentile accounts of the "fallen gods/goddesses" and their "deaths" when this "Life/Spirit/Living Energy descended into matter" and the "Soul" as well as "the Christ or Divine Mind" became internalized within humanity". We will come to see later in more advanced studies that the whole idea of the life of this Jesus as an atonement is the replay and repetition of the prior ancient Spiritual Wisdom taken since the foundation of the world which addresses the "descent of gods/goddesses and their allegorical and metaphorical death when Spirit "crossed" over and into "Matter". Notice I said "crossed" as in a "cross" or "intersection" of the Divine Living Energy of the cosmos with "matter". This is where we get the idea of a "cross" in the beginning of time. Behind this idea, replayed over and over since ancient Egypt and all later world nations and religions up and until the rise of Roman Christianity in the 2nd through the 5th century we find this "dying and rising god concept" in every world major religion. This idea of "Spirit" dying in its incarnation into fleshy "matter", needing a resurrection from the dead while humanity yet lives, is the core idea for all later "Atonements" as taken from mystery religions" and is not to be confused with "fulfillments" of Old Testament Scriptures! Now let us look at the New Testament Jesus and his death as an atonement for sin as taught in the Roman New Testament.

Our present purpose in this series of articles is to give a systematized account of what the Jewish Scriptures, the Bible Jews like this first century Jesus used. By "Jewish Bible" I refer to the Palestinian Masoretic Text, the Tanakh. It is here we must look for our original teachings concerning Atonement, and show how the dynamics of atonement interrelated with the Sacrificial System and in so doing apply what we learn to the death of Jesus. In so doing we can see, with this unaltered and first hand knowledge of the Sacrificial System and its dynamic workings, just what place and role, if any, that it has in relationship to the death of Jesus as depicted in our New Testaments.

A CHRISTIAN'S UNDERSTANDING OF THE NEW TESTAMENT IS IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT A THROUGH UNDERSTANDING OF THE TRUE JEWISH SCRIPTURES

First of all you have to have the correct text. I used to think I had it as a Christian with my favorite KJV; that is until my studies in Judaism advanced and I began to compare the Hebrew Texts with the later translations of them in both the Greek and later English version. I was broken to my very core as my studies advanced and I say with my own eyes that my Christian Old Testament as well as my New Testament did not read anything like the ancient Hebrew Texts in "key" theological places that separates Christianity from Biblical Judaism. I would find, and we will look at a little later, many of these "purposefully altered, purposefully mistranslated, purposefully misinterpreted, and purposefully taken out of context texts along with pure inventions of Scriptures" that exist in our Christian Bibles; texts altered to further Rome's creative theology and "radical reinterpretation" of the ancient Divine Wisdom. This was necessary on their parts if they were to manufacture a new "Replacement Religion"; a religion which they controlled and to which only they held the "keys" to the salvation of the whole of humanity. It was during Seminary when reading "outside the box" concerning the "Jewish Jesus" that I ran into many books by Jewish authors that challenged me to my very core to investigate for myself these "altered texts" which they were sharing with me on the pages of these books. I could not believe that this could have happened to my Christian Bible in the beginning, so taking the challenge I invested almost a whole year in just comparing texts from the Hebrew Bible, the Greek Septuagint, the KJV Old and New Testaments and tracing the texts down through the centuries of Bible translations. There was not enough kleenex for my tears streaming from my broken heart when I finally surrendered my apologetic defense of my Christian Faith. I had to face the facts of such eye-opening studies. God knew I had see this for myself and denying it now would have made me a hypocrite, not a good character trait for a young Baptist boy wanting to be a Pastor. I had to bow my knees to the fact that my Christian's Old Testament and New Testament quotes of them is different and tragically dissimilar from the true Jewish Masoretic text in over thousands of places; many of which are located at "key" theological positions that were altered in order to deny and misrepresent Judaism and their original Hebrew Scriptures to the unsuspecting reader. This piece of knowledge should concern you immensely! "Key" earlier Hebrew texts were altered in my Bible dealing with such areas of "theology" like the nature of God, the nature of man, the salvation message from God, forgiveness of sin, atonement, the role of Satan, the frequency of assembly by believers, the role of the Law, the mission of believers to the world, the Biblical Holy days as well as the Sabbath, Messianic prophecies, etc. The list seemed endless. I realized that I did not have a "translation" but rather a "free creationism" of Scriptures at the hands of later Roman editors and redactors whose intent was to devise and sell to the world a "replacement religion" other than that taught through Israel, the "light unto the Gentiles". If you want the facts check out:http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com and in your spare time examine these "key" texts for yourself. You as a child of God deserve and should demand an accurate translation of these ancient Hebrew Texts and not a falsified free creationism which was long ago adulterated, debased, and "doctored" by non-Jews, who over the centuries, transformed the Hebrew Scriptures and the Jewish faith to suit their plans for world domination through the agency of fear and ignorance. Enough of this preparation and introduction. If you have been reading our materials we have made this most plain over the years. Now to the purpose at hand.

In one of Paul's most condensed and fundamental statements of Christian teaching we read: "For I delivered unto you first of all that which also I received: that Christ (Messiah) died for our sins according to the Scriptures; and that He was buried; and that He hath been raised on the third day according to the Scriptures," I Cor. 15:3.

Answer for yourself: Even in the corrupt Old Testaments in the Christian Bibles, can you find where the Old Testament prophecies say that Jesus was to die for sin and that he was to be buried and raised on the 3rd day? Go ahead and find it, I will wait and wait and wait and wait for you to find it.

What? You cannot? No wonder; it is not there anywhere! And please don't read into Isa. 53 the concept of an "individual" when the author from chapter 40 on through chapter 66 deals with a "corporate, collective, and national" Suffering Servant, the nation of Israel, and never one individual. We will save the Isaiah study for later. But know that if you try to read into the passages the idea of a single person, like Jesus, you must try to explain to yourself why the Isaiah writer uses interchangeably over and over again from chapter 40 through chapter 66 both "singular" and "plural" pronouns for his sole subject. Even in light of this literary style used for 26 chapters in a row in the Book of Isaiah, a style that consistently shows us upon close examination that the author is not referring to a single individual, then in light of this fact if you still try to make it refer to a single person then understand that you invalidate completely what Isaiah intended we learn from the passage. Doing such a thing as making both "singular" and "plural" pronouns refer to but one person, in this case Jesus, is called "eisegesis" and is reading into the text your pre-formed theology based upon prior conditioning. Let us not do that; the fruit of such is always error. We are supposed to believe what we can draw out of the unaltered Scriptural texts. The unaltered Scriptural texts must determine our religious beliefs; not our inherited traditions that oppose such unaltered Scriptural texts. Such is exegesis. I recommend exegesis as you can see and because of my Christian background I must fight daily to limit my eisegesis and preconditioning since childhood as much as possible because so much error is burned into my subconscious. We must struggle and fight for the truth. Such makes one Israel, a word that means "one who struggles with God".

IF WE HAD A GOOD KNOWLEDGE OF THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES THEN WE COULD NOT BE MISLED BY BY THE NEW TESTAMENT

First of all understand that the word “Christ” means Messiah in Hebrew. So according to Paul, in the New Testament passage in I Cor. 15:3 he states in his "gospel" is saying that the Messiah died for our sins. Now Paul either wrote of did not write this. We really don't know since so many of these New Testament texts have been edited for centuries. We do know, and will address it later in a complete website, that the authentic Paul is a Gnostic, not a pro-Roman believer. Paul, being a Gnostic, only believed like other Gnostic "believers" in the indwelling of the Spiritual Krst/Karest/Christ/Messiah. These Gnostic Chrestian believers never accepted during the following 5 centuries a "literal or historical" Christ who supposedly died on a cross for the sins of mankind. That was the unanimous belief of all Gnostics until their extinction by the hands of Rome in the 5th century. But, as stated before, for practical reasons and to contrast Judaism and their views of atonement with those of later Roman theology, we will assume that Paul is the writer of this above passage for now.

Answer for yourself: Does the unaltered Hebrew Scriptures teach Israel to prepare for and accept a Messiah who comes to die for their sins? No it does not in fact; it teaches just the opposite and this is where the problem lies. But we as Christians are not aware of this sad fact because our Old Testaments in our Christian Bibles read completely different in "key" doctrinal places from the earlier Hebrew Scriptures. Few Christians are ever enlightened to this fact and die never knowing that their Bibles are simply a fraud and unreliable for "faith or practice".

You might not be able to answer the above question by using only your Old Testament Scripture for now but you will be able soon enough if you continue to study our articles. The Gospel of John in the New Testament states that the "Word became flesh," meaning by most Christian interpretation that Jesus, the Messiah, came from Heaven in the form of flesh. Few ever stop to think that this "Word" that "became flesh" refers to the whole of humanity:

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

Christianity answers the above dilemma two ways: one, there was a time the flesh was "not the Word" and a time when the "Word became flesh" in the Virgin Birth. Without going into detail, the idea which was understood and believed by the first Jewish followers concerning Jesus; that of him "becoming" Messiah at his immersion is just another proof that the Virgin Birth teaching is incorrect. If you would like to have the detailed teachings exposing the errors in the Virgin Birth teaching request them from Bet Emet Ministries and we will be glad to see you get them. So, important for your understanding now as we study atonement is that according to the texts this Jesus becomes "the" Messiah (Messiah means anointed and we have record of this anointing of Jesus "without measure" at his immersion when he was 30 years old at the Jordan). Thus this Jesus "becomes the Messiah" at 30 years of age. Incidentally, this is exactly what some of the later Jewish followers of "the Christ" both hoped and believed following the destruction of the Temple after 70 A.D.; namely they, accepting the oral tradition of a "crucified Savior" that failed to fulfill the true Messianic promises in his first coming since Israel did not merit her Messiah, would return and become the Messiah of Israel at his second coming. These were called the Ebionites. This branch of Judaism developed long after 70 A.D. and set their hopes upon a yet coming deliverer and many connected such hopes to a slain Messiah how had been among them but not recognized by Israel. Their writings are available today as well as the records of the early Church historians which reveal to us what the earliest beliefs were concerning Jesus before being changed by the Roman Church in the fourth century and following. They, for the most part, never saw this Messiah as a Divine person, only mortal like themselves. It is not my intention to explain in this article why the prophecies of the Jewish Scriptures were not fulfilled nor deal with the fictional creations of "false-fulfilled" passages in the New Testament in this article. We have that information available to those who would desire it at: http://www.faithofyeshua.faithweb.com.

NOW LETS THINK …

Now let me ask you a question that goes to the very foundation of the core of our beliefs about salvation.

Answer for yourself: Accepting for now that the real Paul wrote I Cor. 15:3 and according to this passage that this this Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; and that He was buried; and that He hath been raised on the third day according to the Scriptures, then should we not rather try to understand this passage to say that "Christ died because of our sins" instead of "for our sins?"

Critical for our understanding is if Christ's death:

- Was the result of our sins or if his death atoned for sins?
- If Christ's death atoned:
 - For ALL our sins or
 - If his death atoned only for PART of our sins (Yom Kippur/The Day of Atonement teaches us the truth in this regard), or
 - Did his death NOT atone for ANY of our sins?
- Should the emphasis be upon Christ's death or rather his life as an atonement for sin?

We need to look for a second at a very important Scripture, Leviticus 17:11:

Lev 17:11 11 For the life (Soul) of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood (that contains the Soul) that maketh an atonement for the soul. (KJV)

Notice if you will that the "life or Soul" is in the blood. The word "blood" in this text is the object of the preposition "in" and is not the subject of the clause nor the sentence. Every complete sentence contains two parts: a subject and a predicate. The subject is what (or whom) the sentence is about, while the predicate tells something about the subject. The subject of the sentence in Leviticus 17:11 is the word "life" which in Hebrew is "nephesh" or the "Soul". It is the Soul which is the active part of the clause and the subject; it just happens to reside in the blood. The clause specifically states that it is the Soul, not the blood, which atones for sin. Take a deep breath! Hebrew contains a lot of "parallelisms" and in these two clauses we find "synonymous parallelism" where the same thing is said twice. We see upon close scrutiny that God gave "it", a modifier of the pervious subject "the Soul" as the active agent in atonement and forgiveness of sin, not the object of the preposition which is "blood". We should reflect right now what implication does this new knowledge have upon one new understanding of atonement.

Answer for yourself: Do you see that the "blood" is only passive in this sentence and that the Soul is the active agent that obtains atonement? What is the role of blood in this process and why was it thrown upon the altar? We will get to this soon but for right now understand that the Soul and its thoughts and actions is the ONLY atoning agent that Biblical Judaism ever taught; it is one's life and mind and actions which atones for his own sin; not the sin of another. Wow, what a shot heard round the world!

Before we get to the very heart of this issue we must come to a better understanding of the Sacrificial System in order to correctly consider if Jesus' death can be understood as a proper sacrifice within the Law and the dynamics within the Sacrificial System and if it truly affected the forgiveness of mankind's sin.

LAWS OF THE SACRIFICE

The terminology used with regard to the patriarchal age is that of the Torah as a whole; it is unlikely that the same words in Genesis mean something different in the other Books of Moses. Thus, Cain and Abel each brought a "gift" (minhah; Gen. 4:4f.), which was usually of a cereal nature as brought by Cain (Lev. 2). Notice this is not a sin offering! Noah offered up a burnt offering ("olah"; Gen. 8:20ff.) and the pleasing odor of the sacrifice is stressed. Job is also depicted as making burnt offerings periodically (Job 1:5) and for specific purposes (Job 42:7–9). The burnt offerings, signifying complete surrender to God, were by far the most frequent sacrifices at the Israelite sanctuary. Again these offerings by Noah and Job were not "sin" offerings and only showed the complete devotion and surrender of the "offerer's" heart to God as he demonstrated and testified to his relationship with God through such "gifts".

I need to repeat the last statement as it will have major significance as you continue to read.

These burnt offerings [olahs] as seen in Cain, Able, Noah, and Job only showed the complete devotion and surrender of the "offerer's" heart to God as he demonstrated and testified to his relationship with God through such "gifts".

The Patriarchs normally are said to have "called on the name of the Lord," e.g., Abraham (Gen. 12:8, 13–4; 21:33) and Isaac (Gen. 26:25). The association of this phrase with the building of an altar shows that it refers to the approach to God through sacrifice. With Jacob the naming of the specific altar is stressed (Gen. 33:20; 35:7). Once Abraham is said to have offered an "olah" (Gen. 22:13) but Jacob (Gen. 31:54; 46:1) offered "zevahim". Again these were NOT "sin" offerings NOR were they intended for Atonement.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that we find no "sin offerings" up through Abraham and his sons? Why not? How did man approach God and obtain forgiveness for his sins if he did not bring "sin offerings"? Hold on, we will get there but let the fact stagger your mind that for thousands of years, even as far as 1,500 B.C.E. man NEVER brought "sin offerings" to God!

Now let us look at "offerings" and "sacrifices" from Moses to Samuel. The covenant sacrifice inaugurating the relationship between the Lord and His people (Ex. 24:3–8) is not paralleled by specific rituals in the Mosaic liturgy. Burnt and peace offerings were first offered and then the blood from them (not from a sin offering) was thrown half against the altar and half upon the people. These were not "sin offerings". In the land of Canaan the Israelites made sacrifices at various places, e.g., at Bochim (Judg. 2:1–5) and Ophrah (Judg. 6:24–26). The human sacrifice of Jephthah's daughter (Judg. 11:30–40) was hardly normative; instead it is pointed out as evidence of Israel's sad spiritual state at that time. The main center for sacrificial ritual was at Shiloh (I Sam 1:3ff.), where faithful Israelites came for an annual festive offering. That the ritual there was highly developed and detailed is proven by the explicit description of malpractice on the part of Eli's sons (I Sam 2:13–17) in taking their portion of the meat before the entrails were burned. However, Shiloh was not the only legitimate place of sacrifice; others included Beth-Shemesh (I Sam 6:14–15), Mizpah (I Sam 7:9), Ramah (I Sam. 7:17; 9:11–24), and Gilgal (I Sam. 10:8; 11:15; 13:9). Family and clan sacrifices were commonplace (I Sam. 16:2–5).

Answer for yourself: What should we learn from the above?

Common to all these instances was "sacrifices" for other reasons than "sin offerings"! This is so very important to grasp! What you need to know is that in the Old Testament the first mention of animal sacrifices for "sin offerings" was AFTER the Golden Calf and the sin of idolatry by a people already possessing relational knowledge of the True God

Answer for yourself: Then how did mankind obtain forgiveness of sin up until the Golden Calf and the idolatry associated with it? Can you fathom that mankind on this planet never brought "sin offering" to God up until the time of Moses and the 18th Dynasty of ancient Egypt which is dated to be around 1,350 B.C.E.? Surely mankind sinned from their beginning and must have been given a way of obtaining atonement prior to the Exodus. What was it? Is it still in affect today? Does Judaism teach this? Does Christianity teach this? Well stay tuned!

Let us continue in the next article in this series.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #2

THE SACRIFICES OF THE OLD TESTAMENT AS UNDERSTOOD AND INTERPRETED BY THE JEWISH NATION

Throughout the last 1,800 years few if any attempts have been made by Christianity to interpret the dynamics and working of the Sacrificial System correctly. Christianity has seen fit to interpret the Sacrificial System completely different than how the Jewish people and their Rabbis understood it and with good reason. Had they done so and restored the true understanding to the Jewish Sacrificial System and the proper function of "blood" within it then doing so would have totally exposed the incorrect theology adopted by Rome as applied to the death of Jesus as depicted in the Roman New Testament.Without a correct and proper understanding of the Old Testament Sacrificial System the typical Christian will be continually misled in his understanding of Biblical Atonement and literally "thwarted in coming to the truth concerning Biblical atonement as taught by Moses and the prophets. The proposed explanations and interpretations of Sacrifice and of the Sacrificial System can be divided into three categories: symbolic, judicial, and rational.

SYMBOLIC MEANING OF SACRIFICES

Philo devoted a treatise to the subject of the symbolic interpretation of sacrifices (De Victimis; see Spec. 1:112–256). He pointed out that only domesticated animals and the most gentle birds were suitable for sacrifice and that they had to be free of blemish. But the bird was not the real subject that needed to be free of "blemishes"; it was the person who brother the bird who had to free of sin and blemish. Not the bird, but rather the person bringing the sacrifice must be wholesome in body and soul and this Spiritual condition was "represented" in the being of the bird. The bird without blemish represented the Soul of the person bringing the sacrifice of the bird. The bird contributed nothing to the sacrifice, it was the condition of the Soul that presented itself before God in the offering of the bird solely as the symbolic representation of the Soul. Interesting to note the Soul was always represented in the ancient Egyptian religion as a bird since like the bird the Soul was to "fly to Heaven". This meant for the Jewish people that they had to approach the altar with their soul purged of its passions and viciousness if the sacrifice was to be acceptable by God otherwise is was not acceptable. The condition of the person before he brought the sacrifice was determined by his contrition over his sin, this confession of sin, his repentance of sin, and his restitution to those he has wronged by his sin that determined the actual Spiritual condition of his Soul when he brought his offering; an offering that was but a reflection of his hidden Soul which only God could see (Spec. 1:166/167, 257).

Take notice of the spiritual condition necessary BEFORE the sacrifice was to be presented at the altar. A person's soul had to be purged of sin "IF" the sacrifice was to be acceptable to God.

The reader needs to understand NOW that there were prior Spiritual conditions that needed to be met by the Soul of those who brought sacrifices before the sacrifice was to be brought to the altar. Now lets pick up with Philo.

The wicked would be rejected, even if they offered hundreds of sacrifices (Spec. 1:271). The actual condition of their Soul in spite of the visible perfect and blemishes offering was the determining factor with God if the sacrifice would be accepted. Only God and the person brining the sacrifice knew the truth. The Rabbis stated that the sacrificial statutes indicated that God is with the persecuted. The ox is pursued by the lion, the goat by the leopard, and the lamb by the wolf. Therefore God commanded, "Do not offer those that persecute, but rather those that are persecuted" (Lev. R. 27:5). The requirement that fowl be offered with their feathers symbolized that a poor man was not to be despised. Therefore his offering was placed on the altar in its full adornment, despite the nauseating odor normally arising from the burning of feathers (Lev. R. 3:5). Salt, an indispensable ingredient of sacrifice, was symbolic of the moral effect of suffering, which purifies man and causes sins to be forgiven (Ber. 5a). Judah Halevi declared that the fire on the altar was kindled by the will of God as a sign that the people found favor in His sight and that He was accepting their hospitality and offerings (Kuzari 2:26). Samson Raphael Hirsch explained that the Pentateuch required the person to lay his hands upon the head of the sacrifice to indicate that the "hands" that have become morally weakened "support" themselves on the resolution of the future betterment that is expressed by the offering (his commentary to Lev. 1:4). David Hoffmann declared that sacrifices are symbols of man's gratitude to God and his dependence on Him, of the absolute devotion man owes to God, as well as of man's confidence in Him (Introd. to commentary on Lev. (Heb. ed.), 64–67).

JUDICIAL MEANING OF SACRIFICES

The juridical approach to understanding sacrifices is put forward by Ibn Ezra (commentary to Lev. 1:1) and to some extent by Nahmanides (commentary to Lev. 1:9). According to them, the sinner's life is forfeit to God, but by a gracious provision he is permitted to substitute a faultless victim. His guilt (not his sin) is transferred from himself to the offering by the symbolic act of placing his hands on the victim; this only transferred one's guilt and not his literal sin.

The reader should understand RIGHT NOW that this is something new he has never heard in his Christian Church. It was the guilt and not the sin that was transferred to the innocent animal. This means that no sacrifice ever would or could carry the sins of another.

But when we get to the New Testament we hear a completely different understanding of the Sacrificial System which the Jewish people and their Rabbis have refuted now for over almost 2,000 years. It is stated in 1 Peter 2:24, "and He Himself bore our sins in His body on the cross,..." . This simply is a complete misunderstanding of the Jewish Sacrificial System and the role and function of the representative animal. Never did the animal become the carrier of the sin of the sacrificer because the person brining the sin offering was, according to the Torah, to have previously repented of his sin before ever bringing a sacrifice to the Temple. Has the person obeyed the Word of God he would have previously confessed his sin, been remorseful over his sin, turned and repented from his sin, and done acts of righteousness and charity before ever bringing his sacrifice to the Temple. In so doing he would have stood before God at the altar in the Temple and been in a condition of "sinlessness"; there would have been no sin present in that person's life that any animal sacrifice could have ever carried or bore. This shows us that such a statement in I Peter 2:24 is an utter falsehood and a complete purposeful misrepresentation of the Sacrificial System as well as how atonement was ever accomplished in the life of a person.

Answer for yourself: What does this say about Jesus being another's sin offering and sacrifice? What does this knowledge of Biblical Judaism and how the Sacrificial System actually operated as well as the role and function of the sacrifice say about Jesus carrying the sins of another as some type of representative sacrifice?

According to the Laws of the Sacrificial System we see clearly that Jesus, a type and shadow of the sacrificial offerings of the Sacrificial System, could not according to the Laws of the Sacrificial System ever carry the sins of another, let alone the world, as some type of atonement offering. Somebody has purposefully misstated the truth about the role of the sacrifice in the Sacrificial System and related it incorrectly to the death of Jesus. In so doing this errant writer, who surely is not the apostle Peter who, being Jewish, perfectly knew how the Sacrificial System operated, has purposefully clouded the issue of Biblical sacrifice in these New Testament texts. In so doing he has erroneously connected the death of Jesus as sort of an offering and sacrifice which is supposed to bear the sins of the world in his body but that again was never the role or intent of the sacrificial animal; the sacrificial animal was only a symbolic representative of the Soul of the sacrificer at the time he makes the sacrifice. Here we have uncovered outright purposeful deception on the pages of the New Testament in order to make Jesus' death appear to be an atonement for sin. Now back to Ibn Ezra.

Christian writers, when later considering the accounts of the Sacrificial System, observed and took note of the pouring out of the blood and the burning of the sacrifice. Failing to understand Lev. 17:11, where we previously saw according to Biblical Judaism and the teaching of the Rabbis that the "blood" was only a "symbol for the Soul", these Christian writers mistakenly believed that the "blood" was the active agent in the Sacrificially process and not the Soul of the sacrificer prior to brining the sacrificial animal. Lost completely to their awareness, either purposeful or unintentionally, is the symbolic representation of the sacrifice with the Soul of the person brining the sacrifice. Missing this most important dynamic of the Sacrificial System, we find many then erroneously interpreting the whole of the Sacrificial System and in so doing writing that "the person should acknowledge that were it not for divine grace he should be the victim, expiating his sin with his own blood and limbs". Many Christian exegetes adopted this explanations and on it built the whole theological foundation of their Church.

RATIONAL MEANING OF SACRIFICES

Quite different is the rational view of sacrifice advocated by Maimonides. Maimonides held that the sacrificial service was not really of Jewish origin. Maimonides maintained: "It was the universal custom among all peoples at the time of Moses to worship by means of sacrifices. Since the Israelites had been brought up in this atmosphere, God realized that they could not immediately completely abandon sacrifice. He therefore limited its application by confining it to one place in the world, with the ultimate intention of weaning them from the debased religious rituals of their idolatrous neighbors".

Answer for yourself: Dear one, did you hear that? God was in time to wean His people from the pagan idolatrous forms of worship; some of which that contained animal sacrifices. It is these pagan sacrifices that had incorrectly influenced the people of Israel and God was intending over time to wean Israel away from blood sacrifices.

Answer for yourself: What should this say to us?

This means that over time Israel will come to see that "atonement" was to be obtained ways other than with "blood". That is why we find in the Hebrew Scriptures many different ways other than "blood sacrifices" whereby man can make atonement for his sin.

Answer for yourself: Can you now, having seen the symbolic interpretation of the Sacrificial System and the role of "blood" and the role of the "sacrificial animal", the judicial view of the Sacrificial System, and the rational view of the Sacrificial System, see also clearly that "blood" was never necessary to accomplish true atonement? Can you now see that "blood" was never required as a "active agent" in obtaining atonement but rather atonement was obtained by a living Soul that repents of its sin, confesses its sin, turns and repents from its sin, and active practices acts of righteousness and charity because of its sin? Can you see that such a repentant Soul then has the right to stand at the altar with God and by proxy lay itself on the altar with God in the form of the "blood" of the sacrificial animal (the blood of the animal is its Soul and it is this animal's Soul (its blood) which represents the Soul of the sacrificer placed on the altar with God)?

We should see clearly now that there will come a time in the life of Israel where they will no longer need to bring blood sacrifices but depend on other ways given by God to obtain atonement for their sin. This has happened even before the destruction of the Temple and has occurred now for the Jewish people who no longer have their Temple for almost 2,000 years. Biblical Judaism has known for over 3,000 years that it is not necessary to perform "blood sacrifices" to obtain atonement for sin since they have as well understood correctly that the "blood" served only a symbolic purpose in representing the Soul of the sacrificer at the time that he brought his sacrifice to the altar. It is we Christians who don't know this because most of us know not the slightest things about Judaism. This needs to change if you ever hope of making sense out of the New Testament and discerning the "truth within it" from the "fiction and falsehoods within it" as well.

The new service of "confined sacrifice" in one place in the world stressed the existence and unity of God, "without deterring or confusing the minds of the people by the abolition of the service to which they were accustomed and which alone was familiar to them." Maimonides cited the experience of Israel, led not by the shorter way, but by the circuitous route through the land of the Philistines (Ex. 13:17). Likewise, through a circuitous road, Israel was to be led gradually and slowly to a deeper perception of religion and divine worship (Guide, 3:32). He gives the added remarkable parallel that it would be equally incomprehensible for anyone in his generation to suggest that prayer could be offered in thought alone, without the recitation of words.

Abrabanel strengthened the arguments for Maimonides' viewpoint. He explained that only within this framework can it be understood why the Torah limited the Sacrificial Service to one locality while prayers may be recited in all places (Introd. to his commentary on Lev., 2d). Abrabanel cites a Midrash which stated that the Hebrews had become accustomed to sacrifices while in Egypt. To wean them from these Egyptian sacrifices and practices, God commanded, while accepting the sacrifices that had been practiced by His people as influenced by the Egyptian, they were to be offered in one central sanctuary and not in many as were done in ancient Egypt.

The reader should understand that God was going to do a new thing. God was to allow the continuation of these "prior sacrifices" but He will instill a new meaning to them that was to be unique to this new people of God who was separating from the ancient Egyptian peoples. This will be seen in the development of a unique personal relationship between the sacrificer and God Himself through the Sacrificial System. You will see how this works when we look deeper into the concept in Leviticus that "the life is in the blood". God is not concerned about blood, but the life…the soul contained within the blood!

With the destruction of the Temple and the automatic cessation of the Sacrificial System, it was laid down that prayer took the place of the sacrifices because such ideas are also taught in the Old Testament. The Shaharit service was regarded as taking the place of the morning tamid and the Minhah service, the afternoon tamid. On all occasions when an additional offering was brought, the Musaf prayer was introduced (Ber. 4:1, 7; 26b). One of the rabbis later declared that prayer was even more efficacious than offerings (Ber. 32b). In the wake of the destruction of the Temple these added prayer services functioned as a form of atonement. The typical Christian response is that the Jewish people are without an atonement because they have lost their Temple and can no longer perform "blood sacrifices". Such statements are outright illiterate and betray the uneducated minds of those who speak such error. Such statement only betrays the lack of knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures which teach several different ways commanded by God for mankind to obtain forgiveness of sin and personal atonement. Let us not forget what we saw earlier: namely. that God was progressively weaning the Jewish people from animal sacrifices (the physical) with the intent of Spiritual sacrifices such as prayer, repentance, almsgiving, charity, etc.. This is the message of the Prophets!

THE SPIRITUAL DYNAMICS OF SACRIFICE THAT WE JUST DISCUSSED …SEEN IN DETAIL

When the glory of the Lord had entered the tabernacle in a cloud, God revealed Himself to Moses from this place where He would put His Name, according to His promise in Ex. 25:22, in order to make known His will through Moses to the people. The first of these revelations related to the sacrifices, in which the Israelites were to draw near (korban) to God, that they might become partakers of His grace.

The patriarchs, when sojourning in Canaan, had already worshipped the God who revealed Himself to them, with both burnt offerings and slain offerings (we saw this above in the form of "burnt offerings"). We already have seen that the Jewish people are told by their own Rabbis that they were allowed to continue the sacrifices of ancient Egypt do performed these sacrifices thousands of years before the Jewish people ever existed. Whether their descendants, the children of Israel, had offered sacrifices to the God of their Fathers during their stay in Egypt, we cannot tell as there is no Biblical allusion whatever to the subject in the short account of these 430 years. Yet we know from archeology that such was the case: Israel performed sacrifices along with the Egyptians during their stay in Egypt. What is certain is that they had not forgotten to regard the sacrifices as a leading part of the worship of God (since sacrifice when properly understood is all about the Soul), and were ready to follow Moses into the desert, to serve the God of their Fathers there by a solemn act of sacrificial worship (Ex. 5:1-3; 4:31; 8:4). Even after the Exodus from Egypt not only did Jethro offer burnt offerings and slain offerings to God in the camp of the Israelites, and prepare a sacrificial meal in which the elders of Israel took part along with Moses and Aaron (Ex. 18:12), but young men offered burnt offerings and slain offerings by the command of Moses at the conclusion of the covenant (Ex. 24:5). Consequently sacrificial laws of these chapters presuppose the presentation of burnt offerings, meat-offerings, and slain offerings as a custom well known to the people over a long period of time and a necessity demanded by their religious feelings. Understand that sacrifices were not introduced among the Israelites for the first time by Moses by what he learned at Sinai, because animal sacrifices date from the earliest period of mankind. The ancients understood that "life (Soul) was in the blood" and that sacrifice was all about the Soul and its Spiritual condition before God.

Answer for yourself: Are you curious why we have not found one "sin offering" yet and we are up to Moses in our time-line? Why not "sin offering" yet? Has man been out of relationship with God since he had no "sin offering"? No, we see repeatedly "burnt offerings", "peace offerings", and "thanksgiving offerings" being offered since the beginning of the Bible whereby man maintains his relationship with God. All of this mind you without a "blood sacrifice" or "sin offering". That should make you think and only reiterates what I have taught you here. We seen repeatedly that "blood" accomplishes nothing in the Sacrificial System; rather it is only symbolic of a person's Soul and its true relationship with God.

The subject of sacrificial laws in the book of Leviticus was not to enforce sacrificial worship upon the Israelites, nor to apply some sort of a theory concerning the Hebrew sacrifices, but simply to organize and expand the already existing sacrificial worship of the Israelites they learned in Egypt into an institution in harmony with the covenant between the Lord and His Hebrew people, and in so doing adapt and promote the end for which it was established…communion and fellowship with God. You need to fully understand what was just said. Read it again please.

But although sacrifice in general reaches up to the earliest times of man's history, and is met with in every nation, it was NOT enjoined upon the human race by any positive commandment of God, but sprang out of a religious necessity for fellowship with God. These sacrifices assumed very different forms in different tribes and nations, in consequence of their estrangement from God, and their growing loss of all true knowledge of Him. Their ideas of the Divine Being were regulated by the nature, object, and significance of the sacrifices they offered, and they were quite as subservient to the worship of idols as to that of the one true God.

Interesting by its absence is any mention of SIN OFFERINGS, PRIESTHOOD, EXPIATION or FORGIVENESS in the PRE-Mosaic sacrifices of the Old Testament....in other words we cannot and do NOT find any mention of "sin offerings" or "priesthood" or "forgiveness offerings" or "expiation offerings" before the Golden Calf incident....more on that soon.

This is very important and you need to let this fact sink deeply into your Christian theology!

Mankind knew what we as Christian's don't today. God has always told man how he can become "acceptable to God" without blood sacrifices. Biblical Judaism has taught for more than 2,000 years that salvation or repentance from sin cannot be achieved through sacrifice on another's behalf because according to Deuteronomy 24:16: "The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers; every man shall be put to death for his own sin."

Instead of substitutionary atonement as taught in Roman Christianity the Hebrew Scriptures and their Egyptian counterparts have taught for several thousands of years that mankind should be focused during his life upon the requirements of personal repentance. According to Ezekiel 33:11 we see:

Say unto them: As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?

Again, according to Ezekiel 33:19 we see:

And when the wicked turneth (repenteth) from his wickedness, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.

We find the same testimony in the writings of the prophet Jeremiah in chapter 36:3:

It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the evil which I purpose to do unto them; that they may return (repent) every man from his evil way, and I may forgive their iniquity and their sin.

In addition, Judaism focuses on understanding how one may live a sacred life according to God's will in this world, rather than the hope of or methods for finding spiritual salvation in a future one. The Hebrew Scriptures teach that Israel, or the Jewish people, should view their divine obligation to be living as a "holy people" in full accordance with Divine will, as a "role model to the nations," and Judaism does not purport to offer the exclusive path to salvation or the "the one path to God." Accordingly, the implications of the Christian conception of Jesus and its imposed theological meaning to his death not only contradicts the very Hebrew texts themselves upon which Christianity is based but distorts terribly the dynamics of the Sacrificial System and its application to obtaining atonement of one' sin before God.

Man makes himself acceptable to God through faith, repentance, prayer, and acts of righteousness and charity. This being the truth of the whole of the Law, Prophets, and Writings of the Hebrew Scriptures, the same Scriptures that the Gospel of Matthew records that Jesus states that he came not to destroy , then we should begin to see why there are important reasons for the omission of "sin offerings" until 1,350 B.C.E. These "sin offerings" were not needed for "forgiveness of sin" nor for "atonement of one's sin" before God; their role according the Biblical Judaism, when correctly understood, were purely symbolic of the person's Soul and its right standing before God.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #3

We continue in this third article with our studies into Biblical atonement as well as any relationship it might have with the death of Jesus as depicted in the New Testament.

FORGIVENESS WAS NOT THE THEME OF SACRIFICES BEFORE MOSES AND THE GOLDEN CALF - RATHER SACRIFICES REPRESENTED THE SOUL'S FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

According to the Genesis account, before the Biblically depicted "fall of man" we find that mankind lived in blessed unity with God. This unity was destroyed by sin, and the fellowship between God and man was disturbed, thought not entirely abolished. In the punishment which God inflicted upon the sinners, He did not withdraw His mercy from men; and before driving them out of paradise, He gave them clothes to cover the nakedness of their shame, by which they had first of all become conscious of their sin. Even after the expulsion He still manifested Himself to them, so that they were able once more to draw near to Him and enter into fellowship with Him. This fellowship (NOT forgiveness) they sought through the medium of sacrifices, in which they gave a visible expression not only to their gratitude towards God for His blessing and His grace, but also to their supplication for the further continuance of His divine favor. It was in this sense that both Cain and Abel offered sacrifices [these were burnt offerings and NOT sin offerings…remember?], thought each not with the same motives or in the same state of heart and Soul toward God. It is important to remember that in reality the offering that is brought to God is symbolic of the Soul so in reality it is the Soul that brings itself as "the sacrifice". In this sense of fellowship and not forgiveness Noah also offered sacrifices [burnt offerings and NOT sin offerings…remember?].

After Noah's deliverance from the flood; something changed in the offering of sacrifices. Whereas the sons of Adam offered their sacrifices to God from the fruit of their labor, in the tilling of the ground and the keeping of sheep, Noah presented his burnt offering from animals like the clean cattle and birds that had been shut up with him in the ark (those animals would from that time forward would also be assigned to man as food…Gen. 9:3). Noah was probably led to make this selection by the command of God to take with him into the ark not one or more pairs, but 7 of every kind of clean beasts. Noah may have discerned in this an indication of the divine will, that the 7th animal of every description of clean beast and bird should be offered in sacrifice to the Lord, for His gracious protection from destruction by the flood. Also notice the distinction of "clean and unclean" foods long before the Sinai experience. Moses, in Leviticus revelation, also received a still further intimation as to the meaning of the animal sacrifices. We see this in a prohibition which God appended to the permission to make use of animals as well as green herbs for food: "flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat " (Gen. 9:4-5). This prohibition to not eat blood is because the flesh still contained the blood as the animal's Soul (remember we saw that the Soul and the "Divine Life of the Soul" actually lives in the blood of the animal according to Leviticus 17:11?). In this there was already an intimation, that in the bleeding sacrifice the Soul/life of the animal was given up to God with its blood. Therefore, the animal's blood served as the vehicle of the Soul. Thus animal sacrifice and the offering of blood became the most fitting means of representing the surrender of the human Soul to God. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT TO GRASP! You will quickly come to see over and over again that although we see the word "blood" used over and over again through our Bibles in reality the "blood" was only symbolic of the Soul and the "blood" actually accomplished nothing; rather it was a picture or image of the Soul of the person who brought the animal sacrifice to offer to God.

THE SOUL OF THE ANIMAL AS FOUND IN IT'S BLOOD REPRESENTED, WHEN PRESENTED ON THE ALTAR, THE SURRENDER OF THE HUMAN SOUL TO GOD

It is not the "blood" on which we should focus but rather the "Soul" which is in the "blood". But when all we have ever heard our whole lives from the pulpits of our churches is about the "blood" or "blood of Jesus" we are ill equipped to understand that that this "blood" is but a symbol of the Soul and this "blood" is but the passive part of the Sacrificial System which only testified to the Soul's standing before God. The Sacrificial System was an outward expression of an "internal condition" of the Soul of the person bringing the sacrifice. The Sacrificial System only demonstrated the Soul's surrender to God. When the "blood" was placed upon the altar in reality it is the "life in the blood" which was placed on the altar. Thus, this "life" or this "Soul of the offerer of the sacrifice" was placed on the altar in lieu of the animal's Soul since he had laid hands upon the sacrificial animal and this sacrificial animal had become his proxy. The "blood" of the animal containing its sinless Soul was to be a perfect representation of the current condition of the Soul of the sacrificer since it was given that the sacrificer had previously obeyed the Torah by turning from his sin, confessed his sin, prayed to God about his sin, and repented of his sin and done charitable and righteous deeds before bringing his "sin offering" to the place of sacrifice. The sacrificer, having done these necessary Spiritual requirements commanded in the Torah, then the Soul of the animal was a perfect representation of the Soul of the person bringing his sacrifice to the altar. The animal was literally the extension of the person bringing the sacrifice. Often the sacrificial animal had been taken from the family's stock and the sacrificer had invested his very life and energy into this animal over its life. Thus, the animal had invested in its very being the very "life" and energy of the sacrificer. The bond between this animal and the scarifier was there. So we see that when the blood of the animal was placed on the altar even more so it was if the very "life" and "Soul" of the sacrificier who had cared for, fed, and groomed this animal was placed on the altar instead.

God would not have a human being sacrifice his life and blood and place it upon the altar as a demonstration of "communion" and "fellowship" with God. Instead with Noah the animal became the symbol that God choose to express "fellowship" between God and mankind. Beginning with Noah, the animal, instead of the fruits of the ground, was to become the extension of a person's life and his Soul. The person bringing the animal had fed, groomed, and cared for the animal usually. It was part of his life and his life and his energy had been invested into the care of the animal. So when the "blood" of the animal was taken and offered upon the altar in reality it was the Soul of the animal that was offered, which again according to the Jewish understanding of the working of the Sacrificial System, "represented" the Soul of the person who had invested his life and energy upon the animal. Thus, we see ultimately it was the Soul of the person who brought the animal to the altar which was "symbolically" placed upon the altar in the blood of the animal. Understand the animal was innocent having never sinned. This "innocence" representative of the Soul of the animal was likewise to be pictured in the Spiritual condition of the Soul of the person bringing the sacrifice. The person bringing the sacrifice was ALREADY to have repented of his sin, confessed his sin, prayed to God about his sin, and made restitution to his fellowman in righteous and charitable deeds if needed BEFORE he ever brought the animal to the altar. Then when the would be sacrificer had done these Spiritual necessities PRIOR to bringing the animal to the altar, then the person's Soul was AT-THAT-MOMENT (atonement) in right standing with God and he was accepted in renewed communion with God. He was "one" with God. He had obtained atonement right then, long before the animal was ever brought to the altar. He had obtained right standing with God and acceptance long before the animal was ever taken from the flock. He was forgiven of his sin right then and his repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution had accomplished for him atonement PRIOR to the animal and its Soul in its blood was to be offered as his "representative". "At that moment" his Soul was again in right standing and relationship with God. In order to make such a declaration of forgiveness and right standing once again with God to his fellowman and to all, as well to God, then he would have to take an animal and it would be slain and its blood placed on the altar.In so doing, the animal was in its death a CORRECT PICTURE of the previous sinner; now being "dead to sin" and alive unto God this "blood/Soul" of the animal was a perfect image at that moment of the Spiritual state of the person {if he had previously before bringing the animal repented, confessed, prayed, made restitution if possible, given alms, etc.]. The animal's Soul (in the animal's blood) was on the altar which was but a symbol and image of the Soul/blood of the sacrificer who, in doing so, was making a testimony of his communion with God.

Besides this, if anyone wanted to eat meat, the animal's Soul had to be given back to God before the flesh could be consumed. So you see in the Sacrificial system there were two dynamics at work: atonement and the conditions necessary to eat meat which also contained the Divine image which had to be given by to God.

Now you know how the Sacrificial System worked in relationship to forgiveness of sin and obtaining atonement.

Answer for yourself: How are we to relate this to Jesus' death? Is it even possible according to the theology in the New Testament once knowing now the facts and truth of the Sacrificial System?

HOW IS JESUS'S DEATH TO BE RELATED TO ALL THIS?

What I just described in the previous study of the Sacrificial System is an aspect of it that we must deal with in relationship with the New Testament theology and teaching concerning the death of Jesus. It appears that, according to the workings of the Sacrifical System, the whole idea of "substitutionary atonement", has hidden meanings and udertones, that impact severely any belief in the death of a substitionary person for another. We must not get confused at what we learned so far in the above two articles; namely that the "scapegoat" carried only the "guilt" away from the sinner and not his "actual sins". Add to that the role of the "blood" being "passive" and it apprears so far that any idea that another person paying the sin debt of another is totally foreign to the Biblical Sacrifical System. This means so far that there is no way the death of a person, let alone even the New Testament Jesus, has anything to do with one's personal sin and his need for personal atonement with God. Just the contrary is what we found, God holds each sinner personally responsible for his "own sin" and has instructed him not only in the Torah but through learned teachers and Prophets of His Word as to how he is to obtain his own personal atonement and acceptance with God. Added to that is the fact that there is no trace of a single "sin offering" throughout the whole of the Hebrew Scriptures until the incident of the Golden Calf which is only 1,350 years prior to the time of the New Testament age.

Up to now you never these few knew concerning the Sacrificial System in relationship to obtaining forgiveness and atonement. But our study is just beginning. There is much more to learn about the Sacifical System and its possible application to the death of Jesus as we will see shortly. Once knowing these facts and Biblical Truth we will come to see over and over again that the meaning of Jesus' death as taught in the New Testament as being a final atoning sacrifice for the sins of the world seems very tenuous at best or outright incorrect.

Now our study continues. This symbolic representation of the Soul of the animal for the Soul of the sacrificer may possibly have been only dimly supposed by Noah and his sons; but it must have been clearly revealed to the patriarch Abraham when God demanded the sacrifice of his only son, with whom his whole heart was bound up. Notice in the Abraham account that as a proof of his obedience of faith, and after he had attested his faith in his readiness to offer this sacrifice, God supplied him with a ram to offer as a burnt-offering [burnt offerings and NOT sin offerings…remember?]. Again, we must not be confused here as many might become. The "blood" of the animal was in all respectes "symbolic" of the "blood or Soul" of the sacrificer. This we know without any dobut. So with Abraham and Isaac we are concerned only with a "burnt offering". A burnt offering is one that is consumed by fire, and regarded as ascending to God while being consumed. Part of every offering was burnt in the sacred fire, but this was wholly burnt, a "whole burnt offering." The burnt offering was the most frequent form of sacrifice, and apparently the only one mentioned in the book of Genesis. Such were the sacrifices offered by Abel (Gen. 4:3, 4, here called minhah; i.e., "a gift"), Noah (Gen. 8:20), Abraham (Gen. 22:2, 7, 8, 13), and by the Hebrews in Egypt (Ex. 10:25).

Answer for yourself: What was the purpose or intention accomplished in a "burnt offering"? These offerings signified the complete dedication of the offerers unto God.

Now this is critical. We have seen that at times the Jewish people were deprived of their Temple and no sacrifices could be brought. But we also saw when looking at the dynamics of the Sacrifical System that all of these Sacrifices were "symbolic" of the condtion of the Soul, they were but "physical representations" of "Spiritual realities and conditions within the heart and Soul" of the one bringing the sacrifice. So in the absence of the Temple when no burnt offering could be brought a person could let his life become a "burnt offering" before God. Paul states this principle for us in Rom. 12:1:

Rom 12:1-2 1 I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye (you personally) present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. 2 And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (KJV)

Here we see that the "transformation of your mind" accompanied by corresponding Spiritual actions and deeds in one's life commanded in the Torah can so transform a person that he and his life actually becomes a "living burnt offering" and a "living Sacrifice" before God. You many not know this but receiving these Spiritual Truths in these articles is a major step for you in this regard. When we are finished with this series in Biblical atonement you, the reader, will have seen for yourself that Rome so "radically reinterpred" the Biblical Sacrifical System and applied such untruths to the death of Jesus that in spite of what they say in their "one book" there is no way that his death, or the death of any other, has any bearing whatsoever upon the your sins or the sins of other people. Biblical Judaism, to whom was given this Sacrifical System and not Rome, knows better than any how the Sacrifical System acutally operated and has maintained there is no way the death of any, let alone Jesus, could atone for the sins of others. This truth has been maintained by Biblical Judaism now for over 2,000 years at the point of Roman swords and in droves they eagerly went to their deaths by the millions rather than accept such a lie about the Soul. This knowledge and Spiritual Truth will go along way in your life in helping you reevaluate the Divine Message of Biblical Judaism vs Roman theology and recovering the truth concerning the operation of the Sacrifical System will help restore to you the real way given by God for the path of the Soul in its efforts to obtain forgiveness and atonement for its sin through faith, repentance, prayer, charity and good deeds as the Torah has always maintained.

So we have so far learned that regardless of what we hear preached in our Churche sermons relating the sacrifice of Isaac and how it foreshadowed the sacrifice of Jesus that in reality it was a "burnt offering" and not a "sin offering". Again, because of error instead of truth beind taught from our pulpits I could no longer continue my Pastorate as my studies over the early years of my Pastorte began to open my eyes to the deception to which I had fallen since basically I only read for most of my life "one book", the Bible given me by Rome, a book that I was unqualified to interpret correctly since not being a Jew and not knowing the truth about Biblical Judaism. That will all change the first 5 years following Seminary. Using the skill I was given there I applied them daily to come to terms the many problems I saw concerning the "Jesus Story" while there.

Answer for yourself: So what does a "burnt offering" have in common with a "sin offering"? Other than they involved "fire" they are completely different and the Isaac story cannot truthfully be used to prefigure the death of Jesus. So now we move on.

We must not make the mistake of comparing apples with oranges here but we seem to always do it since we as Christians are terrible uneducated about the Hebrew Scriptures and the Divine Truths within them. Had we been Old Testament Christians first before we became New Testament Christians then we would never make such tragic theological blunders that we do when reading the New Testament. But not having this Old Testament knowledge we err greatly never knowing we are so far from Divine Truths that God intended that we learn that He must be crying over us now.

We often hear that Jesus is a type and shadow of the of prior Sacrificial System; a system that was replaced by the death of Jesus according to Rome and the writer of the Book of Hebrews. We hear that the Old Testament sin offering and sacrifices point forward to and are a type of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ (Heb. 9:10). We hear that that the scapegoat and purification rites of the Day of Atonement signify Christ's salvation wrought by suffering and death (Heb. 9:7-14). But all of this is not true to a person possessing the truth and knowledge necessary to understand the intricate dynamics of the operation of the Sacrificial System. If one only hears without understanding "blood this" and "blood that" in relationship to the New Testament texts, like the one below, he can easily be misled to a completely different understanding of the role of "blood" as operational in the Sacrificial System. And even worse he can be led to live a life where repentance and remorse of his sin is not important since he receives a "get out of jail free pass" or a "get out of hell free pass" with Rome's new "radical reinterpretation" of the Jewish Sacrificial System as well as Rome's reinterpretation of the Hebrew Scriptures and their tragic mispresentation in our New Testaments.

Heb 9:12 12 Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. (KJV)

On the surface this sounds so wonderful; that is until you find out for yourself that blood sacrifices never operated in this fashion nor obtained redemption. It again, as we saw earlier, the Spiritual condition of the Soul long before the sacrifice that determined such redemption. This above statement and passage from Hebrews 9:12, made in a disputed book later incorporated into the New Testament 500 years after the time allotted for the death of Jesus, stands directly contradicted by the facts concerning how the Sacrificial System actually operated and functioned as we have been instructed above. This passage from Hebrews and many others like it in our official Roman "edited and altered collection of reinterpreted and invented Hebrew Scriptures" (like the one above) are absolutely worthless once the reader is equipped with the the truth and facts necessary to correctly understand the Hebrew Scriptures and the operation of the Sacrifical System. Being so equipped then he is in a position to read the New Testament intelligently and spot the "Roman fiction about the Jesus Story" from the "Divine truths that yet remain within it". Such a passage and many others like them that postulate forgiveness and atonement was attached to the death of Jesus as a historical sacrifice and sin offering is not possible in the Biblical Sacrificial System of Israel as well as never taugtht in the "unaltered" and "unforged" Hebrew Scriptures in the Jewish Tankah. We have to look at our corrupted Old Testament translation to find such "theology" cleverly woven among the Propehts. But all one has to do is buy two more "Bibles", a Hebrew/English one as well as a Greek/English one and compare "line upon line" and "precept upon precept" for himself by comparing the Scriptures in the Hebrew Bible with the corresponding ones in the later Greek translation and the even later English Old Testaemnt translations found in our Roman Christian Bibles. If you do and use Bet Emet's articles as a "pathway" to Divine Truth then you will spot easily such glaring errors. That means dear one what we are reading in our current Christian Bibles, both Old Testament and New Testament is "often" simply not true when compare to the Jewish Bible, the Bible that Jesus would have used and recommended to all. The Hebrew Bible never says that the underpinnings of blood sacrifice, which happen to be remorse of one' sin, confession of one's sin, repentance from sin, prayers to God about one's sin, and one's subsequent acts of righteous deeds and acts of selfless charity and love toward others would ever be changed by the simple application of blood on the altar. Contained in the word "blood" which we read so often on the pages of our Bibles is our mistaken understanding about the Sacrificial System. To come to the truth needed about the Sacrifical System we have to understand even more about how it operated; this being necessary if we are to ever come to the truth about what lies behind the death of Jesus. Know this, that Rome spent 500 years eradicating this Jewish Biblical Truth and understanding of atonement from the minds of mankind and this void of truth concerning the dynamics of the Sacrifical System in Christiantiy continues today. We need to be "transformed by the renewing of our minds" from the erroneous Roman antisemtic theology of 1,800 years ago.

God revealed to Abraham with the proposed sacrifice of Isaac, his only son, that God did not require or accept human sacrifice from His worshipers, but rather the surrender of heart/Soul and the denial of the natural life, even thought it should amount to a submission to death itself.

Answer for yourself: The Hebrew Bible condemns human sacrifice. Many passages in the Hebrew Bible state that human sacrifice was a great abomination; these practices were associated with the worship of foreign gods, and were forbidden. Have you ever wondered or thought about why God would not allow or accept human sacrifice in the form of Isaac but was so readily predisposed to sacrifice supposedly His only begotten Son in Jesus? How can God's chastize so severely the many pagan nations that offered human sacrifices to false gods in the Hebrew Scriptures when yet He does not follow his own Words in this regard with Jesus? What does God not practice what He preaches? What happened to the God who changes not? Is this again fictional creation of Scripture at the hands of Roman theological creationists in order to create a Replacement Religion to supersede and replace Judaism as a world religion that had invaded even Ceasar's household? Is God schizophrenic?

The truth of the matter is that God never asked for nor required nor accepted human sacrifice. Rather, the act of surrender of the sacrificier's Soul to God was the intent of the whole of the Sacrifical System and this surrender of one's Soul was to be perfectly imaged in the animal's sacrifice; and only when presented with the Spiritual motivations of contrition, remorse, repentance, prayer, and righteous conduct and charity would the Sacrifice be a true representation of the current condition of the Soul of the sacrificer. Without this contrition, remorse, repentance, prayer, and righteous conduct and charity that was to occur prior to the sacrifice could the killing of the animal and the presentation of its blood and Soul on th altar be acceptable to God as a true representation of the Soul of the sacrificer. Now you know why God is upset in Isaiah, chapter one over the Sacrifices.

Answer for yourself: Can you guess why? Many were only concerned with the externalities of the sacrifice and paid little or any attention to contrition, remorse, repentance, prayer, and righteous conduct and charity. Thus the killing of the animals was meaningless and a gross misrepresenation of the Spiritual conditon of the Soul of the sacrificer. These deaths of these innocent animals was a tragic waste of life and God rebukes them for it; not the Sacrificial System per se but the one who misused it and lied to God and their fellowman about the condition of their Soul.

PURPOSE OF OFFERINGS

The word "korban" is commonly translated either "sacrifice" or "offering", but the truth is that the English language does not possess a word that accurately expresses the concept contained in the word. The word "sacrifice" implies that the person bringing it is required to deprive himself of something in order to satisfy someone else's need, but God finds no satisfaction in inflicting pain or deprivation upon His children. The word "offering" is closer to the mark but it too fails to convey the true meaning of a "korban". "Offering" implies that the Recipient of the gift must be appeased, that He requires a tribute that will somehow appease His wrath or make Him receptive to the entreaties of a supplicant, or that He has a need that can only be satisfied by someone other than Himself. As if God required our gifts! "If you have acted righteously, what will you have given Him! (Job 35:7); God does not become enriched by man's accomplishments.

The Hebrew word itself provides the answer. The root of the meaning is "to come near." Again the idea carries the concept of fellowship. The person bringing an offering does so in order to come closer to God, to elevate his level of Spirituality thereby approaching God in the Spirit.

Now remember the person brought the animal as a picture of himself in that through his repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution he was "coming near" to God and the sacrifice of the animal and the placing of the animal's Soul on the altar was a demonstration that he, the person bringing the sacrifice, had ALREADY "drawn near to God" and the Soul of the animals was a true picture of himself NOW since repenting previously before coming to the altar. The offering was a picture of that Spiritual fact and reality to all the world as well as for God to see Himself!

When Adam was deposited in the Garden of Eden, his first responsibility was to work it and guard it (Gen. 2:15). That means that Adam was commanded to plant, work, cultivate; everything that was necessary to keep the Garden as a Paradise. Before Adam's sin, man had no need to be a peasant; everything grew for him at God's command, with no need for him to exert himself in any way. It was only after his sin that he was expelled from Eden and required to earn his bread through the sweat of his brow.

Answer for yourself: How then was he to work and guard Eden?

The Rabbis teach us that Adam "worked" hrough the study of Torah and the performance of positive and negative commandments in the Word of God. His livelihood would come in return for his obedience to God's will. God will always respond to man's righteousness by blessing his material effort.

Adam's mission was to make himself an offering to God in his lifetime, by dedicating himself unreservedly to God. On God's Throne of Glory, there is an image of a man (Ez. 1:10). Every human being has his own image above, his ideal Spiritual self, which represents his goal and his potential. Man's Soul is placed in an earthly body so that he can surmount the challenges of material life and raise himself up to his personal, heavenly self; to unite his earthly self with his higher self. Just as everyone has a body and a Soul, and his mission is to triumph in the eternal struggle of body versus Soul, so, too, many must struggle to live up to the summons of his higher self.

Man is religious yet he sins and defies the Creator and His Word which he says he believe in. He is kind and generous, yet he is sometimes mean and stingy. He is moral, but has lapses in conduct. Whatever man is, he is often inconsistent, and if he is honest with himself, he knows that he is far from living up to his inner image. He wants his body to come closer to his Soul; on a yet higher level, he should also want his Soul to live up to its counterpart on high.

Similarly, there is a Temple in Heaven that corresponds to the Temple on earth. Egypt taught as the cornerstone of their faith and religion that "So Above, So Below". The masters of Kabbalah teach that the good deeds of the people of God accumulate to build a Spiritual replica of that heavenly Temple, and when there are enough such good deeds, the heavenly Temple will come down to the Temple Mount, signaling the end of the exile and the beginning of the perfect world foretold by the prophets. This is similar to the striving of the individual Soul. There is a higher ideal we must see to capture in our mundane lives. Possibly it is best expressed by the Psalmist: "the heavens are the Lord's, but the earth He has given to mankind" (Psm. 115:16). The Heavens are already Heavenly; God does not need man to improve upon them. But He has given us the Earth that we might make it Heavenly, as well. God gave mankind the Torah as instruction to bring Heaven to Earth through obedience of God's will as expressed in His living Word, the Torah. This is best expressed through acts of Loving Kindness (Gemilut Hasadim) and Repairing of the World (Tikkun Olam). Adam, himself, was the offering, and for him to devote anything less than his maximum to God would have been to steal his Divinely conferred potential and misappropriate it for himself. The sin of eating from the Tree of Knowledge was such a misappropriation because he would be flouting the will of God. The truest offering is when the owner brings "himself" to God, making himself and his desires subservient to the teachings and guidelines of the Torah. The symbolism of the offerings is based on this concept; the animal is only secondary.

REASONS FOR THE OFFERINGS

The function and purpose of the offerings are not concepts that man can grasp rationally. Especially in modern times when anything not measurable, observable, or replicable is questioned and denied, the idea of offerings is not an easy one to understand. It is necessary, therefore, to understand that offerings and sacrifices and their efficacy are manifestations of God's plan and wisdom. They are reality, even though we have never seen them and have no personal experience through which to know their potency.

We cannot understand why the slaughter of a sanctified animal, the placing of its blood and the burning of its flesh on the Altar; why these acts should bring God's Presence down to earth (accomplishe fellowship). Had the Jewish people been asked about the possibility of this happening before they had seen it, perhaps even they would have been skeptical. But they saw it happen! They saw the cloud of God's glory descend upon the Tent of Meeting. They saw a heavenly fire descend to their Altar and remain there for hundreds of years. They saw a Divine glow on Moses' face. To them, these were demonstrable, visible, tangible facts.

This is incomprehensible to our rational, scientific minds. But so was the splitting of the atom to rational minds a hundred years ago.

Various reasons for the offerings are given by classic commentators. The reason for the offerings is so profound that it is beyond human comprehension and the best efforts of the greatest of Jewish thinkers can yield only a drop in the ocean of God's intent. We must listen to this great wisdom if we are to come to terms with the death of Jesus as depicted in the New Testament.

OFFERINGS AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR MAN…BUT WE ALREADY SAID THAT

The offerings were seen to elevate three parts of every human deed: thought, speech, and action. When a person sins and then brings an offering, all three of those elements are used to take the sinful use to which he had previously put them, and transform it into the instrument of doing God's will. The person bringing the offering performs the commandment of leaning, by placing his hands on its head and leaning on it, thereby dedicating his strength and activity to God. He purifies his thought and intentions, by confessing his sin, pronouncing the Spiritual goal that he hopes to attain, or uttering praises to God. As a further way of purging his sinful thoughts, the innards of the animal; representing the human organs that are the seat of desire and through, are burned on God's Altar. In the case of an elevation-offering, which is completely burned, the animal's feet symbolize the hands and feet with which man ran and acted to defy his Creator. The animal's blood (containing its Soul), representing man's Soul, was placed on the Altar (notice it is the Soul that is placed upon the Altar; just not the blood).

Let's look at Leviticus 17:11 in context in order to make sure we understand the "central" idea of the passage.

> "And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn among you, who consumes any blood, I will set My face against that person who consumes blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life [this is the subject of the sentence] of the flesh is in the blood [this is the object of the preposition of the sentence], and I have given it [THE LIFE/SOUL] to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood [AGAIN THE "LIFE/SOUL" IS IN THE BLOOD REMEMBER?] that makes an atonement for the Soul. Therefore, I say to the children of Israel, `No one among you shall consume blood, nor shall any stranger who sojourns among you consume blood.'"

Answer for yourself: Did you know that "blood" was not the subject of the sentence? Did you notice what was? Did you understand before now that it was the "life" or "Soul" that was placed on the altar that accomplised atonement and not the blood?

In other words it is not the blood that atones, but the "Soul" [LIFE] that atones..a life that repents, is remorseful, prays, confesses sin, makes restitution, gives alms, etc....!!!

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that as a Christian your whole understanding of the Sacrificial System in the Bible is wrong because you have focused on "blood" for atonement instead of the "life" and the "Soul" in the blood which is the real atoning agent? Are you aware that as a Chrsitian your whole understanding of the supposed atoning death of Jesus on the cross is incorrect and is contradicted by the whole of the Hebrew Scriptures, Biblical Judaism, the dynamic workings of the Sacrifical System, and the testimony of the Jewish people and their Rabbis over the last 2,000 years? But, who listens to them, right? We should! Only in restoring the Hebrew Roots of the early Christian Faith can we uncover and reconize the antisemitic lies of Rome in our Bibles today.

BUT WHAT ABOUT ISAIAH 53....ISN'T IT ABOUT JESUS BEING OUR SACRIFICE?

Well have I got news for you. Isaiah chapter 53 in the Hebrew Scritpures is not about Jesus. I know that is hard for you to listen to let alone swallow for now but we will examine this in detail later. For now know that Isaiah chatper 53 is not about what you think nor does it actually say what you think it does in the "unaltered Hebrew". Again we can make any text say what we want if we want to change it and change it Rome did. The Hebrew Book of Isaiah, when compared with later Greek and English transations, is estimated to have at least 6,000 alterations. Again, what we are reading in our Christian Bibles is a very tragic purposeful mistranslation and misquotation and outright evil translation of the original Hebraic Book of Isaiah. The cover up by Rome is extensive and this was reitnerated to me over and over again during the first 7 years after Seminary where I became a detective intent upon recovering the truth about my Chrsitian Faith. This is why I spend so much time on the text. The Hebrew Bible of the first century which the Jewish people used and read did not read anything like our Christian Old Testament in hundreds of places. Isaiah is but one of many examples which have been later altered by Rome for "theological agendas". Let me preface what comes next. The writer of Isaiah, chatpers 40-66, uses both "singular" and "plural" pronouns interchangablly all the way through these 26 chapters in describing the corporate nation of Israel. Never does he refer to be a single person. Given this understanding now let us read what is below which is taken from the true Hebrew Massoretic text, called the Tanakh. Here is verse 10 of Isaiah 53:

Isa. 53:10 states " HaShem desired to oppress him and He afflicted him; if his Soul would acknowledge guilt…"

WOW!

That sure is different from what your Christian KJV Bible says:

Here is the KJV "translation" or should I say "free creationism" of Isaiah 53:10 as taken from the Jewish Bible and the Hebrew Scriptures:

10 Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his Soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand. (KJV)

Again, pronouns like "his" and "him" refer to the corporate nation of Israel. Understanding this then we see that it is the Souls of the people who become an "offering" for their own sin. We will see this in great detail when we get to Isaiah 53.

Simply said, this Christian translation has been "Jesusized" by having the word and concept of "guilt removed" from the verse, for in Christian "theology" Jesus can have no guilt if he is to be one's atonement and many try to make Jesus the subject of the passage and the singular pronoun used when the real uncorrupted Hebrew Scripture define the suffering servant as the corporate nation of Israel and not one individual

This is Earth-shattering to the very foundation of Christianity and its atonement dogmas. We have been fed a pack of lies by Rome over 1,800 years ago and few know it today because they never read or compare the Bible that Jesus would have used with the one they do! This has tragic implication not only for your Soul but the whole of the Chrisitian Faith as it now stands; a Replacement Religion without a true Covenant before God. Back to the subject at hand.

In one of the greatest passages in the Bible, we are told by Isaiah the prophet that if the "Soul" of the "suffering servant" would acknowledge guilt…confess sin, pray, repent...

Answer for yourself: If the passage is about Jesus, our supposed sacrifice, what kind of guilt does he have? What is his sin? Who atones for him?

Answer for yourself: What do you do when you acknowledge guilt?

You confess your sin, you pray, you repent and then your life becomes a living Sacrifice of obedience to the Torah which teaches the Soul of man how to live a life of good deeds and perform acts of righteous charity. Such is love, such is God. This is the subject of the verse. You literally turn around your "life". Your life changes direction; your mind is transformed as is your life from sin to righteousness. You no longer continue your sinister ways. Now you can see how such a life, after repentance and confession of sin, was understood, even as the Christian Bibles say: "Soul/life an offering for sin"! One's life, when turned to God and away from sin, was the atonement that Leviticus 17 speaks about. Jesus has nothing to do with this now would he; he says he came NOT to do away with the Law and this refers to the Law of the Sacrifice which make up 2/3 of the whole of the Old Testament! Think!

Answer for yourself: Could we have missed this Divine Truth and understanding when looking at the death of Jesus being previoulsy conditioned since childhood to think that "blood atones" when we now have learned that it actually does not and is only a "passive" agent in the Sacrifical System?

While this procedure (placing the animal's Soul on the alter in substitute for your Soul by placing the animal's blood on the altar instead of your blood) is being accomplished with one's offering, the sacrificer meditates upon his sin, for the offering service teaches him graphically that he has sinned against God with body and Soul. He contemplates that justice would have dictated that his human body would have been required by God to be burned on the altar as a penalty for his sin but instead God allowed the animal's body to suffice since the sacrificer was expected by God to have repented of his sin previously before bringing his animal to the altar. Instead, by proxy, and since the sacrificer had expressed remorse for his sin, repented, prayed and accomplished good deeds and acts of charity then his body was not required by God as a penalty for his sin. Now God desired his Soul and through the animals sacrifice then the animal's blood and his Soul could be placed on the altar in communion with God and in so doing represent to God the Soul of the person bringing his offering in repentance to God. Now the person's Soul (his life in his blood according to Lev. 17:11) would now be required and accepted by God through the symbolic represenation of the animal's blood being placed upon the altar. It is only God's graciousness that permits the animal to become the substitute for the repentant sinner. But since having previoulsy repented, previoulsy confessed his sin, previoulsy been broken over his sin, and previously having prayed and done acts of righteous deeds and loving kinkness his death and the destruction of his body on the altar before God is no longer requiried; now his Soul is welcomed on the altar with God and is placed there in proxy through the "blood/Soul" of the animal. This is how the Sacrifical System worked; this is the knowledge that all Christians needs to know in light of the later theology that developed around the death of Jesus as the atonement of the sins of the world. This knowldge and proper understanding of the Sacrifical System topples the Roman atonement dogma they created around Jesus.

Then, parts of the offering are given to the Kohanim (priests/teachers), so that those who dedicate their lives to study and teaching of the Torah are sustained through sacrifier and so that the people will pray for those who bring them the truths of God's Word. It is an act of supreme graciousness that God is prepared to accept an offering from us instead of punishing us directly for our misdeeds. This is why the offerings are described throughout Leviticus as a "satisfying aroma to God", because God is pleased when His children, His Souls, repent and seek to change their lives for the better and imitate God their Father! A son should be like his Father.

When one brings an offering with such noble thoughts he has truly made himself an offering and a "Living Sacrifice". But sin offerings do not have to be always bloody. The Sages of Israel have said of one who brings a humble "meal-offering", it is as if he had offered his own life upon the altar. This is the same thing that occurs with the blood sin offering. We will get to these deeper truths soon as our study advances. The person brining his meal-offering likewise raised his mundane desires and makes his Soul likewise worthy of being placed on the heavenly altar.

More to follow as we look deeper into the Sacrifical System. Shalom.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #4

WHAT PICTURES CAN WE NOW SEE MORE CLEARLY AS CONTAINED IN THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM OF ISRAEL?

Let us not forget what we just have learned. It was the Soul of the animal as found in it's blood, which when presented and placed on the altar in the Sacrificial System as a sacrifice to God which was at the same time a true picture of the Spiritual condition of the sacrificier's Soul which had previously repented, shown remorse over his sin, confessed his sin, prayed to God about his sin, and performed deeds of almsgiving and other righteous deeds which was only then accepted by God as an atonement for sin according to the Hebrew Scriptures and as attested to over for over 3,000 years of Jewish history. Such a procedure of repentance, remorse over sin, prayer, and subsequent righteous deeds as commanded in the Torah was the only way for atonement for sin. Such actions by the sinner was understood by God as the surrender of that person's Soul toward Him. When accomplished by the sinner then his Soul was accepted by God as an atonement for his own sin and then and only then could he rightfully make a declaration through the Sacrificial System that his Soul was in "right standing" with God and this was done my bringing the "blood/Soul" of the animal and placing it upon the altar as a substitutionary representation of the condition of the Soul of the sinner having obeyed the conditions in the Torah concerning obtaining atonement for the sin of his Soul. This is key to the Sacrificial System and the role of "blood" within it which escapes a traditional Christian when reading the Bible. Seeing the numerous times that "blood" is mentioned in both the Old and New Testament often leads us astray from the true function and role of "blood" in the Sacrificial System without the above understanding. Coupled with this is the life-time of hearing sermons in our Churches which totally misrepresents the role of "blood" in the Jewish Sacrificial System and one can see for himself how we come away from such instruction with a completely erroneous understanding and interpretation of the role of "blood"; especially as it relates to the death of Jesus which we are consistently told is the "only" atonement for our sin and our faith and trust in his death is our only way to Heaven. Funny, that the Jewish people and the Rabbis, to whom this Sacrificial System was given in the first place and operated by them for thousands of years, refuse to accept and believe such a teaching about their own Sacrificial System. It should appear to you that if anyone is qualified to both understand and teach about the Sacrificial System correctly then it is the Jewish People and their Rabbis and scholars and not Roman Catholic Monks which created this "Jesus theology" in the first place.

As we have seen it is not the "blood" but the "Soul" in the blood which demonstrates its surrender to God. Later when the blood of the animal is placed on the altar following the hands of the sacrificer being laid upon the animal brought to be sacrificed that actually it is the "blood" or the "Soul of the offerer of sacrifice" which is representatively placed on the altar in lieu of the animal which served only as a substitute for the person who brought the animal to the altar. The animal was literally the extension of the person life who was bringing the sacrifice. God would not have a human sacrifice his life and blood and place it upon the altar as a demonstration of “communion” and “fellowship” with God; God does not desire the death of His children. Instead the animal was the extension of the person’s life and in such a way the person's actual "life" and Soul was placed on the altar through the animal's blood. The person bringing the animal had fed, groomed, and cared for the animal usually most of the animal's life. Literally, the animal was part of his life and his life's energy had been invested into the care of the animal. So when the "Soul" of the animal was taken and offered upon the altar in the release and placing of the animal's blood on the altar, then the person by proxy was represented on the altar in communion with God, not the animal. Understand the animal was innocent having never sinned and it served as perfect picture of the present condition of the Soul of the sacrificer who had repented of his sin prior to coming to the Tabernacle or the Temple. This Sacrificial procedure was supposed to be a picture of the Spiritual position of the person bringing the sacrifice. The person bringing the sacrifice was ALREADY to have repented of his sin, confessed his sin, prayed, and made restitution to his fellowman if needed BEFORE he ever brought the animal to the altar. Then when he had done these spiritual necessities as commanded and taught in the Torah PRIOR to bringing the animal to the altar, then the person's Soul was AT-THAT-MOMENT (atonement) right with God. He stood before God, priesthood, and mankind forgiven and his prior repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution had accomplished for him atonement PRIOR to the animal being offered. "At that moment" his Soul was again in right standing and relationship with God and this mind you was long before he cut the animal from his flock and brought it to the altar for sacrifice. In order to make such a declaration to the the right standing and relationship of his life and Soul to the world and his fellowman, as well as to God, then he was required by the Law of Moses to take an animal and have it slain and its blood placed on the altar which as we have seen was to be true and honest expression of his Soul before God. In so doing, the animal blood and Soul was at that time an ACCURATE PICTURE of the Spiritual state of the person making the sacrifice. The animal's Soul (in his blood) was placed on the altar in communion with God and was AT-THAT-MOMENT a true picture of the sacrificer's Soul and its communion with God. Besides this, if anyone wanted to eat meat, the animal's Soul had to be given back to God before the flesh could be consumed. So you see in the Sacrificial system there were two dynamics at work: atonement and the conditions necessary to eat meat which also contained the Divine image which had to be given by to God.

When, when making sacrifice properly, the sacrificer knew that he had attained something special with God. Christian teaching today is completely devoid of this knowledge and I thank God over the years in my studies that He allowed me to find and recover this most needed part of instruction. This knowledge, when properly understood, will go a long way in helping the Christian separate error from truth as he hears taught in his churches.

UNION WITH GOD AND FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD WAS THE RESULT OF THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that whenever the Torah commands that offerings be brought that these commandments use only God's Four-letter Name (yod-hey-vah-hey); the "Tetragrammaton" (I AM)?

YHWH is the distinctive personal name of the God of Israel. Of all the names of God, the name of God, YHWH, is the one which occurs most frequently in the Hebrew Bible. This Tetragrammaton appears 6,823 times in the Hebrew Scriptures according to the Jewish Encyclopedia. If other names were used, some might err, thinking that there are many Gods or forces, one demanding this offering and another demanding some other offering. Such is not the case, only YHWH demanded sacrifices. Since the Name Elohim (the plural name for God meaning "gods") represents God as the One Who controls nature, that Name might be taken to imply that there is an angel or a power who has dominion over a particular land or aspect of existence, and that that power requires the offering. Such is not the case, the Godhead is not referred to as requiring these sacrifices but only YHWH. This is His Name as the God of Mercy. No one should think that God requires offerings to feed or appease Himself. The Eternal One has no needs that man can satisfy for everything is His and nothing is beyond His power!

Answer for yourself: What then is the purpose of the offerings?

There are in fact 5 different types of animal sacrifice that regularly took place in Israelite religion

- Olah (Burnt Offering) - General offering to entreat favor from Yahweh / cleansing.
- Minkhah (Grain Offering) - Sacrifice of thanksgiving. The "poor man's" sacrifice.
- Shelammim (Peace or Fellowship Offering) - Thanksgiving / to complete a vow.
- Khattat (Purification or Sin Offering)- Offered to Yahweh to cleanse the temple sanctuary of the people's accumulated sin.
- Asham (Reparation or Guilt Offering) - Restitution for stolen goods, restitution for tithes not paid.

Answer for yourself: What should this teach us?

Simply that it was not only animal sacrifice which was offered, but other crops and fowl were acceptable as sacrifices. Only needs to see Micah 6 for an example of how God does not glory in sacrifices but in the heart (Soul) of the believer. You should be seeing by now that these offerings provided man an opportunity to unite himself to God to whatever extent it is possible for mortal man to do so through repentance, confession, and restitution. This union with God was accomplished by these offerings which only pictured the condition of the Soul of the person bringing them. Only one of these "relationship" offerings was a sin offering. This should teach us that besides the sin offering that mankind was given other ways to approach and become acceptable to God.

Similarly, there is a humanly created fire below on the altar and there is the Heavenly fire from above, which God has placed upon Israel's altar. Both of these flames are fed by the offerings of the Jewish people, symbolizing the union of man's Spiritual aspirations with God's goals for him. Thus the offerings provide Israel a means for Spiritual elevation ["korban" or mankind drawing closer to God].

THE SACRIFICER HAD AN ACCURATE UNDERSTANDING OF HIMSELF BEFORE GOD....ACKNOWLEDGING "ONE'S OWN" NOTHINGNESS

All creatures emanate from God and have no independent existence on their own. Man has freedom of choice and his intellect puts great achievements within his reach, but all of this is possible only because God gives him the power to do so. Man could not function or even exist without God. The goal of creation is for man to acknowledge this basic fact; to recognize and proclaim that everything exists because of God and nothing can survive without Him. There are many ways for God's glory to be revealed and recognized. The highest recognition of all is for man to know The Oneness of God, meaning that there is nothing aside from Him. He achieves his ultimate greatness when he recognizes that "there is none beside Him" (Deut. 4:35). An offering is a demonstration of this concept. It says that its owner is surrendering his possessions to their Source (God). Theoretically, one might expect him to be ready to give even his very life in acknowledgment of God's sovereignty, but that is not God's will that man dies but that he lives. God wants man to live, to grow, to thrive, to serve; and God ordains the offerings as man's way to recognize His Oneness throughout man's life. Thus, by offering his possessions [as seen in the personal animal presented to God in sacrifice, which was usually owned by the person bringing the sacrifice], one symbolizes that he has no existence but for God's will.

UNITING BODY AND SOUL...BEING ONE WITH GOD

The efficacy of offerings in obtaining God's favor is comparable to the way food makes it possible for the Soul to maintain its attachment to the body. Material food cannot provide nourishment to the Soul, which is not a physical entity. It is physical nourishment of the body that enables the animal body to remain healthy enough to play host to the Soul. Likewise, the "food of the Altar's fire" somehow effects the process that enables the Shechinah to remain among the people of God and Israel in the Hebrew Scriptures which was a necessity for them being the "light unto the world".

The food of the Soul is not measured in calories, vitamins, and minerals. Only intellectual and Spiritual pursuits can nourish the Soul. Torah study, prayer, even meals in celebration of such events as Sabbath and the Biblical Feasts and Festivals all have a sacred content that is capable of nourishing the Soul. Only in this sense do the Sacrificial offerings constitute food for God. Man's dedication to God and His commandments provides the nourishment that enables the Shechinah to attach itself to human beings and their handiwork. We think of food in terms of nutritive value, but that is not what sustains life. Man does not live merely because of the bread (material component). He lives through the bread's Spiritual component; what emanates from the mouth of God. This is what holds together body and Soul and what holds together Godliness and Israel through the agency of the offerings, again but a picture of their Souls. This is why the animal had to be presented and offered to God in a Spiritual way when it was killed and not slaughtered behind a person's house. This is why the animal had to be presented first to God and later given to the Priesthood before the sacrificer could take parts of the meat home to his family. Something Spiritual occurred here which we lack understanding as Christians. This personation of the animal to God first before man could eat the meat was God's way of imparting Spiritual nutrition to our Souls; a process which we miss totally today when buying our meats at the deli or the supermarket as it exists today. We have lost a lot.

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

Having now come to the understanding that it was a life lived above sin that was so pleasing to God that He accepted such a life as an offering and atonement for one's sin, it should behoove you to begin to rethink what you believe about atonement as a Christian. If you were to do some comparative religious study you will see the preponderance of evidence of how foreign Roman concepts of salvation are woven into Pauline theology throughout your New Testament. Without the truth of the Hebrew Scriptures and the Sacrificial System and accompanying personal knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures as compared to their later changes in the Greek and later English versions of your Bible you will never notice these by yourself. Serious study is required to open your Soul and Mind to these alterations of the Scriptures in our Bibles and their reflective altered religious dogmas. I have only now begun to show you the truth behind the Biblical teachings of atonement and have not mentioned once the Romanized Paul's theology which we often find in the New Testament. The reason I have not is that nowhere in the Jewish Masoretic Palestinian text are such Pauline concepts of atonement found. Only when you read the fraudulent and mistranslated Greek Scriptures, which the Rabbis did not translate beyond the first 5 books of the Old Testament, do you begin to find such falsified ideas of atonement surfacing in the text http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com.

But hear now that such concepts concerning atonement as well as many other altered religious dogmas as they exist in our Christian Bibles today cannot be found anywhere in the Hebrew and Jewish Scriptures before they were later "mistranslated on purpose" in the production of Greek, Latin, and later English translations. Somebody "fixed" the Greek translation to read differently and others after them did the same to the Latin and Greek versions. And sadly for you, these altered and paganized Greek, Latin, and English mistranslations became the foundation for your Christian Old Testament. To make matters worse, your New Testament quotes from the fraudulent Old Testament in hundreds of "key" theological places (http://www.faithofyeshua.faithweb.com). Unknowingly for you, over and over as you read your Christian Bible you only reinforce and rehearse error and Spiritual untruths! You need to know this in order to begin to verify what I say to yourself for only through your personal study will you see these things for yourself as I and so many others have.

Answer for yourself: What happened to the Divine Truths handed down since the beginning of time, as far back as ancient Egypt and which were later entrusted to the Israel and the Jewish people by Moses and others between the 2nd through the 5th century when they fell into the hands of Rome? What happened to these Sacred Scriptures and texts at the hands of Rome? Who changed these Eternal Divine Truths about the Soul and gave the world a replacement religion completely devoid of its Egyptian, Hebrew and Jewish roots? Who knows this history and sad tale? Who knows of this tragic purposeful misrepresentation of the Hebrew Faith and Scriptures as they now stand so badly corrupted in our Greek and English Bibles? Who is to blame and what can we do about it? Well, for starters we can learn the "truth" before is was changed by Rome. That is a great place to start and then it is simple from there to make your own "A" and "B" comparisons of what the Scriptures once said and how they were altered later by Rome. Then you can see this for yourself and how the dogmas that come from them were altered almost beyond recognition as we received them in our Bibles today.

The Jews have always known what I am sharing with you in this article; it is Rome who did want to receive a religion that focuses upon the Soul, military might and world domination was they plan. Through their invincible army, fear, and ignorance they accomplished their goal and left 18 million bodies in their wake. It is time someone told you the truth! The righteous Jews know of this alteration in Biblical atonement as it stands in the Greek and later Christian Bibles and have known this since 200 B.C. when the Greek translation was understood by them to be a tragic corruption of the Hebrew Scriptures and its message. History records 3 attempts of the Jews to correct such a forged Greek translation but sadly their efforts were not enough to overtake and thwart the popularity of the already translated LXX (Septuagint) as it had spread into the non-Jewish speaking world. It was all downhill from there.

Back to our point, regardless of what the later Greek and English mistranslations of them say as well as their tragic quotations in the New Testament as surrounding the death and supposed atonement of this Jesus, understand right now that as taught the animal's Soul represented the Soul of one making the sacrifice, and we, as non-Jews, today are beneficiaries of this Divine Truth only if we know of it. But in this lesson we must no longer overlook the importance of a life lived above sin which procures one's redemption and not the inert and passive blood of the animal or even the "passive" blood of a supposed Jesus who shed his blood. The "blood" in Sacrifices "never atoned" for anything! Lives lived honoring God through faith, repentance and obedience atoned for sin and always will. Your Covenant requires it! Such is the message of Bet Emet Ministries as we are called to live like Jesus, the example for all, and not just "believe in Jesus" or "believe the created theology around his person" which was later created by Rome. It has been my experience as a Pastor over the years to encounter multitudes of Christians who trust in Christ's blood instead of understanding the importance of the example of this life shared with us in the New Testament. In our "Jesus Story", we find the life of Jesus, a true symbol of the perfected Soul, exampled for us as how our Soul is to live in obedience to God. Our "Jesus Story" is the "pattern" for all Souls. If we choose to be a "follower" of this "way" then we are told certainly by both the Hebrew Scriptures let alone the New Testament that all will be well with our Soul, that our Soul will be our atonement for any sin. Our Soul will be our OWN atonement. We must walk out our salvation with fear and trembling, but we are as well are co-laborers with God in our own salvation through faith, repentance, and obedience. Such a mistaken understanding of our redemption as depicted in the typical Roman "Jesus Story" has robbed us of the truth about true Biblical atonement. We fall into this deception since we were never taught the truth about the Sacrificial System and atonement from a Hebraic perspective. This has caused multitudes of Christians to focus upon the "blood of Jesus" as a way to escape the penalty of our sin instead of focusing of the miraculousness of a life lived above sin!

Answer for yourself: Which of the two above scenarios reflects your love for God, getting out of "hell" free or "living a life reflective of your true Being, a child of God that images his Father"? If God so loves us does it not stand to reason that he desires we love him in return and obey him or just "escape Him"?

Such a false sense of security in "blood" instead of "lives lived holy before God and mankind" unconsciously robs us of the Divine Truth of the Hebrew Scriptures and causes the believer to not regard sin with revulsion, loathing, and repulsion as he should. We tend to view sin as less harmful than it is, and compromise with sin lies at the door.

The bottom line for all Christians to understand is that we have heard way too much preached about Jesus and Roman "replacement theology" attached to this example and far too little time has been devoted to serious study from the texts of the Hebrew Scriptures which tell us exactly and accurately who "the Christ/Messiah" of Judaism really is and as well his true message and mission to the world. If we had studied the original sources available to us, we would not be so mixed up Roman theology in Christianity today which boasts over 2000 different denominations all maintaining they have the truth about Jesus while at the same time producing the fruth that has made America the most violent and crime ridden nation in the world.

SOMETHING IS WRONG WITH THE MESSAGE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…LOOK AT THE FRUIT OF THIS MESSAGE IN OUR COUNTRY WITH A CHURCH ON EVERY CORNER AND TELEVISIONS FILLED WITH THE CHRISTIAN MESSAGE OF GRACE WITHOUT ACCOUNTABILITY FOR ONE'S OWN SIN! JUST LOOK OUT YOUR DOOR AND ASK IF THAT IS THE BEST THE HOLY SPIRIT CAN DO????????

I don't plan to get into why the Christian message at this time is wrong in so many areas but suffice to say that the Christian message is corrupted today to Rome's efforts to replace a Hebrew centric Faith with one of its own making. We see this repeatedly over and over again in comparison of the texts in "key" theological places in our Old and New Testaments. We will example these in detail when we get there in our studies so please be patient. There is only so much we can tackle competently at a time. Let it suffice to say as shown beyond question on many of our other sites that we are in this sad state today because instead of being a true follower of Jesus, his example and message that emanated from within the Jewish faith we are camped at the feet of pagan Rome and the Romanized Paul's antinomianism (anti-Law bias). May God forgive our laziness of letting others tell us what to believe instead of us studying to show ourselves approved unto God. I just showed you part of the problem and this is your beginning of deliverance from a Replacement Religion. Implicitly we are led to not revere the Laws and Commandments of God because of the solar teaching that "Jesus died for me" and my "get out of hell free card" saves me. This comes straight out of Rome's literalized Sun worship as you have seen on this site and others. As a Pastor for 8 years I saw such falsehoods and false securities because of "Jesus blood" lived out in the lives of the congregation year after year; the shocking details I cannot share. But when you teach such a pernicious dogma to 2.5 billion people, the there is no personal accountability for sin or that the incarnational purpose is not to evolve into the "fullness and stature of Christ" then mankind loses sight of his Spiritual purpose on this planet and his conduct deteriorates into all different types of debauchery, even in the church where there is no sin too shameful to be names among the parishoners.

When and where there is no Law, no Commandments, no requirements, no accountability, no personal responsibility for one's sin, and no repentance, and only a "false teaching on trusting the blood of Jesus", "blood" again which we have learned has nothing to do with atonement in the first place and was only served a "passive role" in the Sacrificial System, then there is no righteous fruit and we have our newspapers and televisions filled with horror story after horror story and criminal actions done by our predominantly Christian nation. In America, the crime clock continues to click: one murder every 22 minutes, one rape every 5 minutes, one robbery every 49 seconds, and one burglary every 10 seconds. And the cost of crime continues to mount: $78 billion for the criminal justice system, $64 billion for private protection, $202 billion in loss of life and work, $120 billion in crimes against business, $60 billion in stolen goods and fraud, $40 billion from drug abuse, and $110 billion from drunk driving. When you add up all the costs, crime costs Americans a stunning $675 billion each year. And sadly too few can count on their lives being a sufficient atonement for their sin because they have been taught a pagan "literalized and historized" Sun-godman story which Judaism and every nation that has graced this planet before denies, and in doing so we have laid for us the foundation for a religion that allows its followers to get away with anything. Emotionalism is a sorry substitute for Divine Truth and true knowledge.

Answer for yourself: For after all, if I am saved by the blood of Jesus, what need do I have to live like Jesus in the first place and obey the commandments of God? How much of this "get out of hell free" theology has caused us to not strive for our Soul's perfection?

Answer for yourself: If saved by the blood of another, what does a little sin mean…what can it hurt? How large should I draw the "gray area" of my life?

Answer for yourself: Are you beginning to see the effects from the tragic erroneous theology concerning atonement as taught by Christianity and related thinking involved in focusing upon the blood of Jesus instead of the life of Jesus lived above sin as my example? Now look out your window to the world and see what the fruit of 1700 years of erroneous teaching has grown! America has 12% of the world's population and over 25% of the world's incarcerated behind bars. Think on that as ask your Pastor is this "get out of hell free" theology and if he thinks it works. Ask him if this was God's best idea or maybe if the Jewish people were right all along. You can lay this blame on the mess we have in America and large part of the world at the feet of Christianity and their adulterated Bible in which Rome changed the salvation message of God for His Souls incarnated on Earth. We have much to yet learn so hang on.

THINK!

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #5

LOOKING AT PAUL'S THEOLOGY….WHAT IS TRUTH?

We must not forget what we just learned in prior articles concerning the Sacrificial System. As the reader and "truth-seeker" you must understand that what you learned in these earlier articles is the "theology of sacrifice" that accurately represents the dynamics of the Jewish Sacrificial System and any "sacrifice" must fit this mode of understanding, whether it be of an animal or a supposed sacrifice of the New Testament Jesus. This means when viewing the death of Jesus one must be equipped with this accurate understanding of how the Sacrificial System worked before trying to evaluate any meanings that might be attached to the death of Jesus. But this is often not enough information to make a difference in the religious belief system of a Christian owing to the fact of a life-long indoctrination that the New Testament Jesus is the only sacrifice for sin that God accepts and rejecting it means sure damnation according to the New Testament given us by Rome. Enlightening is the fact that this current New Testament which we have today is not truly the First New Testament, because history and facts reveal that Rome will take the First New Testament of Marcion in 150 A.D. and "edit, alter, and mutate" it almost beyond belief and come out with their "Second Edition" in 180 A.D. with Irenaeus.

Answer for yourself: Many changes were incorporated when this was done needless to say. Are you aware of one of the biggest changes that we find in this Roman Second Edition of the First Gnostic New Testament?

We now find in this Roman Second Edition of the prior Gnostic New Testament the "sacrificial death of a literal and historical Jesus" for the sins of the world when in fact it was TOTALLY absent from the First Gnostic New Testament which provided them the outlive for their creative and inventive theology. Even more alarming is the fact that the whole of the First Gnostic New Testament NEVER taught, as NEITHER did the ancients as far back as ancient Egypt, that the Krst/Karest/Christ was a "historical or literal" person. Inherent in all of these ancient Sacred Wisdoms of these aged nations prior to Rome in the 2nd century was the FACT that "the Krst/Karest/Christ" was always understood as a Divine Living Spirit-Entity which "fell along with the Soul" into material and animal existence. This "incarnation of the Krst/Karest/Christ" into mankind was likened to "death" by the ancient. In fact we have tons of examples where this "incarnation of Christ within humanity" is described as the "death of Krst/Karest/Christ" or as the "death of this Heavenly Divine Mind" which "fell" into material existence in order to "seek and save the Soul" which also "fell" into "matter" and "material existence". This Spiritual Concept of the "death of Krst" for thousands and thousands of years were NEVER never literal UNLESS it was understood to have happened to every human being ever born. This "death of Krst/Karest/Christ" was NEVER limited to but one but one person to the exclusion of others. This alteration by Rome of the Divine Sacred Wisdom is the most deceptive alteration of the Divine Truth imaginable to the minds of mankind. In so doing Rome "radically misrepresented" the Jewish Sacrificial System and applied such tragic alterations of Divine Truth to their invented literal "Jesus Story". I challenge any reader to do your own studies and verify what I have told you; if you take this challenge your pilgrimage and restoration of the the Divine Sacred Wisdom destroyed by Rome will begin and you can be recipient today of such Divine Truths that lay under the ashes of the ancient libraries which Rome burned to cover up their deception and subterfuge of humanity 1,800 years ago.

When one's study advances to the point of seeing personally for himself that the study of comparative religions reveals a host of identical "Jesus stories" from ancient Egypt, Mesopotamia, Assyria, Persia, China, India, South America, as well as many nations I did not mention. You will see most of these "ancient Jesus Stories" have their god and goddess experience identical deaths on "crosses" and likewise die for 3 days and then resurrect. Seeing this for yourself then one begins to seriously question the efficacy of Jesus' death as defined and interpreted for them in the Roman New Testament, especially in light of the fact that the only function of the indwelling Christ was to enlighten the Soul of mankind whereby his Soul would rise above the instincts of his host animal body and nature and in so doing live a life honoring God and thus becoming an atonement for his prior sins before he "awakened from the dead" or was "resurrected from the dead"; this "death" being the darkened Spiritual condition imposed upon the Soul since being engulfed by the animal body and nature in its incarnation.

Notice if you will Paul is speaking and writing to people who are currently alive. He, being a Gnostic, understood this Metaphysical Spiritual Concept that Rome will later change by moving the "resurrection from the dead" from an experience during one's life to after the biological death of the body. Originally it mean a Spiritual Awakening as to your true identity as a Soul as a Divine Entity yourself. That being the case Paul says:

Eph 5:14-15 14 Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. 15 See then that ye walk (live your incarnational lives) circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, (KJV)

As you can see the true Paul and not the one of Rome's creation believed that when born we were "born dead" to Spiritual realities needed a "second birth"; a birth that awakened us from the slumber imposed upon the Sol by the flesh. The incarnation of the Krst/Karest/Christ, who also "fell" into "matter", was also termed a "death" and the awakening of the Christ-Consciousness of the Soul was the true "resurrection from the dead"; a Divine Concept which can be traced unchanged from the foundation of history and will remain unchanged until the rise of Roman Orthodoxy during the 2nd through the 5th century. When one discovers books like Bible Myths And Their Parallels In Other Religions by T.W. Doane and The Christ Conspiracy: The Greatest Story Ever Sold by Acharya S, and many others, then he begins to see previously unknown facts of history, Gnosticism, comparative religions, archeology, and textual alterations that throws a whole new light upon the "Jesus Story" along with its Roman imposed interpretation which he has been taught his whole life. This knowledge concerning the term "dying and rising" gods that are the precursor of our later "Jesus Story" produces undeniable facts and evidence for the "thinking believer" whereby he can begin to see the death of Jesus as depicted in the New Testament as being not "new" at all but only a repetition of an ancient story told since the beginning of time. He sees that the "only difference" between the his "Jesus Story" and the multiple stories of "dying and rising gods" is that unlike before since 10,000 years B.C.E. when all of these similar stories, from beginning end were only "allegorical and symbolic" of the death of the Soul and Divine Mind of God as they "fell" into incarnational existence the later Roman interpretation of the "death of the Krst", called by them the "death of Jesus", was make "historical and literal" by Rome and in so doing they altered the Divine Wisdom of the ancients and made Rome in the process the sole distribution center for mankind's salvation for the entire hole world. Any who did not accept and fully believe the Roman theology concerning the "Jesus Story" and accept his "atoning death on a wooden cross for their sins" was damned. Their further alteration of the ancient Sacred Scriptures of the Jewish people sealed their deception to all but those who has the most discerning eyes and prior knowledge of the accurate working of the Sacrificial System. This explains why of all nations in the world who came under Roman military domination that only the Jewish people and their Rabbis and scholars refused to accept the easy "believeism" of the Roman Road of salvation and eagerly went to their deaths instead of believing lies about their Souls before a listening God.

If one comes to the knowledge of these events described above only then can he be guaranteed that he will be able to discern the true meaning of the depiction of the death of Jesus as described in the New Testament or at least see if concepts from the ancient "mystery religions" have been attached and radically reinterpreted as applied to the death of this Jesus. Now this is important to grasp. If the "Jesus Story" has been faithfully represented as had been all prior "Jesus Stories" down through recorded history then we would not have a problem with the New Testament; but it was not. Rome cleverly altered this ancient Divine Story of the "fall of the Soul and the Krst" in such a way as to destroy its true Metaphysical meaning and in its place gave the world a false "historical and literal" account of a supposed human sacrifice to which they attached the whole salvation of the world to their imposed inaccurate meaning of it. This is especially important when reading the Romanized Paul's writings which are mixed in with the true Gnostic Paul's writings in this same New Testament.

With what we have just learned as a background let us return to Paul's statement that "Christ died for our sins" which is the fundamental fact of the early Gentile Roman Christian message, the corner-stone of early Gentile Christianity (but not Jewish Christianity or Messianism). But as soon as this simple fact is stated, that "Christ died for our sins", a number of vital questions are bound to arise. In order that we may have an intelligent and correct understanding of this important doctrine and corner-stone of the Christian message it is necessary that we know precisely what occurred and did not occur when Jesus died on the cross. We cannot rest content with teaching that leaves the central doctrine of the Christian faith shrouded in mystery and uncertainty. This does not mean that all mystery can be removed. But the Scriptures do supply the interpretation of the death of Christ that the inquiring mind legitimately asks for, and the noticeable factors concerning it should be known by all Christian people. Believing that the Hebrew Scriptures (the true Palestinian Masoretic Text and not the corrupted LXX and Greek interpretation of them sadly from which all of our Christian Old Testaments originate) is God's word to man. This fact is stated undeniably by me and other, as well as the Jewish people because they know the hundred of purposeful mistranslations made to them in the Greek translation. The link below will educate the reader concerning these "key" theological changes. This is important for it is here we find the first traces of the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt and their incorporation of their "godman", their "literalized Osiris theology", into the Greek translation of the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures. This lays the foundation for Rome to come later and build upon this Essene foundation and further desecrate the allegorical truth of the "Christ within" as taught by the ancient Divine Wisdom. This altered Greek translation, or should I say purposeful mistranslation, becomes the fertile ground for all later statements of the Roman New Testament Scriptures regarding the atoning death of Jesus (seethese purposefully mistranslated texts at http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com. Armed with this information about the deceptively mistranslated texts in the Greek and English Old Testaments which corrupted the Divine Truths in the Hebrew Scriptures, texts which were slanted to provide an atoning Messiah to the Essenes we see the origin of this idea blossom later with subsequent Roman theological invention in the New Testament. A great source of this information about the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt, incorporating a "literalized Osiris Theology" to the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures can be found in the great books of Martin Larson on the Essenes such as The Essene-Christian Faith, The Story of Christian Origins, The Religion of the Occident, The Essene Heritage, etc. It is within these book that I first uncovered the corruption of the Greek translation of the the Hebrew Scriptures other than the first 5 books of the Torah which were translated by personally by the Rabbis of Jerusalem when they traveled to Egypt. The rest of the Hebrew Scriptures fell into the hands of the Essenes of Egypt who tragically altered the Hebrew concept of the Messiah in the Prophets and Writings and created an "angel-Messiah" or "literal God-man" whom Rome later elaborated fully upon in their New Testament and "Jesus Theology". If you think I am not telling the truth of the matter I challenge you to obtain and read these books for yourself and begin a serious investigation of the alterations of the Hebrew Scriptures; compare them line upon line with the later Greek mistranslation and the later New Testament corruptions as well. You will come to see that there is false theology attached to this Jesus built around a utterly unbelievable misrepresentation of the Jewish Sacrificial System. In do so you will know for certain why the Jewish people and the Rabbis of Israel refused to accept or use the Septuagint and the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures let alone later the "Jesus Story" and his atonement for their sins; it would be the Jews outside of Israel who would fall prey like us to this adulterated Greek Old Testament just like we have which becomes in time the foundation for the later "literal-historical Jesus Story" of Rome's creation.

If we truly desire the truth concerning the death of Jesus, then we must deal with some rather difficult information at times. It is not my wish to destroy anyone's faith, only to expose the changes made to the Hebrew Scriptures and texts as well as the lies that have been passed down about the death of Jesus which the original followers of the "Jewish Christ/Messiah" never "believed". We hold it to be our task and privilege under the promised guidance of the Holy Spirit to "search the Scriptures", the Jewish Scriptures that the Jewish people accepted, until we reach that understanding which satisfies the mind and heart and conscience, and leads to certainty and finality of Divine Truth.

According to the New Testament, especially the writings of the Romanized Paul, we are told, for instance, in broad terms that we are members of a fallen race, that God has given His only-begotten Son for our atonement, and that salvation is through Him (Messiah) and not through any faith, repentance, obedience, and righteous deeds and works which we ourselves are able to accomplish as atonement for our Sins as the Jews have maintained now for 2,000 years.

Answer for yourself: How correct is this Pauline theology when compared with the teachings of the Hebrew Scriptures concerning atonement and forgiveness?

Let us not forget what we just learned in the prior articles.

Certainly anyone who accepts these facts of the Sacrificial System and acts upon them will be "saved" because the fruit of such a Divine Message leads to Godliness. Yet, accepting these facts and acting upon them would appear to represent only a minimum of faith, and God has made it possible for us greatly to enrich and expand our knowledge of the way of salvation if we will but give careful attention to His word. But the problem is great; you first have to know that these original Divine Truths have been altered and that your Old and New Testaments are corrupted in special "theological" places. For example, the Isaiah translations in the Old Testament of your Christian Bible read completely different in many "messianic" passages as opposed to the Hebrew and Jewish Tanakh. You should ask yourself "why" your Christian Old Testament reads so much different from the Hebrew and Jewish Scriptures from which it was supposedly taken! You should demand an answer to this tragic loss of Divine Truth once you see it. Following a religious lie most our your lives surely does not set well with you or God. Most likely you never knew this. It is time to awaken to such sad facts as the Gnostic Paul declares, for it is these alterations of Divine Truth that we have been led to follow false beliefs concerning Jesus, his life, and the death of "the Krst/Karest/Christ".

ANOTHER LOOK AT LEVITICUS 17:11 …POSSIBLY THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU CAN EVER LEARN

Christians generally insist that the absolute need for a vicarious blood sacrifice is rooted in the Torah (first five books of the Old Testament), and cite as proof Leviticus 17:11 "For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes an atonement for the soul." The sad fact of the matter is that most Christians and Pastors don't understand the verse at all. The Jewish people and their Rabbis teach us the truth of the matter from their own Scriptures and we never listen.

As a Christian, you have probably heard many sermons on the topic of atonement, and have undoubtedly read many studies which support the contention that there is "no atonement without blood." But the truth of the matter is that neither the Book of Hebrews [it says "almost all things"..not "all things"] or the Old Testament maintains that there is "no atonement without blood" as the Book of Hebrews maintains. It would help if we would read our texts correctly in the first place let alone teach from pulpits of our Churches fallacies. Note the verse carefully:

Heb 9:22 22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood (the blood again being a symbol for the repentant Soul); and without shedding of blood is no remission. (KJV)

In fact act the Hebrew Scriptures teach just the opposite! Notice the first clause of the passage in Hebrews chapter 9 is correct but the second clause is an outright untruth and misrepresentation of the Hebrew Scriptures as we shall see. In other words it is a lie according to the reading of the Hebrew Scriptures. Of course you are most likely aware that this teaching of Jesus' death as atonement for sin is not shared by traditional Jews and their Rabbis for the last 2,000 years. They have a great reason for not accepting such a teaching in the New Testament. The reason for the rejection of Jesus' atonement by the Jewish people and their Rabbis for 2,000 years is not because Irenaeus will write Romans chapter 11 and in so mischaracterized the Jewish nation as being "blinded" to Divine Truth. Here is what all of a sudden appears after 180 A.D. by the pens of Roman Orthodoxy:

Rom 11:7 7 What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were blinded (KJV)

Rom 11:25 25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in. (KJV)

Irenaeus gives the world the "Second New Testament" after 180 A.D. that is filled with "replacement theology" and which labels the Jews "blinded" to the reality of human sacrifice for their atonement in the death of this Jesus. This is absurd once you see how the New Testament was penned in pieces over hundreds and hundreds of years. To believe the Gnostic Paul was the writer of this verse which is not in the earliest Romans in New Testament of Marcion in 150 A.D., a strong advocate of Paul and who would have included everything that Paul had written, tells the true story of the matter. These "verses" did not exist and were never penned by the true Paul. The absence of these verses in the First New Testament, let alone the whole of Romans 9-11, is startling to our senses when it hits home. We are fed a lie. The absence of but these two verses speaks volume to our Soul and should "awaken" us to the reality to which we have fallen. But Irenaeus, by labeling the Jewish people and their esteemed Rabbis as "blinded" to Spiritual Truths has made people look to Rome instead of Jerusalem for their Divine Truths. Sad it is that Rome has few if any! It is the Jewish people and their Rabbis mind you that know intently what the Eternal Word of God and the Hebrew Scriptures teach. This fact has escaped the Gentile Christian church because of the many early mistranslations, alterations, and corruptions of the Hebrew Scriptures. In their place we have a Roman creation of replacement theology full of religious dogmas that are contradicted not only by Biblical Judaism and the Hebrew Scriptures buy by the existing Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the ancients which taught the same theological dogmas as Judaism and the Kabbalah. It is one things to not have these texts in our Bibles any longer but there is no excuse for taking this above verses that says "almost all things" and teach it as saying "all things" from the pulpits of our Churches as it is so often done. Who notices?

Answer for yourself: Have you ever wondered how the Jewish people could reject what to you seems so clear to you and me? Why would anyone reject a “free” salvation?

It does not make sense to the rational mind but yet they do and have met their death at the point Roman Christian swords as well as being boarded up in their synagogues and burned to death by the millions during the Dark Ages; men, women and children alike for not accepting this "get out of hell free pass" in Jesus' name.

You might remember that in junior high school, we were often given an assignment to write the title for a story; this title usually reflected what is the central idea of a passage. Let us likewise look at Leviticus 17:11 in context in order to make sure we understand the “central” idea of the passage.

"And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn among you, who consumes any blood, I will set My face against that person who consumes blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes an atonement for the soul. Therefore, I say to the children of Israel, `No one among you shall consume blood, nor shall any stranger who sojourns among you consume blood.'"

What should immediately be apparent is that the topic of this passage is NOT how to secure atonement from sins, but the prohibition against consuming blood. Although atonement is not the central theme expressed in this particular verse it yet provides the necessary knowledge we need to understand how the Sacrificial System actually worked. We are told parenthetically that the reason for this prohibition is that the blood contains the vitality (Soul) of the animal (Genesis 9:4, Deuteronomy 12:23) and consequently, when we bring an animal sacrifice, its Soul (life) which is in its blood serves as the atoning agent, and not another part of its body [like the blood]. The writer of Leviticus informs us that it is the Soul, one's life, which is in the blood [blood is the object of the preposition "in"] which was offered to God daily and even in death which was pleasing to God and which God accepted as an "atonement" and as an "offering for one's sin". Notice that it is not the "blood" which was accepted for an offering for sin, but rather the "life/Soul" which was "in" the blood. "Blood" is not the subject of the sentence; the Soul is the subject. This might be a shock to you but "life" or the Hebrew word "nephesh" which is the "Soul" is the subject of the sentence. Or better said, it is the "Soul/life" which is the subject of the sentence. That means it is not the "death" or "the blood" which accomplished anything, but rather the life or Soul of the person which provided atonement. Such a life is one lived in repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution as shown earlier in these articles and as attested by the Hebrew Tanakh and Jewish Bible. Even your Christian Old Testament will teach you the same things if you read it closely. But few do and most sermons in our Churches today are always from New Testament texts and not the Hebrew Scriptures. It just so happens that the "life-Soul of the one bringing the sacrifice" is "pictured" and "symbolized" by the "life-Soul" of the animal as the animal's blood is placed on the altar. In reality you are placed on the altar with God where He promised to always meet mankind in Leviticus chapter 6.

Repentance in Judaism known as Teshuva (literally Returning). Repentance is the way of atoning for sin in Judaism and brings the Kingdom of Heaven near. According to Jewish law, if someone commits a sin, he can be forgiven for that sin if he performs Teshuva. This means that he ceases his forbidden actions, regrets what he has done, confesses before God, and firmly resolves never to repeat those actions. When the Temple in Jerusalem was active, a Jew was required to bring various sacrifices for certain types of sins. Unknown to most Christians is that not all sin offerings required blood but all did require the Soul's repentance. Although sacrifices were required, the most essential part of atonement was performing Teshuva or repentance. Presently, with the Temple destroyed, atonement may nevertheless be granted even for such sins if the Soul repents. This brings us to examination of Leviticus chapter 17.

The Hebrew word for "life" which is in the blood is the word for "Soul". Such a life, if it was to be accepted as an atonement, was one which was lived completely obediently to God's Commandments [which if obeyed perfectly led him throughout life never sinning]. But reality teaches that sin is part of life and is that sin is a "teaching tool" to teach us "life" from "death" as necessary to our Spiritual development as Souls. Such a life that turned and repented from sin was so pleasing to God that He accepted such a repentant life as an offering for one's own sin. Such a life was lived in a constant intent to live the commandments of God and when one fell short through sin one was preoccupied to repent and then recapture one's right standing with God. After repentance, "at that moment", one was restored into right standing and relationship with God and the placing of the blood of the animal was representative of the sacrificer's Soul before God since he had ALREADY repented. The animal was a picture of him at that time. The Soul of the animal was a picture of the sacrificer's Soul, but only if he had repented PRIOR to bringing the sacrifice. Now you can understand why God at times tells us that He is wearied by the sacrifices of the people.

They were just killing the animals and there was no repentance in their hearts!

Isa 1:10-17

- 10 Hear the word of the LORD, ye rulers of Sodom; give ear unto the law of our God, ye people of Gomorrah.
- 11 To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices unto me? saith the LORD: I am full of the burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks, or of lambs, or of he goats.
- 12 When ye come to appear before me, who hath required this at your hand, to tread my courts?
- 13 Bring no more vain oblations; incense is an abomination unto me; the new moons and sabbaths, the calling of assemblies, I cannot away with; it is iniquity, even the solemn meeting.
- 14 Your new moons and your appointed feasts my Soul hateth: they are a trouble unto me; I am weary to bear them.
- 15 And when ye spread forth your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you: yea, when ye make many prayers, I will not hear: your hands are full of blood.

Notice that God is tired of ritual without repentance.

Notice what God says next and the remedy to this sad state of Spiritual affairs He finds in His people. Notice what God tells them what they must do!

- 16 Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil;
- 17 Learn to do well; seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

There you have it. Through repentance, confession, and a return to obedience of the Laws and Commandments of one's Covenant the people could again be received by God. Nowhere does is say in the Hebrew Scriptures that God did not want the people to continue to bring sacrifices that were symbolic of the Spiritual condition of their Souls. Only then, as you now have learned, was their Souls to be represented by the innocent animal's blood and Soul being placed on the altar. Anything sacrificed without repentance was a lie to God and was a waste of life; not only theirs but the animals' as well.

LET US LOOK A LITTLE MORE CLOSELY

The Hebrew word for "Soul" is as follows as seen in Strong's Concordance:

5315 nephesh (neh'-fesh);

from 5314; properly, a breathing creature, i.e. animal of (abstractly) vitality; used very widely in a literal, accommodated or figurative sense (bodily or mental):

The Hebrew word for "Soul" is as follows as seen in Brown-Drivers-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

5315 nephesh-

- soul-self,, life, a creature, a person, an appetite, a mind, a living being, a desire, an emotion, a passion
- what breathes, the breathing substance or being, a Soul, the inner being of man
- a living being
- a living being (with life in the blood)

- the man himself, a-self, a person or an individual
- the seat of the appetites
- the seat of emotions and passions
- the activity of mind
- the activity of the will
- the activity of the character

My whole life I was told that I was "saved" by the blood of Jesus, yet Leviticus tells me that atonement which brings salvation is accomplished by my own life before God!

Looking at the definition above, one quickly sees that the activity of one's will, mind, and character [one's Soul] was said to be accepted in Leviticus 17 as an atonement for one's sin [life and not blood remember?]. Mind you this is not the actions of another for me, but rather my own actions which brings my own atonement.

Jesus, like all Jewish people who came before him who were devoted to God and His Torah, as well as those who lived after him, comprise the "suffering servant Israel". Let us remember that Isa. 53 speaks of the nation and corporate Israel as the Suffering Servant and not an individual even if singular pronouns are often used interchangeable plural pronouns. Both singular and plural pronouns from Isa. 40-66 refer to the corporate nation of Jewish Souls which affect their own atonement. It is this "Suffering Servant" who is "the" light for the non-Jewish nations and should today be this same Spiritual light for the Christian Church. With this perspective, we now can come to understand that the blood of Jesus, our example, carried the life force of Jesus (his Soul). Jesus was totally committed and surrendered to the will of God and His Torah as depicted in the New Testament, again our Spiritual example. That instead of Jesus' death, in reality it was his life, a life lived pleasing to God as part of the Israel of God which represents to us the active Spiritual agent that God accepts as atonement for sin. In particular Israel is the priest for the Gentile world, and they bring sacrifices for the sins of the Gentile world at Yom Kippur. THINK! Israel's "Soul", not only Jesus's, but all of righteous Israel, past and future, "atones" for sin. These righteous lives are accepted by Hashem on the altar, according to Leviticus 17, as atonement for sin. Such in reality "atones and saves". When I as a non-Jew come to the knowledge of God and His commandments, and when my life models through my conduct these Laws lived before God I identify with Israel and join Israel in making atonement for the sins of my life.

Remembering what we have already learned; namely, that singular pronouns in the Servant Songs of Isaiah refer to the nation of Israel and not to only one person like Jesus, then we are equipped to look differently as Jesus and any implications for him being the subject of Isaiah 53. In so doing we can find the following verses even the more astonishing.

6 We (the Kings of the Gentile nations speaking here) all went astray like sheep, we have turned, each one on his own way, and the Lord accepted his ["his" referring to the corporate nation of Israel] prayers for the iniquity of all of us.

Now let us never again underestimate the importance of the prayer service in the Jewish synagogues on the Holy Days for the world for by it atonement comes to the Gentiles who are unaware of such Divine Truths.

Now it become a little more clear. When one looks at Jesus, or other righteous Jews as the Suffering Servant of the LORD, then we see their lives and understand them as "lights to the nations". This is then easy to understand. Lives lived as examples which were in complete submission to the Commandments of God and as demonstrated by one's complete submission of the mind, will, and emotions to God and His desires for his people bring atonement for one's past sins. Such examples as the perfect life of Jesus regarding the Laws of God, when followed by me, literally "saves"! Such lives atoned for not only their sins but for the sins of the Gentile world at Yom Kippur and serve as an example to me and you. This example, if followed, provides atonement for our sins. Literally the "corporate" example of Israel is to be individualized in each believer's life when one comes into personal relationship with God. This is explained when one reads Isaiah 53 from the Jewish Scriptures and not the corrupted Christian Old Testament which alters the Isaiah Hebrew texts.

One's God-honoring life (Soul) was later accepted as an offering for his sin in behalf because following repentance his Soul was purified and his life could then be accepted upon the altar of God in lieu of his actual life being demanded by the Law due to his sin. God accepted his prayers and repentance for his own iniquity.

34 Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do… (KJV)

So it was not Jesus' death so much as his God-honoring life-style which was lived in complete submission to the Father and His Commandments which not only brought Jesus to tabernacle within God "without measure", but shows us the way to both live and die in a way which honors both man and God and procures for us our own atonement when we live our lives by his example. The death of Jesus was not so much a sacrifice for us but an example for us.

BUT IN A WAY THE "BLOOD" OF JESUS DID SAVE US….IF WE CAN SEE THE TRUTH OF WHAT HE TAUGHT?

Had Jesus's death not circulated by oral tradition among the later Jewish nation as well as the Gentiles then there most likely would not have been a movement catalyzed from within a Messianic Essene Judaism which would reach out to the nations with the Torah and the Laws of Noah. The death, where the blood of Jesus was supposedly shed for sin, was the catalyst that caused a mission into all the world where the Covenant of Noah was extended to the Gentile World. We call this the Great Commission today. Now understand which is said next. For in the wake of the teaching of Jesus death, first at the hands of the Essenes and later with Rome, there would not likely have come a movement into all the world which aimed at taking the Torah and the Laws of God to the nations whereby non-Jews could learn how to live lives pleasing to God as had Israel through faith and acceptance of the commands of God respective of their Covenant. Messianic Israel took to the non-Jews and the Lost Sheep of the House of Israel God's Covenant made with the non-Jews since before Noah. Faith and obedience to the Covenant stipulations brought salvation to the non-Jewish world since within them are the Divine concepts of faith, repentance, prayer and restitution of one's sin. This understanding is what Isaiah understood about the sacrifice of the Suffering Servant, Jesus being but another example of the sacrifice of Israel by the hands of the Gentiles given in efforts to reach them with the truth about the God of the cosmos. Along with the teaching of the death of Jesus, as well as his resurrection, the teachings by which non-Jews could enter Covenant with God and live by the Commandments of God was to be taken into all the world. Better stated and I hope you understand this, the "descent and death of Krst/Karest/Christ" into "matter" and material incarnation in humanity along with the resurrection of the "Soul from the dead while yet alive" as human beings was later altered to a "literalized story of a historical person as the Christ who died and was likewise resurrected". I don't intend to deal with this Ancient Spiritual Wisdom and the understanding of "the Christ", or as Judaism called it, the Messiah, at this time, but understand down through history the receiving of the Oral Traditions often lost their original meanings. This is the case here without a doubt. The later oral tradition of a Jewish Christ who was incarnated, lived, died, and was resurrected as a "literal person" was the later adaptation of the earlier Sacred Wisdom. Along with this was the attachment of an atonement for the whole of mankind through his death and resurrection; an atonement which we have now seen never occurred.

Although the "keys" to this Divine Spiritual Allegory was lost, along with these teachings would come the understanding that repentance from sin and a return to God which provides a life pleasing to God which He then accepts as atonement for sin. Many received this truth, many did not. Through the ages of the Christian Gentile Church and at the hands of Rome this teaching was modified and finally lost! Your example of being a Christian today which does not understand the Sacrificial System of the Bible is proof of what I say.

Now you are ready to read our articles on Isaiah to fully understand Isa. 53 correctly

The vast majority of Christians in the world today have not been told this and wander in fables because they lack the correct understanding which only can come from in-depth Bible study as well as associated studies in Gnosticism and comparative religions. And that goes without saying that you have to have the correct texts and unaltered Hebrew Scriptures before you start. Sadly Christians for the most part cannot find the truth because they are working from a corrupted text. They only reinforce error. Buy yourself a Stone Edition Tanakh. Then you will have the Bible a Jew like Jesus would have used and then armed with my websites mentioned above you can begin to do your comparison Scriptural comparisons and see these things for yourself.

"And the Lord accepted his [the corporate nation of Israel] prayers for the iniquity of all of us" says the Kings of the nations who are speaking in Isaiah 53 according to Isaiah 52:15, *15 So shall he startle many nations, kings (Gentile kings of these nations) shall shut their mouths because of him; for that which had not been told them shall they see, and that which they had not heard shall they perceive.

What makes this even more remarkable is that in this very passage from Isa. 53 it is the GENTILE KINGS OF THE WORLD SPEAKING & NOT THE JEWISH PEOPLE OR THE JEWISH PROPHETS! The Gentiles will one day understand the role played by the righteous Jewish people in expiation of their sin! This is prophetic but you can fulfill it today if you open your heart and head to the facts presented in this article.

Such is the teaching of Isaiah and Leviticus.

Because of the proliferation of bloody rites in Gentile paganism, the Gentile converts to Jewish Christianity would in the first centuries, inherently revert back to pagan backgrounds. Thus the emphasis today on blood instead of a God-honoring life as the offering for sin has been inherited by the Gentile Church. Such falsehoods as taught by the Romanized Paul was a "bridge" to the non-Jewish nations as Rome attempted to "be all things to all that he might win some". This Romanized Paul gave the non-Jew nothing more that what they already had; for in the pagan mystery religions, of which Troas was the capital of Mithraism, Paul's home town, the ancient allegorical Divine concepts of the Soul were modified and embodied in a "literal Christ Jesus" by this Romanized Paul for Gentile acceptance. They did not have to accept Judaism per se, he would simply remold Jesus into a neo-pagan to which they could relate. Basically the allegorical Spiritual concepts of the Soul and "the Krst/Karest/Christ" were both literalized and historicized by Rome and out comes this "golden calf".

Such is the reckless acts of Roman Christianity desperately trying to be received and accepted because of their "gospel" and its rejection by the Jerusalem Church. Rome tries to pass of this "replacement religion" as Pauline when in fact the true Paul was a Gnostic and never believed in a "literal" or "historical Jesus Christ". When Jerusalem would be notified of what Rome was teaching, they rejected it outright and continue to reject the Roman New Testament today. Jerusalem never accepted "Paul's" gospel, or should I say "Rome's Gospel". Neither should you! Rome's gospel could not "preach" in Israel, only 1500 miles away when few knew little of a Jewish historical Jesus or the Torah. Such a clever tactic by Rome only made Jesus the head of the non-Jewish pantheon which were already filled gods which gave their body and blood for their followers for salvation. But such teachings in the Divine Spiritual Wisdom were always allegorical for Divine Life; never literal "blood".

The Living Energy of God, poured out for mankind, was symbolized by the Sun's energy which appeared red at dawn and dusk. Many cultures believed the Sun consists of life-enhancing forces that promotes vitality in all living things. This life-enhancing force that appeared red to them was likened by them to be symbolic for the "blood" of God which was poured out for their lives. This life-enhancing and saving power of God was thus called the "blood of God" by the ancients but it was purely Metaphysical to its core; never understood to be literal. Thus again, we see what was symbolic and Metaphysical in meaning was later incorporated and interpreted as if "literal" by Rome and today the whole of Christianity is misled and deceived by Rome's reinterpretation of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom.

I just gave you the Biblical teaching on atonement.

Answer for yourself: Have you noticed we have not discussed "sin offerings" yet but have covered the gamut of atonement? Sin offerings only began after the terrible sin of idolatry and blasphemy of the Name of the LORD when Israel rejected YHWH at Sinai. Now God would add a new Law that had not existed prior to that time. This the "Law that was added". Request our article on "The Law That Was Added" to further your understanding in this area.

NOW…WHAT ABOUT SIN OFFERINGS?

Really I don't have much to say except they were instituted after the golden calf incident. Then a whole priesthood and tabernacle was required. But even looking at sin offerings, the same Spiritual dynamics applying to the Soul which we have seen before are again applied; namely, the Soul or life of the sacrificer is placed on the altar as a picture of his renewed relationship with God and the authenticity of such a demonstration was determined if he had repented, confessed, and made restitution PRIOR to bringing the sacrifice.

CONCLUSION

Having now come to the understanding that it was a life lived above sin that was so pleasing to God that God accepted such a life as an offering and atonement for one's sin, it should behoove you to rethink what you believe about atonement as a Christian as related to the death of Jesus. Surely you understand that if we was sinless as Christian theology maintains then there is no need for his shedding of blood since the "life in the blood" only atoned for the individual. If you were to do some comparative religious study you will see the preponderance of evidence of how ancient allegorical and metaphorical Spiritual concepts of salvation are woven into a "literalized" Pauline theology cleverly crafted by Rome. I have shown you the Biblical teachings of atonement and have not mentioned or advocated Paul's theology once; rather only shown you the unsoundness of it as revealed by a true understanding of the Hebrew Scriptures. The reason I have not is that nowhere in the Jewish Masoretic Palestinian text are such Pauline concepts of atonement found.

Only when you read the fraudulent and mistranslated Greek Scriptures, which the Rabbis did not translate, do you begin to find such ideas of a "literal atonement " surfacing in in germ form in the texts as the Essenes related them to their Teacher of Righteousness who was slain by Rome. This meaningless death of their Teacher was interpreted by them to be an atonement and this idea was worked into the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures when translated by them. But never fail to understand that such concepts cannot be found in the Hebrew and Jewish Scriptures from which the Greek translation emanated. Somebody, namely first the Essenes "fixed" the Greek translation to read differently and Rome followed in symphony with their deceptive Second New Testament. And sadly for you, these altered and paganized Greek mistranslation became the foundation for your Christian Old Testament. To make matters worse, your New Testament quotes from this fraudulent Old Testament and millions of Christians, unknowing of this event, read this later corrupted New Testament texts as Divine Truth. Over and over as you read your Christian Bible you only reinforce and rehearse error! You need to know that.

Answer for yourself: But that happened over 2000 years ago and who knows of this tragic departure from the ancient Divine Wisdom? Well I do, and others do who have studied enough to see it! The Jews have always known this and this is why they would not accept the LXX and the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures long ago and yet refuse to accept them repeated and enlarged upon in the New Testament today. It was the Jews of the Diaspora who had lost the ability to read Hebrew who were set up for this deception and they readily accepted the Greek translation as well as the secularized Jews of today who accept the New Testament Jesus; never knowing the truth of their Hebrew Scriptures. It is time someone told you! The righteous Jews know this and have known this since 200 BC when the Greek translation was understood by them to be a corruption of the Jewish Scriptures. History records 3 attempts of the Jews to correct such a forged Greek translation but sadly their efforts were enough to overtake the popularity of the already translated LXX (Septuagint).

Understand an animal's Soul represented the Soul of one making the sacrifice, and we, as non-Jews, today are beneficiaries of having the Jew's prayers given to God for our sin on Yom Kippur. Jesus is the archetype for all of Israel. But in this lesson we must no longer overlook the importance of a life lived above sin which procures one's redemption and not the inert blood of the animal or of Jesus's blood. Lives lived honoring God through faith and obedience atones. Your Covenant requires it! Such is the message of Bet Emet as we are called to live like Jesus and not just "believe in Jesus." It has been my experience as a Pastor over the years to encounter multitudes of Christians who trust in Christ's blood instead of understanding the importance of his life, symbolized by his Soul in his blood, as lived in obedience to God as a form of atonement and as a "Living Sacrifice". It is time to reconsider your own life lived in such a way lived pleasing to God as your own atonement. We must walk out our salvation with fear and trembling. We are co-laborers with God in our own salvation through faith and repentance. Such a mistaken understanding of our redemption as seen from this Romanized Paul, since not being taught the truth from a Hebraic perspective, has caused multitudes of Christians to trust in the acclaimed miraculous powers of the blood of Jesus instead of focusing of the miraculousness of a life lived above sin. Such a false sense of security in "blood" instead of "lives lived holy before God and man" unconsciously causes the believer to not regard sin with revulsion as he should. We tend to view sin as less harmful than it is, and compromise with sin which lies at the door.

The bottom line for all Christians to understand is that we have heard way too much preached about Jesus and far too little studied from the texts of the Hebrew and Jewish Bible and comparative religious studies along with the ancient Divine Wisdom which tell us exactly and accurately who this "Krst/Karest/Christ" is as well as his Heavenly and Earthly mission. If we had studied the original sources available to us, we would not be so mixed up theologically in a Christianity today which boasts over 2,000 different denominations all maintaining they have the truth about Jesus while at the same time being the most violent and crime ridden nation in the world.

SOMETHING IS WRONG WITH THE MESSAGE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…LOOK AT THE FRUIT OF THIS MESSAGE IN OUR COUNTRY WITH A CHURCH ON EVERY CORNER AND TELEVISIONS FILLED WITH THE CHRISTIAN MESSAGE. JUST LOOK OUT YOUR DOOR AND ASK IF A COUNTRY WITH 12% OF THE WORLD'S POPULATION WITH 25% OF THE WORLD'S INCARCERATED PEOPLE IS THE BEST THE HOLY SPIRIT CAN DO????????

May God forgive our laziness to let others tell us what to believe instead of us studying to show ourselves approved unto God. I just showed you part of the problem. Implicitly we are led to not revere the Laws and Commandments of God because "Jesus died for me" and my "get out of hell free card", signed by Jesus, saves me. As a Pastor I saw such falsehoods lived out in the lives of the congregation year after year. When there is no Law, no Commandments, no requirements, no accountability, then there is no righteous fruit and we have our newspapers filled with horror story after horror story and many of these atrocities are being committed by clergy. Lost in all of this is one's personal accountability to God and the Spiritual progression of one's Soul into the "fullness and stature of Christ".

Answer for yourself: When was the last time you saw a Rabbi skip off with the funds of the synagogue or be caught with a prostitute in some motel or exposed on television on "20-20" as being a closet homosexual? When was the last time a Rabbi was found molesting a child? Are they any different that non-Jews; or is it because they have a fear of God that is lacking in the Christian Church because we have "implicitly" been sold a bill of goods that we are "already" forgiven and can get away with it because "Jesus paid it all?"

Sadly few can count on their lives being a sufficient atonement for their sin when your whole life in the Church has taught you to live without Law and the necessary obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God. This the legacy of the Romanized Paul and his "literalized" Christ superimposed upon a Rabbi names Jesus/Jesus is the cause of our Spiritual dilemena in America today. You were taught these "laws and commandments" were a curse when it fact they are the pathway to life everlasting.

Answer for yourself: For after all if saved by the blood of Jesus, what need do I have to live like Jesus and not disobey the commandments of God? Isn't Jesus my "grace card" that allows me to live anyway I want to and not fear the end-result of such non-accountable behavior?

Answer for yourself: If saved by the blood of another, what does a little sin mean, what can it hurt; for after all, did not Jesus die for me as the Roman document, the New Testament states? Well, as you can see now this is a great matter of debate once knowing the facts.

Answer for yourself: Can you begin to see the tragic thinking involved in focusing upon the blood of Jesus instead of the life of Jesus lived above sin and the horrible fruit it produces? This dogma absolute thwarts the incarnational purpose of our Soul.

THINK!

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #6

IS ONLY BLOOD REQUIRED TO ATONE FOR SIN?

"...without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness." (Hebrews 9:22)

Answer for yourself: Is this statement from the epistle to the Hebrews really true or is it a contradiction of the Eternal Word of God and the Hebrew Scriptures and the testimony of Biblical Judaism for the last 2,000 years?

The central theme of Christianity and the New Testament is centered of the belief that the sacrificial offering of the blood of Jesus Christ is the only atonement for the sins of the entire world. Christianity goes on to maintain that "the blood of Jesus was shed in our stead and is the only means of atonement for our sin." Moreover, evangelical Christians assert that for the past nineteen centuries since the destruction of the second temple in 70 C.E., Jews have lacked the essential and indispensable animal-sacrificial system for atonement. Consequently, they insist, God must have provided a blood atonement in place of the animal sacrifices of the past. This sacrifice, they maintain, is the death of Jesus on the cross.

To support this claim that atonement can only be achieved through the shedding of blood, Missionaries cite Leviticus 17:11 which reads:

"This is because the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes atonement for the soul."

With this verse in hand, Christians conclude that only by being covered in the blood of the Cross can man have any hope of being forgiven by God for his sins.

Answer for yourself: Is this Christian claim concerning Jesus' sacrifice as the only atonement for mankind truly consistent with the Hebrew Scriptures and Biblical history? If this theological belief as held central by Christianity is true then how is it that in Acts 21, some 30 or so years following the death of Jesus and his supposedly atoning sacrifice, we find that James, the head of Jesus' church, commanding Paul with the sanction of the whole of the Jerusalem Church, to keep the Nazarite Vow; a vow that required that Paul bring both sin and blood atonements for his sin? Was James mistaken in commanding Paul to bring atonement sacrifices or had the Holy Spirit failed to reveal to these followers of Jesus what his death actually meant? What did James, Paul, and the whole of the Jerusalem church know that we don't today that had them continue to observe the Sacrificial System and continue to bring blood sacrifices long after the death of Jesus?

Answer for yourself: Before you try to come up with an answer to these difficult questions you need to be honest with yourself and answer to God the following question: "Just how well do I really know the Old Testament Scriptures and their Hebrew meanings since I am a New Testament Christian?"

Christians claim that the absolute need for blood is rooted in the Law of Moses (the Torah). Traditionally they will often cite the book of Leviticus as proof:

"And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn among you, who consumes any blood, I will set My face against that person who consumes blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes an atonement for the Soul. Therefore, I say to the children of Israel, 'No one among you shall consume blood, nor shall any stranger who sojourns among you consume blood.'" (Leviticus 17:11)

What should immediately be apparent is that this passage is concerned first and foremost with the prohibition against consuming blood. The subject of atonement here is secondary. Contrary to the Christian claim that Leviticus 17:11 proves that man can only atone for his iniquity through the shedding of blood, this verse only explains the prohibition of eating blood. Christians have conveniently severed this verse from its original context, effectively concealing and distorting its message. In the immediate context of Leviticus 17:11 we find that the Torah is speaking of the prohibition of eating blood, not the subject of sin and atonement. The Torah discusses blood atonement in this verse only as a by-product of its central theme. This crucial message is lost when Christians quote Leviticus 17:11 alone, without the surrounding texts as its proper background. Leviticus 17:11 begins with the conjunctive Hebrew word "ki" (pronounced kee), meaning "This is because...." Whenever a verse begins with this word, it is explaining what has just been related in the previous verse. The previous verse, Leviticus 17:10, reads,

"And any man from the house of Israel, or from the aliens who sojourn among them, who eats any blood, I will set My face against that person who eats blood, and will cut him off from among his people."

Leviticus 17:11 then continues this message and explains,

"This is because the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes atonement for the soul."

Thus, Leviticus 17:11 explains Leviticus 17:10 by revealing that consuming blood is forbidden because it may only be used in the act of sprinkling of the animal's blood on the altar for an atonement. It is a grievous sin to use it for anything else. The Torah therefore commands us in Leviticus 17:13, only three verses later, that when slaughtering an animal, the blood must be poured on to the floor and covered with earth, rendering it useless.

Answer for yourself: Was this done with the death of Jesus as a supposed atonement? Deuteronomy 12:16 states: "Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it on the earth like water."

Leviticus 17:10-11 is therefore declaring two principles about blood:

- you may not eat it
- amongst all the various rituals associated with the sin sacrifice, such as the laying of the hands on the animal, slaughtering, collecting, carrying, sprinkling, placing of the animal on the altar, it is only the sprinkling of the Soul in the blood on the altar that completes the true atonement process and picture of the right standing of the sacrificier's Soul.

You therefore may not eat the blood. This verse does not state or imply that one cannot have atonement for sin without a blood sacrifice. Such a message would contradict all of the Jewish scriptures which clearly outline two other methods of atonement more pleasing to God than a sacrifice - heartfelt repentance and charity.

Although the statement "without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins" is found nowhere in the Hebrew and Jewish scriptures, it does appear in the Christian scriptures. In Hebrews 9:22 the author misquotes Leviticus 17:11 when he states "Indeed, under the law almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins." Although this quote in Hebrews 9:22 is always cross referenced in a Christian study Bible to Leviticus 17:11, it is actually a stunning purposeful misquote of the original text.

Finally, if Christians want to use Leviticus 17:11 to bolster their position that blood sacrifices are indispensable for procuring an atonement, they must use all of the verse, not just a part of it. Leviticus 17:11 specifically says that the blood of the sacrifice must be placed "upon the altar to make atonement for your souls." That is to say, Leviticus 17:11 explicitly declares that the Soul in the blood can only effect atonement if it is placed on the altar. Jesus' blood, however, was never placed on the altar in the Temple. If the church is going to take the "blood" part of the verse "literally" as the subject and active agent that supposedly is the atoning agent, they must also take the "altar" part literally as well. Jesus' blood was never sprinkled on the altar, and therefore his death could not provide atonement for anyone. But of course we have already see this in many other examples where the Sacrificial System has been terribly distorted before the uneducated reader in hopes of selling him an easy "false atonement" which will bind him to the Catholic Church for life. We are told that the reason for this prohibition is that the blood contains the life, Soul, and very vitality of the animal. So as you most clearly see now another reason that drinking blood is prohibited is that consuming blood was a very important part of the idolatrous religious practices of the people and nations surrounding Israel (Gen. 9:4 and Deut. 12:23). The blood is sacred for it is the home for the Soul, the active atoning agent in the Sacrificial System.

Israel was clearly instructed by The Holy One of Israel through Moses not to imitate this abhorrent pagan practice in any manner (and this has serious implications for Christian communion, both Catholic and Protestant) which believe the wafer and wine are turned into the actual "literal blood and body of Jesus Christ". Although the actual blood was later to be substituted with wine in many of the sacred banquets of pagan religions, there is ample evidence to support the claim that literal blood was consumed as part of the ritual worship of pagan deities, and this was done as a form of atonement.

Please listen to this! Since this passage from Lev. 17 is predominately concerned with the prohibition against consuming blood, we must look elsewhere in the Bible for instructions concerning atonement for sins. This passage in Lev. 17 is very helpful, yes, in determining that it is the very Soul that is in the "blood" that accomplishes the atonement for sin but we must continue to expand our study to see more about how this Sacrificial System operated. This passage in Leviticus will become clearer later on only as we look at other Hebrew Scriptures. The passage does say that since blood symbolizes the life of the animal, it can be used as a means of atoning for our sins. This passage in Leviticus does not say, however, that blood is the only means of atoning for sins. Indeed, The Holy Hebrew Scriptures tell us of several other things that can be used instead of the blood of a sacrificial ram or bullock in obtaining atonement and forgiveness of sins.

OTHER MEANS OF ATONEMENT…..IS THIS NEWS TO YOU?

"And Moses said unto Aaron, 'Take a censer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incense, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from [YHWH]; the plague is begun.' And Aaron took as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the congregation; and, behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incense, and made an atonement for the people." (Numbers 16:46-47)

Answer for yourself: What is the atoning agent in this above Scriptures? It is incense.

Here, incense can be used to atone for sins in the same manner as the blood sacrifices of animals.

Notice what else could be used in place of blood:

"The rich shall not give more, and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel (offering of money), when they give an offering unto [YHWH], to make an atonement for your souls. And thou shalt take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and shalt appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Israel before [YHWH], to make an atonement for your souls." (Exodus 30:15-16)

Answer for yourself: What is the atoning agent in this above Scriptures? Money as an offering to God is a form of atonement for one's sins.

Here, one's offering to the LORD can be used to atone for sins in the same manner as the blood sacrifices of animals.

The phrase "to make atonement for your souls" in these verses is the same expression as in Leviticus 17:11:

"We have therefore brought an oblation [again items of worth and money] (Deut. 12:23-25, 30) for [YHWH], what every man hath gotten, of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, earrings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our souls before [YHWH]." Numbers 31:50)

Answer for yourself: What is the atoning agent in this above Scriptures? They brought their gold and jewelry as an atonement for this sin.

In these passages, money, gold, or jewelry could be used to make atonement for the children of Israel. The principle here is not that atonement can be bought (this was the practice of the great Catholic church whose priests routinely sold forgiveness in indulgences). Rather, this is about doing charitable things with money as a form of restitution, good deeds, and charity which are part of atonement process according to the Torah. In this case, the money was to be used for the physical maintenance of the temple building, at other times it was the care of the poor, the widow, the orphan, lame, blind, poor, crippled, etc.

DOES BLOOD COVER ALL SIN?

Now get ready for an eye-opening teaching that has drastic implication again for Jesus and his death being an atonement for all sin.

According to the Hebrew Scriptures, blood sacrifices held only limited atonement capabilities and did not apply to various types of sin. Let me explain this in detail so that there is no confusion. Foremost among the limitations of blood sacrifices is the fact that blood sacrifices were only brought for the sinner for his unintentional sins. If a person committed some sin out of ignorance, such as doing work on the Sabbath when perhaps they mistakenly thought it was Sunday, then atonement could be made and blood sacrifices could be brought to the temple as part of his sin offering. Again, let us not forget that his repentance, confession, prayer, and righteous deed did the actual atoning of his sin of ignorance and the blood sacrifice was later brought to declare before God and mankind that his Soul was in right standing with God. The blood that was placed on the altar was only a "picture" and "symbol" of the Soul of the sacrificer who had previously repented . The blood was the "passive agent" in the whole Sacrificial System process; it was his repentance, prayer, confession and subsequent righteous acts and charity that actually accomplishes his atonement and forgiveness long before he brought a blood sacrifice to the Temple for his sin of ignorance. This is the law of unintentional sin according to Biblical Judaism. Now we look at a whole other matter; the intentional sin.

First of all get prepared. Sacrifices never were brought to help atone for sins that were done intentionally.

Answer for yourself: Does this mean that all of the sin offerings in the Bible we see brought were considered as unintentional sins? Yes. Were sacrifices ever brought for premeditated sins like adultery and theft? No.

Notice the instructions to the priests concerning this:

"And [YHWH] spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a soul shall sin through ignorance against any of the commandments of [YHWH] concerning things which ought not to be done, and shall do against any of them: If the priest that is anointed do sin according to the sin of the people; then let him bring for his sin, which he hath sinned, a young bullock without blemish unto [YHWH] for a sin offering. And he shall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before [YHWH]; and shall lay his hand upon the bullock's head, and kill the bullock before [YHWH]. And the priest that is anointed shall take of the bullock's blood, and bring it to the tabernacle of the congregation: And the priest shall dip his finger in the blood, and sprinkle of the blood seven times before [YHWH], before the veil of the sanctuary. And the priest shall put some of the blood upon the horns of the altar of sweet incense before [YHWH], which is in the tabernacle of the congregation; and shall pour all the blood of the bullock at the bottom of the altar of the burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation" Leviticus 4:1-7)

The claim so often heard uttered from the lips of Christians; namely, "that only blood could atone for sins" raises many questions when one studies the Torah and the Sacrificial System thoroughly whereby he discovers that blood sacrifices could not and were never brought for intentional sins.

Answer for yourself: Right up front, what drastic implication does this have for Jesus' death being an atonement for mankind' sin? Well, for starters it appears that if Christian theology is correct, which it is not, then even if it were then the death of Jesus could only have atoned for mankind's unintentional sin since blood was never brought for intentional sins. This deserves a long consideration by every Christian; especially by those who have been taught that Jesus is the fulfillment of the Sacrificial System as well as those who have been taught that Jesus is the type and shadow of the sacrificial lamb of the Old Testament Yom Kippur sacrifice. It appears now that nothing could be further from the truth for any such death of Jesus which had any connection to atonement would have only applied to unintentional sins.

Answer for yourself: What happens if someone could not afford to purchase a ram or bullock for his unintentional sin offering? Is it possible that a loving CREATOR would institute a system of atonement that could only be used by the wealthy?

Contrary to the missionary claim that blood-sacrifice is the only method of atonement in the Bible, there are three methods of atonement clearly defined in the Jewish scriptures:

- The sin sacrifice for unintentional sin; implied here the reader must understand is the sinner's repentance, remorse, contrition, prayer, and almsgiving along with correct instruction that will lead the sinner to never repeat this same sin of ignorance again, if he does then it becomes a sin of intention where no blood sacrifice can be brought (Leviticus 4:1-35)
- repentance (Deuteronomy 4:26-31; I Kings 8:46-50; Isaiah 55:6-9; Jeremiah 7:3-23; Ezekiel 18:1-23; Hosea 6:6; 14:2-3; Micah 6:6; Psalm 40:7-9 (6-8); 51:16-19);
- charity (Proverbs 10:2; 11:4; 16:6; Daniel 4:24; II Chronicles 6:36-39)

Moreover, the sin sacrifice and man's repentance accompanied with a subsequent blood sacrifice, known in the Hebrew Scriptures as Korban Chatat, did not atone for all types of sin, but rather, only for man's most insignificant iniquity: unintentional sins. The sin sacrifice along with one's repentance was inadequate to atone for a transgression committed intentionally. This is something of the most serious nature which is only handled between man and God at the High Holy Days on Yom Kippur. The brazen sinner was barred from the Sanctuary, and had to bear his own iniquity because of his rebellious intent to sin against God.

"And if he be not able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring for his trespass, which he hath committed, two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, unto [YHWH]; one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering." Leviticus 5:7) Here, if a person could not afford the sacrificial ram or bullock for a sin offering, certain types of small birds could be used instead.

Answer for yourself: However, what if someone was so destitute, that he couldn't afford even these small birds?

"But if his means are insufficient for two turtledoves or two young pigeons, then for his offering for that which he has sinned, he shall bring the tenth of an ephah of fine flour for a sin offering; he shall not put oil on it or place incense on it, for it is a sin offering." (Leviticus 5:11)

Answer for yourself: What does this teach us? Namely, that the Torah allowed for non-blood sacrifices to be given in place of blood sacrifices. Thus we learn that blood was not always required for atonement and surely was not the "only way to accomplish atonement" as the writer of the Book of Hebrews maintains.

This is very startling to note in lieu of the traditional Christian teaching that "...without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness." (Hebrews 9:22)

Answer for yourself: It certainly appears to me that the writer of the Book of Hebrews has no idea whatsoever how the Sacrificial System truly operated. Don't you find this situation rather strange for a Jew called by the Holy Spirit to convey Divine Truths yet he gets it completely backwards and wrong? Christianity's blood atonement teachings connected to the death and supposed sacrifice of Jesus and that only Jesus' blood could serve as mankind's atonement is completely destroyed by this contradictory fact taken from Leviticus 5:11.

If birds could not be afforded, some simple flour could be used instead and would be just as effective in the eyes of Israel's Creator. The Hebrew Scriptures are quite clear on this. Since flour could be used for a sin offering, it is evident that blood was not the sole means of atonement; never was and never will be! The Christian position that only the shed blood of Jesus could atone for sins is falling by the wayside in light of the serious study and examination of the Hebrew Scriptures. Actually, considering the beating and torture which Jesus is said to have suffered at the hands of the Romans, you have to wonder if atonement was the goal to be accomplished by his death then why God did not have Jesus request that a sack of flour be brought by the Romans and let them whip, beat, mock and crucify it instead of himself!!!

WHAT IF THERE WAS NO TEMPLE OR AARONIC PRIEST …HOW WAS ATONEMENT ACHIEVED?

While the Temple stood, sacrifices without question served as part of the atonement process. If you read the first articles in this series then you understand the meaning of the presentation of the "blood" on the altar within the Temple.

Answer for yourself: What, though, was to be the fate of the people who did not have access to the Temple?

Answer for yourself: What were the Israelite people supposed to do after 586 B.C.E. when the first Temple was destroyed and they were exiled to Babylon? How were they to atone for sin without a Temple? If the blood was the "passive agent" in the Sacrificial System then was their repentance, confession, remorse, and acts of charity and righteous deed satisfactory to atone for their sin? Yes, it was and it always has been as we have seen previously.

Answer for yourself: What did the Jewish people do in the times of the Maccabees when the Syrian-Greeks were in control of the Temple and did not allow sacrifices?

After king Solomon completed the spectacular Temple building in Jerusalem, he dedicated it with a very moving speech. This lengthy and very beautiful speech can be read in the books of 1 Kings 8 and II Chronicles 6. Notice, however, that strangely King Solomon, in reality Amenhotep III, Pharaoh of the 18th Dynasty of Egypt, doesn't speak about sacrifices at all! If sacrifices were the focal point of the temple, this omission would be very curious. Rather, the focus of the Temple was shown to be the Ark, containing the Laws which our Creator wants us to live by. The Temple was first and foremost a symbol of the Shechinah, or presence of The Holy One of Israel.

"I have surely built thee an house to dwell in, a settled place for thee to abide in for ever. (I Kings 8:13)

"And let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them" (Exodus 25:8).

Toward the end of the speech, Solomon addresses the subject of the Israelite people being denied access to the temple:

"If they return to You with all their heart and with all their Soul in the land of their enemies who have taken them captive, and pray to You toward their land which You have given to their fathers, the city which You have chosen, and the house which I have built for Your name; then hear their prayer and their supplication in heaven Your dwelling place, and maintain their cause, and forgive Your people who have sinned against You and all their transgressions which they have transgressed against You..." (I Kings 8:46-50)

Here we see that Solomon addresses that part of Israel who was yet and would be again captives in another nation in his dedication of the Temple. Here Solomon understand that although the Jewish people were without a Temple they were never without an atonement. This passage helps us understand Leviticus 17:11 properly. The Bible clearly teaches that blood sacrifices were not necessary in order to atone for sins; they were the final "picture representing the atoned Soul" and functioned as the "passive part" of the whole Sacrificial process. Prayer and repentance are shown to be the effective means of atonement. Certainly, when the Temple stood, and if one could afford an animal, a sacrifice was brought as part of the atonement process for unintentional sins. What Leviticus 17:11 teaches us is that when we bring such an animal as a sacrifice, we are not allowed to consume its blood, because as the life force and Soul, it is the vital part of the animal , mankind being a Soul in an animal body, that affects his atonement.

The prophets declared that repentance and charity are more favorable than a blood sacrifice. Throughout the Hebrew Scriptures, the prophets declared that repentance and charity are more pleasing to God for atonement than a blood sacrifice. They repeatedly forewarned the Jewish people from becoming obsessed with blood offerings. Other methods of atonement were more efficacious and would even replace animal sacrifices. For example, King David, in reality Tuthmose III, another Pharaoh of the 18 Dynasty of ancient Egypt, declares in Psalm 40:76 in the Hebrew Scriptures that:

"Sacrifice and meal offering You have not desired; but my ears You have opened (to hear and understand your Word); burnt offering and sin offering You have not required."

These words of the Hebrew Scriptures stand in sharp disagreement with the later Roman Christian Christian doctrine that sin can "only" be expiated through the shedding of blood. Because the Psalmist's words were deeply offensive to the early church as found in the Hebrew Scriptures and has to potential to destroy their radical reinterpretation of the Jewish Sacrificial System which was being corrupted to provide a blanket-atonement for any believer in Rome's theology attached to the New Testament Jesus, the later pro-Roman writer of the Book of Hebrews 10:5-6 was forced to corrupt and tragically alter Psalm 40:7 as it read in the Hebrew. The altered text we find in our Christian Bible and in our Book of Hebrews is found as follows:

"Sacrifice and offering You did not desire, But a body You have prepared for Me. In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin You had no pleasure." Hebrews 10:5-6

Notice how King David's original words, "but my ears You have opened" (to the Torah) have disappeared entirely in the Hebrews quote when translated into the New Testament. Instead, this New Testament author replaced this expunged clause with the words "But a body you have prepared for Me." This is a startling alteration of the Jewish scriptures but also of the Divine Sacred Wisdom of the ancient which always taught obedience to the Laws and Order of God as seen in the Heavens "above" and in Nature "below". But besides that the ancient Divine Wisdom for over 10,000 years taught concurrently from nation to nation of the "fall of Soul as well as the Krst/Karest/Christ" into "matter" and "material existence" in the form of humanity. What was allegory of the "fall" and "death of the Christ in His fall and incarnation into the whole of mankind" was "literalized" and tragically "limited to but one person in the form of the Roman Jesus" and in so doing they altered Psalm 40:7 to make it appear that a "literal incarnation" of Christ into the body of Jesus was a prophecy fulfilled. The "coming of the Christ" to mankind was never limited to but one person; it is the gift of God to all incarnated Souls.

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory (your glory and your atonement): (KJV)

Nothing could be further from the truth than this Roman theology as found in Hebrew 10:5-6 which we have inherited along with other purposeful deceptions of Messianic promises which applies to all but one of the Messianic Prophecies in the whole of the New Testament. Except for just one of them, the whole of the Messianic Prophecies in our New Testament are all forged, altered, corrupted, or invented out of thin air in one way or the other when compared with the Hebrew originals which they were supposed to faithfully represent to the New Testament reader. This neve happened but you will never know until you compare them with both the Old Testament and New Testament forgeries "line upon line" and "precept upon precept" as the Prophet Isaiah instructs us! I have so I can say what I have; having done these studies my results proved to me than if you do the same studies as I have then you, like myself, cannot be proven wrong in this regard.

Hosea foretold that the Jewish people would be without a sacrificial system, and instructed us to replace animal offerings with prayer. In Hosea 3:4-5, the prophet foretold with Divine exactness that the Nation of Israel would not have a sacrificial system during the last segment of Jewish history until the messianic age. Hosea 3:4-5 reads,

"For the children of Israel shall abide many days without king or prince, without sacrifice or sacred pillar, without ephod or teraphim. Afterward the children of Israel shall return and seek the LORD their God and David their king. They shall fear the LORD and His goodness in the latter days."

In the words of the Bible, this period of time would last for many days. Yet, despite the repeated proclamations of the church that the crucifixion of Jesus serves as a sin sacrifice today, the words of Hosea were meticulously fulfilled.

Given the spiritual magnitude of this remarkable prophecy, Hosea was compelled to reveal how the ecclesiastical temple functions were to be replaced.

- Answer for yourself: In essence, if the prophet is testifying that the nation of Israel will indeed be without a Sacrificial System during their long exile until the messianic age, what are they to use instead?
- Answer for yourself: How are the Jewish people to worship without blood sacrifices during their bitter exile?
- Answer for yourself: What about all the animal sacrifices prescribed in the Book of Leviticus?

- Answer for yourself: Can the Jewish people get along without animal offerings?

By now the reader has the answer to these questions and there is no doubt in is mind to the role of "blood" and its function in the Sacrificial process. Christians, unknowing of how the Sacrificial System actually operated, claim the Jewish are without an atonement since they reject the atonement of Jesus in the New Testament. By now you are clearly seeing that such an atonement does not exist nor has it ever! The Hebrew Bible not only disagrees with this Christian theology but it contradicts it at ever Roman turn; providing you know the Hebrew Scriptures from the later Greek, Latin, and English corruptions and their equally corrupt quotations in the New Testament. For this reason, the statement in Hosea 14:2-3 is crucial. In these two verses, Hosea reveals to his beloved nation how they are to replace the Sacrificial System during their protracted exile. The prophet declares that the Almighty wants us to "render for bulls the offering of our lips." Prayer is to replace the sacrificial system. "Take words with you, And return to the LORD. Say to Him, "Take away all iniquity; receive us graciously, For we will render for bulls the offering of our lips." (Hosea 14:2-3)

The prophets never instruct the Jews to worship any crucified messiah or demigod (Exodus 20:2-3; Deuteronomy 4:35; 6:14; 32:39; Hosea 13:4). Nor does scripture ever tell us that an innocent man can die as an atonement for the sins of the wicked as seen in Ezekiel 18:1-23. Take time to read this long passage please. Such a message that Roman Christianity teaches about the death of Jesus as an atonement is utterly antithetical to the teachings of the Hebrew Scriptures. Rather, it is the lips of the sinner that is transformed into bulls of the sin offerings.

In the reference to Ezekiel 18: 1-23, we find that the Prophet Ezekiel condemns the doctrine of vicarious atonement which has become the backbone of Christian theology. Throughout the 18th chapter, Ezekiel warned his people that this erroneous teaching that a righteous man could die for another man's sins was contrary to the will of God. The way for the sinful man to come right by God is to turn away from his rebellious ways, repent, and thereby the penitent is assured complete forgiveness. Throughout Ezekiel's uplifting sermon on the forgiveness of sin, notice if you will that blood sacrifices are never mentioned. Ezekiel 18:1-4, 19-23 reads:

"The word of the Lord came to me, saying: "What do you people mean by quoting this proverb about the land of Israel, saying: `The fathers eat sour grapes, and the sons' teeth are set on edge?' As I live, declares the Sovereign Lord, you will no longer quote this proverb in Israel. For every living soul belongs to Me, the father as well as the son -- they are Mine. Which ever soul sins, it shall die.... Yet you ask: Why did the son not bear the sin of the father? But the son, justice and righteousness did he do, all My decrees did he safeguard and perform them. He shall surely live. The soul that sins, it shall die! The son shall not bear for the sin of the father, nor the father bear for the sin of the son. The righteousness of the righteous person shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked person shall be upon him. As for the wicked man, if he should turn away from all his sins which he did, and safeguard all My decrees, and do justice and righteousness; he shall surely live. He will not die. All his transgressions which he committed will not be remembered against him. For the righteousness which he did, he shall live. Do I desire at all the death of the wicked man -- the words of my Lord, God -- is it not rather his return from his ways, that he might live."

Here again we find the same message in the later Prophets that sin is atoned for by repentance, faith, obedience, and righteous actions as we have since the beginning of the Hebrew Scriptures, during with Israel lived in the land in possession of its Temple as well as when dispersed. The message of all the Prophets of God is the same, repentance saves from death and provides is own atonement for the sinner.

IN SPITE OF ALL THIS EVIDENCE TO THE CONTRARY, COULD JESUS BE AN ACCEPTABLE SACRIFICE?

Another focal point of the New Testament is the Christian claim that the crucifixion of Jesus served as the final atoning sacrifice for the sins of the world. However, if the sacrificial instructions set forth by the Law of Moses are examined closely, and you see the guidelines set forth for how sacrifices are to be brought, it will be clear that Jesus could never serve as an atoning sacrifice. Clearly, not just any blood shed in any manner would satisfy the Biblical requirements for atonement. Notice the instructions set forth in the Torah concerning sacrifices:

"For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls..." (Lev. 17:11)

Notice that the blood of the acceptable sacrifice was to be shed upon the holy alter of the temple, and not on the pagan phallic symbol of the cross. Besides Jesus died on a single stake without a crossbar as was customary of the Romans and their crucifixions. Clearly, not just any spilled blood is acceptable as a sacrifice. YHWH set forth very meticulous rules and laws governing acceptable sacrifices brought to Him. Jesus' crucifixion may qualify as an atonement according to the faith and incomplete knowledge of many but but since his blood was not offered on the altar, it is not in compliance with what he Holy Scriptures of Israel requires.

There are many other factors that would render the crucifixion of Jesus an unacceptable sacrifice according to Scriptural guidelines. According to the Biblical rules in Leviticus, all sacrifices had to be offered by a Levite Priest, a descendant of Aaron. According to the "gospel" accounts, Jesus was killed by pagan Gentile Roman soldiers.

Biblical law also prohibited any sacrifice that was blemished or maimed:

"Ye shall offer at your own will a male without blemish, of the beeves, of the sheep, or of the goats. But whatsoever hath a blemish, that shall ye not offer: for it shall not be acceptable for you. And whosoever offereth a sacrifice of peace offerings unto [YHWH] to accomplish his vow, or a freewill offering in beefs or sheep, it shall be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no blemish therein. Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen [cyst], or scurvy, or scabbed, ye shall not offer these unto [YHWH], nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto [YHWH]. (Leviticus 22:19-21).

Now we have a problem. The "gospels" of the New Testament clearly teach that Jesus was beaten and whipped, which would have made him blemished and maimed and therefore an unfit sacrifice. Frequently, Christians react to this line of reasoning by protesting that it is improper to be so literal, and that Jesus' death was more of a symbolic or Spiritual sacrifice. This is rather strange when they damn others for not believing the "Jesus Story" as a literal-historical event. Christians will insist, indeed the New Testament itself makes the claim, that Jesus was literally our Passover sacrifice. Let us all remember in the book of John that the Roman soldiers pierced Jesus's side. In so doing he was a blemished sacrifice and disqualified as an acceptable sacrifice according to the Laws of sacrifice. Here we are told that they did not break his legs because this would violate the rules of the proper Passover sacrifice (Matthew 27:26, Mark 15:19, and John 19:3). The legs of the crucified were sometimes broken to hasten death. It was necessary that crucifixion victims must prop themselves up using their legs in order to facilitate breathing. This could prolong death for days at times. The legs were broken so that proper breathing could be prevented, and the lungs crushed the diaphragm and breathing was extremely difficult.

"But coming to Jesus' when they saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs...in order that the Scripture might be fulfilled: Not a bone of him shall be broken." (John 19:33-36)

The gospel of John portrays Jesus as the Passover lamb which was not supposed to have any of its bones broken (cf. Exodus 12:46, Numbers 9:12). If Christians insist that Jesus was the literal Passover sacrifice, and his blood atoned for our sins, then Jesus, as that sacrifice, was subject to the literal guidelines set by the Law of Moses given by the God of Israel governing an acceptable sacrifice. Christians always seem to want to have it both ways. The New Testament itself proposes that Jesus was a literal acceptable sacrifice. When confronted with the clear Biblical instructions on how acceptable sacrifices were to be offered, however, they will complain that this is just legalistic nit picking.

Answer for yourself: If Jesus was the final sacrifice, why did the James, Paul, and the Jerusalem Church command that Paul undertake the Nazarite Vow that required sin and blood atonement offerings? Even more so why is the sacrificial system returning according to the Prophets in the Hebrew Scriptures?

The New Testament is clear that the animal sacrificial system never could atone for sin in any permanent way, and indeed the entire purpose of the animal sacrificial system was, in the language of the Book of Hebrews, foreshadowing Jesus' death on the cross. Hebrews 10:4 insists that the animal sacrificial system had no lasting value. "For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and goats could take away sins."

Answer for yourself: Why was the above statement necessary for the writer of the Book of Hebrews?

Simply because if the animal sacrifices really worked, why was Jesus' death necessary? It should have been sufficient to keep bringing animal offerings. The New Testament therefore repeatedly declares that Jesus was the final sacrifice for all time (Romans 6:10; Hebrews 9:12; 10:10; 10:18), and there would no longer be any future need for the return of the animal sacrificial system. This doctrine, however, completely contradicts the words of the prophets who clearly foretold that the animal sacrificial system would return in the messianic age. Jeremiah 33:17-18; Zechariah 14:21; Ezekiel 43-44 all teach us that the Sacrifices will return to the rebuilt Temple in the Messianic age. Missionaries often try to explain this problem away by claiming that the reason animal sacrifices will return is to point back to Jesus. This response, however, is a rationalization that is not even used in the New Testament, and thoroughly contradicts the statements in Romans and Hebrews. that Jesus' sacrifice was the "final sacrifice" for sin. It does not appear to be that at all having seen these articles and the facts that they reveal to the reader.

You may wonder why I present this this type of material to you, our readers. Simply, because I discovered upon my personal study these serious Spiritual deceptions over the early years of my Pastorate. In looking for a "Jewish Jesus" I turned to Judaism for answers since not finding one in Christianity. There, when studying Judaism intently I discovered not only these textual forgeries in our Christian Bibles when compared to the older Hebrew Scriptures but the unbelievable reinterpretation of almost all Spiritual Doctrines that existed in Biblical Judaism. Later as my studies would advance after my resignation as a Pastor I would discover the venerable links between the Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the ancient religions with Biblical Judaism. These "unaltered Spiritual dogmas" concerning the Souls of mankind basically remained unchanged up until the rise of Roman Orthodoxy in the 2nd through the 5th century when allegorical Spiritual and Divine Truths that had remained unchanged for thousands of years were "literalized and historicize" and altered almost beyond belief and recognition. This is what we inherited from Rome as you are seeing in these articles. I was so moved by what I uncovered over those years that God led me to create Bet Emet in order to warn and share this knowledge with other brothers and sisters desiring the truth about our "Jesus Story". I do so in hopes that they might learn as well the truth behind the New Testament and repent thereby accepting the true "unity of the faith" given to all mankind which Rome so altered to be almost unrecognizable today without great effort exerted on your part to find such Divine Truths. Such Divine Truths when incorporated in our religious beliefs and lives honors God and guarantees our acceptance when we die. More to follow. Shalom.

Let us continue our studies into the Sacrificial System and the death of Jesus.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #7

WHY WAS JESUS PATTERNED AFTER THE PASSOVER SACRIFICE...SHOULD IT NOT HAVE BEEN AFTER YOM KIPPUR?

It really does not make sense to type Jesus as the Passover sacrifice in the New Testament. Atonement was never connected with the Passover. Doing so shows that the writers of these texts knew little about Biblical Judaism let alone the Biblical Feasts or again how the Sacrificial System actually functioned.

We know from Exodus 12 that the Passover sacrifice did not serve as atonement for sins, it merely commemorates the exodus from Egypt. Even when the lamb was slaughtered in Egypt and its' blood smeared on the door-posts, the blood did not serve to atone for the sins of anyone. The blood smeared on the doorposts of their homes was but a symbol of their faith and was the sign for the angel of death to pass over Israelite homes during the death of the first born. The only people in danger were first-born males, not first born girls let alone older brothers in the same family. This blood, even it has been an atonement of some sorts did not apply for everyone. This blood wasn't a help to other people in the family, and didn't serve as an atonement for the first born or save the mothers or sisters of any family. To try to equate the death of Jesus and his death and sacrifice for the sins of the world evidently let a lot of people "unsaved" if we make Jesus be an accurate "type and shadow" as Christianity teaches. But few study this deep, they are emotionally swayed by pronouncements from the pulpit. It sounds so good and this false assurance that condones any behavior in the name of Jesus satisfies their fears of a lasting hell. Better for them if they had studied at home for truth is often elusive in the Christian Church today which follows "tradition" more than they study their own Scriptures let alone the Hebrew Scriptures. Preaching has always been a poor substitute for "study"; study being the highest form of worship in Biblical Judaism and one of the gifts of the Holy Spirit to the flock of God. Look at you will, you will never find "preaching" as a gift of the Holy Spirit. Once you are taught correctly then you, the congregation, becomes the "proclaimers" and the "preachers". Only in these last 100 years or so has clergy taken salaries to do the job of the congregation. In so doing "serious teaching of the Word of God", a gift from God, has almost vanished from our Churches. The fruit of such a tragic loss of the operation of the Holy Spirit among us speaks for itself.

It would have made much more sense to type Jesus after the Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement) sacrifice, which actually was part of the atonement service for the sins of all the people. But there is a major theological problem connecting the Yom Kippur sacrifice with the death of Jesus as an atonement for sin. Before we "hit the nail on the head" understand that the study of Biblical Judaism is not only enlightening for the Christian but delivers one from incorrect damnable theology we inherited by Rome. You will never know Spiritual Truth and freedom from fear or ignorance until you begin to worship God in the highest way ever given mankind; that way is the study of His word. Only in so doing will you ever break free for erroneous Spiritual traditions like the one we approach next.

Answer for yourself: So, what is the problem connecting Jesus' death to the Yom Kippur atoning sacrificial lamb?

The problem here was that according to Leviticus 16:10, 21-22, the animal that atoned for the sins of the nation was NEVER killed but always sent out alive into the desert! (THINK)...it was not killed...it lived...; just as we saw earlier in the previous articles and even in the Isaiah 53 studies...."life" atones..not death!

Because as Christians, since we are reared on "preaching" and not "study" we are not thoroughly familiar with anything except what we have heard preached from pulpits that comes more from tradition than hard-noses exegesis of Biblical texts. We as Christians are basically ignorant of Biblical Judaism, the corruptions of the Hebrew Scriptures when traced through the later Greek, Latin, and English translations, the dynamics and true workings of the Sacrificial System, basically ignorant of Gnosticism, Comparative Religions, Astronomy, ancient Egyptian Religion, etc. This assures us that we are not equipped to tell "fiction" from "truth" when we hear it.

The Yom Kippur lamb that carried the "guilt" and "symbolic sin" of the nation into the wilderness was never killed. To equate this to the death of Jesus as some form of atoning "death" is completely nonsensical! But few know this since having never studied Judaism and the Biblical Feasts in the both the Hebrew Bible, which are given and commanded of both Jew and non-Jew. Not knowing this then we are content to follow the Constantinian Roman Calendar of the Church which completely replaced God's Holy Days. Few ever stop to look up word in the New Testament in their original Greek; had you done so you would have found like myself following Seminary that both Jews and non-Jews kept the Biblical Festivals in the New Testament. It is hidden in the Greek; totally absent in the English. You have found like me that the word "pascha", or "Passover", is used 29 times in the New Testament. In 28 of these times the word "pascha" is translated correctly, as "Passover". Funny, that when we come to the Books of Acts, 12:4, we find that this same word "pascha" which has been translated 27 times as "Passover" now becomes "Easter".

Answer for yourself: Is Easter the same as Passover? No way. Just ask a Jew or a Rabbi, or better yet see what God has to say about it in His Hebrew Scriptures. Understand Rome could not have the early Gentile church observing Passover; although they did for centuries until the Roman repression and persecutions finally stamped out the last of the Jewish Roots of the Gentile Church at the point of swords and shed blood. Here before us is but another "purposeful mistranslation" of the Hebrew words in our Bibles that turns the reader away from the Divine Truths of the Soul in the ancient Spiritual Wisdom and are blessed today to find these same Divine Truths of the Soul in Biblical Judaism which are completely lacking in Roman Christianity. We have to come to Rome in the 2nd through the 5th century to find this "radical reinterpretation" of almost all of the ancient Divine Wisdom of the Soul and the total mutation and alteration of the Divine Concept of "the Krst/Karest/Christ".

Not aware of the Spiritual dynamics of these Holy Days, sacred days that teach upon the progressive Spiritual evolution of all Souls, we as Christians grow up following Rome's incorrect "Jesus" interpretation of these days; never knowing how far we have fallen from Divine Truth. We live our whole lives accepting a false atonement for our Souls by accepting this "Jesus Story" that Rome crafted; never working out our Soul's salvation through a life devoted to repentance, confession of sin, prayer, righteous works and deeds like almsgiving instead of robbing God by giving our tithes to the Church who uses these funds anyway they please instead of the ONLY ways God commanded it be used in the Hebrew Scriptures.

Now the followers of Jesus had another problem. According to the prophecies of ancient Israel, the Messiah was not supposed to die before completing His mission. The followers of Jesus, who much later claimed through the oral tradition that he was Israel's Messiah, now had to deal with Jesus' embarrassing supposed death at the hands of the Romans. So they correlated him with the slain Passover sacrifice. This tap dance around the scriptures to try and legitimize Jesus as the Messiah cannot negate the clear lesson from Leviticus and the Day of Atonement that the shedding of blood is not a pre-requisite for atonement.

CAN YESHUA OR ANY OTHER PERSON ATONE FOR YOUR SINS?

Answer for yourself: Where did this idea originate that one man, or that anyone for that matter, could atone and pay for the sins of one or more people?

Maybe you don't know or have never read on this subject. Many don't and have not done adequate study to know the answer. Others have. It should be perfectly clear to you, if you have ever looked into the subject, that such notions stem from the Babylonian mystery religion of ancient Mesopotamia. The Greeks and Romans, as well as their ancestors, had multiple legends whereby heroes died for followers, cities, friends, for the law, for the truth, etc. But what many writers fail to tell you is that in all of these "myths" that such "dying and rising" gods and goddesses were NEVER LITERAL!

Answer for yourself: So what did these dying and rising gods and goddesses actually mean? This is pretty far advanced for this study but here goes. We find that these "dying", "rising" and "atoning gods and goddesses" were first of all always a Spiritual allegory, metaphor, cipher, or symbol. They were never to be understood as "literal" people. They were ALL symbols for the Descent of the Soul and the Krst, Karest/Christ into "material manifestation". In other words symbolic of the "incarnation into humanity". From beginning to end we find this Spiritual Concept unaltered from nation to nation; from ancient Egypt 10,000 years B.C.E. through the Greek philosophers like Plato, Proclus, Plotinus, Iambilicus, etc. This "death" suffered by these Divine Entities and "Living Energies" which fell into "matter" and "flesh" did to to experience "life" and "Spiritual evolution" necessary in their Heavenly development say the ancients. That is where we find incarnation of the Soul, a Metaphysical concept expressed by the ancients in symbols, pictures, myths, legend, etc. But more than that the Soul, fallen to its "death" and "grace" in Amenta, or "hell", this fleshly body, was doomed to remain "dead" to Spiritual reality due to the power of "matter" and "flesh". But if "awakened" from the "death of incarnational existence" then the Soul could work out its Earthly mission and salvation. But needing help he needed a "Bishop for his Soul" that God supplied in the "falling" and "dying Divine Mind" which comes to "seek and save the lost". Here we find the "incarnation of the Christ" which comes to live "within mankind" to elevate the Soul over the deadening animal nature. These "falls" into "material incarnation" was defined by some as "sin" but a more true understanding is "darkened matter" which was the grave for the Soul; a grave from which is must arise and "awaken from the dead" as the Gnostic Paul admonishes. So in all of this the "atonement" for the Soul comes through the sacrifice of the Krst/Karest/Christ "falling from Heaven" to seek and save the Soul through his "teaching and instruction" during the life of Soul which was "trapped in matter during its Earthly incarnation". Such a fall of the Divine Mind, or Christ to save the Soul, was called by the ancients, believe you me, the "crucifixion of the Krst/Karest/Christ" on the "cross of matter". This "death" of the Christ is is incarnation as was the Soul. Thus we read that "we are crucified with Christ" in our texts, never realizing that none of this was ever "literal" or "confined to but one person" but applied to the whole of humanity. This fall of the Christ into "humanity" and "matter" was likened to "death" by the ancient Spiritual masters for thousands of years. This Christ, this Divine Mind, wilfully took upon himself the "death of matter" and in so doing provided Divine Truth for the Soul, deadened as well in "matter", whereby he could "awaken from the dead" and live a life in truth and knowledge whereby he could be the atonement for any wrong doing while in Earthly incarnation. All of this is Metaphysical allegory taught since the beginning of time; Rome will come and not only "literalize this same Divine Spiritual Wisdom" and horribly limit it to but one person, this "reinvention" and "mutation of the Christ". If you think I am not telling you the Divine Truth here then boy do I have some books for you to read whereby you can see this "mutation" and "radical reinterpretation" of God's Divine Spiritual Wisdom step by step at the hands of Rome. This is fact which can be demonstrable to anyone who inquires.

What is certain is that the idea that an innocent person can be killed instead of those who are guilty is not consistent with what the Hebrew Scriptures teach. After the sin of the Golden Calf, YHWH was so outraged that His intentions were to totally annihilate and destroy the Israelite people. Moses offers to die in their place as a "substitutionary sacrifice". Notice God's response to Moses suggestion:

"Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin...; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written. And [YHWH] said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." (Exodus 32:32-33). As great a man as Moses and his life could not be accepted for the sins of the wicked. But yet we are told that the God who changes not decided to do just that! Something is wrong with our Christian theology, but never knowing Biblical Judaism and the dynamics of the Sacrificial System we are prey for the slaughter of our minds and Souls by pernicious and pestilent error masqueraded as Divine oracles Sunday after Sunday. And nobody knows any different in the pews.

Throughout the Hebrew Scriptures YHWH says that one person cannot die for the sins of another:

"Fathers shall not be put to death for their sons, nor shall sons be put to death for their fathers; everyone shall be put to death for his own sin" (Deuteronomy 24:16)

"But everyone will die for his own sin; each man who eats sour grapes, his teeth will be set on edge" (Jeremiah 31:30)

"The person who sins will die. The son will not bear the punishment for the father's iniquity, nor will the father bear the punishment for the son's iniquity; the righteousness of the righteous will be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked will be upon himself" (Ezekiel 18:20)

"He who justifies the wicked, and he who condemns the righteous, both of them are an abomination to the Lord" (Proverbs 17:15).

"No man [Jesus included] can by any means redeem his brother, or give to 'God' a ransom for him" (Psalms 49:7)

Answer for yourself: If no "jot" or "title" is to be changed in God's Holy Word, then how do we accept this New Testament which is full of contradictory theology concerning the death of Jesus as an atonement not only for the righteous but the wicked as well?

Unlike the Greek Testament in the Christian Bible, the Holy Scriptures of the One True Creator of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob clearly teach that we are responsible for our own actions and sins. We alone must give an account and pay the price. God does not change! No allegorical virgin born savior deity from Babylonian mythology, or any other for that matter, can later be "literalized" in order to contradict the clear instructions of the God of Israel.

Answer for yourself: Why are there two theologies concerning atonement in your Bible; one in the Old Testament by the God of Israel who says He changes not, and then the Romanized Pauline corpus of material in the New Testament that contradicts it by paralleling an incorrect understanding of the ancient Divine mystery religions? This two conflicting atonement messages is very evident when the Old Testament is compared with the New Testament, and if you say you never saw it dear one you never looked deep enough for it is there!

NOW FOR THE REALLY BIG QUESTION

Here is a question that Christian ministers have danced around for two thousand years, but have never truthfully answered. This question bothered me all the years I pastored.

Answer for yourself: If indeed Jesus came as the final sacrifice to atone for the sins of the world, why do The Holy Scriptures proclaim that the Third Temple will be built and sacrifices resumed during the Messianic era?

The vast majority of average Christians are completely ignorant of these prophecies, as they have been cleverly hidden by their ministers. Notice the clear teachings of The Holy Scriptures regarding this:

- "Even those I will bring to My holy mountain, and make them joyful in My house of prayer. Their burnt offerings and their sacrifices will be acceptable on My altar; for My house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples." (Isaiah 56:7)
- "From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia My worshipers, My dispersed ones will bring My offerings." (Zephaniah 3:10)
- "All the flocks of Kedar will be gathered together to you, the rams of Nebaioth will minister to you; they will go up with acceptance on My altar, and I shall glorify My glorious house." (Isaiah 60:7)
- "And I will make a covenant of peace with them; it will be an everlasting covenant with them. And I will place them and multiply them, and will set My sanctuary in their midst forever." (Ezekiel 37:26)
- "And He will sit as a smelter and purifier of silver, and He will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, so that they may present to [YHWH] offerings in righteousness. Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will be pleasant to [YHWH], as in the days of old and as in former years." (Malachi 3:3-4)
- (Ezekiel 45:17) "And it shall be the princes part to provide the burnt offerings, the grain offerings, and the libations...to make the atonement for the house of Israel."

Answer for yourself: If Jesus' death is the final sin sacrifice and blood offering to be accepted by God did somebody fail to tell Him or His prophets?

LET THERE BE NO DOUBT

Apparently, dear reader, Jesus' sacrifice did not make any atonement for the sins of all the world. If the death of Jesus had atoned for all sins for all time, why will atonement be required during the messianic era?

Answer for yourself: Having seen all of this in these articles how do you answer the true words of Israel's God? Mr. Christian minister, how do you? These questions caused me to study like I never had in my life to find the answers to these troubling questions; questions that I had never thought to ask nor my Pastor. Only in my studies of Judaism, while looking for a Jewish Jesus, did I run across such information that has eluded me my whole life as a Christian. As you are becoming painfully aware the root of our whole theological dilemma and problem lies in the difference between the Hebrew Scriptures and their later "radical reinterpretation" of them by Rome. It appears to the student and "think-believer" that the Hebrew Scriptures contain the Divine authority; our altered Christian texts do not! As a Christian Pastor I came to realize after about 5 years of serious study following Seminary that the New Testament was little more than a propagandist Roman "replacement" document full of anti-Semitic ideas and teachings. Considering all the New Testament Greek manuscripts available today totaling a little less than 6000 pieces, there are over 300,000 contradictions among these 6000 or so texts and no two are "identical" or "read the same". Surely God, if behind this New Testament could do better. When you compare this with the exactness of the Hebrew copyist then the New Testament is a joke. As if that was not enough, my heart broke within me when I discovered beyond any doubt that my KJV Old Testament was a purposefully falsified and altered translation of the prior Jewish Masoretic text. My Old Testament came to recognized through such serious study in Judaism that it had been "doctored" and "adulterated" in "key" theological positions in order to create and lay the foundation and authority for a "new religion"; a Replacement Religion. I felt no better at all when my New Testament was found to contain the same alteration and forgeries as did my KJV Old Testament. It took over five years of serious study to substantiate these Scriptural discrepancies beyond any doubt and were a major factor in my resignation from my Pastorate. I was an ordained Pastor of an apostate faith. Such shame no man can know. I had believed "the" lie and the "very elect" was deceived. I was a member in high standing of an apostate faith and a man of "unclean lips" as described by Isaiah. I, like most Christians, had accepted everything on "faith" never questioning anything. I was gullible for the LORD until YHWH put in my heart and head the desire to study out the conflicting errors of my Christian theology which surfaced during my 3 years in Seminary. I "awoke" in Seminary. The fruit of my studies I lay before you as a gift from God and as a love offering in hopes your hunger for truth is greater than you commitment to tradition.

YHWH AND MERCY

The Christian claim that only through bloodshed can atonement be made show that Christians are unfamiliar with the compassion and mercy of the Holy One of Israel. Sometimes, God forgives us simply because He is kind, loving, compassionate and merciful. Even when we don't seek our LORD appropriately, He has the ability to reach out to us with love and forgive us:

"Who is a [Elohiym] like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not His anger for ever, because He delighteth in mercy." (Micah 7:18)

"Their heart was not steadfast toward Him, nor were they faithful in His covenant. But He, being compassionate, forgave their iniquity...remembering that they were but flesh." (Psalms 78:36-39)

"You have not brought Me the sheep of your burnt offerings...or the fat of your sacrifices, but you have burdened Me with your sins...Nevertheless, I will wipe out your transgressions for My own sake, and I will not remember your sins." (Isaiah 43:23-25)

Truly, truly the Holy one of Israel is a just and merciful Creator not desiring the death of the wicked; rather their repentance.

WHAT DO THE PROPHETS HAVE TO SAY?

Answer for yourself: If the Christian claim that one must be covered by the shed blood of the Messiah in order to make atonement for his sins is valid, why can this claim not be validated by the writings of the prophets?

Time and time again, the writings of the prophets emphasize prayer and repentance as the method to atone for sins. I challenge any Christian to produce a Scripture from Unaltered Holy Hebrew Scriptures (the Old Testament used by the Jewish people of Israel and Babylon) that teaches us that we must believe in the atoning blood of a Messiah in order to obtain salvation [amazingly, even the Christian Bible does not say it]. What the prophets teach us is that our own obedience to the laws of Israel's God combined with sincere repentance and prayer for forgiveness will atone for sin if done with the proper attitude of humility.

- "That every man will turn from his evil way, then I will forgive their iniquity and their sin." (Jeremiah 36:3)
- "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return to [YHWH], and He will have compassion on him; and to our [Elohiym]. for He will abundantly pardon." (Isaiah 55:7)
- "And if My people who are called by My name humble themselves and pray, and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." (II Chronicles 7:14).
- "But if the wicked man turns from all his sins which he has committed and observes all My statutes and practices justice and righteousness, he shall surely live; he shall not die. All his transgressions which he has committed will not be remembered against him; because of the righteousness which he has practiced he shall live...When a wicked man turns away from his wickedness which he has committed and practices justice and righteousness, he will save his life...Repent and turn away from all your transgressions, so that iniquity may not become a stumbling block to you (Ezekiel 18:21- 22,27,30).

- "By loving kindness and truth iniquity is atoned for..." (Proverbs 16:6).
- "If you return to [Elohiym] you will be restored; if you remove unrighteousness far from your tent...then you will delight in [Elohiym]..." (Job 22:23-27).

Clearly, the central teaching of the Hebrew Holy Scriptures is that we must break away from our sinful past and sincerely repent. This is the only way to restore our relationship with the Holy One of Israel. If one strays from the path set forth by the Laws of our God, one must repent and return to the path. This is how forgiveness is obtained. Even when sacrifices were offered, they in and of themselves did not procure atonement; they were only symbolic of the Spiritual condition of the sacrificer's Soul "at-that-moment". You now have seen that in the first articles in this series. The sacrifice was part of the process but only a "picture" of the sacrificer after his repentance.

Answer for yourself: What is repentance? Returning to God by forsaking our evil ways and praying for forgiveness. The prophets were constantly correcting the Israelite people for relying on blood sacrifices as the essential element of atonement instead of or without repentance and obedience to God's ETERNAL's Laws:

- "What are your multiplied sacrifices to Me? says [YHWH]. I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed cattle. And I take no pleasure in the blood of bulls, lambs, or goats...Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean; remove the evil of your deeds from My sight. Cease to do evil, learn to do good; seek justice, reprove the ruthless , defend the orphan, plead for the widow. Come let us reason together says [YHWH], 'Though your sins are as scarlet, they will be white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they will be like wool, if you consent and obey..."(Isaiah 1:11-18).
- "The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord." (Proverbs 15:8).
- "To do righteousness and justice is more acceptable to [YHWH] than sacrifice." (Proverbs 21:3)
- "For I delight in loyalty rather than sacrifice, and in the knowledge of [Elohiym] rather than burnt offerings." (Hosea 6:6).
- "Has [YHWH] as great a delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken more than the fat of rams." (I Samuel 15:22)
- "With what shall I come to [YHWH], and bow myself before the [Elohiym] on high? Shall I come to Him with burnt offerings, with yearling calves? Does [YHWH] take delight in thousands of rams, in ten thousand rivers of oil? Shall I present my firstborn for my rebellious acts, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does [YHWH] require of you but to do justice, to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God" (Micah 6:6-8)

Answer for yourself: Do you now begin to see what the very wise king Solomon was trying to explain in 1 Kings 8, when he said that even though the Israelite people may not always have access to the sacrifices and the Priesthood, yet they would always have access to the Holy One of Israel and an atonement for their Soul?

Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived, understood that repentance and not blood is the Scriptural form of atonement.

Answer for yourself: Remember the story of Jonah?

He was sent to the evil city of Nineveh {non-Jews) to warn them of their impending destruction. Jonah does not come into the city and tell the people that unless they begin offering sacrifices they are doomed. He does not tell them that unless they accept on faith that the shed blood of Israel's Messiah will atone for their sins they are lost. No! He warns them to repent. Their response to his warnings is: they fast, pray, and turn from their evil.

Answer for yourself: What is YHWH's response to their repentance?

"When [Elohiym] saw their deeds that they turned from their wicked way, then [Elohiym] relented concerning the calamity which He had declared He would bring upon them, and He did not do it." (Jonah 3:10).

EVEN NEBUCHADNEZZAR IS TOLD HOW TO ATONE FOR HIS SINS….VERY INTERESTING....

"Therefore, O king, may my advice be pleasing to you: Redeem your sins by doing righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the poor." (Daniel 4:27).

THE POWER OF PRAYER FOR ATONEMENT

After the ten northern tribes split away from Judah, a civil war prevented most of Israel from Temple worship. The prophet Hosea addressed this situation and instructed the people accordingly:

"Return, O Israel, to [YHWH] your God, For you have stumbled because of your iniquity. Take words with you and return to [YHWH]. Say to Him, 'Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously, for we will render as bullocks the offerings of our lips'." (Hosea 14:1-2)

We are able to approach our god directly with prayer, which is possible at all times and regardless of the size of our bank accounts; and He assures us that sincere prayer can achieve forgiveness for our sins:

- "Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O [YHWH], the [Elohiym] of my salvation. And my tongue shall sing aloud of Your righteousness. O [YHWH], open my lips, and my mouth shall show forth Your praise. For You do not delight in burnt offerings. The sacrifices of [Elohiym] are a broken spirit, a broken and contrite heart. These, O [Elohiym], You will not despise." (Psalms 51:14-17)"
- "I will praise the name of [Elohiym] with a song, and will magnify Him with thanksgiving. This shall please [YHWH] better than an ox or bullock that has horns and hoofs." (Psalm 69:30-31)
- "For You, [YHWH], are good, and ready to forgive, and abundant in loving kindness to all who call upon You. Give ear, O [YHWH] to my prayer, and give heed to the voice of my supplications." (Psalm 86:5-6)
- "And listen to the supplications of Your servant and of Your people Israel, when they pray toward this place; hear from heaven Your dwelling place, hear and forgive." (II Chronicles 6:21)

The Holy Scriptures of Israel are very clear. Prayer, a humble attitude, and above all, sincere heartfelt repentance is what the Holy One of Israel requires of His people in order to atone for sins. No doubt He knew thousands of years in advance that there would come a time when some would wrongly rely on the blood of a deified human sacrifice to vicariously replace obedience to His laws. It is evident to anyone with eyes to see that a comparison between The Holy Scriptures of Israel and the Greek mistranslation of them as well as the later corrupted New Testament texts taken from them will reveal two entirely different religions. One is dedicated to the One True God of Israel; the other is dedicated to a "literalized" and falsely "historized" savior as taken from the allegorical Divine Spiritual Wisdom. Rome in "radically reinterpreting" this ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom along with its repetition in Biblical Judaism has caused us all to err who follow Christianity today.

The Jewish people believe that the time will come when Israel's true messiah will usher in an era of peace when all nations will believe in and seek to worship the one true Holy One of Israel of our fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. At that time, the proponents of Christianity will deeply repent of the day when they taught the beloved nation of Israel and the descendants of Abraham to break the first commandment and worship another besides the Holy One of Israel.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #8

"Bet Emet" stands for "truth" as the Hebrew name implies; "House of Truth". Bet Emet has meticulously dug out over these last twenty years this ancient Spiritual Truth from the "religious fiction" and man-made Roman anti-Semitic teachings held sacred today by millions of Christians for over the last 2 millennia. We shave spent much time and research to discover the hidden truths concerning the Sacrificial System and its true relationship to the "Jesus Story" over these last twenty years. Having seen that Rome "radically reinterpreted" not only the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the ancients that existed basically unchanged for thousands and thousands of years, understand that Biblical Judaism was not immune from this same Roman alteration of truth. The Spiritual Truths found in Biblical Judaism has been terribly misrepresented to the world by this Roman mistranslation of the Hebrew Scriptures. We have seen this repeatedly since the first article regarding the misrepresentation of the workings of the Sacrificial System and its purposeful mischaracterization throughout the New Testament as Rome falsified the whole of the Sacrificial System and the obtainment through if of the atonement of one's sin. We have seen repeatedly in instance after instance in the previous article how Divine Truth as related to the Sacrificial System in Biblical Judaism and the obtainment of atonement for the sins of the Soul were transformed by the monks of Rome into a total farce and mockery of such Divine Spiritual Truth.

That being so then what I am going to do next in this article is somewhat dangerous but I want you warn you ahead of time. I am going to make an "assumption" that is totally false. I will make a "false assumption" regarding the death of Jesus, as depicted in the New Testament, for the purpose of teaching another "Divine Truth" truth which will shed even more light upon the truths of Biblical atonement and the workings of the Sacrificial System.

Let us assume that the traditional Christian teaching about Jesus' death being a sacrifice that procured the atonement of the sins of the world was true and correct (although it is not). So we approach what is said next with the erroneous assumption that Jesus' death was an atonement for our sin. Let us see what happens when we approach the Sacrificial System armed with this erroneous "assumption". Now lets proceed.

ATONEMENT FOR BOTH TABLETS OF THE LAW OR ONLY FOR THE FIRST TABLET? THIS WILL SURPRISE YOU!

Answer for yourself: As a Christian, being told your whole life that Jesus' death was an atonement for your sin, then is this "atonement", as seen in Jesus' sacrifice (supposedly a type and shadow of sin offerings), an atonement for all kinds of sin?

Honestly, the answer is "NO"; not all sin, because in the sacrifice of lambs, on Yom Kippur, for instance, the lambs would have only represented the Souls which had repented of sins committed concerning only the First Tablet of the Law and NOT the Second Tablet of the Law.

Wow! I bet you never knew this! We read the New Testament concerning Jesus' death that it is an atonement for the "believer's sins" never knowing that even if it had been in some way that such an atonement would not have applied to all types of sin. The sins of the Second Tablet of the Law were NEVER atoned for through the Sacrificial System; blood sacrifices were NEVER brought for the sins of the Second Tablet of the Law.

Answer for yourself: What are sins concerning the Second Tablet of the Law?

- Thou shalt not murder ("Thou shalt not premeditate murder" is a more accurate translation)
- Thou shalt not commit adultery
- Thou shalt not steal
- Thou shalt not bear false witness
- Thou shalt not covet thy fellow-man's wife, house, or anything that is his.

Now, I don't have the time or space to get into depth concerning these various Laws and Commandments but understand that what is usually understood as the Ten Commandments are not really "ten"; they are "ten categories" in which hundreds of Commandments are grouped under each heading. This becomes very plain to us when we study Judaism and see that under these "ten headings" there are in reality 613 Commandments; 248 positive Commandments and 365 negative Commandments. But for now understand that violations of the Laws and Commandments of God concerning these 5 areas above were NEVER atoned for through the Sacrificial System, intentional or unintentional, and blood sacrifices were never brought in their behalf of these sins. This fact, that is easily uncovered in any half-serious study of Judaism and the Sacrificial System is devastating to our "Jesus Theology" and and belief in Jesus' death being an atonement for the sins of the world! Christians, not knowing this dynamic truth regarding how the Sacrificial System operated, then fall for the lies concerning Jesus and his death for their sin that are contained in our Roman New Testament. We have to look again to repentance, remorse for sin, prayer, restitution to our brothers and sisters for our sins against them, righteous works and almsgiving to find atonement regarding these above sins. But this Spiritual Dynamic of the Soul's atonement for its own sin is not new, it is involved in "ALL" types of atonement, both the First and Second Tablets of the Law as we will see later when looking more closely to the atonement connected to the Second Tablet of the Law. The only difference is that "blood sacrifices" are not brought as a part of one's atonement for atonement connected to the Second Tablet of the Law. The only "blood" that is brought in behalf of atonement concerning the Second Tablet of the Law is yours as Lev. 17:11 has already taught us; it is the "life" in our blood, the Soul in "your" blood that atones for these sins of the Second Tablet of the Law. As we have seen previously, it is the Divine Principle set in place by God that your "life in your blood", your "Soul in your blood" that, according to Leviticus 17:11, atones for sin. It is your "life", your "Soul in your blood", your very life and actions, your repentance, your prayer, your righteous conduct and righteous deeds, and your almsgiving toward the injured party and your fellowman following such sin that atones for your sin according to Biblical Judaism, the Torah and the Prophets, and the Sacrificial System.

This is very important to recognize especially when one makes parallels to Jesus as a "type and shadow" of Old Testament truths regarding atonement. And few Christians have ever studied enough to know this....but the Jews have always known this and this is but another reason why they won't convert and become Christians believing in the death of Jesus for their sins!

You can be a Christian you whole life and go to church your whole life and NEVER know that even when blood sacrifices were brought to the Temple that they only represented the Soul of the sacrificer who had previously repented for unintentional sins ONLY! But now we see that these blood sacrifices only represented the Soul of the sinner which had repented of sins committed against the First Tablet of the Law ONLY; never the Second Tablet of the Law.

Nowhere can we find where the sacrificial blood offerings were ever brought in connection for sins committed against the Second Tablet of the Law; sins committed between man and man.

Answer for yourself: Even if Jesus' death was an atonement for sin, and its not, then if being truthful to the rule of "types and shadows" how is it possible that his death and shed blood atoned as the "Lamb of God" for sins that never were atoned for by any animal sacrifice or blood offering? At best Jesus' death would have only atoned for sins of the First Tablet of the Law, between man and God, and that being so then the sinner stands yet guilty before God for the sins he committed against the Second Tablet of the Law, between man and man. Any such atonement provided by the death of Jesus is "incomplete". The Christian, believing in Jesus' death for his sin, according to Christian theology, is yet on his way to a burning Hell of torment and pain because the atoning death of Jesus did not cover all of his sins! Jesus did not complete the job, being a righteous Jew and would be Messiah I guess he forgot! We need to think people! Again, something is critically and desperately wrong with our "Jesus theology" when it fails to atone for all the sins of the world as it says and so doing misleads billions of people. But few again study enough to see these irregularities; irregularities encountered by me in my serious studies during and after Seminary which were done "outside the box" seeking knowledge about God and my responsibilities to Him as his son. Judaism was a wonderful place to start such a serious inquiry and it is for all our readers as well. Only when you compare the "religion of Jesus" with the "religion created around his supposed identity" created by Rome over the 2nd through the 5th century can you see these terrible untruths spread over the pages of our Christian Bible as given us by Rome.

We hear our whole lives that God had a wonderful plan to restore mankind unto Himself. We hear as Christians that His plan would take away the sins of the whole world. All one would have to do is accept God's free gift of salvation through the shed blood of Jesus. As Christians we hear that the Word "literally" came down to Earth in the form of one man and became flesh-- born of a virgin, lived a sinless life and gave up His own life on the old rugged cross to pay the price for the sins of the world. We hear that this Word is Jesus Christ who shed His own blood for our sins upon the cross. This sounds so great and reassuring, but there is one problem. This wonderful story of the death of the righteous for the wicked is simply not true, never has been, never will be. God does not justify the wicked; their repentance does.

God clearly states "I will not justify the wicked" (Exodus 23:7). That seems to imply that we need to obey the Commandments of God and repent when we break them in order to be justified. Divine justice demands that the righteous person should be justified whereas the wicked should be condemned. It is a miscarriage of justice when lawbreakers are set free and when innocent people are condemned. "He who justifies the wicked, and he who condemns the just, both of them alike are an abomination to the LORD" (Proverbs 17:15). We can be sure that God will deal justly with us. Therefore He declares: "I will not justify the wicked" (Exodus 23:7). Since God is absolutely just, He cannot let the sinner go free.

Answer for yourself: How, then, can God do this very thing, justify the wicked when He has previously said that such a thing "is an abomination" to Him? How can the following passage in the New Testament be true?

"However, to the man who does not work, but trusts God who justifies the wicked, his faith is credited as righteousness." (Romans 4:5 NIV).

Answer for yourself: Don't you think that the "real Paul", being a "Jew of Jews", would have know this or at least the Holy Spirit who moved the "holy ones of old" to pen the Sacred Scriptures of the Jews? Then who is writing such contradictions of Divine Eternal Spiritual Principles?

THINK!

Looking at the Hebrew Scriptures which have "changed not" then we see that this "Romanized Pauline Theology" is a bunch of bunk! But without a through knowledge of the forgery of the Hebrew Scriptures, the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom, Gnosticism, and the ancient Egyptian Religion then the misstatements of Rome concerning the Soul are not easily detected let alone their complete butchery of the "the Christ" which we have inherited. But we as normative and typical Christians never know these things since we know almost nothing of Biblical Judaism, the teachings in the Hebrew Scriptures of the true Messiah, the workings of the Sacrificial System, the corruptions of the Hebrew Scriptures that litter the pages of our Old Testament and New Testament, let alone the complete alteration of the "dogmas and identity of the Krst/Karest/Christ" which we received. We, as typical Christians, know little if anything concerning the truths behind the Sacrificial System and how one actually obtained salvation and atonement before God. As the great Egyptian Religion before them, Biblical Judaism is the vessel that the Divine Creator used to express His Divine Mind and Divine Spiritual Truths to the world. Egypt taught the whole of the known world as we see today. God, through the "Divine Mind" and through His "Christ within us all" expressed and yet today expresses Heavenly and Divine Spiritual Truths to the whole of the world and its Souls. No problem until Rome surfaces in the 2nd century with "Plan B".

Knowing this, that Jesus Christ, according to Christian theology is supposedly a solitary "literal" and "historical" type and shadow of "the Christ", instead of the symbolic personification and representation of the human Soul as he really is, then you can see how a false security in focusing on "blood" and not "repentance" could, and does lead, others to think lightly of sin and in so doing compromise with sin in their lives. Not knowing that such sins of the Second Tablet of the Law are not handled by any blood sacrifices for atonement, let alone any sacrifice that Jesus could have made through his death for others, then we should be alarmed as Christians to know that any such atonement procured by Jesus for us is "lacking" and "incomplete"!

Answer for yourself: What? Is this news to you? Did your pastor ever tell you this? Mine never did! Why not? Who will? When will we ever set under teachers who know the truth about Biblical Judaism and the truth hidden behind Christianity's "radical reinterpretation" of almost everything!

Answer for yourself: Then how are we to get atonement for such sins of the Second Tablet of the Law in our lives if Jesus' supposed sacrifice never covered them nor could ever atone for them? Well, again we must look to Biblical Judaism for the answer.

Rambam writes: "While one should scrutinize one's behavior and repent throughout the year, during the ten days between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur it is especially important to introspect and repent, as the time is more propitious and our repentance is received immediately, as the prophet Isaiah (55:6) teaches: "Seek Hashem when He can be found; call upon Him when He is near" (Laws of Repentance 2:6).

Answer for yourself: Is there a time that God is "nearer" to man than others? Not knowing Judaism, then as a Christian you are not aware that there is such a time and it passes you by year after year. The Doors of Forgiveness are thrown open on one day of the year, a day not known by Christians. Rambam goes on to write: "On Yom Kippur Hashem is closest to man. Moreover, the Sefer HaChinuch (Mitzvah 185) teaches that the institution of Yom Kippur, the day designated for atonement of sins, is a reflection of Hashem's great love and kindness toward His beings; He does not allow man's sins to accumulate, lest they become so numerous that the natural world could not endure. Thus, in His infinite wisdom, to insure the continuity of this world He designated one day of the atonement and forgiveness of sins for those who repent". Teshuvah, repentance is integral to the essence of Yom Kippur. It is here in repentance, fasting, remorse, and brokenness for one's sin once a year God opens the doors of forgiveness for the sins of the Second Tablet of the Law for all mankind!

Answer for yourself: How many times have you observed Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement in your life? Most Christians will tell you that these Biblical Festivals are for the Jews only. Really?

Leviticus 16:29. And [this] shall be a statute for ever unto you: [that] in the seventh month, on the tenth [day] of the month, ye shall afflict your souls, and do no work at all, [whether it be] one of your own country, or a stranger (THIS IS THE NON-JEW...THE FOREIGNER AMONG THE ISRAEL OF GOD) that sojourneth among you:

Here we see from the beginning that God intended all mankind, non-Jew and Jew, to observe the Day of Yom Kippur since both need "forgiveness of sins of both Tablets of the Law".

Answer for yourself: Did God give us, the Gentile, a "way" for atonement of his sins and we not know it as Christians? As Christians and followers of Jesus in Christianity have we failed to understand the Sacrificial System correctly and miss this important message concerning how we, as Souls, are to find atonement for our sins during our Earthly incarnation?

Such Spiritual Truth and knowledge comes only if you study Biblical Judaism, its unaltered Hebrew Scriptures, and the Sacrificial System in detail. If Christians trusting the blood of Jesus for "their sins" only knew the truth; namely, that the atonement provided through the teaching and examples of the Suffering Servant, the nation of Israel, atoned only for unintentional sins of the First Tablet of the Law and not any sins of the Second Tablet of the Law then they would most likely rethink the seriousness of their sin and the easy "believeism" of Christianity would be replaced by their repentance as God intended.

It is a shock to learn as an adult Christian who has trusted the Roman Road of Salvation and Jesus' death for one's sins and their atonement his whole life to realize that such a teaching is totally false. Knowing that there is no atonement in Jesus' death many are fearful and many are often shaken to their very core. But understand what Hosea always knew, Temple or not, God never left the Jewish people nor mankind without an atonement. Knowing that one stands today without atonement before God because you have not been taught the truth of the Sacrificial System let alone the Soul's atonement through repentance by the Christian Church and not lived a life of repentance is a scary thought! Instead of being taught the Divine Truths of Biblical Judaism and the truth about atonement we attend Churches more concerned about teaching that God wants your rich! Thus, now, coming hopefully and finally to the understanding they no one is "under the blood of anyone" for anything, then repentance and the Commandments of God will have a new esteemed value in your life. Since intentional sins and sins of the Second Tablet of the Law never required blood sacrifices, then more important than ever is the fact that our moral responsibility, fear of God, and repentance is a requirement in being co-laborers with God in our own salvation. Now you should better understand the passage which says "work out your own salvation with fear and trembling" (Php: 2:12). As Souls, this is "your" and "my" responsibility; not another's!

If we truly understand the Sacrificial system, and you should by now if you have been reading these articles, then you know that this "literalized" Jesus of Rome's invention, did not die for any atonement for anything let alone for "ALL SINS"! Without the truth and this knowledge of sins and their relationship to the Sacrificial System we as Christians rarely if ever come to the knowledge that blood sacrifices were only brought to the Temple in representation of the Souls who had previously repented and in so doing had already atoned for their unintentional Sins of the First Tablet of the Law (sins between man toward God) before any animal or offering was brought to the Priesthood. Lacking this knowledge that only our repentance provides atonement for the sins of the First Tablet of the Law and that only the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur offers atonement for our sins of the Second Tablet of the Law then we must "awake" as Paul said to this Divine Reality provided for us and do it now! Sadly continuing to accept, in light of all of this knowledge provided by Bet Emet, this false atonement created by Rome around this "Jesus" of their own creation, a Jesus who requires nothing but "faith" and "belief" in religious dogmas created by Rome to contradict the Hebrew Scriptures, one will never have a strong enough deterrent and fear of God to avoid sinning and breaking the Laws involving both "intentional sins" let alone the sins involved in the Second Tablet of the Law (sins between man and man). Most Christians feel that they have a "get out of Hell free card" through a simple belief in this Jesus' death for their sins; sorry it never worked that way and was never intended to work that way where repentance and progressive Spiritual maturity and evolvement of our Soul, ultimately culminating in the Soul obtaining the "stature and fullness of Christ", was to be subsequently thwarted by such an insidious belief as the death of another was the atonement of one's own sins. Thus, understanding the Sacrificial system and the dynamics involved, the more correct interpretation would be "Christ died because of sins." WAIT A MINUTE HERE; WHAT ARE YOU SAYING?

Answer for yourself: How is it that this "Christ died for our sins" when Craig, you have spent 7 articles teaching that no "historical" or "literal" Christ could have ever died for our sins? Now, get ready to meet the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom that Rome corrupted in remanufacturing the ancient Christ and how the ancients understood "atonement" before the Roman "radical reinterpretation" of this Divine Ancient Spiritual Wisdom.

Get ready for the "hidden keys" that begin to unlock our "Jesus Story". I will only present a short summary at this time but in our "Sacred Mysteries Website" we go into this is great and lengthy detail as we unfold the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom concerning "the Krst/Karest/Christ" and his "death on the cross" as taught by the ancients as far back as 10,000 years B.C.E. Please note the ancient Egyptians and later Greek philosophers like Plato, Plotinus, Proclus, etc., were not expressing Divine Concepts concerning some later to be born "Jewish Rabbi" who would be named Jesus; everything in this ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom was about the Soul and only about the Soul and its Krst/Karest/Christ; its descent into "matter", its death when incarnated into this "matter" and flesh (called Amenta, the pit, Sheol, Hades, Hell, purgatory, the Underworld, Netherworld, abyss, etc.), the Soul's struggles and battles with the "darkness of matter" in its attempt to "awaken from the slumber" imposed upon it by the flesh and its lusts and passions, its "resurrection from its grave and death within this body of death, its Spiritual evolution and eventual resurrection while in this body, its ultimate attainment of Spiritual maturity and mastery of this animal body in its Earthly incarnation, and eventual glorification and ascension at the death of this animal body which had served as the vehicle for the Soul's expression and life.

Answer for yourself: Guess what? You just read "the Jesus Story" told some 10,000 years B.C.E. through mystical symbolism, allegory, metaphor, typification, figuration, similitudes, similes, myths, legends, and analogies, and I could go on.

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: But, what does this mean that "Christ died for our sin"? "Craig, are you yet correcting everything you have said so far"? No, not in the least. It is all about "interpretation".

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that we can find today, spread over basically 10,000 years, ancient Divine Spiritual Truths, truths about God and the Soul, from nation to nation, from Sacred Book to Sacred Book, that were expressed basically unchanged? Are you aware that such Spiritual Truths and teachings were preserved over this vast time basically unchanged? Are you aware that these ancient Spiritual Masters protected these Divine Truths by shrouding them in allegories, metaphors, symbols, ciphers, myths, legends, etc.? Are you aware that from ancient Egypt down the corridors of history until the rise of Biblical Judaism these Spiritual Truths kept their integrity and basically were unchanged; that different cultures had only changed symbols unique to their culture to express the exact same identical Spiritual Truths that had been taught in the beginning of time? Are you aware that around 180 A.D. a nation comes along, Rome, and takes all this ancient teachings of God, Krst, and Soul and their incarnation into material existence in the form of God's "internalized Divine Mind", called the "Krst/Karest/Christ", and completely destroys such original intended Spiritual meanings and in its place substitutes a radically different meaning and "literalized and historicized" understanding to the whole of this ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom? Well, it is time to wake up to this very provable reality.

Rome will burn all the libraries of the world to conceal and cover their your monestrous destruction of Divine Truth and their substitution of lies for Spiritual Truths. In a generation or two later few would know or remember the Spiritual Truths of earlier generations, let alone the original meanings to the dogmas which now carried by the hands of Rome new interpretations and meanings.

Without understanding the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom that existed thousands of years before the onslaught of Rome in the 2nd century against existing Divine Spiritual Truth concerning God, Krst and Soul, one cannot understand the New Testament correctly let alone read it through "Metaphysical spectacles" as it was intended and we sadly interpret all we read as if "literal" and "historical" when these ancient stories were written to always be understood Metaphysically, allegorically, and metaphorically concerning God, Christ, and Soul.

Phil 2:6-8 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men (the incarnation of the Divine Mind, or "Krst/Karest/Christ" into "matter" and "human flesh": 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death (this "death" was termed by the ancients as the "fall" and "descent" of the Soul and Krst/Karest/Christ (Divine Mind of God) into material manifestation and flesh", even the death of the cross (this "cross" was the interaction of cosmic Divine Intelligent Living Spirit and Energy when impregnated into "matter" and "material existences" (ie., flesh). (KJV)

Totally agreeing with Philippians 2:6-8, the ancients taught that the Divine Mind of God, in the form of "Krst/Karest/Christ", humbled Himself and "fell" from Heaven and was "crucified on the cross of matter" when incarnated into material manifestation (humanity) in an attempt to "seek and save the lost Souls" who had previously "died the same death" and was "incarnated within animal bodies as well". This is the very core of all cosmology; the study of the Universe in its totality, and by extension, humanity's place in it. This "fall" from Heaven and the Spiritual realm of both Soul and "Christ" into the flesh of humanity was likened as a "death" to both Soul and Christ. From this "descending death from Heaven" into "flesh" we obtain the various allegories throughout the nations expressing this Metaphysical Divine Concept of incarnation of God, the incarnation of Celestial Consciousness and Living Energy in "matter". The ancients called this incarnation of Spirit/Living Energy/Cosmic Consciousness the "death of the gods and goddesses" in the ancient religions. Truly, Paul would say "we (Souls) are crucified with Christ";, a total allegory concerning the crucifixion of Christ as well as the Soul as they both had descended from Heaven into incarnation into animal bodies led by animal instinct, animal natures, lust, and passions of "matter". The Soul and Christ, as Living Spiritual Entities, had come to reside in an animal body in Earthly incarnation; coming into "matter" was their Spiritual death. But statements like this found in the ancient Spiritual Wisdom were never meant to be understood as "physical" or "literal" events or actual "historical" or "literal" deaths. This "death" of the gods and goddesses were but allegorical pictures of the Divine evolving and emanating Himself into various levels of material existences to experience Himself and develop Consciousness of Himself though various material manifestations throughout the Universe. In reality this "fall into matter" or "humanity" by God is termed the "death of the Soul" along with the death of "the Christ" since both share the same descent into material existence. We read Philippians 2:6 above never grasping this understanding since being conditioned and indoctrinated to think that this verse refers to but one sole "literal person" who conveniently Rome has defined for us as a historical Jesus. The ancients saw incarnation as a Divine Cosmic Concept of how the God of the whole Universe came to tabernacle within "flesh"; mankind being the Temple of God's Holy Spirit/Energy. No wonder the true Gnostic Paul states that "Christ is in all of us" according to Col. 1:26-27. Nowhere in this verse is an idea of a lone historical person but a Christ shared by all of us. Along with this the ancients understood the Divine Mind, the Logos, the Christ accompanied the Souls in their descent into "matter" and this Divine Mind was termed by the ancients by the term "Krst/Karest" which today we recognize as "Christ" or "Messiah". Understand this "descent of Divine Mind" into the "limitations of material existence which is resistant to the advance of Divine Energy/Spirit" did so and suffered great loss in the process. This "fall" or "descent" of this Divine Mind was likened by the ancients as a "death" to this "Krst/Karest/Christ" as well as the Soul. This "descent" and "death of the Christ", this Divine Mind and Logos of God, incarnating into the darkness, lawlessness, passions, and lusts of "matter" and "flesh" was a "death" willing accepted by this "Christ" who likewise suffered as did the Soul in its descent as well. The "Krst", in His mission to dwell with and teach the Soul the path for its Spiritual Maturity and freedom from the sin prevalent in Earthly incarnation, accomplished by being the teacher of the Soul its own atonement. The Christ, this still small voice witin us, came to each each of us in order to convict our Soul "of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment" in order to deliver the Soul from the death of this material existence; thereby equipping it for its necessary return to the Father. Not only does the indwelling and internal Christ come to teach the Soul within this animal body to properly atone for his sins while on Earth but teaches the Soul as well as to how to progressively Spiritually mature itself which is its incarnation purpose. Had it not been for God sending Himself as "the Christ", His Divine Mind, Logos, into the likeness of human flesh, then the Soul would have no hope of mastering the animal nature, its passions, and lusts and lawlessness. That being so then the Soul would be resigned to never return to the Father as we see is possible in the Prodigal Son allegory.This "descent of the Krst/Karest/Christ" to seek and save the Soul is not possible unless the Christ comes to live "within each child of god"; never being "literalized" and "historicized" to but one period of human history and limited to but one person which Rome has done. Rome, by forging the Hebrew Scriptures radically reinterpreted the whole of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom concerning God, His Christ and the Soul. What was never "literal", what was never "historical", what was never "limited to but one person", becomes just the opposite at the hands of Rome!

The ancients called the incarnation of God within mankind the "death of god" or the "death of His Krst/Karest/Christ" on the "cross of matter" (the intersection of Divine Spiritual Living Intelligent Energy" with "mother matter" (Mary). What was a Divine Spiritual Allegory and Metaphor expressing the highest Divine science and Divine physics regarding the workings of the Creator in His comos was totally corrupted by Rome during the 2nd through the 5th century. The ancients had the most unbelievable knowledge of the workings of Spirit and "matter" known ever to mankind; only today are we with our high technology only reaffirming what the ancient Egyptians knew so long ago. This Divine working of God and cosmos was better known by the ancients who shrouded this ancient Spiritual Wisdom and mystery in allegory, myth, metaphor, cipher, legend, symbol, etc., than any today. All was well and the integrity of this Divine Spiritual Truth was kept intact and unchanged, from nation to nation, from Sacred Book to Sacred Book, for thousands of years until the rise of Rome which "radically reinterpreted the whole of this Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the Soul" and so crudely "literalized" it and "historicized it" and limited all these Divine Spiritual Concepts to but one person of their clever inventiveness, the historical Jesus of Rome's New Testament. The whole of Christian humanity since then never knows the the truth, that they are "gods in animal bodies" as Plato said.Thus the necessity of repentance for our Souls that enable it to evolve into "the Christ". We never stop to realize the implications of what we read in our Bibles since being trained since children to read everything in this Bible as if "literal" when the truth of the matter is that the ancients were not "literalists" at all; in fact just the opposite. Most of the Bible, both Old and New Testaments is a Divine Spiritual allegory of the Soul, its descent, birth, life, maturation, failures, successes, and eventual Spiritual evolution into Spiritual maturity and ascension back to the Father at the biological death of the body. In fact the Old and New Testament is the Egyptian Religion and the Egyptian Book of the Dead retold! Boy, do we have a lot to "unlearn" and "learn" correctly.

So now you see that had it not been for the descent of "the Christ" and his "death" when "incarnated into fleshly matter", then the Soul would have remained lost in "trespasses and sins", without its savior, "the indwelling "Krst/Karest/Christ".

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

This descent of the Christ was allegorically described by the ancient and His sufferings related to the limitations imposed upon Him where previously in Heaven He experienced previously lived an unlimited and unrestrained existence as God's "Divine Mind". Now, fallen to His death in humanity, He found Himself bound in the grave of "matter" and "flesh". This descent, fall, suffering, and limitation self-imposed by the Christ upon Himself, is the allegorical death of Christ on the cross of "matte" and "flesh" which Rome will later reinterpret as a "literal" and "historical death" of one man for the sins of the world; the efficacy of which can only to people through the doors of the Catholic Church per their creation! How convenient! Truthfully, however, there would have been no salvation for the Soul in its Earthly incarnation had not God not come to tabernacle within each of His children as "the Christ". So, in effect, "Christ had to incarnate", fall to His death, intersecting Heaven (Spirit) and Earth ("matter"), making this "crossing of between two different levels of existence, this "cross" in the Heavens (Heaven/Earth), in order to save the Soul from its sins while in Earthly incarnation and manifestation. Only in this way did "the Christ die on the cross"! Never was this intended by any ancients to be a "literal" event; let alone an event that provided a "substitutionary atonement"! The only atonement that ever ensured because of this "death of the Christ" within mankind is that of the Soul which" had ears to hear and eyes to see" the message of the Christ concerning the way of repentance of the Soul).

Answer for yourself: What is the first word uttered by "the Christ" in our New Testament?

Matt 4:17 17 From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. (KJV)

If you paid attention, this is the same message of the Sacrificial System intended for the Soul. This "death of the Soul and Christ" in incarnation was not only understood correctly by the ancients but we see this in our New Testament as well once we possess the "keys" necessary to recognize it. This is why not only Jesus, as the symbolic representation of "the Christ" within us all, was wrapped in burial and swaddling clothes when he was first born into the flesh. When the "Christ came to Earth" is was to die, his incarnation was "his death". In reality, it is not "the Christ" who died, it is our Souls' Spiritual Sensitivity to the indwelling Christ within us which is dead, needing a resurrection while we yet live, a "second birth" (being born again). This is the very same thing we see in the ancient Egyptian Religion just like other symbolic representations of Heavenly Living Energies like Osiris and Ptah who were likewise wrapped in "while mummy shrouds" when incarnated within mankind; this is the "Divine Pattern" reproduced over and over in the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom and which we find repeated in our "Jesus Story". Divine Life living within "matter" and material existences (flesh for example) limits the Divine Soul and its Spiritual sensitivity to the Divine Mind while living in material incarnation. All of this symbolism and "keys" to correctly interpreting this allegory in our "Jesus Story" and our New Testament comes in-depth later when we get to the study of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom, our last website at Bet Emet!

But one more thing needs to be said. The True Christ is only found within. His life, distorted as it is today on the pages of our New Testament, can yet serve as a great object lesson. His own life course revealed the path a Soul must pursue in order to attain full realization of the Christ Consciousness. First comes our resurrection from the deadness of our Soul as imposed upon it by the passions, lusts, and carnality of the animal body who lives by instinct and not Spiritual Laws. The Soul needs a "New Birth", where there is an awakening of the Soul to a higher consciousness; something so radically different from former experiences that we call it the awakening of the Christ Within, as though the Christ has been asleep. But the real fact of the matter is that it is we, as Souls, who have been asleep as to the Christ within.

Eph 5:14-15 14 Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. 15 See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, (KJV)

To our human consciousness, the Christ was asleep, and yet the Eternal Christ never sleeps. Mark 4:38 reads: "He was asleep in the hinder parts of the ship". This is a parallel case, given to show our own consciousness to the Christ within us all, who transforms our lives and consciousnesses when we awaken to the realization of the Christ presence within us, the Bishop of our Souls. As Souls, we have been asleep in the sense-consciousness, asleep as to our Real Being as Divine Entities and Souls fallen from Heaven! Thus the admonition of the Gnostic Paul to awaken to the Christ that only lives within, not without as Rome would have you believe.

Answer for yourself: And for what purpose are we to awake? Speaking to people who were already "alive" yet we find Paul considering them "dead men walking" as did the ancient Spiritual Wisdom that Rome tried to obliterate from the face of the Earth. And why do we need to awake? In order as Souls to "walk circumspectly" while in this Earthly incarnation and this only comes when we experience our personal resurrection from the death while we yet live, not after the death of the body as Rome will alter the concept. As progressing and evolving Souls, not attained to the stature and fullness of Christ, we at times mess up an sin. Given to us as our means of atonement is not the "blood of another" and some "easy believeism"; rather God gave us "repentance" and the Sacrificial System teaches this Divine Concept in detail; it is all about our Soul as our life, not red blood cells.

The Soul is the student of the Christ within and must be reinstructed, reinstructed by Spiritual Truth until he advances to the stature of Christ. It is through the wilderness of trial and proving, like in the "Jesus Story", that our Souls reach the consciousness that we are "a Son of God". This the the job of both indwelling Christ and Soul as "co-laborers" in the Soul's salvation and atonement while in this Earthly life.

Before we move on many will be amazed to know that in our Bibles is abundant references to this Divine Sacred Wisdom; only it goes unrecognized or falsely interpreted as if "literal" when these same stories were for thousands of years only interpreted allegorically or metaphorically by the ancient Spiritual Masters. Here again, in summary fashion, is what we have described above:

Phil 2:5-8 5 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men (incarnation into humanity and not one person): 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross (this cross is the crucifixion in the Heavens, involving Spiritual Living Energy impregnating virginous void called "matter) (KJV)

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (incarnation into humanity and not one person (KJV)

Had we been taught this Divine ancient Spiritual Wisdom and the twenty or so Divine Myths of the Descent of the Soul and "Krst/Karest/Christ" in the allegorical stories the "dying and rising" gods and goddesses of the ancient nations who descended into "deadened matter" and "humanity", only to later ascend as "Spiritual Mature Souls" to the Father, then we would have no problem reading the New Testament for the very first time and recognizing the Divine Truths of the Soul being told through the "Jesus Story". Knowing this ancient Spiritual Wisdom and its proper interpretation before hand we would have no problem recognizing the Divine Truths behind the Sacrificial System and spotting the Roman lie about the "blood of Christ/Jesus" and his supposed "death" as an atonment for our sins. Had we been taught this Divine ancient Spiritual Wisdom and the twenty or so Divine Myths of the Descent of the Soul and "Krst/Karest/Christ" in the allegorical stories the "dying and rising" gods and goddesses we would have had no problem seeing clearly that Rome reinterpreted the "incarnation of the Krst/Christ within each person" and transformed it into the "physical death of a literal historical person for the sins of the world whereby his blood supposedly atoned for the sins of the world". We see this clearly now having come to full understanding of how the Sacrificial System actually operated. Even though Rome altered the "Christ Story" and the implications of the "Christ's death", once one comes to know the symbology of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom concerning the "indwelling Christ" he can spot these Roman reinterpretations of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom easily in the New Testament texts. Possessing this knowledge concerning the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom of both Christ and Soul, knowledge that Rome tried to obliterate from the 2nd through the 5th centuries, we would have immediately recognized that the "Jesus Story" is the personification of the descent of the Soul and the indwelling Divine Mind as "the Christ" into the whole of humanity and recognized that this "Jesus Story" is in reality "your" story and "my" story.

Basically, the Old and New Testament are dual "tellings" of the story of the Soul and what it truly represented; "yours and my story", our Soul's story told through personification of the path of the Soul in its Earthly existence through the symbolism and personification of a person named "Jesus". This same story was first noticed by the ancients in the path of the Sun through the Zodiac, a most unbelievable study awaiting you in the ancient Spiritual Wisdom. The story of Jesus, found from Matthew chapter 1 through Matthew chapter 28, can be shown to parallel exactly the personification of the Divine Energy of the cosmos, God/Christ, symbolized by the Sun and its path through the Zodiac (birth, life, death, rebirth). We find the "Jesus Story" repeated verbatim from ancient Egypt down through history over and over again, from Sacred Book to Sacred Book, as symbolic for the incarnated Soul and the indwelling Krst/Karest/Christ within mankind; but unlike our "Jesus Story" inherited from Rome, these prior "Jesus Stories", told on different levels of understanding reflecting Metaphysical realities in the cosmos, were never meant to be taken "literally" unless a person recognized that it was "their own story". Never was this "Christ Story" or "Jesus Story" to be understood "literally" or some atonement attached to the supposed literal life of another. Now, understanding this "death of the Christ" as taken form the ancient Spiritual Wisdom which was later altered by Rome, you see that is is and always will be the responsibility of each Soul to work out his own atonement.

So we see in the literalization of the "Jesus Story" that this Jesus, had it been possible for him to be an actual atonement, would have failed to atone for intentional sins and any sins involved in the Second Tablet of the Law. Jesus' death, had it been an atonement, would have applied only to the First Tablet of the Law ONLY and not the Second Tablet of the Law. The Second Tablet of the Law is atoned for by your repentance, confession, prayer, restitution, alms, etc., as Isaiah and other Prophets teach in the Hebrew Scriptures which have been later altered by the Alexandrian Essenes and later Romans to exclude such concepts from the Hebrew Scriptures when translated into the Greek and Latin!

You should not be surprised that the Second Tablet of the Law is atoned for by the same Spiritual methods taught since the first article since "God changes not". Let us not forget that Israel is a Holy Nation and a Royal Priesthood. A Priest's function is to make intercession for another and aid in another's reconciliation. As you saw earlier that prayer was one of the several forms of atonement, then this should renew your appreciation for the Jewish people who, on Yom Kippur, stand in the gap for the Gentile world in their prayer services. They literally, as Priests to YHWH, pray for the world and their sins that God would be merciful and forgive their sin since 2.5 billion of them are Christians and are totally deceived when it comes to the "Jesus Story" and any supposed atonement connected to his death. This is such a Holy thing which is not understood by Christians let alone Christian missionaries who are fixated on converting every Jew to Christianity! Pray to God that this never happens for if it does the "Light unto the world" is then extinguished as was the great Egyptian Religion before them!

Answer for yourself: If such a demonic and diabolical plan was ever to succeed, God forbid, then who would stand in the gap for the world on Yom Kippur.....Baptists, Catholics, Charismatics? They don't even know when this Holy Day falls on God's calendar since fixated only on the Roman one. Christianity does not ever recognize or observe the commanded Holy Days in the Bible. This needs to stop now.

ARE YOU GUILTY OF BREAKING THE SECOND TABLET OF THE LAW.....AND NOT KNOWING IT?

So many might have read this article so far and say…"so what…I don't break the commands of the Second Tablet of the Law?"

Not so fast now.

Christians, because of their perverse theology, break them at will, and what is so devious, is that they do it without ever knowing. My purpose is not to offend anyone, but if I could be honest with you and God for a moment I want you to grasp this next sentence. When I graduated from Seminary I had learned a lot, but most was religious propaganda to support a particular denominational position. It was only after years of intense study following Seminary did I come to the knowledge of the truth that I had hoped to find there but didn't. And if I can say that then what is the the level of understanding of the typical pew setter in the Churches who never reads books or studies his own faith in-depth? I challenge every reader to read our "Law of Noah Website" and see for yourself the implications of these Laws of the Second Tablet of the Law for themselves and see how innocently we have trespassed them living the typical American Christian Life-style as well as accepting the typical Christian theology as espoused by today's brand of Christianity. Have your kleenex ready for at the end of such a study, and having trusted in a Lawless religion let alone a false atonement, your true standing before God becomes frightfully clear.

If you were aware of what is contained in the Second Tablet of the Law you would be overwhelmed and I would hope, once realizing the magnitude of such violations of God's will by the typical Christian following "Christian doctrine" then your tears would run like rivers and your conduct change. Repentance and remorse for our condition is a wonderful place to start as you are seeing.

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

You have seen that it a life, your life, that makes atonement for sin. Such repentance, confession, prayer, and new obedient conduct is the only reassurance that at-that-moment you are right with God. Being so, and having done so, then you have the right to be on the altar of God and you are symbolically with God as "one" on the altar of your heart. You need not bring an animal sacrifice for your sins since your life and your actions are already one! The animal, if you remember, was only a physical demonstration and symbolism of the Spiritual condition of your Soul and atonement ha already been acquired by the sacrificier's repentance, contrition and confession, prayer, righteous deeds and almsgiving. Such is the mercy of God to reveal to us, His people, how we can cleans ourselves.

The Gentile Christian Anti-Semitic Early Church, over the centuries, has stolen such truths from you and corrupted the texts and the Divine Truth and recorded downright Spiritual Untruths in their anti-Semitic document...the New Testament

There is no atonement for the sins of the Second Tablet of the Law unless you make atonement for yourself!

You now understand our lives, or our "Souls", can go to Church our whole lives but still be led into great error and further sin by being devoted to dogmas taught from the pulpits of our Churches which are Biblically and historically unsound! We can go to Church our whole lives and die without a proper atonement for our sins. But one must know the truth in order to repent or else he will never know he is wrong. That is why study is so important. This series of article is an attempt to address only one of many major problems involving Christian Religious Dogmas that contradict not only the ancient Spiritual Wisdom but the same religious dogmas in Biblical Judaism.

After years of dedicated intense study I found that worshipping according to Christian teachings often is sin as the vast majority of Christianity today has changed the Sabbath as well as made obsolete the Holy Days and Festivals of God and there are Commandments regarding Gentile believers keeping them forever.

Answer for yourself: Since hidden in the Hebrew and Greek behind our English translations are commandments and a "Divine Pattern" for non-Jews to observe these Holy Days with the Jewish Nation and as non-Christians we don't, then who atones for your violation of the Laws of the First Tablet of the Law. Do you observe these Biblical Festivals in the Christian Church, festivals which can be shown were observed by non-Jews with the Jews long after the death of Jesus in our New Testament? Have you asked your Pastor why he and your Church does not since "believers" did in the New Testament long after Jesus' death? Nothing changed, never will with God. God changes not. The "Divine Patter" never changes.

You might not be a murderer with a gun, but our word "kill" is equated by the Rabbis to mean gossip, slander, blasphemy, as well as the failure to take care of the poor, widows, and the orphans. The Rabbis group this with murder which again is sin of the Second Tablet of the Law. You will never know this attending a Christian Church; you will continue to give your money to the Church never realizing that no Christian Church I know of understands the Tithe correctly let alone obeys the Laws and Commandments regarding it. We tell Sunday after Sunday the people not to rob God, but that is exactly what our Christian Churches do when they collect the Tithe and spend the money any way they or their budget requires. Just for starters, 2 out of 6 years "all" of the Tithe is to be given to the poor, sick, lame, blind, crippled, mentally ill, widows, orphans, etc. I said "all", not some "love offering to the poor"; ALL. If you are looking for something to repent of I suggest you study the Tithe for yourself or request our articles on it so learn the truth.

Answer for yourself: Who atones for you for giving your money and Tithes to the Church which does not appropriate the funds as commanded in the Hebrew Scriptures? Were you aware that failing to observe the Tithe correctly is sin? Are you aware that Tithing incorrectly is a violation of the Second Tablet of the Law by which only Yom Kippur and your repentance can atone?

Answer four yourself: Can you see how involved this can get and how simple it is to violate these Commandments of God and its affects upon our Soul? Having read these articles don't you think we need to be instructed by the Jewish Nation and Israel instead of Rome? Is "salvation of the Jews" as the New Testament records?

"FAITH OF JESUS" OR "FAITH IN JESUS"

In discussion of these aspects of the Sacrificial system, we must never forget that we are called to accept the "faith of Jesus" and not just have "faith in Jesus." In these articles I have presented the "faith of Jesus" in light of the Jewish views on atonement. Jesus would have believed the Tanakh (Law, Prophets, Writings). If we are to approximate holiness by living Christ-like that means we have to have a new understanding of how we are to live and we must become familiar with the Laws of God which regulate man's conduct in life. Only then will our lives, lived in conformity to the Laws of God and repentant when we break them, result in atonement. But we have to know them first; I dare say as a Christian you cannot recite the 66 Laws of Noah which make up your Covenant with God. At your death you will appreciate the atonement your life procured through your obedience and repentance when shown b God how your life was lived in both obedience and error. Such Laws, statutes, and ordinances reveal to us, in 248 positive commandments, what God is and does, and in 365 negative commandments what God is not and what He does not do. Only in incorporating the Laws of the Torah which apply to the non-Jew into our lives can be assured that what we do and believe is correct. Only then, when living our lives obedient to the will and Commandments of God can our lives [Souls] be an atonement. Failure to measure our conduct as compared with these Commandments only assures we live by our own understanding, and not God's.

Now, having this knowledge, the rest is up to you.

Are we following "the faith of Jesus" or do we just have "faith in Jesus"?

and

Are we true followers of Jesus?

ANCIENT MAN AND HIS FEAR OF DARKNESS: THE ORIGIN FOR ALL WORLD RELIGIONS?

Archeology is our friend because according to the best understanding we have gleaned from the available ancient records, life for our ancient forefathers was a mixture of wonder and fear. Each day, just finding food to sustain one's family without falling prey to what you hunted and becoming a meal yourself for the roaming predatory animals, was a life and death struggle. As if that was not enough primitive mankind had to battle the elements, in particular winter, for his survival and this was a test of his endurance and skill to survive.

It was from these sparse, distressful conditions of the human race that the Ancient's long history of the search for God, his Creator, and meaning of life has come. From the beginning, man's' profound questions concerning his origins and how he was created and by Whom demanded answers. When no clear answer were forthcoming from the universe, man turned inward, and developed his own based upon what he saw above and around him. Keep in mind that all the theological teachings of the Western World were developed in the Northern Hemisphere. The study of this Subject, man's search for his origin and his Creator, is properly called - "Astro-Theology" or, "The Worship of the Heavens".

The Ancient's understanding of his origins and his Creator is the first, original, and therefore the oldest, and most esteemed tale on Earth! It did not take ancient man very long to decide that in his world of wonder and fear that his single greatest enemy to be feared was the darkness of night, and all the unknown dangers that came with it. Simply stated, man's first enemy was darkness.

Understanding this one fact alone, people can readily see why the greatest and most trustworthy friend the human race could ever have was by far, heaven's greatest gift to the world.

Answer for yourself: And what was ancient man's greatest friend and gift from God? It was the Sun that eliminated the threat of darkness that was man's greatest enemy.

Armed with this important truth we can now begin to unriddle the hidden mysteries that lay behind Christianity as well as the vast majority of earth's religions. It is the oldest and greatest story ever told; namely, the salvation of mankind by God through His Sun.

Modern-day Christianity has often belittled our ancient ancestors and falsely accused them of being no more than ignorant worshippers of the Sun. The hard facts of the matter is that this accusation is a blatant lie. Understand that no people of the ancient world believed the "Sun" to be "God". In reality every Ancient culture and nation on Earth have all used the Sun as the most logically appropriate symbol to represent the Glory of the unseen Creator of the heavens. I used to accept this premise until I began to study for myself and you can't imagine my surprise and amazement as I studied the Ancients and found that they not only did not literally worship this "orb" of Heaven as many Christian writers had depicted but they had a much greater possession of knowledge of the world and the Cosmos than mankind today. That's right; almost impossible to believe until you see this for yourself. I found that the ancient Egyptians had developed a very complex religious system, called the Mysteries, which was also the first system of salvation given to mankind. As such it regarded the human body as a prison house of the soul, which could be liberated from its bodily impediments, through the discipline of the Arts and Sciences, and advanced from the level of a mortal to that of a God. This was the notion of the sumum bonum or greatest good, to which all men must aspire, and it became the basis of all ethical concepts. The Egyptian Mystery System was also a Secret Order, and membership was gained by initiation and a pledge of secrecy. The teaching was graded and delivered orally to the Neophyte and hierophant; and under these circumstances of secrecy, the Egyptians developed secret systems of writing and teaching, and forbade their Initiates from writing what they had learnt. In the article that follows I will began to explain this "secret wisdom" of the Inner Mysteries that was withheld from the layman and is yet kept from them today primarily because over time this secret legacy has been lost only to be recovered through the efforts of Champollion, a French Egyptologist, who is acknowledged as the father of modern Egyptology. He achieved many things during his short career, but he is best known for his work on the Rosetta Stone. It was his deciphering of the hieroglyphics contained on the Stone that laid the foundations for Egyptian archaeology and this paved the way to restoring not only this earliest salvation message of God to mankind as taught by the Egyptian Priesthoods but explains and reveals the background of the various "Jesus Stories" as collected down through history in the depictions of the many solar gods. So it is time to not only set the record straight regarding the Ancients' understanding of the Sun and its role in their "religions" but expose Christianity for what it is; namely, the literalization of the personified Sun in its path through the Heavens and Zodiac in the person of "Jesus Christ". It is to these issues we now turn.

THE ETERNAL CONFLICT OF LIGHT AND DARKNESS

Paul records for us in one of his epistles:

1 Cor 15:14-15 14 And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. 15 Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not. (KJV)

Gal 4:19 19 My little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you, (KJV)

It goes without saying that the above two verses often confuse the reader because it appears that one verse speaks of a historical Christ Jesus and the other a mystical concept and not a historical person?

Answer for yourself: Who was literally this "Jesus Christ" we read about from the pen of Paul? What does it mean that he is "risen"?

Let's closely examine the original, conceptual foundations of the Christian faith and then decide "...if Christ be not risen. " But for that to happen we have to understand an Ancient concept that generated the world's religions and that being primitive man's fear of the dark. You will understand after you read this article.

Let's travel back for a moment to about 20,000 B.C.E. or so and try to put ourselves into the place of Ancient mankind. It's early evening, and the Sun had just set. In this time before sidewalks, streetlights, headlights, and the glow of cities, the moonless night was truly dark, so dark that it was often dangerous to be outside at night. The blackness made it difficult to see the ground, and the dark gave cover to beasts and plunderers that prowled the night. At nighttime, it was very, very dark and until fire was discovered, it was man's most dangerous enemy and threatened his very survival. In the dark cold of night man realized his utter vulnerability to the elements. Each night, mankind was forced to wait for the "Rising of the Sun" to chase away the physical and mental insecurity brought on by the darkness. Therefore, the morning Sun focused man's attention on his heavenly dependence for his frail, short existence on Earth, and in doing so, you can see how the Sun became the appropriate symbol of the Creator's divine benevolence from Heaven. And as winter progressed Ancient man noticed that it became darker for longer and longer periods of time and much colder. It was inarguably, unremittingly, and unexplainably dark. Watching the Heavens primitive man saw the Sun was fading fast and receding at sunset on the horizon as it set. He feared that his source of "salvation" might stop shining altogether, and might never reappear. Ancient mankind saw the dark as his mortal enemy for it gave cover for all the bad things that could happen to him: attacks from other tribes, the capture of his family, attacks from predator animals, prey to poisonous snakes, injuries sustained by accidents that occur in the dark, etc. All the bad things seemed to happen in the dark. So until the discovery of fire which brought limited light into man's own little world of darkness, primitive man only had the "Great Fire of Day" which served the whole Earth with its heavenly presence.

Answer for yourself: Is this the reason that several thousand years ago mankind said and believed at it says in Deut 4:24, and Heb 12:29 that the God of the Bible was a "Consuming Fire" in heaven? It sure was.

All mankind quickly came to realize that he was attached and bound to a life on Earth, but it was the sky that brought to him his "salvation" and man reasoned that this was the home of his God and Creator. The Heavens above was to the Ancients God's dwelling place. Over time as man created and reasoned his various "theologies" and personified the Sun, the symbol of his God, and its movements in the Heavens it would be a short step to personify the Sun as the "Son" of the Sun and they further reasoned that God's Son/Sun would also reside with his Father "up there in Heaven". It was assumed that God's 'Sun was but a visible representative of the unseen Creator in heaven. So it was said, "When you have seen the Sun, you have seen the Father " or "The Father is glorified in his Sun".

As you can imagine Ancient man had no problem understanding that all life on Earth depended directly on life-giving energy from the Sun because the Sun not only caused the crops to grow and produce a harvest that guaranteed his life and longevity but the light and warmth that it gave mankind was the main factor in his safety and security as explained above. Consequently, all life was lost without the Sun. It followed that God's 'Sun' was nothing less than "mankind's Saviour".

One of the things that amazed me in my study of Egypt was their unbelievable knowledge of Science, Physics, and Astronomy. You have to read it for yourself to see how they understood these disciplines in the way that they did and how the ancients understood the intricacies of the atom and molecules. The Ancients understood energy and since life is energy, and energy from the Sun gave life, they then understood that their own existence was sustained by themselves taking energy into their bodies from the foods that they ate that was again sustained by the Sun. They again reasoned that Sun was giving up its life supporting energy in order that they could live.

Answer for yourself: Is this where we get the concept that God's Sun, or God personified in the Sun, gives His life for us in order that we might live? We sure do.

As you now clearly see the Ancients reasoned that their lives came from and were sustained each day by "Their Saviour... in the form of God's Sun". But this truism only worked as long as the Sun would return each morning to pour out his life for them. Primitive mankind's hope of salvation, both present and future, would be secure only if his "Savior, in the form of the Sun was 'Risen'". This might sound complicated but it is not. The Ancients tracked the Sun, their Savior, across the sky daily and yearly for thousands of years and little escaped their scrutiny. You only have to read the extent and depth of their Astronomy and their records to be amazed and flabbergasted at what they knew and the knowledge they possessed. They knew that if their Sun, their Savior did not rise from his grave of darkness in the dead of Winter then all would be lost for mankind. To understand this you need to understand the schematic that follows.

At the dead of Winter the Sun was noticed to set progressively southward in the horizon and the days progressively possessed less light and warmth. It appeared to the Ancients that the Sun was dying. Ancient mankind reasoned that light was dying; the Sun was dying just as he had seen others of his species die. It was the most scary time for the Ancients. As what we now call mid-December came closer, the days got shorter still. Then came December 21, what we call the Winter solstice, the longest night of the year -- which also meant the shortest day of the year, with Sunlight practically imperceptible after that harrowing dark night. Our prehistoric ancestors wondered how vegetation and animals would survive, how they would they survive without the Sun. Little wonder that in almost every nation and their recorded histories we find that traditions and ceremonies and customs evolved, some of them not so nice, to propitiate the dark and entice the Sun to come back strong. One element of this frenzy for light, once it was feasible, was bonfires. They kept the dark at bay and illuminated festivities aimed at winning back the Sun. All the world waited patiently for the Son's 'imminent return". They further reasoned that surely the Divine Father and Creator would never leave them at the mercy of this world of darkness. Over the centuries man, through his observations of the Sun and the pattern of its movement, was reassured that the Creator's Heavenly promise concerning his Sun was surely that..."He would come again"...to light their path, and save those lost in the darkness. He was reassured every morning and every year as the cycle of the Sun through the Heavens and the Zodiac seemed to repeat.

Logically, the Ancients reasoned that even if man himself died, as long as the Sun continued to dawn and set each day, life on Earth will continue forever. Therefore, it was said in the Ancient texts that "everlasting life was 'the gift' that the Father gives through his Sun.

Answer for yourself: We have mentioned that the Sun was personified as the "Son". Understanding that these Ancient and eternal and Divine concepts were captured for all time in legend and myth by the Ancients then when we read for example:

John 3:16 16 For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. (KJV)

then is it too far of a stretch to see that "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten SUN that we may have life everlasting"..on the Earth?

Early mankind not only feared the dark but the manifestations of evil and harm that lurked at every turn in the fearful dark of night. He further reasoned that all evil or harmful deeds were naturally, the..."works of darkness." Let us not forget that anthropomorphism or personification is the attribution of human characteristics to inanimate objects, animals, forces of nature, and others. Anthropomorphism in the form of personification consists of creating imaginary persons who are the embodiment of an abstraction such as Darkness, Death, Lust, or War. In our study we are concerned with the personification of Light and Darkness as man's greatest Savior and greatest Adversary. Early man simply personified these forces because it was extremely difficult for them to picture or discuss God or these forces that came from the Creator of all without an anthropomorphic framework. Thus we see the darkness personified as the "Devil":

- With the return of the Sun each morning, man felt more secure in his world and therefore, was at peace. Therefore, God's 'Sun' was with his warm rays of life and hope...The Great "Prince of Peace".
- Conversely the dark evil of night was ruled by none other than..."Prince of Darkness"

I want to show you something having understood now the personification of forces:

- The Dark was Evil
- Primitive mankind reasoned it as "Dark"-"Evil"
- "D"-"Evil"
- the "Devil"..get it?

You have just seen the origin of one of the biggest theologies known to man...the Devil which is nothing but darkness personified and we don't know it and we raise millions of dollars to fight an imaginary war in our Churches to fight this Devil and pray against him and fast and bind him over and over again as if he and God are in some mortal combat...which they are not. It seems we have learned nothing and find ourselves at the very same stages of development of primitive man thousands and thousands of years ago. At least the Egyptians understood this as allegory and Christians think it is real today.

Answer for yourself: Did you know that we get our English words 'Good' and 'God' from the German word 'Goth' as in 'Gothic'? Now we see God is Good, and Devil is Evil.

Hopefully you can now see that it is only a short step to see "The Light of God's Sun" equated with the light of truth - and evil equated with darkness. From then on, it was simple to understand... "Light was good and dark was bad".

Answer for yourself: Could this be behind all racism where people hate the darker skinned of mankind? You bet it is!

That being true, then that Great Orb of Day, God's Sun, can rightly say of itself,

John 9:5 5 As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world. (KJV)

We now have before us two cosmic brothers - one very good, and one very evil.

Answer for yourself: Is the first story of this cosmic brotherhood and struggle found in the story of Osiris and Set and their conflict and struggle that ends with Osiris' death and resurrection (similar to the Sun being raised from the dead once a year)? You bet it is. This conflict between light and darkness is replayed in almost every religion of the world between its saviors and its adversaries. Christianity is not immune to this pattern as well.

One of these forces brings the "truth to light" with the "light of truth". The other is the opposite, or in opposition to the light - "The Opposer"... "The Adversary"..."The Devil"..."The God of this world"..."The Prince of this World of Darkness".

KNOWING THIS...THEN LETS EXAMINE THE "JESUS STORY"

It has been said that: "The Christian religion is a parody on the worship of the Sun, in which they put a man whom they call Christ, in the place of the Sun, and pay him the same adoration which was originally paid to the Sun."- Thomas Paine

Answer for yourself: Could this be true? How could this be true? How could the Ancients come to worship the Sun? Well you saw that they didn't but rather the Sun represented to them the Creator. But has the "Sun" or the personification of the Sun as the "Son" become part of the Christian sage and gospel and we not know it?

The above quote is a most serious charge against Christianity and if such a charge can be shown to have validity then one should be honest enough before God to begin a serious investigation in his religious beliefs in order to separate truth from fiction.

Well it is for certain most who read our articles don't wish to be in "sin". A small article of this size cannot possibly do justice to such a complex and verbose subject as we have at hand but I hope to "break the egg" so to speak to help our readers begin to scrutinize the subject matter at hand in more detail by their personal study. Let's closely examine the original, conceptual foundations of the Christian faith, and then decide what to do with the serious "charge" made in the above quote by Thomas Payne; that the Christian faith today is nothing but an evolution of "Sun" worship transfigured into "Son" worship. Again I wish to reiterate the seriousness of such a charge if it can be proven.

IN THE BEGINNING…

But in order to do that, we must go back not 2000 years to the birth of Christ, but 15 to 20,000 years to the birth of modern man. For when one seeks to establish foundations, one must begin at the beginning. We must begin with the Aryan peoples of the world.

Many thousands of years ago, in what we refer to as the "primordial world" of the ancients, human life was a far different experience from that which we enjoy today. While it is true that we have less documentation on that prehistoric world than we have on our own age, enough is known from the ancient writings, many in stone, to paint a rather clear picture of our remote ancestry. If we have learned anything at all, it is this: "That the more we change, the more we stay the same." And nowhere is this more clearly demonstrated than in the history of man's quest for "God", and the ancient religion we still keep holy.

According to the best understanding we have gleaned from the available records, life for our ancient forefathers was a mixture of wonder and fear. Each day, just finding food for one's family without becoming a meal oneself was a life-and-death struggle. It was from these meager, distressful conditions of the human race that our long history of the search for God and meaning of life has come.

Any evolution, at its most accelerated rate, is always agonizingly slow. But from the beginning, man's profound questions demanded answers. When no clear answers were forthcoming from the universe, man turned inward and developed his own. The study of this subject is termed "Astro-Theology" or the "worship of the heavens".

It did not take ancient man very long to decide that in this world the single greatest enemy to be feared was the darkness of night. Simply stated, man's first enemy was darkness.

With this one fact alone, one can readily understand why the greatest and most trustworthy friend the human race would ever have was heaven's greatest gift to the world . . . the Glorious Rising Orb of Day...the Sun. With this simple truth understood, we can now begin to unravel ascent of man and the origin of the "crucifixion of the Sun"; or should I say the "crucifixion of the Son". Notice the word-play and stay tuned!

Even before people understood the details of how the Sun worked, they were aware of its supreme importance in their lives. It is no accident that so many ancient religions had as their major god a personification of the Sun. To ancient peoples, it was extremely important to be able to track the motions of the Sun in the sky and predict the coming of the seasons. After all, planting seeds at the wrong time could lead to complete disaster.

WHAT LED TO THE PERSONIFICATION OF THE SUN AND THE ORIGINS OF RELIGIONS...THEOLOGY OUT OF ASTRONOMY

To understand the Sun's motions and their effects, it is easier to start by imagining the Earth entirely alone. Without the Sun, it would be night everywhere on the Earth at the same time. The stars would silently wheel by, east to west, as the Earth turned. Looking to the north, we would see the stars moving in slow circles around the circumpolar Pole Star, Polaris. Any particular star would always rise in the same location and set directly opposite. That is, if a star rose in the east at a point 30 degrees from due south, it would set in the west at a point 30 degrees from due south. And that would be it. Nothing else would happen. The stars would follow the same paths as seen from the Earth, over and over without change. If this were the case then today we would have no "theology" because as you will see the Ancients would interpret the movement of the Sun and stars in the Heavens and give the world not only Divine Truths written by the Creator in the blackboard of sky but over time theologies would develop that would translate these Divine Truths to mankind but also aberrations of them which nullified them as well. To say I have been disillusioned by what I have seen in about 20 years of scholarly study into the origins of my birth faith, Christianity, is an understatement but it is only finally coming to study Egypt thoroughly where I uncovered these Divine Truths in their simplest forms as these Ancient masters saw in the Heavens that I was able to rest and sort this whole "theological mess" out to my satisfaction. The final puzzle pieces were long in coming but they came finally and when one undertakes a study of our websites then he sees the progression from Ancient Divine Truths once understood "allegorically" in their purest form to the later "literalization" of them by Rome in which these earlier Divine Truths were so altered to not only lose their truest meanings but alternate erroneous meanings substituted for them. Then sadly the truth was lost for mankind and in is place a false revelation taught as the truths of God. Such comparative study will reveal this to the discerning and dedicated student of comparative religion, mythology, astronomy, astrology, Biblical texts and their alterations, Biblical languages, both Aramaic, Hebrew, and Greek coupled with a through study of the origin, manipulation, and corruption of the New Testament throughout its evolution over the earliest centuries of the antisemitic Gentile Church.

But back to the issue at hand, the way in which the stars appear to move in the sky, or "apparent motion," is a consequence of the rotation of the Earth. The stars seem to move, but of course it is the Earth that is moving.

But we are not immersed in total and perpetual darkness for the Sun does exist. Now imagine the Earth spinning on its axis, but with the Sun very far off to one side. Half of the Earth will be illuminated at any given time. This, of course, is day. Some of the stars will be hidden by the Sun and we will be unable to see them. As the Earth rotates, the Sun will appear to rise and set along with the unseen stars that it is in front of it.

Again if the Earth were stationary, this would be the whole story and we would have more than likely a "limited" theology but that is not the case. If the earth was stationary the same stars would be blocked all the time, and the Sun would simply rise and set in exactly the same way each day. But we know if we have ever watched the horizon that the Sun does not rise and set in exactly the same place on the horizon every day. We can see that very clearly when looking at the tri-part depiction of the Sun as it sets accordingly with the Summer solstice, Spring and Autumn equinoxes, and the Winter solstice pictured above.

The Earth moves around the Sun. As the Earth moves through the year, the Sun blocks different stars. You may have experienced this phenomenon at the movies when you move your head, and the head of a tall guy in front of you blocks a different part of the movie screen. This is why we see different constellations at different times of the year. Each day the Sun appears to move just a little bit relative to the stars. In a year, it goes completely around and comes back to the starting point. The path it takes is called the Ecliptic. If the Sun's path is observed from the Earth's reference frame, it appears to move around the Earth in a path which is tilted with respect to the spin axis at 23.5°. This path is called the ecliptic. It tells us that the Earth's spin axis is tilted with respect to the plane of the Earth's solar orbit by 23.5°. The significance of the ecliptic is evident if we examine the Earth's orbit around the Sun. That orbit lies in a plane, flat like a tabletop, called the plane of the ecliptic (or sometimes just "the ecliptic"). In one year, as the Earth completes a full circuit around the Sun (drawing above), the Earth-Sun line and its continuation past Earth sweep the entire plane. Planets seen in the sky are always near the ecliptic, which means that their orbits are never too far from the plane of the ecliptic. They all circle the Sun in sort of a group limited to a certain path and angle around the Sun as drawn out in the Heavens. This is astonishing when you think about this. In other words, the solar system is rather flat, with all its major parts moving in nearly the same plane. Even though the planets move on the celestial sphere, they do not wander all over it but are confined to a narrow strip, dividing it in half. Now we come to the stars.

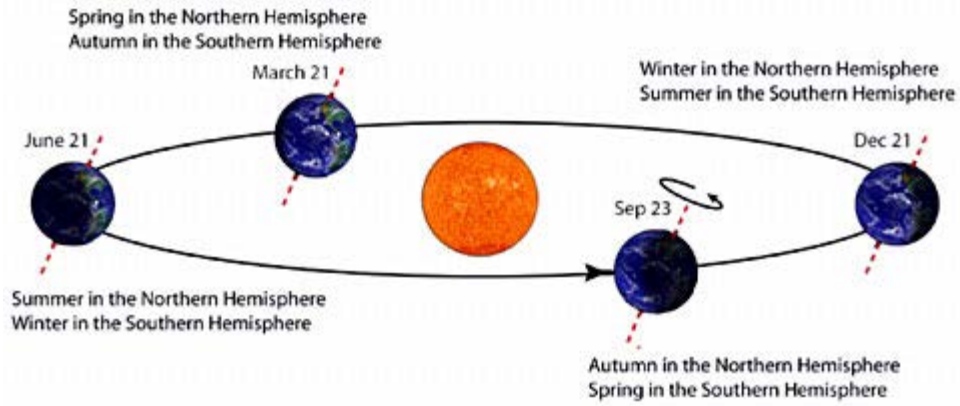
Stars along that same strip are traditionally divided into the 12 constellations of the zodiac. The name, related to "zoo," comes because most of these constellations are named for animals--Leo the lion, Aries the ram, Scorpio the scorpion, Cancer the crab, Pisces the fish, Capricorn the goat and Taurus the bull. At any time, the Sun is also somewhere on the celestial sphere, and as the Earth turns, it rises and sets the same way as stars do. Like the planets, the Sun, too, moves around the zodiac, making one complete circuit each year. Every month it covers a different constellation of the zodiac, which is the real reason why those constellations are 12 in number. Of course, during that month, this particular constellation is not seen, because the sky near the Sun is too bright for its stars to be seen (except, very briefly, during a total eclipse of the Sun). One can however figure out where the Sun is on the zodiac (as ancient astronomers have done) by noting which is the last constellation of the zodiac to rise ahead of the Sun, or the first to set after it. Obviously, the Sun is somewhere in between. In this manner each month-long period of the year was given its "sign of the zodiac."



Imagine standing in the center of a racetrack. As the cars go around they will appear to trace out a circle. The cars appear to go horizontally. They do not appear to be moving up in the direction of your head or down in the direction of your feet. If you tilt yourself a bit, the cars will appear to be sometimes up and sometimes down. This is exactly what happens with the Earth. The earth is tilted by 23.5 degrees compared to how it travels around the Sun. So, sometimes the Sun appears to be a bit north and sometimes a bit south. Thus, as the year progresses, the Sun appears to set in slightly different locations relative to the horizon. The winter and summer solstices mark the most southern and northern Sunrises respectively, while at the equinoxes the Sun rises and sets exactly in the east and west (see the picture at the top of the article once again).

As the Sun moves along the Ecliptic it appears higher and lower in the skies.

Answer for yourself: Why is this of major importance for us and all later "theologies", myths, and legends created by Ancient mankind?

This has had and still does have a tremendous and huge effect on life on the earth. In the winter, when the Sun is low in the sky, less solar energy falls on a given unit of area on the surface of the earth, and the weather is much colder and the days much darker. Some plants and animals become dormant. Food is not at plentiful and the encroaching darkness was the greatest threat to Ancient mankind as explained above. In the summer, when the Sun is high in the sky, a lot more solar energy falls on a unit of area on the earth, and the weather is much warmer and harvests are plentiful and Ancient mankind experienced his salvation because of the Sun pouring out is life for him in the form of light and heat and photosynthesis that fed him and his family (as well as the animals which was his food). Plants and animals do not have to compete as strongly for resources, and it is the best time to reproduce. In pre-historic times, summer was a joyous time of the year for those primitive people who lived in the northern latitudes. The snow had disappeared; the ground had thawed out; warm temperatures had returned; flowers were blooming; leaves had returned to the deciduous trees. Some herbs could be harvested, for medicinal and other uses. Food was easier to find. The crops had already been planted and would be harvested in the months to come. Although many months of warm/hot weather remained before the fall, they noticed that the days were beginning to shorten, so that the return of the cold season was inevitable.

The image to the left shows that the seasons are due to the tilt of the Earth, not due to a variation in distance to the Sun. In each of these seasons the Sun played a major role and this was understood by the Ancients during his evolution as a species on this planet. This balance between "light and darkness" was an eternal struggle that spelled either "life" or "death" for primitive mankind. The Sun was the driving force and energy behind all life on the earth and it was understood as such by primitive mankind. As the Sun waned man feared the oncoming darkness and the many threats it brought him and his family as their lives were actually threatened by the loss of the Sun and the daylight and warmth it provided. This onslaught of darkness following the Summer solstice as the Sun slid southwestward in the sky with its diminishing light and warmth was feared by primitive mankind. Over time this "darkness," mankind's greatest enemy, was captured in legend and myth that paralleled the path of the Sun in the sky. This whole event of the demise of the Sun in the winter with the Sun moving to its eventual shortest daylight and warmth of the year at the Winter solstice was immortalized by primitive mankind and the Ancients in myth and allegory which depicted this tension and battle between the forces of light and darkness. By now you understand that Ancient man saw the darkness as his mortal enemy. In so doing he understood that the darkness was evil. Our theology beings with his understanding of the connection between "evil" and "darkness".

The infatuation with this struggle with "Darkness" will go so far as to motivate men to change the Hebrew Scriptures as we find in the forgery of the Hebrew Scriptures where the word "Lucifer" (the light bringer) is later added when the original Hebrew texts never mention this word.

Of course as you now see the background for all of this was Astronomy and not "theology". It won't be long before "theology" will be birthed from Astronomy. And it does not end here! The battle of the Sun versus the darkness has been immortalized in every dualism known to man presently. Behind every religion in some form or another is this basic paradigm of the struggle of "light" versus "darkness". I want you to know that as long as these allegories and metaphors remained just that, allegories and metaphors of Divine truths witnessed in a "literal" sense by primitive mankind and the Ancients then we don't have a problem as I see it since all knew at one time that this was but allegory of forces of Nature.

THE SEPARATION OF MANKIND.....2 GROUPS EMERGE

But over time and with the development of various Priesthoods, there developed a diversification of this knowledge into two camps. Realizing that all mankind is not on the same evolutional level and with different capabilities of understanding there developed two different levels of understanding of this eternal struggle of "Darkness" against the "Light". The most highly evolved are far above the least evolved, both in intelligence and character; the capacity to understand and to act varies at every stage. The Priesthoods reasoned that it was useless to give to all the same religious teachings. Thus developed an "Inner Mystery"and "Outer Mystery" where the Sun was personified in all nations who were seeking after God who was pictured by them as the Sun (the savior of mankind). Those initiated into the "Inner Mysteries" came to know the truth of the personification of the Sun in the legends and myths that they had heard since childhood while those in the "Outer Mysteries" were content with the "literalized" stories of their culture and religion's heroes. It from these "Outer Mysteries" we find today the host of stories of men like Osiris, Attis, Dionysus, Mithra, etc., all solar personifications believed by those in the "Outer Mysteries" to have been real people in antiquity. But those in the "Inner Mysteries" knew better; they knew the truth behind the stories inherited about assumed people like Osiris and Jesus.

The existence of the Sun at the center of almost all world religions is verified by research into comparative religion and the findings indisputably proves that the religions of the world are markedly similar in their main teachings and the symbolism by which they express their leading beliefs. This similarity, amounting in many cases to indistinguishable identity, proves accordingly a common origin for all world religions. This of course is the Sun and its battle against darkness.

Actually, the connection between astronomy and mythology has not gone unnoticed by apologists. I have a few Christian sources that go to great lengths to "disprove" the connection between astrology and Christianity by steering their readers away from the traditional Sun cycle. To admit such a link would be fatal to the vainness of their faith. Now, we are not longer dependent upon the Ancients and their legacy which has come to light with the aid of archeology in these last 200 years for seeing the "Jesus Story" as an allegory of the Sun and its path through the sky but today, thanks to computer technology, we can simulate these biblical events for ourselves and see with positive proof that the Gospel narratives were derived from the stars and movements of the constellations in the sky. We can confirm that the Bible contains nothing more than a series of pagan myths with a different spin.

One quick example if we might. We all most likely know that Jesus' birthday is celebrated on December 25th but few know the actual reason behind it. If you were to study the Winter solstice you will find that it is at this time of the year that "Darkness" has triumphed over the light of the Sun in its annual path across the sky and the Heavens. Primitive man understood he had entered into the darkest and coldest days of the year which also provided the least light and he and his life and the lives of his family were threatened at every corner. His fear of his death was paramount in his mind and life. Coupled with that was his observation that the Sun had been receding the in the sky and he feared the Sun was dying or had died on those three days annually where it remained motionless in the Southwestern horizon as it set in the very same place 3 days in a row. Relieved on the next day, our December 25th, the Sun began to move again but this time backwards as it begins its climb in the sky and Heavens once again and in so doing bringing with it the promise of longer light, warmer temperatures, photosynthesis, and a bountiful harvest to come that ensure man's life and security and existence.

Understanding this scenario then understand the favorite rationale for why Jesus' birthday is celebrated on December 25th. It has been said that this date of December 25th the early Christian fathers chose as a way of attracting pagan followers. That's not the whole of it however although partly true. It was chosen because of the path of the Sun in relation to the seasons and the circuit of the Sun through the Zodiac. Upon study you can see for yourself that the entire nativity legend can be seen played out in the sky. Christian mythology is written as if the events that took place in the sky and the Heavens actually took place on earth (but they didn't). Unless one knows to even look for this astronomical and astrological evidence behind what we read in the New Testament then he will read the New Testament his whole life never aware that behind the stories he reads are Ancients stories told which originated in the stars and which were depicted in the lives of make-believe heroes. Sadly we don't know to look for the double meaning in the Bible's language and without it the astronomical connection can't be seen. But once you become aware of this hidden revelation behind the depiction of Jesus in the "Jesus Story" then you see that the Gospels are laid out according to the zodiacal motifs with Jesus, the personified Sun hero, passing through the four seasons as well as the whole of the 12 houses of the Zodiac:

Answer for yourself: Is this why the "Jesus Story" in the New Testament is called by both Ancient and modern scholars a "solar myth"? Yes it is.

The seasons of the year are caused by the 23.5º tilt of the earth's axis. Because the earth is rotating like a top or gyroscope, it points in a fixed direction continuously -- towards a point in space near the North Star. But the earth is also revolving around the Sun. During half of the year, the southern hemisphere is more exposed to the Sun than is the northern hemisphere. During the rest of the year, the reverse is true. At noontime in the Northern Hemisphere the Sun appears high in the sky during summertime and low in the sky during winter. The time of the year when the Sun reaches its maximum elevation occurs on the day with the greatest number of daylight hours. This is called the summer solstice, and is typically Jun. 21 -- the first day of summer. The lowest elevation occurs about Dec. 21 and is the winter solstice -- the first day of winter, when the night time hours are maximum. Almost exactly half-way between the winter and summer solstice is the time of the vernal or spring equinox. It is one of two times during the year when the daytime and nighttime are almost exactly 12 hours long, and very close to being equal to each other.

This personified Sungod, or Sungodman, is born every year on December 25, the Winter solstice, the first day when daylight hours start to increase. In the winter months, the darkness of evil is still in force. As the daylight hours start to increase, he is said to be increasing in strength.

- His mission starts on the first day of spring on the Spring equinox when daylight hours equal nighttime hours. Spring is the time of righteousness. Christianity and other religious associate three themes with the vernal equinox:
 - Conception and pregnancy leading to birth on the winter solstice.
 - Victory of a god of light (or life, rebirth, resurrection) over the powers of darkness (death). Some religious historians believe that the god-man's death and resurrection legends were first associated with Pagan deities many centuries before the birth of Jesus. They were simply grafted onto stories of Jesus' life in order to make Christian theology more acceptable to Pagans in the Roman Empire.
 - Ancient Christians and Church Fathers, when confronted with their plagiarism of solar gods, had an alternate explanation; they claimed that Satan had created counterfeit Pagan deities with many of the same life experiences as Jesus had. Satan and his demons had done this, in advance of the coming of Christ, in order to confuse humanity.
 - The descent of the goddess or god into the underworld for a period of three days. This is such a popular theme among religions that mythologists refer to it as "the harrowing of Hell."
- He, the personified Sun, is at full strength at the Summer solstice when the Sun is at its highest position in the sky. As the Sun passes over the solstice it descends through the summer months, the dark forces of evil are said to be sapping his strength. The opposition and conflict between the Darkness and the Light only intensify.
- When the Sun passes through the Autumnal equinox, the evil forces of darkness are said to be ruling and the Sun continues it decline in the sky onward to its soon coming death at the Winter solstice.
- On the three darkest days of the year, the Winter solstice, the Sun is dead from December 21 to 24. His resurrection restarts on December 25, when the Sun starts to ascend again. This Jesus hath God raised [ascended] up, whereof we all are witnesses. (Acts 2:32)

Well that sounds simple but I assure you it is not as simple as it looks. As we gain steam in our study you will be convinced that the "Jesus Story" in the New Testament is the personification of the Sun and its path through the Zodiac as well as the relationship of other constellations and the Sun as they both move in the sky. Understand that Christianity is not immune to this syncretism. After all is said and done we have these troublesome questions:

- What are we do do with Jesus?
- Was he a real person? Can we interpret him "literally" or should he be understood only "allegorically"?
- Was he an expression of an allegory of the path of the Sun and constellations which were later "literalized as a historical person" and given a historical timeline and placed on the pages of the New Testament as a real person?
- If it can be proven that the depiction of Jesus as found in the New Testament is little more than the personification of the Sun in its path in the Heavens and the Zodiac as understood originally as only allegory by the Ancients and primitive mankind but later "literalized" as a historical person by Rome in their creation of the New Testament then how are we to then understand "the Christ"?
- Has the depiction of Jesus as a historical person in the New Testament and his later identification as God by Constantine and the Council of Nicea (accepted by Christianity) rendered us as idolators? What can we do about this if we come to a place in our studies that we are convinced that the "Jesus Story" is Astronomical allegory later "literalized"?

All of these questions can be answered in the light of modern scholarship but not without a price. This means you must learn and possess the necessary knowledge of this dualism of light versus darkness as understood by the Ancients and which is bequeathed to us today in their oral traditions and writings in order to see how these Ancient undestandings of the workings of the Cosmos were understood by primitive mankind and how they created stories and personified the Sun and forces in the Cosmos in order to explain this working of God within His Universe. The majority of mankind got this knowledge conveyed to them in simple stories but others were privy to the actual Divine revelation behind the story. These of course were initiates into the Inner Mysteries. Coupled with this is need to understand how these primitive understandings of the Cosmos by Egypt and other nations were understood originally only as allegory and how they were over time "literalized" and how these earlier Divine Truths were lost when they were later "literalized". In so doing then we can clearly see how people, having lost the allegorical understanding of these star-stories, strayed from proper worship and began to worship the "creation instead of the Creator". This has always been man's problem; failing to distinguish the object of his worship. And then we find much, much later how these prior personifications of the Cosmos and forces in Nature were continually "literalized" and incorporated onto the pages of our New Testaments as the "Jesus Story". Only in so doing can we then come to the final answers concerning the complicated truths behind the "Jesus Story" as contained in the New Testament.

"All Indo-Germanic nations have worshipped crucified Saviors and overwhelming proof was obtained that the sun-myths of the ancient Aryans were the origin of the religion in all the countries which were peopled by the Aryans"...Charles Morris. THE HEBREW BEHIND THE GREEK… BEHIND THE ENGLISH… CORRECTS THE VIRGIN BIRTH & OTHER NT ACCOUNTS

Christians have always argued for Jesus' virgin birth, but also argue he was descended from David. This overlooks that if virgin born, Jesus' 'father' Joseph, albeit descended from David, would have had no connection with his conception, and his only human connection would have been through/by/with Mary; however she was of the Aaronic line (ie. she was related to Elizabeth who was of this descent - Luke l:6, l:36).

That means she was a Levite and not from Judah, thus being discredited from Davidic lineage and not capable of being a source to the Davidic throne. But Rome did not know that, and when they created the Infancy Narratives after 200 A.D. and added it to the existing documents which would later become the New Testament, the ground work was settled for saving their concepts of Gods cohabiting with women and having super-babies along with allowing for the Jeconiah's curse and still maintain links to the Jewish David. Little did they know the Old Testament, for it they did, they would have known God relented from the Jeconiah's curse because of his repentance in captivity, and no longer is Joseph prohibited from being Jesus' human father and maintaining the throne of David. But that is a story for another day. On with this article.

Answer for yourself: Do you see that if Jesus did not come from Joseph and the Davidic line, then he is disqualified from being the Messiah as the Messiah was to come from Judah, the tribe of David and not Levi, the tribe of Aaron (Mary's lineage)?

As Aaron was of the tribe of Levi, but David was of Judah, then Jesus, if virgin born, could not therefore be of Davidic descent and could not be the messiah which demanded Davidic descent. Furthermore, this would contradict all the N.T statements that Jesus was a descendent of David - Matt 1:1, 12:23, 15:22, Mark 10:47, Rom 1:3, Rev 5:5.

Jesus didn't take on 'David's line' through Joseph being his 'adoptive father' as Rom 1:3 makes it quite clear that Jesus was of David's 'seed' (semen).

Jesus was either of David's line - but that means he wasn't virgin born (ie. Joseph having to have been responsible for his conception), or

Jesus was virgin born, but that precludes him being of the Davidic line (because only Mary was involved in his humanity and she was not of the Davidic line) - so he couldn't have been the Messiah/Christ as the N.T teaches.

The virgin-birth story is only found in 2 of the 27 N.T writings, and in Luke, the style of writing indicates the part that relates the infancy was written quite separately (added to the existing gospels around 200 A.D.), and added to the main story that begins in 3:1 (Note how 3:1 opens as a commencement here). Even the Catholic Jerusalem Bible admits that Matt most likely had its virgin birth story added to it also. Check it out for yourself.

In fact Luke conflicts sharply with Matthew, for example:

1. Luke has the birth in the time of the governor Quirinius (2:2,3-7), while Matt has it in the time of Herod, but the rule of these two never coincided or overlapped. There is no substance in the argument that the Ramsay Inscription regarding Quirinius as dummvir 'proves' he was governor in Herod's time. In fact Quirinius was governor in 9 A.D., yet we are to believe that Jesus was a baby when the census was taken. Impossible! This is problematic in that Jesus was born according to the Roman calendar at 4 B.C. making him 12-13 years old at the time of the census. Thus we have a historical inaccuracy recorded in the infancy narrative.
2. Matthew states that the family fled from Judea immediately to Egypt (2:4-14) and stayed there; Luke has the family calmly going to Jerusalem in Judea after the birth and then up to Galilee (2:21-22,39) and omits all references to a proposed Egyptian trip.

The only reason that the writer of the Gospel of Matthew seems to have the story is because he misunderstood Isa 7:14. He read it as messianic (which it isn't) and referring to a virgin birth (which it doesn't).

Answer for yourself: Don't you find it rather amusing that God would choose one to write a book of scripture and in doing so chose one who would misinterpret his own Hebraic Old Testament passages which all other Jews understood quite well to mean entirely different that his interpretation? Answer this!

This is simply the story of Isaiah saying to king Ahaz that by the time that a young girl had conceived and her baby was born, the present threat from Syria would be over (7:14-17). There is nothing messianic about it at all. In this, the child was to be called Emmanuel meaning 'God with us', but the name 'Jesus' (in fact the Greek for the Hebrew Jehoshua) means 'Yahweh is salvation', so Jesus was therefore not called by the name Emmanuel and therefore did not fulfill this 'prophesy'; however Matt's author misunderstood this and therefore couldn't have been the apostle of that name as he was not a Palestinian Jew (nor an eyewitness as he had to use Mark to write his Gospel).

Isa 8:3-4 says how Isaiah went and then impregnated his wife and the prophesy is again made saying that before the child could even talk, Syria would by smashed by Assyria.

Therefore it appears Isa 7:14 relates to Isaiah's own wife/child and does not have any messianic connotations. In fact there is nothing miraculous in Isaiah's saying; he is only saying a woman would conceive. He does not say that a girl who would give birth would still be a virgin at/after the conception.

The author of Matthew was using the Septuagint 'LXX' - the Greek version of the Hebrew Bible compiled in the 2nd century BCE for the Greek-speaking Jews of the Diaspora. However, it is not a good translation in some parts, eg. in the case of Daniel, the Jews would not use it. They understood what we do not today. Namely, that the Jewish Scribes only translated the first 5 books of the LXX Septuagint and the non-Jews the rest. That means that the Greeks or Alexandrian Essenes translated Isaiah and the prophets and are responsible for the changing of the word "young woman" in the Hebrew to "virgin" in the Greek. This is a blatant mistranslation.

The Hebrew word in Isa 7:14 for the woman/'virgin' is "almah" and means NOT a virgin, but a young woman; it is in the LXX that it is rendered 'virgin' and there is the additional fact that in the Greek the root doesn't even necessarily mean a girl who has not had sex, but "denotes fullness or the like - fully developed". The word actually used here has nothing to do with the virgin state. As the Gospel writers used the LXX, they could not have been Palestinian Jews (ie. the apostles) or they would have obviously used the Hebrew Masoretic text and not made such errors. The author of Matthew makes other errors, eg. in 27:9-10 he says he is quoting Jeremiah, but in fact he's quoting Zechariah 11:12-13.

Answer for yourself: Would the Holy Spirit make such a mistake if He was guiding the writing of such a document?

Answer for yourself: Would the Holy Spirit use such a man to write an "inspired" document who does not even know his own Bible…the Old Testament Masoretic Text and the Prophets as taken from the Jewish Masoretic text?

There are other examples of this throughout the New Testament to the discriminating reader who is well versed in the Bible, but a casual reader will overlook such discrepancies.

It is very apparent that the Gospel writers were not Palestinian Jews and in the case of Mark's author there has to be doubt whether he had even set foot in Palestine in view of the historical, chronological, geographical and theological errors he makes about first century Palestine. But this is where it continues to be manifestly absurd.

Jesus was supposedly a true Jew - a direct descendent of Abraham through David (Matthew 1), the Son of David (Matt 21:9), the 'lion of the tribe of Judah' (Rev 5:5) and yet whenever he quoted the Old Testament, he quoted the GREEK LXX version which deviates from the Jewish Masoretic Text in hundreds of places!

Furthermore, in some cases the Hebrew original of the LXX text he is quoting would not support the argument he is making, ie. because of the LXX's inaccuracies. In Mark 7:1-23 Jesus does this, but although it seems the LXX would support the point Jesus is making to the Pharisees, the Hebrew original would not.

So we are asked to believe that Jesus - a true Hebrew Jew - chose to use the Greek translation of the Old Testament, and furthermore, was unaware of the fact that he was using a passage that in reality was defective and the original would say something completely different, and be quite inappropriate for his argument, but also, according to the Gospels, he floored his orthodox Jewish opponents with this - a mistranslation of their own scriptures - and they didn't challenge this?

The fact is, therefore, Jesus could not have spoken what the Gospels reports, and such sayings are put into his mouth by the Gospel writers who being ignorant of Hebrew made their handiwork obvious.

The same applies with James (supposedly Jesus' brother) in Acts 15 - he uses the LXX to support his argument, although again, the Hebrew original says something quite different and would not support his argument, and yet all the Jews in the audience didn't comment on this!

Answer for yourself: So what are we to do when studying the English Bible?

WE MUST STUDY THE JEWISH ROOTS OF CHRISTIANITY

Answer for yourself: Can the teachings and nuances of first century Israel be fully understood from the perspective of twentieth century?

As far as settlement of peoples other than the American Indian, our nation is only about 220 years old. Our nation was established in 1776, a little over 200 years ago. The Americas were settled a little over 500 years ago. This gives us, at best, a historical perspective of five centuries. In the "New Testament:" we are looking at a culture half-way around the world some 2,000 years ago. This same culture started some 4,000 years before that. Continuous in the same place for about 6,000 years is a people from which our faith springs.

I will quote some statements that will clarify my position. I trust these will help you to understand why I have the interest that I have and spark some interest in you as well.

"The Jews constitute but one percent of the human race. It suggests a nebulous dim puff of star dust lost in the blaze of the Milky Way. Properly, the Jew ought hardly to be heard of; but he is heard of, has always been heard of. He is as prominent on the planet as any other people...he has made a marvelous fight in this world, in all the ages; and has done it with his hands tied behind him...the Egyptian, the Babylonian, and the Persian rose, filled the planet with sound, and splendor, then faded to dream- stuff and passed away; the Greek and the Roman followed and made a vast noise, and they're gone; other peoples have sprung up and held their torch high for a time, but it burned out, and they sit in twilight now, or have vanished. The Jew saw them all, beat them all, and is now what he always was...all things are mortal but the Jew; all other forces pass, but he remains. What is the secret of his immortality?"*- by Mark Twain

> "To explore and understand the Jewish roots of our faith is to expand and to enrich our Christian experience. This premise is at the heart of the educational endeavors of Bet Emet Ministries, and other Messianic Ministries like it, that are restoring to the Church an appreciation of its full Hebrew heritage."

It is my hope to assist believers in developing a deeper, more intimate relationship with God through the study of Hebrew language and culture.

The Babylonian Talmud (Sukkah 42A) states that Jewish boys were taught Deuteronomy 6:4 (Shema) as soon as they could speak. The Talmud specifies that "The father must teach him." Early sources suggest that this must have been the first portion from the Hebrew Bible that Jesus committed to memory. We may assume that Joseph was responsible for fulfilling this task. This portion of scripture is known simply as "The Shema." In HEBREW it is..."Shema Yisra'el Adoni Eloheynu Adoni Ehad"...ENGLISH..."Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is One." The Shema was to be recited first thing in the morning and last thing at night. Countless martyrs through the ages have died with The Shema as the last utterance from their lips, leaving this world with the proclamation of God the last words spoken. This is an affirmation of monotheism in opposition to a polytheistic environment. The Hebrews were/are to know there is only one God, not many.

From the beginning there were only two classes of people; Jews and Gentiles, those who believed in the one true God and everyone else...who, then, are we? We believe in the one true God. This is a Hebrew concept. We are therefore no longer Gentiles, regardless of our ethnic or geographical background. We, in fact, are spiritually Jewish. We have not replaced the Jews as some would have us believe, the Jews have not passed away or become irrelevant with the advent of Jesus. Judaism is just as valid today as it was 2,000 years ago. The vast majority of traditional or formal Jews simply do not accept Jesus as Messiah, they are still looking for Messiah to come and establish an earthly kingdom. We are now grafted into the root of the Olive Tree, Israel, according to the eleventh chapter of Romans.

Paul teaches us that God did not reject His people, Romans 11:1-6. The elect obtained what Israel so earnestly sought, the rest rejected it, and because of this, salvation came to the Gentiles according to verses 7-12. Paul seeks to arouse the Jews to envy and save them. Verse 16 says that "If the root is holy, so are the branches." Paul declares that the root is holy! Furthermore, he declares that the grafted in branches are holy! We are not to despise the Jews, we are to embrace them. They are our spiritual kinsmen and, as such, we have much to learn from them. We also have much to share, but it must be done in love and not from arrogance. We see that branches have been broken off and wild olive shoots are grafted in - we, Gentiles, have accepted God through the ministry of Jesus and thereby are grafted into Judaism - we do not support the root but the root supports us! We are warned not to be arrogant for if the natural branches were not spared, neither will the grafted in branches be spared. We are part of the same tree by grace, God is also able to engraft the natural branches again if they believe (verses 17-24.) Israel has experienced a hardening in part until the full number of Gentiles have been saved (grafted in) and then all Israel will be saved. We are all candidates for mercy (verses 25-32.)

This is why I feel it is important to study our Jewish background. We are "grafted in Jews," [we as Christians are Israel and not Baptists, Methodists, Catholics, etc.]. We need to know who we are, where we come from and how we are to relate to our roots. Without this understanding, we can hardly expect to grasp the depth of the scripture. I would like to quote David Bivin and Roy Blizzard from their book Understanding the Difficult Words of Jesus. "The writers are Hebrew, the culture is Hebrew, the religion is Hebrew, the traditions are Hebrew, and the concepts are Hebrew."

Answer for yourself: If this is true, shouldn't we try to know just who the Hebrews were and are today?

Oh, by the way, is it not interesting that when Jesus was asked the greatest commandment in Mark 12:28-31, He answers by quoting The Shema? In other words, because God is One, then we are to love Him with all our heart, mind, soul, and strength, and those created in His image. So, basically, monotheism is the basic teaching of the Greatest Commandment, and loving God and His creations are how we carry it out. Shalom.

SINCE THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES SAYS "YOUNG WOMAN" AND NOT "VIRGIN"...HOW DID IT GET CHANGED IN THE NEW TESTAMENT REFERENCES?

There are a number of alleged messianic prophecies about Jesus' birth: prophecies about the location, manner, and time of his birth, about his genealogy, and about events which were to occur at the time of his birth. Probably the most famous of these prophecies is the prophecy that Jesus would be born of a virgin.

The virgin shall conceive idea (Matthew 1:23) comes from the Septuagint, the Ancient Greek translation of the Old Testament. The Hebrew original is now translated as "young woman" (Isaiah 7:14, Revised Standard Version, New English Bible, Good News Bible). Isaiah 7:10 - 8:4, the passage it comes from, is about Isaiah conceiving a child by the young woman, apparently in front of witnesses, as part of a prophecy about Assyria (Isaiah 8:1-4). Little wonder that there is scepticism about the idea of the virgin birth of Jesus.

The gospels of Matthew (1:18-25) and Luke (1:26-35) both claim that Jesus was born of a virgin, but only Matthew (1:23) appeals to the Hebrew scriptures as an explanation for why this should be the case. The verse appealed to is Isaiah 7:14, which reads: "Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: Behold, a young woman will be with child and bear a son, and she will call his name Immanuel."

There are a number of difficulties with this passage. As many have noted, the Hebrew word translated as "virgin" in this verse is "almah," which is more accurately translated simply as "young woman." The Hebrew word "bethulah" means "virgin," and this word is not used in Isa. 7:14. In the book of Isaiah, "bethulah" appears four times (23:12, 37:22, 47:1, 62:5), so its author was aware of the word and could have used it in Isa 7:14 if he so desired to convey the idea of a "virgin birth.". In the New American Standard translation of the Bible, all other appearances of "almah" are translated simply as "girl," "maid," or "maiden" (viz: Genesis 24:43, Exodus 2:8, Psalms 68:25, Proverbs 30:19, Song of Solomon 1:3, 6:8). Thus the claimed fulfillment, as found in the New Testament, adds a biologically impossible condition which is not even present in the original prophecy.

DOES YOUR BIBLE TRANSLATE ISAIAH 7:14 CORRECTLY?

Answer for yourself: What does all these Christian translations of the Bible have in common?

Revised Standard Version

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, a young woman shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.

Revised English Bible

Because you do, the Lord of his own accord will give you a sign; it is this: A young woman is with child, and she win give birth to a son and call him Immanuel.

since ot says young woman and not virgin will conceive how did it get changed in the new testament references?

New English Bible

Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign: A young woman is with child, and she will bear a son, and win can him Immanuel.

New Revised Standard Version

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Look, the young woman is with child and shall bear a son, and shall name him Immanuel.

The Message of the Bible

He will give you a sign. A young woman shall bear a son who shall truly represent the hopes we have inherited from the days of David. His very name, 'G-d-is-with-us,' shall express the secret of his power.

Good News Bible

Well then, the Lord himself will give you a sign: a young woman who is pregnant will have a son and will name him 'Immanuel.'

New World Translation of the Holy Scriptures (Jehovah Witnesses)

Therefore Jehovah himself will give you men a sign: Look! The maiden herself win actually become pregnant, and she is giving birth to a son, and she will certainly call his name Immanuel.

The Jerusalem Bible: Readers Edition

The Lord himself, therefore, will give you a sign. It is this: the maiden is with child and will soon give birth to a son whom she will call Immanuel.

The Bible: A New Translation

An omen you shall have, and that from the Eternal himself. There is a young woman with child, who shall bear a son and call his name

The International Critical Commentary

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, a damsel is with child, and shall bring forth a son, and call his name Immanuel.

The Layman's Bible Commentary

In reply, Isaiah says that the Lord will provide a sign. It will be a most unusual and remarkable event. A young woman shall bear a son and name him "Immanuel," meaning "G-d is with us."

The Bible: An American Translation

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: Behold! a young woman is with child, and is about to bear a son; and she will call him 'G-d is with us.'

The New Jerusalem Bible

The Lord will give you a sign in any case: It is this: the young woman is with child and will give birth to a son whom she will call Immanuel.

World Biblical Commentary

Therefore my Lord himself will give you (pi)a sign. Behold, the woman shall conceive and bearing a son -she shall call his name Immanuel."

Well I hope you got it, but if you didn't let me help you. None of these translations render the word "almah" [young woman in Hebrew] as "virgin." Each of these translations translated Isa. 7:14 CORRECTLY!

Answer for yourself: Then why does the quote from this passage in Matthew 1:20-23 not say "young woman" and says "virgin" instead?

WHAT IF YOU DON'T HAVE ONE OF THESE TRANSLATIONS?

If you don't have access to one of these translations, and are not familiar with Hebrew of the original passage from which the New Testament quotes from, then this is what you would read in the New Testament which is based off a faulty interpretation of Isa. 7:14:

Matthew 1:20-23

(20) But when he had considered this, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying Joseph, thou son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary as your wife; for that which has been conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit. (21) And she will bear a son; and you shall call his name Jesus, for it is he who will save his people from their sins." (22) Now all this took place that what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet might be fulfilled, saying, (23) "Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bear a son, a they shall call his name Immanuel," which translated means, G-d is with us."

Answer for yourself: Did you notice a difference; namely that the quote of Isa. 7:14 as taken from the Old Testament and the Masoretic Text, does not say the same in the New Testament as it does in the Old Testament? Why not?

Answer for yourself: What is the Masoretic Text of OT?

This is the Hebrew text of the Old Testament as it was translated by the Masoretes who lived around 750-1000 C.E. The Masoretes were Jewish scholars. They had two different schools, Tiberian and Babylonian, and the Tiberian translation of the Old Testament is used in today's Hebrew Bibles.

You should be very curious at this point as you try to understand how "young woman" in the Hebrew as defined by "almah" in Hebrew came to mean "virgin" in the Greek as defined by "parthenos" and later in the English translations of the New Testament since the original from which it was taken does not covey such an idea.

LET US EXAMINE THE ORIGINAL MASORETIC TEXT OF ISAIAH

since ot says young woman and not virgin will conceive how did it get changed in the new testament references?

7:1-7, 10-16...THE BIBLE YESHUA READ

1. And it came to pass in the days of Ahaz son of Jotham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, marched on Jerusalem to wage war against it, and he could not war against it. 2. And it was told to the House of David, saying, "Aram has allied itself with Ephraim," and his heart and the heart of his people trembled as the trees of the forest tread because of the wind. 3. And the Lord said to Isaiah, "Now go out toward Ahaz, you and Shear-Yasb your son to the edge of the conduit of the upper pool, to the road of the washer's field. 4. And you sin say to him, "Feel secure and calm yourself, do not fear, and let your heart not be faint because of the two smoking stubs of firebrands, because of the raging anger of Rizin and Aram and the son of Remalia 5. Since Aram planned harm to you, Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, saying: C. 'Let us go up again Judah and provoke it, and annex it to us; and let us crown a king in its midst, one who is good for us.' 7.So said the Lord G-d, 'Neither shall it succeed, nor shall it come to pass..."' 10. And the Lord continue to speak to Ahaz, saying, 11. "Ask for yourself a sign from the Lord, your G-d; ask it either in the depth or in the heights above." 12. And Ahaz said, "I will not ask and I will not test the Lord." 13. And h said, "Listen now, O House of David, is it little for you to weary men, that you weary my G-d as well? 14 Therefore the Lord, of His own, shall give you a sign; behold the young woman is with child, and she shall bear a son, and she shall call his name Immanuel. 15. Cream and hone he shall eat when he knows to reject bad and choose good. 16. For, when the lad does not yet know to reject bad and choose good, the land whose two kings you dread, shall be abandoned."

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that the Masoretic Text of Isaiah 7:14 agreed with the Christian versions of the same passage given at the beginning of this article?

Answer for yourself: So How Did We Go From "Young Woman" in the Old Testament to "Virgin" in the New Testament in quoting the same verse?

Simply the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures chose another word in place of "almah-young woman" which conveyed a completely different idea..."parthenos-virgin."

Answer for yourself: But does "parthenos" always convey the idea of a virgin birth every time it is used?

IS "PARTHENOS" ALWAYS USED FOR A VIRGIN? NO

An example of the word "Parthenos" as used in the Greek Translation of the Hebrew Scriptures...called the Septuagint.. where the person it is referring to is clearly not a virgin:

Genesis 34:2-4 (King James)

And when Shechem the son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, saw her, he took her, and lay with her, and defiled her. And his soul cave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damsel (Septuagint..parthenon) and spake kindly unto the damsel (Sept...parthenon). And Shechem spake unto his father Hamor, saying, Get me this damsel to wife.

As you can see for yourself, after Dinah had slept with Shechem and was no longer a virgin, she is referred to as "parthenon" in the Greek translation of the Hebrew passage. Yet at this time she is no longer a virgin. Since describing her as "parthenon" and since she is definitely in a non-virginious condition, to force the meaning of the word "parthenon" to mean "virgin" as it is done in translating Isa. 7:14 is wrong and can be easily shown to be a arbitrary decision of the Gentile Greek translators based upon their existing theology and religious belief system at the time.

Thus, but its own admission in the Genesis 34:2-4 passage, the Greek Translation of the Hebrew Bible (the Septuagint LXX) uses the same word used in translating Isaiah 7:14 (which is correctly recorded for us as "a young woman" in Isa. 7:14) in a way in Genesis 34:2-4 which does not mean "virgin" at all, but rather meaning one who has previously had intercourse. Thus to use the same word to mean "non-virgin" in Gen. 34:2-4 and later to mean "virgin" in Isa. 7:14 breaks the laws of Biblical Interpretation. Clearly the decision to used a definition foreign to the original interpretation of the word as seen in its "first use" in Genesis 34:2-4 is nothing but an arbitrary decision on the part of the translators due to their religious bias and previously head religious belief system. Such an interpretation on their part does injustice to the original concept from which they translated, because "ha almah" in Hebrew meant "a young women" and not necessarily a "virgin" as we are erroneously led to believe by the translators of the Greek Scriptures.

THE OXFORD COMPANION TO THE BIBLE TELLS THE TRUTH

Isaiah's intent in discussing this child is clearly to set a time frame for the destruction of Israel. There is nothing miraculous about the mother or the conception process. The Hebrew word used alma, means simply "young woman," without any implication of virginity. The Greek word parthenos used to translate alma can mean either a young woman or a virgin. What we as Christians need to understand is that Matthew (or the writer of Gospel of Matthew who was other than the Apostle) used a Greek Bible, so he naturally reinterpreted Isaiah 7:14 as a prophecy referring to the virgin birth of Jesus. For the evangelist, Isaiah's original meaning was superseded by the identification of Jesus as Immanuel (Grk. Emmanuouel). [Daniel N. Schowalter, The Oxford Companion To The Bible. Excerpt from Virgin Birth of Christ,' New York: Oxford University Press, 1993, pg. 790].

JOSEPHUS INFORMS US THAT THE JEWISH INTERPRETERS OF THE SEPTUAGINT ONLY TRANSLATED THE LAW OF MOSES....5 BOOKS ...THE REST WAS DONE BY GENTILES...NO WONDER THE MISTAKES ABOUND

"I found, therefore, that the second of the Ptolemies was a king who was extraordinarily diligent in what concerned learning and the collection of books; that he was also peculiarly ambitious to procure a translation of our law...into the Greek tongue...for he did not obtain all our writings at that time; but those who were sent to Alexandria as interpreters gave him only the books of the law, while there were a vast number of other matters in our sacred books. [Josephus, Preface To Antiquities, Section 3].

You may have not noticed, but this often overlooked piece of information is of tremendous importance. For years in debates with other Christians, they have reasoned that the Rabbis translated the "whole" of the Hebrew Scriptures into Greek, thus meaning that they were responsible for the Isaiah translation of "virgin" as in the Septuagint. Now we see for sure that they only translated the first five books of Moses, and were not responsible for the rest. Now it is rather easy to see how the early Essenes, who were involved in sun-worship in Alexandria, Egypt, would translate as virgin...since all the sun-g-dmen were born of virgins. It is time to study these subjects out to see how the Jewish Masoretic text was corrupted by them and how many succeeding theological doctrines cherished and held today by Christians are pagan to the core. They Essenes of Alexandria, to provide clout to their theological positions, produced a translation of the Jewish Scriptures that the Jews of Palestine could not accept, but which yet gave them authority in Alexandria among the other theological sects which they competed with for authority.

PROBLEMS ABOUT AND SURROUNDING THE VIRGIN BIRTH

The Virgin Birth is among those concepts that are crucial to an adequate understanding of Christianity, one of the stones in the ideological foundation. Yet, like other stories, it is permeated with problems and contradictions that need to be exposed.

Most of the difficulties associated with the Virgin Birth arise from within the Bible itself. To begin with, several statements contend Mary was a virgin at the time of the birth and that Joseph did not have contact with her until afterwards (Luke 1:34-35, Matt. 1:24-25, 1:18, 20), while other verses say Jesus was Joseph's son (John 1:45, 6:42, Luke 2:27, 41, 4:22, Luke 2:33,43 in NASB, Matt. 13:55, Luke 3:23). Even Mary said Joseph was the father of Jesus (Luke 2:48) and she ought to know. Several others verses show Jesus had a natural birth according to the flesh (Rom. 1:3, 9:5). It's hard to believe the birth was natural if one of the parents was an Un-natural Holy Spirit.

A second major problem connected with the Virgin Birth arises from some of the previously-mentioned verses which allege Joseph was the actual father of Jesus. According to the genealogies in the first chapter of Matthew (1-16) and the third chapter of Luke (23-31) Joseph was a descendant of David. Therefore, Jesus was a descendant of David, which is required of one claiming the Messiahship (Jer. 23:5, 2 Sam. 7:12-13, Psalms 89:3-4, 132:11). But Joseph couldn't be the father of Jesus and Jesus couldn't be of David's seed (2 Tim. 2:8, Acts 13:22-23, Rev. 22:16) "according to the flesh" (Rom. 1:3, 9:5) if he emerged from a virgin birth.

Christians must abandon one of two concepts, either the Virgin Birth or Messiahship of Jesus. They are incompatible. How could he be of David's descent "according to the flesh" if Joseph was not his physical father. A virgin birth would destroy the physical chain, the link between David and any possibility of being the Messiah of Davidic lineage.

Apologists attempt to resolve this dilemma by alleging one of the genealogies (Luke 3) pertains to Mary not Joseph. It allegedly shows he is a physical descendant of David and since Jesus was from her flesh he is also a physical descendant of David and can claim the Messiahship. However, there are several problems with this explanation. Although Joseph was from the house of David (Luke 1:27, 2:4), Mary appears NOT to have been from the house of Judah since her cousin Elizabeth (Luke 1:36) was a daughter of Aaron, i.e. from the house of Levi (Luke 1:5). Moreover, Mary's name is never mentioned in the genealogy of Luke 3 and only arises incidentally in that of Matthew 1. Both genealogies clearly pertain to Joseph. Both clearly trace the descent of Joseph not Mary. In fact, none of the genealogies in either the Old or New Testament trace the lineage of a woman. Women are never given a position of such importance in the Bible as to merit a genealogy and there is no evidence Luke 3 provides an exception. The superiority granted men in the Bible would forestall any possibility of women being considered as equals.

A third problem arising from the birth of Jesus lies in the fact that the Bible repeatedly says nothing pure can come from woman (Job 25:4, 14:4, Job 15:14 NIV) and anyone touching a woman within seven days after she has menstruated (Lev. 15:19) is impure. Mary had to be purified (Luke 2:22-24) according to the Old Testament law (Lev. 12:8) and it's difficult to see how Jesus could have avoided touching her during these periods. Mary was under the curse of sin like all of us and thus, was no purer than anyone else. Realizing the problem an impure Mary presents, Catholics tried to resolve this difficulty by proclaiming the Immaculate Conception in 1854. They alleged that Mary herself was conceived apart from sin: she was pure. But that does not resolve the problem; it's only removed one step.

Answer for yourself: If this were true how could Mary's sinful parents produce a pure daughter?

Answer for yourself: Moreover, if Mary were sinless, like Jesus, then why would she say in Luke 1:47: "And my spirit hath rejoiced in G-d my Saviour"?

Answer for yourself: If Mary had been sinless, holy, and the mother of G-d, why did she need a Saviour? According to Christianity only sinners need saviours.

A fourth problem with the Virgin Birth arises from the wording of Isaiah 7:14 which supposedly prophesies the virgin birth of Jesus. According to the King James Version (KJV) the verses says: "...Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son and call his name Immanuel." Translators hotly debate the use of the word "virgin" which came from the Hebrew word "almah." Hebraic scholars say "almah" means a "young woman" not a virgin. They further contend that the real Hebrew word for virgin is "bethulah." They refer to Gen. 24:43 and Ex. 2:8 which show "almah" means a maid, not virgin.

Answer for yourself: Who knows Hebrew better, the Hebrews or the Christians, and the Hebrews say in their Masoretic text that "almah" should be translated as the young woman, not virgin?

Some scholars further allege that "shall conceive" should have been translated as "is with" child which is in the present tense and shows the prophecy pertains to a woman existing in Isaiah's time.

Other critics of Christianity's claim note that "shall conceive" was translated from "harah" which actually means “has Conceived." They say "harah" (conceived) is the Hebrew perfect tense, which represents past completed action in English.

Additional evidence that Isaiah 7:14 does not pertain to Jesus lies in the fact that Jesus was never referred to as Immanuel in the New Testament., is never called Immanuel except by those who do so in order to fulfill the prophecy, and according to Luke 1:31 was to be called Jesus, not Immanuel.

A fifth problem associated with the Virgin Birth is that some Christians allege Mary remained a virgin after the birth of Jesus. But this couldn't have occurred unless all of Jesus' brothers and sisters were products of virgin births also. Many verses show Jesus had brothers and sisters (Matt. 13:55-56, Mark 6:3, Gal. 1:15, Luke 8:19, John 2:12, 7:3-5, 7:10, Acts 1:14), that Jesus was only the first of several offspring (Luke 2:7), and that Joseph had no contact with Mary till she had brought forth her firstborn (Matt. 1:25).

Besides these major problems, there are also several more difficulties related to the Virgin Birth.

If Joseph was the natural father of Jesus as some previously-mentioned verses allege then Jesus was illegitimate, a bastard, since Joseph and Mary were engaged, not married. Luke 2:5 proves the latter quite clearly in the Revised Standard Version (RSV), the New American Standard Version (NAS), and the New International (NI) Version.

Moreover, some say that Jesus couldn't claim the throne of David. To quote the fundamentalists: "...if Jesus had been sired by Joseph, He would not have been able to claim the legal rights to the throne of David. According to the prophecy of Jeremiah 22:28-30, there could be no king in Israel who was a Descendant of King Jeconiah, and Matthew 1:12 relates that Joseph was from the line of Jeconiah. Some say that if Jesus had been fathered by Joseph, He could not rightly inherit the throne of David, since he was a relative of the cursed line."

This problem, concerning this one criticism, is answered in fact that 3 curses were put on Jeconiah…no posterity was to sit upon the throne, he was to remain childless, and poor. But history recounts his repentance in captivity and that he amassed great wealth and children while there. It seems that 2 of the 3 punishments were removed since his sincere repentance.

Answer for yourself: Does it not stand to right that the third was removed by G-d as well…that his descendants could again sit upon the throne of David?

Well out of all these criticisms of the Virgin-Birth position of Christian theology I can honestly say that I have only one response to the "positive," and that is the one dealing with the Jeconiah curse. Otherwise, as stated above and in the other articles in this series the evidence stands overwhelmingly opposed to any credible belief in the Virgin-Birth.

BORN OF A VIRGIN? FULFILLED OR UNFULFILLED?

The following passage is taken from the Christian New Testament: Matthew 1:22-1:23 (KJV)

Now all this happened, in order that it might be fulfilled, that which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying, "Look! A virgin shall be with child, and she shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emanu-El", which being interpreted is, 'GOd is with us'.

Now lets read the passage in the Palestinian Text…the Jewish Masoretic Text...the acutal Hebrew text...Tanakh.

[Isaiah 7:14 - Therefore He (my Lord) shall give to you a sign. Behold! The young woman is with child, and shall bring forth a son and call his name "Emanu-El".]

ANALYSIS

As we can see, the word "virgin" was not in the original Hebrew text.

The word "HaAlmah" (which is in the Hebrew text) means "the young woman", while the word for "virgin" is "Besulah."

The Hebrew word "HaAlmah" was purposefully mistranslated by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt, as "Besulah" in the translation of the Hebrew Scriptures into the Greek. We have taken pains of late to reveal to you that the Jews, contrary to false tradition, did not translate the Prophets or the Writings into Greek. The Rabbis only translated the Torah. This means that Alexandrian Jews or non-Jews translated the rest of the Jewish Scriptures into Greek much later and the Rabbis from Palestine had nothing to do with it. This explains why pagan traditions crept into the text and the translation.

Even so, this sentence was not speaking about the mother of Moshiach anyway! That's right, this is a non-Messianic verse, and being so, it is ridiculous that that is used by Christian preachers to "prove" that Jesus was Moshiach!

Some preachers even claim (incorrectly) that HaAlmah was often used to describe virgins, and that sometimes HaAlmah and Besulah were used interchangeably. This might explain why many of them believe in the "virgin birth". After all if the "virgin" is pregnant and is still a virgin, then it would make sense that she would always be referred to as a virgin. They have said "Show us a verse in Torah where a mother or a wife is called HaAlmah." It's in this verse.

Also, note the use of the word hinei, or "behold!". This word, when used before describing a future event, often indicates that the event will happen very soon. So in this case, a pregnant non-virginal woman will soon be giving birth to a son. The context of the verse is the 8th century before Yeshua and to believe or stretch the time frame for the event some 800 years is not "very soon" to say the least.

Answer for yourself: This could not be intentional, could it? Let us look at a typical response to this mistranslating of the original text:

Well, when the Rabbis translated the Torah from Hebrew to Greek, it became part of the problem in the translation."

Nice try, but it doesn't wash. First of all, as stated above, it wasn't Jews who translated the book of Prophets (Sepher Naviim). Let us not forget that this prophecy is from Isaiah, the prophet! As stated the Jews did not translate the passage in Isaiah 7.

Second, the Greek word "parthenos" (virgin) was used by Christian translators as the replacement for the Hebrew word Almah (young woman).

Answer for yourself: How did this quote get translated in the book of "Matthew" as virgin in every other language in the world when it remained young woman in the Tanach in it's original Hebrew form? Good question!

It was obviously done to promote the "virgin story of pagan mythologies" of which the non-Jews of almost every nation of the world who were involved in sun-worship were already familiar

We fail to realize the existing religious belief systems of the non-Jews to whom Paul went as well as other Gentile ambassadors of the faith in later times. The "virgin birth" of g-dman was a cardinal doctrine to almost all the non-Jews to whom the religion of Yeshua was taken. The "virgin-birth" was an effective bridge into the world and minds of non-Jews. It was easy to sell Jesus as just another "son of G-d who was born of a virgin" to those who already had many such "virgin-born g-dmen." Jesus was presented as just another one. You need to understand that such a change to the text of the Greek Scriptures happened over 200 years before Yeshua would be born and was never changed and intended to be a prophecy for the future Jesus. The alteration was done by the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt, in order to promote their views of the own unique "anointed avatar" sun-g-dman as against the views of other competing religious sects in Alexandria. Now the Essenes, have a "book" like the Jews, provided clout to their theological positions by altering the texts whereby their "unique solar theology" was given prophetic authority and presented as such to those of Alexandria who neither knew the truth of the Jewish Tanakh or that the texts were purposefully altered to promote the Essene position in the first place.

Regardless of tradition, it is said that 71 Rabbis translated the Torah; yet it was not they who translated the sefer naviim (book of prophets)! It was the result of Essene (proto-Christians) authors who translated sefer naviim from Hebrew into the language of the pagans. When the Christian bible was translated to Latin, the mistake was intentionally kept in, even though the original Hebrew text was still available!

When the Christian bible was again translated into English and other languages, again, this error was kept in placE.

SOMETHING ALL CHRISTIANS NEED TO HEAR AND REALIZE

Many Christians today are becoming honest with the text and with history. Sadly not all however. It wasn't until the early 1950's, a few versions of the Christian bible (beginning with Revised Standard Version of the Christian Bible) were changed back to "young woman," changing their Christian text to fit the Hebrew, but there are still many versions that have kept this in. Not that it matters, because this isn't even a Messianic prophecy! This use of the word "virgin" also become problematic for the Catholic Church, which has caused "Mother Worship" services, where the icon of Mary is prayed to in lieu of her offspring!

Answer for yourself: But if it wasn't Mary and Jesus, who was this passage talking about anyway?

The virgin-birth prophecy is not a messianic prophecy. If you read the entire quote, you will see that it concerns Ahaz ben Jotham of Judah at around 700 BCE. Isaiah is providing him with a prophesy. I'll paraphrase the entire section of the story in more contemporary language so that you get the gist of the context in which that passage was written. For the exact text, you can read Isaiah 7:10-7:17 for yourself.

- Ahaz: Alas! Our land is under siege. All around me are our enemies. Rezin, king of Aram is joining forces with king Pekah. What shall become of our land and our people with these Syrians coming after us? G-d has abandoned us to our enemies!
- Isaiah: Do you really want to know?
- Ahaz: I'd rather not.
- Isaiah: I will tell you anyway. G-d has not abandoned you or your people. Look at the young woman over there who is pregnant. G-d has not abandoned you, and this child will be called Emmanu-El because the people will see that G-d is with us. And what's more, before that child is old enough to tell the difference between good and evil, those kingdoms that you fear will have been abandoned.

Answer for yourself: So what discrepancies do we learn from this?

1. The child was not the focal-point of the passage, but was used as a sign.
2. The event was to happen very soon, 800 years before Jesus was even born. The word hinei emphasizes how soon the event will take place. Also, before the child is old enough to tell the difference between right and wrong (2-3 years), the war will have been over and the enemy cities abandoned.
3. This is not a Messianic prophecy, but one that tells Ahaz that he shall vanquish his enemies and that the war will not be a long one.
4. There is nothing virginal about this passage. The young woman needs not be a virgin to give birth to her child; one that I might add is fully human (not a g-dman as the pagans had taught for millennia...all connected with sun-worship of the non-Jewish nations). King Ahaz was a Jew and not a Gentile!
5. The message here is that when one has faith in HaShem, that ones enemies will fall and that ones kingdom will prosper.

SO WHAT IS THE IDENTITY OF THE CHILD...CAN WE KNOW?

It is believed by many scholars that the woman, who stood near the king and the prophet during their conversation, was probably the wife of the king, and was giving birth to his son.

Rashi thought that the verse spoke about Hezekiah. When Hezekiah was 9 years old, his father became king over their land and the land of their enemies. Hezekiah was also know as the "Prince of Peace", a term that Christians have delegated to Jesus, which is an interesting "coincidence". However, Ibn Ezra refutes the idea because of the time delay involved. Notice that Isaiah 9 comes after Isaiah 7.

Answer for yourself: That being so is it possible that the troublesome passages in Isaiah 9 concerning a child that is born be the same child of Isaiah 7, and since Hezekiah was called "Prince of Peace," and since there is no "to be verbs" in Hebrew, then could this be strong evidence that the identity of the child in Isaiah 7 and 9 was none other than Hezekiah? You will have to be the judge.

It doesn't matter who the child was, however. The child was not the focal point of the prophecy, but only an interesting sidebar.

As I said before, this was not a Messianic prophecy, and it definitely had nothing to do with Jesus.

Since all Jews knew the above information as presented in this article, then who the heck is writing the supposed fulfilled "virgin prophecy" of Matthew? And surely G-d knew the difference, and that being so, don't try and tell me the Holy Spirit had anything to do with Matthew as we now are beginning to see the corruption of the New Testament which goes unnoticed by almost all...that is until they begin serious study. I and others have and make our results known to you.

THE DOCTRINE OF THE VIRGIN BIRTH WAS NOT TAUGHT BY THE EARLY CHURCH

Because the traditions of the virgin birth and the legends which venerate Mary have been so much a part of the culture and system of dogma of the church, it could logically be supposed that such traditions and stories and the doctrines which were derived from them would have been widely supported by both canonical and non-canonical literature as well as by documentary or other historical evidence. But no literature or historical records which can be dated before the end of the second century support the dogma of the virgin birth. One should not be too surprised by this. Neither of the birth traditions recorded in the gospels of Matthew and Luke are even mentioned anywhere else in the New Testament. And the doctrine of the virgin birth was not taught by the leaders of the primitive church in Jerusalem.

There is not a single reference -- either direct or indirect -- to the virgin birth of Jesus in the entire book of Acts. It must be presumed, therefore, that the doctrine had absolutely no place in the preaching of the apostles.

The writer whom we judged to be probably the most scholarly as well as the most able and thorough defender of the dogma of the virgin birth was J. Gresham Machen. Nevertheless, in his discussion of the relation of the birth narratives to the rest of the New Testament, he was forced to conclude: "From the foregoing review of the evidence, it appears that the virgin birth was not known during the early life of Jesus and even after the resurrection probably did not form a part of the missionary preaching of the earliest apostolic church." [J. Gresham Machen, The Virgin Birth of Jesus, p 263.]

This admission that the doctrine of the virgin birth was not a part of the missionary preaching of the apostles during the period of the early expansion of the church is confirmed by the fact that neither the Christology of Paul nor the theologies of any of the New Testament evangelists depended upon the belief that Jesus was miraculously conceived and subsequently born of a virgin. It will come as a surprise to many Christians that it is actually impossible to fit the doctrine of the virgin birth into the theology of the primitive church -- certainly as that theology is stated in the New Testament. Machen was absolutely correct when he admitted that the doctrine of the virgin birth had no place in the preaching of the apostles. Because the earliest apostolic missionaries never mentioned the belief that Jesus was miraculously conceived and subsequently born of a virgin mother, it may reasonably be concluded that they did not think it necessary to endorse it -- if in fact they had heard of it.

EXAMINING THE LETTERS OF PAUL

Paul never mentions the virgin birth. He does not even allude to it in connection with the creation or the rationalization of any of his doctrines. The logical conclusion must be that he did not believe that Jesus' birth was unusual. But silence alone cannot prove the absence of belief. So, although it is logical to conclude that Paul did not accept the doctrine of the virgin birth, that conclusion cannot be proved to someone who is unwilling to accept it. To do this would require providing an exegesis of every verse of Paul's writings to the end of demonstrating that none of them supported the theory that Jesus was born of a virgin.

Fortunately it is unnecessary to be so thorough. Assuming that Paul's reasoning is consistent throughout his theology, all one needs to do to determine whether his views can be harmonized with a belief in the virgin birth or whether they preclude such a belief is to analyze a few of his fundamental doctrines as he stated them in letters to certain churches. We have made a rather extended examination of two of his more unique doctrines. That examination requires us to conclude that Paul did not -- in fact, could not -- believe that Jesus' birth was extraordinary. Our conclusion is based largely upon the fact that Paul argued that Jesus was born just as all other human beings were born, that his birth was "common" to all men.

Galatians 4:4-7

When Paul wrote to the Galatians about the birth of Jesus, he stated: "But when the time had fully come, God sent forth his son, born of woman, born under the law . . ." (Galatians 4:4 RSV).

One phrase from this statement deserves particular attention. That phrase is normally translated, "born of woman" -- or "born of a woman." Two translations, however, have the passage read, "born of a human mother." It seems at first that this translation, found in both The Good News Bible and The New Testament in Modern English, stretches the literal meaning of the original language. But a close scrutiny of these words in their context shows that this is the reading which expresses precisely what Paul intended to say to the Galatians. The Greek word he chose to use here was the word for "married woman" or "mother" [gune] instead of the word [parthenos]. “Gune” refers normally to a woman who was married and had borne a child. “Parthenos” refers to any young woman of marriageable age. It would be used occasionally of a young woman even after she had been married but had not yet become a mother. The correct reading of Paul's words is, therefore, "born of a human mother."

It has been argued extensively that Mary's conception was miraculous even though Jesus' birth was perfectly normal. Consequently, the argument runs, it was quite proper to apply the term “gune” to Mary; and because it meant "a married woman who had borne a child," thus, "a human mother," then Mary qualified for the designation “gune”, even though she was a true virgin.

The trouble here is that the advocates of the virgin birth read into Paul's statement to the Galatians all those assumptions about Mary being a true virgin. Paul said absolutely nothing here -- or anywhere else -- to warrant that opinion. Furthermore, it is very questionable whether any of the Galatians had ever heard of either of the birth traditions. And, even if some of them were familiar with at least one, there would surely be others who were not. So it cannot be assumed that the Galatians would read the concept of Mary's virginity into their understanding of this passage. Paul makes no inference here -- much less a direct assertion -- to the effect that Jesus' conception had been unusual.

Paul was actually claiming precisely the opposite. He was stressing to the Galatians that Jesus had been born of "a human mother" just like everyone else had been. The language Paul used here, especially his word for "woman," indicates he was convinced that Jesus' birth was perfectly normal in every respect.

It is essential to understand the context here. Paul first explains to the Galatians that in the past "when we were children, we were slaves to the elemental spirits of the universe" (Galatians 4:3 RSV. Then he tells how God had concluded that the appropriate time had come for him to send his Son to "redeem those who were under the law" (Galatians 4:5 RSV). He states further that God had concluded also that to accomplish this the Son had to become one with those he was coming to redeem. That is, he must be subject to the Law the same as everyone else. This, of course, would require him to be born of woman just as they had been. Paul puts the entire matter into a remarkable statement, one which should be perfectly clear, but which is often misinterpreted. Read how Phillips translates it:

"But when the proper time came God sent his Son, born of a human mother and born under the jurisdiction of the Law, that he might redeem those who were under the authority of the Law and lead us into becoming, by adoption, true sons of God" (Galatians 4:4-5 Phillips).

Paul is affirming here the reality of Jesus' humanity under the Law. This means that Jesus, like everyone else, was subject to the Law. Paul gives no hint that he believes Jesus was born in a miraculous manner. The impression he gives, and obviously the impression he intends to give, is that Jesus' birth was exactly like that which is common to all men.

This passage from Galatians is often pointed to as one of Paul's clearest and strongest statements about the incarnation. We cannot view this statement as going that far. But it is an affirmation that Paul believed that Jesus was the Son of God. Had Paul believed in the virgin birth, he surely would have mentioned it to support this understanding. Instead, he tacitly denies a belief in the virgin birth when he equates Jesus' birth to that of all others who had been born "under the law."

ROMANS 1:3-4

One of the more significant statements of Paul is found in Romans l:3-4. It provides the theological foundation for several of his doctrines which are stated later in his Letter to the Romans. The language of most translations obscures Paul's meaning Somewhat. No translation, we believe, gives an easily understandable and at the same time a fully accurate rendition of what Paul actually said. This is evidenced by the differences in language in the several versions we have been consulting. We have very little trouble with the translation of The New English Bible, except for its inclusion of one phrase. The concept of "the Holy Spirit" is incorrectly introduced into an otherwise brilliant reading. This concept is used here with the meaning it carried a century or so later. Our quarrel with this particular translation is not with the generic meaning of "Holy Spirit" but with the fact that this term is not found in Paul's original language. Paul never refers to "the Holy Spirit" in this passage. Moreover, other translators do not introduce it into their translations. Among the twelve versions we have been using, The New English Bible is the only one in which "the Holy Spirit" appears. Some versions do speak of "the Spirit of holiness," capitalizing "Spirit," in the attempt to identify "spirit" as "Holy Spirit." This cannot be justified, however, because the word Paul used in this context was 'pneuma." It is the general word for "spirit." It must be translated without capitalizing "s". A few translators have resolved the problem by using "his divine holiness" or an equivalent. Notice how Paul differentiates between the two "levels" of Jesus' person-hood: "It [the gospel] is about his Son: on the human level he was born of David's stock, but on the level of the spirit . . . he was declared Son of God by a mighty act in that he rose from the dead; it is about Jesus Christ our Lord"

(Romans l:3-4 NEB).

What is important here is that Paul was noting how Jesus had a peculiar relationship with God on two levels. On the human level, God designated him as "the Anointed One," that is, as "the Christ." Paul regularly used the Greek synonym, Christ, for Messiah. On the level of the spirit, God declared Jesus to be Son of God on the occasion of raising him from the dead.

Paul points out that on the human level ("according to the flesh") Jesus was qualified to be designated as "the Anointed One." Paul never uses the Hebrew title "Messias". But he is constantly adding its Greek synonym "Christ" to Jesus' name. He was thereby stipulating that Jesus was the "Messias." In Paul's terminology this means "the Christ" by virtue of being born of David's stock.

Answer for yourself: But how had he descended from David? Through his father, Joseph. Because Paul stipulated that Jesus was "of David's stock" he was thereby stipulating also that Joseph was his father. This proves that Paul could not have believed that Jesus was conceived miraculously by the Holy Spirit and was subsequently born of a true virgin – born therefore without a human father. In such a case he would not have been "of David's stock."

But being eligible to be selected as "The Anointed One" did not automatically make Jesus that. Paul believed that Jesus received that designation when God raised him from the dead. Therefore, it was Paul's understanding that Jesus was not really "the Anointed One" prior to his resurrection.

Something else happened when Jesus was raised from the dead. It happened on the level of the spirit. Note how Paul puts it: ". .. on the level of the spirit . . . he was declared Son of God by a mighty act in that he rose from the dead: it is about Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans l:4 NEB). This passage shows clearly that Paul was convinced Jesus was the Son of God. It also confirms that Paul believed that Jesus was not to be regarded as the Son of God prior to his resurrection. Paul asserts here that Jesus became the Son of God at the time of his supposed resurrection.

One must not overlook either of the emphases Paul made in this extremely important -- yet often misunderstood -- passage. On the human level, Jesus' relationship with God was as God's Anointed One. But on the spiritual level, his relationship was as Son. This means that Jesus was Son of God on the spiritual level. It is significant that Paul believed that both of these relationships were achieved upon the occasion of Jesus' supposed resurrection.

For the purpose of this study, the most important fact which has come to light is that in Paul's view neither Jesus' relation to God on the human (physical) level as his "Anointed One" -- thus, as the Messiah -- nor his relation to God on the spiritual level as His "Son," had anything to do with the manner of his birth. Paul believed that both relationships were achieved when Jesus was resurrected.

This means that according to Paul, Jesus' divine Son-ship -- in all its aspects -- came neither by virtue of his ancestry nor from his manner of birth but because of and in connection with his resurrection.

ROMANS 5:12-21

Paul presents one of his key doctrines in Romans 5:l2-21. Inasmuch as these verses will be examined thoroughly in a later section, we need only to note here that this passage about the so-called "Second Adam" also precludes Paul's believing in the virgin birth.

PAUL'S CHRISTOLOGY

Many volumes have been written for the purpose of stating, or explaining, or defending Paul's Christology. Even if we felt competent to compose an analysis of Paul's doctrine of Jesus as the Christ, no such analysis is needed here. It is only necessary to point out that Paul is completely silent about the virgin birth. This means that the subject is never mentioned or alluded to in any of his Christolgoical passages. The most impressive thing about Paul's silence here is not just that he is completely silent but that he does not say anything in those areas where his silence is inexplicable if he knew of and accepted either of the birth traditions of Matthew and Luke. Paul obviously was able to develop what was to him a complete and consistent Christology without the use of or the dependence upon the concept of a miraculous conception of Jesus and his subsequent birth of a virgin.

EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS

The author of The Epistle to the Hebrews, while not an eyewitness (Hebrews 2:3), does have a vivid knowledge of several events in the life of Jesus and in the early church. He was obviously knowledgeable about the contemporary beliefs and activities of the early Christians. But he, like Paul, was completely silent about any understanding that Jesus was born of a virgin.

This early Christian writer emphasized that Jesus was human. If one is surprised by this emphasis, he should know that there was abroad a heresy which insisted that Jesus was entirely divine and not in the least human. However, it was the contention of this New Testament theologian that Jesus assumed his humanity temporarily in order to become a worthy High Priest and thereby be the source of eternal salvation. In the course of his explanation of how Jesus became temporarily human ("for a little while was made a little lower than the angels," Hebrews 2:9 RSV) this unknown author could have referred to Jesus' birth. Inasmuch as he did not, one must presume that he did not consider such a reference to be necessary or even valuable, although the doctrine of the virgin birth could have supported his stated belief that Jesus was "made a little lower than the angels."

Possibly the author of Hebrews did not refer to the birth traditions because he had not heard them. Or it may be that he was aware of them but rejected the claims being made in them because he believed that Jesus' birth occurred in a completely normal way. This can be deduced from the fact that he made Jesus' humanity -- his perfect humanity -- the basis for his ministry of redemption. It was Jesus' perfect obedience as a human which proved that he was the perfect Son of God. It had nothing to do with how he was born.

The gist of the theology of this unknown author is found in the references we pointed to at the beginning of this section. The one verse which expresses his view best is: "For the one who makes men holy and the men who are made holy share a common humanity" (Hebrews 2:ll Phillips).

This early Christian theologian accepts Jesus as a human being as well as a Son of God. But he does not predicate Jesus' Son-ship upon a virgin birth. When he states that Jesus and the ones he came to "make holy" "share a common humanity," he proves that he considers Jesus' birth to have been exactly like that of all other humans. Their humanity was common.

He confirms all of the previous conclusions when he adds later: "Therefore he had to be made like his brethren in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make expiation for the sins of the people. For because he himself has suffered and been tempted, he is able to help those who are tempted" (Hebrews 2:l7-l8 RSV). This entire passage is significant, of course, but the phrase, "in every respect," must be singled out for emphasis. This generalization does not allow for the exclusion of any phase of Jesus' humanity.

The intent of the author of Hebrews was obviously to prove the perfect humanity of Jesus, a humanity he describes as just like that of all other humans. It must follow that he could not have believed the tenets of the dogma of the virgin birth, a dogma which declares that Jesus was not born like other humans.

THE REMAINDER OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

Because none of the gospel writers, nor Paul, nor any apostle ever mentioned the virgin birth, it is not surprising that neither the Pastoral or Catholic Epistles nor the Apocalypse of John ever refers to it either.

The complete silence of the book of James, however, is a different matter. If the writer of this book was James, the brother of Jesus who became the patriarch of the church at Jerusalem --as numerous scholars believe -- then his silence about how Jesus was born must be viewed as saliently significant because it cannot be attributed to ignorance. Had his brother Jesus been conceived in a miraculous way, James would surely have been told of it after Jesus' resurrection if not before.

Or, if the book of James, as now found in the New Testament, is a revision and expansion of the teachings of Jesus' brother James -- as some are convinced --then that editor certainly would have confirmed in his revision of the earlier work that Jesus' birth was miraculous if he understood such was the case. However, because there is nothing in the book of James which even hints that there was anything extraordinary about the birth of Jesus, it must be concluded that the author of James -- whoever he was -- must have believed that Jesus' birth was normal. Our personal view, derived from considerable investigation and reflection, is that the Book of James was written by an early Christian (whether Jesus' brother or not) who was voicing his disagreement with some of Paul's doctrines.

BUT NOT ALL AGREE WITH US....

A few scholars disagree with our claim that the "rest" of the New Testament is silent about the virgin birth. They offer two passages which they insist support the view that Jesus was born in a miraculous manner. The two passages are: I Timothy 3:l6 and Revelation 12.

The problem with the verse in I Timothy is that ancient manuscripts give varied readings for one word. One sentence of the verse reads in The Revised Standard Version: "He was manifested in the flesh" (I Timothy 3:l6 RSV). A footnote reading in that version points out that the Greek word which is translated "he" really means "who." Moreover, some manuscripts use "God" and a few use "which." If the word "God" is used, then the verse supports the doctrine of the incarnation, but it still makes no clear reference to the virgin birth. Phillips seems to have caught the meaning of the verse without using "he," "which," or "God:" "No one would deny that this religion of ours is a tremendous mystery, resting as it does on the one who showed himself as a human being . . ." (I Timothy 3:l6 Phillips). Not the slightest hint is given here that there was anything out of the ordinary about the coming of the "one who showed himself as a human being."

In Revelation 12, a pregnant woman is mentioned as a sign visible in the sky. The woman is expected to give birth to a male child who is "to rule all the nations with a rod of iron" (Revelation 12:5 RSV). A few commentators contend that the woman is Mary and the child is Jesus. This interpretation is quite far-fetched. It is based on pure speculation. Other scholars view the woman as representing a variety of things, with the variations of their interpretations so extreme no consensus of opinion could possibly be reached. In any case, no matter what or whom the woman represents, there is no clear reference to, nor even a hint about, a virgin birth. The woman of Revelation 12 is merely a pregnant woman. No reason is given to believe that she became pregnant in an unusual way.

EARLY CHRISTIAN HERESIES

Perversions of the teachings of a great leader begin to appear as soon as he dies. So it is not surprising that several "Christian" heresies arose almost immediately after Jesus' death. Some of them may be lumped together under the general classification of "Gnostic heresies." We need not consider all or even a majority of them for they had many things in common.

Some Gnostics, such as Cerinthus, who was widely known in the western section of Asia Minor, believed that Jesus was the natural son of Joseph and Mary. His unique teaching was that, although Jesus was completely human, Christ dwelt in the man Jesus. Cerinthus explained that Christ descended upon Jesus in the form of a dove at the time of his baptism. Christ then remained in Jesus all during his earthly life. Jesus was endowed with remarkable powers because of the presence of Christ within him. Christ remained in Jesus' body, Cerinthus claimed, until Jesus was about to die on the cross. Thus, it was really the man Jesus who died and was resurrected.

Cerinthus, who was called a "false prophet" in "The Epistle of the Apostles," believed that Jesus truly was God's Son, but that he became God's Son by "adoption." He did not achieve that status by the manner of his birth, but by virtue of the fact that God was willing to adopt him as Son. Some New Testament writers also use the concept of adoption, but certainly not in the manner of Cerinthus. They stress that it was possible for all men to become sons of God, but only because God could "elect" to "adopt" them as sons.

Some Gnostics were known as "Docetists," a name derived from a Greek word which means "to seem." They held that Jesus was not really human, that he never came to earth "in the flesh." They were convinced that he could not have possessed a material body, because all matter was evil. Flesh, as matter, would therefore be evil. Consequently, the perfect and sinless Christ could not have existed even temporarily in an evil body. This led them to believe that Jesus' body of flesh only seemed to exist. Because Jesus was really divine, he only appeared to have a body like humans. The major debate of Gnostics within their own ranks as well as with orthodox Christians was over whether or not Jesus was born of Mary. (Apparently there is no mention in Gnostic literature of the virgin birth hypothesis).

This sketchy review demonstrates that even the defenders of the absolutely unique nature of Jesus disagreed over his origin. Some believed that he was entirely human, born of two human parents, but with Christ living in him after his baptism. And others believed that he was not in the least human but entirely divine; that his body only seemed to be human. These were the extremes. Other views ranged between them.

It is interesting -- and we believe significant -- that most of the heresies which confronted the early church questioned Jesus' humanity rather than his divinity. A study of the writings of the early church fathers shows that they spent more time trying to prove that Jesus was human rather than that he was divine. Their debate -- both among themselves as well as with others -- concerned whether Jesus was always divine or whether he became divine at his resurrection. A corollary debate raged over how his divinity related to his humanity. Both of these theological arguments continued for centuries. The resolution of these dichotomies came ostensibly with the creation of the dogma of the Trinity. But unfortunately this resolution proved to be only partial and temporary. A debate continues to this day, but now it centers upon what the creeds which define the Trinity really mean.

OTHER TRADITIONS CONCERNING JESUS' BIRTH

The narratives of Matthew and Luke were not the only birth stories which were being told during the last part of the first century. Quite a number of such stories appeared in both Jewish and Jewish-Christian communities.

The theme of some of these stories was that Jesus was really an illegitimate child. At least two of them declared that he was the son of a Roman soldier and that Joseph married Mary to give Jesus a father and a name. One tradition even gave the name of the Roman soldier as "Panthera" (or possibly "Pantera").

This accusation that Jesus was an illegitimate child was repeated for centuries. Even as late as the eighteenth century, Voltaire, a bitter critic of the Christian religion, repeated those allegations as if he were citing documented history. Others, in turn, quoted Voltaire, believing that such a learned man had surely authenticated his information.

A very unusual tradition was related in an early second century manuscript, "The Epistle of the Apostles." "The Epistle of the Apostles," M. S. Enslin, The Interpreter's Dictionary of the Bible, Volume A-D, pp l72-3.] Having been translated into English, this document is now called, "The Testament of Our Lord in Galilee." It purports to record revelations made by Jesus to the Eleven just before he ascended into heaven, revelations made through his answers to questions asked by the apostles. According to this writing, Jesus alleged that he had appeared to Mary as the angel Gabriel and then had entered her body to be born.

The two preceding traditions both claim to explain the origin of the child Jesus. One was eagerly accepted by many of the foes of Christianity. It was given a quasi-historical status by being recorded in Talmudic records. This was the tradition that Jesus was an illegitimate child. The other appeared in a document which claimed to be an authentic Christian writing. In this tradition Jesus is alleged to have said he put himself into Mary's womb.

These illustrations show how wild and ridiculous some of the legends about Jesus' birth were. One could not invent explanations of how Jesus was born more disparate then these two stories along with the biblical traditions. Yet all four are recorded in documents written presumably by Christians in the late New Testament period or shortly thereafter.

THE VENERATION OF MARY

Little is known about the life of Mary the mother of Jesus. This is quite true historically, despite the many legends which originated within the Catholic Church -- in all branches – where such stories were needed to support the evolving doctrines of the virgin birth, the immaculate conception, Mary as Mother of God, Mary as Queen of Heaven, and related dogmas.

Most of those legends are based upon a few writings composed during the expanding period of the church but not included in the New Testament canon of scripture. They were never accepted officially as "scripture" even by the church which used them. The following are some of the apocryphal works in which legends about Mary are recorded: "Protoevangelium of James (History of James Concerning the Birth of Mary);" "The Gospel of Thomas;" "The Gospel of Pseudo-Matthew;" "The Gospel of the Birth of Mary;" "The Assumption of the Virgin (Liber Transistus);" "The History of Joseph the Carpenter."] These writings claim to report incidents during the life of Mary. No reputable scholar -- neither Catholic nor Protestant -- has accorded these works equal authority with the books of the New Testament. Even a cursory examination reveals quickly that these apocryphal documents were written with doctrine and not history in mind. Nevertheless, artists and popular authors have used these writings as if they possessed historic value equal to that of the gospels.

This is probably because the gospels say so little about Mary. They neither tell much about her life nor venerate her in the least. They simply treat her as the natural mother of Jesus. Even in the interpolated birth traditions she is not viewed as an exceptional woman -- only as an obedient one.

Outside the interpolated narratives about Jesus' birth, Mary is first mentioned in the account of her visit to Jerusalem with Joseph and Jesus when Jesus was twelve years old. The occasion was the celebration of Passover. During the period of celebrating Jesus, a bright and inquisitive boy, spent most of his time in the temple discussing religious matters with scribes and priests. Although one may wonder how it could have happened, when Joseph and Mary left for home with the rest of the travelers they did not realize that Jesus was not in the group until they had traveled a full day. They returned to Jerusalem, of course, and spent three days locating Jesus. When they finally found him in the temple debating with the leading teachers, Mary chastised him for not letting them know where he was. Jesus defended himself by asking: "But why were you looking for me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?" (Luke 2:49 Phillips). The lack of rapport between Jesus and his parents is shown by the next sentence in Luke's account of this incident: "But they did not understand what he meant" (Luke 2:50 NEB). How could Joseph and Mary not understand that Jesus would likely go to the temple if everything that was stated in Luke's account of Jesus' conception and birth had been true? It is impossible to believe that Joseph and especially Mary would have misunderstood what Jesus meant if they knew that Jesus had been conceived miraculously by the Holy Spirit and if shepherds had told them that his birth had been heralded by the singing of angels. The fact that Luke reports that Jesus' parents did not understand him when he suggested to them that they surely should have known he would be interested in going to the temple argues strongly that he did not believe that Jesus was born of a virgin. This proves that the author who wrote the story about the visit of the boy Jesus to Jerusalem for the Passover -- whoever he was – could not have written also the birth tradition found earlier in Luke.]

That Luke believed that Joseph was actually Jesus' father is evidenced by the fact that he treats him as such in this narrative. Twice in the story he calls Joseph and Mary Jesus' "parents." Once he has Mary referring to Joseph as Jesus' "father."

Mary is found next at the wedding feast in Cana (John 2:l-11). She, Jesus and the disciples were enjoying the festivities when the wine gave out. Mary told Jesus about the problem and then told the servants to do just as Jesus would direct. Whereupon Jesus performed his first miracle, the changing of water into wine. The incident is interesting, but teaches nothing about Mary except that she participated in the social life of the community.

According to the Gospel of John, Mary was present at the crucifixion (John l9:25-27). Jesus, dying on the cross, noticed his mother and asked "the disciple whom he loved" to accept her as his own mother. It is surprising that Jesus did not try to see that she was protected and cared for by one of her own sons. Some of them were still living: James, for example (Acts l:l3-l4).

There is a plausible explanation. None of Jesus' brothers or sisters were present at the crucifixion. But, according to John, one of Mary's sisters was with her at the cross. This sister was probably Salome, the mother of James and John, whose father was Zebedee (Matthew 25:56; Mark l5:40). It has always been presumed that it was her son, John, who was "the disciple whom Jesus loved." In other words, John was Jesus' cousin. So Jesus, on the cross, asked his cousin John to be sure that Mary was cared for.

This explanation, though possible, is still based upon conjecture.

The problem here is that, according to the other three gospels, Mary was not present at the crucifixion. Each of the Synoptic writers records a list of women who were present while Jesus was being crucified. None of these lists include Jesus' mother Mary. Thus, it cannot be stated for sure that she was present at the cross.

Jesus appeared several times after his resurrection and to a considerable number of people. Mary is never mentioned as being among them.

Mary is introduced a few times simply as Jesus' mother.

The scripture tells of two times when Mary did not understand Jesus. Both situations have already been described. The first was when Mary and Joseph discovered their twelve-year-old son in the temple, but did not understand his explanation of why he had gone there (Luke 2:4l-52). The second was when she, along with the rest of her family, came to "take charge" of Jesus because they thought he had lost his mind (Mark 3:2l-3l). Because of this attitude of his family, Jesus was reported to have renounced them in favor of those who do the will of his heavenly Father (Mark 3:3l-35; Matthew 12:46-50; Luke 8:l9-24). We are convinced that these records were edited to make them conform to later beliefs. In any case, the members of Jesus' family eventually became his followers. Mary and his brothers were in the upper room at Pentecost. And James became the leader of the church in Jerusalem.] This is a very weighty argument against the virgin birth. Had Mary known that Jesus was the miraculously conceived Son of God she could not possibly have believed that he had become insane.

The very last time Mary is mentioned in scripture is in the account of what happened to the one hundred and twenty disciples who were gathered in the upper room in Jerusalem on the Day of Pentecost. Like the rest, she was fasting and praying while awaiting divine guidance -- acting precisely as Jesus had instructed. Her sons were again with her. So, if she had gone with her nephew John after the crucifixion, she did not stay with him. The only thing that can be learned about Mary from this incident is that she was present with those who were "filled with the Holy Spirit." It must be presumed that this experience came to her as to the others.

This review demonstrates that, except in the birth narratives, Mary is presented only casually in the New Testament. Her veneration had not yet begun. In fact, after her appearance with the one hundred and twenty at Pentecost, Mary drops from sight. She gradually fades into the past. Tradition claims that she died in 63 A. D. That date, however, is mentioned only in sources which must be dated much later.

To say that Mary was not revered in her lifetime is not to say anything against her. It is only to point out that she was not awarded any special recognition before her death. Even the scriptures of the New Testament do not set her apart from other women. No one has any reason, however, to regard her as less than a good and loving mother, interested in all of her children. Jesus respected his father so much he called God "abba," a child's endearing term for father. It corresponds to our "papa." Surely he respected his mother equally. This is true, no doubt, meven though there were times when neither his family nor any one else really understood him. To those who claim that Mary was "ever virgin" we must ask how the following scriptures can be explained in light of that allegation:

"(Joseph) took Mary home to be his wife, but had no intercourse with her until her son was born (Matthew l:25 NEB).

"All these were constantly at prayer together (in the upper room), and with them a group of women, including Mary the mother of Jesus, and his brothers (Acts l: l4 NEB).

"Then his mother and his brothers arrived . . ." (Mark 3:3l NEB).

"Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James and Joseph and Judas and Simon? And are not his sisters with us? (Mark 6:3 NEB).]

Now, is it beginning to make a little more sense to you?

A VIRGIN SHALL CONCEIVE...OH REALLY?

According to the New Testament, one of the signs of Jesus' Messiahship was a virgin birth.

Answer for yourself: But is this really a sign that authenticates the identity of the Messiah?

Christianity claims that within some, but not all Christian Old Testaments, we find the following rendering of Isaiah 7:14: "Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel."

Answer for yourself: But have we as Christians and followers of Jesus erred in our understanding of the Isaiah 7:14 passage?

There has probably never been an "Old" Testament Scripture more frequently quoted by Christians than this verse. This is especially true every Christmas when we are all reminded, whether we want to be or not, that a virgin brought forth a son to be the savior of the world. But, unknown to most Christians, there is a problem here, and we at Bet Emet are dedicated to the elucidation of the facts that bring assurance to the correct interpretation of the Biblical Scriptures. Thus the reason for this article and those like them. We feel mandated by God to be honest to the text, Biblical history, Biblical language, Biblical context, culture, archeology, anthropology, etc., in our pursuit of truth and the spreading of the true "Gospel" of God.

First of all, the supposed quote from Isaiah 7:14 as found in most English Bibles doesn't follow the Masoretic Text of the "Old" Testament. It comes from the altered and corrupted Septuagint! This is of major importance because accurate Biblical translation requires that the word and the concept it carries in the original be translated accurately in any translation; thus meaning the translated word carry the same concept attached to the original word from which the translation began.

Such is not the case here, and other places as well in your Christian Bibles. We have with this Isaiah 7:14 quote a major instance of the KJV translators inserting their own theology in place of God's Word. They could have chosen to translate the verse according to the Jewish Masoretic Text but instead they opted to translate it according to the Septuagint, which many know and acknowledge is one of the poorest translations of any book every made. Shame on them! But, like billions of Christians, I had heard this verse repeatedly throughout my life and it was certainly ingrained in my mind as sacred Scripture. Also, like those same millions, I can't really say that I had ever bothered to look at the story and accurately of the translation of the Christian version of Isaiah 7:14.

When I began to investigate the facts for myself I found things often completely different from which I both heard and been taught by Christian leaders. And so will you if you will only look for yourself!

A VIRGIN OR A YOUNG WOMAN?

The word translated "virgin," in Christian theology and in most New Testaments, actually means "the young woman," (i.e., the original Hebrew is "ha'almah" or "the young woman," and not "ha'bethulah". which means "the virgin"). The original Hebrew from which some of the more accurate New Testaments quotes reads: "Therefore the Lord Himself shall give you a sign: behold, the young woman shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel."

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that a number of modern New Testament translations have correctly translated this verse and maybe you have not possibly yet seen them; especially if you are a KJV man because it is wrong in the KJV?

In fact The New English Bible, The Good News Bible, and The Revised Standard Version translate the Hebrew correctly. And they are not the only ones who translate it correctly as we saw in the last article. The verse is, literally, "Hinneh ha-almah harah ve-yeldeth ben ve-karath shem-o Immanuel" in Hebrew.

Of course there have been volumes written by Christians defending this Scripture as a prophecy of the coming Messiah (specifically Jesus). But, even if an entire library were written, it would mean absolutely nothing in light of the real story and its connection to the salvation and the restoration of the Ten Tribes of Israel in the end time. Let us examine for ourselves.

COMING TO THE KNOWLEDGE OF THE TRUTH CONCERNING THE VIRGIN BIRTH STORY

H.W.F. Gesenius, who has authored a Hebrew Lexicon and who is considered a language scholar by other Christian scholars, renders the Hebrew "ha'almah" thus:

"Used of a youthful spouse recently married, Isa. 7:14 (compare Joel 1:8).

The notion of unspotted virginity is not that which this word conveys, for which the proper word is 'habethulah.'" He notes that the Septuagint "incorrectly rendered" the word as virgin, and ends by saying, "neither does it convey the idea of the unmarried state, as has of late been maintained . . ." (Gesenius' Hebrew-Chaldee Lexicon, p. 634, #5959. 23. Ibid).

I can't help but to quote the added notation of the translator of Gesenius' Hebrew-Chaldee Lexicon to the Old Testament, one Samuel Prideaux Tregelles, L.L.D., which shows the complete ignorance and bias of Christianity in this matter: "The object in view in seeking to undermine the opinion which would assign the signification of virgin to this word, is clearly to raise a discrepancy between Isa. 7:14, and Matt. 1:23." "The absolute authority of the New Testament is, however, quite sufficient to settle the question to a Christian" (Gesenius' Hebrew-Chaldee Lexicon, p. 634, #5959. 23. Ibid).

Answer for yourself: But I would ask you if the New Testament should carry such authority for you and Christianity if such errors and blatant mistranslations abound?

WAS THE SIGN TO KING AHAZ 800 YEARS BEFORE YESHUA WAS BORN...OR FOR YOU 2800 YEARS LATER?

To put the question of Isaiah 7:14 in context, we need to consider to whom the "Lord Himself" was going to give a sign, which we can do so by simply going back to that time and place. This is one of the first rules of interpretation of Scripture in that passages must be interpreted both historically and contextually. To take out scissors and cut a passage out of it's intended meaning and catapulting it 700 to 800 years into the future in order to create a fulfilled prophecy is not the way to make sense out of the Bible.

Let us examine the context of the prophecy. King Ahaz of Judah was in a terrible state of mind when this prophecy was written as indeed he had every reason to be. His kingdom was shortly to be invaded by the King of Syria teamed with the northern Kingdom of Israel: "And it came to pass in the days of Ahaz the son of Jotham, the son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rezin the king of Syria, and Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up toward Jerusalem to war against it, but could not prevail against it" (Isaiah 7:1). In Isaiah 7:3-7 we read that God sent the prophet Isaiah to meet Ahaz to tell him not to fear the alliance of Israel with Syria, and that He, the Elohim of Judah, would not allow any harm to come upon the nation at this time. To alleviate the king's fears, God was going to give him a sign.

Notice verse 11: "Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God; ask it either in the depth, or in the height above. But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord." Now the king's reply didn't please God, as verse 12 makes clear.

Here was the Creator of the Universe offering not only to deliver Judah and King Ahaz, but to give comfort by performing a sign for reassurance! But, the wicked King Ahaz bluntly refused the offer! Here is God's reply in verse 14: "Therefore the Lord Himself shall give you (King Ahaz) a sign [of deliverance from the military threat]; Behold, ha'almah' [i.e., THE YOUNG WOMAN] shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name IMMANUEL."

Answer for yourself: Again, for what was this sign given? As assurance that Judah and its king should be delivered from their enemies!

HOW DOES GENTILE CHRISTIANITY DEAL WITH THE QUOTE

Now consider the Christian explanation of this verse: it is that the sign would be the birth of the Messiah, which they claim was Jesus! Can you imagine, if God was trying to comfort King Ahaz and the nation of Judah in the face of such adversity, that He would offer a sign that was to come to pass nearly 700-800 years in the future? That is no comfort to them at all; they will never have seen it! Well, that is what Christianity teaches when they maintain that this was a prophecy about the birth of Jesus Christ! Please understand that I am not trying to discount belief in Jesus as Messiah or to denigrate his name; only to enlighten those who call themselves by his name of the terrible injustice they do to the truth that in the final analysis nullifies their witness to the Jewish people who KNOW BETTER!

God might as well have told Ahaz, "700 years from now, after you and all the people in the kingdom are dust in the ground, I will give you a sign that I will deliver Judah from this enemy that now threatens you." There would be little comfort in such a promise!

Answer for yourself: But let me ask you...was Israel delivered during the time of Jesus or after his lifetime? If anything, things got worse with the war of 70 C.E. and the ultimate defeat in 135 C.E. which would culminate with the banishment of the Jews themselves.

However, Matthew's account would have us believe that the birth of Jesus was the sign from God to King Ahaz: "Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us" (1:22-23, KJV).

Answer for yourself: Can you see the utter nonsense of such a statement now? Would a Jew who knew better write such absurdness?

What the writer of the Gospel of Matthew and his assertion means in light of what the Scripture actually says is nonsense! This is no inspiration or inerrancy or infallibility in this! What's more, the Hebrew word "harah" is past or perfect tense, "conceived," which in both Hebrew and English, represents past and completed action, and a number of rabbis have pointed this out to stubborn Christians! The verse, understood properly in the Hebrew tense actually reads thus: "Behold the young woman has conceived [is with child] and bears a son .." (Drazin, Their Hollow Inheritance, pp. 172-174).

Answer for yourself: Do you now realize that in the Hebrew when the prophecy was given the woman had already has sex and had already conceived the baby in her womb and in just a short time, before the child grew to know right from wrong (mabye 2-3 years) God's presence (Immanuel) would be seen by all by His deliverance of King Ahaz from the military threat that worried him at the present and was pushing him to make alliances with pagans instead of depending upon God for his delieverance? How then could this be a sign for others 800 years later who would never see the women who conceived?

Furthermore, the definite term "the young woman" indicates that King Ahaz personally knew the woman through whom the sign was to be given. It would hardly have been a sign to the king if some totally unknown woman bore a son and named him Immanuel about which Ahaz would have never known. It would have to be someone the king knew as "the young woman" clearly indicates. In other words, at some point into the terrible situation confronting the kingdom, someone would come to the king and say, "by the way, your niece gave birth to a son today: she has named him Immanuel which means that God is with us." Suddenly King Ahaz would remember the words of Isaiah's prophecy! Suddenly, and perhaps finally, he would trust in God to deliver Judah from their enemies!The Collegeville Bible Commentary quite candidly speculates that the young woman in question was known to Ahaz, and notes that she may have well been one of the king's wives. p. 422.

"And she shall call his name Immanuel," which means "God is with us." What an absolutely clear statement! Isaiah 7 does not say that God would be born "among us," but that He was "on our side": He would fight for Judah and deliver them from their enemies!

This would be a good place to make another observation.

WHY CALL HIM YESHUA OR JESUS IF HE WAS TO BE CALLED IMMANUEL?

Answer for yourself: Have you ever wondered why Jesus or Joshua, his Hebrew name, wasn't called Immanuel if Isaiah 7 was a prophecy about the coming Messiah?

The reason Jesus was not called Immanuel was because Isaiah 7 is not a prophecy of a coming Messiah.

All we have in the "Immanuel" prophecy is another case of the NT (Gentile) writers scouring the "Old" Testament in an effort to prove Jesus' Messiahship, and they did so decidedly too late to rename Jesus Immanuel!

SINFUL?...WELL FOR A CHRISTIAN IT CANNOT REFER TO YESHUA THEN

This notwithstanding, let's lay to rest the claim that this is a prophecy of the coming Messiah by looking at verse 15 of chapter 7. This Scripture tells us that the young child, Immanuel, would not, by any means, be perfect as we are told, according to Christian theology, that the sinless Jesus was. "Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil, and choose the good." In other words, this little boy, Immanuel, was to learn, like all humans do, right from wrong by experience! Notice then verse 16: "For before the child shall know to refuse the evil [meaning he would be a sinner!], and choose the good, the land that thou abhorrest shall be forsaken of both her kings." Again, the child Immanuel was to be born as a sign to Ahaz, and before this imperfect, sinful little human child was two or three years old, Judah would be delivered from her enemies!

If we go to II Kings 16:9 we see God delivered Judah as He had promised Ahaz! History tells us clearly that three years after the sign to King Ahaz (732 B.C.E.) Tiglath-Pileser III took Damascus, and executed the Syrian king and destroyed the Syrian kingdom, which rendered Israel completely powerless (Asimov's Guide to the Bible, pp. 375, 532). These events happening three years from the time of Isaiah's prophecy clearly spells out the meaning of Isaiah 7:16 and the identity of the child Immanuel! What the Holy Scriptures and history clearly spell out is that Ahaz and Judah were delivered from their enemies, which means that the sign of the birth of the child Immanuel must have also come to pass. There is no prophecy here of a child being born almost 700 years in the future! To understand that when God gave a promise of a sign that it was carried out immediately, notice II Kings 20:8 and II Kings 20:11, Judges 6:17 and Judges 6:21.

CHRISTIANITY'S ANSWER TO A DIFFICULT SITUATION...LET US CALL IT A "DUAL-PROPHECY"

One can always deny the facts. One may never know them. I just laid them out for you. Furthermore, if one wants to find a way around these facts by claiming that this is a "dual" prophecy, which many ministers now preach, then to be honest to the truth the entire chapter needs to be applied in this manner. That is, we must understand that Jesus did not live a sinless life because the child Immanuel had to learn to refuse evil and choose good. It is uncertain how the idea of “dual prophecy” came to be instituted in Christianity. Some churches rely very heavily upon the explanation of dual prophecy because it very often relieves them from discarding their erroneous theology and religious belief system and getting bogged down in questions that are unanswerable outside the duality argument. What duality of prophecy means, as taught by some Christian churches, is that prophecies, such as Isaiah 7, that can be shown to have come to pass before the advent of Christianity, will also be fulfilled at a later time. Of course, these ministers will arbitrarily pick and choose which Scriptures are "dual" based solely on their own interpretation of prophecy, itself a victim of their church's doctrine.

In addition we must believe that God delivered Judea from their enemies (meaning Rome) in the time of Jesus. Just a quick check of Biblical history teaches otherwise.

CIRCULAR REASONING....IT IS ALWAYS UNRELIABLE

To sum this discussion up, I would like to illustrate a typical tactic used by Christian writers when dealing with Isaiah chapter 11. Defending the Christian position that this is a prophecy about Jesus, but not being able to explain the Scripture within its "OT" context, Christian writers often assert: "The real key to understanding this remarkable prophecy of Isaiah is found in the New Testament." They then proceeds to explain Isaiah 11 by using the Gospel of Matthew! Absolutely incredible! Not being able to prove the Messiahship of Jesus from the true prophecies of Israel, these Christian ministers assures us that Jesus was the Messiah by quoting other NT scriptures which can be proved to come from a corrupted and adulterated and debauched Greek translation of the Jewish Masoretic text. I guess what gets to me the most is that I don’t want to or feel the need to lie to convince others of the Messiahship of Jesus because God is author of Truth and not lies. Thus I and others with Bet Emet strive to rightly interpret the Word of God so that the Holy Spirit can witness to Truth. Such honors God and His Word. No honest God-fearing human being should present Jesus as Messiah to Non-Jews as well as Jews using lies and historical untruths. It is only by the authority of Israel's sacred Scriptures, the Old Testament, that the Messiah can be understood! We should only teach Jesus as fulfilling Scripture when he actually does, and not apply prophecies to him which never were fulfilled by Jesus in the first place.

RABBINICAL COMMENTARY ON ISAIAH 7:14-21

"Therefore the Lord Himself will give you a sign: Behold the young girl [Almah] is pregnant and gives birth to a son, and will call his name Immanuel [God is with us]." [Isaiah 7:14]

(14) "Therefore G-d will give you a sign," meaning that since you do not want to ask a sign from Him, therefore G-d Himself, and no one else besides Him, without you even asking, will give you a sign. And ponder this: it writes "a sign," not "miracle" or "wonder", because since the Holy One did not intend to repeat this sign, it would be very different from the normal custom of things.

Since Ahaz and his men did not ask him, and without asking Ahaz did not deserve a major miracle, and if he escaped from the King of Aram and the King of Israel it was in the merit of his son Chizkiyahu [Hezekiah], and in the merit of his ancestors, and in the merit of Jerusalem, and it was enough to save him, and not that the Blessed One should do other signs, wonders, and amazing things for him. And therefore [the Prophet] said: "The Lord will give you a sign." That is to say a sign that this prophecy will not be forgotten by you.

And concerning this sign, I shall consider it in two ways. The first is when he said: "Behold the Almah is pregnant and will give birth to a son, and will call his name Immanuel," meaning the wife of Ahaz or his daughter, whom he loved, was in the beginning of her pregnancy. And perhaps Ahaz did not yet know this, and he told him that she is pregnant and would give birth to a son. And that she herself would call his name Immanuel. And that would be the sign for him that the Blessed Lord is with him and would help him and save him form these kings (of Aram and Israel).

And Rashi explained that "Behold the Almah is pregnant" refers to the Prophet's own wife. And the sign was that she would give birth to a son and call his name Immanuel, signifying that the Lord would help them and save them. And this explanation is difficult, for it says "Almah" [young girl] and it would have been more appropriate to call her "Neviah" [Prophetess], as he said later on [Isaiah 8:3] "And I came near to the Prophetess". Therefore it is better to explain that Almah here refers to King Ahaz's own wife or daughter.

And behold he called her an Almah because she was young, because a young boy is called an Elem and a young girl Almah, whether she is a virgin or a non-virginal married- or single-woman. For this term Almah only refers to her age [and not to her marital status].

And given this, it is not right for us to consider that this son whom they called Immanuel was Chizkiyahu, for behold Chizkiyahu was born nine years before his father Ahaz became king. For Ahaz ruled for 16 years, and Chizkiyahu was 25 when he became king. And it appears that this prophecy of Isaiah occurred after Ahaz had ruled for 2 years. But this Almah was a second wife whom Ahaz had taken after Chizkiyahu's mother, and this prophesied son would be her son. Or she was the daughter of Ahaz, who had gotten married only recently and was still a young girl, the king's beloved daughter. And about her Isaiah prophesied that she was pregnant--and king Ahaz did not yet realize this--and that she would name him Immanuel with the urging of my G-d, so that this child should be a sign concerning the fate of the Nation of Israel.

And it is possible that the words "And she will call his name" refer back to Ahaz, and the Hebrew letter Tav in the word "VeKaraT" would be the Tav denoting "You will" and not the feminine Tav. To say that with all Ahaz's wickedness, he would call him this name Immanuel. And already a sign like this has been found in a Prince who came from the Land of Yehuda, who prophesied about the birth of Yoshiah, saying [1 Kings 13:2] "Behold a son is born to the House of David, Yoshia is his name." And this is the perfection of prophecy, that he should mention in it such a powerful detail concerning the future, and also that he will prophesy and testify in the naming of his name that this is G-d's choice and Will.

(15) "Butter and honey he will eat. He will knowingly despise the evil and choose the good." To teach that this child will be taught by his nursemaid to eat butter and honey, so that from training and custom he will know early on to despise the evil and to choose the good. Meaning that since he will be accustomed to eating sweet and desirous things like butter and honey, his nature will be conformed with that sweet food that he is used to and to despise the evil that is its opposite.

(16) "For before the youth will know to despise the evil and to choose the good, the land will be left desolate that you fear from its two kings." And he mentioned that even as the child hurries to become accustomed to despising the evil and to choosing the good, still in that time that hastens to come "before the youth knows to despise the evil and to choose the good" with all the powerful instruction that his caretakers give to him, "the land will be left desolate" meaning that the land of Israel, for whom Ahaz feared due to the two Kings, meaning the king of Aram and the King of Israel that were coming to attack him. And there is no doubt that even though this prophecy was at the beginning of the pregnancy of the Queen or the king's daughter, there still was time until she would give birth and until the child would be accustomed to choose and to desire to eat the good and sweet and pleasant things, and to despise their opposite, of about two years. And this prophecy was before the Kings attacked Jerusalem, about the same amount of time for the child's birth and the development of his judgement, then if so this prophecy testifies to his salvation.

And it seems to me more correct that "the Land will be left desolate" was said not about the Land of Judah, but rather about the Kingdom of Aram and Israel, whose two kings Ahaz feared. And the prophet informed him that before the youth would know to despise the evil and to choose the good, the land of Aram would be desolated of Retzin, for the king of Assyria would attack him and kill him and take his Land from him, and also the Shomron and Land of Israel [the northern kingdom] would be desolated of Pekach ben Remaliah, who would be killed by Hoshea ben Elah, and the lands that they ruled over would be rid of them.

And after Isaiah mentioned this salvation, he mentioned another salvation that would be in the days of Chizkiyahu his son. That Sancheriv King of Assyria would attack Jerusalem to destroy it, and the Blessed Lord would save the city. And this is that he meant in saying:

- (17) The Lord will bring upon you and upon your People and upon the House of your Fathers days that have not been since Ephraim turned form Yehuda." Meaning since the Kingdoms were divided. And he explained what G-d would bring, and he said that the King of Assyria would attack Jerusalem, and then he added the words:
- (18) "And it will be on that day the Lord will call for a fly on the edge of the Nile in Egypt and for a bee in the Land of Assyria." And he mentioned the downfall of Sancheriv saying:
- (20) "On that day the Lord will shave like a razor with the mercenaries in the lands of the river of the King of Assyria." And behold the prophet did not say that this would be in the days of his son Chizkiyahu, because he did not want to identify the righteous Chizkiyahu as the son of the wicked Ahaz. So wrote Rashi, and this is the first explanatory approach.

And the Second approach is that this sign was of the salvation of the Nation from their enemies. And that G-d would help them and they would eat and be satisfied and enjoy abundant peace. And it already is written in Scriptures that a sign would be given about this. In the words of David [Psalms 86:15-16] "Turn to me and show me grace. Give Your power to Your servant and save the son of Your maidservant. Show me a sign of favor, and let my enemies fear and be ashamed. For You G-d helped me and comforted me." Behold he called the salvation and consolation "a sign". And so you will find in the words of Isaiah himself, who said to Chizkiyahu abut his salvation from the hand of Sancheriv [Isaiah 37:30]: "And this is the sign for you. Eat this year that which grows of its own, and so in the second year, and in the third year sow and reap and plant vineyards and eat their fruit." And the remnant of the daughter of Yehuda that is left will make a root below and fruit above." And he calls it a sign this salvation and that G-d will be bountiful to them in the land afterwards.

"Therefore G-d Himself will give you a sign." And the sign is not the pregnancy and birth of the Almah. Rather that G-d will give you a sign of your salvation from your enemies. Not just this time from the hands of Retzin and ben Remaliah. But also from the hands of Sancheriv, who will attack Jerusalem in the days of Chizkiyahu. And after all this they will eat the goodness of the Land. And therefore he said in order to clarify the sign that he mentioned and when it would be: "Behold the Almah is pregnant and gives birth to a son" meaning "You will surely know that the girl who was the wife or daughter of Ahaz as I mentioned before-behold even though she is only a young girl behold she already is pregnant and will give birth to a son, and she will call his name Immanuel, because in his days the Blessed Lord will be with Israel. And will save them from their afflictions. And therefore he said: "He will eat butter and honey" to say that two successes and two salvations will occur in his days. And as though he is a messenger of G-d on earth to announce the good news and to inform what He will do for the people. For the butter is one type of sweet and desirable thing, and the honey is another type. And they correspond to the two successes and salvations: one from the two kings rising against them: Retzin King of Aram and Pekach ben Remaliah King of Israel, who will be wiped out of the Book of Life and will be uprooted from their Kingdoms in a short while. And the second from the hands of Sancheriv, who will attack Jerusalem afterwards and will fill the whole land of Judah with his people and his soldiers. And G-d will cut them off speedily from the face of the earth, and Jerusalem will dwell securely. And the reason he said "to know to despise the evil and to choose the good" is to teach the time period, as in Genesis 7:4 "in only seven more days." And he said "from the day Ephraim turned from Yehuda" to say that in the same time that this child will learn to despise the evil and to choose the good, he will eat butter and honey." Meaning Israel will eat, as it says later (Isaiah 8:4) "he will take up the riches of Damascus and the spoil of Shomron before the King of Assyria." For Scripture sometimes omits the subject. And the point here is that every member of Israel will eat butter and honey, for there will be great plenty, and peace, and security, and the butter and honey will be plentiful, as will the other forms of success that they symbolize. Or that the child himself in his childhood will eat butter and honey as a sign and good omen, for the people of Judah will eat in peace and contentment all the days of this child. And Rashi favors this explanation, for he wrote: "butter and honey the child will eat, for our Land will be filled with all good."

Answer for yourself: Now does this context remind you of Israel in the day of Yeshua and the Romans? Of course not!

And behold the Prophet immediately explained what are the two successes that the butter and honey symbolize. And of the first he said, "Before the child knows to despise the evil and to choose the good, the Land will be desolated" meaning that while the child is still a child, before he knows to choose the good and to despise the evil, Retzin and Pekach ben Remaliah will be killed and the Land that is their kingdom will be bereft of them, of whom Ahaz feared. And this is the first success that will occur speedily whole the child still is young. And then he mentioned the second success that will come after that, about which he said: "G-d will bring upon you and upon your People and upon the House of your Fathers" meaning that a different siege and dire straits will come upon them, and this would be in the days of Chizkiyahu when Sancheriv would come against him. And about this he said "And it will be on that day G-d will call a fly…" and he mentioned again his downfall saying: "on that day G-d will shave like a razor with the mercenaries…" and he mentioned after this the joy of Israel and their success and their satisfaction in the Land saying (7:21-22): "And it will be on that day that a man will raise a calf and two sheep, and from the overabundance of the milk he will eat butter, for everyone who is left in the midst of the Land will eat butter and honey. And this was the favorable sign that G-d would give them, and to which he intended in saying "butter and honey will he eat" as I have mentioned….

And the Christian Scholars have struggled to refute that this young girl [Almah] would be the wife of Ahaz or the wife of Isaiah, and they asked many difficult questions about this, and I thought to mention their claims here and to answer them in order to remove a stumbling block from the path of my People.

(1) The first doubt is that if the Almah was the wife of Ahaz then the son born would be Chizkiyahu his son. And it is proven that he already was born before this prophecy, and that the prophecy should refer to him after his birth is not possible. And if the Almah was the wife of Isaiah, how did he say after this (Isaiah 8:8): "And the poles of his wings will fill the breadth of your land Immanuel" which teaches that Immanuel will be the ruler of the Land, and Isaiah and his son were never such?

And I answer that I already have explained that Immanuel was not Chizkiyahu. For he already was born nine years before his father Ahaz reigned. But he was another son who was born to Ahaz from another wife, or the Almah was Ahaz's daughter. And the verse that the Christians cite—"will fill the breadth of your Land Immanuel"—does not teach that Immanuel will be Lord of the Land as they claim. For the simple reading of the verse is that the army of Sancheriv will invade Yehuda, and would flood the Land until the throat "and the poles of his wings will fill the breadth of your Land Immanuel", meaning that the poles of the soldiers of Sancheriv will fill the whole breadth of the Land of Yehuda when they would attack her. And of this they should not be afraid, for God is with them, as is explained in the commentary. Not that he says that the poles of the wings of Immanuel will fill the breadth of the land, for this is an error in the explanation of the simple meaning of the Scripture {ed. note: it seems to me that the fact that the verse writes "your Land Immanuel" implies that Immanuel indeed is the ruler of that Land.}

(2) And the second doubt is that if the prophet said to Ahaz (7:11) "Ask a sign to the depths or to the heights" {ed. note: could this be an allusion to what is written in Romans 10:6-8?} that the sign should be great and powerful, what was the power and strength of this sign "Behold the Almah is pregnant and will give birth to a son" for the Medical Sages can recognize through the appearance of a woman and through her urine if she is pregnant and if she is carrying a boy or a girl? And I answer this that according to both of my approaches to explaining the verses above no place is left for this doubt according to the meaning of the word "sign" and its portent and the intent of the Prophet's words.

(3) And the third doubt is that Hoshea ben Elah reigned in the12th year of Ahaz, as mentioned in 2 Kings 17:1, and Pekach ben Remaliah already had died, and it is clear from this that when Immanuel was born Retzin and Pekach ben Remaliah already had died in the fourth or fifth year of Ahaz' reign? And I answer that it is not obligatory that since Hoshea ben Elah was crowned in the 12th year of Ahaz King of Yehuda then Retzin and Pekach ben Remaliah already were dead at the time of this prophecy.

For in 2 Kings 15:27 it is written that Pekach ben Remaliah ruled for 20 years, and it is written there (15:16) also that in the days of Yotam King of Yehuda, father of Ahaz, God began to unleash on Yehuda Retzin King of Aram and Pekach ben Remaliah, and in those days Yotam died and in the 17th year of Pekach's reign Ahaz became King of Yehuda (16:1). And if so there remain 3 years from the reign of Pekach ben Remaliah in the days of the reign of Ahaz and ben Remaliah, and during this time Retzin and ben Remaliah were terminated. Therefore they Prophet predicted to Ahaz "that before the child would know to despise the evil and to choose the good the land would be left desolate." Meaning that this would happen in those 3 years during which those Kings were killed and uprooted from their kingdoms. Behold therefore that there is no contradiction here at all. And this prophecy was not in the fourth or fifth year of Ahaz's reign, as the Christian Sages claim, but rather in the first or second year of his reign, for at that time Retzin and Pekach ben Remaliah joined together to attack him because of the war they already had been waging with Ahaz's father (Yotam) before his death.

(4) And the fourth doubt is that behold he wrote after this about this child "that before the lad would know to call 'My Father My Mother' the riches of Damascus and the spoil of Shomron would be taken up before the king of Assyria." And we don't find that the King of Assyria despoiled the Shomron except when he destroyed it, in the 9th year of Hoshea ben Elah, when Ahaz already had died and his son Chizkiyahu had reigned for 6 years?

And I answer this that if these Christian men understood the simple and true meaning of prophecies this doubt would not concern them at all. For the lad of whom it is said "before he will know to despise the evil and to choose the good" they thought is the same lad of whom it is said afterwards (8:1): "And God said to me take up a scroll…for before the lad knows to say My Father My Mother…" And this is not so with us, for these are two distinct children one form the other. And these two prophecies were not stated at the same time. For the first prophecy that began "And so it was in the days of Ahaz" and the prophecy "And God will add another word to Ahaz" and the following sections all were in the days of Ahaz and the beginning of his reign, as I have mentioned. And the pregnant girl was a young wife that Ahaz took or his daughter, as I have explained. And the child who will eat butter and honey will be her son, and this child will be in the days of Ahaz. However, the section "And God said to me take a scroll…" and the scripture "And I drew near to the Prophetess and she became pregnant and gave birth to a son…" was years afterwards. And the prophet did not prophesy here concerning saving King Ahaz from the two kings as he had prophesied in the first prophecy [in Isaiah 7]. But he prophesied only about the destruction of Damascus and the destruction of the Shomron that occurred afterwards. And the prophetess was Isaiah's wife, and the son born here was her son. And therefore the first child was called Immanuel to announce the salvation of the Nation and its success. And the second child, son of the prophet Isaiah, was called "Maher Shalal Chash Baz" because his purpose was to prophesy the destruction of Damascus and the destruction of the Shomron, and the two prophecies had nothing to do with one another. And if the destruction of Damascus was in the days of Ahaz, when Pillan King of Assyria attacked it and killed Retzin and conquered Damascus, as mentioned in 2 Kings 16:9. And the destruction of the Shomron was after the death of Ahaz in the 6th year of his son Chizkiyahu's reign, this does not refute that the son born to the Prophet Isaiah would portend and teach about the destruction of both Damascus and Shomron, since they were years apart in time, since for that reason they called him two names: "Maher Shalal, Chash Baz" to teach about the two destructions, as I shall explain….

THE RABBIS REJECT THE CHRISTIAN VIRGIN BIRTH

And the Christians claim in the book of the Apostle Matthew that what is written "God will give you a sign. Behold the Almah is pregnant and gives birth to a son and will call his name Immanuel" refers to Miriam, who became pregnant while still a virgin, and gave birth to Yeshua their God, and for that reason he is called Immanuel [God is with us]. And there are seven refutations to this:

(1) That the word "Behold" teaches about something that will take place immediately, as in (Genesis 15:4) "And behold the word of God came to him saying this one will not inherit from you." (Song of Songs 2:8) "Behold this one comes." (Isaiah 12:2) "Behold God is my salvation, I shall trust…" For the word "Behold" (Hinay) is related to the word Hineni (I am here and ready). And how could the verse say "Behold the young girl" concerning something that would happen in the end of days? Rather it would have written "And it will be in the end of days" or something similar from those types of expressions that refer to distant times.

(2) From what is written "Behold the Almah" and the Christian commentators thought that there is no word "Almah" in Scripture except to mean "virgin," as they proved from what is written about Rebecca (Genesis 26:43) "Almah" and that she was "a virgin and no man had known her." (Genesis 26:16) And also about Miriam, the sister of Aharon, it says (Exodus 2:8) "Almah" since she was a girl and a virgin. And so they decreed that the word "Almah" must mean "Virgin." And this is not so, for it is clear to every Jew that this name in the Holy Tongue does not refer to virgin, but also can mean a non-virgin. And the proof is in Proverbs 30:18-20: "Three things are wondrous to me…the way of an eagle in the sky, the way of a serpent on a rock, the way of a ship in the heart of the sea, and the way of a man with an "Almah." And the next verse says "So also the way of an adulterous woman who ate and wiped her mouth and said 'I did no sin.'" And this is a clear proof that here "Almah" is stated about a non-virgin, of whom it cannot be ascertained if a man lay with her and she became defiled or not. And to be saved from this doubt some of the Christian Scholars have written that "the way of a man with an Almah" meaning in his Elem (youth), as though the Hebrew word "beAlmah" was written with an Aleph at the end, but this is not so for it is a Hay. And some of them tried to explain symbols in the words of King Solomon, from the eagle, the snake, and the ship, that are symbols that pertain to Yeshua in his Divinity, in order to explain "the way of a man with an Almah" meaning that He entered the womb of the virgin. But they could not then explain in this manner the next verse: "So also is the way of an adulterous woman..."

(3) From what is written "Behold the Almah is pregnant" and the word "pregnant" is in present tense. That she already was pregnant, not that she would become pregnant 600 years afterwards. And if the Prophet were speaking of the future, he should have said: "Behold the Almah will become pregnant" as it says later (8:3) "and she will become pregnant and give birth to a son," and not "is pregnant" in the present tense.

(4) "And she will call his name Immanuel." And it is known that no one called Yeshua the Nazarene by the name Immanuel, not his mother, and not by others. And the Christian scholars already have tried to answer this, saying that "something has both an essential name and an appellate name. As a man's name is his essential name, while his appellate name reveals details about his life. And Yeshua was his nickname, but Immanuel was his essential name referring to his Divinity." And these words are vanity, because Scripture would not say about the essential name "And she will call his name Immanuel" but rather the appellate name, for [the Prophet adjures them and] they agree to call him this name. And of the essential name it is written (Genesis 2:19) "This is his name." And so it should be written here: "And his name will be Immanuel" not "And she will call his name Immanuel" which indicates that he should and will be called by that name….

(5) "For before the lad will know to despise the evil and to choose the good" for this contradicts what the Christians believe, that Yeshua from the time he was born was wise to the greatest perfection. And this they also answered, saying that while Yeshua as God was wise from the beginning of his conception, yet as a physical being the wisdom was hidden from him for a brief time. And this also is a false assertion, for if Yeshua was God behold the power of God is unlimited. And how could the limitations of physicality impede him? And how could the Divine in him be limited, if he is the essential power of God?

(6) "The land that you fear will be left desolate of its two kings." This verse is a self-explanatory contradiction to their claims, for if Ahaz was afraid of Retzin and ben Remaliah, and concerning this the Prophet gave him a sign, to assure him that his heart would not become soft or fearful, how could the sign refer to Miriam and her virginity and the conception of God? For the affliction was close at hand, but the sign would then refer to an event 600 years later. And they also tried to resolve this doubt, saying: this sign was not to confirm the prophecy given to Ahaz, but rather to notify him of an even greater miracle that God would do in the world. And therefore they said this to the House of David, to inform them that from their family would come Miriam, who would give birth to God, and that this would be a consequence, not a miraculous sign, of the salvation of Ahaz.

And also this claim is groundless, because in the beginning the Prophet said to Ahaz: "Ask a sign from the Lord your God, in the depths or in the heights." And there is no doubt that the sign concerned his security from those kings. And when Ahaz answered him "I shall not ask and not test God" the Prophet said to him: "Therefore God Himself will give you a sign" and this shows that this sign was the same one that he told him to ask for originally. And therefore it was not a prediction of what would occur, and not of a bigger miracle to come, but rather a sign of that prophecy and security that he told him about. And therefore it is mandatory for the sign to occur before the time of the security that he promised Ahaz, since its purpose was to enable him to believe in the prophesied security.

Answer for yourself: And how could a person with any intelligence say that "before the lad knows to despise the evil and to choose the good the Land will be left desolate" refers to Yeshua, since those two kings died and left their lands 600 years before Yeshua's birth?

We also found that the Prophet predicted to Chizkiyahu his salvation from Sancheriv, and also his escape from death and his recovery from his illness. And he gave him on all this signs and wonders in the Heavens and the earth. And he mentioned nothing of the conception of God. For what has this to do with this?

(7) The seventh doubt is from the continuation of the verses "God will bring upon you and upon your People and upon your Father's House days that did not come since the day Ephraim turned from Yehuda: the king of Assyria." For this shows that the Prophet did not budge from the matter of Ahaz with those kings who were attacking Jerusalem. And so he mentioned afterwards Sancheriv's attack against her in the days of his son Chizkiyahu.

Answer for yourself: And how can the human mind tolerate that the Prophet should place, in between these two predictions that pertain to the immediate time and place, another prediction that has nothing to do with this period, but in the distant future? And what else need I add to negate this peculiar idea, since it has no support either in logic or in the Scriptural verses themselves.

DUAL PROPHECY, VIRGIN BIRTH, AND JESUS? FULFILLED OR UNFULFILLED?

One of the methods that should be used to correctly interpret Scripture or Prophecy is to examine the text within the CONTEXT of where it is written. Possibly no greater example can be found for this truth than the seventh chapter of Isaiah because when when this chapter is viewed within the historical context in which it was written then absolutely it cannot be a prophecy about Jesus' virgin birth because it suggests that the prophecy was to have been fulfilled in Ahaz's lifetime, some 700 years before Jesus.
In spite of that often Christian commentators will label this Isa. 7:14 prophecy a "Dual Prophecy" which finds its fulfillment not only in the days of King Ahaz but in the days of Jesus as well. Some maintain that Isa. 7:14 is a "double prophecy;" a prophecy about a boy to be born in the days of Ahaz and also a prophecy to the birth of Jesus. The context is only for the first application of this double prophecy.
Answer for yourself: What is the truth on the matter?

First we must become familiar with the passages in question so lets take time to read from Isaiah chapter 7:

And it came to pass in the days of Ahaz son of Jotham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, marched on Jerusalem to wage war against it, and he could not wage war against it. It was told to the House of David, saying, Aram has allied itself with Ephraim, and his heart and the heart of his people trembled as the trees of the forest tremble because of the wind. The Lord said to Isaiah, Now go out toward Ahaz, you and Shear-Yashuv your son to the edge of the conduit of the upper pool, to the road of the washers field, and you shall say to him, Feel secure and calm yourself, do not fear, and let your heart not be faint because of these two smoking stubs of firebrands, because of the raging anger of Rezin and Aram and the son of Remaliah. Since Aram planned harm to you, Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, saying: Let us go up against Judah and provoke it, and annex it to us; and let us crown a king in its midst, one who is good for us. So said the Lord God, Neither shall it succeed, nor shall it come to pass The Lord continued to speak to Ahaz, saying, Ask for yourself a sign from the Lord, your God; ask it either in the depths, or in the heights above. Ahaz said, I will not ask, and I will not test the Lord. Then he said, Listen now, O House of David, is it little for you to weary men, that you weary my God as well? Therefore the Lord, of His own, shall give you a sign: Behold the young woman is with child, and she shall bear a son, and she shall call his name Immanuel. Cream and honey he shall eat when he knows to reject bad and choose good; for, when the lad does not yet know to reject bad and choose good, the land whose two kings you dread, shall be abandoned.

When done reading not only the above verses but the entire chapter then it should be very apparent to the reader that Isaiah chapter 7 is Isaiah's prophecy and declaration of the forthcoming unsuccessful siege of Jerusalem by the two armies of the Kingdoms of Israel and Syria and not a prophecy concerning a virgin birth more than 700 years later. Now you need to think and use your mind that G-d gave you as you approach the next question.

Answer for yourself: If we interpret this chapter, as some professing Christian scholars attest, as referring to Jesus' birth, then what possible comfort and assurance would Ahaz, who was surrounded by to overwhelming military enemies, have found in the birth of a child seven centuries later? The profoundness of such a question should stop both you and these supposed Christian scholar dead in their tracks as its implications are staggering and questions the intelligence of G-d no less! Both King Ahaz and his people would have been long dead and buried and never had seen such a sign. Such a proposition is plumb stupid! Such a sign would make no sense.

Let us now move on to another part of the verse; in particular verses 15-16 which state that by the time this child reaches the age of maturity ("he knows to reject bad and choose good"), the two warring kings, Pekah and Rezin, will have been removed.

Answer for yourself: Was this part of Isaiah's prophecy of the demise of these kings by the time that a "born child" maturity realized historically? Do you understand that if it can be proven that these kings were removed then the "child in question" had to be born already?

II Kings 15-16 reveal to us that this prophecy was fulfilled when these two kings were suddenly assassinated. With an understanding of the context of Isaiah 7:14 alone along with the historical removal of these two kings as military threats to King Ahaz, then it becomes very evident that the child born in Isaiah 7:14 is not referring to Jesus or to any future virgin birth. Rather, the prophecy as Isaiah received it from G-d is referring to the divine protection that Ahaz and his people would enjoy from their impending destruction at the hands of these two enemies, the northern Kingdom of Israel and Syria.

Now some Christian commentators maintain that this is a "Dual Prophecy." They attempt to explain away this alarming problem of Matthew's complete indifference to the biblical context of Isaiah 7:14 by claiming that Isaiah's words to Ahaz had two different applications. They agree with my contention that the first application of Isaiah's prophecy must have been addressed to Ahaz and his immediate crisis. That child that was born contemporaneously and the first leg of this dual prophesy was fulfilled at the time of Ahaz, 2,700 years ago.

But here is where they disagree. They maintain, however, that the second leg of this dual prophecy applied to Jesus' virgin birth less than 2,000 years ago. In short, these Christians claim that Isaiah's prophecy was fulfilled twice: once in 732 B.C.E., and a second time in the year 1 C.E.

Answer for yourself: This sounds plausible; but is it? What are the problems that surround such hypothetical situation of such a "dual prophecy"?

Without realizing it such a scenario creates an enormous amount of problems.

- First of all, the proposal of dual prophecy is entirely contrived and has no basis in the Bible. Nowhere in the seventh chapter of Isaiah does the text even hint of a second fulfillment. The notion of a dual prophecy is thoroughly unbiblical and was fashioned in order to explain away a stunning theological problem.
- Secondarily, if, as some Christians maintain, the word ha'almah means a "virgin," and, as they insist, Isaiah 7:14 was fulfilled twice, then there had to be two virgin births.
 - Answer for yourself: Who was the first virgin to conceive in Ahaz's time?
 - Answer for yourself: Were there two virgin births?
 - Answer for yourself: That is to say, if these Christians claim that the virgin birth of Isaiah 7:14 was fulfilled twice, who then was the first virgin having a baby boy in 732 B.C.E.?
 - Answer for yourself: Where is the record of that major event? Should it not have drawn some attention and be written in some record somewhere?
 - Answer for yourself: With the Hebrew Scriptures chronicling the many miracles worked by G-d for Israel when why is not mentioned among the sacred Hebrew Scriptures as are the many others?

- Answer for yourself: Is Christianity by taking this "dual prophecy" approach claiming that Mary was not the first and only virgin to conceive and give birth to a child?

Consider with me for a minute that these Christians insist that the word ha'almah can only mean virgin. They are snared by the words of their mouth since they refuse to use the real meaning of the Hebrew word "almah" which does not mean "virgin" but only "young woman." To force such a meaning to "almah" as meaning "virgin" when it does not along with a proposed "dual prophecy" means that there has to be two virgin births as well. History is completely silent as well as all of Jewish history on such an event.

- Thirdly, if Christianity claims the seventh chapter of Isaiah is a dual prophecy, how does Isaiah 7:15-16 apply to Jesus when these verses continue to speak of this lad?

Remember, Isaiah 7:14-16 reads

Therefore the Lord, of His own, shall give you a sign, "Behold the young woman is with child, and she shall bear a son, and she shall call his name Immanuel. Cream and honey he shall eat when he knows to reject bad and choose good; for, when the lad does not yet know to reject bad and choose good, the land whose two kings you dread, shall be abandoned.

- Answer for yourself: If Isaiah's words are the substance of a dual prophecy, at what age did the baby Jesus mature?
- Answer for yourself: Which were the two kingdoms during Jesus' lifetime that were abandoned?
- Answer for yourself: Who dreaded the Kingdom of Israel during the first century when there had not been a Kingdom of Israel in existence since the seventh century B.C.E.? Surely it was not Rome with their military might!
- Answer for yourself: Besides the prophecy of the birth of a child when or where was Jesus ever called Immanuel as required also by this prophecy?
- Answer for yourself: When did Jesus eat cream and honey? Does any of this make any sense to you?

I would think by now that this is beginning to add up. If you have been a student of Bet Emet Ministries for any length of time then you KNOW that Christianity and its hermeneutic [interpretation] of the Hebrew Scriptures are not only flawed concerning Isaiah 7 but is flawed concerning a great part of the Hebrew Scriptures. This as you have seen is not just "another rendering" but a purposeful attempt to alter the Hebrew Revelation to suite the theological agenda of the Gentile Church which did not want to live under the Law of G-d. Back to our point the whole of their interpretation of Isaiah chapter 7 according to traditional Christian tradition just does not add up because this argument of a dual prophecy was born out of the desperation of Christianity when confronted by the Jewish people and their scholars who know their own Scriptures better than Rome will ever know them. All of the forged and altered translations of the Hebrew Scriptures found in our Christian Bibles that are nothing more than purposeful mistranslation, misquotations, creations, and verses purposefully taken out of context in order to foist upon the unsuspecting Gentile world of yesteryear a replacement religion and in so doing they destroyed much of the Divine Revelation and many of the truths concerning the Jewish Messiah and the historical Jesus as well.

GOOD NEWS ON THE HORIZON

Things, they be a changing. It does my heart good to see that several Christian Bible translations today are reversing the error of their predecessors and translating "almah" and Isaiah chapter 7 correctly concerning the Hebrew. These newer translations are taking not of the forgery of Isa. 7:14 as found in the Septuagint [the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures]. They are no longer going with the forged Greek Septuagint and the following translations attest to the renewed integrity of current Christian commentators and translators. May they be blessed of G-d for their honesty and efforts that go against the current of tradition Catholic tradition.

Revised Standard Version

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, a young woman shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.

Revised English Bible

Because you do, the Lord of his own accord will give you a sign; it is this: A young woman is with child, and she will give birth to a son and call him Immanuel.

New English Bible

Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign: A young woman is with child, and she will bear a son, and will call him Immanuel.

New Revised Standard Version

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Look, the young woman is with child and shall bear a son, and shall name him Immanuel.

The Message of the Bible

He will give you a sign. A young woman shall bear a son who shall truly represent the hopes we have inherited from the days of David. His very name, God-is-with-us, shall express the secret of his power.

New World Translation of the Holy Scriptures

(Jehovah Witnesses) Therefore Jehovah himself will give you men a sign: Look! The maiden herself will actually become pregnant, and she is giving birth to a son, and she will certainly call his name Immanuel.

Good News Bible

Well then, the Lord himself will give you a sign: A young woman who is pregnant will have a son and will name him "Immanuel."

The Jerusalem Bible: Readers Edition

The Lord himself, therefore, will give you a sign. It is this: The maiden is with child and will soon give birth to a son whom she will call Immanuel.

The Bible: :A New Translation

An omen you shall have, and that from the Eternal himself. There is a young woman with child, who shall bear a son and call his name Immanuel (God is with us).

The Bible: :An American Translation

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: Behold! A young woman is with child, and is about to bear a son; and she will call him God is with us.

The International Critical Commentary

Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, a damsel is with child, and shall bring forth a son, and call his name Immanuel.

The New Jerusalem Bible

The Lord will give you a sign in any case. It is this: The young woman is with child and will give birth to a son whom she will call Immanuel.

The Layman's Bible Commentary

In reply, Isaiah says that the Lord will provide a sign. It will be a most unusual and remarkable event. A young woman shall bear a son and name him Immanuel, meaning God is with us.

World Biblical Commentary

Therefore my Lord himself will give you (plural) a sign. Behold, the woman shall conceive and bearing a son -- she shall call his name Immanuel.

The Bible in Basic English

For this cause the Lord himself will give you a sign; a young woman is now with child, and she will give birth to a son, and she will give him the name Immanuel.

Now you know the truth of the matter.....blessings

VIRGIN BIRTH FINDS IT FOUNDATION IN SUN WORSHIP AND SUN MYTHS

Much of the life Jesus Christ, as recorded in the New Testament, are nothing more than allegorical representations of the Sun God. Long before Jesus the Ancients formulated their Mythology (Religion), after the Image of Astronomical Phenomena. They saw this as the best way to connect with the Creator God, that is by patterning their religious rituals in accordance with the most visible and observable aspect of God's creation, the Cosmos. Many of the stories and accounts in the life of Jesus in the New Testament are actually various dramas (metaphorical representations) of Solar Mythology. We are presently focusing on the Solar-Lunar aspects of ancient mythology and modern religion. We shall at this point commence a dissection of the New Testament gospels. As done previously, I wish to evaluate the most salient and popular episodes within these scriptures and show their parallel to the lives of the other mythical saviors that we have already discussed. And we will illustrate that much within the Gospels are analogous to Solar Mythology. Let me say this is done only to separate the lies and falsehoods from the truth about Jesus so those who follow him and his example can do so in truth.

First, we have the miraculous conception of a virgin.

Mat 1:18 Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost.

Mat 1:19 Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing to make her a public example, was minded to put her away privily.

Mat 1:20 But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

Mat 1:21 And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins.

Mat 1:22 Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

Mat 1:23 Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

THE ASTRONOMICAL ANALOGY

The astronomical explanation of the first three points is as follows, The Miraculous Conception, as I explained in a previous article, refers to the Conjugation (Conception) that annually takes place at the vernal equinox. God, the Father, the Sun personified, at this time (the vernal equinox) is joined (the crossing of the celestial equator and the ecliptic of the sun) to commence the Gestation of the Son (Sun) of God (Father Sun), that will be born 280 days later on December 25th.

The ancients felt that an offspring of a god, a son of god, should have a purer maternal origin than mortals, and this was evidence of his supernatural or divine origin. A man, even if he were thought of as a god, had to be born of a woman, and this could not be concealed, but paternal parentage is never so obvious, being known only to the mother, if anyone.

The purity of his maternal parentage required these Gentile Saviors to be born of a pure woman—a maiden. Hence, the Gentile saviours often were born of virgins and this "concept" continued even for the Gentile redactors of the New Testament. Besides normal conception ordinary birth was also too ignominious for a god. It had to be spotless, or immaculate. Jesus Christ in an apocryphal gospel, like Chrishna was born through his mother's side, rather than the impure route. Though not in the canonical works, some of the Christian fathers endorsed this story. I have even read Catholic dogma where it testifies that Jesus was born not through Mary's vagina, the normal birth canal, but through her navel!

Not only saviours but famous men, like Plato, Pythagoras, Alexander, Augustus and others, were thought to have been born miraculously. Plato was born of Paretonia, begotten of Apollo, not Ariston, his father, according to one authority.

The doctrine of immaculate conception is ancient but the manner of the holy conception was different in different countries. Zoroaster was immaculately conceived by a ray from the Divine Reason or Word and this was adopted by medieval artists.

But the idea of being overshadowed by the Holy Ghost seems to have been most current. god, the father of a god was believed to overshadow the mother of a god, to impregnate her. In 550 BC, Pythais, the mother of Pythagoras, conceived by a spectre or ghost of the god Apollo, the Sun-god.

Answer for yourself: Does the ghost of the sun god differ in principle from the Christian Holy Ghost?.

Juno of Rome grew pregnant at the touch of a flower to give birth to Mars. No impregnation could have been purer. So the most immaculate conception of all was that of the god of War! If it sounds absurd, how is it more senseless than conception by a ghost? Botany has shown that, at least, a flower can fertilize other flowers but no science has yet investigated the virility of ghosts.

The Greek Juno, Hera, was immaculately impregnated by the wind to give birth to Vulcan. Here is a close parallel indeed for the word habitually translated as spirit or ghost in the scriptures and continued into the Greek of the New Testament really means breath or wind! So literally the virgin Mary was impregnated by the wind just like Hera. The author of the Perennial Calendar tells us the miraculous conception of Juno Jugulis, the blessed virgin queen of heaven, fell on the second of February, the day of the early Christian festival of the date of the conception of the ever Blessed Virgin Mary.

A Chinese sect worshiped a saviour known as Xaca, who was conceived of his mother, Maia, by a white elephant, which she saw in her sleep, and for greater purity, she brought him forth from one of her sides. In Chinese popular religion, the virgin mother Shing-Mon gave birth to the god Yu from a conception by a water lily. The procreative refinement evinced here is equal to that of Juno. In another story Yu was conceived of a star!

Tamerlane's mother conceived having had sexual intercourse with the god of Day. The mother of Ghengis Khan, being too modest to claim that she was the mother of the son of god, said only that he was the son of the sun.

Osiris of Egypt and even Julius Caesar were immaculately conceived—the latter being the son of the beautiful virgin Cronis Celestine, and begotten by the Father of all gods, Jupiter. His heir and nephew, Augustus Caesar, was curiously his half brother, as another son of Jove, by whose divine lust he was immaculately conceived in the temple of Apollo.

Both Buddha and Chrishna, of India, were immaculately conceived. The mother of Chrishna was overshadowed by the supreme god, Brahma, and the Holy Ghost was Naraan. Chrishna's mother had given birth seven times previously but remained a virgin. Philostratus, a disciple of Apollonius of Cappadocia, who was contemporary with Jesus Christ , tells that Damis, the mother of Apollonius, gave birth to this god and rival saviour of Jesus Christ, by being overshadowed by the god, Proteus.

Several of the virgin mothers of gods and great men go ten months between conception and delivery.

Plainly the tradition of the miraculous conceptions of gods, sons of gods, saviours and messiahs was prevalent in the world from ancient times on, beginning long before the mother of Jesus was overshadowed by the ghostly representative of the Most High. The belief in immaculate conception extended to every nation in the world. Grote, referring to Greece, declares that the furtive pregnancy of young women, often by a god, is one of the most frequently recurring incidents in the legendary narratives of the country.

Both the prevalence and antiquity of the idea of immaculate conception among the heathen is conceded by earlier Christian writers in their arguments from precedents of the divinity of Christ. St. Augustine, Origen and Lactanius tried to persuade us of the immaculate virginity of the mother of Jesus Christ by the example of similar pagan events. The doctrine of immaculate conception is, then, conceded as long anterior to Christ and therefore not unique in his case.

PROBLEMS WITH THIS DOCTRINE

- The gospels show that Christ himself did not claim to have a miraculous birth. He did not once allude to it, though as the principal evidence of his divinity, as Christians claim, he would have done so.
- His paternal genealogy, as made out by Matthew and Luke, completely confounds his virgin birth. They both trace his lineage through Joseph, which they could only do if Joseph was his father.
- His own disciple, Philip, declared him to be the son of Joseph, and several texts show that it was the original belief.
- The story of the virgin birth rests on the slender foundations of an angel and a dream. Mary got it by an angel, and Joseph by a dream, and thereby we have the whole of the story of the divinity of Jesus Christ.
- However, we have neither Joseph's nor Mary's report of these things, but only Matthew and Luke's. We do not know that either of them ever saw or spoke with Joseph or Mary on the subject.
- If Christ were a miraculously born god, would his mother would have reproved him for misconduct when she found him in the temple, as she, if no one else, must have known his nature?
- If Mary conceived miraculously, why was it kept so long from Joseph? Did the concubine of god intend to deceive her lawful husband? An angel had to be sent from heaven to let him into the secret.
- Why did not god inform Joseph by inspiration instead of using the round about way of sending an angel to do it?
- Mary was found with child of the Holy Ghost, but as we are told nothing more about the circumstances, does it not leave us suspicious?
- Since it all seems to have been based on dreams, was carried on through dreams, and has no better foundation than dreams, why should we give it better credit than similar stories found in heathen mythology? Or is it that Gentile Christianity is just a dreamy religion?
- In an educated and scientific age, should we accept reports of the birth of a god based on no better a foundation than dreams, angels and the legends of oriental mythology? In particular, can any scientist entertain the idea of infinite beings, themselves mere conjecture, actually impregnating human females?
- Ancient Eastern belief was that sexual intercourse was sinful, procreation was impure and human children were born thus contaminated. Human beings were imperfect and any god sent into the world as a saviour had to avoid such contamination. The solution was that incarnate gods entered the world through human virgins to avoid the impurity and the slander that the saviour might have arisen in more normal ways if the mother were not a virgin. Can any unbiased deny that this is the source of the origin of the story of Christ's virgin birth?
- If Christ had to come into the world avoiding the impurity of human conception and birth, why did he not descend directly from heaven in person? If he can descend on the clouds at his—still awaited—second advent, why could he not do the same at his first advent, thereby pre-empting reasons for doubt and saving far more of fallen humanity?

- Could anyone, free of religious guilt and indoctrination, presented with these stories as the truth today, willingly and joyfully accept them as proof that someone was a god? Or would they consider them to be fraudulent inventions, intended to gull the credulous?
- If you have never taken the time as a Christian to study the origins of your faith I highly suggest it. If you would only familiarize yourself with the Council of Nicea in 325 A.D. one can quickly see how under the influence of Constantine, a Sun-worshipper, that in the conversion of the Empire to the Christian faith then its leader, Jesus, had to be moulded into the image of prior Sun-gods. Such was Constantine's wish and whatever the emperor desired was done or else. Check it out!

Answer for yourself: Does this event as depicted in the New Testament now seem "Divine and unique" to you any longer? That should make us question the historicity of such a man let alone the whole of the "Jesus Story" as it has been related to us since it begins totally with a myth. Could the "Jesus Story" be nothing more than the personification of the descent of the Soul into matter, into humanity and its Spiritual evolution and final ascension and return to God from which we all came to begin with?

THE VIRGIN BIRTH OF JESUS CHRIST AS RECORDED IN THE NEW TESTAMENT TRUTH...OR A SUN-MYTH RETOLD?

In antiquity, filled with legend, lore, and superstition, the report of a virtuous woman giving birth to a child with the usual form, and possessing the usual characteristics of a human being, but without a male partner in the conception, might in an age of miracles and ignorance of natural law, be believed with implicit credulity. But in an age of intelligence, when the keys of science have provided modern man the answers for such lengeds and myths. Modern investigations into religous histories of pagan nations have laid bare the fact that most ancient religious countries abound in reports of these "virgin births." That being the case then the only recourse for a Christian who is a "thinking believer" is to obtain a profound and general skepticism after he has done personal study into into such legends.

We continue our search for the truth and origin of the "virgin birth" stories that not only were applied to Jesus in the New Testament, but which also can be traced to the beginning of time for other "god-men" and the various religions of the heathen nations. What is truth? How do we know we have? How do we know we don't have it? Well, the last question is easy: You study!

My research has again linked such "virgin birth" stories to the Sun. Nothing is new here as you shall quickly see. In this respect these immaculately conceived "virgin born" gods are personified from the Sun.

THE EVIDENCE

Mankind will not emulate extraordinary leaders but instead fall to their knees, adore and worship them. Rather than follow a difficult example it is easier to deify the exemplar thus providing an excuse for not emulating him. It has been said: "How can mere men do what gods can do?" This inclination to worship Jesus as a god rather than follow him as a man stems from the earliest days of Christianity. Within 60 years of the crucifixion Jesus's adoring followers had created the myth of the conception of Jesus by the Holy Ghost making him at least half a god from the start. He thus became an impossible role model for merely mortal men. Yet even the half of him that was human passed on by his mother was too much for the adorers. They they wanted a fully fledged god. After centuries as a tolerated heresy, in 1854 the doctrine of "The Immaculate Conception of the Mother of God" was adopted by the Roman Church rendering Jesus's mother a perfect being from her own birth, free of original sin, incapable of sin throughout her life - a sinless mate for God Almighty to conceive a divine son. Jesus as a fine example of loving manhood had been usurped by the adorers and worshippers.

But lets look at the text. No mention is made of the Virgin Birth in the epistles and in fact Paul could not be more explicit in recording that Jesus was "of the seed of David according to the flesh" as if he were refuting the suggestion. For Paul Jesus was the Son of God through the "Spirit of Holiness" which did not require a supernatural conception. Nor does the earliest gospel mention the virgin birth. The mystical Book of the Revelation of John the Divine does not mention it, though it would be perfect for inclusion in such an allegorical piece. None of the Jewish patriarchs were born of virgins and, though older women beyond the menopause had their wombs "opened" to conceive Isaac, Jacob and Samuel, no divine impregnation was suggested.

The virgin birth appears in Luke and Matthew, years after the event, to prove Jesus's divinity. The birth stories in the two gospels come from different sources and differ widely but both contradict their central thesis that Jesus's mother was a virgin by giving a genealogy to show that Joseph was descended from David, an irrelevancy if Joseph had not impregnated his wife. The original idea was obviously to trace Jesus's lineage through Joseph to David to fulfill messianic prophecy. Then the idea of making Jesus more divine through a virgin birth arose and was tacked on spoiling the object of the genealogy. The editors of both gospels see a problem and try to avoid it: in Luke by inserting "as people thought" to show Jesus was not really Joseph's son and in Matthew by slyly separating Joseph from his son by inserting after "...Joseph" "the husband of Mary, of whom was begotten" Jesus. If the intention was to imply that Mary was begetting Jesus then the person inserting the story was either ignorant or depended on the ignorance of his readers for only men could beget according to Jewish convention. Neither Luke nor Matthew refer to the birth story again and indeed it contradicts the main story. Presumably his family or at least his mother would have been aware of all that feting by kings and shepherds, and glory in the heavens, and the reason for it all. Yet later they are continually puzzled and disappointed by Jesus's behaviour. And why bother trying to establish a divine conception when both refer to Joseph in the main narrative as the father of Jesus.

The Ebionites, the first Jewish followers of Jesus accepted Joseph as the natural father. An attempt was made by the early Christians to justify the virgin birth story by referring to Isaiah 7:14 where is written, "Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son". The word employed in the Greek version of the Old Testament was parthenos. But a reference to the original Hebrew yields the word almah. Both parthenos and almah did not necessarily mean a virgin as we understand it, a woman who had never had intercourse. In Greek it could mean youth, the state of unmarriage, or even a person who is first married. In Hebrew it could mean beside the usual meaning, an immature girl who could not conceive because she had not yet started to menstruate. The idea of a virgin as a premenstrual girl allows her to have children and still be a virgin. If she were to conceive from her very first ovulation, she would not have menstruated but would be a mother and still a virgin. If she conceived at the first ovulation after the birth, she could be a virgin mother of two children of different ages. Since Jewish girls often married before menstruation - in Joel 1:8 an almah's husband is mentioned - virgin mothers were not unusual. Now Mary was described as "betrothed" to Joseph implying that she was a minor under the age of twelve and a half. After that age she could become his wife. Thus the "virgin" Mary could have given birth. If she did, the truth was misunderstood in the gentile world of the Roman Empire, and indeed beyond, where it was de rigeur not only for gods but also great men to be born of virgins. Ra, Hatshepsut, Amenophis III, Cyrus the Great, Julius Caesar, Perseus, Plato, Apollonius of Tyana, Fohi, Lao Kium, Zoroaster and Attis all came of virgin births according to their followers.

Herodotus explained that such conceptions occurred by way of a ray of light and according to Plutarch's book on Isis and Osiris it entered through the ear. Tertullian confirms it was a ray of light. Thus medieval pictures of Mary at the moment of conception show a ray of light entering her ear. Furthermore it is common for gods and those akin to gods to have mothers called Mary or a cognate name. Adonis was born of Myrrha, Hermes of Maia, Cyrus of Mariana or Mandane, Joshua of Miriam, Buddha of Maya and Khrishna of Maritala

Many are the cases noted in history of young maidens claiming a paternity for their male offspring by a God.

Mr. Kenrick tells us the likeness of this virgin mother, with the divine child in her arms, may now be seen represented in sculpture on some of the ancient, ruined temples of that ruined empire. And Mr. Higgins (Anacalypsis) makes the broad declaration that "the worship of this virgin mother, with her God-begotten child, prevailed everywhere." This author also quotes Mr. Riquord as saying, this son of God "was exhibited in effigy, lying in a manger, in the same manner the infant Jesus was afterward laid in the cave at Bethlehem." Mr. Higgins further testifies that the worship of this virgin God-mother (that is, the God and the mother) is of very ancient date and universal prevalence in all the eastern countries, as is proved by sculptured figures bearing the marks of great age. By the way, the reprint of Anacalypsis is available on the Internet...I recommend it very highly if you want to get to the truth about many of the doctrines of Christendom.

Mr. Higgins remarks that the mother was still held to be a virgin, even after she had given birth to other children besides the deity-begotten bantling, which furnishes another striking parallel to the history of Mary, the mother of Jesus, as she was still called a virgin after she had given birth to Jesus and his brothers James and John. And it is an incident worth noticing here, that, in the case of Mayence, virgin-mother of the God-sired Hesus of the Druids, the ancient traditions of the country, more than two thousand years old, represent her body as being enveloped in light, and a crown of twelve stars upon her head, corresponding exactly to the apocalyptic figure described by St. John, in the twelfth chapter of his Revelation. She is also represented with her foot on the head of a serpent, according to Davie's Universal Etymology.

In corroboration of this statement one only needs to examine the evidence existing today of such legends; such evidence from the religious records of India, Egypt, Persia, Greece, Rome, Mexico, Tibet, etc.

Maia, mother of Sakia and Yasoda of Chrishna; Celestine, mother of the crucified Zunis; Chimalman, mother of Quexalcote; Semele, mother of the Egyptian Bacchus, and Minerva, mother of the Grecian Bacchus; Prudence, mother of Hercules; Alcmene, mother of Alcides; Shing- Mon, mother of Yu, and Mayence, mother of Hesus, were all as confidently believed to be pure, holy and chaste virgins, while giving birth to these Gods, sons of God, Saviors and sin-atoning Mediators, as was Mary, mother of Jesus, and long before her time.

Ceres, the virgin mother of Osiris, claimed that he was begotten by the "father of all Gods."

In Greece it became so common that the reigning king issued an edict, decreeing the death of all young women who should offer such an insult to deity as to lay to him the charge of begetting their children. The virgin Alcmene furnishes a case of a young woman claiming God as the father of her offspring, when she brought forth the divine Redeemer Alcides, 1280 years B.C.

Auguste Nichols tells us, in his Philosophical Essays on Christianity, that Io is called, in Eschylus, "the Chaste Virgin," and her son "the Son of God" If you would like to see other example you need look no further than Guigne's History of the Huns.

Gonzales informs us he found on an ancient temple in India the Latin inscription 'Partura, virginis,' "the virgin about to bring forth." And similar inscriptions have been found on pagan temples in the country of the ancient Gauls (Riquord's Theology of the Ancient Gauls, Chapter X.).

"He who hath ears to hear, let him hear," and treasure up these facts. According to Chinese history there were two beings -- Tien and Chang-Ti -- worshiped in that country as Gods more than twenty- five hundred years ago, born of virgins "who knew no man." The mother of the mighty and the almighty God Hercules, we are told, "knew only Jove."

If history and tradition, then, are to be credited, God had many "well-beloved sons," born of pious and holy virgins, besides Jesus Christ. And some of them are represented as being his only begotten," and others his "first begotten," sons. And all these cases appear to be equally as well authenticated as the story of Jesus Christ. All stand upon a level, the same kind and the same amount of evidence being offered in each case.

THE BLACK VIRGIN

Curiously, several of the above-named Saviors are represented as being black, Jesus Christ included with this number. There is as much evidence that the Christian Savior was a black man, or at least a dark man, as there is of his being the son of the Virgin Mary, or that he once lived and moved upon the earth. And that evidence is the testimony of his disciples, who had nearly as good an opportunity of knowing what his complexion was as the evangelists, who omit to say anything about it. In the pictures and portraits of Christ by the early Christians, he is uniformly represented as being black. And to make this the more certain, the red tinge is given to the lips; and the only text in the Christian bible quoted by orthodox Christians, as describing his complexion, represents it as being black. Solomon's declaration, "I am black, but comely, O ye daughters of Jerusalem" (Sol. i. 5), is often cited as referring to Christ. According to the bible itself, then, Jesus Christ was a black man.

But a little background into the "black virgin." Hundreds of icons of Mary have intentionally black faces and hands. In France they are called "Vierge Noires" or Black Virgins; in other countries they are called Black Madonnas. Some call her "the other Mary"; Jung said she is Isis; others consider her to be the iconic remains of prehistoric Earth Mother worship. She is linked with Cybele, Diana, Isis & Venus; cross-culturally she is associated with Kali, Inanna & Lilith. Historically she has ties to the Crusades and the Moorish occupation of Spain, to the Conquistadors, who brought her to the New World, and to the Merovingians and Knights Templars, who saw her as Mary Magdalene. As Sara-la-Kali she is revered by the Gypsies at Saintes Maries de la Mer. For modern psychologists she is said to express the archetype of the Dark Feminine. Whoever the enigmatic Black Virgin may be, she holds a powerful attraction for her millions of devotees around the world. Her sacred sites stand on highly charged earth energy centers, enhanced by megalithic ley-lines and sacred architecture. From ancient times to present, people have undertaken pilgrimages to her shrines as a way to explore her mysteries and to enable her to do her miraculous work of healing, transformation and inspiration. France has more than 300 Black Virgin sites, with over 150 Black Virgins still in existence.

Answer for yourself: It is believed by many that Jesus will return to this planet as Messiah. Let us suppose that, at some future time, he makes his second advent to the earth, as some Christians anticipate he will do, and that he comes in the character of a "black" Messiah, how would he be received negro-hating Christians or the sons of the Aryan nations?

Answer for yourself: Would they worship a negro God?

THE LINK TO ASTROLOGY

And the tradition of divine Saviors being born of undefiled and undeflowered virgins has an astronomical chapter we must not omit to notice. The virgin, with her God-begotten child, was pictured imaginarily in the heavens from time immemorial. They are represented on the Hindu zodiac, at least three thousand years old, and on the ancient Egyptian planispheres. And if you will examine Burritt's Geography of the Heavens, you will find the infant God-son (the sun) is represented as being born into a new year on the 25th of December (the very date assigned for Christ's birth), and may be seen rising over the eastern horizon, out of Mary, Maria, or Mare (the Latin for sea), with the infant God in her arms, being heralded and preceded by a bright star, which rises immediately preceding the virgin and her child, thus suggesting the text, "We have seen his star in the east, and have come to worship him." (Matt. 2:8).

If you have not you need to refresh yourself with the 280 cycle from the vernal equinox to Dec. 25 which the ancients believed was the gestation of the Sun-god impregnation of "mother earth." The ancients believed this "child god" was to be born of a Virgin. This, of course represents the constellation of Virgo. Virgo had command of teh Fall equinox at the time this passage was edited by the Gentile priesthood. And Virgo, as such, represented the fall of the fetus in the third trimester, before it's birth. A human fetus enter's it's third trimester after 186-187 days. The Fall equinox, Sept. 22 (when the fetus falls toward the vagina, birth) is 186 days from the Conception at the vernal equinox (March. 21). Again, we see the link between the human body and the Cosmos and the ancients interpreted this as man being made in the image of the Cosmos which delcared to them God.

Answer for yourself: Is this a coincidence and is the writers of the New Testament relating "truth" when they write of the birth of Jesus? Where is the Holy Spirit in any of this?

Such facts led the learned Alphonso to exclaim: "The adventures of Jesus Christ are all depicted among the stars".

And such facts fasten the conviction on our mind that the stories of Gods cohabiting with young maids or virgins, and begetting other Gods, is of astrological origin -- the story of Jesus Christ included. A critical research shows that astronomy and religion were interblended, interwoven, and confounded together at a very early period of time, so indissolubly, that it now becomes impossible to separate them (at least without a considerable amount of study and finanes to procure the necessary documents for inspection).

INDIAN AND EGYPTIAN MYTHOLOGY

This Virgin, of whom the Sun, the true "Savior of Mankind," is born, is neither the bright and beautiful Dawn, or the dark Earth, or Night. Hence we have, as we have already seen if your have read the prior articles, the "Virgin," or "Virgo," as one of the signs of the Zodiac. The sign of the "Celestial Virgin" rises above the horizon at the moment in which we fix the birth of the Lord Jesus Christ (Higgins, Anacalypsis, vol. i. p. 314, and Bonwick, Egyptian Belief, p. 147). We have in the first decade the Sign of the Virgin, following the most ancient tradition of the Persians, the Chaldeans, the Egyptians, Hermes and Aesculapius, a young woman called in the Persian language, "Selinidos de Darzama; in the Arabic, Aderenedesa-that is to say, a chaste, pure, immaculate virgin, suckling an infant, which some nations call Jesus (Savior), but which we in Greek call "Christ" (Abulmazer). As a Christian you need to understand that this is the origin of the Mary and Jesus statues you see in many Catholic Churches. From this would come a whole host of "false doctrines" believed by millions today.

The "Dawn" was personified by the ancients as a "virgin mother, who bore the Sun" (Fiske, Myths and Mythmakers, p. 156). In Sanskrit "Ida" is the "Earth," the wife of Dyaus (the Sky), and so we have before us the mythical phrase, "the Sun at its birth rest on the earth." In other words, "the Sun at birth is nursed in the lap of the mother." The moment we understand the "nature" of a myth, all impossibilities, contradictions, and immoralities disappear. If a mythical personage be nothing more than a name of the Sun, his birth may be derived from ever so many different mothers. He may be the son of the Sky or the Dawn or of the Sea or of the Night (Renouf's Hibbert Lectures, p. 108).

This Celestial Virgin was feigned to be a mother. This Celestial Virgin is represented in the Indian Zodiac of Sr. William Jones, with ears of corn in one hand, and the lotus in the other. In Kircher's Zodiac of Hermes, she has corn in both hands. In other planispheres of the Egyptian priests she carries ears of corn in one hand, and the infant Savior Horus in the other. In Roman Catholic countries, she is generally represented with the child in one hand, and the lotus or lily in the other. In Vol. II. of Montfaucon's work, she is represented as a female nursing a child, with ears of corn in her hand, and the legend IAO. She is seated on clouds, a star is at her head. The reading of the Greek letters, from right to left, show this to be very ancient.

In the Vedic hymns Aditi, the "Dawn," is called the "Mother of the Gods." She is said to have given birth to the Sun (Max Muller, Origin of Religions, p. 261). "As the Sun and all the solar deities rise from the east," says Prof. M. Muller, "we can understand how Aditi (Dawn) came to be called the "Mother of the Bright Gods" (Ibid. p. 230). The poets of the Veda indulged in theogonic speculations and they knew of Indra as the greatest of gods, they knew of Agni as the god of gods, they knew of Varuna as the ruler of all; but they were by no means startled at the idea that their Indra had a mother, or that Varuna was nursed in the lap of Aditi. All this was true to nature; for their god was the Sun, and the mother who born and nursed him was the Dawn. Without scarcely an exception, all the names by which the "Virgin goddess" of the Akropolis was known point to this mythology of the Dawn (Cox, Aryan Myths, vol. i. p 228).

We find in the Vishnu Purana, that Devaki (the virgin mother of the Hindu Savior Chrishna, whose history corresponds in most every particular with that of Christ Jesus who would come over 800 years later) is called Aditi, which, in the Rig-Veda, is the name for the Dawn. Thus we see the legend is complete. Devaki is Aditi, Aditi is the Dawn, and the Dawn is the Virgin Mother. "The Savior of mankind," who is born of her is the Sun, the Sun is Chrishna, and Chrishna is Christ.

In the Mahabharata, Chrishna is also represented as the "Son of Aditi" (Cox, Aryan Myths, vol. iii, pp. 105, and 130, vol. ii). In other words, Chrishna is the son of the "Virgin Mother" as is the Christ.

Indra, the Sun, who was worshipped in some parts of India as the Crucified God, is also represented in the Vedic hymns as the Son of the Dawn. He is said to have been born of Dahana, who is Daphne, a personification of the Dawn (Fiske, Myths and Mythmakers, p. 118).

The humanity of this SOLAR GOD-MAN, this demiurge, is strongly insisted on in the Rig-Vida. He is the son of God, but also the son of Aditi. He is Purusha, the man, the male. Agni is frequently called the "Son of man." It is expressly explained that the titles Agni, Indra, Mitra, etc., all refer to one Sun-god under "many names." And when we find the name of a mortal, Yama, who once lived upon earth, included among these names, the humanity of the demiurge becomes still more accentuated, and we get at the root idea.

Horus, the Egyptian Savior, was the son of the virgin Isis. Now, this Isis, in Egyptian mythology, is the same as the virgin Devaki in Hindu mythology. She is the Dawn (Renouf, Hibbert Lectures, p. 111 and 161). Isis, as we have already seen, is represented suckling the infant Horus, and, in the words of Prof. Renouf, we may say, "in whose lap can the Sun be nursed more fitly than in that of the Dawn" (Ibid., p. 161, 179).

Among the goddesses of Egypt, the highest was Neith, who reigned inseparable with Amun in the upper sphere. She was called "Mother of the gods," "Mother of the sun." She was the femine origin of all things, as Amun was the male origin. She held the same rank at Sais as Amun did at Thebes. Her temples there are said to have exceeded in colossal grandeur anything every seen before. On one of these was the celebrated inscription thus deciphered by Champollion:

I am all that has been, all that is, all that will be. No mortal has ever raised the veil that conceals me. My offspring is the Sun

She was mother of the Sun-god Ra, and is commonly supposed to represent Heaven; but some expressions which are hardly applicable to heaven, render it more probable that she is one of the many names of the (Ibid., p. 179).

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

If we turn from Indian and Egyptian, to Grecian mythology, we shall also find that their Sun-gods and solar heroes are born of the same virgin mother. Theseus was said to have been born of Aithra, "the pure air," and Cedipus of Iokaste, "the violet light of morning." Perseus was born of the virgin Danae, and was called the "Son of the bright morning" (Tales of Ancient Greece, pp. xxxi). In Io, the mother of the "sacred bull, the mother also of Hercules, we see the violet-tinted morning from which the sun is born; all these gods and heroes being, like Christ Jesus, personifications of the Sun (Cox, Aryan Myths, vol. i. p. 229). The bull symbolized the productive force in nature, and hence it was associated with the Sun-gods. This animal was venerated by nearly all the peoples of antiquity (Wake, Phallism in Anct. Religs. p. 45).

"The Savior of Mankind" was also represented as being born of the "dusky mother," which accounts for many Pagan, and so-called Christian, goddesses being represented black. This is the "dark night," who for many weary hours travails with the birth of her child. The Sun, which scatters the darkness, is also the child of the darkness, and so the phrase naturally went "that he was born of her." Of the two legends related in the poems afterwards combined in the "Hymn to Apollo," the former relates the birth of Apollo, the Sun, from Leto, the Darkness, which is called his mother. The idea was entertained by the ancients that these god-begotten heroes were engendered without any carnal intercourse, and that they were they sons of Jupiter. This idea is later expanded and relates that such "virgin births" comes from the idea that the Holy Spirit was operating in some fashion on the virgin mother Earth (Knight, Ancient Art and Mythology, p. 156).

The dark earth was also represented as being the mother of the god Sun, who apparently came out of, or was born of her, in the East, as Minos (the Sun) was represented to have been born of Ida (the earth) (Cox, Aryan Myths, p. 87).

In Hindu mythology, the Earth, under the name of Prithivi, receives a certain share of honors as one of the primitive goddesses of the Veda, being thought of as the "kind mother." Moreover, various deities were regarded as the progeny resulting from the fancied union of the Earth with Dyaus (Heaven).

Our Aryan forefathers looked up to the heavens and they gave it the name of Dyaus, from a root word which means "to shine." And when, out of the forces and forms of nature, they afterwards fashioned other gods, this name Dyaus became Dyaus pitar, the Heaven-father, or Lord of All; and in far later times, when the wester Aryans had found their home in Europe, the Dyaus pitar of the central Asian land became the Zeupater of the Greeks, and the Jupiter of the Romans, and the first part of his name gave us the word Deity.

According to Egyptian mythology, Isis was also the Earth (Williams, Hinduism, p. 24). Again, from the union of Seb and Nut sprung the mild Osiris, Seb in the Earth, Nut in Heaven, and Osiris is the Sun (Renouf's Hibbert Lectures, p.110-111).

Tacitus, the Roman historian, speaking of the Germans in A.D. 98, says:

There is nothing in these several tribes that merits attention, except that they all agree in worshipping the goddess Earth, or as they call her, Herth, whom they consider as the common mother of all (Manners of the Germans, p. xi).

These virgin mothers and virgin goddesses of antiquity, were also, at times, personifications of the Moon, or of Nature (Knight, Ancient Art and Mythology, pp. 81, 90, and 166). The moon was called by the ancients, "The Queen," "The Highest Princess," "The Queen of Heaven," "The Princess and Queen of Heaven," etc. She was Ishtar, Ashera, Diana, Artemis, Isis, Juno, Lucina, Astarte,etc. (Goldzhier, pp. 158; Knight, pp. 99-100).

Answer for yourself: Who is "God the Father," who overshadows the maiden?

The overshadowing of the maiden by "God the Father," whether he be called Zeus, Jupiter, or Jehovah, is simply the Heaven, the Sky, the "All-Father," looking down upon with love, and overshadowing the maiden, the broad flushing light of Dawn, or the Earth. From this union the Sun is born without any carnal intercourse. (virgin birth). The mother is not yet a virgin. This is illustrated in Hindu mythology by the union of Pritrivi, "Mother Earth," with Dyaus, "Heaven." Various deities were regarded as their progeny. The "God the Father" of all nations of antiquity was nothing more than a personification of the Sky or the Heavens. In one of the Chinese sacred books, the Shu-king, Heaven and Earth are called "Father and Mother of all things" (Taylor, Primitive Culture, pp. 294-296). The "God the Father" of the Indians is Dyaus, that is, the Sky (Williams, Hinduism, p. 24). Ormuzd, the god of the ancient Persians, was a personification of the sky. In Greek iconography Zeus is the Heaven. The Christian God supreme is still Dyaus Pitar, the "Heavenly Father."

NOW PAY ATTENTION: THE SUN BECOME THE SON!!!!!!!!!!

In the Vedic hymns the Sun, the Lord and Savior, the Redeemer and Preserver of mankind, is frequently called the "Son of the Sky" (Muller, Origin of Religions, pp. 261, 290).

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that the Sun is now become the "Son"? Get ready for incarnational theology for here it comes.

According to Egyptian mythology, Seb (the Earth) is overshadowed by Nut (Heaven), the result of this union being the beneficent Lord and Savior, Osiris (Renouf, Hebbert Lectures, pp. 110-111). The same thing is to be found in ancient Grecian mythology. Zeus or Jupiter is the Sky, and Danae, Leto, Iokaste, Io and others, are the Dawn, or the violet light of morning (Cox, Tales of Ancient Greece, pp. xxxi, and 82; and Aryan Mythology, vol. i. p. 229).

The sky appeared to men to perform the functions of a Father, as the Earth those of a Mother. The sky was the father, for it cast seed into the bosom of the earth (rain), which in receiving them became fruitful, and brought forth, and was the mother...Plutarch

The Phoenician theogony is founded on the same principles. Heaven and Earth (called Ouranos and Ghe) are at the head of a genealogy of aeons, whose adventures are conceived in the mythological style of these physical allegorists (Squire, Serpent Symbol, p. 66).

In the Samothracian mysteries, which seem to have been the most anciently established ceremonies of the kind in Europe, the Heaven and the Earth were worshipped as a male and female divinity, and as the parents of all things (Squire, Serpent Symbol, p. 64).

The Supreme God (the Al-fader), of the ancient Scandinavians was Odin, a personification of the Heavens. The principal goddess among them was Frigga, a personification of the Earth. It was the opinion among these people that this Supreme Being or Celestial God had united with the Earth (Frigga) to produce "Baldur the Good" (the Sun), who corresponds to the Apollo of the Greeks and Romans, and the Osiris of the Egyptians (Mallet, Northern Antiquitiess, pp. 90, 94, 98. 406, 510, 511).

Xiuletl, in the Mexican language, signifies Blue, and hence was a name which the Mexicans gave to Heaven, from which Xiuleti-cutli is derived, an epithet signifying "the God of Heaven," which they bestowed upon Tezcatlipoca, who was the "Lord of All," the "Supreme God." He it was who overshadowed the Virgin of Tule, Chimelman, who began the Savior Quetzalcoatle (the Sun).

Now I could go on but you get the point. As you have seen, the overshadowing of the Earth by the Sky produced the Sun. It would be a short step from personification to glorification to deification. And as you also saw, as far back as the Vedic hymns the Sun, the Lord and Savior, the Redeemer and Preserver of mankind, is frequently called the "Son of the Sky" (Muller, Origin of Religions, pp. 261, 290). It is this concept later accepted by Nicea that made Jesus "of the same essence as the Father;" therefore the Son is equal with the Father. This is how idolatry and Sun Worship crept into the faith of the early church and remains there today!

But back to the point, the whole concept of the immaculate virgin births of pagan godmen is found in the overshadowing of the Earth by the Sun thus producing the offspring of the Sun and Earth; namely the Son.

Answer for yourself: Now don't you think that these beliefs among the Gentiles of the world played a large part in the fashioning of many doctrines "about Jesus?' Could it be possible such doctrines were "read into the life of Jesus" by non-Jews who had ingrained anit-Semitism? Is is possible that they made "Jesus equal with God" and recorded such "beliefs" in documents that you have come to believe today are "inerrant" and "infallible" (New Testament)?

Answer for yourself: Is the evidence not overwhelming? Where is a Jewish Rabbi to be found in any of this whose purpose was to bring men to God by preaching repentance and obedience to the Commandments of God?

Answer for yourself: As a Christian, could you have inherited and believed lies instead of the truths about the "historical Jesus" which fly in the face of such pagan traditions?

EXAMPLES OF FAMOUS BIRTHS ON DECEMBER 25TH BESIDES THAT OF JESUS

The reverence for December 25, as the Day of Birth for the Sun (Son of God) goes back into pre-history. The hollowed reckoning for this day did not begin two thousand years ago with the Christ. Jesus Christ, so called, was simply the latest personage to be linked to this ancient date of December 25, depicted as the birth of the Sun God.

Some of the others that were revered on this day are as follows:

Chrishna, of India, born on December 25, his mother was a virgin, mother's name was Maia. The name Chrishna means Black or Dark. His uncle, Kamsa, the ruler at the time of his birth sought to kill him (Chrishna) because he had heard a Prophecy that Chrishna would overthrow him. Chrishna escaped death by being smuggled out of the area to safety (sounds like Herod and Jesus does it not?).

Mithra, of Persia, born on December 25, his birth was witnessed by Shepherds that brought gifts to honor him. He was styled as a Mediator between God and Man. Witness this quote from the Encyclopedia Encarta, "Mithraism was similar to Christianity in many respects, for example, in the ideals of humility and brotherly love, baptism, the rite of communion, the use of holy water, the adoration of the shepherds at Mithra's birth, the adoption of Sundays and of December 25 (Mithra's birthday) as holy days, and the belief in the immortality of the soul, the last judgment, and the resurrection. Mithraism differed from Christianity in the exclusion of women from its ceremonies and in its willingness to compromise with polytheism. The similarities, however, made possible the easy conversion of its followers to Christian doctrine" ("Mithraism," Microsoft (R) Encarta. Copyright (c) 1994 Microsoft Corporation. Copyright (c) 1994 Funk & Wagnall's Corporation).

Horus, of Egypt, born on December 25. His mother, Isis, gave birth to him in the swamp, she was warned by the god Thoth, to flee and conceal the child from the evil Set. Set had killed the father of Horus, whose name was Osiris, and sought to kill Horus, |also. Isis was able to keep Horus hidden from Set, till he (Horus) grew to manhood. Horus sought to avenge the murder of his Father, and made war against Set, and defeated him.

Buddha, of India, born on December 25, his mother's name was Maya (similar to Mary) she was a virgin. He was immaculately conceived, and at birth, he announced that he was a savior to the world. His birth was announced by a star. At his birth, he was visited by Wise Men who declared that they had seen Signs of his birth, that is to say, signs of the royal birth (coincidence?).

Beddou (Fot), was a god of the orient born 1027 BC, his mother was a virgin, he was born of royal blood. The king sought to kill him at birth, because he felt the newborn infant posed a future threat to his Throne. The god child was saved by shepherds, and lived in the desert till he reached the age of thirty, at which time he commenced teaching his spiritual doctrine to that religion.

Quetzalcoatl, a god the Western Hemisphere, was born of a virgin. He sojourned in the wilderness, fasted forty days. Was crucified. He was variously represented as the God of light that struggled against the god of darkness called Tezcatlipoca.

Hercules, son of the god Zeus, predestined by birth to inherit the throne of Argos. Hera, the jealous wife of Zeus desired the throne for another and sought to delay the birth of Hercules, and subsequently tried to kill Hercules while in his crib, by sending two snakes to strangle him. Hercules killed the snakes, though he was less than a year old. Later, He was sent away to the countryside where he became a shepherd.

Attis, of Phrygia, his mother was a virgin, her name was Nana. He was a shepherd, and reported to have died by self emasculation under a pine tree. He was alleged to have risen from the dead at Easter i.e. The vernal Equinox.

Tammuz was hailed as the only begotten son of the god Ea. His mother was a virgin, by the name of Ishtar. As an infant he was hidden in a chest by Aphrodite, the goddess of love and entrusted to Persephone, the goddess of the nether world. Persephone later opened the chest, and was so stricken by the beauty of the babe, that she refused to return the child to Aphrodite. The two goddesses fought each other for possession of the child, till finally the god Zeus mediated the matter, and declared that the child shall spend half it's year with Aphrodite and the other half in the nether world with Persephone.

There were many, many more gods and saviors born of virgin mothers, than I have listed here. To explore this subject in detail, you need to read only 3 books in detail:

1. The World's Saviors, by Charles Vail

2. The Worlds Sixteen Crucified Saviors, by Kersey Graves

3. The Golden Bough, by George Frazer.

The fact that so many Gentile "Saviors" were alleged to have been born on the same day of the year, under the same and similar circumstances, in vastly scattered locations of the world, throughout thousands of years of history, indicates a worldwide dissemination of a common mythology.

The sameness of these various myths that are widely separated geographically and in language and racial affiliation indicates an extremely ancient source as well as a coalescence of thought and philosophy within the ancient world that, perhaps many of us had not envisioned. Indeed ancient society was evidently nourished from the same spiritual fountain (Religious Philosophy). We see, that over the millennium, minor superficial descriptive differences have entered the ancient Myths, But nevertheless we can easily recognize the original core that pervades all of the various tales.

We should not assume that all people from the various regions of the world possessed the same interpretation of this symbolism. Nor should we assume that all the people within any given society, at the various strata (levels) of which all societies are layered possessed the same interpretation of this allegory. It is evident that the ancient sages, in their wisdom, devised a very refined and uniquely adaptable religious system that was distinctively compatible to an individuals level of understanding.

The problem is that we have come to believe the same "myths" about Jesus as Christians!

It is time to wise up. Whether you want to admit it or not if you are a Christian then your religious philosophy and belief system is directly descended from the Mythical allegories of the ancient world. When in Rome do as the Romans, right? Well you have and not know it. All along you have been falsely assured by those you "trust" as spiritual leaders that you are "right with God." You better rethink that because if half or more of what you believe about Jesus can be shown to be lies, myths, and pagan superstitions derived from their fear and worship of Nature, then you better study for yourself and repent and learn how a non-Jew relates to God within Biblical Judaism, the religion and faith of the Jesus you love and say you follow.

For sharing such things I am often chastised severely by well-meaning simple Christian shepherds thinking they have all truth because they read the New Testament. Understand there are people that know more than they and most spiritual Christian Gentile leaders will reject such knowledge outright because they fear being proved wrong. The facts speak for themselves. When you take the time to look for yourself you only need ask yourself two questions:

In the face of such overwhelming facts and overwhelming evidence then is the Christian faith I have followed as inherited from my parents truly a "Divine and unique revelation from God" or should I begin a serious investigation into the faith of Jesus, Biblical Judaism, and the place for the non-Jewish God-fearer within it who sets at the feet of the teachers of Israel and receive the "light to the world"?

HOW THE ANCIENTS VIEWED THEIR SUN GODS AND ITS SPIRITUAL IMPLICATION FOR US TODAY #2

THE ROLE OF MYTH & ALLEGOY AS RELATING TO THE SUN-GODS

Since the word "myth" occurs quite often when dealing with the subject of the Ancient Sun-gods, it is necessary to define it so that we may the better glimpse the nature of the subject. To the modern mind the word carries with it a derogatory implication. To reduce any subject matter to the status of a myth is the "kiss of death" to most people and immediately renders the subject at hand as worthless. This comes from growing up in a modern culture that is "literalistic" to the core and has either forgotten or never learned that the medium of "myth and legend" was the very genius of the Ancients to capture Divine Truths for all eternity. Just think for a moment; here we live some 15,000 yrs removed from Ancient Egypt but the myths of Osiris, Horus, and Isis are yet worldwide in our day and as should be expected the myth of Osiris, Horus and Isis can be found upon study to be the very underpinnings of almost all world religions today. We have heard of these names but few know that the very substrate of their religious worship today, regardless of the name of their religion, come from this origin of Divine Spiritual Concepts which were originally represented by Egypt in their myths of Osiris, Horus, and Isis. The irony is that our "Jesus Story" which is the center of our Western Occidental thinking finds its origin right there in Egypt with Osiris, Horus, and Isis as well. Instead of an allegorical understanding of God expressed through the vehicle of myths as was done by these Ancient Spiritual Masters of the Orient or Eastern hemisphere who were not nearly as "literal" as we "westerners" and were more subjective in their thinking and thereby shrouded their wisdom in symbols, methaphors, legends, and myths, we living in the Western hemisphere usually regard everything "literally" and consider such religious myth of Egypt and "pagan" as a worthless fiction and a falsity. To show that a theory or a belief is only a myth, is to relegate it to the world of non-reality, and dismiss it from further consideration as a thing of value. This is sad for such is not the case at all as I was to find in doing my studies over the years.

I found the above idea of the worthlessness of a religious myth as viewed by the Occidental (Western) Hemisphere today to be a serious miscalculation and misjudgment of the facts at hand and this terrible misunderstanding can and should be laid at the feet of Christian biases once again since most Egyptologists today and for the last one hundred or so years have ties with Christianity and their own writings make clear that they are out to prove the "truth of Christianity" from their evaluation of Ancient Egyptian artifacts and religious studies. The only problem with this is not the link with Christianity, for it is there without a doubt, but the denial by leading Egyptologists today of the fact that Ancient Egypt found the genesis of their spiritual myths being influenced by areas such as Astronomy and Astrotheology as well as the role of these "religious" myths held sacred by them which came from these celestial observations and which were the origins and genesis of such Egyptian religious figures of Osiris, Isis, and Horus, etc., which also can be shown to be the very pattern for the "life and sayings of the New Testament Jesus. I don't know about you but when the reader sees these hundreds and hundreds of existing parallels between the life events of Osiris and Horus with the New Testament Jesus of Nazareth and as well as Isis (contrasted with Mary, the mother of Jesus) and then see these same identical "wisdom teachings" and "wisdom sayings" from the myths of Osiris and Horus later put into the mouth of the New Testament Jesus Christ then to be alarmed is understatement considering that this "historical Jesus" has been taught as the only way to Heaven and that trust and faith in the "Jesus Story" is necessary for Eternal Life. Such plagiarism of the Ancient Osiris and Horus myths when contrasted with the "Jesus Story" must not be ignored. But current Egyptologists today seem to take little if any note of such identical parallelism. I believe we have to consider the implications that hit us in the face that comes from contrasting these Ancient Egyptian Myths with the "Jesus Story".

With the Ancients, take for example the Egyptians, a myth was a valuable instrumentality of knowledge. It was an intellectual, even a spiritual, tool, by the aid of which truth and wisdom could at one and the same time both be concealed from the unworthy and expressed for the worthy. Again when considering "religious myths" we find the concept so often mentioned of the "Inner Mysteries" and the "Outer Mysteries" of which I so often speak. We as Christians and followers of "the Christ" grew up in the "Outer Mysteries" in America since having for our main source of knowledge concerning "the Christ" basically only "one book", the Christian Bible and New Testament which was given us by Rome who won the war over the Jews, which presented everything concerning "this Christ" as an assumed "historical narrative". We as obedient parishoners, never knowing that we needed to study the origin of this New Testament before we attached our emotions to it let alone an almost unbreakable faith in its "inerrancy and infalliblity", never studied one scholarly book on how we got this New Testament let alone its 600,000 discrepancies. We never studied scholarly books which showed us that the hundreds and hundreds of quotes in it are purposefully misquotes, purposeful mistranslations, and pure inventions of the Hebrew Scriptures. We never knew to study comparative religions and contrast the Ancients "Jesus stories" with the one Rome gave us. We were NEVER aware that behind the mundane historical narratives of "the Christ" and this "Jesus" lie a wealth of Ancient Egyptian myths and legends from which the "Jesus Story" was later "carnalized" and "literalized". We grew up NEVER aware that these same "logia" and "wisdom sayings" of "the Christ" which we find put into the mouth of an assumed historical Jesus and which seem to us as "apples of gold in pictures of silver" (Prov. 25:11) are first found in Egyptian sacred writings coming from such characters as Osiris, Horus, Toth, Isis, etc., some 10,000 years B.C.E. or earlier. Once you see this for yourself then you will never be the same again.

Alvin Kuhn, one of my favorite authors in these types of categories of studies and the author of The Lost Light says it best:

"The ancients rightly regarded spiritual truth and experience as being incapable of expression or impartation by means of words simply. A myth or an allegory could be made the better means of conveying subtly and with a certain added force, the truth veiled under a set form of dramatic presentation. The myth would enhance spiritual truth as a drama reinforces moral situations. It was all the more powerful in its message precisely because it was known not to be outwardly a true story. No one was caught by the literal falsity of the construction. Attention could therefore be given wholly to the hidden import, which was not obscured by the outward occurrence. The myth was known to be a fiction; therefore it deceived nobody -- until the third century (more on that later). But at the same time it was most ingeniously designed to instruct in the deepest of spiritual truths. It was a literary device to embalm lofty wisdom in the amber of a tradition that could be easily remembered, in the guise of a human story. It was truth incarnated in a dramatic occurrence, which was known to be untrue. Outwardly fictitious, but inwardly the substance of a mighty truth, was the myth. And as such it was the universal dress in which ancient knowledge was clothed".

I hope you heard that and understood what Kuhn meant when saying that things will change in the 3rd century, especially after the Council of Nicea, when Rome takes control of "early Christianity" and drives almost out of existence the early Gnostics who safeguarded, preserved, and cherished this Ancient Spiritual "gnosis" and knowledge which they had inherited from Egypt. The Nag Hammadi Library, a collection of thirteen ancient codices containing over fifty texts, was discovered in upper Egypt in 1945. Understand that this knowledge of "the Christ" has been absent from the minds of men for some almost 2000 years....almost the same time as the assumed existence of a "historical Jesus".

Answer for yourself: Can you estimate the importance of such a discovery and the uniqueness of the time that these writings have remained absent from the minds of men and have been almost obliterated out of existence by Rome?

This immensely important discovery includes a large number of primary Gnostic scriptures -- texts once thought to have been entirely destroyed during the early Christian struggle to define "orthodoxy" -- scriptures such as the Gospel of Thomas, the Gospel of Philip, Pistis Sophia, and the Gospel of Truth. The discovery and translation of the Nag Hammadi library, completed in the 1970's, has provided impetus to a major re-evaluation of early Christian history and the nature of Gnosticism. My Seminary never taught me about these let alone my church and when you look into them you will see why Orthodox Christianity cannot handle such a "hot-potato" for it shows that the earliest Christians were not followers of an "assumed historical person" but rather knew beyond any doubt that "the Christ" is a "Spiritual Concept" only which resides in the bosom of every man and woman and child of God.

I continually have my breath taken away by such wisdom of the Ancients cloaked in the disguise of their spiritual myths which today receive but laughter and denigration by the ignorant. I used to be such a one, being conditioned by Christianity, until my associated studies into Biblical Judaism and my beginning search for a "Jewish Jesus" opened to me, my eyes, and my mind repeatedly to the "African roots" to Judaism which seemed to me of greatest interest. That being so I had to go find out what lay behind these "African origins of Judaism" since I tried to never leave any promising road of knowledge untraveled in my studies since beginning my quest for the truth behind my Faith as a former Christian. I found the "motherload" when I set foot into Egypt and their religious myths but that was only after I had studied sufficiently to learn the "keys" necessary to interpreting these "myths" for as you read closely they also were written in the "guise of a human story" as was the "Jesus Story". Being conditioned you have the tendency to think in "literal" and "historical" parameters but I come to realize beyond any doubt that such an approach to Egyptian religion will never lead me to the truth concerning the Egyptian religion and its "spiritual concepts". A year or so had passed in my scholarly and earnest Egyptian studies where I studied 4 or 5 hours a day as if my life depended upon it and I had come to find no historical Osiris, no historical Horus, no historical Isis. What I had seen beyond any doubt was the hundreds of parallels between these Egyptian myths of Osiris, Horus, and Isis and the "Jesus Story". These parallels existed both in in events and the sayings and teachings in the mouth of this New Testament Jesus. At that time in my life I was beginning to question the "unthinkable". I had to in all honesty ask myself before God that if these same "stories" and same "sayings" which I had come to see paralleled the life of "Jesus Christ" in the New Testament which had their origin with Osiris, Horus, and Isis were but Egyptian "myths" teaching "Divine Spiritual Concepts" (usually about the soul) then was I to even dare to think that my "assumed historical Jesus" might possibly be a nothing more than another replay of prior "religious myths" but in this case designed to appear as if a "historical person". As a Christian Pastor I challenge you to try to understand the crisis which faced me at that time in my life having a very successful ministry at a mega-church in Dallas, Texas. I would have to stop right there and investigate with all my might the evidence for and against the existence of a "historical Jesus" and this information was the most unsettling thing that I have every had to confront as a human being.

In order to arrive at such a point in my studies I had to get beneath the negativity of Christian writers to such topics as Egypt; such negativity which had conditioned me to not seriously consider Egypt earlier in my studies since so much is written negatively about it in the Hebrew Scriptures. It would be later that I would find out that Ezra, himself a Persian and not a Jew, re-wrote basically the Old Testament before and after the return of the Jews from Persia following their conquering of Bablyon. In would be in this rewriting of the history of these Jews where Ezra would give these "black Jews" a different history as a people in order that they would not look to "black Egypt" and their biological "black" parents. Archeology today is teaching us that these Jews were the offspring and children of these Egyptians through their intermarriage with Semites. We should also note the fact that Persia at that time was at war with these returnees' Egyptian parents. The puzzle pieces were coming together and now I understood this negativity toward Egypt in the Hebrew Scriptures especially when I learned the truth about the 18 Dynasty in Egypt and just how these Pyramids were actually built "voluntarily" contrary to the depiction in the Old Testament. Surely I came to see why Persia did not want these black Jews returning home to ever get the idea that their parents were the Egyptian opponents of Persia for if they did then Persia could not count of them be an "outpost" for them in the fertile cresent. I never could understand how this Moses, whom many believe to be one of the head Pharaohs of the 18th Dynasty of Egypt, who led a religious revolution and rebuilding and unification of Egypt, would turn his back on his land and people and write so derogatorily about them in his writings. Now I knew where this negativity came from; namely Ezra a Persian with both political and religious agendas. Because his efforts as well as Rome we as Christians and followers of "the Christ" are taught not to look toward not only Judaism but surely not Egypt as well.

Answer for yourself: Why is that again? Because if we do then we find not only the beginning of the Jewish Roots there but the very genesis of Christianity as but a pure allegory with Horus, the Son of God, the earlier prototype for the later "Jesus". Rome has reinterpreted everything "literally" and intended the world do the same since they won the wars and controlled the documents and rewrote the history of the world and in such arrogance and deception gave the world their version of religion and history and we read it only only in their New Testament but the writings of the early Church Fathers as well which only fueled the later development of the New Testament.

When I began to read about the Egyptian religion from authors like James Bonwick, Moustafa Gadalla, Ahmed Osman, Robert Bauval, Graham Hancock, John G. Jackson, Colin Wilson, etc., my eyes and heart opened to new depths in my understanding of God and my Creator and "His Christ". This depth of this understanding of the Creative Energy of the Cosmos whom we call God far eclipsed anything I was ever taught or understood that came from my previous Christian perspective including Southwestern Theological Seminary where I earned my Masters Degree. Understand my prior depth of my understanding of the Creative Energy of the Cosmos whom we call God derived from my Jewish studies was wonderful and I cherish it today but it pails in comparison to what I learned of God when doing my Egypt studies. So enlightening over the earlier years of my studies was what Egypt knew of this One Cosmic Unity, this One Creative Energy, that I often had to stop and thank God for letting me see these truths. Judaism for me was liberating as a Christian pastor but what I found in Memphis, Heliopolis, Hermopolis, and Thebes was beyond my wildest imagination as my closeness to this God became greater and greater as I saw and understood wisdom that outshines the very Sun if possible; wisdom that today is being re-ignited by the light being shown on the resurrection of Egyptian truths concerning Amen...the Hidden One which was represented as the Sun. To my amazement when comparing Judaism with Egyptian religion I began to see unbelievably that Judaism is but a modified continuation of Egyptian religion as mentioned above and I found the parallels to be striking and most of the religious concepts in Judaism maintained the integrity of their Egyptian origins as seen in their love for the Torah and Laws of God. There is not "literal God-man" in Judaism as in idolatrous Christianity and this is only the beginnings. Christianity cannot make such a claim since they re-make God after the image of a man. Egypt wrote similar stories of God-men but as stated before they were in the beginning NEVER to be understood to be historical personages like what was done with this "Jesus" and were understood by Egyptians as but myths and allegories and personifications of various forces, powers, and energies (neteroo) that comprised what we call God and Creator of the whole Cosmos as understood by Egypt.

Things were to change and not for the better and God would raise up Moses to deal with it. Let me explain. It would be much later that there would come a division even in Egypt whereby these earlier and deeper metaphysical understandings of God would be hidden in Egypt's "Inner Mysteries" and the laymen given similar to what we have inherited today....a "watered down" version of earlier Spiritual truths in the form of a "god-man" which began to rob the worship intended for Only this One Great God. Osiris worship was at its highest point ever in the 18 Dynasty of Egypt; the same Dynasty which produced Akhenaton, whom many believe to be the Egyptian Moses who will return the nation to the worship of Aten whom was again the visible manifestation of the Sun which was understood to be ONLY symbolic of the Uncreated Energy of the Universe....whom we call God.

Before Moses Egypt, like Constantine Christianity, fell prey to a terrible misunderstanding of earlier Spiritual Concepts; concepts which were never intended to be taken "literally". With this loss of "gnosis" and proper knowledge of just whom and how to worship this Cosmic Unity over time came an over-emphasis on the "god-man" as we find no differently with Jesus today as recorded in the New Testament as well and established for all time by the Council of Nicea when this "assumed historical person" was declared to be of the same essence as God. Jesus was made God at the Council of Nicea. This perversion of truth, allegory being mistaken as "literal history", is the very thing that Moses reacted against in his religious revolution in the 18th dynasty for it was then that Osiris (the Egyptian god-man) worship was at its highest in the history of Egypt. Moses set out to reverse this since he knew that such a view and worship of the "god-man" is incorrect and idolatry. Moses knew what Christians don't; that the "god-man" and the "Sun-god" is only an allegory and that behind such myths and allegories of the Sun-gods and "god-men" were but Spiritual concepts, principles, patterns, and cycles of energy, and missing from all of them is any "historical fleshly personage". It it time for this truth to be renewed through education and repentance from erroneous concepts which has come into being basically due to ignorance and neglect of the Ancients wisdom. What was true for Moses in the 18th dynasty is true for Christianity today as we must deal with our inherited "god-man" in the New Testament in the same way.

To indicate the universality of the Sun-god myth it is only necessary to enumerate some thirty of the chief figures known as Sun-gods amongst the nations about the Eastern Mediterranean, before the advent of Jesus. There were in Egypt, Osiris, Horus, Serapis, Hermes or Taht (Thoth), Khunsu, Atum (Aten, Adon, the Adonis or Phrygia), Iusa, Iu-sa, Iu-em-hetep; in Syria, Atis, Sabazius, Zagreus, Kybele (feminine); in Assyria Tammuz; in Babylonia, Marduk and Sargon; in Persia, Mithra, Ahura-Mazda and the Zoroasters; in Greece, Orpheus, Bacchus (Dionysus), Achilles, Hercules, Theseus, Perseus, Jason, Prometheus; in India, Vyasa, Krishna, Buddha; in Tibet the Boddhisattvas; besides many others elsewhere. And as indicated by one of the last articles sent by Bet Emet Ministries concerning the hidden mystery in our alphabet concerning the etymology of the earliest word or words for God ("I", "O" and "A"...."IO", "IAO", etc.) we saw conclusively that all nations at one time or another understood this "same God" as symbolized by the Sun by these same letter, or letters, consonants and vowels; the name and names only translated differently due to different dialects as the languages differed according to the various nations down through time.

Answer for yourself: What is the implication and conclusion we can draw from the above?

Simply that this means that all nations, at their very core, had a religious belief in the "same God" but only called Him by different and various names and expressed this "same Divine Concept" (God, the Uncreated Energy of the Cosmos) by different symbols and myths such as we findin Egypt in the neteroo as Osiris, Horus, Serapis, Hermes or Taht (Thoth), Khunsu, Atum (Aten, Adon, the Adonis or Phrygia), Iusa, Iu-sa, Iu-em-hetep and as others enumerated above.

Likewise we find in the ancient Mystery dramas the central character of these dramas and stage plays that were performed for the initiates into this secret and "Inner Mysteries" was always the Sun-god which had his role "played out" by the candidate for initiation into this secret wisdom and higher knowledge which was always reserved for those who "desired to go deeper beneath" the mundane story of a Sun-god that was much later told for those laymen who were content to remain within the "Outer Mysteries" down through history. Unlike those in the beginning who knew the stories of these Sun-gods were but allegories and myths expressing Divine Truths, those who came centuries and thousands of years later, take Rome for example, having not been given or possessing the secret "gnosis" concerning these Sun-gods (also like Christians today), could and often did think that these prior Sun-gods had been literal persons like themselves (for example a literal Jesus); never knowing that they were but allegories and myths intended to exist forever as a vehicle for these metaphysical Divine Truths concerning the One High God and His relationship to matter (the human being). You can burn books and libraries and Rome certainly has done that often but you cannot destroy an "idea" or a memory of a "myth". These religious ideas live today thousands of years later and have survived attempted purge after purge to eradicate this knowledge and many attempts to eradicate such knowledge from this world only because they were burned in the memory of mankind as "myths" and "legends".

Today as Christians we don't know the real truth behind the "Jesus Story" we are taught our whole lives. Few Christians ever studied to the level necessary to see behind the "Jesus Story" and consequently it never dawns on them to ever think that something could be amiss with the "Jesus Story" as we have received it. I believe all good Christians should desire to know what really lays behind the supposed "Historical Jesus". If one takes such a challenge to study as objectively as possible the origins of his faith and what lies behind the "Jesus Story" then he will be confronted with facts that will show him that there is not a shred of legitimate historical evidence anywhere that the "Jesus Story" originated as the biography of a man named Jesus, and quite a lot of evidence that it did not. Such scholarly study of the "literal historical Jesus Story", found in this provable forged book, the Roman Bible and the New Testament, reveals that there exists not one piece of unforged or unadulterated evidence for the historical existence of this man from Galilee. An unbiased through study of Comparative Religion reveals that the basic plot of the "Jesus Story", from beginning to end, event after event, including the motif of a crucified savior, already existed in many other religions thousands of years prior to the alleged time of Jesus. If you continue such dedicated studies into Astronomy and Solar Mythology one finds not only that the "sayings" of "the Christ" can be found in the wisdom sayings of Osiris and Hours over 10,000 years B.C.E. but also that beyond any doubt the "Jesus Story" is nothing more than an allegory for what would naturally be the oldest and most important story humans would notice and write down, that of the annual passage of the seasons of the year and the path of the Sun through the celestial sphere and the 12 Houses of the Zodiac during the year. Personification of the Sun through the sky as found in the story of ancient solar and lunar gods follow in chronological procession through the year the exact chronology of the "Jesus Story" when personified from Matthew chapter 1 through chapter 28 at the end of the book. Such knowledge escapes the casual Sunday Church attendee who is taught since childhood to have "belief" in Jesus as found in a supposed "God-breathed" book; a book which few if any have every submitted to intense scrutiny necessary to determine its reliability.

The facts you gather in such study indicate that this "initiate" into the "Higher Mysteries" went through the several initiations where he was himself the type and representative of the solar divinity in the field of human experience just like Osiris and Horus patterned for him. One can see when having done the comparative studies involving the "Jesus Story" that this initiation is not very different from one following in the footsteps of another "Solar Hero" like Jesus of Nazareth. Having failed to study out these "hidden mysteries" concerning "the Christ", so many today are unknowing of the fact that ironically we walk in the same path as the Ancients only the "names" and "types" have been changed. Behind our Christian Myth and "Jesus Story" is the same God symbolized by the Sun and its path through the Heavens whom can be shown to be personified in the life, events, and sayings of Jesus Christ in the New Testament.

From the study of a mass of the ancient material, beginning with a through study of Osiris and Horus of Egypt and working down through recorded history regarding the chronological secession of other "Sun-gods", the sincere student who "cracks" the books and does the necessary research becomes strongly convinced of the fact that the "Jesus figure" of the Gospels, although portrayed as a historical person in the Gospels, is just another in the long list of the solar gods which were but personifications of the Sun and its path through the Heavens and especially the 12 houses of the Zodiac. I can make that statement because I have seen and studied thoroughly the overwhelming evidence and read these same "Jesus Stories" in the Egyptian archives and the Egyptian Book of the Dead; stories ascribed to Osiris and Horus who were but intended symbolic representations of the Sun and its movements; movements which were seen in a spiritual sense by the Ancients and which conveyed a deep spiritual knowledge of the soul within man and his responsibilities before God.
These Egyptian parallels to the "Jesus Story" are there for anyone to read if they have the interest and devote the time. Gerald Massey's books are full of these parallels. They only have to know that these same parallel stories "exist" between Osiris and Horus and Jesus and that the same "sayings" or the "Logia of the Lord" as taken from the Egyptian Karast (Christ)" are echoed in the sayings and teachings of the New Testament Jesus. These sayings of Jesus can be shown to come right out of the Egyptian Book of the Dead and the rituals contained in them. These Egyptian wisdom sayings were only later put into the mouths of later "Sun-gods" that were modeled on the previous types that originated in Egypt - the culmination of which was the last of a long line of "Sun-gods" which we find down through history with the Roman depiction of the New Testament "Jesus". Let us not miss the point; these Sun-gods were figured by ancient poetic genius as embodiments of divine solar glory living among and within men and which were presented through the medium of the mythical constructions of the Ancient allegorists. These Sun-god characters, none of whom can it be said positively that they were living personages, were, it must be clearly noted, purely typical figures in the national epics of the several nations. They were only symbols, one might say for Divine realities which were captured in the medium of myth.

Let us continue in the 3rd and final article in this series where we look at the relationship between these myths of the Sun-gods and the human soul.

TRACING THE HEBREW PHARAOHS OF EGYPT...WHO IS THIS KING DAVID?

It did not take me long in Seminary to figure out that the Bible is basically a historical work which had become distorted as a result of its long oral tradition which and also to some extent at the hands of Biblical editors who eventually set it down in writing. Because of this long oral tradition which was both "forgotten" and "altered" down through history we are deprived today of important and necessary truths and facts concerning the identities and events that shaped the beginning of the Jewish nation let alone the subsequent development of Christianity.

The more I studied the more convinced I became of the alteration of key facts concerning not only the Patriarchs but their true identities as well. The more I read of the finds of modern archeology in the last two hundred years the more convinced I became that the identity of major figures in Egyptian history were disguised and depicted as major Jewish figures in the Bible. This was deception at its highest level and I had to get to the bottom of it and it would be a challenging but yet a very rewarding study to say the least. Let me get your feet wet for what is to come in the forthcoming articles.

Out study will be begin with the examination of King David and progress until we are centered on the very important 18th dynasty of Egypt. At the end of the 18th dynasty (after Hatshepsut and 4 other pharaohs) there reigned a strange pharaoh named Amenophis IV, who later called himself Akhenaten. Amenhotep IV was a pharaoh so revolutionary, so radical that those following him had his name which he changed to Akhenaten and face deleted from the Egyptian records so completely that only 3000 years later did archaeology rediscover his new royal capital at Akhet-Aten (modern el-Amarna). The story of Akhenaten is all through the first five books in the Jewish-Christian Bible but due to revisionism we don't recognize him. He is the Biblical Moses and I will present evidence to show that this is a fact. This amazing and courageous Pharaoh worshipped only one god whom he called Aten (the sun disk), and founded a new capital, Akhet-Aten (Horizon of Aten), today called Tell el Amarna. This period is called the Amarna period in Egyptian history. Countless books have been written about Akhenaten but few have put together key pieces of Egyptian and Biblical History together correctly as I hope to reveal to the reader. Of course the point of such study is to see the unbelievable knowledge that Egypt possessed about the God of the Cosmos and their unique and deep understanding of this God and his workings in the Cosmos and its ultimate meaning for mankind. At the same time we will focus upon the efforts of Akhenaton, the Biblical Moses, to bring a religious revolution to bear on his nation who had at his time fallen into the deception of the worship of the "God-man" Osiris which is so similar to the same sin of idolatry which is attached to the worship of the Christian God-man Jesus Christ. The startling ramifications of such a deception, both back then and now, will become evident the more we study. At the crux of this whole study is the growing understanding and revelation that if Moses, the Egyptian Akhenaton, lived today he would oppose such worship of the post-Nicean "God-man" Jesus created by Rome.

It did not take me long to recognize the more I studied Egyptian history and religion that there exists a unique link and relationship between Akhenaten's monotheism and Jewish monotheism that does not exist in Christianity. There had to be a link between the two and my efforts at continued in-depth study revealed to me in time this very important connection between the Egyptian Pharaohs and the Biblical Patriarchs and later Jewish leaders like King David and King Solomon which we will examine in these next articles.

Answer for yourself: Just what is this link and are major players and Pharaohs in Egyptian history depicted in our Christian Bibles under different names like King David, Solomon, etc? Could it be that Moses was a Pharaoh himself and what if any is the link with Joseph whom was sold into slavery and ended up in Egypt where he married the daughter of the Priest of On (Heliopolis)?

What we will find in examining Egyptian history and religion is that most have missed this link connecting major figures in the Bible with these major figures in Egyptian history. The error to which most has fallen is that they approach such studies trying to fit Egyptian history into the Bible rather than, as common sense would suggest, fit the Bible into Egyptian history. You need to stop and read that sentence once again. What we find upon study is that acceptance of the wrong date for the two dates given in the Old Testament for the length of the Israelite Sojourn in Egypt, four hundred years instead of four generations, will cause us to place incorrectly the events depicted in the Bible at the wrong time and the wrong place. For example this incorrect dating explains why there is no evidence for the Exodus at the time that traditional scholarship looks for Biblical Exodus. It simply occurred at a different time and a different place in Egyptian history and our failure to recognize this leaves us looking for evidence of its occurrence at the wrong time in the timeline of Biblical history. Truly this is a fascinating study to say the least and obtaining the knowledge long lost to this world concerning not only Egypt and their religion but the true identities of King David, Solomon, Moses, etc., as well as what they believed about God has important ramifications upon the Christian faith and their understanding of basic tenants of their faith let alone the "Messiah" today. It is to these issues we now turn as we begin our study with King David of the Bible. Get ready for your world to be rocked.

Answer for yourself: Have you ever wondered how we stumbled onto this knowledge of the existence of the Hebrew Pharaohs of Egypt? I suggest that we read this information before we continue out study into King David.

RECOVERING THE TRUE IDENTITY OF KING DAVID AND OTHER KEY BIBLICAL FIGURES...WERE THEY OBSCURED BY MISLEADING TEXTS?

Little did I ever think when beginning the study of the "Jewish Roots" of Christianity in the 1980's that I would find myself baptized in Egyptian religion but all roads seemed to lead there as my studies into discovering a "Jewish Jesus" expanded. Behind the Jewish people I first discovered this very important link with Egypt which goes concealed in the Hebrew Old Testament to all but a few with a discerning eye when reading the texts and studying the Jewish connection with Egypt. As I grew in my studies of the original Biblical languages as well as my growth in archeology and Jewish history Egypt kept recurring over and over again in my studies. Soon I found repeatedly references in my readings that began to link very important Biblical messianic figures like King David with Egypt and the dynasties of Pharaohs. At first I was bewildered for I thought that unlike the New Testament the texts of the Old Testament were relatively free from tampering as I had found extensively in the New Testament. But that was not the case as I was to discover as my studies continued to develop. Before we begin to look at the Biblical King David and find his true identity some things need to be said about how we lost this information about Thutmose III (King David) in the first place.

LOOKING AT THE TRANSMISSION OF THE BIBLICAL TEXTS & THE LOSS OF THE TRUTH

I was to find in my studies that the sacred books that make up the anthology modern scholars call the Hebrew Bible - and Christians call the Old Testament - developed over roughly a millennium; the oldest texts appear to come from the eleventh or tenth centuries BCE. The Hebrew Bible, written over a period of more than 500 years, consists of many types of literature and reflects varying points of view. The Bible has undergone substantial changes with regard to its early manuscripts and their translated versions. This Book is a collection of various materials and the worst part is the crude 'editing' where the joints are much in evidence. Gathering and the codification, giving the final written form, of the Books of the Bible took centuries. It uses descriptive methods. Its language is abstract, very rich in images. The smallest or shortest of reports turns into a story in the Bible, full of puzzling descriptions whose ambiguity is intentional. There's no getting away from the fact that the Bible is a very human book. It was not written by God, it was not edited by God, it was not translated by God. In the beginning it wasn't written down at all. Most parts of the Bible started life as sayings or stories that were handed down from generation to generation as part of an oral tradition and doubtless became altered, adulterated, and embellished in the process. Eventually they got written down, which tended to fix them a bit more, but before the invention of printing they were handed on by being copied out, and inevitably mistakes were made. And when they were translated from the original Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek, they suffered still further alteration because translation can never be exact. Yet the Bible is essentially a religious book, but, unlike most ancient religious books, the Old Testament is characterized by a strong sense of history; even laws and exhortations are woven into the narratives.

The Pentateuch is also called the Torah, or Law, and seems to have reached its current form with Ezra - in the books of Nehemiah and Ezra a rough summary can be seen which matches the Torah as it is now. An interesting clue as to how the current Torah came about is revealed by an episode in the time of Ezra. In the book of Nehemiah Ezra is described as reading the Law to the people. Verses 13 - 18 tell of the first celebration of the "Festival of Booths", or Sukkoth, which is described as not being celebrated like so since the days of Joshua, assistant and successor of Moses. Apparently the festival had been added, and it is not unreasonable to imagine that adding other things were both "added", "deleted", and "concealed" as well as "manufactured" over time.

Answer for yourself: Why would the priests and scribes do this? Simply said "agendas". As intimated previously the war between Persia and Egypt had a strong influence upon Ezra in shaping the texts which would later become the history of the Jewish people and in so doing we see today the true identities of the Patriarchs concealed. We have to face the facts that the Old Testament, as well as the New Testament, are are edited works, collections of various sources intricately and artistically woven together.

The five books of Pentateuch (Genesis-Deuteronomy), for example, traditionally are ascribed to Moses. But by the eighteenth century, many European scholars noticed problems with that assumption. Not only does Deuteronomy end with an account of Moses' death (a tough assignment for any writer to describe his or her own demise), but the entire Pentateuch shows anomalies of style that are hard to explain if only one author is involved.

By the nineteenth century, most scholars agreed that the Pentateuch consisted of four sources woven together. This notion of four sources came to be known as the Documentary Hypothesis (J, E, P, D) and, in various forms, it has been the prevailing theory for the past two hundred years. Israel thus created four independent strains of literature about its own origins, all drawing on oral tradition in varying degrees, and each developed over time. They were combined together to form our Pentateuch sometime in the sixth century B.C.E. by Ezra and his successors.

By this time, many of the other biblical books were coming together. Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings form what scholars call a "Deuteronomistic History" (because the work's theology is heavily influenced by Deuteronomy), a history of the Israelite states over a five-hundred-year period. This work contains much of historical value, but it also operates on the basis of a historical and theological theory: i.e., that God has given Israel its land, that Israel periodically sins, suffers punishment, repents, and then is rescued from foreign invasion. This cycle of sin and redemption shapes the work's way of writing history and gives it a powerful religious dimension, so that even when the sources behind the biblical books are "secular" accounts in which God is far in the background, the theology of the overall work places history in the service of theology. In other words history is altered to serve the purpose of created theology. The last edition of the Deuteronomistic History, the one in our Bible, comes from the sixth century BCE, the time of the Babylonian Exile. In this context, it offers an explanation for Israel's poor condition and implicitly a reason to hope for the future.

In addition to the prophets, the Hebrew Bible contains what Jews often call the "Writings," or the Hagiographa, hymns and philosophical discourses, love poems and charming tales. These include Psalms, Job, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes (or Qoheleth), Song of Songs, Esther, Daniel, Ezra-Nehemiah, and Chronicles. These books were the last completed and the last to be received as Scripture, although parts of them may be very ancient indeed. The books of Psalms, for instance, contains many hymns from Israelite temple worship from the monarchic period, i.e., before the Babylonian Exile in the sixth century BCE; songs such as Psalm 29 may be borrowed from the Canaanites, while Psalm 104 closely resembles Egyptian hymns. In its current form, the 150 psalms fall into five "books," modeled on the five books of the Pentateuch.

Israel did not exist in political, religious, or intellectual isolation from its geographical neighbors. Intellectual and even direct literary contact is nowhere more evident than in Israel's book of Proverbs. William Kelly Simpson, in his The Literature of Ancient Egypt: An Anthology of Stories, Instructions, and Poetry, as well as man other scholars teach us that the book of Proverbs looks a great deal like the instruction literature that has survived from ancient Egypt. The commonality of the book of Proverbs with Egyptian instruction literature suggests that it may have been the court wisdom that was used to train the next generation of Israel's leaders for effective public service. The Instruction of Amenhotep has the most direct bearing on the book of Proverbs. Written in thirty chapters and probably dating to 1200 B.C.E., it has close parallels to many verses in Proverbs 22:17-24:22. Thus we find that Proverbs also has many old parts, including one apparently translated from the second-millennium BCE Egyptian text the "Instructions of Amenhotep" which we find in Proverbs 22. Bryce, in his A Legacy of Wisdom: The Egyptian Contribution to the Wisdom of Israel, 1979, has done a thorough study of parallels between biblical and Egyptian wisdom literature. He notes that there are varying degrees of dependence, from direct literary borrowing to "thought" borrowing; the latter is barely recognizable in the Hebrew Bible because it has been so seamlessly integrated over time and through redaction. Although there are differences in wording, proverbial parallels with Egyptian Instruction sayings seem quite close here in Proverbs. This he states is the evidence of direct literary borrowing from earlier existing Egyptian wisdom.

Answer for yourself: What have we learned so far? Simply that the Hebrew Old Testament was "put together" from many different streams of thought and traditions somewhere around the 6th century B.C.E. and that the name of Egypt keeps coming up repeatedly.

Richard Elliott Friedman, in his masterful book Who Wrote the Bible? teaches us, as do other scholars, that Ezra, in the end, was the one who created this synthesized work that we call the Old Testament which the Jewish nation and Christians have read all these years. In this book Friedman shows the reader how the Jewish scriptures are the product of traditions of oral transmission and eventual scribal transmission which were handed down over hundreds and hundreds of years if not longer.

Answer for yourself: Is it likely that oral transmission of tales and stories change or information can become lost the longer oral transmissions are handed down over chronological history? That is not a hard question when you think about it.

Over centuries, myths, legends, hymns and other literary forms were passed down orally from generation to generation from the time of the Egyptian sojourn, Babylon captivity, and the Persian repatriation of the captured Jewish nation. Only much later following the Persian defeat of Babylon and the repatriation of the Jewish nation did Ezra reconstruct or should I say "create" the Old Testament as the "assumed" history of the Jewish people.

Much of the earlier history of the origin and emergence of the Jewish people from their Sojourn in Egypt was lost or forgotten. The apocryphal writing tells how Ezra dictated all the writings which had been lost in the destruction of Jerusalem during and following the Babylonian war. A. Soggin, in his Introduction to the Old Testament published in London in 1989 states on page 13-14 that the traditions given by Ezra "do not seem to have any historical foundation".

Answer for yourself: Were you aware that much of the historical information in the Old Testament is not accurate to the findings of archeology and much is out of historical chronological sequence? Well it is and no greater example can be found than when dealing with Egyptian history and Egyptian references in the Old Testament as we will come to see. Remember that Ezra is behind this synthesis of oral traditions that become the written texts and the "official history" of the Jewish people after returning from the Persian captivity. Having no Torahs in captivity and with Ezra "writing" the past history of this new emerging nation of Jews being returned to their homeland it is not far fetched to see how and why Ezra would create a history for these Jews which is not truthful nor accurate to the facts that archeology has provided us today.

A. Soggin is not the only author nor source that reveals that the production of Ezra in drafting the Old Testament has within it many historical inaccuracies regarding the identity and origin for the Jewish nation which was returned to Israel by Persia following the Persian defeat of the Babylonian nation. One could go so far as to say many of these tradition given these returning Jewish captives were "made up" and this is where Ezra comes in as the Egyptian roots of the Jewish Nation is purposefully omitted and concealed by the work of Ezra and instead of identifying correctly the Pharaohs of Egypt they were purposefully characterized as Jews in giving the returning Jews a "false history" of their past which they remembered not. There are reasons why Ezra would conceal the Hebrew-Egyptian link that we have already discussed above. There is reason to believe that Ezra had an official position at the Persian Court and functioned as a commissioner for the affairs of the Jewish minority within Persia. At any rate, he was able to obtain palace sponsorship and aid for a trip to Jerusalem in 458 BC, some 57 years after the completion of the Temple. The reason for the trip was to restore strict religious observance and revive the national identity of the repatriated, which had declined since the original return and this was done under the watchful eyes of Persia and this explains why Judaism has so much Persian apocalypticism within it. The war between Persia and Egypt explains also why the true identity of the "parent" of these returning Jews were misidentified when Ezra rewrote the Old Testament since Persia certainly did not desire that these returning Jews learn that at Persia was almost at war with "their biological parents". Cyrus the Great of Persia frees the captive Jews from Babylonia 539 B.C. and finally conquers Egypt, the biological parents of this returning nation, in 525 B.C. some mere 14 years later. Also if you had not already guessed it these Jews of the Bible had "black skin" as did their Egyptian parents. If Persia was to hope for the friendship and loyalty of these returning Jews let alone allow them to function as an "outpost" half-way between Persian and Egypt and thereby be a warning of any impending Egyptian retaliation then it was necessary to conceal the true identity of these black skinned Jews as children of Egypt.

Answer for yourself: Did the war with Egypt play a role in Ezra's misidentification of key Biblical characters like David and Solomon let alone Abraham and Jacob? Well considering the above it does not take a rocket scientist to figure that one out.

Eventually these "traditions", both true and untrue, were recorded in early scribal forms and were revised over time while at the same time combined with other texts and edited in a process called redaction. The Jewish scriptures, the product of many different theological positions contending over many centuries since their origin in Egypt were later recorded, edited, combined and redacted in the form that we have them today during a process that took many centuries to form. Although some believers hold the Old Testament to be a seamless, monolithic text, historical-critical methods developed by modern scholarship and the findings of archeology in the last 200 years proves them as representing many different perspectives on God and Israel's relationship with God when filtered primarily through the Egyptian, Babylonian, and Persian religious systems. So the bottom line is that not everything in it is "true" which can be said of the New Testament as well. Let us never forget that men with agenda write books and not God.

THE TRUE IDENTITY OF KING DAVID OF THE BIBLE

Answer for yourself: How much do you presently know concerning the Pharaoh Tuthmose III and the other Amarna Pharaohs? Well if you are like most then you know very little if anything at all.

Answer for yourself: Have you ever compared the accounts in the Bible of David and his wars and military battles described in the Tanakh with the exploits of Amenhotep III's great grandfather, the 18th Dynasty Pharaoh Thutmose III as they were written on the stone walls on the Temple of Karnak in Thebes?

Answer for yourself: Do you know what you find when you do? You find that not only are their achievements equivalent and identical but so are their very names as well!

I will try to present evidence showing that the Pharaoh Thutmose III is the King David we find depicted in the Old Testament. Thutmose is an Egyptian compound name comprised of "Thut" (from Thoth, the Egyptian god of wisdom) and "mose" (an Egyptian title or suffix indicating son or rightful heir).

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that in the ancient Egyptian language, like the later Hebrew language, words were written without vowels? Should we not expect knowing this that the Hebrew language was a later development similar to the Egyptian language if the Jews were the offspring of the Egyptians? It sure would seem so and writers like Godfrey Higgins in his Anacalypsis proves the point as do many other scholars today.

The first element of the famous Pharaoh Tuthmose III was always written as "twt", i.e. with 3 consonants. For some mischievous reasons the middle consonant letter was changed to the vowel "u" by some Egyptologists. When "Twt" was written, in the equivalent Hebrew alphabetical characters, it becomes "Dwd". When "Dwd" is pronounced phonetically it becomes "Dawood" which the Hebrew name for "DAVID" (Moustafa Gadalla, Historical Deception: The Untold Story Of Ancient Egypt, p. 147.

Answer for yourself: Is this but a coincidence? Is there the remotest chance that the Egyptian warrior Pharaoh King was the Biblical warrior King David who was better know as the historical Tuthmose III? Is the Biblical account historically without merit?

"Thut", in Egyptian, was, therefore, written as "Twt". The ancient Hebrew language, although very different from Egyptian, originally derived its written structure from the Egyptian language (Cross, "Origins of the Alphabet" in Ebla to Damascus: Art and Archaeology of Ancient Syria, 271-278.) As with Egyptian, the consonants were written and the vowels were vocalized only.

Answer for yourself: Can you guess what you get when you transliterate the Egyptian word "twt" into Hebrew? Let me give you a hint. The name begins with a "D".

Because of their similar alphabets, you end up with "dvd". If you add the vowels necessary for pronunciation in Hebrew you get David! (Cross, "Origins of the Alphabet" in Ebla to Damascus: Art and Archaeology of Ancient Syria, p. 88).

Now let us look at one event recorded and attributed to King David.

2 Sam 8:5-6 5 And when the Syrians of Damascus came to succour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men. 6 Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus: and the Syrians became servants to David, and brought gifts. And the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that the same things are said of Thutmose III in prior Egyptian history where it is recorded on stone monuments that Thutmose III defeated an earlier coalition of Syrian and Canaanite kings as described in the Bible and attributed to King David? Are you aware that it is told in Egyptian stone and history that Thutmose III also established garrisons in these same regions in order to permanently secure Egyptian control there? Is this proof that these two men are the same? (Cross, "Origins of the Alphabet" in Ebla to Damascus: Art and Archaeology of Ancient Syria, p. 106, 119).

Answer for yourself: Is this name similarity and identical events described above connected to both Thutmose III and King David just a coincidence? Well this is not enough evidence for me yet to make such a certain identity between King David and Thuthmose III so we keep studying so we can be certain. More evidence to connect the two as identical personages is easily located when one knows to look.

It is a historical fact that at the beginning of the Egyptian 17th Dynasty that much of Egypt was still being dominated by foreign rulers known as the Hyksos. The Hyksos were an important influence on Egyptian history, particularly at the beginning of the Second Intermediate Period. Most of what we know of the nature of the Hyksos depends upon written sources (of the Egyptians), such as the Rhind Papyrus. Also of considerable importance is the systematic excavation of the capital of the Hyksos, Avaris (Tell el-Dab'a). Today the term Hyksos has come to refer to the whole of these people who ruled Egypt during the Second Intermediate Period of Egypt's ancient history, and had to be driven out of the land by the last ruler of the 17th Dynasty and the earliest ruler of Egypt's New Kingdom. Through the initiative of the early Pharaohs of the 17th Dynasty, the Hyksos were attacked and eventually driven out of Egypt during the reign of Ahmose I. Ahmose and his son Amenhotep I extended their campaigns into Asia, "principally to deter any fresh incursions by roving bands into the Eastern Delta [of Egypt]" (Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 121). The Hyksos were basically a Semitic people who were able to wrestle control of Egypt from the early Second Intermediate rulers of the 13th Dynasty, inaugurating the 15th Dynasty. The basic population of Egyptians allowed, from time to time, a new influx of settlers, first from the region of Lebanon and Syria, and subsequently from Palestine and Cyprus. The leaders of these people eventually married into the local Egyptian families (like Joseph?), a theory that is somewhat supported by preliminary studies of human remains at Tell el-Dab'a.

Answer for yourself: Does this remind you of Joseph who married the Egyptian priest's daughter and had children from the mixed marriage of a Semite and Egyptian (Ephraim and Manasseh)?

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that this Hyksos were called "Shepherd Kings? Is this the reason possibly that the Old Testament attests that Joseph warned his family when entering Egypt to not mention this fact?

Gen 46:31-34 31 And Joseph said unto his brethren, and unto his father's house, I will go up, and shew Pharaoh, and say unto him, My brethren, and my father's house, which were in the land of Canaan, are come unto me; 32 And the men are shepherds, for their trade hath been to feed cattle; and they have brought their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have. 33 And it shall come to pass, when Pharaoh shall call you, and shall say, What is your occupation? 34 That ye shall say, Thy servants' trade hath been about cattle from our youth even until now, both we, and also our fathers: that ye may dwell in the land of Goshen; for every shepherd is an abomination unto the Egyptians. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: As you can see Joseph did not want the Pharaoh to know that his people and family were "shepherds". Is this a veiled reference to the Hyksos from Palestine?

Parallels for the foreign traits of the Hyksos at Tell el-Dab'a/Avaris (capital of the Hyksos) have been found at southern Palestinian sites such as Tell el-Ajjul, at the Syrian site of Ebla and at Byblos in modern Labanon. By about 1720 BC, the Hyksos had grown strong enough, at the expense of the Middle Kingdom kings, to gain control of Avaris in the northeastern Delta. This site eventually became the capital of the Hyksos kings, but within 50 years, they had also managed to take control of the important Egyptian city of Memphis.

Manetho, and Egyptian Priest-Scribe records in his Aegyptiaca., frag. 42, 1.75-79.2:

- Then," he says, "the kings of Thebes and the other parts of Egypt rose against the shepherds, and a long and terrible war was fought between them." He says further, "By a king, named Alisphragmuthosis, the shepherds were subdued, and were driven out of the most parts of Egypt and shut up in a place named Avaris, measuring ten thousand acres." Manetho says, "The shepherds had built a wall surrounding this city, which was large and strong, in order to keep all their possessions and plunder in a place of strength.
- Tethmosis, son of Alisphragmuthosis, attempted to take the city by force and by siege with four hundred and eighty thousand men surrounding it. But he despaired of taking the place by siege, and concluded a treaty with them, that they should leave Egypt, and go, without any harm coming to them, wherever they wished. After the conclusion of the treaty they left with their families and chattels, not fewer than two hundred and forty thousand people, and crossed the desert into Syria. Fearing the Assyrians, who dominated over Asia at that time, they built a city in the country which we now call Judea. It was large enough to contain this great number of men and was called Jerusalem.

Answer for yourself: What was the city the fleeing Hyksos built in Palestine? It was Jerusalem. Were these Hyksos related to the Semitic Hebrews? Wow.

Now back to our study of King David.

When Amenhotep I died without a male heir, he was succeeded by the commander of the army who became Pharaoh Thutmose I. Inspired by previous successes, Thutmose I, now as Pharaoh, led his army into Canaan and Syria and crossed the Euphrates River at the Carchemish. After routing Mitanni forces, he set up a monument (stele) to his achievement on the north side of the Euphrates. The heiress daughter of Thutmose I, Hatshepsut was married to her step-brother Thutmose II who became Pharaoh. Thutmose II and Hatshepsut had no surviving sons. After the death of Thutmose II, his young son Thutmose III (by a minor concubine-wife Isis who was possibly of foreign birth) was denied the throne by Hatshepsut who had been married to Thutmose II of full Egyptian blood. Thutmose III, being the offspring of a mixed marriage, was not entitled to the throne. Hatshepsut continued to rule even after Thutmose III had clearly come of age (Diop, The African Origin of Civilization, p. 12). So we find in the final analysis that Tuthmose III, the son of a concubine, came to the throne of Egypt as the fifth ruler of the 18 Dynasty in odd circumstances. The dynasty has been founded nearly a hundred years earlier when, after just over a century rule by the invading Hyksos shepherds, the princes of Thebes united in the 16th century B.C. in a successful attempt to drive them out of Egypt, and Ahmosis was crowned as the dynasty's first ruler (1575-1550 B.C.E.). As we saw shortly before the death of Tuthmose II, Hatshepsut have birth to a daughter, Neferure. The normal method of ensuring the right of Tuthmose III (born of the concubine Isis) to inherit the throne would have been marriage to Neferure, his half-sister, who was the heiress. This marriage never took place between Tuthmose III (David) and Neferure. We only know that Hatshepsut continued to insist that Neferure was the only legal heir and her daughter was called "the Lady of the Two Lands, mistress of Upper and Lower Egypt". In these circumstances, Tuthmose II had to have his son adopted by the State god Amun in order to ensure his right to the throne which reminds us of the passage in Psalm 2 which is said of King David:

Ps 2:7 7 I will declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee. (KJV)

This makes all the sense since Tuthmose III was only of half royal blood and since Egypt was a matriarchal society the throne and rulership came through the wife thus the marriage of their sisters. This brings many questions to our mind at once. Thuthmose III was not recognized as King-Pharaoh during the time of the rule of Hatshepsut, the wife of Thuthmose II.

If we follow the life of King David we find the same scenario of rejection of David as we find with Tuthmose III.

Upon Saul's death, David went to Hebron where he was anointed as king of Judah, according to The Lord's instructions, at about age 30 (2 Samuel 2:1-4). A seven and a half year civil war followed between the forces that supported David, and those that did not recognize David's right to the kingship and throne who supported Ish-bosheth, Saul's only surviving son, for the kingship of all Israel. The military and political situation grew steadily in favor of David however, and when Ish-bosheth was assassinated, David was anointed king over all Israel (2 Samuel 4:1-12, 5:1-5).

Answer for yourself: Does this account above concerning Tuthmose III remind you of the account in the Old Testament when all of Israel would not accept David as their King and only David's military might finally persuaded the total nation to acknowledge him as King as did the military successes of Tuthmose III which persuaded Egypt to acknowledge him as Pharaoh?

When the male blood line of the founding dynasty ended at the death of Amenhotep I, an even greater emphasis was thereafter placed on preservation of the female blood line which by this time had already distinguished itself and wielded considerable power. Ahhotep I had become an interim ruler upon the death of her husband Ahmose I and was immortalized for rallying Egypt's forces against the Hyksos. Her daughter Ahmose-Nefertari was given the title, High Priestess of Amun, and was the first to be designated as the "God's Wife" (Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 139-140). It is important for us to know that the royal offspring of 18th Dynasty Pharaohs were considered to have been conceived through Divine visitation of the state god Amun with the "God's Wife" (Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 139). This concept is clearly demonstrated by large murals in the mortuary temples of both Hatshepsut and Amenhotep III. Ahmose-Nefertari was, according to the famous turn of the century archeologist Flinders Petrie, "the most venerated figure of Egyptian History" (Petrie, A History of Egypt During the XVIIth and XVIIIth Dynasties, p. 41).

Upon Hatshepsut's death, the succession of Thutmose III was complicated not only by his own insufficiency of royal blood, but by the fact that Hatshepsut's daughter Neferure (and holder of the titles "Gods Wife" and virgin High Priestess of Amun) was also no longer living. He could not "marry" into the throne of Egypt as did all other male heirs. The nubile princess who could claim the strongest relation to Ahhotep I and Nefertari was found to be Merit-re, the daughter of Huy, the Superior of the Royal Harem. Thutmose III was married to Merit-ra, and in an official ceremony confirmed as Pharaoh and "adopted" as the son of Amun (Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 70, 141; and Ahmed Osman, House of the Messiah, 110-111).

Answer for yourself: Could this be reference found in Psalm 2:7 as mentioned above?

Ps 2:7 7 I will declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee. (KJV)

The word "begotten", "yalad" in Hebrew, carries with it the meaning of "to declare one's birth or pedigree". Having not married the daughter of a Pharaoh and not possessing a full-blood lineage it was necessary for Thutmose III to be "adopted" and in so doing inheriting the necessary pedigree from Amun as his "adopted son".

Like King David Thutmose III is remembered for his great military conquests which helped persuade others to accept his as their Pharaoh (leader). It is recorded that the God/Amun and Father of Thutmose III's spoke of him, "I grant thee by decree the earth in its length and breadth. The tribes of the East and those of the West ... that thy conquests may embrace all lands ... I ordain that all aggressors arising against thee shall fail..." (Maspero, The Struggle of the Nations, 267-268; Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 141).

Answer for yourself: Should we not expect to see a similar pronouncement over King David in the Tanakh? We should and we do find one.

Answer for yourself: Does this not remind you of what is also said of King David in Psalm 2?

Ps 2:1-12 1 Why do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing? 2 The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the LORD, and against his anointed, saying, 3 Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us. 4 He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision. 5 Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure. 6 Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion. 7 I will declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee. 8 Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. 9 Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel. 10 Be wise now therefore, O ye kings: be instructed, ye judges of the earth. 11 Serve the LORD with fear, and rejoice with trembling. 12 Kiss the Son, lest he be angry, and ye perish from the way, when his wrath is kindled but a little. Blessed are all they that put their trust in him. (KJV)

As you can see Psalm 2 is in essence the very same pronouncement made by God over Thutmose III. Again this is further proof that these two men are identical. The evidence keeps mounting and the laws of statistics are teaching us that we have moved beyond just a coincidence in these comparisons.

Hatshepsut's daughter Neferure was the real heiress and heir but she suddenly died when 16 years old and from this point on Thutmose III gained increasing importance. The chance for Tuthmose III to rule Egypt on his own came in the middle of the 22 year of his co-regency with Hatshepsut when Hatshepsut, the wife of Thutmose II dies.

Answer for yourself: Should we not expect that Thutmose III would respond in such a manner to engender the people toward himself and gain their support through military conquest? We should and we do find that he does just that which reminds us of the exploits of King David. It seemed his first task he undertook was to deface many of the monuments erected to his aunt-stepmother: her reliefs were hacked out, her inscriptions erased, her cartouches obliterated, her obelisks walled up. Tuthmose III was not the legal descendant of the earlier Ahmosside dynasty. So now, technically speaking, as he was not the son of of the Egyptian Queen, nor had he married the heiress to inherit the throne, he had going for him that he had been chosen and adopted to to rule by the State god Amun. This is reminiscent again of Samuel, the prophet of God, and his choice of David to rule in place of Saul who was later to die and leave the throne vacant for David to fill. From now until the end of the Amarna rule in Egypt - the rule of Akhenaten, Semenkhkare, Tutankhamun, and Aye - it was the dynasty founded by Tuthmose III that sat on the throne of Egypt.

The long frustrated Thutmose III was eager to prove himself, and upon becoming Pharaoh his first act was to march out with the military. In anticipation, a formidable confederation of Canaanite and Syrian kings had already consolidated their own armies and were waiting in their camps when Thutmose III arrived in Canaan with his own. Using a risky strategic maneuver, Thutmose III divided the opposing confederation and conquered them at the original epic battle of the Valley of Armageddon (Har-Megiddon) (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 115; and Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 121).

- Tuthmose III splits his army and defeats the divided forces of Qadesh near Megiddo. The kings flee and seek refuge behind the gates of their fortress. After seven months of siege, Tuthmose III rejoins his army from a fortress to the east and leads it in the capture of Megiddo.
- David splits his army and defeats the allies of the Amonites in open field. The Amonites flee and seek refuge behind the gates of their city. After the Israelites lay siege to Rabbah (II Samuel 11:1) David rejoins his army from Jerusalem and leads it in the capture of Rabbah.

The battles of Tuthmose III were recorded on the inside walls surrounding the granite sanctuary at Karnak. This was the Egyptian bible of sorts. These events were recorded at Karnak because Tuthmose's army marched under the banner of the god, Amun, and Amun's temples and estates would largely be the beneficiary of the spoils of Tuthmose's wars. From inscriptions left on walls of the temples we find that Tuthmose started to have troubles from Prince Kadesh of Palestine (Jerusalem) and Syria. He of course due to his vast military training had to deal with all those things. Thutmose immediately set out with his army and crossing the Sinai desert he marched to the city of Gaza, which had remained loyal to Egypt. The events of the campaign are well documented because they are engraved onto the walls of the temple of Karnak. While the nearby fortress of Megiddo was under a seven month long siege, Thutmose III led a contingent of men to Kadesh (the present day site of Jerusalem), and as the Bible describes, he "took the stronghold of Zion."(Aldred, Akhenaten, p. 105). It is recorded that Tuthmose III took up residence in Jerusalem during the prolonged siege of Megiddo (Osman, House of the Messiah, 114, quoting from Pritchard, Ancient Near Eastern Texts, p. 236).

Answer for yourself: Does this remotely sound like the account of King David in the Old Testament? Well lets see.

The second Book of Samuel describes the taking of Jerusalem as a military operation carried out by the tribal David:

2 Sam 5:7 7 Nevertheless David took the strong hold of Zion: the same is the city of David. (KJV)

The account in II Samuel goes on to indicate that the city was taken by David's men penetrating the fortress through a water shaft (gutter):

2 Sam 5:8 8 And David said on that day, Whosoever getteth up to the gutter, and smiteth the Jebusites, and the lame and the blind, that are hated of David's soul, he shall be chief and captain. Wherefore they said, The blind and the lame shall not come into the house. (KJV)

However, the evidence makes it clear that the operation was actually a peaceful one, carried out by Tuthmose III, the historical King David, five centuries earlier.

Kadesh (Jerusalem) was the first of over one hundred cities listed as having been conquered by Thutmose III in his Asiatic campaign as recorded on the walls of stone in the temple of Amun at Karnak (Osman, House of the Messiah, p.131-132.)

Answer for yourself: Is it just a coincidence that the same battles that we find in the Old Testament are recorded exactly on the wall of the Temple of Karnak but attributed to Tuthmose III? Jerusalem (Kadesh) immediately precedes the city of Megiddo on the list of conquered cites by Tuthmose III. The more famous city of Kadesh in Syria, and the center of the Syrian-Canaanite opposition of that time, is known to have fallen to Thutmose III in a later military campaign.

The name Jerusalem does not show up on any of the lists of cities conquered during any Egyptian 18th Dynasty military campaign in Asia, however, it was unquestionably part of the Egyptian empire of that time. A diplomatic letter sent to a later Egyptian Pharaoh of the 18th Dynasty was addressed from "mat Urusalim," i.e., "the land of Jerusalem." Another letter from the governor of Jerusalem during the 18th Dynasty refers to Jerusalem as a city "in which the king [i.e., the Pharaoh] has set his name" (Redford, Egypt, Canaan, and Israel in Ancient Times, p. 270).

I Kings 11:36 36 And unto his son will I give one tribe, that David my servant may have a light always before me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen me to put my name there. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Is this to be believed as just another coincidence?

According to Manetho's 3rd Century B.C. History of Egypt as quoted by Josephus, Jerusalem was being ruled at this time by the Hyksos who had been expelled from Egypt by Ahmose I. It is not surprising that they readily resubmitted themselves to Thutmose III since we saw the link to these Tuthmose Pharaoh's and Joseph!

The name of Jerusalem which literally means "to establish peace or submission" certainly symbolized the role that it played in establishing and maintaining Egyptian control over Palestine during the 18th Dynasty (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 133). Both names are found in Chapter 11 of Nehemiah where the Hebrew reads as "Yurushalayim ha Qudesh," meaning, "Jerusalem the Holy City" (Osman, House of the Messiah, 132). The capture of Jerusalem/Kadesh by Thutmose III also resolves the formerly unknown source of the name Zion.

Answer for yourself: Can you guess how?

Zion consists of the components:

- On (Hebrew for the holy city of On/Heliopolis in Egypt) and
- The Hebrew word zi (meaning arid place...or desert city).

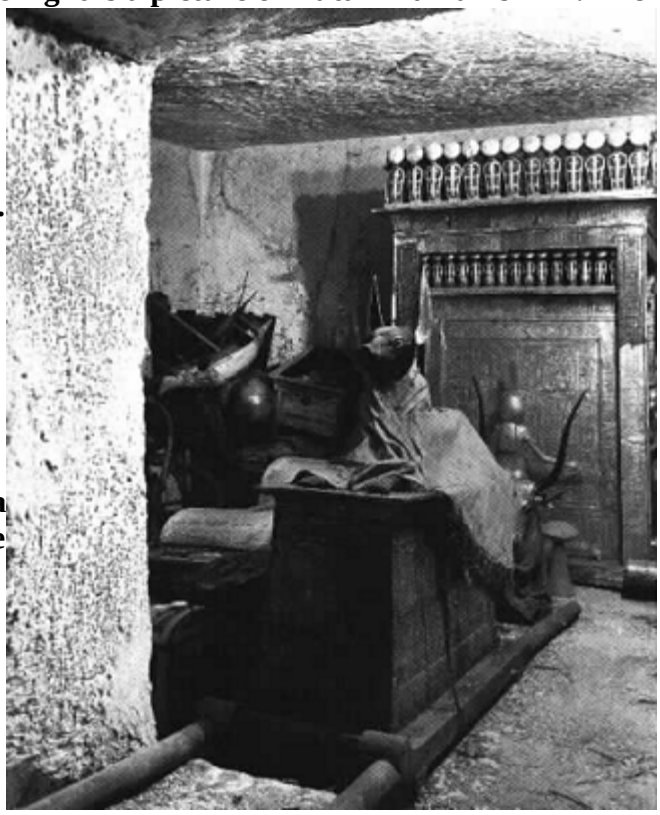
Literally translated, Zion appropriately becomes "Holy City of the Desert."(Ibid., p. 129)

Answer for yourself: Did you think of Egypt when you read "the holy city of the Desert"? Did you ever have the wildest notion that the word Zion referred to one of the major religious centers in Egypt? Of greater influence than Memphis in Egyptian religious life was the older city, Heliopolis, in which was developed the solar cult that eventually dominated the land. Never politically pre-eminent in historic times, Heliopolis was yet the spiritual heart of Egypt. It gave its gods to the Memphite kings and drew Memphite gods into its circle; it inspired the dogma of Thebes; it paved the way for Akhenaten's crusade to establish the visible disk of the sun as sole god. Until its destruction, Heliopolis was a holy place, repository for the wisdom of the past.

Now we turn to another important historical references between Tuthmose III and the city we know by the name of Jerusalem today. We have already seen the link between Tuthmose III and Jerusalem derives from the time when he based himself there while his army was besieging Megiddo. His annals refer to his having stayed "at a fortress east of this town". Although the name of the fortress is not mentioned at any point in the Egyptian text, all the indications are that Jerusalem, which lies to the south-east of Megiddo, is the location meant here. Leaving the besieged city and travelling east, the only route was the Way of the Sea, joined near the River Jordan by the road leading south to Jerusalem. It seems that we have an incomplete account of the fortress where the king stayed because the scribe concerned remained with the army, recording details of the military campaign at Megiddo, rather than accompanying Tuthmose III.



The biblical reference to "the king and his men" indicates that it was the ruler and his bodyguard, not his entire army, that was involved. As for the "gutter" by which they obtained entry to the fortress, this is thought to have been a shaft dug to ensure supplies of water from a spring known as the Gihon - the Christian Virgin Fountain - that lay in the valley some 325 metres below Jerusalem.

Now we look at some startling information concerning the Ark of the Covenant. On reading Grant R. Jeffrey's book Appointment with Destiny I came across a curious reference to the dimensions of the stone chest in the King's Chamber in the Great Pyramid in Egypt. This stone chest found in the Great Pyramid King's chamber has the exact same measurement as the Ark of the Covenant. This Chest was the only object within the King's Chamber, as the Ark was the single sacred object within the Holy of Holies, in the Temple. Further, the cubit dimensions of the inner chamber of the Temple, the Holy of Holies, are precisely identical in size to the King's Chamber in the Pyramid and the same volume as the molten sea of water on the Temple Mount as prepared by King Solomon. Since the Pyramid was built and sealed long before the days of Moses, when he built the Ark and the Holy of Holies, and had remained sealed for over twenty-five centuries until the ninth century after Christ, there is no natural explanation for the phenomenon of both structures having identical volume measurements. It is interesting to note however that the Egyptians had portable shrines in the shape of boats that were very similar to the Ark of the Covenant used by the Israelites. These arks became extremely popular by the New Kingdom when Moses would have been in Egypt. One of the discoveries in Tutankhamun's tomb (a Thutmose Pharaoh) was an Ark for the afterlife. The New Kingdom saw a greater attention to the aspects of both the hidden and revealed in temple worship. The most holy was kept sacred by keeping it hidden, while the adoration of the masses was acquired through the use of the revealed. To accommodate these two conflicting ideals the Egyptians kept their most holy inner sanctuary hidden, while placing within it a sacred bark (Ark). The picture on the right is a picture of Tutankhamun's Ark. The portable boat shrines (Arks) were made of wood, but ornately gilded and decorated and equipped with a closed cabin (sometimes called a seH-neTr, 'Tent shrine of the god') in which the image of the deity sat. Long carrying-poles on each side or set laterally and up to five in number bore the shrine along on the shoulders of priests" (Kemp, Barry J. Ancient Egypt, p. 185). Notice if you will the poles which aided in the carrying of the Ark as we would expect and have imaged for us in Israel's Ark of the Covenant. In Egypt the Apet Festival focused around the "Ark of Worship", with the Arks being borne aloft by groups of priests and adored by hysterical crowds. The similarity between these Arks and the Old Testament Ark of the Covenant is remarkable. What is surprising, is when Howard Carter opened Tutankhamen's tomb in 1922, he found a number of caskets, which appear to be a form of prototype of the Ark of the Covenant.

Now most are familiar with the story that shortly after David's arrival in Jerusalem, that he and the Israelites brought in the Ark of the Covenant into Jerusalem:

2 Sam 6:17 17 And they brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it: and David offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD. (KJV)

The consequence of bringing the Ark to Jerusalem is said to have made the city the holy centre for the Israelite tribes. However, there is a further element of confusion here because we are dealing not only with two Davids but with two Arks - the Ark of the Covenant, in which Moses placed the Ten Commandments, and the Ark in which Tuthmose III carried his god, Amun-Ra, into battle before him at Megiddo, as described in his annals at Karnak:

- Year 23, first month of the third season, day 19- awakening in [life] in the tent of life, prosperity and health, at the town of Aruna. Proceeding northward by my majesty, carrying my father Amun-Ra, Lord of the Thrones of the Two Lands [that he might open the ways] before me." (Pritchard, Ancient Near Eastern Texts, p. 236).

We saw above the Egypt carried representations of their Gods in their "Arks" or "barques" and often carried them into battle as we find recorded about King David as well.

The idea of a holy Ark was introduced to the Israelites by Moses (Akhenaten) from Egyptian practices of worship. In his festivals and on other occasions, the Egyptian deity used to be carried by the priests in an Ark, usually in the form of a boat when the king went to live in the fortress. When the Pharaoh, Tuthmose III, went to live in the fortress of Jerusalem at the start of the protracted siege of Megiddo, the only possible location for the god Amun-Ra in his Ark was where the king was in residence which we saw was Jerusalem. In fact, we know that there were some rituals in Egyptian religion that only the king and high priests could perform before the deity (Osman, Moses: Pharaoh of Egypt).

The peaceful nature of events is also indicated by the fact that Araunah, the Jebusite king, was still in control of Mount Moriah, the high holy ground to the north of the city. We have an account of how David bought the threshing-floor of Mount Moriah "for fifty shekels of silver" in order to build an altar to the Lord. In the course of these negotiations Araunah said to David:

2 Sam 24:22-23 22 And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good unto him: behold, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and threshing instruments and other instruments of the oxen for wood. 23 All these things did Araunah, as a king, give unto the king. And Araunah said unto the king, The LORD thy God accept thee. (KJV)

The choice of a threshing-floor on Mount Moriah may seem a curious one for the site of an altar, but it is "clear that this site was held sacred even prior to David for an elevated, exposed spot used as a threshing-floor at the approaches to a city often served as the local cultic spot. The sanctity of Jerusalem, atop the Temple Mount, is inferred already in the Book of Genesis (Mount Moriah). . . " (Stern, Encyclopedia of Archaeological excavations In The Holy Land, vol. 3, p. 590). This earlier biblical reference describes how Abraham is said to have received holy blessing on this same piece of ground:

Gen 14:18-20 18 And Melchizedek king of Salem (Jerusalem) brought forth bread and wine: and he was the priest of the most high God. 19 And he blessed him, and said, Blessed be Abram of the most high God, possessor of heaven and earth: 20 And blessed be the most high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave him tithes of all. (KJV)

Therefore, from the time of Abraham this high ground to the north of Jerusalem had been regarded as holy ground, not just for the inhabitants of the city but for other peoples in Canaan as well and this includes Egypt.

However, the reality of the situation is that the threshing-floor was not bought by the tribal David to build an altar for the Lord, but by Tuthmose III as the site for a shrine to his State god, Amun-Ra. This is again made clear in the Book of Psalms as we have already seen where David (Tuthmose III), like Egyptian kings, is spoken of as being the "Son of God"....a title reserved for a Pharaoh (the Son of Ra).

Ps 2:6-8 6 Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion. 7 I will declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee. 8 Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. (KJV)

The new name of Zion, as we have seen, makes its first appearance in the Bible as soon as we learn of King David's (Tuthmose III's) entry into Jerusalem and assumes more importance from this time onward.

The name Zion, whose meaning is not known for certain until defined from an Egyptian viewpoint (Desert City...Heliopolis) as we have seen did not originate in the Hebrew Bible as thought and has not been found in any historical source outside of Egypt where it finds its origin. What confuses the matter further is that the name is not always used to indicate the same location. In some cases, as the one cited above, it seems to signify the fortress of Jerusalem itself. Yet, at the same time, we have the suggestion that the fortress was named after the king himself:

2 Sam 5:9 9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it the city of David (Tuthmose III). And David built round about from Millo and inward. (KJV)

In other cases, Zion refers only to the sacred area that was used to build the Temple:

Joel 3:17 17 So shall ye know that I am the LORD your God dwelling in Zion, my holy mountain: then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no strangers pass through her any more. (KJV)

Here, while Zion refers clearly to the holy area of the Temple Mount, Jerusalem is clearly separate, although related to it. We have also the reference:

Ps 20:1-2 1 The LORD hear thee in the day of trouble; the name of the God of Jacob defend thee; 2 Send thee help from the sanctuary, and strengthen thee out of Zion; (KJV)

It is clear in this case that by Zion only the sanctuary is meant.

Further complications have arisen from the fact that Mount Zion was later believed not to have been in the area of the Temple, high to the north of ancient Jerusalem, but on the western mount. Here, in the first century A.D., a small church was built on the southern end of the hill, which became identified as the Coenaculum (the room of the Last Supper of Jesus according to tradition). This was followed many centuries later - in 1936 - by a Christian monastery known today as the Church of Mary. Nevertheless, modern archaeology has confirmed that this western mount did not form part of ancient Jerusalem and was not occupied at the time of the tribal chief David.

All the indications are, in fact, that by Zion the ancient holy ground of Jerusalem was meant, the artificially flattened ground on Mount Moriah where Solomon (Amenhotep III) built his Temple and which today includes two of the holiest shrines of Islam - the Dome of the Rock, built by Muhammad's second Calif. Omar, and aI-Aqsa Mosque. The Temple area is surrounded by the colossal Herodian enclosure wall, preserved in the east, south and west: a larger section of the western wall (the Wailing Wall), which survives today, is regarded as the most venerated site in Jewish tradition. In ancient times, before David entered the fortress, this area was regarded as holy ground, not only by the Jebusites but by Abraham. In fact, Mount Moriah is identified as the area where the Temple was first built:

2 Chr 3:1 1 Then Solomon began to build the house of the LORD at Jerusalem in mount Moriah, where the LORD appeared unto David (Tuthmose III) his father, in the place that David had prepared in the threshingfloor of Ornan the Jebusite. (KJV)

It is the same location where, in the account of Abraham's intention to slay Sarah's son, Isaac, until he was forbidden to do so by the Lord, we have the obscure reference:

Gen 22:14 14 And Abraham called the name of that place Jehovah-jireh: as it is said to this day, In the mount of the LORD it shall be seen. (KJV)

As we saw before, Abraham also received the blessing from the king, Melchizedek, on the same holy ground.

However, it was when King David (Thutmose III) brought his Ark and placed it in the same area that this ancient holy ground was transformed into a holy centre believed to be the abode of the Lord:

Ps 132:13-14 13 For the LORD hath chosen Zion; he hath desired it for his habitation. 14 This is my rest for ever: here will I dwell; for I have desired it. (KJV)

Once Tuthmose III had taken the image of Amun-Ra in his Ark to Jerusalem, the logical resting place for it, at a time when religious bigotry did not exist, it was placed on the existing holy high ground of Mount Moriah where, one would expect, Tuthmose III worshipped during his seven-month stay.

After Tuthmose III left Jerusalem at the end of his seven-month stay, the holy ground where he had worshipped became Egyptianized because of him. This can be seen easily from the name it acquired, Zion. Although found for the first time in the Bible, it is not an original Hebrew word but consists of two elements, one Hebrew, the other Egyptian as we saw above.

"On", contained in the word Zion, as we saw above, is the biblical name of the ancient Egyptian holy city known from Greek as Heliopolis, which existed a short distance to the north of modern Cairo. In the Old Testament account of the life of Joseph the Patriarch, who brought the Israelites to Egypt, we are told that Pharaoh, having appointed Joseph to a high position, gave him an Egyptian wife:

Gen 41:45 45 And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphnath-pa'aneah; and he gave him to wife Asenath the daughter of Potipherah priest of On (Heliopolis). And Joseph went out over all the land of Egypt. (KJV)

Although Heliopolis was the original Egyptian holy city, the emphasis changed during the Eighteenth Dynasty when Thebes in Upper Egypt became the new capital city of the Empire as well as the holy city of the State god Amun-Ra. From this time it became the custom to refer to Thebes as "the southern On" and Heliopolis as "the northern On", with the word "On" being used in the sense of "holy city" (the On (holy place) of the desert.

Thus the very word "Zion", used to designate the holy ground to the north of Jerusalem from the time King David (Thutmose III) entered the city, in itself reveals its Egyptian origin. From that time, Mount Moriah, until then holy to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, became holy for all the Asiatic kingdoms of the Empire. By introducing the earlier story of Abraham being blessed by El Elyon, which is one of the names of the Israelite God, on the same Mount Moriah, the biblical narrator wanted to stress that the area was related to the God of Israel even before King David (Thutmose III) used it for his own worship.

After his seven-month stay, Tuthmose III returned to Megiddo for his successful assault on the city, then made his way to Thebes.

We have no means of knowing whether he visited Jerusalem again during one of his many campaigns in western Asia. Nevertheless, his descendants, the children of Sarah, never really forgot their great ancestor and, after leaving Egypt and eventually settling in the Promised Land of Canaan, they made his holy ground the most venerated and holy part of their new home.

The sacredness attributed to Jerusalem by the Egyptians initially derived, as we have seen, from the transport of the Barque of Amun (a holy shrine carried on poles in much the same manner as the Israelite Ark of the Covenant) to the city of Jerusalem by Thutmose III (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 125). The Egyptian Ark or shrine was normally kept within the Holy of Holies in the Temple of Amun at Karnak, however Thutmose III (just like King David) had carried the Egyptian Ark with him into battle (Osman, House of the Messiah, p. 125, quoting from Pritchard, Ancient Near Eastern Texts, p. 236).

1 Sam 4:5-8 5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great shout, so that the earth rang again. 6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp. 7 And the Philistines were afraid, for they said, God is come into the camp. And they said, Woe unto us! for there hath not been such a thing heretofore. 8 Woe unto us! who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods? (KJV)

The Ark of Amun remained with Tuthmose III when he took up residence in Jerusalem during the prolonged siege of Megiddo (Ibid. p. 114).

Answer for yourself: Does this remind you of King David carrying the Ark of the Covenant into battle with him?

1 Sam 4:3-5 3 And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us to day before the Philistines? Let us fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of Shiloh unto us, that, when it cometh among us, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies. 4 So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, which dwelleth between the cherubims: and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God. 5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great shout, so that the earth rang again (KJV).

After the fall of the Syrian city of Kadesh (in the Biblical region of Zobah and Hamath) during the sixth military campaign (he conducted a total of 17 in all), Thutmose III was able to cross the Euphrates and erect a second stele beside that of Thutmose I.

Answer for yourself: What is the significance of this conquest of Thutmose III?

Now watch closely what the Old Testament says about King David in the following verse. In essence, Thutmose III (King David):

2 Sam 8:3 3 David smote also Hadadezer, the son of Rehob, king of Zobah, as he went to recover his border at the river Euphrates. (KJV)

Here we find that Tuthmose III (King David) both smote the king of Zobah and crossed the Euphrates as well.

Answer for yourself: Is this a coincidence? The evidence is yet mounting that King David is Thutmose III.

This is the border that was originally established his grandfather Tuthmose I (Osman, House of the Messiah, p.88). It was at this time that Thutmose III (David) "established garrisons in Syria" (Edom) as the Bible describes but attributes again to a King named David:

2 Sam 8:13-14 13 And David gat him a name when he returned from smiting of the Syrians in the valley of salt, being eighteen thousand men. 14 And he put garrisons in Edom; throughout all Edom put he garrisons, and all they of Edom became David's servants. And the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went. (KJV)

We are almost done but now for some Jewish testimony concerning Kind David being Tuthmose III.

Kings Saul and David reigned in the 10th century B.C.E. according to the biblical chronology but Josephus dates David to a far earlier period.

"He was buried by his son (questionable) Solomon, in Jerusalem, with great magnificence, and with all the other funeral pomp which kings used to be buried with; moreover, he had great and immense wealth buried with him, the vastness of which may be easily conjectured at by what I shall now say; for a thousand and three hundred years afterward [in the time of] Hyrcanus the high priest, when he was besieged by Antiochus..." - Josephus Flavius, Antiquities of the Jews.

The siege of the second Temple in Jerusalem by Antiochus can accurately be dated to 167 B.C.E.

Answer for yourself: What happens if we look another thousand and three hundred years before 167 B.C.E as Josephus says? Well this date puts David's funeral at 1467 B.C.E., or almost 450 years before the generally accepted date (circa 1020 B.C.E.)

Answer for yourself: Does this date coincide with the time of Thutmose III? Yes it does! What another coincidence!

This, according to conventional chronology, would be during the reign of the greatest Egyptian warrior-pharaoh Tuthmose III [1490-1436 B.C.E.], who extended the Egyptian empire to its furthest limits and in so doing "recovered it all"!

1 Sam 30:19 19 And there was nothing lacking to them, neither small nor great, neither sons nor daughters, neither spoil, nor any thing that they had taken to them: David recovered all. (KJV)

In closing Ahmed Osman, in The House of the Messiah, makes some key statements which I now quote:

- "The David who established an empire that stretched from the Nile to the Euphrates can only have lived in the fifteenth century B.C...The Israelite infiltration of Canaan, the Promised land, was a fragmentary process that did not gather pace until after Egypt lost control over Palestine in the second half of the twelfth century B.C"
- "The David whose main campaigns were against the Philistines cannot have lived before the twelfth century B.C. because that was when the mass invasion of the coastal plain of Canaan by the Philistines took place."
- "The King of Qadesh, a strong fortified city on the River Orontes in northern Syria, led a Syrio-Canaanite confederacy in a general rebellion against Egypt. In response, Thutmose III marched into western Asia to regain the territories between the Nile and Euphrates that had been conquered forty years earlier by his grandfather, Thutmose I. In the next twenty years he led a total of seventeen campaigns in western Asia, at the end of which he had earned himself the reputation as the mightiest of all the kings of the ancient world. The account of these various wars, copied from the daily records of the scribe who accompanied the army on its campaigns, is to be found in the Annals, a 223-line document that covers the inside of the walls enclosing the corridor surrounding the granite holy of holies Thutmose III built at Karnak"

Answer for yourself: Are these many evidences just coincidence?

So there you have it. It would appear to a "thinking believer" that the preponderance of the evidence is beyond chance and coincidence and the Biblical King David is not a Jew but in reality a part Hebrew descendent who is recognized and attested to my many infallible proofs to be a Pharaoh named Tuthmose III. No wonder we find so many parallels between Biblical Judaism and Egyptian religion which both oppose the later replacement religion of Rome called Christianity. Now let us finish this study in the 3rd and last article in this series.

WERE THERE HEBREW PHARAOHS OF EGYPT?

Over the many years of my study into the "Jewish Roots" of Christianity I kept finding that almost all roads of investigation led eventually to Egypt. Let me give you some examples:

We are more than likely familiar with the following Psalm

"How many are your works, O LORD! In wisdom you made them all; the earth is full of your creatures." - Psalm 104:24

Answer for yourself: But are you aware that we find in Egypt the following Psalm?

"How manifold are thy works! They are hidden before men Oh sole God, beside whom there is no other. Thou didst create earth according to thy heart." -Amenhotep IV (Akhenaton) from Rosicrucian Question and Answers, p. 55

This is not the only similarity I assure you. Now for something absolutely incredible. Egypt was familiar with "the Word of God" long before there were ever a Jewish people. "The idea of messages materializing out of marks on stone amazed ordinary people and the scribes who could make 'stone talk' were considered to be holders of great magic. This is easily appreciated when one realizes that the Egyptians called hieroglyphics 'the Words of the God', a term that would often be repeated throughout the Bible." - Christopher Knight & Robert Lomas, The Hiram Key: Pharaohs, Freemasons and the Discovery of the Secret Scrolls of Jesus.

The more I began to study Egypt the more my eyes were opened to the Egyptian influence upon the later Jewish nation and the ever evolving Judeo-Christianity that we are familiar with today. Everyone knows that Egypt existed long before the Abraham of the Bible and his family. This make my following discovery all the more significant for the Egyptian religious influence upon Abraham and the Jewish nation is undeniable.

Five of the Ten Commandments which would be later delivered from Mount Sinai to Moses can be found in the ancient Egyptian Book of the Dead.

"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain....Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not commit adultery...Thou shalt not bear false witness against they neighbor..." - Exodus 20: 7-16

But look at this:

'Not have I despised god...Not have I killed...Not have I fornicated...Not have I despoiled the thing of the god...not have I defiled the wife of a man...Not have I cursed god...Not have I borne false witness'. - Egyptian Book of the Dead

"...Chapter CXXV of the ancient Egyptian Book of the Dead...consisted on a series of negative confessions that the soul of the deceased was obliged to make before Thoth in his capacity as divine judge and scribe. A rubric to one part of the Book of the Dead...stated: This chapter (the expression of negative commandments and laws similar to the later Jewish Torah) was found on an alabaster brick, under the feet of the Majesty of this venerable place, the God Thoth, and it was written by the God himself'...The Ark of the Covenant (which contained similar laws and commandments) had frequently been referred to in the Bible as the 'footstool of God' (e.g. I Chronicles 28:2) and...it contained the stone Tablets of the Law written by Yahweh's own finger." - Graham Hancock, The Sign and the Seal.

Answer for yourself: Is this just a coincidence? Could the Ark of the Covenant be a copy from Egyptian religion? In fact if you study you find that it is.

You are beginning to see as I did that the more one studies the more one sees that there is a "hidden link" between the Jewish race and Egypt that lays beneath the conventional accounts of the Bible and the Judeo-Christian faith. It would take me several years to find these "links" and put the whole puzzle together regarding the hidden relationship between Egypt and the Hebrews which lays hidden both in history and the texts of the Old Testament. It would be during the 5 years of study devoted to Egypt that this information would come forth and I would find the true identity of the "Biblical Jews" which most Jews and African American people today are unaware. This is especially important for the Jewish nation for the Biblical Jews were black skinned and the children of Egypt. Today we have the proselytes from Europe and the Eastern Hemisphere which occupy the nation of Palestine while the "black Jew" is found in Africa and Ethiopia. This revelation and knowledge and implications to me was nothing short of astounding and you, the reader, will certainly agree if you continue to study the articles in this series.

My first class in Seminary that beginning summer of 1985 was a class devoted to the study of the Book of Proverbs. It was in that class that I learned that though Solomon's name is traditionally attached to the entire book, it is clear from 22:17; 24:23; 30:1 that unidentified wise men, as well as two who are identified as Agur and Lemuel, also shared in the composition of the book. There I discovered that there are three Solomonic collections in the book (1:1, 10:1, 25:1). Since Solomon authored most of the book, the attachment of his name to it is warranted by most Christian scholars. That of course is what I was taught by the good Baptist folks but that was before I began to study Egypt on my own and find that the Biblical Solomon is indeed a Pharaoh named Amenhotep III. This will be the beginning of my Exodus from Christianity ironically when I just began my Seminary training but I did not recognize it as of yet. That would come later when I would discover the "truth" behind the Religion I inherited.

I came to understand that Egyptian Proverbs were a very important part of the Ancient religion of Egypt, one of the main religious concepts the Egyptians had was "know thyself." Their spiritual aspect of this concept held that within man is the divine essence of the Creator and the Heavens. And this finds expression in their teaching: "The kingdom of heaven is within you; and whosoever shall know himself shall find it.". Proverbs were held as a teaching method for a man to understand the universe, thus they were inscribed in temples and tombs of Egypt, these inscriptions might be the first "Holy Book" known by man.

Before we close this introduction I wish to provoke your thinking a little. David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world.

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine? Let that sink in.

The David and Solomon eras are periods curiously missing from the archaeological record of the region where one should expect to find archeological evidence as to its existence! Quoting from the book, Archaeology of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentation of the period" (Mazar, Archaeology of the Land of the Bible, 369). There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeologist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustration that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment" (Redford, Egypt, Canaan, and Israel in Ancient Times, 310).

Answer for yourself: Don't you find it rather interesting and a matter of concern that archaeology has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah) but cannot confirm the Kingship of David or Solomon?

Of course when questioned about this inconsistency typical Christian and Jewish responses vary around the conservative response that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon will be found as well.

I am here to inform the reader that such evidence does already exits but as you will find it won't be found in Palestine but in Egypt and in a different era. Concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it; namely Egypt. Of course we don't find the names "David" or "Solomon" but we do find the same exploits described in the Hebrew texts accredited to Thutmose III and Amenhotep III. Now we will find that that neither this "King David" or "King Solomon" were Hebrews for they were Egyptian Pharoahs but the son of this "King Solomon/Amenhotep III" with the daugher of Joseph (Tiye) will have Hebrew blood in him. This son will later be Pharoah of Egypt and lead this great Exodus. We will see that in time.

You can now imagine how I was startled in Seminary when reading the Anchor Bible Commentary - Proverbs when they mentioned that these proverbs in the Hebrew Bible were believed to be attributed to Solomon whose real name was Amenhotep III of Egypt! That was the beginning of my "critical thinking" and no longer could I just "accept" what I had been told since being a child in my Christian Church. I had to have the truth I was determined to get it at all costs because I did not want to believe lies about God and my relationship with Him and if my religious literature was less than reliable then I would find out why and get to the bottom of it. This took me years but today I have plumed the depth of it and continue to study to seek out every elusive truths concerning the Creator which remain hidden in antiquity buried beneath the sands and time of Egypt.

The story of Egyptian religion and the hidden Egyptian influence upon Judaism and later Christianity is absolutely fascinating and challenging to the very core and it is to this uncovering of the Hebrew Pharaohs of Egypt that we now turn.

PERSONIFICATION OF THE SUN/NATURE LED TO GLORIFICATION... WHICH LED TO DEIFICATION

If we wish to find the gods and goddesses of the ancestors of our race, we must look to the sun, the moon, the stars, and the sky, the earth, the sea, the dawn, the clouds, the wind, etc., which they personified and glorified. That these have been the gods and the goddesses of all nations of antiquity, is an established fact. They are better understood as being called "Solar Gods".

The words which had denoted the sun and the moon would denote not merely living things but living persons. From personification to deification the steps would be but few; and the process of disintegration would at once furnish the materials for a vast fabric of mythology. Every word would become an attribute, and all ideas, once grouped around a simple object, would branch off into distinct personifications. These attributes of nature and the Sun and stars would gradually be converted into incidents of their mystical careers. Later each would receive a local habitation with a corresponding name unique to each area. These would remain as genuine history, when the origin and meaning of the words had been either wholly or in part forgotten.

BUT HOW DO WE KNOW THE GENTILE NATIONS PERSONIFIED....GLORIFIED...AND DEIFIED THE SUN AND NATURE?

The Aryans are said to have entered India through the fabled Khyber pass, around 1500 BC. They intermingled with the local populace, and assimilated themselves into the social framework. They adopted the settled agricultural life-style of their predecessors, and established small agrarian communities across the state of Punjab. The Aryans are believed to have brought with them the horse, developed the Sanskrit language and made significant inroads in to the religion of the times. All three factors were to play a fundamental role in the shaping of Indian culture. Cavalry warfare facilitated the rapid spread of Aryan culture across North India, and allowed the emergence of large empires. Sanskrit is the basis and the unifying factor of the vast majority of Indian languages. The religion, that took root during the Vedic era, with its rich pantheon of Gods and Goddesses, and its storehouse of myths and legends, became the foundation of the Hindu religion, arguably the single most important common denominator of Indian culture. The Aryans did not have a script, but they developed a rich tradition. They composed the hymns of the four vedas, the great philosophic poems that are at the heart of Hindu thought. "Veda" means knowledge, vedic culture means the spiritually aware society. And "dharma", as the meaning of life, the way to live the existance on Earth.

For the proofs of these assertions, the Vedic poems furnish indisputable evidence, that such as this was the origin and growth of the Greek and Teutonic mythology. In these poems, the names of many, perhaps most, of the Greek gods, indicate natural objects which, if endued with life, took on human personality. Such mythologies haven been grouped around the sun; grounded on those expressions which describe the recurrence of day and night; on the great tragedy of nature, in the alteration of summer and winter. Simply said it was "nature religion" with the Sun at the center.

Of the vast mass of solar myths, some have emerged into independent legends, others have furnished the groundwork of whole epics, others have remained simply as floating tales (Aryan Myths., vol. ii. pp. 51-53).

The results obtained from the examination of languages in its several forms leaves no room for doubt that the general system of mythology can be traced to its fountain head. We can no longer shut our eyes to the fact. For the comparison of legends current in different countries it is not necessary to carry the search further back than the worship of nature along with the Sun. With the origin of earliest man we find a common language know by all; a language without words. I am speaking about a common language as man interpreted his environment as speaking to him. We have before us a stage of language corresponding to a stage in the history of the human mind in which all sensible objects (perceived by our 5 seneses) were regarded with a conscious life. The varying phases of that life were therefore described as truthfully as they described their own feelings or sufferings; and therefore every phase became for them a picture. Early man described the things he saw, felt, or heard in his world from his point of view. Man's language was the result of an observation of what his senses perceived. In this way, man could not fail to note the changes of days and years, of growth and decay, of calm and storm; but the objects which so changed were to them living things, and the rising and setting of the sun, the return of winter and summer, became a drama in which the actors were their enemies and friends. These myths, from the personification of nature and the sun, exhibit in their germs the myths which afterwards became the legends of gods and heroes with human forms, and furnished the groundwork of the religious epics, poems, whether of the eastern or the western world. It was only a short step from this personification of the sun and nature to human epics in which such forces or nature became deified in every nations' myths and heroes.

The mythical or mythmaking language of mankind had no partialities; and the Sun occupies the largest extent of the myths of these nations. Mankind did not fail to put into words their thoughts and emotions roused in them by the varying phases of the Sun and nature of their world on which we, not less than they, feel that our life depends, although today we know a great something more than they about its nature.

Thus grew up a multitude of expressions which described the sun as the child of the night, as the destroyer of the darkness, as the lover of the dawn and the dew. Such phrases would go on to speak of the sun as killing the dew with his spears, and of forsaking the dawn as he rose in the heaven. The feeling that the fruits of the earth were called forth by his warmth would find utterance in words which spoke of him as the friend and the benefactor of man; which the constant recurrence of his work would lead them to describe him as a being constrained to toil for others, as doomed to travel over many lands, and as finding everywhere things on which he could bestow his love or which he might destroy by his power. His journey might be across cloudless skies, or amid alterations of storm and calm; his light might break fitfully through the clouds, or be hidden from many a weary hour, to burst forth at last with dazzling splendor as he sank down in the western sky. He would be described as facing many dangers and many enemies, none of whom, however, may arrest his course; as sullen, or capricious, or resentful; as grieving for the loss of the dawn whom he had loved, or as nursing his great wrath and vowing a pitiless vengeance. Then as the veil was rent at eventide, they would speak of the chief, who had long remained still, girding on his armor; or of the wanderer throwing off his disguise, and seizing his bow or spear to smite his enemies; of the invincible warrior whose face gleams with the flush of victory when the fight is over, as he greets the fair-haired Dawn who closes, as she had begun, the day. To the wealth of images thus lavished on the daily life and death of the Sun there would be no limit. He was the child of the morning, or her husband, or her destroyer; he forsook her and he returned to her, either in calm serenity or only to sink presently in deeper gloom.

So with other sights and sounds. The darkness of night brought with it a feeling of vague horror and dread; the return of daylight cheered them with a sense of unspeakable gladness; and thus the Sun who scattered the black shade of night would be the mighty champion doing battle with the biting snake which lurked in its dreary hiding-place. But as the Sun accomplished his journey day by day through the heaven, the character of the seasons is changed. The buds and blossoms of spring-time expand in flowers and fruits of summer, and the leaves fall and wither on the approach of winter. Thus the daughter of the earth would be spoken of as dying or as dead, as severed from her mother for five or six weary months, not to be restored to her again until the time for here return from the dark land should once more arrive. But as no other power than that of the Sun can recall vegetation to life, this child of the earth would be represented as buried in a sleep from which the touch of the Sun alone could arouse her, when he slays the frost and cold which lie like snakes around her motionless form.

That these phrases would furnish the germs of myths or legends teeming with human feeling, as soon as the meaning of the phrases were in part or wholly forgotten, was as inevitable as that in the infancy of our race men should attribute to all sensible objects the same kind of life which they were conscious of possessing themselves.

By now you understand how the forces of nature and the sun could be understood by early man. These impressions were woven into various tales reflecting the crude understanding of mother nature as well as the Sun. Simply said, early man did not possess the knowledge to relate such events he encountered in scientific terms as we had today. Crude stories and myths based on his limited knowledge would have to do. Later such events were as stated personified, glorified, and finally deified. Such expressions have been handed down to us and many of them are carried over into the life of Jesus the Jew. The irony is that the Jewish people were called to be a light of knowledge and correction to such men and their myths. We have lost a lot in our attempt to be a follower of Yeshua; in fact the hard reality as I now plan to show you is that 2.5 billions good people who call themselves Christians are little better off than primitive man because they hold dear the same myths which they mistakenly are taught to believe were "literal" and "historical". The only difference is that the historical Yeshua has become the Christ of faith; such an object of faith as expressed in the New Testament is almost a carbon copy of what the earliest Sun-worshippers believed and taught. Let me see if I can prove it to you as we make comparisons between the Christian Savior and the various Sun Myths. After we are through then you can make an intelligent decision once you see the evidence for yourself. It is to that quest we now turn.

PERSONIFICATION OF THE SUN IN THE WORLD'S RELIGIONS

Modern scholarship today has a hard message for Christianity and Christians everywhere. With the advancement of the media and the availability of volumes of information that was for years kept highly secret we see clearly today that Christianity and the Jesus of the "Jesus Story" found in the gospel stories is a retelling of the religious myths of other cultures – in fact, practically all of them rolled into one – in an attempt to unify the Roman Empire under one state religion. This secret is and has been known by the higher-ranking members of the fraternal orders, including the Jesuits, Protestants and Masons for centuries. Serious study today that takes advantage of the abundance of archeological information that has become available today exposes that "Jesus Christ" is a mythical character based on pre-Christian godmen found in the myths of other cultures around the globe. When you compare the early "savior stories" with the last of them, our "Jesus Story", then we have in reality a carbon-copy of the "greatest story every told"; that story being the Descent of the Soul into "matter" in the form of humanity. In reality, the story revolves around the solar hero, the personification of the sun which is the "life-giver" of this solar system, the Divine Logos, which was worshipped in numerous cultures for thousands of years. Now understand, it was never the physical sun that was worshipped as the "life-giver" but the Intelligent Living Energy which lies behind the veil of physical existence. This is the God of the Bible and all nation's sacred books. When one gets his hands on books by such distinguished and brilliant scholars like Thomas Paine, Rev. Robert Taylor, Gerald Massey, J.M. Robertson, Joseph Wheless, G.A. Wells and Barbara Walker then the puzzle pieces come together to reveal that the "Jesus Story" as found in the New Testament is little more than the false "literalization" and "historicatin" of prior Ancient Divine allegories of this "Life-Giver" as symbolized by the path of the Sun through the Zodiac in the solar year along with the associated other constellations along its path which influenced this solar story in various degrees. One only needs listen to Thomas Paine:

"The Christian religion and Masonry have one and the same common origin: Both are derived from the worship of the Sun. The difference between their origin is, that the Christian religion is a parody on the worship of the Sun, in which they put a man whom they call Christ, in the place of the Sun, and pay him the same adoration which was originally paid to the Sun."

If we ever wish to get to the bottom of the "Jesus Story" and likewise wish to find the gods and goddesses of the ancestors of our race, we must look to the sun, the moon, the stars, and the sky, the earth, the sea, the dawn, the clouds, the wind, etc., which they personified and glorified in the spiritual stories that we all inherit today; stories that have survived the test of time only with different names today. That these have been the gods and the goddesses of all nations of antiquity, is an established fact. They are better understood as being called "Solar Gods". Ancient Egypt likened this Solar System in which we live as being "one cell" in the whole body of Ra (God). The analogy is perfect. We only need to look at our hand and finger and imagine "one cell" which makes the whole of us to understand the vastness of our Mighty God, our "Life-Giver" of this cosmos.

Answer for yourself: What is the real reason for the subterfuge and deception in our "Jesus Story"? In a nutshell, fear and ignorance are mighty power to a religion that is centered on control of its subject. What the Legions of Rome could not do, fear and ignornace of Divine Truth will accomplish and unity was the result and fruit of such baseless fear that the Christiand religion and its imposed Hell provide. As Pope Leo X is reputed to have exclaimed, "What profit has not this fable of Christ brought us!" "Believe or perish" served Rome well and has for almost 2,000 years to date.

The words which had denoted the sun and the moon would denote not merely living things but living persons. From personification to deification the steps would be but few; and the process of disintegration would at once furnish the materials for a vast fabric of mythology. Every word would become an attribute, and all ideas, once grouped around a simple object, would branch off into distinct personifications. These attributes of nature and the Sun and stars would gradually be converted into incidents of their mystical careers. Later each would receive a local habitation with a corresponding name unique to each area. These would remain as genuine history, when the origin and meaning of the words had been either wholly or in part forgotten.

BUT HOW DO WE KNOW THE GENTILE NATIONS PERSONIFIED....GLORIFIED...AND DEIFIED THE SUN AND NATURE?

The Aryans are said to have entered India through the fabled Khyber pass, around 1500 BC. They intermingled with the local populace, and assimilated themselves into the social framework. They adopted the settled agricultural life-style of their predecessors, and established small agrarian communities across the state of Punjab. The Aryans are believed to have brought with them the horse, developed the Sanskrit language and made significant inroads in to the religion of the times. All three factors were to play a fundamental role in the shaping of Indian culture. Cavalry warfare facilitated the rapid spread of Aryan culture across North India, and allowed the emergence of large empires. Sanskrit is the basis and the unifying factor of the vast majority of Indian languages. The religion, that took root during the Vedic era, with its rich pantheon of Gods and Goddesses, and its storehouse of myths and legends, became the foundation of the Hindu religion, arguably the single most important common denominator of Indian culture. The Aryans did not have a script, but they developed a rich tradition. They composed the hymns of the four vedas, the great philosophic poems that are at the heart of Hindu thought. "Veda" means knowledge, vedic culture means the spiritually aware society. And "dharma", as the meaning of life, the way to live the existence on Earth.

For the proofs of these assertions, the Vedic poems furnish indisputable evidence, that such as this was the origin and growth of the Greek and Teutonic mythology. In these poems, the names of many, perhaps most, of the Greek gods, indicate natural objects which, if endued with life, took on human personality. Such mythologies haven been grouped around the sun; grounded on those expressions which describe the recurrence of day and night; on the great tragedy of nature, in the alteration of summer and winter. Simply said it was "nature religion" with the Sun at the center.

Of the vast mass of solar myths, some have emerged into independent legends, others have furnished the groundwork of whole epics, others have remained simply as floating tales (Aryan Myths., vol. ii. pp. 51-53).

The results obtained from the examination of languages in its several forms leaves no room for doubt that the general system of mythology can be traced to its fountain head. We can no longer shut our eyes to the fact. For the comparison of legends current in different countries it is not necessary to carry the search further back than the worship of nature along with the Sun. With the origin of earliest man we find a common language know by all; a language without words. I am speaking about a common language as man interpreted his environment as speaking to him. One thing needs to be said before we end. After making such comparisons we yet don't understand what these Sungods and pagan Christs stood for or represented. Sure, our Jesus Christ might not have been "historical" or "literal" but he meant something to many who at one time held the "keys" to proper interpretation and understanding of this "Jesus Story".

Answer for yourself: What lies behind our misunderstood and mischaracterized "Jesus Story" and the other "Pagan Christ Stories". It is to that quest we now turn.

IS THE SON OF GOD THE PERSONIFICATION OF THE SUN OF GOD!

...there is nothing new under the sun. (Ecclesiastes 1:9)

Never has such a truth been spoken as the one above.

Over the ages, the ancients did not simply observe the movements of the celestial bodies but personified them and created stories about them that were recreated upon the earth. Out of this polytheistic, astrological atmosphere came the "greatest story ever told," as the gospel tale is, in many places in fact, astro-theological and non-historical, recording the mythos found around the globe for eons. Thus, the Christian religion, for the most part, created and shored up by forgery, fraud and force, is in reality astro-theological more than historical and its many stories and accounts of Jesus' life in the New Testament mythical, based on many thousands of years of observation by the ancients of the movements and interrelationships of the celestial bodies and the earth, one of the favorite of which was, understandably, the sun.

One has to understand and know of these solar myths in order to read the New Testament and discern the truth from fiction about the life of Jesus as both are intermixed! ONLY in this way can we understand what lies behind the "Jesus Story" and how it is to be "interpreted correctly"!

The sun figured in the stories and religious myths of virtually every culture worldwide. In many places and eras, the sun was considered the most visible proxy of the divine and the most potent bestower of Spirit. It was regarded as the first entity in "the Void" and the progenitor of all life and matter. The sun also represented the Archetypal Man, as human beings were perceived as "solar entities." In addition to being a symbol of the spirit because it rises and sinks, the sun was the "soul of the world," signifying immortality, as it is eternally resurrected after "dying" or setting. It was also considered the purifier of the soul, as noted. Hence, from at least the Egyptian age down to the Gnostic Christians, the sun, along with the moon and other celestial bodies, was viewed as a "guide" into the afterlife. By the Gnostic Zoroastrians, the sun was considered "the Archimagus, that noblest and most powerful agent of divine power, who 'steps forth as a Conqueror from the top of the terrible Alborj to rule over the world which he enlightens from the throne of Ormuzd'" (Pike, Albert, The Morals and Dogma of Scottish Free Masonry, L.H. Jenkins, 1928, p. 612). Long before the Christian era, the sun was known as the" Son of Ormuzd," the "Mediator," while his adversary, Ahriman, (Devil, D-evil, Dark-evil, Darkness) represented the darkness, which caused the fall of man (Albert Pike, The Morals and Dogman Of The Scottish Rite Freemasonary, L.H. Jenkins, 1928, p. 613).

Answer for yourself: Did you catch above the fact that the "Devil" of all religious and sacred books is nothing more than the enemy of light and the Sun; that the "Devil" is "personified darkness" and nothing more?

Understand the "Sun personified as the 'Son' was understood as the Mediator to God; (between Living Conscious Energy and "matter") therefore the 'Son' (personified Sun) was the Mediator as well." We will get to Paul and Jesus later where Paul uses the same Mediterranean concept about Yeshua/Jesus.

The sun (or Son personified) was considered the "Savior of the World," as it rose and brought light and life to the planet. It was revered for causing seeds to burst and thus giving its life for plants to grow; hence, it was seen to sacrifice itself in order to provide fertility and vegetation.

Answer for yourself: So then since the Sun sacrificed itself and pours out its vital energy and life to provide life, photosynthesis, and the assurance of life through the food-chain for mankind? Does it stand to reason as the Sun was personified as the "Son" of God then the "Son" sacrificed himself to provide life for mankind as well? Is this sacrifice to be understood "literal" and "historical" or should it be understood "astrologically" and "metaphysically"? If it is to be understood "literally" and "historically" then why did not the ancients who had their own "Christ Stories" thousands and thousands of years before our "Jesus Story" which is the exact equivalent to our "Jesus Story" not once teach this same story as it "literal" and "historical" as we have received it from Rome? If it was always taught "allegorically", "mystically" and "metaphysically" then why is the Christian one to be believed any differently since they all were never see this way before the 2nd through the 5th century at the hands of Rome?

The sun is the "tutelary genius of universal vegetation," as well as the god of cultivation and the benefactor of humankind (Albert Pike, The Morals and Dogman Of The Scottish Rite Freemasonary, L.H. Jenkins, 1928, p. 475). When the sun" dies" in winter, so does the vegetation, to be "resurrected" in the spring. The first fruits, vine and grain were considered symbols of the sun's strength and were ritualistically offered to the divine luminary. The solar heroes and gods were said to be teachers as well, because agriculture, a science developed out of astronomy, freed mankind to pursue something other than food, such as other sciences and the arts.

The various personifications of the sun thus represent the "image of fertility which perpetuates and rejuvenates the world's existence (Ibid., p. 594). In their fertility aspects, the sun was the phallus, and the moon was the vulva, the male and female generative principles, the generators of all life on Earth.

Answer for yourself: Do you know just what happened when you read the above sentence? You just saw the mixture of Solar Worship, Sun Worship, and Nature Worship mixed now with Phallic worship. The triad is now complete. As you have already seen life and salvation comes with the Sun, the personified Son, the rebirth of the Sun and it's influence upon Nature and the food supply, and now with sexual reproduction and they are now all intertwined.

In the mythos, the two pillars or columns of the Celestial Temple, the mysterious Jachin and Boaz, are the sun and moon (Ibid., p. 776). Of the relationship between the sun and moon, Hazelrigg adds:

The Sun may be likened to a wire through which the planetary messages are electrically transmitted, and of which the lunar moisture is the insulation" (Hazelrigg, John, The Sun Book, Health Research, 1971, p. 56).

In the ancient world, light was the subject of awe, and the sunlight's ability to make plants grow was considered magical and miraculous. So special is light that the writer of Ecclesiastes waxes, "Light is sweet, and it is pleasant for the eyes to behold the sun." We know that it is not pleasant for the eyes to behold the direct light of the sun; it is, however, pleasant for humanity to behold the sun as it rises in the morning, bringing light and life. Indeed, the sun itself is the "face of the divine" upon which it is impossible to look.

Thus, the sun was very important to the ancients, so much so that around the world for millennia a wide variety of peoples have built solar temples, monuments and entire religions with priestesses and priests of the Sun, along with complex rituals and accoutrements. Within these religions is contained the ubiquitous mythos, a template or archetypical story that personifies the heavens and Earth, and rolls them into a drama about their interrelationship. Rather than being an entertaining but useless "fairytale," as myths are erroneously considered to be, the mythos is designed to pass along from generation to generation information vital to life on Earth, so that humans do not have to learn it repeatedly but can progress. Without the knowledge, or gnosis, of the celestial mythos, humankind would still be in caves.

The celestial mythos is complicated because the solar myth is intertwined with the lunar, stellar and terrestrial myths. In addition, some of the various celestial players were introduced later than others, and many of them took on new functions as the focus switched from stars to moon to sun to other planets, and back again. For example, Horus is not only the sun but also the North Pole star, and his twin brother-cum-adversary, Set, represents not only darkness but also the South Pole star.

Furthermore, as time progresses and the skies change, as with the precession of the equinoxes and the movements of the sun annually through the zodiac and daily through its "houses," as well as with cataclysm, the attributes of the planetary bodies within the mythos also change. Moreover, the incorporation of the phases of moon into the mythos adds to its complexity:

The Moon, like the Sun, changed continually the track in which she crossed the Heavens, moving ever to and fro between the upper and lower limits of the Zodiac; and her different places, phases, and aspects there, and her relations with the Sun and the constellations, have been a fruitful source of mythological fables (Pike, Albert, The Morals and Dogma of Scottish Free Masonry, LH Jenkins, 1928, p. 469).

An example of the complexity of the mythos is provided by the story of the "Queen of Heaven," the goddess Isis, mother of Horus, who is not only the moon that reflects the sun, she is the original creator, as well as the personification of the constellation of Virgo. As the moon, she is the "woman clothed with the Sun, and as the Virgin, she is the Sun's mother." She is also Stella Mans, the "Star of the Sea," as she regulates the tides, a fact known of the moon beginning eons ago, as were the facts of the roundness of the earth and of the heliocentricity of the solar system-again, knowledge never actually "lost" and "rediscovered," as popularly portrayed.

The sun and moon were deemed to be one being in some cultures or twins in others. When eclipses occurred, it was said that the moon and sun were uniting to create lesser gods. Thus, the pantheon kept growing.

Although it is generally now considered to be "male," the sun was also regarded as female in several places, including Alaska, Anatolia, Arabia, Australia, Canaan, England, Germany, India, Japan, North America and Siberia. The sun's feminine side was, naturally, suppressed by the patriarchy. As Walker says:

The popular European tradition usually made the sun male and the moon female, chiefly to assert that ·hisº light was stronger, and that ·sheº shone only by reflected glory, symbol of the position of women in patriarchal society. However, Oriental and pre-Christian systems frequently made the sun a Goddess (Walker, Barbara, The Woman's Encyclopedia of Myths and Secrets, Harper, p. 353).

When one factors into this complexity the fertility aspect of the gods and goddesses of the grape and grain, along with the sexual imagery found in all mythologies and religions, one can understand why it has been so difficult to sort it all out.

Let us now turn our attention to the Zodiac. For it is there we find the "Jesus Story" personified as the path of the Sun. It follows the path of the Sun through the Zodiac from Matthew chapter 1 through chapter 28. You have to see this to believe it because it will take your breath away. Understand, it is not our wish to "destroy Jesus" but to correctly understand what this Jesus is to represent to our Soul and rightly divide the Word of God. This "Jesus Story" is as old as ancient Egypt and when it is all said and done it reveals the Descent of the Soul into "matter" and humanity. It is the story of the birth, life, evolution, death, and rebirth of the Sun which is our picture and example for the whole of mankind as he grows righteously into the "fullness and stature of the Christ of God". Amen.

ISAIAH 53....THE TRUTH ABOUT THE PROPHECY YOUR CHURCH NEVER TAUGHT YOU

In these next pages and articles I have demonstrated beyond any doubt that the original and only logical interpretation of Isaiah 53 as originally held and handed down by the first readers and hearers of this passage was that the "suffering servant" referred to by Isaiah the prophet is the corporate nation of Israel and was never intended or understood by its first hearers to single out one particular individual apart from the corporate nation. As you read these articles you will see that for yourself. To approach this passage "an agenda" in order to read "Jesus/Yeshua" into the passages whereby you separate him out and apart from the corporate suffering of Israel is not exegesis and does great damage to the intended meaning of the passage as both God gave it and as Isaiah intended his readers to understand it when he gave it to them. Yet it is my firm belief that within the "corporate suffering" of Israel as the "Servant" of YHWH we find Yeshua as possibly the greatest example if not the greatest example of the proto-typical Jewish Servant, who unfortunately like most Jewish people through history, has suffered at the hands of non-Jews in their calling as a "light to the Gentiles". Yeshua is a perfect case in point, for only after his passion did a movement arise to take his message of hope and salvation to the non-Jewish nations of the world. I hope these pages help you better "rightly divide" the Word of Truth where by you come to see the big picture. Shalom.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #2

THE SACRIFICES OF THE OLD TESTAMENT AS UNDERSTOOD AND INTERPRETED BY THE JEWISH NATION

Throughout the last 1,800 years few if any attempts have been made by Christianity to interpret the dynamics and working of the Sacrificial System correctly. Christianity has seen fit to interpret the Sacrificial System completely different than how the Jewish people and their Rabbis understood it and with good reason. Had they done so and restored the true understanding to the Jewish Sacrificial System and the proper function of "blood" within it then doing so would have totally exposed the incorrect theology adopted by Rome as applied to the death of Jesus as depicted in the Roman New Testament.Without a correct and proper understanding of the Old Testament Sacrificial System the typical Christian will be continually misled in his understanding of Biblical Atonement and literally "thwarted in coming to the truth concerning Biblical atonement as taught by Moses and the prophets. The proposed explanations and interpretations of Sacrifice and of the Sacrificial System can be divided into three categories: symbolic, judicial, and rational.

SYMBOLIC MEANING OF SACRIFICES

Philo devoted a treatise to the subject of the symbolic interpretation of sacrifices (De Victimis; see Spec. 1:112–256). He pointed out that only domesticated animals and the most gentle birds were suitable for sacrifice and that they had to be free of blemish. But the bird was not the real subject that needed to be free of "blemishes"; it was the person who brother the bird who had to free of sin and blemish. Not the bird, but rather the person bringing the sacrifice must be wholesome in body and soul and this Spiritual condition was "represented" in the being of the bird. The bird without blemish represented the Soul of the person bringing the sacrifice of the bird. The bird contributed nothing to the sacrifice, it was the condition of the Soul that presented itself before God in the offering of the bird solely as the symbolic representation of the Soul. Interesting to note the Soul was always represented in the ancient Egyptian religion as a bird since like the bird the Soul was to "fly to Heaven". This meant for the Jewish people that they had to approach the altar with their soul purged of its passions and viciousness if the sacrifice was to be acceptable by God otherwise is was not acceptable. The condition of the person before he brought the sacrifice was determined by his contrition over his sin, this confession of sin, his repentance of sin, and his restitution to those he has wronged by his sin that determined the actual Spiritual condition of his Soul when he brought his offering; an offering that was but a reflection of his hidden Soul which only God could see (Spec. 1:166/167, 257).

Take notice of the spiritual condition necessary BEFORE the sacrifice was to be presented at the altar. A person's soul had to be purged of sin "IF" the sacrifice was to be acceptable to God.

The reader needs to understand NOW that there were prior Spiritual conditions that needed to be met by the Soul of those who brought sacrifices before the sacrifice was to be brought to the altar. Now lets pick up with Philo.

The wicked would be rejected, even if they offered hundreds of sacrifices (Spec. 1:271). The actual condition of their Soul in spite of the visible perfect and blemishes offering was the determining factor with God if the sacrifice would be accepted. Only God and the person brining the sacrifice knew the truth. The Rabbis stated that the sacrificial statutes indicated that God is with the persecuted. The ox is pursued by the lion, the goat by the leopard, and the lamb by the wolf. Therefore God commanded, "Do not offer those that persecute, but rather those that are persecuted" (Lev. R. 27:5). The requirement that fowl be offered with their feathers symbolized that a poor man was not to be despised. Therefore his offering was placed on the altar in its full adornment, despite the nauseating odor normally arising from the burning of feathers (Lev. R. 3:5). Salt, an indispensable ingredient of sacrifice, was symbolic of the moral effect of suffering, which purifies man and causes sins to be forgiven (Ber. 5a). Judah Halevi declared that the fire on the altar was kindled by the will of God as a sign that the people found favor in His sight and that He was accepting their hospitality and offerings (Kuzari 2:26). Samson Raphael Hirsch explained that the Pentateuch required the person to lay his hands upon the head of the sacrifice to indicate that the "hands" that have become morally weakened "support" themselves on the resolution of the future betterment that is expressed by the offering (his commentary to Lev. 1:4). David Hoffmann declared that sacrifices are symbols of man's gratitude to God and his dependence on Him, of the absolute devotion man owes to God, as well as of man's confidence in Him (Introd. to commentary on Lev. (Heb. ed.), 64–67).

JUDICIAL MEANING OF SACRIFICES

The juridical approach to understanding sacrifices is put forward by Ibn Ezra (commentary to Lev. 1:1) and to some extent by Nahmanides (commentary to Lev. 1:9). According to them, the sinner's life is forfeit to God, but by a gracious provision he is permitted to substitute a faultless victim. His guilt (not his sin) is transferred from himself to the offering by the symbolic act of placing his hands on the victim; this only transferred one's guilt and not his literal sin.

The reader should understand RIGHT NOW that this is something new he has never heard in his Christian Church. It was the guilt and not the sin that was transferred to the innocent animal. This means that no sacrifice ever would or could carry the sins of another.

But when we get to the New Testament we hear a completely different understanding of the Sacrificial System which the Jewish people and their Rabbis have refuted now for over almost 2,000 years. It is stated in 1 Peter 2:24, "and He Himself bore our sins in His body on the cross,..." . This simply is a complete misunderstanding of the Jewish Sacrificial System and the role and function of the representative animal. Never did the animal become the carrier of the sin of the sacrificer because the person brining the sin offering was, according to the Torah, to have previously repented of his sin before ever bringing a sacrifice to the Temple. Has the person obeyed the Word of God he would have previously confessed his sin, been remorseful over his sin, turned and repented from his sin, and done acts of righteousness and charity before ever bringing his sacrifice to the Temple. In so doing he would have stood before God at the altar in the Temple and been in a condition of "sinlessness"; there would have been no sin present in that person's life that any animal sacrifice could have ever carried or bore. This shows us that such a statement in I Peter 2:24 is an utter falsehood and a complete purposeful misrepresentation of the Sacrificial System as well as how atonement was ever accomplished in the life of a person.

Answer for yourself: What does this say about Jesus being another's sin offering and sacrifice? What does this knowledge of Biblical Judaism and how the Sacrificial System actually operated as well as the role and function of the sacrifice say about Jesus carrying the sins of another as some type of representative sacrifice?

According to the Laws of the Sacrificial System we see clearly that Jesus, a type and shadow of the sacrificial offerings of the Sacrificial System, could not according to the Laws of the Sacrificial System ever carry the sins of another, let alone the world, as some type of atonement offering. Somebody has purposefully misstated the truth about the role of the sacrifice in the Sacrificial System and related it incorrectly to the death of Jesus. In so doing this errant writer, who surely is not the apostle Peter who, being Jewish, perfectly knew how the Sacrificial System operated, has purposefully clouded the issue of Biblical sacrifice in these New Testament texts. In so doing he has erroneously connected the death of Jesus as sort of an offering and sacrifice which is supposed to bear the sins of the world in his body but that again was never the role or intent of the sacrificial animal; the sacrificial animal was only a symbolic representative of the Soul of the sacrificer at the time he makes the sacrifice. Here we have uncovered outright purposeful deception on the pages of the New Testament in order to make Jesus' death appear to be an atonement for sin. Now back to Ibn Ezra.

Christian writers, when later considering the accounts of the Sacrificial System, observed and took note of the pouring out of the blood and the burning of the sacrifice. Failing to understand Lev. 17:11, where we previously saw according to Biblical Judaism and the teaching of the Rabbis that the "blood" was only a "symbol for the Soul", these Christian writers mistakenly believed that the "blood" was the active agent in the Sacrificially process and not the Soul of the sacrificer prior to brining the sacrificial animal. Lost completely to their awareness, either purposeful or unintentionally, is the symbolic representation of the sacrifice with the Soul of the person brining the sacrifice. Missing this most important dynamic of the Sacrificial System, we find many then erroneously interpreting the whole of the Sacrificial System and in so doing writing that "the person should acknowledge that were it not for divine grace he should be the victim, expiating his sin with his own blood and limbs". Many Christian exegetes adopted this explanations and on it built the whole theological foundation of their Church.

RATIONAL MEANING OF SACRIFICES

Quite different is the rational view of sacrifice advocated by Maimonides. Maimonides held that the sacrificial service was not really of Jewish origin. Maimonides maintained: "It was the universal custom among all peoples at the time of Moses to worship by means of sacrifices. Since the Israelites had been brought up in this atmosphere, God realized that they could not immediately completely abandon sacrifice. He therefore limited its application by confining it to one place in the world, with the ultimate intention of weaning them from the debased religious rituals of their idolatrous neighbors".

Answer for yourself: Dear one, did you hear that? God was in time to wean His people from the pagan idolatrous forms of worship; some of which that contained animal sacrifices. It is these pagan sacrifices that had incorrectly influenced the people of Israel and God was intending over time to wean Israel away from blood sacrifices.

Answer for yourself: What should this say to us?

This means that over time Israel will come to see that "atonement" was to be obtained ways other than with "blood". That is why we find in the Hebrew Scriptures many different ways other than "blood sacrifices" whereby man can make atonement for his sin.

Answer for yourself: Can you now, having seen the symbolic interpretation of the Sacrificial System and the role of "blood" and the role of the "sacrificial animal", the judicial view of the Sacrificial System, and the rational view of the Sacrificial System, see also clearly that "blood" was never necessary to accomplish true atonement? Can you now see that "blood" was never required as a "active agent" in obtaining atonement but rather atonement was obtained by a living Soul that repents of its sin, confesses its sin, turns and repents from its sin, and active practices acts of righteousness and charity because of its sin? Can you see that such a repentant Soul then has the right to stand at the altar with God and by proxy lay itself on the altar with God in the form of the "blood" of the sacrificial animal (the blood of the animal is its Soul and it is this animal's Soul (its blood) which represents the Soul of the sacrificer placed on the altar with God)?

We should see clearly now that there will come a time in the life of Israel where they will no longer need to bring blood sacrifices but depend on other ways given by God to obtain atonement for their sin. This has happened even before the destruction of the Temple and has occurred now for the Jewish people who no longer have their Temple for almost 2,000 years. Biblical Judaism has known for over 3,000 years that it is not necessary to perform "blood sacrifices" to obtain atonement for sin since they have as well understood correctly that the "blood" served only a symbolic purpose in representing the Soul of the sacrificer at the time that he brought his sacrifice to the altar. It is we Christians who don't know this because most of us know not the slightest things about Judaism. This needs to change if you ever hope of making sense out of the New Testament and discerning the "truth within it" from the "fiction and falsehoods within it" as well.

The new service of "confined sacrifice" in one place in the world stressed the existence and unity of God, "without deterring or confusing the minds of the people by the abolition of the service to which they were accustomed and which alone was familiar to them." Maimonides cited the experience of Israel, led not by the shorter way, but by the circuitous route through the land of the Philistines (Ex. 13:17). Likewise, through a circuitous road, Israel was to be led gradually and slowly to a deeper perception of religion and divine worship (Guide, 3:32). He gives the added remarkable parallel that it would be equally incomprehensible for anyone in his generation to suggest that prayer could be offered in thought alone, without the recitation of words.

Abrabanel strengthened the arguments for Maimonides' viewpoint. He explained that only within this framework can it be understood why the Torah limited the Sacrificial Service to one locality while prayers may be recited in all places (Introd. to his commentary on Lev., 2d). Abrabanel cites a Midrash which stated that the Hebrews had become accustomed to sacrifices while in Egypt. To wean them from these Egyptian sacrifices and practices, God commanded, while accepting the sacrifices that had been practiced by His people as influenced by the Egyptian, they were to be offered in one central sanctuary and not in many as were done in ancient Egypt.

The reader should understand that God was going to do a new thing. God was to allow the continuation of these "prior sacrifices" but He will instill a new meaning to them that was to be unique to this new people of God who was separating from the ancient Egyptian peoples. This will be seen in the development of a unique personal relationship between the sacrificer and God Himself through the Sacrificial System. You will see how this works when we look deeper into the concept in Leviticus that "the life is in the blood". God is not concerned about blood, but the life…the soul contained within the blood!

With the destruction of the Temple and the automatic cessation of the Sacrificial System, it was laid down that prayer took the place of the sacrifices because such ideas are also taught in the Old Testament. The Shaharit service was regarded as taking the place of the morning tamid and the Minhah service, the afternoon tamid. On all occasions when an additional offering was brought, the Musaf prayer was introduced (Ber. 4:1, 7; 26b). One of the rabbis later declared that prayer was even more efficacious than offerings (Ber. 32b). In the wake of the destruction of the Temple these added prayer services functioned as a form of atonement. The typical Christian response is that the Jewish people are without an atonement because they have lost their Temple and can no longer perform "blood sacrifices". Such statements are outright illiterate and betray the uneducated minds of those who speak such error. Such statement only betrays the lack of knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures which teach several different ways commanded by God for mankind to obtain forgiveness of sin and personal atonement. Let us not forget what we saw earlier: namely. that God was progressively weaning the Jewish people from animal sacrifices (the physical) with the intent of Spiritual sacrifices such as prayer, repentance, almsgiving, charity, etc.. This is the message of the Prophets!

THE SPIRITUAL DYNAMICS OF SACRIFICE THAT WE JUST DISCUSSED …SEEN IN DETAIL

When the glory of the Lord had entered the tabernacle in a cloud, God revealed Himself to Moses from this place where He would put His Name, according to His promise in Ex. 25:22, in order to make known His will through Moses to the people. The first of these revelations related to the sacrifices, in which the Israelites were to draw near (korban) to God, that they might become partakers of His grace.

The patriarchs, when sojourning in Canaan, had already worshipped the God who revealed Himself to them, with both burnt offerings and slain offerings (we saw this above in the form of "burnt offerings"). We already have seen that the Jewish people are told by their own Rabbis that they were allowed to continue the sacrifices of ancient Egypt do performed these sacrifices thousands of years before the Jewish people ever existed. Whether their descendants, the children of Israel, had offered sacrifices to the God of their Fathers during their stay in Egypt, we cannot tell as there is no Biblical allusion whatever to the subject in the short account of these 430 years. Yet we know from archeology that such was the case: Israel performed sacrifices along with the Egyptians during their stay in Egypt. What is certain is that they had not forgotten to regard the sacrifices as a leading part of the worship of God (since sacrifice when properly understood is all about the Soul), and were ready to follow Moses into the desert, to serve the God of their Fathers there by a solemn act of sacrificial worship (Ex. 5:1-3; 4:31; 8:4). Even after the Exodus from Egypt not only did Jethro offer burnt offerings and slain offerings to God in the camp of the Israelites, and prepare a sacrificial meal in which the elders of Israel took part along with Moses and Aaron (Ex. 18:12), but young men offered burnt offerings and slain offerings by the command of Moses at the conclusion of the covenant (Ex. 24:5). Consequently sacrificial laws of these chapters presuppose the presentation of burnt offerings, meat-offerings, and slain offerings as a custom well known to the people over a long period of time and a necessity demanded by their religious feelings. Understand that sacrifices were not introduced among the Israelites for the first time by Moses by what he learned at Sinai, because animal sacrifices date from the earliest period of mankind. The ancients understood that "life (Soul) was in the blood" and that sacrifice was all about the Soul and its Spiritual condition before God.

Answer for yourself: Are you curious why we have not found one "sin offering" yet and we are up to Moses in our time-line? Why not "sin offering" yet? Has man been out of relationship with God since he had no "sin offering"? No, we see repeatedly "burnt offerings", "peace offerings", and "thanksgiving offerings" being offered since the beginning of the Bible whereby man maintains his relationship with God. All of this mind you without a "blood sacrifice" or "sin offering". That should make you think and only reiterates what I have taught you here. We seen repeatedly that "blood" accomplishes nothing in the Sacrificial System; rather it is only symbolic of a person's Soul and its true relationship with God.

The subject of sacrificial laws in the book of Leviticus was not to enforce sacrificial worship upon the Israelites, nor to apply some sort of a theory concerning the Hebrew sacrifices, but simply to organize and expand the already existing sacrificial worship of the Israelites they learned in Egypt into an institution in harmony with the covenant between the Lord and His Hebrew people, and in so doing adapt and promote the end for which it was established…communion and fellowship with God. You need to fully understand what was just said. Read it again please.

But although sacrifice in general reaches up to the earliest times of man's history, and is met with in every nation, it was NOT enjoined upon the human race by any positive commandment of God, but sprang out of a religious necessity for fellowship with God. These sacrifices assumed very different forms in different tribes and nations, in consequence of their estrangement from God, and their growing loss of all true knowledge of Him. Their ideas of the Divine Being were regulated by the nature, object, and significance of the sacrifices they offered, and they were quite as subservient to the worship of idols as to that of the one true God.

Interesting by its absence is any mention of SIN OFFERINGS, PRIESTHOOD, EXPIATION or FORGIVENESS in the PRE-Mosaic sacrifices of the Old Testament....in other words we cannot and do NOT find any mention of "sin offerings" or "priesthood" or "forgiveness offerings" or "expiation offerings" before the Golden Calf incident....more on that soon.

This is very important and you need to let this fact sink deeply into your Christian theology!

Mankind knew what we as Christian's don't today. God has always told man how he can become "acceptable to God" without blood sacrifices. Biblical Judaism has taught for more than 2,000 years that salvation or repentance from sin cannot be achieved through sacrifice on another's behalf because according to Deuteronomy 24:16: "The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers; every man shall be put to death for his own sin."

Instead of substitutionary atonement as taught in Roman Christianity the Hebrew Scriptures and their Egyptian counterparts have taught for several thousands of years that mankind should be focused during his life upon the requirements of personal repentance. According to Ezekiel 33:11 we see:

Say unto them: As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?

Again, according to Ezekiel 33:19 we see:

And when the wicked turneth (repenteth) from his wickedness, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.

We find the same testimony in the writings of the prophet Jeremiah in chapter 36:3:

It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the evil which I purpose to do unto them; that they may return (repent) every man from his evil way, and I may forgive their iniquity and their sin.

In addition, Judaism focuses on understanding how one may live a sacred life according to God's will in this world, rather than the hope of or methods for finding spiritual salvation in a future one. The Hebrew Scriptures teach that Israel, or the Jewish people, should view their divine obligation to be living as a "holy people" in full accordance with Divine will, as a "role model to the nations," and Judaism does not purport to offer the exclusive path to salvation or the "the one path to God." Accordingly, the implications of the Christian conception of Jesus and its imposed theological meaning to his death not only contradicts the very Hebrew texts themselves upon which Christianity is based but distorts terribly the dynamics of the Sacrificial System and its application to obtaining atonement of one' sin before God.

Man makes himself acceptable to God through faith, repentance, prayer, and acts of righteousness and charity. This being the truth of the whole of the Law, Prophets, and Writings of the Hebrew Scriptures, the same Scriptures that the Gospel of Matthew records that Jesus states that he came not to destroy , then we should begin to see why there are important reasons for the omission of "sin offerings" until 1,350 B.C.E. These "sin offerings" were not needed for "forgiveness of sin" nor for "atonement of one's sin" before God; their role according the Biblical Judaism, when correctly understood, were purely symbolic of the person's Soul and its right standing before God.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #3

We continue in this third article with our studies into Biblical atonement as well as any relationship it might have with the death of Jesus as depicted in the New Testament.

FORGIVENESS WAS NOT THE THEME OF SACRIFICES BEFORE MOSES AND THE GOLDEN CALF - RATHER SACRIFICES REPRESENTED THE SOUL'S FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

According to the Genesis account, before the Biblically depicted "fall of man" we find that mankind lived in blessed unity with God. This unity was destroyed by sin, and the fellowship between God and man was disturbed, thought not entirely abolished. In the punishment which God inflicted upon the sinners, He did not withdraw His mercy from men; and before driving them out of paradise, He gave them clothes to cover the nakedness of their shame, by which they had first of all become conscious of their sin. Even after the expulsion He still manifested Himself to them, so that they were able once more to draw near to Him and enter into fellowship with Him. This fellowship (NOT forgiveness) they sought through the medium of sacrifices, in which they gave a visible expression not only to their gratitude towards God for His blessing and His grace, but also to their supplication for the further continuance of His divine favor. It was in this sense that both Cain and Abel offered sacrifices [these were burnt offerings and NOT sin offerings…remember?], thought each not with the same motives or in the same state of heart and Soul toward God. It is important to remember that in reality the offering that is brought to God is symbolic of the Soul so in reality it is the Soul that brings itself as "the sacrifice". In this sense of fellowship and not forgiveness Noah also offered sacrifices [burnt offerings and NOT sin offerings…remember?].

After Noah's deliverance from the flood; something changed in the offering of sacrifices. Whereas the sons of Adam offered their sacrifices to God from the fruit of their labor, in the tilling of the ground and the keeping of sheep, Noah presented his burnt offering from animals like the clean cattle and birds that had been shut up with him in the ark (those animals would from that time forward would also be assigned to man as food…Gen. 9:3). Noah was probably led to make this selection by the command of God to take with him into the ark not one or more pairs, but 7 of every kind of clean beasts. Noah may have discerned in this an indication of the divine will, that the 7th animal of every description of clean beast and bird should be offered in sacrifice to the Lord, for His gracious protection from destruction by the flood. Also notice the distinction of "clean and unclean" foods long before the Sinai experience. Moses, in Leviticus revelation, also received a still further intimation as to the meaning of the animal sacrifices. We see this in a prohibition which God appended to the permission to make use of animals as well as green herbs for food: "flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat " (Gen. 9:4-5). This prohibition to not eat blood is because the flesh still contained the blood as the animal's Soul (remember we saw that the Soul and the "Divine Life of the Soul" actually lives in the blood of the animal according to Leviticus 17:11?). In this there was already an intimation, that in the bleeding sacrifice the Soul/life of the animal was given up to God with its blood. Therefore, the animal's blood served as the vehicle of the Soul. Thus animal sacrifice and the offering of blood became the most fitting means of representing the surrender of the human Soul to God. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT TO GRASP! You will quickly come to see over and over again that although we see the word "blood" used over and over again through our Bibles in reality the "blood" was only symbolic of the Soul and the "blood" actually accomplished nothing; rather it was a picture or image of the Soul of the person who brought the animal sacrifice to offer to God.

THE SOUL OF THE ANIMAL AS FOUND IN IT'S BLOOD REPRESENTED, WHEN PRESENTED ON THE ALTAR, THE SURRENDER OF THE HUMAN SOUL TO GOD

It is not the "blood" on which we should focus but rather the "Soul" which is in the "blood". But when all we have ever heard our whole lives from the pulpits of our churches is about the "blood" or "blood of Jesus" we are ill equipped to understand that that this "blood" is but a symbol of the Soul and this "blood" is but the passive part of the Sacrificial System which only testified to the Soul's standing before God. The Sacrificial System was an outward expression of an "internal condition" of the Soul of the person bringing the sacrifice. The Sacrificial System only demonstrated the Soul's surrender to God. When the "blood" was placed upon the altar in reality it is the "life in the blood" which was placed on the altar. Thus, this "life" or this "Soul of the offerer of the sacrifice" was placed on the altar in lieu of the animal's Soul since he had laid hands upon the sacrificial animal and this sacrificial animal had become his proxy. The "blood" of the animal containing its sinless Soul was to be a perfect representation of the current condition of the Soul of the sacrificer since it was given that the sacrificer had previously obeyed the Torah by turning from his sin, confessed his sin, prayed to God about his sin, and repented of his sin and done charitable and righteous deeds before bringing his "sin offering" to the place of sacrifice. The sacrificer, having done these necessary Spiritual requirements commanded in the Torah, then the Soul of the animal was a perfect representation of the Soul of the person bringing his sacrifice to the altar. The animal was literally the extension of the person bringing the sacrifice. Often the sacrificial animal had been taken from the family's stock and the sacrificer had invested his very life and energy into this animal over its life. Thus, the animal had invested in its very being the very "life" and energy of the sacrificer. The bond between this animal and the scarifier was there. So we see that when the blood of the animal was placed on the altar even more so it was if the very "life" and "Soul" of the sacrificier who had cared for, fed, and groomed this animal was placed on the altar instead.

God would not have a human being sacrifice his life and blood and place it upon the altar as a demonstration of "communion" and "fellowship" with God. Instead with Noah the animal became the symbol that God choose to express "fellowship" between God and mankind. Beginning with Noah, the animal, instead of the fruits of the ground, was to become the extension of a person's life and his Soul. The person bringing the animal had fed, groomed, and cared for the animal usually. It was part of his life and his life and his energy had been invested into the care of the animal. So when the "blood" of the animal was taken and offered upon the altar in reality it was the Soul of the animal that was offered, which again according to the Jewish understanding of the working of the Sacrificial System, "represented" the Soul of the person who had invested his life and energy upon the animal. Thus, we see ultimately it was the Soul of the person who brought the animal to the altar which was "symbolically" placed upon the altar in the blood of the animal. Understand the animal was innocent having never sinned. This "innocence" representative of the Soul of the animal was likewise to be pictured in the Spiritual condition of the Soul of the person bringing the sacrifice. The person bringing the sacrifice was ALREADY to have repented of his sin, confessed his sin, prayed to God about his sin, and made restitution to his fellowman in righteous and charitable deeds if needed BEFORE he ever brought the animal to the altar. Then when the would be sacrificer had done these Spiritual necessities PRIOR to bringing the animal to the altar, then the person's Soul was AT-THAT-MOMENT (atonement) in right standing with God and he was accepted in renewed communion with God. He was "one" with God. He had obtained atonement right then, long before the animal was ever brought to the altar. He had obtained right standing with God and acceptance long before the animal was ever taken from the flock. He was forgiven of his sin right then and his repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution had accomplished for him atonement PRIOR to the animal and its Soul in its blood was to be offered as his "representative". "At that moment" his Soul was again in right standing and relationship with God. In order to make such a declaration of forgiveness and right standing once again with God to his fellowman and to all, as well to God, then he would have to take an animal and it would be slain and its blood placed on the altar.In so doing, the animal was in its death a CORRECT PICTURE of the previous sinner; now being "dead to sin" and alive unto God this "blood/Soul" of the animal was a perfect image at that moment of the Spiritual state of the person {if he had previously before bringing the animal repented, confessed, prayed, made restitution if possible, given alms, etc.]. The animal's Soul (in the animal's blood) was on the altar which was but a symbol and image of the Soul/blood of the sacrificer who, in doing so, was making a testimony of his communion with God.

Besides this, if anyone wanted to eat meat, the animal's Soul had to be given back to God before the flesh could be consumed. So you see in the Sacrificial system there were two dynamics at work: atonement and the conditions necessary to eat meat which also contained the Divine image which had to be given by to God.

Now you know how the Sacrificial System worked in relationship to forgiveness of sin and obtaining atonement.

Answer for yourself: How are we to relate this to Jesus' death? Is it even possible according to the theology in the New Testament once knowing now the facts and truth of the Sacrificial System?

HOW IS JESUS'S DEATH TO BE RELATED TO ALL THIS?

What I just described in the previous study of the Sacrificial System is an aspect of it that we must deal with in relationship with the New Testament theology and teaching concerning the death of Jesus. It appears that, according to the workings of the Sacrifical System, the whole idea of "substitutionary atonement", has hidden meanings and udertones, that impact severely any belief in the death of a substitionary person for another. We must not get confused at what we learned so far in the above two articles; namely that the "scapegoat" carried only the "guilt" away from the sinner and not his "actual sins". Add to that the role of the "blood" being "passive" and it apprears so far that any idea that another person paying the sin debt of another is totally foreign to the Biblical Sacrifical System. This means so far that there is no way the death of a person, let alone even the New Testament Jesus, has anything to do with one's personal sin and his need for personal atonement with God. Just the contrary is what we found, God holds each sinner personally responsible for his "own sin" and has instructed him not only in the Torah but through learned teachers and Prophets of His Word as to how he is to obtain his own personal atonement and acceptance with God. Added to that is the fact that there is no trace of a single "sin offering" throughout the whole of the Hebrew Scriptures until the incident of the Golden Calf which is only 1,350 years prior to the time of the New Testament age.

Up to now you never these few knew concerning the Sacrificial System in relationship to obtaining forgiveness and atonement. But our study is just beginning. There is much more to learn about the Sacifical System and its possible application to the death of Jesus as we will see shortly. Once knowing these facts and Biblical Truth we will come to see over and over again that the meaning of Jesus' death as taught in the New Testament as being a final atoning sacrifice for the sins of the world seems very tenuous at best or outright incorrect.

Now our study continues. This symbolic representation of the Soul of the animal for the Soul of the sacrificer may possibly have been only dimly supposed by Noah and his sons; but it must have been clearly revealed to the patriarch Abraham when God demanded the sacrifice of his only son, with whom his whole heart was bound up. Notice in the Abraham account that as a proof of his obedience of faith, and after he had attested his faith in his readiness to offer this sacrifice, God supplied him with a ram to offer as a burnt-offering [burnt offerings and NOT sin offerings…remember?]. Again, we must not be confused here as many might become. The "blood" of the animal was in all respectes "symbolic" of the "blood or Soul" of the sacrificer. This we know without any dobut. So with Abraham and Isaac we are concerned only with a "burnt offering". A burnt offering is one that is consumed by fire, and regarded as ascending to God while being consumed. Part of every offering was burnt in the sacred fire, but this was wholly burnt, a "whole burnt offering." The burnt offering was the most frequent form of sacrifice, and apparently the only one mentioned in the book of Genesis. Such were the sacrifices offered by Abel (Gen. 4:3, 4, here called minhah; i.e., "a gift"), Noah (Gen. 8:20), Abraham (Gen. 22:2, 7, 8, 13), and by the Hebrews in Egypt (Ex. 10:25).

Answer for yourself: What was the purpose or intention accomplished in a "burnt offering"? These offerings signified the complete dedication of the offerers unto God.

Now this is critical. We have seen that at times the Jewish people were deprived of their Temple and no sacrifices could be brought. But we also saw when looking at the dynamics of the Sacrifical System that all of these Sacrifices were "symbolic" of the condtion of the Soul, they were but "physical representations" of "Spiritual realities and conditions within the heart and Soul" of the one bringing the sacrifice. So in the absence of the Temple when no burnt offering could be brought a person could let his life become a "burnt offering" before God. Paul states this principle for us in Rom. 12:1:

Rom 12:1-2 1 I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye (you personally) present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. 2 And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (KJV)

Here we see that the "transformation of your mind" accompanied by corresponding Spiritual actions and deeds in one's life commanded in the Torah can so transform a person that he and his life actually becomes a "living burnt offering" and a "living Sacrifice" before God. You many not know this but receiving these Spiritual Truths in these articles is a major step for you in this regard. When we are finished with this series in Biblical atonement you, the reader, will have seen for yourself that Rome so "radically reinterpred" the Biblical Sacrifical System and applied such untruths to the death of Jesus that in spite of what they say in their "one book" there is no way that his death, or the death of any other, has any bearing whatsoever upon the your sins or the sins of other people. Biblical Judaism, to whom was given this Sacrifical System and not Rome, knows better than any how the Sacrifical System acutally operated and has maintained there is no way the death of any, let alone Jesus, could atone for the sins of others. This truth has been maintained by Biblical Judaism now for over 2,000 years at the point of Roman swords and in droves they eagerly went to their deaths by the millions rather than accept such a lie about the Soul. This knowledge and Spiritual Truth will go along way in your life in helping you reevaluate the Divine Message of Biblical Judaism vs Roman theology and recovering the truth concerning the operation of the Sacrifical System will help restore to you the real way given by God for the path of the Soul in its efforts to obtain forgiveness and atonement for its sin through faith, repentance, prayer, charity and good deeds as the Torah has always maintained.

So we have so far learned that regardless of what we hear preached in our Churche sermons relating the sacrifice of Isaac and how it foreshadowed the sacrifice of Jesus that in reality it was a "burnt offering" and not a "sin offering". Again, because of error instead of truth beind taught from our pulpits I could no longer continue my Pastorate as my studies over the early years of my Pastorte began to open my eyes to the deception to which I had fallen since basically I only read for most of my life "one book", the Bible given me by Rome, a book that I was unqualified to interpret correctly since not being a Jew and not knowing the truth about Biblical Judaism. That will all change the first 5 years following Seminary. Using the skill I was given there I applied them daily to come to terms the many problems I saw concerning the "Jesus Story" while there.

Answer for yourself: So what does a "burnt offering" have in common with a "sin offering"? Other than they involved "fire" they are completely different and the Isaac story cannot truthfully be used to prefigure the death of Jesus. So now we move on.

We must not make the mistake of comparing apples with oranges here but we seem to always do it since we as Christians are terrible uneducated about the Hebrew Scriptures and the Divine Truths within them. Had we been Old Testament Christians first before we became New Testament Christians then we would never make such tragic theological blunders that we do when reading the New Testament. But not having this Old Testament knowledge we err greatly never knowing we are so far from Divine Truths that God intended that we learn that He must be crying over us now.

We often hear that Jesus is a type and shadow of the of prior Sacrificial System; a system that was replaced by the death of Jesus according to Rome and the writer of the Book of Hebrews. We hear that the Old Testament sin offering and sacrifices point forward to and are a type of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ (Heb. 9:10). We hear that that the scapegoat and purification rites of the Day of Atonement signify Christ's salvation wrought by suffering and death (Heb. 9:7-14). But all of this is not true to a person possessing the truth and knowledge necessary to understand the intricate dynamics of the operation of the Sacrificial System. If one only hears without understanding "blood this" and "blood that" in relationship to the New Testament texts, like the one below, he can easily be misled to a completely different understanding of the role of "blood" as operational in the Sacrificial System. And even worse he can be led to live a life where repentance and remorse of his sin is not important since he receives a "get out of jail free pass" or a "get out of hell free pass" with Rome's new "radical reinterpretation" of the Jewish Sacrificial System as well as Rome's reinterpretation of the Hebrew Scriptures and their tragic mispresentation in our New Testaments.

Heb 9:12 12 Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. (KJV)

On the surface this sounds so wonderful; that is until you find out for yourself that blood sacrifices never operated in this fashion nor obtained redemption. It again, as we saw earlier, the Spiritual condition of the Soul long before the sacrifice that determined such redemption. This above statement and passage from Hebrews 9:12, made in a disputed book later incorporated into the New Testament 500 years after the time allotted for the death of Jesus, stands directly contradicted by the facts concerning how the Sacrificial System actually operated and functioned as we have been instructed above. This passage from Hebrews and many others like it in our official Roman "edited and altered collection of reinterpreted and invented Hebrew Scriptures" (like the one above) are absolutely worthless once the reader is equipped with the the truth and facts necessary to correctly understand the Hebrew Scriptures and the operation of the Sacrifical System. Being so equipped then he is in a position to read the New Testament intelligently and spot the "Roman fiction about the Jesus Story" from the "Divine truths that yet remain within it". Such a passage and many others like them that postulate forgiveness and atonement was attached to the death of Jesus as a historical sacrifice and sin offering is not possible in the Biblical Sacrificial System of Israel as well as never taugtht in the "unaltered" and "unforged" Hebrew Scriptures in the Jewish Tankah. We have to look at our corrupted Old Testament translation to find such "theology" cleverly woven among the Propehts. But all one has to do is buy two more "Bibles", a Hebrew/English one as well as a Greek/English one and compare "line upon line" and "precept upon precept" for himself by comparing the Scriptures in the Hebrew Bible with the corresponding ones in the later Greek translation and the even later English Old Testaemnt translations found in our Roman Christian Bibles. If you do and use Bet Emet's articles as a "pathway" to Divine Truth then you will spot easily such glaring errors. That means dear one what we are reading in our current Christian Bibles, both Old Testament and New Testament is "often" simply not true when compare to the Jewish Bible, the Bible that Jesus would have used and recommended to all. The Hebrew Bible never says that the underpinnings of blood sacrifice, which happen to be remorse of one' sin, confession of one's sin, repentance from sin, prayers to God about one's sin, and one's subsequent acts of righteous deeds and acts of selfless charity and love toward others would ever be changed by the simple application of blood on the altar. Contained in the word "blood" which we read so often on the pages of our Bibles is our mistaken understanding about the Sacrificial System. To come to the truth needed about the Sacrifical System we have to understand even more about how it operated; this being necessary if we are to ever come to the truth about what lies behind the death of Jesus. Know this, that Rome spent 500 years eradicating this Jewish Biblical Truth and understanding of atonement from the minds of mankind and this void of truth concerning the dynamics of the Sacrifical System in Christiantiy continues today. We need to be "transformed by the renewing of our minds" from the erroneous Roman antisemtic theology of 1,800 years ago.

God revealed to Abraham with the proposed sacrifice of Isaac, his only son, that God did not require or accept human sacrifice from His worshipers, but rather the surrender of heart/Soul and the denial of the natural life, even thought it should amount to a submission to death itself.

Answer for yourself: The Hebrew Bible condemns human sacrifice. Many passages in the Hebrew Bible state that human sacrifice was a great abomination; these practices were associated with the worship of foreign gods, and were forbidden. Have you ever wondered or thought about why God would not allow or accept human sacrifice in the form of Isaac but was so readily predisposed to sacrifice supposedly His only begotten Son in Jesus? How can God's chastize so severely the many pagan nations that offered human sacrifices to false gods in the Hebrew Scriptures when yet He does not follow his own Words in this regard with Jesus? What does God not practice what He preaches? What happened to the God who changes not? Is this again fictional creation of Scripture at the hands of Roman theological creationists in order to create a Replacement Religion to supersede and replace Judaism as a world religion that had invaded even Ceasar's household? Is God schizophrenic?

The truth of the matter is that God never asked for nor required nor accepted human sacrifice. Rather, the act of surrender of the sacrificier's Soul to God was the intent of the whole of the Sacrifical System and this surrender of one's Soul was to be perfectly imaged in the animal's sacrifice; and only when presented with the Spiritual motivations of contrition, remorse, repentance, prayer, and righteous conduct and charity would the Sacrifice be a true representation of the current condition of the Soul of the sacrificer. Without this contrition, remorse, repentance, prayer, and righteous conduct and charity that was to occur prior to the sacrifice could the killing of the animal and the presentation of its blood and Soul on th altar be acceptable to God as a true representation of the Soul of the sacrificer. Now you know why God is upset in Isaiah, chapter one over the Sacrifices.

Answer for yourself: Can you guess why? Many were only concerned with the externalities of the sacrifice and paid little or any attention to contrition, remorse, repentance, prayer, and righteous conduct and charity. Thus the killing of the animals was meaningless and a gross misrepresenation of the Spiritual conditon of the Soul of the sacrificer. These deaths of these innocent animals was a tragic waste of life and God rebukes them for it; not the Sacrificial System per se but the one who misused it and lied to God and their fellowman about the condition of their Soul.

PURPOSE OF OFFERINGS

The word "korban" is commonly translated either "sacrifice" or "offering", but the truth is that the English language does not possess a word that accurately expresses the concept contained in the word. The word "sacrifice" implies that the person bringing it is required to deprive himself of something in order to satisfy someone else's need, but God finds no satisfaction in inflicting pain or deprivation upon His children. The word "offering" is closer to the mark but it too fails to convey the true meaning of a "korban". "Offering" implies that the Recipient of the gift must be appeased, that He requires a tribute that will somehow appease His wrath or make Him receptive to the entreaties of a supplicant, or that He has a need that can only be satisfied by someone other than Himself. As if God required our gifts! "If you have acted righteously, what will you have given Him! (Job 35:7); God does not become enriched by man's accomplishments.

The Hebrew word itself provides the answer. The root of the meaning is "to come near." Again the idea carries the concept of fellowship. The person bringing an offering does so in order to come closer to God, to elevate his level of Spirituality thereby approaching God in the Spirit.

Now remember the person brought the animal as a picture of himself in that through his repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution he was "coming near" to God and the sacrifice of the animal and the placing of the animal's Soul on the altar was a demonstration that he, the person bringing the sacrifice, had ALREADY "drawn near to God" and the Soul of the animals was a true picture of himself NOW since repenting previously before coming to the altar. The offering was a picture of that Spiritual fact and reality to all the world as well as for God to see Himself!

When Adam was deposited in the Garden of Eden, his first responsibility was to work it and guard it (Gen. 2:15). That means that Adam was commanded to plant, work, cultivate; everything that was necessary to keep the Garden as a Paradise. Before Adam's sin, man had no need to be a peasant; everything grew for him at God's command, with no need for him to exert himself in any way. It was only after his sin that he was expelled from Eden and required to earn his bread through the sweat of his brow.

Answer for yourself: How then was he to work and guard Eden?

The Rabbis teach us that Adam "worked" hrough the study of Torah and the performance of positive and negative commandments in the Word of God. His livelihood would come in return for his obedience to God's will. God will always respond to man's righteousness by blessing his material effort.

Adam's mission was to make himself an offering to God in his lifetime, by dedicating himself unreservedly to God. On God's Throne of Glory, there is an image of a man (Ez. 1:10). Every human being has his own image above, his ideal Spiritual self, which represents his goal and his potential. Man's Soul is placed in an earthly body so that he can surmount the challenges of material life and raise himself up to his personal, heavenly self; to unite his earthly self with his higher self. Just as everyone has a body and a Soul, and his mission is to triumph in the eternal struggle of body versus Soul, so, too, many must struggle to live up to the summons of his higher self.

Man is religious yet he sins and defies the Creator and His Word which he says he believe in. He is kind and generous, yet he is sometimes mean and stingy. He is moral, but has lapses in conduct. Whatever man is, he is often inconsistent, and if he is honest with himself, he knows that he is far from living up to his inner image. He wants his body to come closer to his Soul; on a yet higher level, he should also want his Soul to live up to its counterpart on high.

Similarly, there is a Temple in Heaven that corresponds to the Temple on earth. Egypt taught as the cornerstone of their faith and religion that "So Above, So Below". The masters of Kabbalah teach that the good deeds of the people of God accumulate to build a Spiritual replica of that heavenly Temple, and when there are enough such good deeds, the heavenly Temple will come down to the Temple Mount, signaling the end of the exile and the beginning of the perfect world foretold by the prophets. This is similar to the striving of the individual Soul. There is a higher ideal we must see to capture in our mundane lives. Possibly it is best expressed by the Psalmist: "the heavens are the Lord's, but the earth He has given to mankind" (Psm. 115:16). The Heavens are already Heavenly; God does not need man to improve upon them. But He has given us the Earth that we might make it Heavenly, as well. God gave mankind the Torah as instruction to bring Heaven to Earth through obedience of God's will as expressed in His living Word, the Torah. This is best expressed through acts of Loving Kindness (Gemilut Hasadim) and Repairing of the World (Tikkun Olam). Adam, himself, was the offering, and for him to devote anything less than his maximum to God would have been to steal his Divinely conferred potential and misappropriate it for himself. The sin of eating from the Tree of Knowledge was such a misappropriation because he would be flouting the will of God. The truest offering is when the owner brings "himself" to God, making himself and his desires subservient to the teachings and guidelines of the Torah. The symbolism of the offerings is based on this concept; the animal is only secondary.

REASONS FOR THE OFFERINGS

The function and purpose of the offerings are not concepts that man can grasp rationally. Especially in modern times when anything not measurable, observable, or replicable is questioned and denied, the idea of offerings is not an easy one to understand. It is necessary, therefore, to understand that offerings and sacrifices and their efficacy are manifestations of God's plan and wisdom. They are reality, even though we have never seen them and have no personal experience through which to know their potency.

We cannot understand why the slaughter of a sanctified animal, the placing of its blood and the burning of its flesh on the Altar; why these acts should bring God's Presence down to earth (accomplishe fellowship). Had the Jewish people been asked about the possibility of this happening before they had seen it, perhaps even they would have been skeptical. But they saw it happen! They saw the cloud of God's glory descend upon the Tent of Meeting. They saw a heavenly fire descend to their Altar and remain there for hundreds of years. They saw a Divine glow on Moses' face. To them, these were demonstrable, visible, tangible facts.

This is incomprehensible to our rational, scientific minds. But so was the splitting of the atom to rational minds a hundred years ago.

Various reasons for the offerings are given by classic commentators. The reason for the offerings is so profound that it is beyond human comprehension and the best efforts of the greatest of Jewish thinkers can yield only a drop in the ocean of God's intent. We must listen to this great wisdom if we are to come to terms with the death of Jesus as depicted in the New Testament.

OFFERINGS AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR MAN…BUT WE ALREADY SAID THAT

The offerings were seen to elevate three parts of every human deed: thought, speech, and action. When a person sins and then brings an offering, all three of those elements are used to take the sinful use to which he had previously put them, and transform it into the instrument of doing God's will. The person bringing the offering performs the commandment of leaning, by placing his hands on its head and leaning on it, thereby dedicating his strength and activity to God. He purifies his thought and intentions, by confessing his sin, pronouncing the Spiritual goal that he hopes to attain, or uttering praises to God. As a further way of purging his sinful thoughts, the innards of the animal; representing the human organs that are the seat of desire and through, are burned on God's Altar. In the case of an elevation-offering, which is completely burned, the animal's feet symbolize the hands and feet with which man ran and acted to defy his Creator. The animal's blood (containing its Soul), representing man's Soul, was placed on the Altar (notice it is the Soul that is placed upon the Altar; just not the blood).

Let's look at Leviticus 17:11 in context in order to make sure we understand the "central" idea of the passage.

> "And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn among you, who consumes any blood, I will set My face against that person who consumes blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life [this is the subject of the sentence] of the flesh is in the blood [this is the object of the preposition of the sentence], and I have given it [THE LIFE/SOUL] to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood [AGAIN THE "LIFE/SOUL" IS IN THE BLOOD REMEMBER?] that makes an atonement for the Soul. Therefore, I say to the children of Israel, `No one among you shall consume blood, nor shall any stranger who sojourns among you consume blood.'"

Answer for yourself: Did you know that "blood" was not the subject of the sentence? Did you notice what was? Did you understand before now that it was the "life" or "Soul" that was placed on the altar that accomplised atonement and not the blood?

In other words it is not the blood that atones, but the "Soul" [LIFE] that atones..a life that repents, is remorseful, prays, confesses sin, makes restitution, gives alms, etc....!!!

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that as a Christian your whole understanding of the Sacrificial System in the Bible is wrong because you have focused on "blood" for atonement instead of the "life" and the "Soul" in the blood which is the real atoning agent? Are you aware that as a Chrsitian your whole understanding of the supposed atoning death of Jesus on the cross is incorrect and is contradicted by the whole of the Hebrew Scriptures, Biblical Judaism, the dynamic workings of the Sacrifical System, and the testimony of the Jewish people and their Rabbis over the last 2,000 years? But, who listens to them, right? We should! Only in restoring the Hebrew Roots of the early Christian Faith can we uncover and reconize the antisemitic lies of Rome in our Bibles today.

BUT WHAT ABOUT ISAIAH 53....ISN'T IT ABOUT JESUS BEING OUR SACRIFICE?

Well have I got news for you. Isaiah chapter 53 in the Hebrew Scritpures is not about Jesus. I know that is hard for you to listen to let alone swallow for now but we will examine this in detail later. For now know that Isaiah chatper 53 is not about what you think nor does it actually say what you think it does in the "unaltered Hebrew". Again we can make any text say what we want if we want to change it and change it Rome did. The Hebrew Book of Isaiah, when compared with later Greek and English transations, is estimated to have at least 6,000 alterations. Again, what we are reading in our Christian Bibles is a very tragic purposeful mistranslation and misquotation and outright evil translation of the original Hebraic Book of Isaiah. The cover up by Rome is extensive and this was reitnerated to me over and over again during the first 7 years after Seminary where I became a detective intent upon recovering the truth about my Chrsitian Faith. This is why I spend so much time on the text. The Hebrew Bible of the first century which the Jewish people used and read did not read anything like our Christian Old Testament in hundreds of places. Isaiah is but one of many examples which have been later altered by Rome for "theological agendas". Let me preface what comes next. The writer of Isaiah, chatpers 40-66, uses both "singular" and "plural" pronouns interchangablly all the way through these 26 chapters in describing the corporate nation of Israel. Never does he refer to be a single person. Given this understanding now let us read what is below which is taken from the true Hebrew Massoretic text, called the Tanakh. Here is verse 10 of Isaiah 53:

Isa. 53:10 states " HaShem desired to oppress him and He afflicted him; if his Soul would acknowledge guilt..."

WOW!

That sure is different from what your Christian KJV Bible says:

Here is the KJV "translation" or should I say "free creationism" of Isaiah 53:10 as taken from the Jewish Bible and the Hebrew Scriptures:

10 Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his Soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand. (KJV)

Again, pronouns like "his" and "him" refer to the corporate nation of Israel. Understanding this then we see that it is the Souls of the people who become an "offering" for their own sin. We will see this in great detail when we get to Isaiah 53.

Simply said, this Christian translation has been "Jesusized" by having the word and concept of "guilt removed" from the verse, for in Christian "theology" Jesus can have no guilt if he is to be one's atonement and many try to make Jesus the subject of the passage and the singular pronoun used when the real uncorrupted Hebrew Scripture define the suffering servant as the corporate nation of Israel and not one individual

This is Earth-shattering to the very foundation of Christianity and its atonement dogmas. We have been fed a pack of lies by Rome over 1,800 years ago and few know it today because they never read or compare the Bible that Jesus would have used with the one they do! This has tragic implication not only for your Soul but the whole of the Chrisitian Faith as it now stands; a Replacement Religion without a true Covenant before God. Back to the subject at hand.

In one of the greatest passages in the Bible, we are told by Isaiah the prophet that if the "Soul" of the "suffering servant" would acknowledge guilt…confess sin, pray, repent...

Answer for yourself: If the passage is about Jesus, our supposed sacrifice, what kind of guilt does he have? What is his sin? Who atones for him?

Answer for yourself: What do you do when you acknowledge guilt?

You confess your sin, you pray, you repent and then your life becomes a living Sacrifice of obedience to the Torah which teaches the Soul of man how to live a life of good deeds and perform acts of righteous charity. Such is love, such is God. This is the subject of the verse. You literally turn around your "life". Your life changes direction; your mind is transformed as is your life from sin to righteousness. You no longer continue your sinister ways. Now you can see how such a life, after repentance and confession of sin, was understood, even as the Christian Bibles say: "Soul/life an offering for sin"! One's life, when turned to God and away from sin, was the atonement that Leviticus 17 speaks about. Jesus has nothing to do with this now would he; he says he came NOT to do away with the Law and this refers to the Law of the Sacrifice which make up 2/3 of the whole of the Old Testament! Think!

Answer for yourself: Could we have missed this Divine Truth and understanding when looking at the death of Jesus being previoulsy conditioned since childhood to think that "blood atones" when we now have learned that it actually does not and is only a "passive" agent in the Sacrifical System?

While this procedure (placing the animal's Soul on the alter in substitute for your Soul by placing the animal's blood on the altar instead of your blood) is being accomplished with one's offering, the sacrificer meditates upon his sin, for the offering service teaches him graphically that he has sinned against God with body and Soul. He contemplates that justice would have dictated that his human body would have been required by God to be burned on the altar as a penalty for his sin but instead God allowed the animal's body to suffice since the sacrificer was expected by God to have repented of his sin previously before bringing his animal to the altar. Instead, by proxy, and since the sacrificer had expressed remorse for his sin, repented, prayed and accomplished good deeds and acts of charity then his body was not required by God as a penalty for his sin. Now God desired his Soul and through the animals sacrifice then the animal's blood and his Soul could be placed on the altar in communion with God and in so doing represent to God the Soul of the person bringing his offering in repentance to God. Now the person's Soul (his life in his blood according to Lev. 17:11) would now be required and accepted by God through the symbolic represenation of the animal's blood being placed upon the altar. It is only God's graciousness that permits the animal to become the substitute for the repentant sinner. But since having previoulsy repented, previoulsy confessed his sin, previoulsy been broken over his sin, and previously having prayed and done acts of righteous deeds and loving kinkness his death and the destruction of his body on the altar before God is no longer requiried; now his Soul is welcomed on the altar with God and is placed there in proxy through the "blood/Soul" of the animal. This is how the Sacrifical System worked; this is the knowledge that all Christians needs to know in light of the later theology that developed around the death of Jesus as the atonement of the sins of the world. This knowldge and proper understanding of the Sacrifical System topples the Roman atonement dogma they created around Jesus.

Then, parts of the offering are given to the Kohanim (priests/teachers), so that those who dedicate their lives to study and teaching of the Torah are sustained through sacrifier and so that the people will pray for those who bring them the truths of God's Word. It is an act of supreme graciousness that God is prepared to accept an offering from us instead of punishing us directly for our misdeeds. This is why the offerings are described throughout Leviticus as a "satisfying aroma to God", because God is pleased when His children, His Souls, repent and seek to change their lives for the better and imitate God their Father! A son should be like his Father.

When one brings an offering with such noble thoughts he has truly made himself an offering and a "Living Sacrifice". But sin offerings do not have to be always bloody. The Sages of Israel have said of one who brings a humble "meal-offering", it is as if he had offered his own life upon the altar. This is the same thing that occurs with the blood sin offering. We will get to these deeper truths soon as our study advances. The person brining his meal-offering likewise raised his mundane desires and makes his Soul likewise worthy of being placed on the heavenly altar.

More to follow as we look deeper into the Sacrifical System. Shalom.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #4

WHAT PICTURES CAN WE NOW SEE MORE CLEARLY AS CONTAINED IN THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM OF ISRAEL?

Let us not forget what we just have learned. It was the Soul of the animal as found in it's blood, which when presented and placed on the altar in the Sacrificial System as a sacrifice to God which was at the same time a true picture of the Spiritual condition of the sacrificier's Soul which had previously repented, shown remorse over his sin, confessed his sin, prayed to God about his sin, and performed deeds of almsgiving and other righteous deeds which was only then accepted by God as an atonement for sin according to the Hebrew Scriptures and as attested to over for over 3,000 years of Jewish history. Such a procedure of repentance, remorse over sin, prayer, and subsequent righteous deeds as commanded in the Torah was the only way for atonement for sin. Such actions by the sinner was understood by God as the surrender of that person's Soul toward Him. When accomplished by the sinner then his Soul was accepted by God as an atonement for his own sin and then and only then could he rightfully make a declaration through the Sacrificial System that his Soul was in "right standing" with God and this was done my bringing the "blood/Soul" of the animal and placing it upon the altar as a substitutionary representation of the condition of the Soul of the sinner having obeyed the conditions in the Torah concerning obtaining atonement for the sin of his Soul. This is key to the Sacrificial System and the role of "blood" within it which escapes a traditional Christian when reading the Bible. Seeing the numerous times that "blood" is mentioned in both the Old and New Testament often leads us astray from the true function and role of "blood" in the Sacrificial System without the above understanding. Coupled with this is the life-time of hearing sermons in our Churches which totally misrepresents the role of "blood" in the Jewish Sacrificial System and one can see for himself how we come away from such instruction with a completely erroneous understanding and interpretation of the role of "blood"; especially as it relates to the death of Jesus which we are consistently told is the "only" atonement for our sin and our faith and trust in his death is our only way to Heaven. Funny, that the Jewish people and the Rabbis, to whom this Sacrificial System was given in the first place and operated by them for thousands of years, refuse to accept and believe such a teaching about their own Sacrificial System. It should appear to you that if anyone is qualified to both understand and teach about the Sacrificial System correctly then it is the Jewish People and their Rabbis and scholars and not Roman Catholic Monks which created this "Jesus theology" in the first place.

As we have seen it is not the "blood" but the "Soul" in the blood which demonstrates its surrender to God. Later when the blood of the animal is placed on the altar following the hands of the sacrificer being laid upon the animal brought to be sacrificed that actually it is the "blood" or the "Soul of the offerer of sacrifice" which is representatively placed on the altar in lieu of the animal which served only as a substitute for the person who brought the animal to the altar. The animal was literally the extension of the person life who was bringing the sacrifice. God would not have a human sacrifice his life and blood and place it upon the altar as a demonstration of “communion” and “fellowship” with God; God does not desire the death of His children. Instead the animal was the extension of the person’s life and in such a way the person's actual "life" and Soul was placed on the altar through the animal's blood. The person bringing the animal had fed, groomed, and cared for the animal usually most of the animal's life. Literally, the animal was part of his life and his life's energy had been invested into the care of the animal. So when the "Soul" of the animal was taken and offered upon the altar in the release and placing of the animal's blood on the altar, then the person by proxy was represented on the altar in communion with God, not the animal. Understand the animal was innocent having never sinned and it served as perfect picture of the present condition of the Soul of the sacrificer who had repented of his sin prior to coming to the Tabernacle or the Temple. This Sacrificial procedure was supposed to be a picture of the Spiritual position of the person bringing the sacrifice. The person bringing the sacrifice was ALREADY to have repented of his sin, confessed his sin, prayed, and made restitution to his fellowman if needed BEFORE he ever brought the animal to the altar. Then when he had done these spiritual necessities as commanded and taught in the Torah PRIOR to bringing the animal to the altar, then the person's Soul was AT-THAT-MOMENT (atonement) right with God. He stood before God, priesthood, and mankind forgiven and his prior repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution had accomplished for him atonement PRIOR to the animal being offered. "At that moment" his Soul was again in right standing and relationship with God and this mind you was long before he cut the animal from his flock and brought it to the altar for sacrifice. In order to make such a declaration to the the right standing and relationship of his life and Soul to the world and his fellowman, as well as to God, then he was required by the Law of Moses to take an animal and have it slain and its blood placed on the altar which as we have seen was to be true and honest expression of his Soul before God. In so doing, the animal blood and Soul was at that time an ACCURATE PICTURE of the Spiritual state of the person making the sacrifice. The animal's Soul (in his blood) was placed on the altar in communion with God and was AT-THAT-MOMENT a true picture of the sacrificer's Soul and its communion with God. Besides this, if anyone wanted to eat meat, the animal's Soul had to be given back to God before the flesh could be consumed. So you see in the Sacrificial system there were two dynamics at work: atonement and the conditions necessary to eat meat which also contained the Divine image which had to be given by to God.

When, when making sacrifice properly, the sacrificer knew that he had attained something special with God. Christian teaching today is completely devoid of this knowledge and I thank God over the years in my studies that He allowed me to find and recover this most needed part of instruction. This knowledge, when properly understood, will go a long way in helping the Christian separate error from truth as he hears taught in his churches.

UNION WITH GOD AND FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD WAS THE RESULT OF THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that whenever the Torah commands that offerings be brought that these commandments use only God's Four-letter Name (yod-hey-vah-hey); the "Tetragrammaton" (I AM)?

YHWH is the distinctive personal name of the God of Israel. Of all the names of God, the name of God, YHWH, is the one which occurs most frequently in the Hebrew Bible. This Tetragrammaton appears 6,823 times in the Hebrew Scriptures according to the Jewish Encyclopedia. If other names were used, some might err, thinking that there are many Gods or forces, one demanding this offering and another demanding some other offering. Such is not the case, only YHWH demanded sacrifices. Since the Name Elohim (the plural name for God meaning "gods") represents God as the One Who controls nature, that Name might be taken to imply that there is an angel or a power who has dominion over a particular land or aspect of existence, and that that power requires the offering. Such is not the case, the Godhead is not referred to as requiring these sacrifices but only YHWH. This is His Name as the God of Mercy. No one should think that God requires offerings to feed or appease Himself. The Eternal One has no needs that man can satisfy for everything is His and nothing is beyond His power!

Answer for yourself: What then is the purpose of the offerings?

There are in fact 5 different types of animal sacrifice that regularly took place in Israelite religion

- Olah (Burnt Offering) - General offering to entreat favor from Yahweh / cleansing.
- Minkhah (Grain Offering) - Sacrifice of thanksgiving. The "poor man's" sacrifice.
- Shelammim (Peace or Fellowship Offering) - Thanksgiving / to complete a vow.
- Khattat (Purification or Sin Offering)- Offered to Yahweh to cleanse the temple sanctuary of the people's accumulated sin.
- Asham (Reparation or Guilt Offering) - Restitution for stolen goods, restitution for tithes not paid.

Answer for yourself: What should this teach us?

Simply that it was not only animal sacrifice which was offered, but other crops and fowl were acceptable as sacrifices. Only needs to see Micah 6 for an example of how God does not glory in sacrifices but in the heart (Soul) of the believer. You should be seeing by now that these offerings provided man an opportunity to unite himself to God to whatever extent it is possible for mortal man to do so through repentance, confession, and restitution. This union with God was accomplished by these offerings which only pictured the condition of the Soul of the person bringing them. Only one of these "relationship" offerings was a sin offering. This should teach us that besides the sin offering that mankind was given other ways to approach and become acceptable to God.

Similarly, there is a humanly created fire below on the altar and there is the Heavenly fire from above, which God has placed upon Israel's altar. Both of these flames are fed by the offerings of the Jewish people, symbolizing the union of man's Spiritual aspirations with God's goals for him. Thus the offerings provide Israel a means for Spiritual elevation ["korban" or mankind drawing closer to God].

THE SACRIFICER HAD AN ACCURATE UNDERSTANDING OF HIMSELF BEFORE GOD....ACKNOWLEDGING "ONE'S OWN" NOTHINGNESS

All creatures emanate from God and have no independent existence on their own. Man has freedom of choice and his intellect puts great achievements within his reach, but all of this is possible only because God gives him the power to do so. Man could not function or even exist without God. The goal of creation is for man to acknowledge this basic fact; to recognize and proclaim that everything exists because of God and nothing can survive without Him. There are many ways for God's glory to be revealed and recognized. The highest recognition of all is for man to know The Oneness of God, meaning that there is nothing aside from Him. He achieves his ultimate greatness when he recognizes that "there is none beside Him" (Deut. 4:35). An offering is a demonstration of this concept. It says that its owner is surrendering his possessions to their Source (God). Theoretically, one might expect him to be ready to give even his very life in acknowledgment of God's sovereignty, but that is not God's will that man dies but that he lives. God wants man to live, to grow, to thrive, to serve; and God ordains the offerings as man's way to recognize His Oneness throughout man's life. Thus, by offering his possessions [as seen in the personal animal presented to God in sacrifice, which was usually owned by the person bringing the sacrifice], one symbolizes that he has no existence but for God's will.

UNITING BODY AND SOUL...BEING ONE WITH GOD

The efficacy of offerings in obtaining God's favor is comparable to the way food makes it possible for the Soul to maintain its attachment to the body. Material food cannot provide nourishment to the Soul, which is not a physical entity. It is physical nourishment of the body that enables the animal body to remain healthy enough to play host to the Soul. Likewise, the "food of the Altar's fire" somehow effects the process that enables the Shechinah to remain among the people of God and Israel in the Hebrew Scriptures which was a necessity for them being the "light unto the world".

The food of the Soul is not measured in calories, vitamins, and minerals. Only intellectual and Spiritual pursuits can nourish the Soul. Torah study, prayer, even meals in celebration of such events as Sabbath and the Biblical Feasts and Festivals all have a sacred content that is capable of nourishing the Soul. Only in this sense do the Sacrificial offerings constitute food for God. Man's dedication to God and His commandments provides the nourishment that enables the Shechinah to attach itself to human beings and their handiwork. We think of food in terms of nutritive value, but that is not what sustains life. Man does not live merely because of the bread (material component). He lives through the bread's Spiritual component; what emanates from the mouth of God. This is what holds together body and Soul and what holds together Godliness and Israel through the agency of the offerings, again but a picture of their Souls. This is why the animal had to be presented and offered to God in a Spiritual way when it was killed and not slaughtered behind a person's house. This is why the animal had to be presented first to God and later given to the Priesthood before the sacrificer could take parts of the meat home to his family. Something Spiritual occurred here which we lack understanding as Christians. This personation of the animal to God first before man could eat the meat was God's way of imparting Spiritual nutrition to our Souls; a process which we miss totally today when buying our meats at the deli or the supermarket as it exists today. We have lost a lot.

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

Having now come to the understanding that it was a life lived above sin that was so pleasing to God that He accepted such a life as an offering and atonement for one's sin, it should behoove you to begin to rethink what you believe about atonement as a Christian. If you were to do some comparative religious study you will see the preponderance of evidence of how foreign Roman concepts of salvation are woven into Pauline theology throughout your New Testament. Without the truth of the Hebrew Scriptures and the Sacrificial System and accompanying personal knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures as compared to their later changes in the Greek and later English versions of your Bible you will never notice these by yourself. Serious study is required to open your Soul and Mind to these alterations of the Scriptures in our Bibles and their reflective altered religious dogmas. I have only now begun to show you the truth behind the Biblical teachings of atonement and have not mentioned once the Romanized Paul's theology which we often find in the New Testament. The reason I have not is that nowhere in the Jewish Masoretic Palestinian text are such Pauline concepts of atonement found. Only when you read the fraudulent and mistranslated Greek Scriptures, which the Rabbis did not translate beyond the first 5 books of the Old Testament, do you begin to find such falsified ideas of atonement surfacing in the text http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com.

But hear now that such concepts concerning atonement as well as many other altered religious dogmas as they exist in our Christian Bibles today cannot be found anywhere in the Hebrew and Jewish Scriptures before they were later "mistranslated on purpose" in the production of Greek, Latin, and later English translations. Somebody "fixed" the Greek translation to read differently and others after them did the same to the Latin and Greek versions. And sadly for you, these altered and paganized Greek, Latin, and English mistranslations became the foundation for your Christian Old Testament. To make matters worse, your New Testament quotes from the fraudulent Old Testament in hundreds of "key" theological places (http://www.faithofyeshua.faithweb.com). Unknowingly for you, over and over as you read your Christian Bible you only reinforce and rehearse error and Spiritual untruths! You need to know this in order to begin to verify what I say to yourself for only through your personal study will you see these things for yourself as I and so many others have.

Answer for yourself: What happened to the Divine Truths handed down since the beginning of time, as far back as ancient Egypt and which were later entrusted to the Israel and the Jewish people by Moses and others between the 2nd through the 5th century when they fell into the hands of Rome? What happened to these Sacred Scriptures and texts at the hands of Rome? Who changed these Eternal Divine Truths about the Soul and gave the world a replacement religion completely devoid of its Egyptian, Hebrew and Jewish roots? Who knows this history and sad tale? Who knows of this tragic purposeful misrepresentation of the Hebrew Faith and Scriptures as they now stand so badly corrupted in our Greek and English Bibles? Who is to blame and what can we do about it? Well, for starters we can learn the "truth" before is was changed by Rome. That is a great place to start and then it is simple from there to make your own "A" and "B" comparisons of what the Scriptures once said and how they were altered later by Rome. Then you can see this for yourself and how the dogmas that come from them were altered almost beyond recognition as we received them in our Bibles today.

The Jews have always known what I am sharing with you in this article; it is Rome who did want to receive a religion that focuses upon the Soul, military might and world domination was they plan. Through their invincible army, fear, and ignorance they accomplished their goal and left 18 million bodies in their wake. It is time someone told you the truth! The righteous Jews know of this alteration in Biblical atonement as it stands in the Greek and later Christian Bibles and have known this since 200 B.C. when the Greek translation was understood by them to be a tragic corruption of the Hebrew Scriptures and its message. History records 3 attempts of the Jews to correct such a forged Greek translation but sadly their efforts were not enough to overtake and thwart the popularity of the already translated LXX (Septuagint) as it had spread into the non-Jewish speaking world. It was all downhill from there.

Back to our point, regardless of what the later Greek and English mistranslations of them say as well as their tragic quotations in the New Testament as surrounding the death and supposed atonement of this Jesus, understand right now that as taught the animal's Soul represented the Soul of one making the sacrifice, and we, as non-Jews, today are beneficiaries of this Divine Truth only if we know of it. But in this lesson we must no longer overlook the importance of a life lived above sin which procures one's redemption and not the inert and passive blood of the animal or even the "passive" blood of a supposed Jesus who shed his blood. The "blood" in Sacrifices "never atoned" for anything! Lives lived honoring God through faith, repentance and obedience atoned for sin and always will. Your Covenant requires it! Such is the message of Bet Emet Ministries as we are called to live like Jesus, the example for all, and not just "believe in Jesus" or "believe the created theology around his person" which was later created by Rome. It has been my experience as a Pastor over the years to encounter multitudes of Christians who trust in Christ's blood instead of understanding the importance of the example of this life shared with us in the New Testament. In our "Jesus Story", we find the life of Jesus, a true symbol of the perfected Soul, exampled for us as how our Soul is to live in obedience to God. Our "Jesus Story" is the "pattern" for all Souls. If we choose to be a "follower" of this "way" then we are told certainly by both the Hebrew Scriptures let alone the New Testament that all will be well with our Soul, that our Soul will be our atonement for any sin. Our Soul will be our OWN atonement. We must walk out our salvation with fear and trembling, but we are as well are co-laborers with God in our own salvation through faith, repentance, and obedience. Such a mistaken understanding of our redemption as depicted in the typical Roman "Jesus Story" has robbed us of the truth about true Biblical atonement. We fall into this deception since we were never taught the truth about the Sacrificial System and atonement from a Hebraic perspective. This has caused multitudes of Christians to focus upon the "blood of Jesus" as a way to escape the penalty of our sin instead of focusing of the miraculousness of a life lived above sin!

Answer for yourself: Which of the two above scenarios reflects your love for God, getting out of "hell" free or "living a life reflective of your true Being, a child of God that images his Father"? If God so loves us does it not stand to reason that he desires we love him in return and obey him or just "escape Him"?

Such a false sense of security in "blood" instead of "lives lived holy before God and mankind" unconsciously robs us of the Divine Truth of the Hebrew Scriptures and causes the believer to not regard sin with revulsion, loathing, and repulsion as he should. We tend to view sin as less harmful than it is, and compromise with sin lies at the door.

The bottom line for all Christians to understand is that we have heard way too much preached about Jesus and Roman "replacement theology" attached to this example and far too little time has been devoted to serious study from the texts of the Hebrew Scriptures which tell us exactly and accurately who "the Christ/Messiah" of Judaism really is and as well his true message and mission to the world. If we had studied the original sources available to us, we would not be so mixed up Roman theology in Christianity today which boasts over 2000 different denominations all maintaining they have the truth about Jesus while at the same time producing the fruth that has made America the most violent and crime ridden nation in the world.

SOMETHING IS WRONG WITH THE MESSAGE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…LOOK AT THE FRUIT OF THIS MESSAGE IN OUR COUNTRY WITH A CHURCH ON EVERY CORNER AND TELEVISIONS FILLED WITH THE CHRISTIAN MESSAGE OF GRACE WITHOUT ACCOUNTABILITY FOR ONE'S OWN SIN! JUST LOOK OUT YOUR DOOR AND ASK IF THAT IS THE BEST THE HOLY SPIRIT CAN DO????????

I don't plan to get into why the Christian message at this time is wrong in so many areas but suffice to say that the Christian message is corrupted today to Rome's efforts to replace a Hebrew centric Faith with one of its own making. We see this repeatedly over and over again in comparison of the texts in "key" theological places in our Old and New Testaments. We will example these in detail when we get there in our studies so please be patient. There is only so much we can tackle competently at a time. Let it suffice to say as shown beyond question on many of our other sites that we are in this sad state today because instead of being a true follower of Jesus, his example and message that emanated from within the Jewish faith we are camped at the feet of pagan Rome and the Romanized Paul's antinomianism (anti-Law bias). May God forgive our laziness of letting others tell us what to believe instead of us studying to show ourselves approved unto God. I just showed you part of the problem and this is your beginning of deliverance from a Replacement Religion. Implicitly we are led to not revere the Laws and Commandments of God because of the solar teaching that "Jesus died for me" and my "get out of hell free card" saves me. This comes straight out of Rome's literalized Sun worship as you have seen on this site and others. As a Pastor for 8 years I saw such falsehoods and false securities because of "Jesus blood" lived out in the lives of the congregation year after year; the shocking details I cannot share. But when you teach such a pernicious dogma to 2.5 billion people, the there is no personal accountability for sin or that the incarnational purpose is not to evolve into the "fullness and stature of Christ" then mankind loses sight of his Spiritual purpose on this planet and his conduct deteriorates into all different types of debauchery, even in the church where there is no sin too shameful to be names among the parishoners.

When and where there is no Law, no Commandments, no requirements, no accountability, no personal responsibility for one's sin, and no repentance, and only a "false teaching on trusting the blood of Jesus", "blood" again which we have learned has nothing to do with atonement in the first place and was only served a "passive role" in the Sacrificial System, then there is no righteous fruit and we have our newspapers and televisions filled with horror story after horror story and criminal actions done by our predominantly Christian nation. In America, the crime clock continues to click: one murder every 22 minutes, one rape every 5 minutes, one robbery every 49 seconds, and one burglary every 10 seconds. And the cost of crime continues to mount: $78 billion for the criminal justice system, $64 billion for private protection, $202 billion in loss of life and work, $120 billion in crimes against business, $60 billion in stolen goods and fraud, $40 billion from drug abuse, and $110 billion from drunk driving. When you add up all the costs, crime costs Americans a stunning $675 billion each year. And sadly too few can count on their lives being a sufficient atonement for their sin because they have been taught a pagan "literalized and historized" Sun-godman story which Judaism and every nation that has graced this planet before denies, and in doing so we have laid for us the foundation for a religion that allows its followers to get away with anything. Emotionalism is a sorry substitute for Divine Truth and true knowledge.

Answer for yourself: For after all, if I am saved by the blood of Jesus, what need do I have to live like Jesus in the first place and obey the commandments of God? How much of this "get out of hell free" theology has caused us to not strive for our Soul's perfection?

Answer for yourself: If saved by the blood of another, what does a little sin mean…what can it hurt? How large should I draw the "gray area" of my life?

Answer for yourself: Are you beginning to see the effects from the tragic erroneous theology concerning atonement as taught by Christianity and related thinking involved in focusing upon the blood of Jesus instead of the life of Jesus lived above sin as my example? Now look out your window to the world and see what the fruit of 1700 years of erroneous teaching has grown! America has 12% of the world's population and over 25% of the world's incarcerated behind bars. Think on that as ask your Pastor is this "get out of hell free" theology and if he thinks it works. Ask him if this was God's best idea or maybe if the Jewish people were right all along. You can lay this blame on the mess we have in America and large part of the world at the feet of Christianity and their adulterated Bible in which Rome changed the salvation message of God for His Souls incarnated on Earth. We have much to yet learn so hang on.

THINK!

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #5

LOOKING AT PAUL'S THEOLOGY….WHAT IS TRUTH?

We must not forget what we just learned in prior articles concerning the Sacrificial System. As the reader and "truth-seeker" you must understand that what you learned in these earlier articles is the "theology of sacrifice" that accurately represents the dynamics of the Jewish Sacrificial System and any "sacrifice" must fit this mode of understanding, whether it be of an animal or a supposed sacrifice of the New Testament Jesus. This means when viewing the death of Jesus one must be equipped with this accurate understanding of how the Sacrificial System worked before trying to evaluate any meanings that might be attached to the death of Jesus. But this is often not enough information to make a difference in the religious belief system of a Christian owing to the fact of a life-long indoctrination that the New Testament Jesus is the only sacrifice for sin that God accepts and rejecting it means sure damnation according to the New Testament given us by Rome. Enlightening is the fact that this current New Testament which we have today is not truly the First New Testament, because history and facts reveal that Rome will take the First New Testament of Marcion in 150 A.D. and "edit, alter, and mutate" it almost beyond belief and come out with their "Second Edition" in 180 A.D. with Irenaeus.

Answer for yourself: Many changes were incorporated when this was done needless to say. Are you aware of one of the biggest changes that we find in this Roman Second Edition of the First Gnostic New Testament?

We now find in this Roman Second Edition of the prior Gnostic New Testament the "sacrificial death of a literal and historical Jesus" for the sins of the world when in fact it was TOTALLY absent from the First Gnostic New Testament which provided them the outlive for their creative and inventive theology. Even more alarming is the fact that the whole of the First Gnostic New Testament NEVER taught, as NEITHER did the ancients as far back as ancient Egypt, that the Krst/Karest/Christ was a "historical or literal" person. Inherent in all of these ancient Sacred Wisdoms of these aged nations prior to Rome in the 2nd century was the FACT that "the Krst/Karest/Christ" was always understood as a Divine Living Spirit-Entity which "fell along with the Soul" into material and animal existence. This "incarnation of the Krst/Karest/Christ" into mankind was likened to "death" by the ancient. In fact we have tons of examples where this "incarnation of Christ within humanity" is described as the "death of Krst/Karest/Christ" or as the "death of this Heavenly Divine Mind" which "fell" into material existence in order to "seek and save the Soul" which also "fell" into "matter" and "material existence". This Spiritual Concept of the "death of Krst" for thousands and thousands of years were NEVER never literal UNLESS it was understood to have happened to every human being ever born. This "death of Krst/Karest/Christ" was NEVER limited to but one but one person to the exclusion of others. This alteration by Rome of the Divine Sacred Wisdom is the most deceptive alteration of the Divine Truth imaginable to the minds of mankind. In so doing Rome "radically misrepresented" the Jewish Sacrificial System and applied such tragic alterations of Divine Truth to their invented literal "Jesus Story". I challenge any reader to do your own studies and verify what I have told you; if you take this challenge your pilgrimage and restoration of the the Divine Sacred Wisdom destroyed by Rome will begin and you can be recipient today of such Divine Truths that lay under the ashes of the ancient libraries which Rome burned to cover up their deception and subterfuge of humanity 1,800 years ago.

When one's study advances to the point of seeing personally for himself that the study of comparative religions reveals a host of identical "Jesus stories" from ancient Egypt, Mesopotamia, Assyria, Persia, China, India, South America, as well as many nations I did not mention. You will see most of these "ancient Jesus Stories" have their god and goddess experience identical deaths on "crosses" and likewise die for 3 days and then resurrect. Seeing this for yourself then one begins to seriously question the efficacy of Jesus' death as defined and interpreted for them in the Roman New Testament, especially in light of the fact that the only function of the indwelling Christ was to enlighten the Soul of mankind whereby his Soul would rise above the instincts of his host animal body and nature and in so doing live a life honoring God and thus becoming an atonement for his prior sins before he "awakened from the dead" or was "resurrected from the dead"; this "death" being the darkened Spiritual condition imposed upon the Soul since being engulfed by the animal body and nature in its incarnation.

Notice if you will Paul is speaking and writing to people who are currently alive. He, being a Gnostic, understood this Metaphysical Spiritual Concept that Rome will later change by moving the "resurrection from the dead" from an experience during one's life to after the biological death of the body. Originally it mean a Spiritual Awakening as to your true identity as a Soul as a Divine Entity yourself. That being the case Paul says:

Eph 5:14-15 14 Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. 15 See then that ye walk (live your incarnational lives) circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, (KJV)

As you can see the true Paul and not the one of Rome's creation believed that when born we were "born dead" to Spiritual realities needed a "second birth"; a birth that awakened us from the slumber imposed upon the Sol by the flesh. The incarnation of the Krst/Karest/Christ, who also "fell" into "matter", was also termed a "death" and the awakening of the Christ-Consciousness of the Soul was the true "resurrection from the dead"; a Divine Concept which can be traced unchanged from the foundation of history and will remain unchanged until the rise of Roman Orthodoxy during the 2nd through the 5th century. When one discovers books like Bible Myths And Their Parallels In Other Religions by T.W. Doane and The Christ Conspiracy: The Greatest Story Ever Sold by Acharya S, and many others, then he begins to see previously unknown facts of history, Gnosticism, comparative religions, archeology, and textual alterations that throws a whole new light upon the "Jesus Story" along with its Roman imposed interpretation which he has been taught his whole life. This knowledge concerning the term "dying and rising" gods that are the precursor of our later "Jesus Story" produces undeniable facts and evidence for the "thinking believer" whereby he can begin to see the death of Jesus as depicted in the New Testament as being not "new" at all but only a repetition of an ancient story told since the beginning of time. He sees that the "only difference" between the his "Jesus Story" and the multiple stories of "dying and rising gods" is that unlike before since 10,000 years B.C.E. when all of these similar stories, from beginning end were only "allegorical and symbolic" of the death of the Soul and Divine Mind of God as they "fell" into incarnational existence the later Roman interpretation of the "death of the Krst", called by them the "death of Jesus", was make "historical and literal" by Rome and in so doing they altered the Divine Wisdom of the ancients and made Rome in the process the sole distribution center for mankind's salvation for the entire hole world. Any who did not accept and fully believe the Roman theology concerning the "Jesus Story" and accept his "atoning death on a wooden cross for their sins" was damned. Their further alteration of the ancient Sacred Scriptures of the Jewish people sealed their deception to all but those who has the most discerning eyes and prior knowledge of the accurate working of the Sacrificial System. This explains why of all nations in the world who came under Roman military domination that only the Jewish people and their Rabbis and scholars refused to accept the easy "believeism" of the Roman Road of salvation and eagerly went to their deaths instead of believing lies about their Souls before a listening God.

If one comes to the knowledge of these events described above only then can he be guaranteed that he will be able to discern the true meaning of the depiction of the death of Jesus as described in the New Testament or at least see if concepts from the ancient "mystery religions" have been attached and radically reinterpreted as applied to the death of this Jesus. Now this is important to grasp. If the "Jesus Story" has been faithfully represented as had been all prior "Jesus Stories" down through recorded history then we would not have a problem with the New Testament; but it was not. Rome cleverly altered this ancient Divine Story of the "fall of the Soul and the Krst" in such a way as to destroy its true Metaphysical meaning and in its place gave the world a false "historical and literal" account of a supposed human sacrifice to which they attached the whole salvation of the world to their imposed inaccurate meaning of it. This is especially important when reading the Romanized Paul's writings which are mixed in with the true Gnostic Paul's writings in this same New Testament.

With what we have just learned as a background let us return to Paul's statement that "Christ died for our sins" which is the fundamental fact of the early Gentile Roman Christian message, the corner-stone of early Gentile Christianity (but not Jewish Christianity or Messianism). But as soon as this simple fact is stated, that "Christ died for our sins", a number of vital questions are bound to arise. In order that we may have an intelligent and correct understanding of this important doctrine and corner-stone of the Christian message it is necessary that we know precisely what occurred and did not occur when Jesus died on the cross. We cannot rest content with teaching that leaves the central doctrine of the Christian faith shrouded in mystery and uncertainty. This does not mean that all mystery can be removed. But the Scriptures do supply the interpretation of the death of Christ that the inquiring mind legitimately asks for, and the noticeable factors concerning it should be known by all Christian people. Believing that the Hebrew Scriptures (the true Palestinian Masoretic Text and not the corrupted LXX and Greek interpretation of them sadly from which all of our Christian Old Testaments originate) is God's word to man. This fact is stated undeniably by me and other, as well as the Jewish people because they know the hundred of purposeful mistranslations made to them in the Greek translation. The link below will educate the reader concerning these "key" theological changes. This is important for it is here we find the first traces of the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt and their incorporation of their "godman", their "literalized Osiris theology", into the Greek translation of the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures. This lays the foundation for Rome to come later and build upon this Essene foundation and further desecrate the allegorical truth of the "Christ within" as taught by the ancient Divine Wisdom. This altered Greek translation, or should I say purposeful mistranslation, becomes the fertile ground for all later statements of the Roman New Testament Scriptures regarding the atoning death of Jesus (see these purposefully mistranslated texts at http://historyofformationofnewtestament.netfirms.com. Armed with this information about the deceptively mistranslated texts in the Greek and English Old Testaments which corrupted the Divine Truths in the Hebrew Scriptures, texts which were slanted to provide an atoning Messiah to the Essenes we see the origin of this idea blossom later with subsequent Roman theological invention in the New Testament. A great source of this information about the Essenes of Alexandria, Egypt, incorporating a "literalized Osiris Theology" to the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures can be found in the great books of Martin Larson on the Essenes such as The Essene-Christian Faith, The Story of Christian Origins, The Religion of the Occident, The Essene Heritage, etc. It is within these book that I first uncovered the corruption of the Greek translation of the the Hebrew Scriptures other than the first 5 books of the Torah which were translated by personally by the Rabbis of Jerusalem when they traveled to Egypt. The rest of the Hebrew Scriptures fell into the hands of the Essenes of Egypt who tragically altered the Hebrew concept of the Messiah in the Prophets and Writings and created an "angel-Messiah" or "literal God-man" whom Rome later elaborated fully upon in their New Testament and "Jesus Theology". If you think I am not telling the truth of the matter I challenge you to obtain and read these books for yourself and begin a serious investigation of the alterations of the Hebrew Scriptures; compare them line upon line with the later Greek mistranslation and the later New Testament corruptions as well. You will come to see that there is false theology attached to this Jesus built around a utterly unbelievable misrepresentation of the Jewish Sacrificial System. In do so you will know for certain why the Jewish people and the Rabbis of Israel refused to accept or use the Septuagint and the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures let alone later the "Jesus Story" and his atonement for their sins; it would be the Jews outside of Israel who would fall prey like us to this adulterated Greek Old Testament just like we have which becomes in time the foundation for the later "literal-historical Jesus Story" of Rome's creation.

If we truly desire the truth concerning the death of Jesus, then we must deal with some rather difficult information at times. It is not my wish to destroy anyone's faith, only to expose the changes made to the Hebrew Scriptures and texts as well as the lies that have been passed down about the death of Jesus which the original followers of the "Jewish Christ/Messiah" never "believed". We hold it to be our task and privilege under the promised guidance of the Holy Spirit to "search the Scriptures", the Jewish Scriptures that the Jewish people accepted, until we reach that understanding which satisfies the mind and heart and conscience, and leads to certainty and finality of Divine Truth.

According to the New Testament, especially the writings of the Romanized Paul, we are told, for instance, in broad terms that we are members of a fallen race, that God has given His only-begotten Son for our atonement, and that salvation is through Him (Messiah) and not through any faith, repentance, obedience, and righteous deeds and works which we ourselves are able to accomplish as atonement for our Sins as the Jews have maintained now for 2,000 years.

Answer for yourself: How correct is this Pauline theology when compared with the teachings of the Hebrew Scriptures concerning atonement and forgiveness?

Let us not forget what we just learned in the prior articles.

Certainly anyone who accepts these facts of the Sacrificial System and acts upon them will be "saved" because the fruit of such a Divine Message leads to Godliness. Yet, accepting these facts and acting upon them would appear to represent only a minimum of faith, and God has made it possible for us greatly to enrich and expand our knowledge of the way of salvation if we will but give careful attention to His word. But the problem is great; you first have to know that these original Divine Truths have been altered and that your Old and New Testaments are corrupted in special "theological" places. For example, the Isaiah translations in the Old Testament of your Christian Bible read completely different in many "messianic" passages as opposed to the Hebrew and Jewish Tanakh. You should ask yourself "why" your Christian Old Testament reads so much different from the Hebrew and Jewish Scriptures from which it was supposedly taken! You should demand an answer to this tragic loss of Divine Truth once you see it. Following a religious lie most our your lives surely does not set well with you or God. Most likely you never knew this. It is time to awaken to such sad facts as the Gnostic Paul declares, for it is these alterations of Divine Truth that we have been led to follow false beliefs concerning Jesus, his life, and the death of "the Krst/Karest/Christ".

ANOTHER LOOK AT LEVITICUS 17:11 …POSSIBLY THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU CAN EVER LEARN

Christians generally insist that the absolute need for a vicarious blood sacrifice is rooted in the Torah (first five books of the Old Testament), and cite as proof Leviticus 17:11 "For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes an atonement for the soul." The sad fact of the matter is that most Christians and Pastors don't understand the verse at all. The Jewish people and their Rabbis teach us the truth of the matter from their own Scriptures and we never listen.

As a Christian, you have probably heard many sermons on the topic of atonement, and have undoubtedly read many studies which support the contention that there is "no atonement without blood." But the truth of the matter is that neither the Book of Hebrews [it says "almost all things"..not "all things"] or the Old Testament maintains that there is "no atonement without blood" as the Book of Hebrews maintains. It would help if we would read our texts correctly in the first place let alone teach from pulpits of our Churches fallacies. Note the verse carefully:

Heb 9:22 22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood (the blood again being a symbol for the repentant Soul); and without shedding of blood is no remission. (KJV)

In fact act the Hebrew Scriptures teach just the opposite! Notice the first clause of the passage in Hebrews chapter 9 is correct but the second clause is an outright untruth and misrepresentation of the Hebrew Scriptures as we shall see. In other words it is a lie according to the reading of the Hebrew Scriptures. Of course you are most likely aware that this teaching of Jesus' death as atonement for sin is not shared by traditional Jews and their Rabbis for the last 2,000 years. They have a great reason for not accepting such a teaching in the New Testament. The reason for the rejection of Jesus' atonement by the Jewish people and their Rabbis for 2,000 years is not because Irenaeus will write Romans chapter 11 and in so mischaracterized the Jewish nation as being "blinded" to Divine Truth. Here is what all of a sudden appears after 180 A.D. by the pens of Roman Orthodoxy:

Rom 11:7 7 What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were blinded (KJV)

Rom 11:25 25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in. (KJV)

Irenaeus gives the world the "Second New Testament" after 180 A.D. that is filled with "replacement theology" and which labels the Jews "blinded" to the reality of human sacrifice for their atonement in the death of this Jesus. This is absurd once you see how the New Testament was penned in pieces over hundreds and hundreds of years. To believe the Gnostic Paul was the writer of this verse which is not in the earliest Romans in New Testament of Marcion in 150 A.D., a strong advocate of Paul and who would have included everything that Paul had written, tells the true story of the matter. These "verses" did not exist and were never penned by the true Paul. The absence of these verses in the First New Testament, let alone the whole of Romans 9-11, is startling to our senses when it hits home. We are fed a lie. The absence of but these two verses speaks volume to our Soul and should "awaken" us to the reality to which we have fallen. But Irenaeus, by labeling the Jewish people and their esteemed Rabbis as "blinded" to Spiritual Truths has made people look to Rome instead of Jerusalem for their Divine Truths. Sad it is that Rome has few if any! It is the Jewish people and their Rabbis mind you that know intently what the Eternal Word of God and the Hebrew Scriptures teach. This fact has escaped the Gentile Christian church because of the many early mistranslations, alterations, and corruptions of the Hebrew Scriptures. In their place we have a Roman creation of replacement theology full of religious dogmas that are contradicted not only by Biblical Judaism and the Hebrew Scriptures buy by the existing Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the ancients which taught the same theological dogmas as Judaism and the Kabbalah. It is one things to not have these texts in our Bibles any longer but there is no excuse for taking this above verses that says "almost all things" and teach it as saying "all things" from the pulpits of our Churches as it is so often done. Who notices?

Answer for yourself: Have you ever wondered how the Jewish people could reject what to you seems so clear to you and me? Why would anyone reject a “free” salvation?

It does not make sense to the rational mind but yet they do and have met their death at the point Roman Christian swords as well as being boarded up in their synagogues and burned to death by the millions during the Dark Ages; men, women and children alike for not accepting this "get out of hell free pass" in Jesus' name.

You might remember that in junior high school, we were often given an assignment to write the title for a story; this title usually reflected what is the central idea of a passage. Let us likewise look at Leviticus 17:11 in context in order to make sure we understand the “central” idea of the passage.

"And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn among you, who consumes any blood, I will set My face against that person who consumes blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes an atonement for the soul. Therefore, I say to the children of Israel, `No one among you shall consume blood, nor shall any stranger who sojourns among you consume blood.'"

What should immediately be apparent is that the topic of this passage is NOT how to secure atonement from sins, but the prohibition against consuming blood. Although atonement is not the central theme expressed in this particular verse it yet provides the necessary knowledge we need to understand how the Sacrificial System actually worked. We are told parenthetically that the reason for this prohibition is that the blood contains the vitality (Soul) of the animal (Genesis 9:4, Deuteronomy 12:23) and consequently, when we bring an animal sacrifice, its Soul (life) which is in its blood serves as the atoning agent, and not another part of its body [like the blood]. The writer of Leviticus informs us that it is the Soul, one's life, which is in the blood [blood is the object of the preposition "in"] which was offered to God daily and even in death which was pleasing to God and which God accepted as an "atonement" and as an "offering for one's sin". Notice that it is not the "blood" which was accepted for an offering for sin, but rather the "life/Soul" which was "in" the blood. "Blood" is not the subject of the sentence; the Soul is the subject. This might be a shock to you but "life" or the Hebrew word "nephesh" which is the "Soul" is the subject of the sentence. Or better said, it is the "Soul/life" which is the subject of the sentence. That means it is not the "death" or "the blood" which accomplished anything, but rather the life or Soul of the person which provided atonement. Such a life is one lived in repentance, confession, prayer, and restitution as shown earlier in these articles and as attested by the Hebrew Tanakh and Jewish Bible. Even your Christian Old Testament will teach you the same things if you read it closely. But few do and most sermons in our Churches today are always from New Testament texts and not the Hebrew Scriptures. It just so happens that the "life-Soul of the one bringing the sacrifice" is "pictured" and "symbolized" by the "life-Soul" of the animal as the animal's blood is placed on the altar. In reality you are placed on the altar with God where He promised to always meet mankind in Leviticus chapter 6.

Repentance in Judaism known as Teshuva (literally Returning). Repentance is the way of atoning for sin in Judaism and brings the Kingdom of Heaven near. According to Jewish law, if someone commits a sin, he can be forgiven for that sin if he performs Teshuva. This means that he ceases his forbidden actions, regrets what he has done, confesses before God, and firmly resolves never to repeat those actions. When the Temple in Jerusalem was active, a Jew was required to bring various sacrifices for certain types of sins. Unknown to most Christians is that not all sin offerings required blood but all did require the Soul's repentance. Although sacrifices were required, the most essential part of atonement was performing Teshuva or repentance. Presently, with the Temple destroyed, atonement may nevertheless be granted even for such sins if the Soul repents. This brings us to examination of Leviticus chapter 17.

The Hebrew word for "life" which is in the blood is the word for "Soul". Such a life, if it was to be accepted as an atonement, was one which was lived completely obediently to God's Commandments [which if obeyed perfectly led him throughout life never sinning]. But reality teaches that sin is part of life and is that sin is a "teaching tool" to teach us "life" from "death" as necessary to our Spiritual development as Souls. Such a life that turned and repented from sin was so pleasing to God that He accepted such a repentant life as an offering for one's own sin. Such a life was lived in a constant intent to live the commandments of God and when one fell short through sin one was preoccupied to repent and then recapture one's right standing with God. After repentance, "at that moment", one was restored into right standing and relationship with God and the placing of the blood of the animal was representative of the sacrificer's Soul before God since he had ALREADY repented. The animal was a picture of him at that time. The Soul of the animal was a picture of the sacrificer's Soul, but only if he had repented PRIOR to bringing the sacrifice. Now you can understand why God at times tells us that He is wearied by the sacrifices of the people.

They were just killing the animals and there was no repentance in their hearts!

Isa 1:10-17

- 10 Hear the word of the LORD, ye rulers of Sodom; give ear unto the law of our God, ye people of Gomorrah.
- 11 To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices unto me? saith the LORD: I am full of the burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks, or of lambs, or of he goats.
- 12 When ye come to appear before me, who hath required this at your hand, to tread my courts?
- 13 Bring no more vain oblations; incense is an abomination unto me; the new moons and sabbaths, the calling of assemblies, I cannot away with; it is iniquity, even the solemn meeting.
- 14 Your new moons and your appointed feasts my Soul hateth: they are a trouble unto me; I am weary to bear them.
- 15 And when ye spread forth your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you: yea, when ye make many prayers, I will not hear: your hands are full of blood.

Notice that God is tired of ritual without repentance.

Notice what God says next and the remedy to this sad state of Spiritual affairs He finds in His people. Notice what God tells them what they must do!

- 16 Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil;
- 17 Learn to do well; seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

There you have it. Through repentance, confession, and a return to obedience of the Laws and Commandments of one's Covenant the people could again be received by God. Nowhere does is say in the Hebrew Scriptures that God did not want the people to continue to bring sacrifices that were symbolic of the Spiritual condition of their Souls. Only then, as you now have learned, was their Souls to be represented by the innocent animal's blood and Soul being placed on the altar. Anything sacrificed without repentance was a lie to God and was a waste of life; not only theirs but the animals' as well.

LET US LOOK A LITTLE MORE CLOSELY

The Hebrew word for "Soul" is as follows as seen in Strong's Concordance:

5315 nephesh (neh'-fesh);

from 5314; properly, a breathing creature, i.e. animal of (abstractly) vitality; used very widely in a literal, accommodated or figurative sense (bodily or mental):

The Hebrew word for "Soul" is as follows as seen in Brown-Drivers-Briggs Hebrew Lexicon:

5315 nephesh-

- soul-self,, life, a creature, a person, an appetite, a mind, a living being, a desire, an emotion, a passion
- what breathes, the breathing substance or being, a Soul, the inner being of man
- a living being
- a living being (with life in the blood)

- the man himself, a-self, a person or an individual
- the seat of the appetites
- the seat of emotions and passions
- the activity of mind
- the activity of the will
- the activity of the character

My whole life I was told that I was "saved" by the blood of Jesus, yet Leviticus tells me that atonement which brings salvation is accomplished by my own life before God!

Looking at the definition above, one quickly sees that the activity of one's will, mind, and character [one's Soul] was said to be accepted in Leviticus 17 as an atonement for one's sin [life and not blood remember?]. Mind you this is not the actions of another for me, but rather my own actions which brings my own atonement.

Jesus, like all Jewish people who came before him who were devoted to God and His Torah, as well as those who lived after him, comprise the "suffering servant Israel". Let us remember that Isa. 53 speaks of the nation and corporate Israel as the Suffering Servant and not an individual even if singular pronouns are often used interchangeable plural pronouns. Both singular and plural pronouns from Isa. 40-66 refer to the corporate nation of Jewish Souls which affect their own atonement. It is this "Suffering Servant" who is "the" light for the non-Jewish nations and should today be this same Spiritual light for the Christian Church. With this perspective, we now can come to understand that the blood of Jesus, our example, carried the life force of Jesus (his Soul). Jesus was totally committed and surrendered to the will of God and His Torah as depicted in the New Testament, again our Spiritual example. That instead of Jesus' death, in reality it was his life, a life lived pleasing to God as part of the Israel of God which represents to us the active Spiritual agent that God accepts as atonement for sin. In particular Israel is the priest for the Gentile world, and they bring sacrifices for the sins of the Gentile world at Yom Kippur. THINK! Israel's "Soul", not only Jesus's, but all of righteous Israel, past and future, "atones" for sin. These righteous lives are accepted by Hashem on the altar, according to Leviticus 17, as atonement for sin. Such in reality "atones and saves". When I as a non-Jew come to the knowledge of God and His commandments, and when my life models through my conduct these Laws lived before God I identify with Israel and join Israel in making atonement for the sins of my life.

Remembering what we have already learned; namely, that singular pronouns in the Servant Songs of Isaiah refer to the nation of Israel and not to only one person like Jesus, then we are equipped to look differently as Jesus and any implications for him being the subject of Isaiah 53. In so doing we can find the following verses even the more astonishing.

6 We (the Kings of the Gentile nations speaking here) all went astray like sheep, we have turned, each one on his own way, and the Lord accepted his ["his" referring to the corporate nation of Israel] prayers for the iniquity of all of us.

Now let us never again underestimate the importance of the prayer service in the Jewish synagogues on the Holy Days for the world for by it atonement comes to the Gentiles who are unaware of such Divine Truths.

Now it become a little more clear. When one looks at Jesus, or other righteous Jews as the Suffering Servant of the LORD, then we see their lives and understand them as "lights to the nations". This is then easy to understand. Lives lived as examples which were in complete submission to the Commandments of God and as demonstrated by one's complete submission of the mind, will, and emotions to God and His desires for his people bring atonement for one's past sins. Such examples as the perfect life of Jesus regarding the Laws of God, when followed by me, literally "saves"! Such lives atoned for not only their sins but for the sins of the Gentile world at Yom Kippur and serve as an example to me and you. This example, if followed, provides atonement for our sins. Literally the "corporate" example of Israel is to be individualized in each believer's life when one comes into personal relationship with God. This is explained when one reads Isaiah 53 from the Jewish Scriptures and not the corrupted Christian Old Testament which alters the Isaiah Hebrew texts.

One's God-honoring life (Soul) was later accepted as an offering for his sin in behalf because following repentance his Soul was purified and his life could then be accepted upon the altar of God in lieu of his actual life being demanded by the Law due to his sin. God accepted his prayers and repentance for his own iniquity.

34 Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do… (KJV)

So it was not Jesus' death so much as his God-honoring life-style which was lived in complete submission to the Father and His Commandments which not only brought Jesus to tabernacle within God "without measure", but shows us the way to both live and die in a way which honors both man and God and procures for us our own atonement when we live our lives by his example. The death of Jesus was not so much a sacrifice for us but an example for us.

BUT IN A WAY THE "BLOOD" OF JESUS DID SAVE US….IF WE CAN SEE THE TRUTH OF WHAT HE TAUGHT?

Had Jesus's death not circulated by oral tradition among the later Jewish nation as well as the Gentiles then there most likely would not have been a movement catalyzed from within a Messianic Essene Judaism which would reach out to the nations with the Torah and the Laws of Noah. The death, where the blood of Jesus was supposedly shed for sin, was the catalyst that caused a mission into all the world where the Covenant of Noah was extended to the Gentile World. We call this the Great Commission today. Now understand which is said next. For in the wake of the teaching of Jesus death, first at the hands of the Essenes and later with Rome, there would not likely have come a movement into all the world which aimed at taking the Torah and the Laws of God to the nations whereby non-Jews could learn how to live lives pleasing to God as had Israel through faith and acceptance of the commands of God respective of their Covenant. Messianic Israel took to the non-Jews and the Lost Sheep of the House of Israel God's Covenant made with the non-Jews since before Noah. Faith and obedience to the Covenant stipulations brought salvation to the non-Jewish world since within them are the Divine concepts of faith, repentance, prayer and restitution of one's sin. This understanding is what Isaiah understood about the sacrifice of the Suffering Servant, Jesus being but another example of the sacrifice of Israel by the hands of the Gentiles given in efforts to reach them with the truth about the God of the cosmos. Along with the teaching of the death of Jesus, as well as his resurrection, the teachings by which non-Jews could enter Covenant with God and live by the Commandments of God was to be taken into all the world. Better stated and I hope you understand this, the "descent and death of Krst/Karest/Christ" into "matter" and material incarnation in humanity along with the resurrection of the "Soul from the dead while yet alive" as human beings was later altered to a "literalized story of a historical person as the Christ who died and was likewise resurrected". I don't intend to deal with this Ancient Spiritual Wisdom and the understanding of "the Christ", or as Judaism called it, the Messiah, at this time, but understand down through history the receiving of the Oral Traditions often lost their original meanings. This is the case here without a doubt. The later oral tradition of a Jewish Christ who was incarnated, lived, died, and was resurrected as a "literal person" was the later adaptation of the earlier Sacred Wisdom. Along with this was the attachment of an atonement for the whole of mankind through his death and resurrection; an atonement which we have now seen never occurred.

Although the "keys" to this Divine Spiritual Allegory was lost, along with these teachings would come the understanding that repentance from sin and a return to God which provides a life pleasing to God which He then accepts as atonement for sin. Many received this truth, many did not. Through the ages of the Christian Gentile Church and at the hands of Rome this teaching was modified and finally lost! Your example of being a Christian today which does not understand the Sacrificial System of the Bible is proof of what I say.

Now you are ready to read our articles on Isaiah to fully understand Isa. 53 correctly

The vast majority of Christians in the world today have not been told this and wander in fables because they lack the correct understanding which only can come from in-depth Bible study as well as associated studies in Gnosticism and comparative religions. And that goes without saying that you have to have the correct texts and unaltered Hebrew Scriptures before you start. Sadly Christians for the most part cannot find the truth because they are working from a corrupted text. They only reinforce error. Buy yourself a Stone Edition Tanakh. Then you will have the Bible a Jew like Jesus would have used and then armed with my websites mentioned above you can begin to do your comparison Scriptural comparisons and see these things for yourself.

"And the Lord accepted his [the corporate nation of Israel] prayers for the iniquity of all of us" says the Kings of the nations who are speaking in Isaiah 53 according to Isaiah 52:15, *15 So shall he startle many nations, kings (Gentile kings of these nations) shall shut their mouths because of him; for that which had not been told them shall they see, and that which they had not heard shall they perceive.

What makes this even more remarkable is that in this very passage from Isa. 53 it is the GENTILE KINGS OF THE WORLD SPEAKING & NOT THE JEWISH PEOPLE OR THE JEWISH PROPHETS! The Gentiles will one day understand the role played by the righteous Jewish people in expiation of their sin! This is prophetic but you can fulfill it today if you open your heart and head to the facts presented in this article.

Such is the teaching of Isaiah and Leviticus.

Because of the proliferation of bloody rites in Gentile paganism, the Gentile converts to Jewish Christianity would in the first centuries, inherently revert back to pagan backgrounds. Thus the emphasis today on blood instead of a God-honoring life as the offering for sin has been inherited by the Gentile Church. Such falsehoods as taught by the Romanized Paul was a "bridge" to the non-Jewish nations as Rome attempted to "be all things to all that he might win some". This Romanized Paul gave the non-Jew nothing more that what they already had; for in the pagan mystery religions, of which Troas was the capital of Mithraism, Paul's home town, the ancient allegorical Divine concepts of the Soul were modified and embodied in a "literal Christ Jesus" by this Romanized Paul for Gentile acceptance. They did not have to accept Judaism per se, he would simply remold Jesus into a neo-pagan to which they could relate. Basically the allegorical Spiritual concepts of the Soul and "the Krst/Karest/Christ" were both literalized and historicized by Rome and out comes this "golden calf".

Such is the reckless acts of Roman Christianity desperately trying to be received and accepted because of their "gospel" and its rejection by the Jerusalem Church. Rome tries to pass of this "replacement religion" as Pauline when in fact the true Paul was a Gnostic and never believed in a "literal" or "historical Jesus Christ". When Jerusalem would be notified of what Rome was teaching, they rejected it outright and continue to reject the Roman New Testament today. Jerusalem never accepted "Paul's" gospel, or should I say "Rome's Gospel". Neither should you! Rome's gospel could not "preach" in Israel, only 1500 miles away when few knew little of a Jewish historical Jesus or the Torah. Such a clever tactic by Rome only made Jesus the head of the non-Jewish pantheon which were already filled gods which gave their body and blood for their followers for salvation. But such teachings in the Divine Spiritual Wisdom were always allegorical for Divine Life; never literal "blood".

The Living Energy of God, poured out for mankind, was symbolized by the Sun's energy which appeared red at dawn and dusk. Many cultures believed the Sun consists of life-enhancing forces that promotes vitality in all living things. This life-enhancing force that appeared red to them was likened by them to be symbolic for the "blood" of God which was poured out for their lives. This life-enhancing and saving power of God was thus called the "blood of God" by the ancients but it was purely Metaphysical to its core; never understood to be literal. Thus again, we see what was symbolic and Metaphysical in meaning was later incorporated and interpreted as if "literal" by Rome and today the whole of Christianity is misled and deceived by Rome's reinterpretation of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom.

I just gave you the Biblical teaching on atonement.

Answer for yourself: Have you noticed we have not discussed "sin offerings" yet but have covered the gamut of atonement? Sin offerings only began after the terrible sin of idolatry and blasphemy of the Name of the LORD when Israel rejected YHWH at Sinai. Now God would add a new Law that had not existed prior to that time. This the "Law that was added". Request our article on "The Law That Was Added" to further your understanding in this area.

NOW…WHAT ABOUT SIN OFFERINGS?

Really I don't have much to say except they were instituted after the golden calf incident. Then a whole priesthood and tabernacle was required. But even looking at sin offerings, the same Spiritual dynamics applying to the Soul which we have seen before are again applied; namely, the Soul or life of the sacrificer is placed on the altar as a picture of his renewed relationship with God and the authenticity of such a demonstration was determined if he had repented, confessed, and made restitution PRIOR to bringing the sacrifice.

CONCLUSION

Having now come to the understanding that it was a life lived above sin that was so pleasing to God that God accepted such a life as an offering and atonement for one's sin, it should behoove you to rethink what you believe about atonement as a Christian as related to the death of Jesus. Surely you understand that if we was sinless as Christian theology maintains then there is no need for his shedding of blood since the "life in the blood" only atoned for the individual. If you were to do some comparative religious study you will see the preponderance of evidence of how ancient allegorical and metaphorical Spiritual concepts of salvation are woven into a "literalized" Pauline theology cleverly crafted by Rome. I have shown you the Biblical teachings of atonement and have not mentioned or advocated Paul's theology once; rather only shown you the unsoundness of it as revealed by a true understanding of the Hebrew Scriptures. The reason I have not is that nowhere in the Jewish Masoretic Palestinian text are such Pauline concepts of atonement found.

Only when you read the fraudulent and mistranslated Greek Scriptures, which the Rabbis did not translate, do you begin to find such ideas of a "literal atonement " surfacing in in germ form in the texts as the Essenes related them to their Teacher of Righteousness who was slain by Rome. This meaningless death of their Teacher was interpreted by them to be an atonement and this idea was worked into the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures when translated by them. But never fail to understand that such concepts cannot be found in the Hebrew and Jewish Scriptures from which the Greek translation emanated. Somebody, namely first the Essenes "fixed" the Greek translation to read differently and Rome followed in symphony with their deceptive Second New Testament. And sadly for you, these altered and paganized Greek mistranslation became the foundation for your Christian Old Testament. To make matters worse, your New Testament quotes from this fraudulent Old Testament and millions of Christians, unknowing of this event, read this later corrupted New Testament texts as Divine Truth. Over and over as you read your Christian Bible you only reinforce and rehearse error! You need to know that.

Answer for yourself: But that happened over 2000 years ago and who knows of this tragic departure from the ancient Divine Wisdom? Well I do, and others do who have studied enough to see it! The Jews have always known this and this is why they would not accept the LXX and the Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures long ago and yet refuse to accept them repeated and enlarged upon in the New Testament today. It was the Jews of the Diaspora who had lost the ability to read Hebrew who were set up for this deception and they readily accepted the Greek translation as well as the secularized Jews of today who accept the New Testament Jesus; never knowing the truth of their Hebrew Scriptures. It is time someone told you! The righteous Jews know this and have known this since 200 BC when the Greek translation was understood by them to be a corruption of the Jewish Scriptures. History records 3 attempts of the Jews to correct such a forged Greek translation but sadly their efforts were enough to overtake the popularity of the already translated LXX (Septuagint).

Understand an animal's Soul represented the Soul of one making the sacrifice, and we, as non-Jews, today are beneficiaries of having the Jew's prayers given to God for our sin on Yom Kippur. Jesus is the archetype for all of Israel. But in this lesson we must no longer overlook the importance of a life lived above sin which procures one's redemption and not the inert blood of the animal or of Jesus's blood. Lives lived honoring God through faith and obedience atones. Your Covenant requires it! Such is the message of Bet Emet as we are called to live like Jesus and not just "believe in Jesus." It has been my experience as a Pastor over the years to encounter multitudes of Christians who trust in Christ's blood instead of understanding the importance of his life, symbolized by his Soul in his blood, as lived in obedience to God as a form of atonement and as a "Living Sacrifice". It is time to reconsider your own life lived in such a way lived pleasing to God as your own atonement. We must walk out our salvation with fear and trembling. We are co-laborers with God in our own salvation through faith and repentance. Such a mistaken understanding of our redemption as seen from this Romanized Paul, since not being taught the truth from a Hebraic perspective, has caused multitudes of Christians to trust in the acclaimed miraculous powers of the blood of Jesus instead of focusing of the miraculousness of a life lived above sin. Such a false sense of security in "blood" instead of "lives lived holy before God and man" unconsciously causes the believer to not regard sin with revulsion as he should. We tend to view sin as less harmful than it is, and compromise with sin which lies at the door.

The bottom line for all Christians to understand is that we have heard way too much preached about Jesus and far too little studied from the texts of the Hebrew and Jewish Bible and comparative religious studies along with the ancient Divine Wisdom which tell us exactly and accurately who this "Krst/Karest/Christ" is as well as his Heavenly and Earthly mission. If we had studied the original sources available to us, we would not be so mixed up theologically in a Christianity today which boasts over 2,000 different denominations all maintaining they have the truth about Jesus while at the same time being the most violent and crime ridden nation in the world.

SOMETHING IS WRONG WITH THE MESSAGE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…LOOK AT THE FRUIT OF THIS MESSAGE IN OUR COUNTRY WITH A CHURCH ON EVERY CORNER AND TELEVISIONS FILLED WITH THE CHRISTIAN MESSAGE. JUST LOOK OUT YOUR DOOR AND ASK IF A COUNTRY WITH 12% OF THE WORLD'S POPULATION WITH 25% OF THE WORLD'S INCARCERATED PEOPLE IS THE BEST THE HOLY SPIRIT CAN DO????????

May God forgive our laziness to let others tell us what to believe instead of us studying to show ourselves approved unto God. I just showed you part of the problem. Implicitly we are led to not revere the Laws and Commandments of God because "Jesus died for me" and my "get out of hell free card", signed by Jesus, saves me. As a Pastor I saw such falsehoods lived out in the lives of the congregation year after year. When there is no Law, no Commandments, no requirements, no accountability, then there is no righteous fruit and we have our newspapers filled with horror story after horror story and many of these atrocities are being committed by clergy. Lost in all of this is one's personal accountability to God and the Spiritual progression of one's Soul into the "fullness and stature of Christ".

Answer for yourself: When was the last time you saw a Rabbi skip off with the funds of the synagogue or be caught with a prostitute in some motel or exposed on television on "20-20" as being a closet homosexual? When was the last time a Rabbi was found molesting a child? Are they any different that non-Jews; or is it because they have a fear of God that is lacking in the Christian Church because we have "implicitly" been sold a bill of goods that we are "already" forgiven and can get away with it because "Jesus paid it all?"

Sadly few can count on their lives being a sufficient atonement for their sin when your whole life in the Church has taught you to live without Law and the necessary obedience to the Laws and Commandments of God. This the legacy of the Romanized Paul and his "literalized" Christ superimposed upon a Rabbi names Jesus/Jesus is the cause of our Spiritual dilemena in America today. You were taught these "laws and commandments" were a curse when it fact they are the pathway to life everlasting.

Answer for yourself: For after all if saved by the blood of Jesus, what need do I have to live like Jesus and not disobey the commandments of God? Isn't Jesus my "grace card" that allows me to live anyway I want to and not fear the end-result of such non-accountable behavior?

Answer for yourself: If saved by the blood of another, what does a little sin mean, what can it hurt; for after all, did not Jesus die for me as the Roman document, the New Testament states? Well, as you can see now this is a great matter of debate once knowing the facts.

Answer for yourself: Can you begin to see the tragic thinking involved in focusing upon the blood of Jesus instead of the life of Jesus lived above sin and the horrible fruit it produces? This dogma absolute thwarts the incarnational purpose of our Soul.

THINK!

Let us continue our studies into the Sacrificial System in the next article in this series.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #6

IS ONLY BLOOD REQUIRED TO ATONE FOR SIN?

"...without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness." (Hebrews 9:22)

Answer for yourself: Is this statement from the epistle to the Hebrews really true or is it a contradiction of the Eternal Word of God and the Hebrew Scriptures and the testimony of Biblical Judaism for the last 2,000 years?

The central theme of Christianity and the New Testament is centered of the belief that the sacrificial offering of the blood of Jesus Christ is the only atonement for the sins of the entire world. Christianity goes on to maintain that "the blood of Jesus was shed in our stead and is the only means of atonement for our sin." Moreover, evangelical Christians assert that for the past nineteen centuries since the destruction of the second temple in 70 C.E., Jews have lacked the essential and indispensable animal-sacrificial system for atonement. Consequently, they insist, God must have provided a blood atonement in place of the animal sacrifices of the past. This sacrifice, they maintain, is the death of Jesus on the cross.

To support this claim that atonement can only be achieved through the shedding of blood, Missionaries cite Leviticus 17:11 which reads:

"This is because the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes atonement for the soul."

With this verse in hand, Christians conclude that only by being covered in the blood of the Cross can man have any hope of being forgiven by God for his sins.

Answer for yourself: Is this Christian claim concerning Jesus' sacrifice as the only atonement for mankind truly consistent with the Hebrew Scriptures and Biblical history? If this theological belief as held central by Christianity is true then how is it that in Acts 21, some 30 or so years following the death of Jesus and his supposedly atoning sacrifice, we find that James, the head of Jesus' church, commanding Paul with the sanction of the whole of the Jerusalem Church, to keep the Nazarite Vow; a vow that required that Paul bring both sin and blood atonements for his sin? Was James mistaken in commanding Paul to bring atonement sacrifices or had the Holy Spirit failed to reveal to these followers of Jesus what his death actually meant? What did James, Paul, and the whole of the Jerusalem church know that we don't today that had them continue to observe the Sacrificial System and continue to bring blood sacrifices long after the death of Jesus?

Answer for yourself: Before you try to come up with an answer to these difficult questions you need to be honest with yourself and answer to God the following question: "Just how well do I really know the Old Testament Scriptures and their Hebrew meanings since I am a New Testament Christian?"

Christians claim that the absolute need for blood is rooted in the Law of Moses (the Torah). Traditionally they will often cite the book of Leviticus as proof:

"And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn among you, who consumes any blood, I will set My face against that person who consumes blood, and will cut him off from among his people. For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes an atonement for the Soul. Therefore, I say to the children of Israel, 'No one among you shall consume blood, nor shall any stranger who sojourns among you consume blood.'" (Leviticus 17:11)

What should immediately be apparent is that this passage is concerned first and foremost with the prohibition against consuming blood. The subject of atonement here is secondary. Contrary to the Christian claim that Leviticus 17:11 proves that man can only atone for his iniquity through the shedding of blood, this verse only explains the prohibition of eating blood. Christians have conveniently severed this verse from its original context, effectively concealing and distorting its message. In the immediate context of Leviticus 17:11 we find that the Torah is speaking of the prohibition of eating blood, not the subject of sin and atonement. The Torah discusses blood atonement in this verse only as a by-product of its central theme. This crucial message is lost when Christians quote Leviticus 17:11 alone, without the surrounding texts as its proper background. Leviticus 17:11 begins with the conjunctive Hebrew word "ki" (pronounced kee), meaning "This is because...." Whenever a verse begins with this word, it is explaining what has just been related in the previous verse. The previous verse, Leviticus 17:10, reads,

"And any man from the house of Israel, or from the aliens who sojourn among them, who eats any blood, I will set My face against that person who eats blood, and will cut him off from among his people."

Leviticus 17:11 then continues this message and explains,

"This is because the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes atonement for the soul."

Thus, Leviticus 17:11 explains Leviticus 17:10 by revealing that consuming blood is forbidden because it may only be used in the act of sprinkling of the animal's blood on the altar for an atonement. It is a grievous sin to use it for anything else. The Torah therefore commands us in Leviticus 17:13, only three verses later, that when slaughtering an animal, the blood must be poured on to the floor and covered with earth, rendering it useless.

Answer for yourself: Was this done with the death of Jesus as a supposed atonement? Deuteronomy 12:16 states: "Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it on the earth like water."

Leviticus 17:10-11 is therefore declaring two principles about blood:

- you may not eat it
- amongst all the various rituals associated with the sin sacrifice, such as the laying of the hands on the animal, slaughtering, collecting, carrying, sprinkling, placing of the animal on the altar, it is only the sprinkling of the Soul in the blood on the altar that completes the true atonement process and picture of the right standing of the sacrificier's Soul.

You therefore may not eat the blood. This verse does not state or imply that one cannot have atonement for sin without a blood sacrifice. Such a message would contradict all of the Jewish scriptures which clearly outline two other methods of atonement more pleasing to God than a sacrifice - heartfelt repentance and charity.

Although the statement "without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins" is found nowhere in the Hebrew and Jewish scriptures, it does appear in the Christian scriptures. In Hebrews 9:22 the author misquotes Leviticus 17:11 when he states "Indeed, under the law almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins." Although this quote in Hebrews 9:22 is always cross referenced in a Christian study Bible to Leviticus 17:11, it is actually a stunning purposeful misquote of the original text.

Finally, if Christians want to use Leviticus 17:11 to bolster their position that blood sacrifices are indispensable for procuring an atonement, they must use all of the verse, not just a part of it. Leviticus 17:11 specifically says that the blood of the sacrifice must be placed "upon the altar to make atonement for your souls." That is to say, Leviticus 17:11 explicitly declares that the Soul in the blood can only effect atonement if it is placed on the altar. Jesus' blood, however, was never placed on the altar in the Temple. If the church is going to take the "blood" part of the verse "literally" as the subject and active agent that supposedly is the atoning agent, they must also take the "altar" part literally as well. Jesus' blood was never sprinkled on the altar, and therefore his death could not provide atonement for anyone. But of course we have already see this in many other examples where the Sacrificial System has been terribly distorted before the uneducated reader in hopes of selling him an easy "false atonement" which will bind him to the Catholic Church for life. We are told that the reason for this prohibition is that the blood contains the life, Soul, and very vitality of the animal. So as you most clearly see now another reason that drinking blood is prohibited is that consuming blood was a very important part of the idolatrous religious practices of the people and nations surrounding Israel (Gen. 9:4 and Deut. 12:23). The blood is sacred for it is the home for the Soul, the active atoning agent in the Sacrificial System.

Israel was clearly instructed by The Holy One of Israel through Moses not to imitate this abhorrent pagan practice in any manner (and this has serious implications for Christian communion, both Catholic and Protestant) which believe the wafer and wine are turned into the actual "literal blood and body of Jesus Christ". Although the actual blood was later to be substituted with wine in many of the sacred banquets of pagan religions, there is ample evidence to support the claim that literal blood was consumed as part of the ritual worship of pagan deities, and this was done as a form of atonement.

Please listen to this! Since this passage from Lev. 17 is predominately concerned with the prohibition against consuming blood, we must look elsewhere in the Bible for instructions concerning atonement for sins. This passage in Lev. 17 is very helpful, yes, in determining that it is the very Soul that is in the "blood" that accomplishes the atonement for sin but we must continue to expand our study to see more about how this Sacrificial System operated. This passage in Leviticus will become clearer later on only as we look at other Hebrew Scriptures. The passage does say that since blood symbolizes the life of the animal, it can be used as a means of atoning for our sins. This passage in Leviticus does not say, however, that blood is the only means of atoning for sins. Indeed, The Holy Hebrew Scriptures tell us of several other things that can be used instead of the blood of a sacrificial ram or bullock in obtaining atonement and forgiveness of sins.

OTHER MEANS OF ATONEMENT…..IS THIS NEWS TO YOU?

"And Moses said unto Aaron, 'Take a censer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incense, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from [YHWH]; the plague is begun.' And Aaron took as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the congregation; and, behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incense, and made an atonement for the people." (Numbers 16:46-47)

Answer for yourself: What is the atoning agent in this above Scriptures? It is incense.

Here, incense can be used to atone for sins in the same manner as the blood sacrifices of animals.

Notice what else could be used in place of blood:

"The rich shall not give more, and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel (offering of money), when they give an offering unto [YHWH], to make an atonement for your souls. And thou shalt take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and shalt appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Israel before [YHWH], to make an atonement for your souls." (Exodus 30:15-16)

Answer for yourself: What is the atoning agent in this above Scriptures? Money as an offering to God is a form of atonement for one's sins.

Here, one's offering to the LORD can be used to atone for sins in the same manner as the blood sacrifices of animals.

The phrase "to make atonement for your souls" in these verses is the same expression as in Leviticus 17:11:

"We have therefore brought an oblation [again items of worth and money] (Deut. 12:23-25, 30) for [YHWH], what every man hath gotten, of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, earrings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our souls before [YHWH]." Numbers 31:50)

Answer for yourself: What is the atoning agent in this above Scriptures? They brought their gold and jewelry as an atonement for this sin.

In these passages, money, gold, or jewelry could be used to make atonement for the children of Israel. The principle here is not that atonement can be bought (this was the practice of the great Catholic church whose priests routinely sold forgiveness in indulgences). Rather, this is about doing charitable things with money as a form of restitution, good deeds, and charity which are part of atonement process according to the Torah. In this case, the money was to be used for the physical maintenance of the temple building, at other times it was the care of the poor, the widow, the orphan, lame, blind, poor, crippled, etc.

DOES BLOOD COVER ALL SIN?

Now get ready for an eye-opening teaching that has drastic implication again for Jesus and his death being an atonement for all sin.

According to the Hebrew Scriptures, blood sacrifices held only limited atonement capabilities and did not apply to various types of sin. Let me explain this in detail so that there is no confusion. Foremost among the limitations of blood sacrifices is the fact that blood sacrifices were only brought for the sinner for his unintentional sins. If a person committed some sin out of ignorance, such as doing work on the Sabbath when perhaps they mistakenly thought it was Sunday, then atonement could be made and blood sacrifices could be brought to the temple as part of his sin offering. Again, let us not forget that his repentance, confession, prayer, and righteous deed did the actual atoning of his sin of ignorance and the blood sacrifice was later brought to declare before God and mankind that his Soul was in right standing with God. The blood that was placed on the altar was only a "picture" and "symbol" of the Soul of the sacrificer who had previously repented . The blood was the "passive agent" in the whole Sacrificial System process; it was his repentance, prayer, confession and subsequent righteous acts and charity that actually accomplishes his atonement and forgiveness long before he brought a blood sacrifice to the Temple for his sin of ignorance. This is the law of unintentional sin according to Biblical Judaism. Now we look at a whole other matter; the intentional sin.

First of all get prepared. Sacrifices never were brought to help atone for sins that were done intentionally.

Answer for yourself: Does this mean that all of the sin offerings in the Bible we see brought were considered as unintentional sins? Yes. Were sacrifices ever brought for premeditated sins like adultery and theft? No.

Notice the instructions to the priests concerning this:

"And [YHWH] spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a soul shall sin through ignorance against any of the commandments of [YHWH] concerning things which ought not to be done, and shall do against any of them: If the priest that is anointed do sin according to the sin of the people; then let him bring for his sin, which he hath sinned, a young bullock without blemish unto [YHWH] for a sin offering. And he shall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before [YHWH]; and shall lay his hand upon the bullock's head, and kill the bullock before [YHWH]. And the priest that is anointed shall take of the bullock's blood, and bring it to the tabernacle of the congregation: And the priest shall dip his finger in the blood, and sprinkle of the blood seven times before [YHWH], before the veil of the sanctuary. And the priest shall put some of the blood upon the horns of the altar of sweet incense before [YHWH], which is in the tabernacle of the congregation; and shall pour all the blood of the bullock at the bottom of the altar of the burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation" Leviticus 4:1-7)

The claim so often heard uttered from the lips of Christians; namely, "that only blood could atone for sins" raises many questions when one studies the Torah and the Sacrificial System thoroughly whereby he discovers that blood sacrifices could not and were never brought for intentional sins.

Answer for yourself: Right up front, what drastic implication does this have for Jesus' death being an atonement for mankind' sin? Well, for starters it appears that if Christian theology is correct, which it is not, then even if it were then the death of Jesus could only have atoned for mankind's unintentional sin since blood was never brought for intentional sins. This deserves a long consideration by every Christian; especially by those who have been taught that Jesus is the fulfillment of the Sacrificial System as well as those who have been taught that Jesus is the type and shadow of the sacrificial lamb of the Old Testament Yom Kippur sacrifice. It appears now that nothing could be further from the truth for any such death of Jesus which had any connection to atonement would have only applied to unintentional sins.

Answer for yourself: What happens if someone could not afford to purchase a ram or bullock for his unintentional sin offering? Is it possible that a loving CREATOR would institute a system of atonement that could only be used by the wealthy?

Contrary to the missionary claim that blood-sacrifice is the only method of atonement in the Bible, there are three methods of atonement clearly defined in the Jewish scriptures:

- The sin sacrifice for unintentional sin; implied here the reader must understand is the sinner's repentance, remorse, contrition, prayer, and almsgiving along with correct instruction that will lead the sinner to never repeat this same sin of ignorance again, if he does then it becomes a sin of intention where no blood sacrifice can be brought (Leviticus 4:1-35)
- repentance (Deuteronomy 4:26-31; I Kings 8:46-50; Isaiah 55:6-9; Jeremiah 7:3-23; Ezekiel 18:1-23; Hosea 6:6; 14:2-3; Micah 6:6; Psalm 40:7-9 (6-8); 51:16-19);
- charity (Proverbs 10:2; 11:4; 16:6; Daniel 4:24; II Chronicles 6:36-39)

Moreover, the sin sacrifice and man's repentance accompanied with a subsequent blood sacrifice, known in the Hebrew Scriptures as Korban Chatat, did not atone for all types of sin, but rather, only for man's most insignificant iniquity: unintentional sins. The sin sacrifice along with one's repentance was inadequate to atone for a transgression committed intentionally. This is something of the most serious nature which is only handled between man and God at the High Holy Days on Yom Kippur. The brazen sinner was barred from the Sanctuary, and had to bear his own iniquity because of his rebellious intent to sin against God.

"And if he be not able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring for his trespass, which he hath committed, two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, unto [YHWH]; one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering." Leviticus 5:7) Here, if a person could not afford the sacrificial ram or bullock for a sin offering, certain types of small birds could be used instead.

Answer for yourself: However, what if someone was so destitute, that he couldn't afford even these small birds?

"But if his means are insufficient for two turtledoves or two young pigeons, then for his offering for that which he has sinned, he shall bring the tenth of an ephah of fine flour for a sin offering; he shall not put oil on it or place incense on it, for it is a sin offering." (Leviticus 5:11)

Answer for yourself: What does this teach us? Namely, that the Torah allowed for non-blood sacrifices to be given in place of blood sacrifices. Thus we learn that blood was not always required for atonement and surely was not the "only way to accomplish atonement" as the writer of the Book of Hebrews maintains.

This is very startling to note in lieu of the traditional Christian teaching that "...without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness." (Hebrews 9:22)

Answer for yourself: It certainly appears to me that the writer of the Book of Hebrews has no idea whatsoever how the Sacrificial System truly operated. Don't you find this situation rather strange for a Jew called by the Holy Spirit to convey Divine Truths yet he gets it completely backwards and wrong? Christianity's blood atonement teachings connected to the death and supposed sacrifice of Jesus and that only Jesus' blood could serve as mankind's atonement is completely destroyed by this contradictory fact taken from Leviticus 5:11.

If birds could not be afforded, some simple flour could be used instead and would be just as effective in the eyes of Israel's Creator. The Hebrew Scriptures are quite clear on this. Since flour could be used for a sin offering, it is evident that blood was not the sole means of atonement; never was and never will be! The Christian position that only the shed blood of Jesus could atone for sins is falling by the wayside in light of the serious study and examination of the Hebrew Scriptures. Actually, considering the beating and torture which Jesus is said to have suffered at the hands of the Romans, you have to wonder if atonement was the goal to be accomplished by his death then why God did not have Jesus request that a sack of flour be brought by the Romans and let them whip, beat, mock and crucify it instead of himself!!!

WHAT IF THERE WAS NO TEMPLE OR AARONIC PRIEST …HOW WAS ATONEMENT ACHIEVED?

While the Temple stood, sacrifices without question served as part of the atonement process. If you read the first articles in this series then you understand the meaning of the presentation of the "blood" on the altar within the Temple.

Answer for yourself: What, though, was to be the fate of the people who did not have access to the Temple?

Answer for yourself: What were the Israelite people supposed to do after 586 B.C.E. when the first Temple was destroyed and they were exiled to Babylon? How were they to atone for sin without a Temple? If the blood was the "passive agent" in the Sacrificial System then was their repentance, confession, remorse, and acts of charity and righteous deed satisfactory to atone for their sin? Yes, it was and it always has been as we have seen previously.

Answer for yourself: What did the Jewish people do in the times of the Maccabees when the Syrian-Greeks were in control of the Temple and did not allow sacrifices?

After king Solomon completed the spectacular Temple building in Jerusalem, he dedicated it with a very moving speech. This lengthy and very beautiful speech can be read in the books of 1 Kings 8 and II Chronicles 6. Notice, however, that strangely King Solomon, in reality Amenhotep III, Pharaoh of the 18th Dynasty of Egypt, doesn't speak about sacrifices at all! If sacrifices were the focal point of the temple, this omission would be very curious. Rather, the focus of the Temple was shown to be the Ark, containing the Laws which our Creator wants us to live by. The Temple was first and foremost a symbol of the Shechinah, or presence of The Holy One of Israel.

"I have surely built thee an house to dwell in, a settled place for thee to abide in for ever. (I Kings 8:13)

"And let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them" (Exodus 25:8).

Toward the end of the speech, Solomon addresses the subject of the Israelite people being denied access to the temple:

"If they return to You with all their heart and with all their Soul in the land of their enemies who have taken them captive, and pray to You toward their land which You have given to their fathers, the city which You have chosen, and the house which I have built for Your name; then hear their prayer and their supplication in heaven Your dwelling place, and maintain their cause, and forgive Your people who have sinned against You and all their transgressions which they have transgressed against You..." (I Kings 8:46-50)

Here we see that Solomon addresses that part of Israel who was yet and would be again captives in another nation in his dedication of the Temple. Here Solomon understand that although the Jewish people were without a Temple they were never without an atonement. This passage helps us understand Leviticus 17:11 properly. The Bible clearly teaches that blood sacrifices were not necessary in order to atone for sins; they were the final "picture representing the atoned Soul" and functioned as the "passive part" of the whole Sacrificial process. Prayer and repentance are shown to be the effective means of atonement. Certainly, when the Temple stood, and if one could afford an animal, a sacrifice was brought as part of the atonement process for unintentional sins. What Leviticus 17:11 teaches us is that when we bring such an animal as a sacrifice, we are not allowed to consume its blood, because as the life force and Soul, it is the vital part of the animal , mankind being a Soul in an animal body, that affects his atonement.

The prophets declared that repentance and charity are more favorable than a blood sacrifice. Throughout the Hebrew Scriptures, the prophets declared that repentance and charity are more pleasing to God for atonement than a blood sacrifice. They repeatedly forewarned the Jewish people from becoming obsessed with blood offerings. Other methods of atonement were more efficacious and would even replace animal sacrifices. For example, King David, in reality Tuthmose III, another Pharaoh of the 18 Dynasty of ancient Egypt, declares in Psalm 40:76 in the Hebrew Scriptures that:

"Sacrifice and meal offering You have not desired; but my ears You have opened (to hear and understand your Word); burnt offering and sin offering You have not required."

These words of the Hebrew Scriptures stand in sharp disagreement with the later Roman Christian Christian doctrine that sin can "only" be expiated through the shedding of blood. Because the Psalmist's words were deeply offensive to the early church as found in the Hebrew Scriptures and has to potential to destroy their radical reinterpretation of the Jewish Sacrificial System which was being corrupted to provide a blanket-atonement for any believer in Rome's theology attached to the New Testament Jesus, the later pro-Roman writer of the Book of Hebrews 10:5-6 was forced to corrupt and tragically alter Psalm 40:7 as it read in the Hebrew. The altered text we find in our Christian Bible and in our Book of Hebrews is found as follows:

"Sacrifice and offering You did not desire, But a body You have prepared for Me. In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin You had no pleasure." Hebrews 10:5-6

Notice how King David's original words, "but my ears You have opened" (to the Torah) have disappeared entirely in the Hebrews quote when translated into the New Testament. Instead, this New Testament author replaced this expunged clause with the words "But a body you have prepared for Me." This is a startling alteration of the Jewish scriptures but also of the Divine Sacred Wisdom of the ancient which always taught obedience to the Laws and Order of God as seen in the Heavens "above" and in Nature "below". But besides that the ancient Divine Wisdom for over 10,000 years taught concurrently from nation to nation of the "fall of Soul as well as the Krst/Karest/Christ" into "matter" and "material existence" in the form of humanity. What was allegory of the "fall" and "death of the Christ in His fall and incarnation into the whole of mankind" was "literalized" and tragically "limited to but one person in the form of the Roman Jesus" and in so doing they altered Psalm 40:7 to make it appear that a "literal incarnation" of Christ into the body of Jesus was a prophecy fulfilled. The "coming of the Christ" to mankind was never limited to but one person; it is the gift of God to all incarnated Souls.

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory (your glory and your atonement): (KJV)

Nothing could be further from the truth than this Roman theology as found in Hebrew 10:5-6 which we have inherited along with other purposeful deceptions of Messianic promises which applies to all but one of the Messianic Prophecies in the whole of the New Testament. Except for just one of them, the whole of the Messianic Prophecies in our New Testament are all forged, altered, corrupted, or invented out of thin air in one way or the other when compared with the Hebrew originals which they were supposed to faithfully represent to the New Testament reader. This neve happened but you will never know until you compare them with both the Old Testament and New Testament forgeries "line upon line" and "precept upon precept" as the Prophet Isaiah instructs us! I have so I can say what I have; having done these studies my results proved to me than if you do the same studies as I have then you, like myself, cannot be proven wrong in this regard.

Hosea foretold that the Jewish people would be without a sacrificial system, and instructed us to replace animal offerings with prayer. In Hosea 3:4-5, the prophet foretold with Divine exactness that the Nation of Israel would not have a sacrificial system during the last segment of Jewish history until the messianic age. Hosea 3:4-5 reads,

"For the children of Israel shall abide many days without king or prince, without sacrifice or sacred pillar, without ephod or teraphim. Afterward the children of Israel shall return and seek the LORD their God and David their king. They shall fear the LORD and His goodness in the latter days."

In the words of the Bible, this period of time would last for many days. Yet, despite the repeated proclamations of the church that the crucifixion of Jesus serves as a sin sacrifice today, the words of Hosea were meticulously fulfilled.

Given the spiritual magnitude of this remarkable prophecy, Hosea was compelled to reveal how the ecclesiastical temple functions were to be replaced.

- Answer for yourself: In essence, if the prophet is testifying that the nation of Israel will indeed be without a Sacrificial System during their long exile until the messianic age, what are they to use instead?
- Answer for yourself: How are the Jewish people to worship without blood sacrifices during their bitter exile?
- Answer for yourself: What about all the animal sacrifices prescribed in the Book of Leviticus?

- Answer for yourself: Can the Jewish people get along without animal offerings?

By now the reader has the answer to these questions and there is no doubt in is mind to the role of "blood" and its function in the Sacrificial process. Christians, unknowing of how the Sacrificial System actually operated, claim the Jewish are without an atonement since they reject the atonement of Jesus in the New Testament. By now you are clearly seeing that such an atonement does not exist nor has it ever! The Hebrew Bible not only disagrees with this Christian theology but it contradicts it at ever Roman turn; providing you know the Hebrew Scriptures from the later Greek, Latin, and English corruptions and their equally corrupt quotations in the New Testament. For this reason, the statement in Hosea 14:2-3 is crucial. In these two verses, Hosea reveals to his beloved nation how they are to replace the Sacrificial System during their protracted exile. The prophet declares that the Almighty wants us to "render for bulls the offering of our lips." Prayer is to replace the sacrificial system. "Take words with you, And return to the LORD. Say to Him, "Take away all iniquity; receive us graciously, For we will render for bulls the offering of our lips." (Hosea 14:2-3)

The prophets never instruct the Jews to worship any crucified messiah or demigod (Exodus 20:2-3; Deuteronomy 4:35; 6:14; 32:39; Hosea 13:4). Nor does scripture ever tell us that an innocent man can die as an atonement for the sins of the wicked as seen in Ezekiel 18:1-23. Take time to read this long passage please. Such a message that Roman Christianity teaches about the death of Jesus as an atonement is utterly antithetical to the teachings of the Hebrew Scriptures. Rather, it is the lips of the sinner that is transformed into bulls of the sin offerings.

In the reference to Ezekiel 18: 1-23, we find that the Prophet Ezekiel condemns the doctrine of vicarious atonement which has become the backbone of Christian theology. Throughout the 18th chapter, Ezekiel warned his people that this erroneous teaching that a righteous man could die for another man's sins was contrary to the will of God. The way for the sinful man to come right by God is to turn away from his rebellious ways, repent, and thereby the penitent is assured complete forgiveness. Throughout Ezekiel's uplifting sermon on the forgiveness of sin, notice if you will that blood sacrifices are never mentioned. Ezekiel 18:1-4, 19-23 reads:

"The word of the Lord came to me, saying: "What do you people mean by quoting this proverb about the land of Israel, saying: `The fathers eat sour grapes, and the sons' teeth are set on edge?' As I live, declares the Sovereign Lord, you will no longer quote this proverb in Israel. For every living soul belongs to Me, the father as well as the son -- they are Mine. Which ever soul sins, it shall die.... Yet you ask: Why did the son not bear the sin of the father? But the son, justice and righteousness did he do, all My decrees did he safeguard and perform them. He shall surely live. The soul that sins, it shall die! The son shall not bear for the sin of the father, nor the father bear for the sin of the son. The righteousness of the righteous person shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked person shall be upon him. As for the wicked man, if he should turn away from all his sins which he did, and safeguard all My decrees, and do justice and righteousness; he shall surely live. He will not die. All his transgressions which he committed will not be remembered against him. For the righteousness which he did, he shall live. Do I desire at all the death of the wicked man -- the words of my Lord, God -- is it not rather his return from his ways, that he might live."

Here again we find the same message in the later Prophets that sin is atoned for by repentance, faith, obedience, and righteous actions as we have since the beginning of the Hebrew Scriptures, during with Israel lived in the land in possession of its Temple as well as when dispersed. The message of all the Prophets of God is the same, repentance saves from death and provides is own atonement for the sinner.

IN SPITE OF ALL THIS EVIDENCE TO THE CONTRARY, COULD JESUS BE AN ACCEPTABLE SACRIFICE?

Another focal point of the New Testament is the Christian claim that the crucifixion of Jesus served as the final atoning sacrifice for the sins of the world. However, if the sacrificial instructions set forth by the Law of Moses are examined closely, and you see the guidelines set forth for how sacrifices are to be brought, it will be clear that Jesus could never serve as an atoning sacrifice. Clearly, not just any blood shed in any manner would satisfy the Biblical requirements for atonement. Notice the instructions set forth in the Torah concerning sacrifices:

"For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls..." (Lev. 17:11)

Notice that the blood of the acceptable sacrifice was to be shed upon the holy alter of the temple, and not on the pagan phallic symbol of the cross. Besides Jesus died on a single stake without a crossbar as was customary of the Romans and their crucifixions. Clearly, not just any spilled blood is acceptable as a sacrifice. YHWH set forth very meticulous rules and laws governing acceptable sacrifices brought to Him. Jesus' crucifixion may qualify as an atonement according to the faith and incomplete knowledge of many but but since his blood was not offered on the altar, it is not in compliance with what he Holy Scriptures of Israel requires.

There are many other factors that would render the crucifixion of Jesus an unacceptable sacrifice according to Scriptural guidelines. According to the Biblical rules in Leviticus, all sacrifices had to be offered by a Levite Priest, a descendant of Aaron. According to the "gospel" accounts, Jesus was killed by pagan Gentile Roman soldiers.

Biblical law also prohibited any sacrifice that was blemished or maimed:

"Ye shall offer at your own will a male without blemish, of the beeves, of the sheep, or of the goats. But whatsoever hath a blemish, that shall ye not offer: for it shall not be acceptable for you. And whosoever offereth a sacrifice of peace offerings unto [YHWH] to accomplish his vow, or a freewill offering in beefs or sheep, it shall be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no blemish therein. Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen [cyst], or scurvy, or scabbed, ye shall not offer these unto [YHWH], nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto [YHWH]. (Leviticus 22:19-21).

Now we have a problem. The "gospels" of the New Testament clearly teach that Jesus was beaten and whipped, which would have made him blemished and maimed and therefore an unfit sacrifice. Frequently, Christians react to this line of reasoning by protesting that it is improper to be so literal, and that Jesus' death was more of a symbolic or Spiritual sacrifice. This is rather strange when they damn others for not believing the "Jesus Story" as a literal-historical event. Christians will insist, indeed the New Testament itself makes the claim, that Jesus was literally our Passover sacrifice. Let us all remember in the book of John that the Roman soldiers pierced Jesus's side. In so doing he was a blemished sacrifice and disqualified as an acceptable sacrifice according to the Laws of sacrifice. Here we are told that they did not break his legs because this would violate the rules of the proper Passover sacrifice (Matthew 27:26, Mark 15:19, and John 19:3). The legs of the crucified were sometimes broken to hasten death. It was necessary that crucifixion victims must prop themselves up using their legs in order to facilitate breathing. This could prolong death for days at times. The legs were broken so that proper breathing could be prevented, and the lungs crushed the diaphragm and breathing was extremely difficult.

"But coming to Jesus' when they saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs...in order that the Scripture might be fulfilled: Not a bone of him shall be broken." (John 19:33-36)

The gospel of John portrays Jesus as the Passover lamb which was not supposed to have any of its bones broken (cf. Exodus 12:46, Numbers 9:12). If Christians insist that Jesus was the literal Passover sacrifice, and his blood atoned for our sins, then Jesus, as that sacrifice, was subject to the literal guidelines set by the Law of Moses given by the God of Israel governing an acceptable sacrifice. Christians always seem to want to have it both ways. The New Testament itself proposes that Jesus was a literal acceptable sacrifice. When confronted with the clear Biblical instructions on how acceptable sacrifices were to be offered, however, they will complain that this is just legalistic nit picking.

Answer for yourself: If Jesus was the final sacrifice, why did the James, Paul, and the Jerusalem Church command that Paul undertake the Nazarite Vow that required sin and blood atonement offerings? Even more so why is the sacrificial system returning according to the Prophets in the Hebrew Scriptures?

The New Testament is clear that the animal sacrificial system never could atone for sin in any permanent way, and indeed the entire purpose of the animal sacrificial system was, in the language of the Book of Hebrews, foreshadowing Jesus' death on the cross. Hebrews 10:4 insists that the animal sacrificial system had no lasting value. "For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and goats could take away sins."

Answer for yourself: Why was the above statement necessary for the writer of the Book of Hebrews?

Simply because if the animal sacrifices really worked, why was Jesus' death necessary? It should have been sufficient to keep bringing animal offerings. The New Testament therefore repeatedly declares that Jesus was the final sacrifice for all time (Romans 6:10; Hebrews 9:12; 10:10; 10:18), and there would no longer be any future need for the return of the animal sacrificial system. This doctrine, however, completely contradicts the words of the prophets who clearly foretold that the animal sacrificial system would return in the messianic age. Jeremiah 33:17-18; Zechariah 14:21; Ezekiel 43-44 all teach us that the Sacrifices will return to the rebuilt Temple in the Messianic age. Missionaries often try to explain this problem away by claiming that the reason animal sacrifices will return is to point back to Jesus. This response, however, is a rationalization that is not even used in the New Testament, and thoroughly contradicts the statements in Romans and Hebrews. that Jesus' sacrifice was the "final sacrifice" for sin. It does not appear to be that at all having seen these articles and the facts that they reveal to the reader.

You may wonder why I present this this type of material to you, our readers. Simply, because I discovered upon my personal study these serious Spiritual deceptions over the early years of my Pastorate. In looking for a "Jewish Jesus" I turned to Judaism for answers since not finding one in Christianity. There, when studying Judaism intently I discovered not only these textual forgeries in our Christian Bibles when compared to the older Hebrew Scriptures but the unbelievable reinterpretation of almost all Spiritual Doctrines that existed in Biblical Judaism. Later as my studies would advance after my resignation as a Pastor I would discover the venerable links between the Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the ancient religions with Biblical Judaism. These "unaltered Spiritual dogmas" concerning the Souls of mankind basically remained unchanged up until the rise of Roman Orthodoxy in the 2nd through the 5th century when allegorical Spiritual and Divine Truths that had remained unchanged for thousands of years were "literalized and historicize" and altered almost beyond belief and recognition. This is what we inherited from Rome as you are seeing in these articles. I was so moved by what I uncovered over those years that God led me to create Bet Emet in order to warn and share this knowledge with other brothers and sisters desiring the truth about our "Jesus Story". I do so in hopes that they might learn as well the truth behind the New Testament and repent thereby accepting the true "unity of the faith" given to all mankind which Rome so altered to be almost unrecognizable today without great effort exerted on your part to find such Divine Truths. Such Divine Truths when incorporated in our religious beliefs and lives honors God and guarantees our acceptance when we die. More to follow. Shalom.

Let us continue our studies into the Sacrificial System and the death of Jesus.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #7

WHY WAS JESUS PATTERNED AFTER THE PASSOVER SACRIFICE...SHOULD IT NOT HAVE BEEN AFTER YOM KIPPUR?

It really does not make sense to type Jesus as the Passover sacrifice in the New Testament. Atonement was never connected with the Passover. Doing so shows that the writers of these texts knew little about Biblical Judaism let alone the Biblical Feasts or again how the Sacrificial System actually functioned.

We know from Exodus 12 that the Passover sacrifice did not serve as atonement for sins, it merely commemorates the exodus from Egypt. Even when the lamb was slaughtered in Egypt and its' blood smeared on the door-posts, the blood did not serve to atone for the sins of anyone. The blood smeared on the doorposts of their homes was but a symbol of their faith and was the sign for the angel of death to pass over Israelite homes during the death of the first born. The only people in danger were first-born males, not first born girls let alone older brothers in the same family. This blood, even it has been an atonement of some sorts did not apply for everyone. This blood wasn't a help to other people in the family, and didn't serve as an atonement for the first born or save the mothers or sisters of any family. To try to equate the death of Jesus and his death and sacrifice for the sins of the world evidently let a lot of people "unsaved" if we make Jesus be an accurate "type and shadow" as Christianity teaches. But few study this deep, they are emotionally swayed by pronouncements from the pulpit. It sounds so good and this false assurance that condones any behavior in the name of Jesus satisfies their fears of a lasting hell. Better for them if they had studied at home for truth is often elusive in the Christian Church today which follows "tradition" more than they study their own Scriptures let alone the Hebrew Scriptures. Preaching has always been a poor substitute for "study"; study being the highest form of worship in Biblical Judaism and one of the gifts of the Holy Spirit to the flock of God. Look at you will, you will never find "preaching" as a gift of the Holy Spirit. Once you are taught correctly then you, the congregation, becomes the "proclaimers" and the "preachers". Only in these last 100 years or so has clergy taken salaries to do the job of the congregation. In so doing "serious teaching of the Word of God", a gift from God, has almost vanished from our Churches. The fruit of such a tragic loss of the operation of the Holy Spirit among us speaks for itself.

It would have made much more sense to type Jesus after the Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement) sacrifice, which actually was part of the atonement service for the sins of all the people. But there is a major theological problem connecting the Yom Kippur sacrifice with the death of Jesus as an atonement for sin. Before we "hit the nail on the head" understand that the study of Biblical Judaism is not only enlightening for the Christian but delivers one from incorrect damnable theology we inherited by Rome. You will never know Spiritual Truth and freedom from fear or ignorance until you begin to worship God in the highest way ever given mankind; that way is the study of His word. Only in so doing will you ever break free for erroneous Spiritual traditions like the one we approach next.

Answer for yourself: So, what is the problem connecting Jesus' death to the Yom Kippur atoning sacrificial lamb?

The problem here was that according to Leviticus 16:10, 21-22, the animal that atoned for the sins of the nation was NEVER killed but always sent out alive into the desert! (THINK)...it was not killed...it lived...; just as we saw earlier in the previous articles and even in the Isaiah 53 studies...."life" atones..not death!

Because as Christians, since we are reared on "preaching" and not "study" we are not thoroughly familiar with anything except what we have heard preached from pulpits that comes more from tradition than hard-noses exegesis of Biblical texts. We as Christians are basically ignorant of Biblical Judaism, the corruptions of the Hebrew Scriptures when traced through the later Greek, Latin, and English translations, the dynamics and true workings of the Sacrificial System, basically ignorant of Gnosticism, Comparative Religions, Astronomy, ancient Egyptian Religion, etc. This assures us that we are not equipped to tell "fiction" from "truth" when we hear it.

The Yom Kippur lamb that carried the "guilt" and "symbolic sin" of the nation into the wilderness was never killed. To equate this to the death of Jesus as some form of atoning "death" is completely nonsensical! But few know this since having never studied Judaism and the Biblical Feasts in the both the Hebrew Bible, which are given and commanded of both Jew and non-Jew. Not knowing this then we are content to follow the Constantinian Roman Calendar of the Church which completely replaced God's Holy Days. Few ever stop to look up word in the New Testament in their original Greek; had you done so you would have found like myself following Seminary that both Jews and non-Jews kept the Biblical Festivals in the New Testament. It is hidden in the Greek; totally absent in the English. You have found like me that the word "pascha", or "Passover", is used 29 times in the New Testament. In 28 of these times the word "pascha" is translated correctly, as "Passover". Funny, that when we come to the Books of Acts, 12:4, we find that this same word "pascha" which has been translated 27 times as "Passover" now becomes "Easter".

Answer for yourself: Is Easter the same as Passover? No way. Just ask a Jew or a Rabbi, or better yet see what God has to say about it in His Hebrew Scriptures. Understand Rome could not have the early Gentile church observing Passover; although they did for centuries until the Roman repression and persecutions finally stamped out the last of the Jewish Roots of the Gentile Church at the point of swords and shed blood. Here before us is but another "purposeful mistranslation" of the Hebrew words in our Bibles that turns the reader away from the Divine Truths of the Soul in the ancient Spiritual Wisdom and are blessed today to find these same Divine Truths of the Soul in Biblical Judaism which are completely lacking in Roman Christianity. We have to come to Rome in the 2nd through the 5th century to find this "radical reinterpretation" of almost all of the ancient Divine Wisdom of the Soul and the total mutation and alteration of the Divine Concept of "the Krst/Karest/Christ".

Not aware of the Spiritual dynamics of these Holy Days, sacred days that teach upon the progressive Spiritual evolution of all Souls, we as Christians grow up following Rome's incorrect "Jesus" interpretation of these days; never knowing how far we have fallen from Divine Truth. We live our whole lives accepting a false atonement for our Souls by accepting this "Jesus Story" that Rome crafted; never working out our Soul's salvation through a life devoted to repentance, confession of sin, prayer, righteous works and deeds like almsgiving instead of robbing God by giving our tithes to the Church who uses these funds anyway they please instead of the ONLY ways God commanded it be used in the Hebrew Scriptures.

Now the followers of Jesus had another problem. According to the prophecies of ancient Israel, the Messiah was not supposed to die before completing His mission. The followers of Jesus, who much later claimed through the oral tradition that he was Israel's Messiah, now had to deal with Jesus' embarrassing supposed death at the hands of the Romans. So they correlated him with the slain Passover sacrifice. This tap dance around the scriptures to try and legitimize Jesus as the Messiah cannot negate the clear lesson from Leviticus and the Day of Atonement that the shedding of blood is not a pre-requisite for atonement.

CAN YESHUA OR ANY OTHER PERSON ATONE FOR YOUR SINS?

Answer for yourself: Where did this idea originate that one man, or that anyone for that matter, could atone and pay for the sins of one or more people?

Maybe you don't know or have never read on this subject. Many don't and have not done adequate study to know the answer. Others have. It should be perfectly clear to you, if you have ever looked into the subject, that such notions stem from the Babylonian mystery religion of ancient Mesopotamia. The Greeks and Romans, as well as their ancestors, had multiple legends whereby heroes died for followers, cities, friends, for the law, for the truth, etc. But what many writers fail to tell you is that in all of these "myths" that such "dying and rising" gods and goddesses were NEVER LITERAL!

Answer for yourself: So what did these dying and rising gods and goddesses actually mean? This is pretty far advanced for this study but here goes. We find that these "dying", "rising" and "atoning gods and goddesses" were first of all always a Spiritual allegory, metaphor, cipher, or symbol. They were never to be understood as "literal" people. They were ALL symbols for the Descent of the Soul and the Krst, Karest/Christ into "material manifestation". In other words symbolic of the "incarnation into humanity". From beginning to end we find this Spiritual Concept unaltered from nation to nation; from ancient Egypt 10,000 years B.C.E. through the Greek philosophers like Plato, Proclus, Plotinus, Iambilicus, etc. This "death" suffered by these Divine Entities and "Living Energies" which fell into "matter" and "flesh" did to to experience "life" and "Spiritual evolution" necessary in their Heavenly development say the ancients. That is where we find incarnation of the Soul, a Metaphysical concept expressed by the ancients in symbols, pictures, myths, legend, etc. But more than that the Soul, fallen to its "death" and "grace" in Amenta, or "hell", this fleshly body, was doomed to remain "dead" to Spiritual reality due to the power of "matter" and "flesh". But if "awakened" from the "death of incarnational existence" then the Soul could work out its Earthly mission and salvation. But needing help he needed a "Bishop for his Soul" that God supplied in the "falling" and "dying Divine Mind" which comes to "seek and save the lost". Here we find the "incarnation of the Christ" which comes to live "within mankind" to elevate the Soul over the deadening animal nature. These "falls" into "material incarnation" was defined by some as "sin" but a more true understanding is "darkened matter" which was the grave for the Soul; a grave from which is must arise and "awaken from the dead" as the Gnostic Paul admonishes. So in all of this the "atonement" for the Soul comes through the sacrifice of the Krst/Karest/Christ "falling from Heaven" to seek and save the Soul through his "teaching and instruction" during the life of Soul which was "trapped in matter during its Earthly incarnation". Such a fall of the Divine Mind, or Christ to save the Soul, was called by the ancients, believe you me, the "crucifixion of the Krst/Karest/Christ" on the "cross of matter". This "death" of the Christ is is incarnation as was the Soul. Thus we read that "we are crucified with Christ" in our texts, never realizing that none of this was ever "literal" or "confined to but one person" but applied to the whole of humanity. This fall of the Christ into "humanity" and "matter" was likened to "death" by the ancient Spiritual masters for thousands of years. This Christ, this Divine Mind, wilfully took upon himself the "death of matter" and in so doing provided Divine Truth for the Soul, deadened as well in "matter", whereby he could "awaken from the dead" and live a life in truth and knowledge whereby he could be the atonement for any wrong doing while in Earthly incarnation. All of this is Metaphysical allegory taught since the beginning of time; Rome will come and not only "literalize this same Divine Spiritual Wisdom" and horribly limit it to but one person, this "reinvention" and "mutation of the Christ". If you think I am not telling you the Divine Truth here then boy do I have some books for you to read whereby you can see this "mutation" and "radical reinterpretation" of God's Divine Spiritual Wisdom step by step at the hands of Rome. This is fact which can be demonstrable to anyone who inquires.

What is certain is that the idea that an innocent person can be killed instead of those who are guilty is not consistent with what the Hebrew Scriptures teach. After the sin of the Golden Calf, YHWH was so outraged that His intentions were to totally annihilate and destroy the Israelite people. Moses offers to die in their place as a "substitutionary sacrifice". Notice God's response to Moses suggestion:

"Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin...; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written. And [YHWH] said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." (Exodus 32:32-33). As great a man as Moses and his life could not be accepted for the sins of the wicked. But yet we are told that the God who changes not decided to do just that! Something is wrong with our Christian theology, but never knowing Biblical Judaism and the dynamics of the Sacrificial System we are prey for the slaughter of our minds and Souls by pernicious and pestilent error masqueraded as Divine oracles Sunday after Sunday. And nobody knows any different in the pews.

Throughout the Hebrew Scriptures YHWH says that one person cannot die for the sins of another:

"Fathers shall not be put to death for their sons, nor shall sons be put to death for their fathers; everyone shall be put to death for his own sin" (Deuteronomy 24:16)

"But everyone will die for his own sin; each man who eats sour grapes, his teeth will be set on edge" (Jeremiah 31:30)

"The person who sins will die. The son will not bear the punishment for the father's iniquity, nor will the father bear the punishment for the son's iniquity; the righteousness of the righteous will be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked will be upon himself" (Ezekiel 18:20)

"He who justifies the wicked, and he who condemns the righteous, both of them are an abomination to the Lord" (Proverbs 17:15).

"No man [Jesus included] can by any means redeem his brother, or give to 'God' a ransom for him" (Psalms 49:7)

Answer for yourself: If no "jot" or "title" is to be changed in God's Holy Word, then how do we accept this New Testament which is full of contradictory theology concerning the death of Jesus as an atonement not only for the righteous but the wicked as well?

Unlike the Greek Testament in the Christian Bible, the Holy Scriptures of the One True Creator of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob clearly teach that we are responsible for our own actions and sins. We alone must give an account and pay the price. God does not change! No allegorical virgin born savior deity from Babylonian mythology, or any other for that matter, can later be "literalized" in order to contradict the clear instructions of the God of Israel.

Answer for yourself: Why are there two theologies concerning atonement in your Bible; one in the Old Testament by the God of Israel who says He changes not, and then the Romanized Pauline corpus of material in the New Testament that contradicts it by paralleling an incorrect understanding of the ancient Divine mystery religions? This two conflicting atonement messages is very evident when the Old Testament is compared with the New Testament, and if you say you never saw it dear one you never looked deep enough for it is there!

NOW FOR THE REALLY BIG QUESTION

Here is a question that Christian ministers have danced around for two thousand years, but have never truthfully answered. This question bothered me all the years I pastored.

Answer for yourself: If indeed Jesus came as the final sacrifice to atone for the sins of the world, why do The Holy Scriptures proclaim that the Third Temple will be built and sacrifices resumed during the Messianic era?

The vast majority of average Christians are completely ignorant of these prophecies, as they have been cleverly hidden by their ministers. Notice the clear teachings of The Holy Scriptures regarding this:

- "Even those I will bring to My holy mountain, and make them joyful in My house of prayer. Their burnt offerings and their sacrifices will be acceptable on My altar; for My house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples." (Isaiah 56:7)
- "From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia My worshipers, My dispersed ones will bring My offerings." (Zephaniah 3:10)
- "All the flocks of Kedar will be gathered together to you, the rams of Nebaioth will minister to you; they will go up with acceptance on My altar, and I shall glorify My glorious house." (Isaiah 60:7)
- "And I will make a covenant of peace with them; it will be an everlasting covenant with them. And I will place them and multiply them, and will set My sanctuary in their midst forever." (Ezekiel 37:26)
- "And He will sit as a smelter and purifier of silver, and He will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, so that they may present to [YHWH] offerings in righteousness. Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will be pleasant to [YHWH], as in the days of old and as in former years." (Malachi 3:3-4)
- (Ezekiel 45:17) "And it shall be the princes part to provide the burnt offerings, the grain offerings, and the libations...to make the atonement for the house of Israel."

Answer for yourself: If Jesus' death is the final sin sacrifice and blood offering to be accepted by God did somebody fail to tell Him or His prophets?

LET THERE BE NO DOUBT

Apparently, dear reader, Jesus' sacrifice did not make any atonement for the sins of all the world. If the death of Jesus had atoned for all sins for all time, why will atonement be required during the messianic era?

Answer for yourself: Having seen all of this in these articles how do you answer the true words of Israel's God? Mr. Christian minister, how do you? These questions caused me to study like I never had in my life to find the answers to these troubling questions; questions that I had never thought to ask nor my Pastor. Only in my studies of Judaism, while looking for a Jewish Jesus, did I run across such information that has eluded me my whole life as a Christian. As you are becoming painfully aware the root of our whole theological dilemma and problem lies in the difference between the Hebrew Scriptures and their later "radical reinterpretation" of them by Rome. It appears to the student and "think-believer" that the Hebrew Scriptures contain the Divine authority; our altered Christian texts do not! As a Christian Pastor I came to realize after about 5 years of serious study following Seminary that the New Testament was little more than a propagandist Roman "replacement" document full of anti-Semitic ideas and teachings. Considering all the New Testament Greek manuscripts available today totaling a little less than 6000 pieces, there are over 300,000 contradictions among these 6000 or so texts and no two are "identical" or "read the same". Surely God, if behind this New Testament could do better. When you compare this with the exactness of the Hebrew copyist then the New Testament is a joke. As if that was not enough, my heart broke within me when I discovered beyond any doubt that my KJV Old Testament was a purposefully falsified and altered translation of the prior Jewish Masoretic text. My Old Testament came to recognized through such serious study in Judaism that it had been "doctored" and "adulterated" in "key" theological positions in order to create and lay the foundation and authority for a "new religion"; a Replacement Religion. I felt no better at all when my New Testament was found to contain the same alteration and forgeries as did my KJV Old Testament. It took over five years of serious study to substantiate these Scriptural discrepancies beyond any doubt and were a major factor in my resignation from my Pastorate. I was an ordained Pastor of an apostate faith. Such shame no man can know. I had believed "the" lie and the "very elect" was deceived. I was a member in high standing of an apostate faith and a man of "unclean lips" as described by Isaiah. I, like most Christians, had accepted everything on "faith" never questioning anything. I was gullible for the LORD until YHWH put in my heart and head the desire to study out the conflicting errors of my Christian theology which surfaced during my 3 years in Seminary. I "awoke" in Seminary. The fruit of my studies I lay before you as a gift from God and as a love offering in hopes your hunger for truth is greater than you commitment to tradition.

YHWH AND MERCY

The Christian claim that only through bloodshed can atonement be made show that Christians are unfamiliar with the compassion and mercy of the Holy One of Israel. Sometimes, God forgives us simply because He is kind, loving, compassionate and merciful. Even when we don't seek our LORD appropriately, He has the ability to reach out to us with love and forgive us:

"Who is a [Elohiym] like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not His anger for ever, because He delighteth in mercy." (Micah 7:18)

"Their heart was not steadfast toward Him, nor were they faithful in His covenant. But He, being compassionate, forgave their iniquity...remembering that they were but flesh." (Psalms 78:36-39)

"You have not brought Me the sheep of your burnt offerings...or the fat of your sacrifices, but you have burdened Me with your sins...Nevertheless, I will wipe out your transgressions for My own sake, and I will not remember your sins." (Isaiah 43:23-25)

Truly, truly the Holy one of Israel is a just and merciful Creator not desiring the death of the wicked; rather their repentance.

WHAT DO THE PROPHETS HAVE TO SAY?

Answer for yourself: If the Christian claim that one must be covered by the shed blood of the Messiah in order to make atonement for his sins is valid, why can this claim not be validated by the writings of the prophets?

Time and time again, the writings of the prophets emphasize prayer and repentance as the method to atone for sins. I challenge any Christian to produce a Scripture from Unaltered Holy Hebrew Scriptures (the Old Testament used by the Jewish people of Israel and Babylon) that teaches us that we must believe in the atoning blood of a Messiah in order to obtain salvation [amazingly, even the Christian Bible does not say it]. What the prophets teach us is that our own obedience to the laws of Israel's God combined with sincere repentance and prayer for forgiveness will atone for sin if done with the proper attitude of humility.

- "That every man will turn from his evil way, then I will forgive their iniquity and their sin." (Jeremiah 36:3)
- "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return to [YHWH], and He will have compassion on him; and to our [Elohiym]. for He will abundantly pardon." (Isaiah 55:7)
- "And if My people who are called by My name humble themselves and pray, and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." (II Chronicles 7:14).
- "But if the wicked man turns from all his sins which he has committed and observes all My statutes and practices justice and righteousness, he shall surely live; he shall not die. All his transgressions which he has committed will not be remembered against him; because of the righteousness which he has practiced he shall live...When a wicked man turns away from his wickedness which he has committed and practices justice and righteousness, he will save his life...Repent and turn away from all your transgressions, so that iniquity may not become a stumbling block to you (Ezekiel 18:21- 22,27,30).

- "By loving kindness and truth iniquity is atoned for..." (Proverbs 16:6).
- "If you return to [Elohiym] you will be restored; if you remove unrighteousness far from your tent...then you will delight in [Elohiym]..." (Job 22:23-27).

Clearly, the central teaching of the Hebrew Holy Scriptures is that we must break away from our sinful past and sincerely repent. This is the only way to restore our relationship with the Holy One of Israel. If one strays from the path set forth by the Laws of our God, one must repent and return to the path. This is how forgiveness is obtained. Even when sacrifices were offered, they in and of themselves did not procure atonement; they were only symbolic of the Spiritual condition of the sacrificer's Soul "at-that-moment". You now have seen that in the first articles in this series. The sacrifice was part of the process but only a "picture" of the sacrificer after his repentance.

Answer for yourself: What is repentance? Returning to God by forsaking our evil ways and praying for forgiveness. The prophets were constantly correcting the Israelite people for relying on blood sacrifices as the essential element of atonement instead of or without repentance and obedience to God's ETERNAL's Laws:

- "What are your multiplied sacrifices to Me? says [YHWH]. I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed cattle. And I take no pleasure in the blood of bulls, lambs, or goats...Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean; remove the evil of your deeds from My sight. Cease to do evil, learn to do good; seek justice, reprove the ruthless , defend the orphan, plead for the widow. Come let us reason together says [YHWH], 'Though your sins are as scarlet, they will be white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they will be like wool, if you consent and obey..."(Isaiah 1:11-18).
- "The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord." (Proverbs 15:8).
- "To do righteousness and justice is more acceptable to [YHWH] than sacrifice." (Proverbs 21:3)
- "For I delight in loyalty rather than sacrifice, and in the knowledge of [Elohiym] rather than burnt offerings." (Hosea 6:6).
- "Has [YHWH] as great a delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken more than the fat of rams." (I Samuel 15:22)
- "With what shall I come to [YHWH], and bow myself before the [Elohiym] on high? Shall I come to Him with burnt offerings, with yearling calves? Does [YHWH] take delight in thousands of rams, in ten thousand rivers of oil? Shall I present my firstborn for my rebellious acts, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul? He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does [YHWH] require of you but to do justice, to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God" (Micah 6:6-8)

Answer for yourself: Do you now begin to see what the very wise king Solomon was trying to explain in 1 Kings 8, when he said that even though the Israelite people may not always have access to the sacrifices and the Priesthood, yet they would always have access to the Holy One of Israel and an atonement for their Soul?

Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived, understood that repentance and not blood is the Scriptural form of atonement.

Answer for yourself: Remember the story of Jonah?

He was sent to the evil city of Nineveh {non-Jews) to warn them of their impending destruction. Jonah does not come into the city and tell the people that unless they begin offering sacrifices they are doomed. He does not tell them that unless they accept on faith that the shed blood of Israel's Messiah will atone for their sins they are lost. No! He warns them to repent. Their response to his warnings is: they fast, pray, and turn from their evil.

Answer for yourself: What is YHWH's response to their repentance?

"When [Elohiym] saw their deeds that they turned from their wicked way, then [Elohiym] relented concerning the calamity which He had declared He would bring upon them, and He did not do it." (Jonah 3:10).

EVEN NEBUCHADNEZZAR IS TOLD HOW TO ATONE FOR HIS SINS….VERY INTERESTING....

"Therefore, O king, may my advice be pleasing to you: Redeem your sins by doing righteousness, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the poor." (Daniel 4:27).

THE POWER OF PRAYER FOR ATONEMENT

After the ten northern tribes split away from Judah, a civil war prevented most of Israel from Temple worship. The prophet Hosea addressed this situation and instructed the people accordingly:

"Return, O Israel, to [YHWH] your God, For you have stumbled because of your iniquity. Take words with you and return to [YHWH]. Say to Him, 'Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously, for we will render as bullocks the offerings of our lips'." (Hosea 14:1-2)

We are able to approach our god directly with prayer, which is possible at all times and regardless of the size of our bank accounts; and He assures us that sincere prayer can achieve forgiveness for our sins:

- "Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O [YHWH], the [Elohiym] of my salvation. And my tongue shall sing aloud of Your righteousness. O [YHWH], open my lips, and my mouth shall show forth Your praise. For You do not delight in burnt offerings. The sacrifices of [Elohiym] are a broken spirit, a broken and contrite heart. These, O [Elohiym], You will not despise." (Psalms 51:14-17)"
- "I will praise the name of [Elohiym] with a song, and will magnify Him with thanksgiving. This shall please [YHWH] better than an ox or bullock that has horns and hoofs." (Psalm 69:30-31)
- "For You, [YHWH], are good, and ready to forgive, and abundant in loving kindness to all who call upon You. Give ear, O [YHWH] to my prayer, and give heed to the voice of my supplications." (Psalm 86:5-6)
- "And listen to the supplications of Your servant and of Your people Israel, when they pray toward this place; hear from heaven Your dwelling place, hear and forgive." (II Chronicles 6:21)

The Holy Scriptures of Israel are very clear. Prayer, a humble attitude, and above all, sincere heartfelt repentance is what the Holy One of Israel requires of His people in order to atone for sins. No doubt He knew thousands of years in advance that there would come a time when some would wrongly rely on the blood of a deified human sacrifice to vicariously replace obedience to His laws. It is evident to anyone with eyes to see that a comparison between The Holy Scriptures of Israel and the Greek mistranslation of them as well as the later corrupted New Testament texts taken from them will reveal two entirely different religions. One is dedicated to the One True God of Israel; the other is dedicated to a "literalized" and falsely "historized" savior as taken from the allegorical Divine Spiritual Wisdom. Rome in "radically reinterpreting" this ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom along with its repetition in Biblical Judaism has caused us all to err who follow Christianity today.

The Jewish people believe that the time will come when Israel's true messiah will usher in an era of peace when all nations will believe in and seek to worship the one true Holy One of Israel of our fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. At that time, the proponents of Christianity will deeply repent of the day when they taught the beloved nation of Israel and the descendants of Abraham to break the first commandment and worship another besides the Holy One of Israel.

THOUGHTS ON THE DEATH OF JESUS AS RELATED TO THE SACRIFICIAL SYSTEM #8

"Bet Emet" stands for "truth" as the Hebrew name implies; "House of Truth". Bet Emet has meticulously dug out over these last twenty years this ancient Spiritual Truth from the "religious fiction" and man-made Roman anti-Semitic teachings held sacred today by millions of Christians for over the last 2 millennia. We shave spent much time and research to discover the hidden truths concerning the Sacrificial System and its true relationship to the "Jesus Story" over these last twenty years. Having seen that Rome "radically reinterpreted" not only the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the ancients that existed basically unchanged for thousands and thousands of years, understand that Biblical Judaism was not immune from this same Roman alteration of truth. The Spiritual Truths found in Biblical Judaism has been terribly misrepresented to the world by this Roman mistranslation of the Hebrew Scriptures. We have seen this repeatedly since the first article regarding the misrepresentation of the workings of the Sacrificial System and its purposeful mischaracterization throughout the New Testament as Rome falsified the whole of the Sacrificial System and the obtainment through if of the atonement of one's sin. We have seen repeatedly in instance after instance in the previous article how Divine Truth as related to the Sacrificial System in Biblical Judaism and the obtainment of atonement for the sins of the Soul were transformed by the monks of Rome into a total farce and mockery of such Divine Spiritual Truth.

That being so then what I am going to do next in this article is somewhat dangerous but I want you warn you ahead of time. I am going to make an "assumption" that is totally false. I will make a "false assumption" regarding the death of Jesus, as depicted in the New Testament, for the purpose of teaching another "Divine Truth" truth which will shed even more light upon the truths of Biblical atonement and the workings of the Sacrificial System.

Let us assume that the traditional Christian teaching about Jesus' death being a sacrifice that procured the atonement of the sins of the world was true and correct (although it is not). So we approach what is said next with the erroneous assumption that Jesus' death was an atonement for our sin. Let us see what happens when we approach the Sacrificial System armed with this erroneous "assumption". Now lets proceed.

ATONEMENT FOR BOTH TABLETS OF THE LAW OR ONLY FOR THE FIRST TABLET? THIS WILL SURPRISE YOU!

Answer for yourself: As a Christian, being told your whole life that Jesus' death was an atonement for your sin, then is this "atonement", as seen in Jesus' sacrifice (supposedly a type and shadow of sin offerings), an atonement for all kinds of sin?

Honestly, the answer is "NO"; not all sin, because in the sacrifice of lambs, on Yom Kippur, for instance, the lambs would have only represented the Souls which had repented of sins committed concerning only the First Tablet of the Law and NOT the Second Tablet of the Law.

Wow! I bet you never knew this! We read the New Testament concerning Jesus' death that it is an atonement for the "believer's sins" never knowing that even if it had been in some way that such an atonement would not have applied to all types of sin. The sins of the Second Tablet of the Law were NEVER atoned for through the Sacrificial System; blood sacrifices were NEVER brought for the sins of the Second Tablet of the Law.

Answer for yourself: What are sins concerning the Second Tablet of the Law?

- Thou shalt not murder ("Thou shalt not premeditate murder" is a more accurate translation)
- Thou shalt not commit adultery
- Thou shalt not steal
- Thou shalt not bear false witness
- Thou shalt not covet thy fellow-man's wife, house, or anything that is his.

Now, I don't have the time or space to get into depth concerning these various Laws and Commandments but understand that what is usually understood as the Ten Commandments are not really "ten"; they are "ten categories" in which hundreds of Commandments are grouped under each heading. This becomes very plain to us when we study Judaism and see that under these "ten headings" there are in reality 613 Commandments; 248 positive Commandments and 365 negative Commandments. But for now understand that violations of the Laws and Commandments of God concerning these 5 areas above were NEVER atoned for through the Sacrificial System, intentional or unintentional, and blood sacrifices were never brought in their behalf of these sins. This fact, that is easily uncovered in any half-serious study of Judaism and the Sacrificial System is devastating to our "Jesus Theology" and and belief in Jesus' death being an atonement for the sins of the world! Christians, not knowing this dynamic truth regarding how the Sacrificial System operated, then fall for the lies concerning Jesus and his death for their sin that are contained in our Roman New Testament. We have to look again to repentance, remorse for sin, prayer, restitution to our brothers and sisters for our sins against them, righteous works and almsgiving to find atonement regarding these above sins. But this Spiritual Dynamic of the Soul's atonement for its own sin is not new, it is involved in "ALL" types of atonement, both the First and Second Tablets of the Law as we will see later when looking more closely to the atonement connected to the Second Tablet of the Law. The only difference is that "blood sacrifices" are not brought as a part of one's atonement for atonement connected to the Second Tablet of the Law. The only "blood" that is brought in behalf of atonement concerning the Second Tablet of the Law is yours as Lev. 17:11 has already taught us; it is the "life" in our blood, the Soul in "your" blood that atones for these sins of the Second Tablet of the Law. As we have seen previously, it is the Divine Principle set in place by God that your "life in your blood", your "Soul in your blood" that, according to Leviticus 17:11, atones for sin. It is your "life", your "Soul in your blood", your very life and actions, your repentance, your prayer, your righteous conduct and righteous deeds, and your almsgiving toward the injured party and your fellowman following such sin that atones for your sin according to Biblical Judaism, the Torah and the Prophets, and the Sacrificial System.

This is very important to recognize especially when one makes parallels to Jesus as a "type and shadow" of Old Testament truths regarding atonement. And few Christians have ever studied enough to know this....but the Jews have always known this and this is but another reason why they won't convert and become Christians believing in the death of Jesus for their sins!

You can be a Christian you whole life and go to church your whole life and NEVER know that even when blood sacrifices were brought to the Temple that they only represented the Soul of the sacrificer who had previously repented for unintentional sins ONLY! But now we see that these blood sacrifices only represented the Soul of the sinner which had repented of sins committed against the First Tablet of the Law ONLY; never the Second Tablet of the Law.

Nowhere can we find where the sacrificial blood offerings were ever brought in connection for sins committed against the Second Tablet of the Law; sins committed between man and man.

Answer for yourself: Even if Jesus' death was an atonement for sin, and its not, then if being truthful to the rule of "types and shadows" how is it possible that his death and shed blood atoned as the "Lamb of God" for sins that never were atoned for by any animal sacrifice or blood offering? At best Jesus' death would have only atoned for sins of the First Tablet of the Law, between man and God, and that being so then the sinner stands yet guilty before God for the sins he committed against the Second Tablet of the Law, between man and man. Any such atonement provided by the death of Jesus is "incomplete". The Christian, believing in Jesus' death for his sin, according to Christian theology, is yet on his way to a burning Hell of torment and pain because the atoning death of Jesus did not cover all of his sins! Jesus did not complete the job, being a righteous Jew and would be Messiah I guess he forgot! We need to think people! Again, something is critically and desperately wrong with our "Jesus theology" when it fails to atone for all the sins of the world as it says and so doing misleads billions of people. But few again study enough to see these irregularities; irregularities encountered by me in my serious studies during and after Seminary which were done "outside the box" seeking knowledge about God and my responsibilities to Him as his son. Judaism was a wonderful place to start such a serious inquiry and it is for all our readers as well. Only when you compare the "religion of Jesus" with the "religion created around his supposed identity" created by Rome over the 2nd through the 5th century can you see these terrible untruths spread over the pages of our Christian Bible as given us by Rome.

We hear our whole lives that God had a wonderful plan to restore mankind unto Himself. We hear as Christians that His plan would take away the sins of the whole world. All one would have to do is accept God's free gift of salvation through the shed blood of Jesus. As Christians we hear that the Word "literally" came down to Earth in the form of one man and became flesh-- born of a virgin, lived a sinless life and gave up His own life on the old rugged cross to pay the price for the sins of the world. We hear that this Word is Jesus Christ who shed His own blood for our sins upon the cross. This sounds so great and reassuring, but there is one problem. This wonderful story of the death of the righteous for the wicked is simply not true, never has been, never will be. God does not justify the wicked; their repentance does.

God clearly states "I will not justify the wicked" (Exodus 23:7). That seems to imply that we need to obey the Commandments of God and repent when we break them in order to be justified. Divine justice demands that the righteous person should be justified whereas the wicked should be condemned. It is a miscarriage of justice when lawbreakers are set free and when innocent people are condemned. "He who justifies the wicked, and he who condemns the just, both of them alike are an abomination to the LORD" (Proverbs 17:15). We can be sure that God will deal justly with us. Therefore He declares: "I will not justify the wicked" (Exodus 23:7). Since God is absolutely just, He cannot let the sinner go free.

Answer for yourself: How, then, can God do this very thing, justify the wicked when He has previously said that such a thing "is an abomination" to Him? How can the following passage in the New Testament be true?

"However, to the man who does not work, but trusts God who justifies the wicked, his faith is credited as righteousness." (Romans 4:5 NIV).

Answer for yourself: Don't you think that the "real Paul", being a "Jew of Jews", would have know this or at least the Holy Spirit who moved the "holy ones of old" to pen the Sacred Scriptures of the Jews? Then who is writing such contradictions of Divine Eternal Spiritual Principles?

THINK!

Looking at the Hebrew Scriptures which have "changed not" then we see that this "Romanized Pauline Theology" is a bunch of bunk! But without a through knowledge of the forgery of the Hebrew Scriptures, the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom, Gnosticism, and the ancient Egyptian Religion then the misstatements of Rome concerning the Soul are not easily detected let alone their complete butchery of the "the Christ" which we have inherited. But we as normative and typical Christians never know these things since we know almost nothing of Biblical Judaism, the teachings in the Hebrew Scriptures of the true Messiah, the workings of the Sacrificial System, the corruptions of the Hebrew Scriptures that litter the pages of our Old Testament and New Testament, let alone the complete alteration of the "dogmas and identity of the Krst/Karest/Christ" which we received. We, as typical Christians, know little if anything concerning the truths behind the Sacrificial System and how one actually obtained salvation and atonement before God. As the great Egyptian Religion before them, Biblical Judaism is the vessel that the Divine Creator used to express His Divine Mind and Divine Spiritual Truths to the world. Egypt taught the whole of the known world as we see today. God, through the "Divine Mind" and through His "Christ within us all" expressed and yet today expresses Heavenly and Divine Spiritual Truths to the whole of the world and its Souls. No problem until Rome surfaces in the 2nd century with "Plan B".

Knowing this, that Jesus Christ, according to Christian theology is supposedly a solitary "literal" and "historical" type and shadow of "the Christ", instead of the symbolic personification and representation of the human Soul as he really is, then you can see how a false security in focusing on "blood" and not "repentance" could, and does lead, others to think lightly of sin and in so doing compromise with sin in their lives. Not knowing that such sins of the Second Tablet of the Law are not handled by any blood sacrifices for atonement, let alone any sacrifice that Jesus could have made through his death for others, then we should be alarmed as Christians to know that any such atonement procured by Jesus for us is "lacking" and "incomplete"!

Answer for yourself: What? Is this news to you? Did your pastor ever tell you this? Mine never did! Why not? Who will? When will we ever set under teachers who know the truth about Biblical Judaism and the truth hidden behind Christianity's "radical reinterpretation" of almost everything!

Answer for yourself: Then how are we to get atonement for such sins of the Second Tablet of the Law in our lives if Jesus' supposed sacrifice never covered them nor could ever atone for them? Well, again we must look to Biblical Judaism for the answer.

Rambam writes: "While one should scrutinize one's behavior and repent throughout the year, during the ten days between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur it is especially important to introspect and repent, as the time is more propitious and our repentance is received immediately, as the prophet Isaiah (55:6) teaches: "Seek Hashem when He can be found; call upon Him when He is near" (Laws of Repentance 2:6).

Answer for yourself: Is there a time that God is "nearer" to man than others? Not knowing Judaism, then as a Christian you are not aware that there is such a time and it passes you by year after year. The Doors of Forgiveness are thrown open on one day of the year, a day not known by Christians. Rambam goes on to write: "On Yom Kippur Hashem is closest to man. Moreover, the Sefer HaChinuch (Mitzvah 185) teaches that the institution of Yom Kippur, the day designated for atonement of sins, is a reflection of Hashem's great love and kindness toward His beings; He does not allow man's sins to accumulate, lest they become so numerous that the natural world could not endure. Thus, in His infinite wisdom, to insure the continuity of this world He designated one day of the atonement and forgiveness of sins for those who repent". Teshuvah, repentance is integral to the essence of Yom Kippur. It is here in repentance, fasting, remorse, and brokenness for one's sin once a year God opens the doors of forgiveness for the sins of the Second Tablet of the Law for all mankind!

Answer for yourself: How many times have you observed Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement in your life? Most Christians will tell you that these Biblical Festivals are for the Jews only. Really?

Leviticus 16:29. And [this] shall be a statute for ever unto you: [that] in the seventh month, on the tenth [day] of the month, ye shall afflict your souls, and do no work at all, [whether it be] one of your own country, or a stranger (THIS IS THE NON-JEW...THE FOREIGNER AMONG THE ISRAEL OF GOD) that sojourneth among you:

Here we see from the beginning that God intended all mankind, non-Jew and Jew, to observe the Day of Yom Kippur since both need "forgiveness of sins of both Tablets of the Law".

Answer for yourself: Did God give us, the Gentile, a "way" for atonement of his sins and we not know it as Christians? As Christians and followers of Jesus in Christianity have we failed to understand the Sacrificial System correctly and miss this important message concerning how we, as Souls, are to find atonement for our sins during our Earthly incarnation?

Such Spiritual Truth and knowledge comes only if you study Biblical Judaism, its unaltered Hebrew Scriptures, and the Sacrificial System in detail. If Christians trusting the blood of Jesus for "their sins" only knew the truth; namely, that the atonement provided through the teaching and examples of the Suffering Servant, the nation of Israel, atoned only for unintentional sins of the First Tablet of the Law and not any sins of the Second Tablet of the Law then they would most likely rethink the seriousness of their sin and the easy "believeism" of Christianity would be replaced by their repentance as God intended.

It is a shock to learn as an adult Christian who has trusted the Roman Road of Salvation and Jesus' death for one's sins and their atonement his whole life to realize that such a teaching is totally false. Knowing that there is no atonement in Jesus' death many are fearful and many are often shaken to their very core. But understand what Hosea always knew, Temple or not, God never left the Jewish people nor mankind without an atonement. Knowing that one stands today without atonement before God because you have not been taught the truth of the Sacrificial System let alone the Soul's atonement through repentance by the Christian Church and not lived a life of repentance is a scary thought! Instead of being taught the Divine Truths of Biblical Judaism and the truth about atonement we attend Churches more concerned about teaching that God wants your rich! Thus, now, coming hopefully and finally to the understanding they no one is "under the blood of anyone" for anything, then repentance and the Commandments of God will have a new esteemed value in your life. Since intentional sins and sins of the Second Tablet of the Law never required blood sacrifices, then more important than ever is the fact that our moral responsibility, fear of God, and repentance is a requirement in being co-laborers with God in our own salvation. Now you should better understand the passage which says "work out your own salvation with fear and trembling" (Php: 2:12). As Souls, this is "your" and "my" responsibility; not another's!

If we truly understand the Sacrificial system, and you should by now if you have been reading these articles, then you know that this "literalized" Jesus of Rome's invention, did not die for any atonement for anything let alone for "ALL SINS"! Without the truth and this knowledge of sins and their relationship to the Sacrificial System we as Christians rarely if ever come to the knowledge that blood sacrifices were only brought to the Temple in representation of the Souls who had previously repented and in so doing had already atoned for their unintentional Sins of the First Tablet of the Law (sins between man toward God) before any animal or offering was brought to the Priesthood. Lacking this knowledge that only our repentance provides atonement for the sins of the First Tablet of the Law and that only the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur offers atonement for our sins of the Second Tablet of the Law then we must "awake" as Paul said to this Divine Reality provided for us and do it now! Sadly continuing to accept, in light of all of this knowledge provided by Bet Emet, this false atonement created by Rome around this "Jesus" of their own creation, a Jesus who requires nothing but "faith" and "belief" in religious dogmas created by Rome to contradict the Hebrew Scriptures, one will never have a strong enough deterrent and fear of God to avoid sinning and breaking the Laws involving both "intentional sins" let alone the sins involved in the Second Tablet of the Law (sins between man and man). Most Christians feel that they have a "get out of Hell free card" through a simple belief in this Jesus' death for their sins; sorry it never worked that way and was never intended to work that way where repentance and progressive Spiritual maturity and evolvement of our Soul, ultimately culminating in the Soul obtaining the "stature and fullness of Christ", was to be subsequently thwarted by such an insidious belief as the death of another was the atonement of one's own sins. Thus, understanding the Sacrificial system and the dynamics involved, the more correct interpretation would be "Christ died because of sins." WAIT A MINUTE HERE; WHAT ARE YOU SAYING?

Answer for yourself: How is it that this "Christ died for our sins" when Craig, you have spent 7 articles teaching that no "historical" or "literal" Christ could have ever died for our sins? Now, get ready to meet the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom that Rome corrupted in remanufacturing the ancient Christ and how the ancients understood "atonement" before the Roman "radical reinterpretation" of this Divine Ancient Spiritual Wisdom.

Get ready for the "hidden keys" that begin to unlock our "Jesus Story". I will only present a short summary at this time but in our "Sacred Mysteries Website" we go into this is great and lengthy detail as we unfold the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom concerning "the Krst/Karest/Christ" and his "death on the cross" as taught by the ancients as far back as 10,000 years B.C.E. Please note the ancient Egyptians and later Greek philosophers like Plato, Plotinus, Proclus, etc., were not expressing Divine Concepts concerning some later to be born "Jewish Rabbi" who would be named Jesus; everything in this ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom was about the Soul and only about the Soul and its Krst/Karest/Christ; its descent into "matter", its death when incarnated into this "matter" and flesh (called Amenta, the pit, Sheol, Hades, Hell, purgatory, the Underworld, Netherworld, abyss, etc.), the Soul's struggles and battles with the "darkness of matter" in its attempt to "awaken from the slumber" imposed upon it by the flesh and its lusts and passions, its "resurrection from its grave and death within this body of death, its Spiritual evolution and eventual resurrection while in this body, its ultimate attainment of Spiritual maturity and mastery of this animal body in its Earthly incarnation, and eventual glorification and ascension at the death of this animal body which had served as the vehicle for the Soul's expression and life.

Answer for yourself: Guess what? You just read "the Jesus Story" told some 10,000 years B.C.E. through mystical symbolism, allegory, metaphor, typification, figuration, similitudes, similes, myths, legends, and analogies, and I could go on.

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

Answer for yourself: But, what does this mean that "Christ died for our sin"? "Craig, are you yet correcting everything you have said so far"? No, not in the least. It is all about "interpretation".

Answer for yourself: Are you aware that we can find today, spread over basically 10,000 years, ancient Divine Spiritual Truths, truths about God and the Soul, from nation to nation, from Sacred Book to Sacred Book, that were expressed basically unchanged? Are you aware that such Spiritual Truths and teachings were preserved over this vast time basically unchanged? Are you aware that these ancient Spiritual Masters protected these Divine Truths by shrouding them in allegories, metaphors, symbols, ciphers, myths, legends, etc.? Are you aware that from ancient Egypt down the corridors of history until the rise of Biblical Judaism these Spiritual Truths kept their integrity and basically were unchanged; that different cultures had only changed symbols unique to their culture to express the exact same identical Spiritual Truths that had been taught in the beginning of time? Are you aware that around 180 A.D. a nation comes along, Rome, and takes all this ancient teachings of God, Krst, and Soul and their incarnation into material existence in the form of God's "internalized Divine Mind", called the "Krst/Karest/Christ", and completely destroys such original intended Spiritual meanings and in its place substitutes a radically different meaning and "literalized and historicized" understanding to the whole of this ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom? Well, it is time to wake up to this very provable reality.

Rome will burn all the libraries of the world to conceal and cover their your monestrous destruction of Divine Truth and their substitution of lies for Spiritual Truths. In a generation or two later few would know or remember the Spiritual Truths of earlier generations, let alone the original meanings to the dogmas which now carried by the hands of Rome new interpretations and meanings.

Without understanding the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom that existed thousands of years before the onslaught of Rome in the 2nd century against existing Divine Spiritual Truth concerning God, Krst and Soul, one cannot understand the New Testament correctly let alone read it through "Metaphysical spectacles" as it was intended and we sadly interpret all we read as if "literal" and "historical" when these ancient stories were written to always be understood Metaphysically, allegorically, and metaphorically concerning God, Christ, and Soul.

Phil 2:6-8 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men (the incarnation of the Divine Mind, or "Krst/Karest/Christ" into "matter" and "human flesh": 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death (this "death" was termed by the ancients as the "fall" and "descent" of the Soul and Krst/Karest/Christ (Divine Mind of God) into material manifestation and flesh", even the death of the cross (this "cross" was the interaction of cosmic Divine Intelligent Living Spirit and Energy when impregnated into "matter" and "material existences" (ie., flesh). (KJV)

Totally agreeing with Philippians 2:6-8, the ancients taught that the Divine Mind of God, in the form of "Krst/Karest/Christ", humbled Himself and "fell" from Heaven and was "crucified on the cross of matter" when incarnated into material manifestation (humanity) in an attempt to "seek and save the lost Souls" who had previously "died the same death" and was "incarnated within animal bodies as well". This is the very core of all cosmology; the study of the Universe in its totality, and by extension, humanity's place in it. This "fall" from Heaven and the Spiritual realm of both Soul and "Christ" into the flesh of humanity was likened as a "death" to both Soul and Christ. From this "descending death from Heaven" into "flesh" we obtain the various allegories throughout the nations expressing this Metaphysical Divine Concept of incarnation of God, the incarnation of Celestial Consciousness and Living Energy in "matter". The ancients called this incarnation of Spirit/Living Energy/Cosmic Consciousness the "death of the gods and goddesses" in the ancient religions. Truly, Paul would say "we (Souls) are crucified with Christ";, a total allegory concerning the crucifixion of Christ as well as the Soul as they both had descended from Heaven into incarnation into animal bodies led by animal instinct, animal natures, lust, and passions of "matter". The Soul and Christ, as Living Spiritual Entities, had come to reside in an animal body in Earthly incarnation; coming into "matter" was their Spiritual death. But statements like this found in the ancient Spiritual Wisdom were never meant to be understood as "physical" or "literal" events or actual "historical" or "literal" deaths. This "death" of the gods and goddesses were but allegorical pictures of the Divine evolving and emanating Himself into various levels of material existences to experience Himself and develop Consciousness of Himself though various material manifestations throughout the Universe. In reality this "fall into matter" or "humanity" by God is termed the "death of the Soul" along with the death of "the Christ" since both share the same descent into material existence. We read Philippians 2:6 above never grasping this understanding since being conditioned and indoctrinated to think that this verse refers to but one sole "literal person" who conveniently Rome has defined for us as a historical Jesus. The ancients saw incarnation as a Divine Cosmic Concept of how the God of the whole Universe came to tabernacle within "flesh"; mankind being the Temple of God's Holy Spirit/Energy. No wonder the true Gnostic Paul states that "Christ is in all of us" according to Col. 1:26-27. Nowhere in this verse is an idea of a lone historical person but a Christ shared by all of us. Along with this the ancients understood the Divine Mind, the Logos, the Christ accompanied the Souls in their descent into "matter" and this Divine Mind was termed by the ancients by the term "Krst/Karest" which today we recognize as "Christ" or "Messiah". Understand this "descent of Divine Mind" into the "limitations of material existence which is resistant to the advance of Divine Energy/Spirit" did so and suffered great loss in the process. This "fall" or "descent" of this Divine Mind was likened by the ancients as a "death" to this "Krst/Karest/Christ" as well as the Soul. This "descent" and "death of the Christ", this Divine Mind and Logos of God, incarnating into the darkness, lawlessness, passions, and lusts of "matter" and "flesh" was a "death" willing accepted by this "Christ" who likewise suffered as did the Soul in its descent as well. The "Krst", in His mission to dwell with and teach the Soul the path for its Spiritual Maturity and freedom from the sin prevalent in Earthly incarnation, accomplished by being the teacher of the Soul its own atonement. The Christ, this still small voice witin us, came to each each of us in order to convict our Soul "of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment" in order to deliver the Soul from the death of this material existence; thereby equipping it for its necessary return to the Father. Not only does the indwelling and internal Christ come to teach the Soul within this animal body to properly atone for his sins while on Earth but teaches the Soul as well as to how to progressively Spiritually mature itself which is its incarnation purpose. Had it not been for God sending Himself as "the Christ", His Divine Mind, Logos, into the likeness of human flesh, then the Soul would have no hope of mastering the animal nature, its passions, and lusts and lawlessness. That being so then the Soul would be resigned to never return to the Father as we see is possible in the Prodigal Son allegory.This "descent of the Krst/Karest/Christ" to seek and save the Soul is not possible unless the Christ comes to live "within each child of god"; never being "literalized" and "historicized" to but one period of human history and limited to but one person which Rome has done. Rome, by forging the Hebrew Scriptures radically reinterpreted the whole of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom concerning God, His Christ and the Soul. What was never "literal", what was never "historical", what was never "limited to but one person", becomes just the opposite at the hands of Rome!

The ancients called the incarnation of God within mankind the "death of god" or the "death of His Krst/Karest/Christ" on the "cross of matter" (the intersection of Divine Spiritual Living Intelligent Energy" with "mother matter" (Mary). What was a Divine Spiritual Allegory and Metaphor expressing the highest Divine science and Divine physics regarding the workings of the Creator in His comos was totally corrupted by Rome during the 2nd through the 5th century. The ancients had the most unbelievable knowledge of the workings of Spirit and "matter" known ever to mankind; only today are we with our high technology only reaffirming what the ancient Egyptians knew so long ago. This Divine working of God and cosmos was better known by the ancients who shrouded this ancient Spiritual Wisdom and mystery in allegory, myth, metaphor, cipher, legend, symbol, etc., than any today. All was well and the integrity of this Divine Spiritual Truth was kept intact and unchanged, from nation to nation, from Sacred Book to Sacred Book, for thousands of years until the rise of Rome which "radically reinterpreted the whole of this Divine Spiritual Wisdom of the Soul" and so crudely "literalized" it and "historicized it" and limited all these Divine Spiritual Concepts to but one person of their clever inventiveness, the historical Jesus of Rome's New Testament. The whole of Christian humanity since then never knows the the truth, that they are "gods in animal bodies" as Plato said.Thus the necessity of repentance for our Souls that enable it to evolve into "the Christ". We never stop to realize the implications of what we read in our Bibles since being trained since children to read everything in this Bible as if "literal" when the truth of the matter is that the ancients were not "literalists" at all; in fact just the opposite. Most of the Bible, both Old and New Testaments is a Divine Spiritual allegory of the Soul, its descent, birth, life, maturation, failures, successes, and eventual Spiritual evolution into Spiritual maturity and ascension back to the Father at the biological death of the body. In fact the Old and New Testament is the Egyptian Religion and the Egyptian Book of the Dead retold! Boy, do we have a lot to "unlearn" and "learn" correctly.

So now you see that had it not been for the descent of "the Christ" and his "death" when "incarnated into fleshly matter", then the Soul would have remained lost in "trespasses and sins", without its savior, "the indwelling "Krst/Karest/Christ".

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (KJV)

This descent of the Christ was allegorically described by the ancient and His sufferings related to the limitations imposed upon Him where previously in Heaven He experienced previously lived an unlimited and unrestrained existence as God's "Divine Mind". Now, fallen to His death in humanity, He found Himself bound in the grave of "matter" and "flesh". This descent, fall, suffering, and limitation self-imposed by the Christ upon Himself, is the allegorical death of Christ on the cross of "matte" and "flesh" which Rome will later reinterpret as a "literal" and "historical death" of one man for the sins of the world; the efficacy of which can only to people through the doors of the Catholic Church per their creation! How convenient! Truthfully, however, there would have been no salvation for the Soul in its Earthly incarnation had not God not come to tabernacle within each of His children as "the Christ". So, in effect, "Christ had to incarnate", fall to His death, intersecting Heaven (Spirit) and Earth ("matter"), making this "crossing of between two different levels of existence, this "cross" in the Heavens (Heaven/Earth), in order to save the Soul from its sins while in Earthly incarnation and manifestation. Only in this way did "the Christ die on the cross"! Never was this intended by any ancients to be a "literal" event; let alone an event that provided a "substitutionary atonement"! The only atonement that ever ensured because of this "death of the Christ" within mankind is that of the Soul which" had ears to hear and eyes to see" the message of the Christ concerning the way of repentance of the Soul).

Answer for yourself: What is the first word uttered by "the Christ" in our New Testament?

Matt 4:17 17 From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. (KJV)

If you paid attention, this is the same message of the Sacrificial System intended for the Soul. This "death of the Soul and Christ" in incarnation was not only understood correctly by the ancients but we see this in our New Testament as well once we possess the "keys" necessary to recognize it. This is why not only Jesus, as the symbolic representation of "the Christ" within us all, was wrapped in burial and swaddling clothes when he was first born into the flesh. When the "Christ came to Earth" is was to die, his incarnation was "his death". In reality, it is not "the Christ" who died, it is our Souls' Spiritual Sensitivity to the indwelling Christ within us which is dead, needing a resurrection while we yet live, a "second birth" (being born again). This is the very same thing we see in the ancient Egyptian Religion just like other symbolic representations of Heavenly Living Energies like Osiris and Ptah who were likewise wrapped in "while mummy shrouds" when incarnated within mankind; this is the "Divine Pattern" reproduced over and over in the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom and which we find repeated in our "Jesus Story". Divine Life living within "matter" and material existences (flesh for example) limits the Divine Soul and its Spiritual sensitivity to the Divine Mind while living in material incarnation. All of this symbolism and "keys" to correctly interpreting this allegory in our "Jesus Story" and our New Testament comes in-depth later when we get to the study of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom, our last website at Bet Emet!

But one more thing needs to be said. The True Christ is only found within. His life, distorted as it is today on the pages of our New Testament, can yet serve as a great object lesson. His own life course revealed the path a Soul must pursue in order to attain full realization of the Christ Consciousness. First comes our resurrection from the deadness of our Soul as imposed upon it by the passions, lusts, and carnality of the animal body who lives by instinct and not Spiritual Laws. The Soul needs a "New Birth", where there is an awakening of the Soul to a higher consciousness; something so radically different from former experiences that we call it the awakening of the Christ Within, as though the Christ has been asleep. But the real fact of the matter is that it is we, as Souls, who have been asleep as to the Christ within.

Eph 5:14-15 14 Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. 15 See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, (KJV)

To our human consciousness, the Christ was asleep, and yet the Eternal Christ never sleeps. Mark 4:38 reads: "He was asleep in the hinder parts of the ship". This is a parallel case, given to show our own consciousness to the Christ within us all, who transforms our lives and consciousnesses when we awaken to the realization of the Christ presence within us, the Bishop of our Souls. As Souls, we have been asleep in the sense-consciousness, asleep as to our Real Being as Divine Entities and Souls fallen from Heaven! Thus the admonition of the Gnostic Paul to awaken to the Christ that only lives within, not without as Rome would have you believe.

Answer for yourself: And for what purpose are we to awake? Speaking to people who were already "alive" yet we find Paul considering them "dead men walking" as did the ancient Spiritual Wisdom that Rome tried to obliterate from the face of the Earth. And why do we need to awake? In order as Souls to "walk circumspectly" while in this Earthly incarnation and this only comes when we experience our personal resurrection from the death while we yet live, not after the death of the body as Rome will alter the concept. As progressing and evolving Souls, not attained to the stature and fullness of Christ, we at times mess up an sin. Given to us as our means of atonement is not the "blood of another" and some "easy believeism"; rather God gave us "repentance" and the Sacrificial System teaches this Divine Concept in detail; it is all about our Soul as our life, not red blood cells.

The Soul is the student of the Christ within and must be reinstructed, reinstructed by Spiritual Truth until he advances to the stature of Christ. It is through the wilderness of trial and proving, like in the "Jesus Story", that our Souls reach the consciousness that we are "a Son of God". This the the job of both indwelling Christ and Soul as "co-laborers" in the Soul's salvation and atonement while in this Earthly life.

Before we move on many will be amazed to know that in our Bibles is abundant references to this Divine Sacred Wisdom; only it goes unrecognized or falsely interpreted as if "literal" when these same stories were for thousands of years only interpreted allegorically or metaphorically by the ancient Spiritual Masters. Here again, in summary fashion, is what we have described above:

Phil 2:5-8 5 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men (incarnation into humanity and not one person): 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross (this cross is the crucifixion in the Heavens, involving Spiritual Living Energy impregnating virginous void called "matter) (KJV)

Col 1:26-27 26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints: 27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory: (incarnation into humanity and not one person (KJV)

Had we been taught this Divine ancient Spiritual Wisdom and the twenty or so Divine Myths of the Descent of the Soul and "Krst/Karest/Christ" in the allegorical stories the "dying and rising" gods and goddesses of the ancient nations who descended into "deadened matter" and "humanity", only to later ascend as "Spiritual Mature Souls" to the Father, then we would have no problem reading the New Testament for the very first time and recognizing the Divine Truths of the Soul being told through the "Jesus Story". Knowing this ancient Spiritual Wisdom and its proper interpretation before hand we would have no problem recognizing the Divine Truths behind the Sacrificial System and spotting the Roman lie about the "blood of Christ/Jesus" and his supposed "death" as an atonment for our sins. Had we been taught this Divine ancient Spiritual Wisdom and the twenty or so Divine Myths of the Descent of the Soul and "Krst/Karest/Christ" in the allegorical stories the "dying and rising" gods and goddesses we would have had no problem seeing clearly that Rome reinterpreted the "incarnation of the Krst/Christ within each person" and transformed it into the "physical death of a literal historical person for the sins of the world whereby his blood supposedly atoned for the sins of the world". We see this clearly now having come to full understanding of how the Sacrificial System actually operated. Even though Rome altered the "Christ Story" and the implications of the "Christ's death", once one comes to know the symbology of the ancient Spiritual Wisdom concerning the "indwelling Christ" he can spot these Roman reinterpretations of the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom easily in the New Testament texts. Possessing this knowledge concerning the ancient Divine Spiritual Wisdom of both Christ and Soul, knowledge that Rome tried to obliterate from the 2nd through the 5th centuries, we would have immediately recognized that the "Jesus Story" is the personification of the descent of the Soul and the indwelling Divine Mind as "the Christ" into the whole of humanity and recognized that this "Jesus Story" is in reality "your" story and "my" story.

Basically, the Old and New Testament are dual "tellings" of the story of the Soul and what it truly represented; "yours and my story", our Soul's story told through personification of the path of the Soul in its Earthly existence through the symbolism and personification of a person named "Jesus". This same story was first noticed by the ancients in the path of the Sun through the Zodiac, a most unbelievable study awaiting you in the ancient Spiritual Wisdom. The story of Jesus, found from Matthew chapter 1 through Matthew chapter 28, can be shown to parallel exactly the personification of the Divine Energy of the cosmos, God/Christ, symbolized by the Sun and its path through the Zodiac (birth, life, death, rebirth). We find the "Jesus Story" repeated verbatim from ancient Egypt down through history over and over again, from Sacred Book to Sacred Book, as symbolic for the incarnated Soul and the indwelling Krst/Karest/Christ within mankind; but unlike our "Jesus Story" inherited from Rome, these prior "Jesus Stories", told on different levels of understanding reflecting Metaphysical realities in the cosmos, were never meant to be taken "literally" unless a person recognized that it was "their own story". Never was this "Christ Story" or "Jesus Story" to be understood "literally" or some atonement attached to the supposed literal life of another. Now, understanding this "death of the Christ" as taken form the ancient Spiritual Wisdom which was later altered by Rome, you see that is is and always will be the responsibility of each Soul to work out his own atonement.

So we see in the literalization of the "Jesus Story" that this Jesus, had it been possible for him to be an actual atonement, would have failed to atone for intentional sins and any sins involved in the Second Tablet of the Law. Jesus' death, had it been an atonement, would have applied only to the First Tablet of the Law ONLY and not the Second Tablet of the Law. The Second Tablet of the Law is atoned for by your repentance, confession, prayer, restitution, alms, etc., as Isaiah and other Prophets teach in the Hebrew Scriptures which have been later altered by the Alexandrian Essenes and later Romans to exclude such concepts from the Hebrew Scriptures when translated into the Greek and Latin!

You should not be surprised that the Second Tablet of the Law is atoned for by the same Spiritual methods taught since the first article since "God changes not". Let us not forget that Israel is a Holy Nation and a Royal Priesthood. A Priest's function is to make intercession for another and aid in another's reconciliation. As you saw earlier that prayer was one of the several forms of atonement, then this should renew your appreciation for the Jewish people who, on Yom Kippur, stand in the gap for the Gentile world in their prayer services. They literally, as Priests to YHWH, pray for the world and their sins that God would be merciful and forgive their sin since 2.5 billion of them are Christians and are totally deceived when it comes to the "Jesus Story" and any supposed atonement connected to his death. This is such a Holy thing which is not understood by Christians let alone Christian missionaries who are fixated on converting every Jew to Christianity! Pray to God that this never happens for if it does the "Light unto the world" is then extinguished as was the great Egyptian Religion before them!

Answer for yourself: If such a demonic and diabolical plan was ever to succeed, God forbid, then who would stand in the gap for the world on Yom Kippur.....Baptists, Catholics, Charismatics? They don't even know when this Holy Day falls on God's calendar since fixated only on the Roman one. Christianity does not ever recognize or observe the commanded Holy Days in the Bible. This needs to stop now.

ARE YOU GUILTY OF BREAKING THE SECOND TABLET OF THE LAW.....AND NOT KNOWING IT?

So many might have read this article so far and say…"so what…I don't break the commands of the Second Tablet of the Law?"

Not so fast now.

Christians, because of their perverse theology, break them at will, and what is so devious, is that they do it without ever knowing. My purpose is not to offend anyone, but if I could be honest with you and God for a moment I want you to grasp this next sentence. When I graduated from Seminary I had learned a lot, but most was religious propaganda to support a particular denominational position. It was only after years of intense study following Seminary did I come to the knowledge of the truth that I had hoped to find there but didn't. And if I can say that then what is the the level of understanding of the typical pew setter in the Churches who never reads books or studies his own faith in-depth? I challenge every reader to read our "Law of Noah Website" and see for yourself the implications of these Laws of the Second Tablet of the Law for themselves and see how innocently we have trespassed them living the typical American Christian Life-style as well as accepting the typical Christian theology as espoused by today's brand of Christianity. Have your kleenex ready for at the end of such a study, and having trusted in a Lawless religion let alone a false atonement, your true standing before God becomes frightfully clear.

If you were aware of what is contained in the Second Tablet of the Law you would be overwhelmed and I would hope, once realizing the magnitude of such violations of God's will by the typical Christian following "Christian doctrine" then your tears would run like rivers and your conduct change. Repentance and remorse for our condition is a wonderful place to start as you are seeing.

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

You have seen that it a life, your life, that makes atonement for sin. Such repentance, confession, prayer, and new obedient conduct is the only reassurance that at-that-moment you are right with God. Being so, and having done so, then you have the right to be on the altar of God and you are symbolically with God as "one" on the altar of your heart. You need not bring an animal sacrifice for your sins since your life and your actions are already one! The animal, if you remember, was only a physical demonstration and symbolism of the Spiritual condition of your Soul and atonement ha already been acquired by the sacrificier's repentance, contrition and confession, prayer, righteous deeds and almsgiving. Such is the mercy of God to reveal to us, His people, how we can cleans ourselves.

The Gentile Christian Anti-Semitic Early Church, over the centuries, has stolen such truths from you and corrupted the texts and the Divine Truth and recorded downright Spiritual Untruths in their anti-Semitic document...the New Testament

There is no atonement for the sins of the Second Tablet of the Law unless you make atonement for yourself!

You now understand our lives, or our "Souls", can go to Church our whole lives but still be led into great error and further sin by being devoted to dogmas taught from the pulpits of our Churches which are Biblically and historically unsound! We can go to Church our whole lives and die without a proper atonement for our sins. But one must know the truth in order to repent or else he will never know he is wrong. That is why study is so important. This series of article is an attempt to address only one of many major problems involving Christian Religious Dogmas that contradict not only the ancient Spiritual Wisdom but the same religious dogmas in Biblical Judaism.

After years of dedicated intense study I found that worshipping according to Christian teachings often is sin as the vast majority of Christianity today has changed the Sabbath as well as made obsolete the Holy Days and Festivals of God and there are Commandments regarding Gentile believers keeping them forever.

Answer for yourself: Since hidden in the Hebrew and Greek behind our English translations are commandments and a "Divine Pattern" for non-Jews to observe these Holy Days with the Jewish Nation and as non-Christians we don't, then who atones for your violation of the Laws of the First Tablet of the Law. Do you observe these Biblical Festivals in the Christian Church, festivals which can be shown were observed by non-Jews with the Jews long after the death of Jesus in our New Testament? Have you asked your Pastor why he and your Church does not since "believers" did in the New Testament long after Jesus' death? Nothing changed, never will with God. God changes not. The "Divine Patter" never changes.

You might not be a murderer with a gun, but our word "kill" is equated by the Rabbis to mean gossip, slander, blasphemy, as well as the failure to take care of the poor, widows, and the orphans. The Rabbis group this with murder which again is sin of the Second Tablet of the Law. You will never know this attending a Christian Church; you will continue to give your money to the Church never realizing that no Christian Church I know of understands the Tithe correctly let alone obeys the Laws and Commandments regarding it. We tell Sunday after Sunday the people not to rob God, but that is exactly what our Christian Churches do when they collect the Tithe and spend the money any way they or their budget requires. Just for starters, 2 out of 6 years "all" of the Tithe is to be given to the poor, sick, lame, blind, crippled, mentally ill, widows, orphans, etc. I said "all", not some "love offering to the poor"; ALL. If you are looking for something to repent of I suggest you study the Tithe for yourself or request our articles on it so learn the truth.

Answer for yourself: Who atones for you for giving your money and Tithes to the Church which does not appropriate the funds as commanded in the Hebrew Scriptures? Were you aware that failing to observe the Tithe correctly is sin? Are you aware that Tithing incorrectly is a violation of the Second Tablet of the Law by which only Yom Kippur and your repentance can atone?

Answer four yourself: Can you see how involved this can get and how simple it is to violate these Commandments of God and its affects upon our Soul? Having read these articles don't you think we need to be instructed by the Jewish Nation and Israel instead of Rome? Is "salvation of the Jews" as the New Testament records?

"FAITH OF JESUS" OR "FAITH IN JESUS"

In discussion of these aspects of the Sacrificial system, we must never forget that we are called to accept the "faith of Jesus" and not just have "faith in Jesus." In these articles I have presented the "faith of Jesus" in light of the Jewish views on atonement. Jesus would have believed the Tanakh (Law, Prophets, Writings). If we are to approximate holiness by living Christ-like that means we have to have a new understanding of how we are to live and we must become familiar with the Laws of God which regulate man's conduct in life. Only then will our lives, lived in conformity to the Laws of God and repentant when we break them, result in atonement. But we have to know them first; I dare say as a Christian you cannot recite the 66 Laws of Noah which make up your Covenant with God. At your death you will appreciate the atonement your life procured through your obedience and repentance when shown b God how your life was lived in both obedience and error. Such Laws, statutes, and ordinances reveal to us, in 248 positive commandments, what God is and does, and in 365 negative commandments what God is not and what He does not do. Only in incorporating the Laws of the Torah which apply to the non-Jew into our lives can be assured that what we do and believe is correct. Only then, when living our lives obedient to the will and Commandments of God can our lives [Souls] be an atonement. Failure to measure our conduct as compared with these Commandments only assures we live by our own understanding, and not God's.

Now, having this knowledge, the rest is up to you.

Are we following "the faith of Jesus" or do we just have "faith in Jesus"?

and

Are we true followers of Jesus?

WAS OSIRIS THE PROTOTYPE FOR THE JESUS OF THE "JESUS STORY" IN THE NEW TESTAMENT?

It is important that the reader be familiar with the concept of "archetypes" before he reads the following article.

Having done this then let us continue. We have witnessed on other websites from Bet Emet Ministries the unbelievable parallels between the solar and lunar gods and the "Jesus Story". It is enough to make your head spin and wish you have never learned of this plagiarism in Christianity today.

Answer for yourself: Where did the dying-reborn God myth start?

Well we have seen that all roads lead to Egypt and pre-Egypt if that is possible to the pre-dynastic Egyptians. If we look past Egypt we find that Asia minor is also a source for the "Jesus Story". The ancient Greeks and Romans inherited and adapted Gods from ancient Asia Minor (Assyria, Babylon, Phrygia, Persia, Mesopotamia, Egypt, places like that). These old-ancient religions were pretty basic Mother Earth, cycle-of-nature affairs. We have seen that observations by the Ancients of the Heavens above and Nature around them, often called Mother Earth religions, personified the forces and powers they observed and central to these observations was a pattern or cycle observed by them for thousands of years. From these observations these nations in toto reasoned and had Gods who personified the cycle-of-nature by dying in the autumn (Autumn equinox began the death and culminated at the Winter solstice) and being reborn in the spring. We don't know exactly when these dying-reborn Gods began -- they date back thousands of years, basically fading into prehistory. We do know their names, and some of their rituals. And we can trace the evolution of their ideas from Egypt to Greece and Rome -- and on to the Christian church in your neighborhood which you attend this weekend.

John 10:30 30 I and my Father are one. (KJV)

It all began with Osiris and Horus, the Father and the Son who were "one" and from these arises others personifications of the Sun and Moon and their movements and various powers and forces taken from Nature fashioned in the same understandings; only the names changing from nation to nation down through time. By the time of Jesus of Nazareth as depicted in the New Testament, as it was thousands of years before, the Mediterranean world contained a great diversity of creeds and rituals surrounding these "personified sun gods" (Attis, Mithra, Dionysus, Buddha, Krishna, Hercules, Zoroaster, etc.). Of course as time would have it details varied according to location and culture, but the general outlines of these faiths were astonishingly similar. A pattern emerged and overlap was not uncommon but the general outline of them is as follows:

- These personified sungods were born on or very near our Christmas Day at the Winter solstice
- These personified sungods were all born of a Virgin-Mother which was personified from observations of the constellation Virgo

- These personified sungods were born in a Cave or Underground Chamber which was the personification of the Sun rising at dawn as its rays (Ra) spread through the sky
- These personified sungods all led a life of labor for Mankind (as the personified Sun it struggles against the darkness in its path across the sky and through the solar year)
- These personified sungods were all called by the names of Light-bringer, Healer, Mediator, Savior, Deliverer.
- These personified sungods were eventually vanquished by the Powers of Darkness or by characters who were themselves depictions of personified darkness (Set, Satan, Devil) following their glory at the Summer solstice from which they fell to their soon coming death following the Autumn equinox and the ultimate Winter solstice
- These personified sungods descended into Hell or the Underworld (the realm of darkness) for 3 days at the Winter solstice
- These personified sungods rose again from the dead, and became the pioneers of mankind to the Heavenly world on December 25th following the Winter solstice
- These personified sungods founded Communions of Saints, and Churches into which disciples were received by Baptism.
- These personified sungods were all commemorated by Eucharistic meals (partaking of the solar harvest)

Answer for yourself: Does any of this sound familiar and something you have learned in church about Jesus as well? What does this say about Jesus and certain teachings like:

John 14:6 6 Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: How is the depiction of Jesus in the New Testament different from all the rest of these solar gods or is it? Is the "Jesus Story" a clone of prior "savior stories"?

Answer for yourself: Time does not allow nor space in just one article to compare all of these solar heroes with the "Jesus Story" but let me ask you something; are you aware that the "original" and first "Jesus Story" is the story of Osiris that originated in Egypt thousands of years before the supposed "historical Jesus?

OSIRIS:

It is said of Osiris:

- He came to fulfill the law.
- Called "KRST," the "Anointed One."
- Born of the virgin Isis-Meri on December 25th in a cave / manger, with his birth announced by a star and attended by three wise men.
- Earthly father named "Seb" (translates to "Joseph.")
- At age 12 he was a child teacher in the Temple and at 30 he was baptized, having disappeared for 18 years.
- Baptized in the river Iarutana -- the river Jordan -- by "Anup the Baptizer," who was beheaded. (Anup translates to John.)
- Traveled widely, taught men and "tamed them by music and gentleness, not by force of arms" [Plutarch]
- Performed miracles, exorcised demons, raised El-Osiris from the dead.
- Walked on water.
- Betrayed by Typhon, crucified between two thieves on the 17th day of the month of Athyr.

Buried in a tomb from which he arose on the third day (19th Athyr) and was resurrected.

- His suffering, death, and resurrection celebrated each year by His disciples on the Vernal Equinox -- Easter.
- Called "The Way, the Truth, the Light," "Messiah," "god's Anointed Son,' the "Son of Man," the "Word made Flesh," the "word of truth."
- Expected to reign a thousand years.

Answer for yourself: Does any of this sound familiar and something you have learned in church about Jesus as well? If you want other proof that the "Jesus Story" is but the retelling of earlier similar accounts from the myth of Osiris and Horus then follow the above link.

HOW THE ANCIENTS VIEWED THEIR SUN GODS AND ITS SPIRITUAL IMPLICATION FOR US TODAY #3

IS THERE A RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THESE SUN-GODS AND THE SOUL OF MAN?

Answer for yourself: Of what were these Sun-gods symbolical?

You see this is the point of central importance regarding these allegorical representations of these Sun-gods which were only pictures of the Only One God which was again symbolized by the Sun. The Sun, like God, was the life-giver and sustainer of man's physical existence. Again let me quote Alvin Kuhn who says it best: "They (these Sun-gods) were representative characters, summing and epitomizing in themselves the spiritual history of the human individual in his evolutionary trek across the field of evolving life on earth. They were the types and models of the divine potentiality pictured as coming to realization in their careers. They were the mirror held up to men, in which could be seen the possibilities locked up in man's own nature. They were type-figures, delineating the divine life that was an ever-possible realization for any devoted man." Mr Kuhn is saying that these "Sun-gods" were metaphors and symbols for an ever-coming deity, an ever maturing soul within flesh that was designed to come to an even ever-fuller expression and liberation in the inner heart of every son of man as his soul/spirit rose to dominance over his fleshly urges as he matured and grew spiritually. The Ancients witnessed and came to understand the Sun and its movements through the Heavens in a spiritual sense and in so doing extrapolated from the laws and cycles of is motion spiritual realties that related perfectly to the Divine soul within all humankind. In so doing these Spiritual Masters found unique relationships between this Sun and its movements and the maturation of the soul within mankind and its intended expression through righteous acts and deeds which reinforced and brought harmony and peace in God's Universe. Kuhn goes on to say that "the solar deities were the gods that ever came, that were described as coming not once upon a time, but continuously and regularly. Their radiant divinity might be consummated by any earnest person at any time or achieved piecemeal."

Answer for yourself: Were the Egyptians then looking for the coming of "Karast" (Christ) like we are? Yes and no. Let me explain.

According to Kuhn, speaking of these Sun-gods says: "they (Sun-gods) were typed as ever-coming or coming regularly because they were symboled by the Sun in its annual course around the zodiac of twelve signs, and the regular periodicity of this natural symbol typified the ever-continuing character of their spiritual sunlight (illumination). The ancients, in a way and to a degree almost incomprehensible to the unstudied modern, had made of the Sun's annual course round the heavens a faithful reproduction of the spiritual history of the divine spirit in man. The God in us was embalmed by the Sun in its course, and the Sun's varied experiences, as fabulously construed, were a reflection of our own incarnational history. The Sun in its movements through the signs was made the mirror of our life in spirit. To follow the yearly round of the zodiac was to epitomize graphically the whole history of human experience. Thus the inner meaning of our mortal life was endlessly repeated in the daily, weekly, monthly and yearly cycle of the Sun's passage, the seven or twelve divisions of which marked the seven or twelvefold segmentation of our spiritual history or our initiations. These initiations and spiritual steps in the history and formation of the soul within mankind were figured at first as seven, later as twelve, when the solar gods came upon the cosmic scene.)"

Two things need to be said here. If you understood the above paragraph then understand as well that the Egyptian Gnostics knew that the coming of "Karast" (Christ) within all mankind is realized over and over again in "many comings of God's Karast" as seen in the soul's evolutionary development in the heart of man whereby man grows spiritually and patterned his life, ideas, beliefs, deeds, and actions after the God of the Cosmos whom He witnesses operating, teaching, and speaking to him through observations of His laws, cycles, and patterns observed and understood both in the Heavens above in the movements of celestial orbs, in Nature around him which provided the same laws, cycles, patterns, and physiologically in the processes and cycles, laws, and pattern operating within his own body. This "Karast" (Christ) was to come anew to man with each repentance and obedience and submission of each man to these Laws, patterns, and cycles taken and understood from the observation of this Uncreated Energy of the Cosmos...this God who was speaking to all His creation and who continually witnessed His will through such patterns and cycles of Heaven and Nature. It was the responsibility of the Egyptian Priesthood to interpret and relate these laws to man and in so doing we now understand the Egyptian anxion of their faith: "So above, so beneath; so beneath, so above". Earth was to be a pattern of Heaven come down to man. It was to be God's home. God was to experience His creation through mankind and his life. To the degree that man patterned his life after these laws of harmony and unity which was the accomplishment of his soul's spiritual growth and maturation then God could experience unheeded His creation through mankind. The "Karast/Christ" teaches us in one of his wisdom sayings or "logia""

Matt 6:10 10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. (KJV)

You just read the heart of Egyptian religion expressed in the New Testament: "So above, so beneath; so beneath, so above".

All Religions and Traditions teach that knowledge of God may be gained. Most religious people believe that such knowledge can only be gained after death as a reward by following a set of rules. Jews and Christians call their set of rules the "Commandments". The rules laid out by other religions are very similar, if not the same. And, in contrast to the more popular belief, all Religions agree that God can be found now as opposed to later. They even make it our most important task (Matt 6:33 "First seek the Kingdom of God...."**)

The commandments may in fact be much more than a set of rules. When we look past ceremonies and symbols, it turns out that, at least in the approach to finding God, Religions are not so different after all. Thus, the path to God can be summarized in one sentence: "Love God with all you Heart, with all your Soul, and with all your mind." This is called the greatest and most important commandment and is shared by Jews, Christians, Moslems, Hindus, and Others. All major Religions agree in essence, but only when we bother to look deeper for the real essence and the real meaning. If God, as omnipresent Awareness, is at the Heart of our Soul, then it stands to reason that we may stand a better chance of discovering this pure Awareness through an act of pure Concentration than by bothering to keep various religious rituals. Concentration is required if we follow the first commandment. Loving God with all our Heart, Mind, and Soul really leaves very little room for any other thoughts. And it is only during these moments of steady tranquillity that God, who is our very own Self at the Center of our Soul, reveals Himself.

Let us go deeper if we can. If you understood the above paragraphs then you now understand why every one of these Sun-gods can be found being allegorically symbolized and depicted as being born in the sign of Capricorn

(the constellation whereby the Sun passes through in December at the Winter Solstice on Dec. 25th...just like Jesus) and ended up "crossified" or "crucified" in Spring at Vernal Equinox (just like Jesus) only to be followed by a resurrection from the dead 3 days later (just like Jesus). This cycle in Heaven was a pattern of self-discovery whereby one finds the Presence of God within his very own self. This Heavenly pattern of movement of the Sun at these equinoxes and solstices again is but a cycle and pattern which is not to be understood "historically" or "literally" but only as expressing and symbolic of a higher allegorical spiritual truth. This "rebirth" (spiritual birth of man and the domination of his soul over his flesh) of the Sun-gods following their death (symbolic of the death of man to his flesh) was symbolic of the evolution of the "Christ Within" each of us or the Soul and Divine Self of mankind asleep in these fleshy bodies whereby the Self within, the Soul within man, eventually comes to awaken to the truth that he is "Divine" and posses the very spark of God in his flesh and thereby comes to a point knowing this that he submits his flesh to the residing Spirit of God within which desires to instruct and lead him into higher spiritual experiences in his life. Such a "birth" from one's dead flesh and unawakened spirit, is spoken of by Paul

Eph 5:14 14 Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. (KJV)

In the above verse Paul is speaking to the people who are already alive but considered by the Gnostics to be "dead while they live" since they have not yet come to understand that they, in their physical existence, are literally God manifested in matter. I am speaking the descent of the Soul, of God into matter where the very Divine Spirit that is the "All" became incarnated in all matter (eventually in flesh). Most people and all religions share the conviction that the Soul as man's essential nature is able to survive the body since the Soul (God) is in essence immaterial consciousness or awareness. Years ago in study Kabbalah I found the same teaching whereby God diminishes Himself in ten steps (Seifrots) whereby pure Spirit (En Soph), through a process of emanations, eventually takes upon Himself "matter" at the lowest stage of creation and emanation. As for Judaism, the fundamental corpus of esoteric knowledge known as Kabbalah, must certainly have been born from Egypt. The Ka and the Ba in the term Kabbalah are the spirit and the soul respectively in Egyptian terminology. The structure of Jewish and Christian scripture and the basic Christian story rely heavily on initiatic knowledge and mythic allegory derived from Egypt. The Gnostics taught this same analogy of the Descent of the Soul through the passion of the "Sophia" which is the feminine "Karast/Christ". Before there was even a passion of "the Christ" there is to be found the passion of the Sophia. That is a great study for another day. We find the descent of the Soul expressed in allegory form in the New Testament as the "Christ" descended into the flesh of mankind:

Phil 2:5-7 5 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: (KJV)

Knowing we are literally the Divine laying asleep and "waiting" for our resurrection in our clay bodies before we actually die is a big, big revelation and should be a life-changing revelation. Sadly too few ever hear it or it seems not to dawn upon them yet hearing repeatedly that they are the "temple of the Holy Spirit". Just look at our country, a Christian nation basically, and look at the crime, violence, drug addiction, and unrighteousness that is rampant. Religion has not worked and never will as long as we are sadly waiting for "the Christ without" to come while the "Christ within us all slumbers and rejects his mission".

The Gnostics teach us that we have failed to understand whom we truly are. That is why the Gnostics always said: "Know whom you are, from where you come, and where you go when you die". We are gods (small "g").

Ps 82:6 6 I have said, Ye are gods; and all of you are children of the most High. (KJV)

John 10:34 34 Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods? (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What should this mean to me?

The careers of these solar gods and "god-men" you see then, were a type of what is to occur inside every man and woman who has dwelling within the spark of divine soul within their body. The Sun-gods were never to be confused with some historical person to the exclusion of everyone else created in the image of God who possessed "the Christ within" (God within as the Soul). Each one of us has had or hopefully will follow the pattern of "the Christ" and have his festival of spiritual awakening at our personal Christmas, at the darkest part of the year (our lives symbolized by the longer days of darkness with less light which occurs at the Winter solstice) which only comes after the "death of the Sun" (told as the symbolic death of the Sun which is a picture of the death of our flesh), and hopefully will experience his glorious resurrection from dead fleshly body of this life while yet alive at his personal Easter/Passover (resurrection of the inner Light of God's Sun to a higher spiritual recognition of his life upon the revelation of one's true identity as the Divine God encased in matter and fleshly bodies...which is our Vernal equinox and which is symbolized by the Sun "crossified" or "crucified at this same Vernal equinox). To those who have studied the "Jesus-Astrotheology" website then this should be self explanatory at this stage of your study. You might need to rethink on what I just said for it truly is deep.

As you see there is no "historical god-man" but yet the metaphysical reality symbolized by these Sun-gods is very real. They are the foundation of all religions and their goals. All the more we should want to study Osiris, Horus, Isis, Egyptian religion etc., and learn how these myths were understood by the Ancients to refer to God in us, our Souls and how we develop, nurture, and develop our spiritual destiny as manifestation of God encased in fleshly bodies. We should want to trace the parallels of this Egyptian revelation of the Divine to Biblical Judaism and embrace it as the closest manifestation of the Ancient truth that exits today. A Christianity who gives us a forged book purposefully misquoted and mistranslated from the Hebrew will not suffice once you learn this and of course at the same time negates this Gnostic understanding of "the Karast/Christ within" whereby we are given a fictitious historical god-man by the name of "Jesus of Nazareth" whom we are taught to worship, sing to, and pray to in "his name". This is a hideous desecration of the Ancient revelation of our God and Creator and simply must not be tolerated in the light of knowledge and truth that comes to us today as but one of many manifestations and comings of "this Christ". As long as we mistakenly await for one to "come" and fix the world instead or rising with our Soul to our responsibility to fix this world then we abdicate our God-given responsibility for Tikkun Olam in repairing this world ourselves.

Typical Christian doctrine says the Christos came once in a single character in history as Jesus of Nazareth and says little if nothing his coming to Everyman at all times of his life. But this was not always the case as evidenced by the discovery of the Nag Hammadi Gnostic gospels over 50 years ago. Unknown to most today and as modern archeology is teaching us daily the earliest "Chrestians" (the name for the followers of the Gnostic Christ" or "Christians" were not the typical Western Roman Catholics we see as evidenced in the proto-Early Church Fathers but rather the Gnostic Christians whom these proto-Catholics persecuted and murdered almost out of existence and whom they drove "underground" over the first five centuries of the early Gentile Church. In so doing Rome would burn many of the libraries of the world including the library of Alexandria in 398 C.E. as well as others to cover up these prior allegorical Gnostic documents which told of the "non-historical Gnostic Christ" along with the events of his life and "logia sayings" which paralleled the Roman Jesus within their New Testament. Many knew of this forgery of Rome but in time without these documents the world forgot this gross plagiarism. The result is that these Gnostic Christians went underground and remained hidden from the swords of Rome in such movements as the Manichaeans and later Knights Templars who feigned Christianity in order to not be murdered by Rome but were anything but examples of orthodoxy but were in truth Gnostics. In the vacuum of the absence of these Gnostic documents the juggernaut of Rome and their professed "orthodoxy" presented to the world their version of the "Christ-without" as the "Only-Begotten Son of the Father", confusing in one historical figure two distinct characters of ancient philosophy, the Logos and the Christos, and making both historical in a human being born of virgin woman. It goes without saying that neither the "Logos" nor the "Christos" were historical in any of the ancient religious systems from which these doctrines were stolen and later "literalized" by Rome and which was as well put into a fictitious historical timeline of their making.The Logos and the Christos were always known and expressed by the Ancient priests as cosmic forces, since God was but Creative Energy, and the erring Christians, either ignorant of the needed "gnosis" or rejecting it outright, confounded these "personages" of ancient philosophy with a supposed and assumed career of a man called Jesus whom they inherited by oral tradition. The irony of the whole thing is that this "Jesus", as shown in the last article, was but a "religious concept" which can be traced back to Ancient Egypt some 10,000 years ago who was not other than one of the mythical Sun-god heroes, or national type-figures which in its genesis was but a personification of the movements of the Sun which was to these Ancient priests a symbol of the grown of the Sun within all mankind, his soul. What a travesty of truth the Christian depiction of this "Jesus" as a historical person deserving of worship has become! What a travesty the Gospels have made of the divine spiritual principle in all mens lives!

Alvin Kuhn again has something interesting to point out: "The ancients had no "only-begotten" son because the term used in their systems, woefully mistranslated "only-begotten," was something with quite a different connotation. It was in Greek "monogenes," and in Latin "unigenitus," and was far from meaning "only-begotten." It meant that which was begotten of one parent, the father, alone, not the offspring of the union of father and mother."

Answer for yourself: Why is this important?

Kuhn relates: "By the term the ancients meant to designate him who was the projection into matter of the spirit forces of life (the descent of the Soul), not the final product of the union of spirit and matter, or the male and female elements. Had the early Christian Fathers known of the inner meaning of the symbolism of the Egyptian Ptah, as Khepr-Ra, who was typed by the male beetle that incubated in the ground and without union with the female transformed and regenerated himself after twenty-eight days (exactly a moon cycle...just one of the patterns of which I mentioned earlier) in the form of the young scarab, symbol of the new-born Sun in the moon (symbol of God being born in matter..ie. flesh), they would have been intelligent enough to have avoided the great schisms that divided the Church into Roman and Greek Catholic bodies over the absurdities this very origin of the persons of the Trinity."

But further from Egypt was Rome of the third century, not only in miles but religious philosophy, than it is from us who have the advantage of the information age, who can now read the inscriptions on the Egyptian temples and monuments that were sealed from Rome till much later. If one has the courage to study Egyptian religion and find the "Jesus Story" carved in Egyptian stone monuments that have existed well over over 10,000 years B.C.E. then he will see of what I speak as the evidence is undeniable. Asa a Pastor I can remember the tears and my broken heart that came from finding out these truth; namely that I had been lied to concerning this Jesus and he New Testament by my spiritual fathers of my faith; both ancient and modern. I often wondered why they had failed to study as I had done to find these truths since they, especially since 1950, had been visible to all who would care enough to look. I guess they cared to little having bought into the assumption that we cannot be wrong as Christians.

All this ancient scriptural data accentuates the fact that not the historical Jesus, but the spiritual Christ, or the god within the individual heart as expounded in Platonic Philosophy, which finds its final expression as Gnostic Christianity, is the subject of the sacred writings of old, and the kernel of the whole religious ideology up until the 3rd century when Rome changes the Ancient religious traditions and creates as well as forges existing documents to both "write in" as well as "replace" the previous ideas of the "Christ within" with a "fleshly Christ without".

DID YOU KNOW WE FIND JESUS IN EGYPT 10,000 YEARS AGO?

By the benefit of antiquated sacred books we have been enabled today to trace authentically the origin of the name Jesus. And it is of great importance to see this because it throws a flood of clear light upon the ancient conceptions of the Messiah and the coming Son, or Sun-god. In this light the name will be seen to be a type-designation and not the personal name of an historical being.

It is derived from the two letters (or numbers) which in the beginning of typology symbolized the two first elements, spirit and matter, into which the primal One Life separated. They are the "I" or the number "1" symboling the male or spirit, and the "O" (letter) or "0" (zero) symboling the female, womb, or material universe. Together they represented the biune male-female deity. We have, then, the letters "IO", or the number "10". As the vowels were freely interchanged, in ancient languages, the name was written either "IO", "IA", "IE", or "IU", and all these forms are found. Next the "I" was over time transformed into consonantal value and became a "J" (as it is yet in Latin), so that we find the names "JO", "JA", "JE" and "JU", from each of which many names have arisen. When the creation had combined the male and female and the two had given birth to the Son, or Logos and Logoic universe, the name was given the form of three letters, and we then find such forms as "IAO", "JAH", "IEO", "JEU", "ZUE". When the universe became founded on the four cardinal points or the square of four dimensions, the name was spelled variously as "IEOU", "JOVE", "ZEUS", "JEVE", "DIOS", "T/HEOS", "HUHI", "IHUH" and others. In its character as a sevenfold or seven-lettered name, it took the form of "JEHOVAH", "SABAOTH"," DEBORAH", "DELILAH", "SEP/HIROT/H", "MICHAEL", "SOLOMON", and others of seven letters. The "I" permuted with "L" (el) or "1" (one), so that "IE" became "LE" or, inverted "EL", the great Hebrew character of deity. The "EL" and the "IAH", or "JAH", became the most frequent determinatives of divinity, as a host of names will testify. There are "Bethel", "Emanuel", "Michael", "Israel", "Gabriel", "Samuel", "Abdiel", "Uriel", "Muriel", "Azazel", and many others, in which the "EL" is prefixed. The "JAH" is seen in such names as "EliJAH", "AbiJAH", while the "IAH" comes in a host of such names as "Nehemiah", "Jeremiah", "Obediah", "Hezekiah", "Isaiah", "Messiah", "Alleluiah" and more.

Answer for yourself: But whence comes the "s" in Jesus's name?

This is of great importance. It is derived from an Egyptian suffix written either "SA", "SE", "SI", "SU", or "SAF", "SEF", "SIF" or "SUF" ("SAPH", "SEPH", "SIPH" or "SUPH") and meaning "the son," "heir," "prince" or successor to the father. The "F" is an Egyptian ending for the masculine singular. When the original symbol of divinity, "IO" or "IE", "JO" or "JE", was combined with the Egyptian suffix for the succeeding heir, "SU" or "SA", the resultant was the name "IUSA", "IUSE", "IUSU", or "IOSE"; or "IESU", "JESU", "IUSEF", "IOSEF", "JOSEF". One of the many forms was "JESU" and another was "JOSEF". The final "F" became sibilant at times and gave us the eventual form of "JESUS".

Answer for yourself: Need I remind the reader that this was a "religious concept"and not a historical personage in Ancient Egypt? Could we have in our Bible an erroneous understanding of this "religious concept" mistakenly represented as a historical person when in fact no historical person was ever intended by the Ancients who gave us these religious concepts and words in the first place?

The name then meant the "divine son," and combined in the Egyptian "IU"the idea of the coming one. Hence "JESUS" was the Egyptian "Messiah", the coming son of the divine life. There we find "Jesus" existing in Egypt for ten thousand years B.C. but only as a religious concept and idea which was expressed in all of creation and not confined to just one person. We find the character of this functionary under the name of "IUSA". Later he was the "Iu-em-hetep", which means "the divine son who comes with peace (hetep). But most interestingly, this last word also means seven. Hence "Jesus" is he who comes as the seventh principle to complete the six elementary powers of natural evolution with the gift of divine intelligence, which supplants the elementary chaos with the rulership of love and intelligence and thus brings peace into a warring situation. Hence finally, Jesus is the seventh cosmic principle, announced in all religious lore as he who comes to bring peace and good will to men. And as such he was announced in the Christian Gospels. But there was more than one "Jesus" or "IUSA" or "IU" before the coming of the alleged historical Jesus.

Startling as are the implications of this bit of etymology, a far more amazing denouement of Bible study is the revelation that not only were there over thirty Sun-god figures in the cults of the various nations of old, but there are immediately in the Bible itself, in the Old Testament, some twenty more Sun-god characters under the very name of Jesus undervariant forms of this one name! But that is a study for another day.

LET US SUMMARIZE

Answer for yourself: So what have we said so far? Let us recapitulate.

If you have understood what I have tried to teach up to now then it becomes plain to you that we see that the Sun-gods, their stories, their actions and their "sayings" and "teachings" were intended to convey to the initiates of the "Inner Mysteries" the conception of one's divinity hidden within these bodies of flesh in which God dwells in the form of man's Soul-Spirit and the responsibilities that man had to the Creator that gave him life in the first place.

Answer for yourself: Do we find this idea put into the mouth of the Christ in the New Testament? Yes we do as we saw above:

John 10:34 34 Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods? (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Should what these Sun-gods and their stories and sayings meant to the Ancients mean the same to us today?

If you answered the above question with a "yes" then it means that the divinity hidden within us, our divine soul or Self, was itself the Sun-god, or solar deity. This explains why the Ancient Egyptians desired to become "Osiris".

Answer for yourself: And what does this signify in concrete terms for us? Just this; that the God within us is constituted of the imperishable essence of solar light and energy! In short, we ourselves, in our higher nature, are solar gods in potentiality! Our highest nature is an incorruptible body composed of the glorious essence of the Sun's energy! It might now have dawned on you why the "gods" in the Bible were always symboled by the light or fire of the Sun.

Ps 84:11 11 For the LORD God is a Sun and shield: the LORD will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. (KJV)

Deut 4:24 24 For the LORD thy God is a consuming fire, even a jealous God. (KJV)

We are now enlightened to see how the term "Sun-god" truly meant to the Ancients as it described man's own nature as veritable truth and fact. We are Sun-gods. Our immortal spirits within us are composed of the radiant substance of solar energy drawn from God and the Cosmic source from which all live originates.

Many read the Bible never understanding what they read. If we use a watchful eye we can see that the Bible speaks to our solar constitution. Beside the above two passages drawn from many let us look at what "the Christ" has to say:

"I am come to send fire on earth,"* meaning he came to scatter the separated sparks of solar essence amongst mankind, a spark to each soul.

Then says John the Baptist: "I indeed baptize you with water, but he that cometh after me will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and with fire!"

Says Jesus: "When I am in the world I am the light of the world." Again he said: "Ye are the light of the world," and "Let your light so shine that others may . . . glory your father which is in heaven."

The Lord, say the Psalms, "made his angels messengers and his ministers a flame of fire."

The New Testament depiction of Christ, following the well-known Egyptian diagram of the Ankh, the solar disk with the spread wings, is described as Mal. 4:2 "the Sun of righteousness, risen with healing in his wings."

John declares that the Christos "was the true light" which was to come Messianically for the redemption of our lower nature. And again he declares that with the Christos "light is come into the world." No cry echoes with more resounding intensity down to this age than Paul's exhortation to our souls buried in lethal darkness: Eph 5:4 4 "Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ will shine upon thee!"

And in Revelation there are those mighty pronouncements: in the spiritual resurrection Rev. 21: 23 23 there shall be no more need of the Sun to shine by day nor the moon by night, for the glory of the Lord did lighten it."

And there is no more heartening assurance anywhere in the Bible than the further statement of the Ephesian writer: Eph 5:8 8 For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light: (KJV)

And these are only a gleaning from the great score of similar passages with which the Bible teems. Upon second look it gets harder to think that there is references to the idea of God and His Christ being manifested as "the Sun" or the "Sun-god" idea in the Bible!

And from the great old Egyptian Book of the Dead we take just one passage among scores: "Lo, I come from the Lake of Flame, from the Lake of Fire, and from the field of flame, and I live." And again, from an old Book of Adam and Eve we quote a great passage in which the Lord says: "I made thee of the light, and I wished to bring out children of the light from thee." If only we had been taught by our religious teachers that our spiritual natures are woven and fabricated of solar light, we should have had a clearer apprehension of our potentialities for divine education.

With the emergence of the Greek philosophers we see these same ideas expressed in somewhat a simpler manner. When we look at Greek Platonic philosophy, which is the lost link between science and religion, we find such statements as from the learned Proclus, last of the Great Platonists: "The light of the Sun is the pure energy of intellect."

Answer for yourself: Did you catch the significance of that statement? The fiery radiance of the Sun is already the motivating genius of intellect! Matter is itself intelligent and intelligence! Here is the basic link between all naturalism and all spirituality. Matter (the flesh of man) enshrouds and contains the soul of mind and spirit. The light of the Sun is basically the deific flash of intellect imparted to us from the First Cause of all creation. And the very core of our conscious being is this "Divine Spark" that emanates from that Infinite Indestructible Energy of solar light whom we call "God". This intellect, residing in the highest of all of God's creatures makes us being created in "the image of God" and you can go so far as to understand that it is this intellect that makes us a "god".

This intellect, symbolized by the fire of the Sun, is sent to earth to inhabit matter. It is the duty of the fiery spark to enlighten the whole dark realm of mankind's life, to transform the baser dross of animal inclination into the finer motivation of love which is the very essence of this Life-Giver we call "God". This transformation is a process of altering this matter of mankind into the likeness of God. We call it "Christlikeness" today. In Egyptian scriptures the twelve sons of Ra (the twelve sons of Jacob, and the twelve tribes of Israel) were called the "twelve saviors of the treasure of light." An Egyptian text reads: "This is the Sun within us, the seminal source of light. Do not dim its luster or cause it to suffer eclipse."

We see the same wisdom expressed by "the Christ":

Matt 5:15-16 15 Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. 16 Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. (KJV)

In closing let us look quickly at Ps 24:7 7 Lift up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Who is this King of Glory?

The above passage exhorts us to lift up our heads (intellect) and open the doors of our hearts to let this King of Glory enter into our lives. This King of Glory has been symbolized by the Ancients as the Sun-soul within all mankind, raised the fullness of His Christ-like stature to where our flesh (matter) is submitted to the will of God through the indwelling Christ (the intellect of God). This King of Glory you see is the immortal Sun-god, the very deity that resides in our heart and soul; and when he awakes from his slumber as man comes to realize just whom he is which is the dwelling place for God, where he has come from which is the realm of Heaven, and where he goes when he passes following death as his Sun-soul returns of this Cosmic Intelligent Energy whom we call God, then this "indwelling Christ" can arise to come fellowship with us and live through us. In this way God can experience and enjoy His creation through man. Only with this revelation can we man fully come to behold God's glory that dwell within, as of the alone-begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth. And when this revelation appears to those still sitting in the shadow of darkness and ignorance of their true condition and being, they then can respond and identify with the passage: "they have seen a great light, and to those that sat in the valley of darkness did the light shine." And it is this light, when man "awakes from his sleep and rises from his spiritual death" that he can see and realize his true nature; for it is this light from our Sun-soul "...that lighteth every man that cometh into the world" Jn. 1:9.

HOW WE DISCOVERED THE HEBREW PHARAOHS OF EGYPT

Smarter men than I have uncovered this knowledge with the help of archeology as well as hard-nosed in-depth study of Egyptian history as compared with the Biblical accounts of events and chronology. A key passage in the Torah which opened the way for the Arabic scholar Ahmed Osman was the passage in Gen 45:8 where it is speaking of Joseph:

8 So now it was not you that sent me hither, but God: and he hath made me a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt. (KJV)

Let it sink in. Here is the Hebrew Joseph who is called by a familiar term in the Egyptian language: "Father to Pharaoh". Add to this the fact that scholars today make the connection of Joseph with Yuya, a minister unto two Pharaohs:

- Tuthmose IV (1413-1405 B.C.E.)
- Amenhotep III (1405-1367 B.C.E.)

Although Joseph/Yuya was not apparently of royal blood, the tomb of Yuya was found in the Valley of the Kings in 1905 and , more significantly, his is the ONLY person we know of in Egyptian history to have the title of "it ntr n nb tawi" which means "holy father of the Two Lands (which is a Pharaoh's formal title). This is all the more staggering when we remember that Joseph was a Hebrew and who was not of Egyptian blood or at least part Egyptian blood as was Moses for instance.

Answer for yourself: Don't you think it is significant that the Hebrew Joseph was buried with and along side Pharaohs and was given the title "Holy Father of The Two Lands" which is a formal title reserved only for Pharaohs?

This title occurs one on one of his royal funeral statuettes and more than twenty times on his funerary papyrus.

Answer for yourself: Could Joseph and Yuya be the same person? Many believe so today. We will get to Joseph in a later article.

This is believed today for many reasons. In 1989 a tomb was discovered of "Aper-el" who was the unknown vizier of the Pharaoh Akhenaton (the Biblical Moses), the son of Amenhotep III (the Biblical Solomon). Let me say that you are not loosing your mind but the problem we encounter is an accurate Egyptian record of their dynasties and an inaccurate Hebrew Text redacted by Ezra to conceal such events. The name "Aper-el" provides a semantic link between the Israelites and the Amarna regime, of which Akhenaten was the first of four rulers. Similar names are known to have existed in Egypt at that time, but NEVER in the case of of high officials.

Answer for yourself: Why is this name "Aper-el" so important for our study? Simply because "Aper-el" corresponds to the Egyptian word for "Hebrew". This word meant to Egyptians a nomad, and the final "el" is the short form of "Elohim" which is one of the words used in the Bible as the name of the "LORD".

Answer for yourself: Is it remotely possible that many of the references to "LORD" in our Bible refer to conversations between a Patriarch and the "Pharaoh", who was the Son of God, and not the Creator and we not know it? You better set down for that one?

The fact that Akhenaton's vizier in the 18th dynasty was a Hebrew worshipper of El confirms the link between the King of Egypt and the Israelites living in Egypt at the same time. As if that was not enough, the fact that Queen Tiye, the mother of Akhenaton, was associated with her husband, Amenhotep III, in donating a box to the funerary furniture of Aper-el indicates the possibility that the vizier was a relation of the Queen's, most probably through her Israelite father, Yuya (Joseph).

When we make the identification of Joseph as Yuya then a great number of other aspects of the Israelite story and the parallels between Egyptian religion and Judaism fall into place the least of which is not the fact that the arrival of the Israelites in Egypt occurred more than 200 years later than had been thought by following the Biblical chronology given us in the Old Testament. That also means that instead of 430 years believed to be the Israelite Sojourn in Egypt is incorrect and we have only 4 generations instead of 400 plus years.

Answer for yourself: Is this 200 year error in accepted chronology for Israel's sojourn a possible reason why we cannot find any evidence for an Exodus? You bet it is! For we find this "Exodus" registered in Egyptian records but since it placement in Egyptian historical records disagrees with the Biblical account then many tend to not accept it. Sadly we have tried to find Egypt into the Bible too much and should have fit the Bible into Egyptian chronology. This is especially warranted when one studies the Bible and sees the host of errors and inaccuracies in it. In reality the Sojourn occurred much later during the reigns of four Amarna kings:

- Akhenaton
- Semenkhkare
- Tutankhamun
- Aye

Answer for yourself: What is so important about these 4 Pharaohs? Well there are two major things that must be noted.

- It was during these Pharaohs which ruled during the turbulent period in Egyptian history when an attempt was made to replace the country's multitude of ancient gods with a monotheistic God (18th Dynasty)
- All four of these Pharaohs were descendents of Joseph the Hebrew Patriarch

Answer for yourself: Did you get that? They were all the descendants of a Hebrew! Who was really Tutankhamun? Was he a messiah? Could it be that he was the son of Moses? Could these later "messianic" prophecies that we find in Judaism be inherited from Egypt in the first place and be connected to heirs of Pharaoh (King) and the Throne of Egypt as the Son of Ra (I mean God)? Woah! Was the messiah an Egyptian concept in the beginning that referred to Horus? Was the Egyptian Messiah to come and right all the world's wrongs that were laid at the feet of Set (the Egyptian Set (Devil), the personified power of Darkness)? Wow. Let us rest for a minute and slow down for now and refocus on the subject at hand and we will get to these issues in future articles.

We will see in our studies that the major player in all this religious upheaval in Egypt was Akhenaton, the Biblical Moses (1367-1361). Following a period of co-regency Moses/Akhenaton became the sole ruler upon the death of his father who was Amenhotep III (Biblical Solomon), the grandson of Tuthmose III (the Biblical King David). Yes, the inherited Judeo-Christian Chronology is wrong but you have to ask Ezra about that and why this was concealed.

Now this was a brief introduction for where we are headed and we presently get into the study of King David now in order to determine his true identity.

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT IN THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #1

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

As a Christian you hear others often speak about Isaiah 53 and make connection with Yeshua as if this passage was prophetic for Yeshua. In fact, often you may encounter questions from Jews who are involved in or considering Christianity. Among the questions, one chapter of our Jewish Scriptures keeps coming up: Isaiah 53.

Answer for yourself: Wasn't the Prophet, in fact, referring to Yeshua in this chapter?

Answer for yourself: And didn't all Jews before the Middle Ages recognize this chapter as "messianic"?

These are very important questions and the answers to them are of most importance if one desires to come to the truth concerning not only the "Jewish Messiah" but "the Christ".

We at Bet Emet Ministries hope to assist you in interpreting a chapter which has become a cornerstone of Christian theology and the impetus for evangelism to Jews.

Answer for yourself: After reading these articles please answer for yourself: should Isaiah 53 be used in such a manner any longer by Christians? On with the study.

Jewish sages teach that "whoever saves a single Jewish soul is considered as if he had saved an entire world." How precious is the human soul! We hope that you too will value your soul highly enough to prayerfully ponder that which follows and begin your own personal study to confirm what I will show you in these articles. God's truth is not always easy to discern, but we are possessors of a Divine promise; "you will find Him if you search after Him with all your heart and all your soul" (Deut. 4:29). As faithful child of God you know that it's worth the effort. And now - on with the search!

Before engaging in an examination of Isaiah 53 itself, some preliminary issues must be considered.

First is the issue of circular reasoning. Even if we interpret the chapter as most Christians do (forgetting for a minute the mistranslations and distortions of context in the later Christian texts which will be noted below in the following articles), the most that could be said is this: Isaiah 53 is about someone who dies for (or as you will see "because of") the sins of others.

Answer for yourself: The New Testament leads us to believe that many people may have seen Yeshua die, but did anyone see him die as an atonement for the sins of others? Have you ever studied the Biblical Doctrine of Atonement from a Jewish understanding before? Would you be surprised to know that nowhere in the Biblical Doctrine of Atonement does it teach or stress that a one person can die for the sins of others? Were you aware that it is the "life", the Soul, that inhabits the blood, that affects atonement and not the actual blood? As Christians we have not been taught correctly nor do we understand the very basics and dynamics of Biblical Sacrifice and how it actually works; all we know is that "blood" is integral to the process but never knowing that it is NOT the actual blood but the "life force" in it, our Souls, which accomplishes the actual atonement for sin and this is done through actions of our Soul. Well there is a lot here for sure but this study of true Biblical Atonement goes hand in hand with our study of Isaiah 53 in light of the Christian interpretation of Isaiah 53 that teaches Jesus/Yeshua and his death was an atonement for the sins of the whole world. One camp is wrong here and one is right! But we will this problem all the way through the study of Isaiah 53 when examining the texts from a Hebrew perspective.

We find that the later writers of the New Testament attach to the death of Jesus the idea of atonement. This was done to try to explain his death in light of the failure of his return as prophesied by him and others earlier. Only if you already accept the New Testament teaching that his death had a non-visible, spiritual significance can you than go back to Isaiah and say, "see - the Prophet predicted what I already believe." Isaiah 53, then, is in reality no "proof" at all, but rather a contrived confirmation for someone who has already chosen Christianity and chooses to read into the text what they wish regardless of what the Prophet intended to confer in his original message.

DID THE FOLLOWERS OF YESHUA AND OTHER JEWS OF THE TIME VIEW ISAIAH 53 AS A MESSIANIC PROPHECY?

Second (and consistent with all Jewish teaching at the time), Jesus' own disciples didn't view Isaiah 53 as a messianic prophecy. For example, after Peter identifies Yeshua as the Messiah (Matt. 16:16), he is informed that Yeshua will be killed (Matt. 16:21). His response: "God forbid it, lord! This shall never happen to you" (Matt. 16:22). See, also, Mk. 9:31-32; Mk. 16:10-11; Jn. 20:9. Evidently this was "news" to him and something that he was not aware of as an adult Jew which was most assuredly familiar with his own religion.

DID YESHUA VIEW ISAIAH 53 AS A MESSIANIC PROPHECY?

Even Yeshua didn't see Isaiah 53 as crucial to his messianic claims - why else did he call the Jews children of the devil for not believing in him before the alleged resurrection (Jn. 8:39-47)?

Answer for yourself: And why did he later request that God "remove this cup from me" (Mk. 14:36) - didn't he know that a "removal of the cup" would violate the Gentile understanding of Isaiah 53 which his church would come to realize later after his death?

Answer for yourself: And third, even if we accept the Gentile Christian interpretation of Isaiah 53, where is it indicated (either in Isaiah 53 or anywhere else in the Jewish Scriptures) that you must believe in this "Messiah" to get the benefits?

THE CONTEXT OF ISAIAH 53 IS COMPLETELY OVERLOOKED BY CHRISTIANS TODAY

Since any portion of Scripture is only understood properly when viewed in the context of God's revelation as a whole, some additional study will be helpful before you "tackle" Isaiah 53.

Look at the setting in which Isaiah 53 occurs. Earlier on in Isaiah, God had predicted exile and calamity for the Jewish people. Chapter 53, however, occurs in the midst of Isaiah's "Messages of Consolation", which tell of the restoration of Israel to a position of prominence and a vindication of their status as God's chosen people. In chapter 52, for example, Israel is described as "oppressed without cause" (v.4) and "taken away" (v.5), yet God promises a brighter future ahead, one in which Israel will again prosper and be redeemed in the sight of all the nations (v.1-3, 8-12).

Chapter 54 further elaborates upon the redemption which awaits the nation of Israel. Following immediately after chapter 53's promise of a reward for God's servant in return for all of its suffering (53:10-12), chapter 54 describes an unequivocally joyous fate for the Jewish people. Speaking clearly of the Jewish people and their exalted status (even according to all Christian commentaries), chapter 54 ends as follows: "`This is the heritage of the servants of the L-rd and their vindication is from Me,' declares the L-rd."

ISAIAH 53…A QUICK OVERVIEW BEFORE WE BEGIN

In the original Hebrew texts, there are no chapter divisions, and Jew and Christian alike agree that chapter 53 is actually a continuation of the prophecy which begins at 52:13. Accordingly, our analysis must begin at that verse.

52:13 "Behold, My servant will prosper." Israel in the singular is called God's servant throughout Isaiah, both explicitly (Isa. 41:8-9; 44:1-2; 45:4; 48:20; 49:3) and implicitly (Isa. 42:19-20; 43:10) - the Messiah is not.

This is of major importance for our study.

Other references to "Israel as God's servant" include Jer. 30:10 (note that in Jer. 30:17, the servant Israel is regarded by the nations as an outcast, forsaken by God, as in Isa. 53:4); Jer. 46:27-28; Ps. 136:22; Lk. 1:54. The "servant" is the nation of Israel and not one individual!

Answer for yourself: Given the Christian view that Yeshua is God, is God His own servant?

52:15 - 53:1 "So shall he (the servant) startle many nations, the kings will stand speechless; For that which had not been told them they shall see and that which they had not heard shall they ponder. Who would believe what we have heard?" Quite clearly, the nations and their kings will be amazed at what happens to the "servant of the L-rd," and they will say "who would believe what we have heard?". 52:15 tells us explicitly that it is the nations of the world, the gentiles, who are doing the talking in Isaiah 53. See, also, Micah 7:12-17, which speaks of the nations' astonishment when the Jewish people again blossom in the Messianic age.

53:1 "And to whom has the arm of the L-rd been revealed?" In Isaiah, and throughout our Scriptures, God's "arm" refers to the physical redemption of the Jewish people from the oppression of other nations (see, e.g., Isa. 52:8-12; Isa. 63:12; Deut. 4:34; Deut. 7:19; Ps. 44:3).

53:3 "Despised and rejected of men." While this is clearly applicable to Israel (see Isa. 60:15; Ps. 44:13-14), it cannot be reconciled with the New Testament account of Yeshua, a man who was supposedly "praised by all" (Lk. 4:14-15) and followed by multitudes (Matt. 4:25), who would later acclaim him as a prophet upon his triumphal entry into Jerusalem (Matt. 21:9-11). Even as he was taken to be crucified, a multitude bemoaned his fate (Lk. 23:27). Yeshua had to be taken by stealth, as the rulers feared "a riot of the people" (Mk. 14:1-2).

53:3 "A man of pains and acquainted with disease." Israel's adversities are frequently likened to sickness - see, e.g., Isa. 1:5-6; Jer. 10:19; Jer 30:12.

53:4 "Surely our diseases he carried and our pains he bore." In Matt. 8:17, this is correctly translated, and said to be literally (not spiritually) fulfilled in Yeshua's healing of the sick, a reading inconsistent with the Christian mistranslation of 53:4 itself.

53:4 "Yet we ourselves esteemed him stricken, smitten of G- D and afflicted." See Jer. 30:17 - of God's servant Israel (30:10), it is said by the nations, "It is Zion; no one cares for her."

53:5 "But he was wounded from (NOTE: not “for”) our transgressions, he was crushed from (AGAIN: not “for”) our iniquities." Whereas the Gentile nations had thought the Servant (Israel) was undergoing Divine retribution for its sins (53:4), they now realize that the Servant's sufferings stemmed from their OWN actions and sinfulness against the nation. This theme is further developed throughout our Jewish Scriptures - see, e.g., Jer. 50:7; Jer. 10:25. ALSO: Note that the Messiah "shall not fail nor be crushed till he has set the right in the earth" (Isa. 42:4). This is serious business, as you can see; when Messiah comes he will a major bone to pick with the Roman Church which spawned both anti-Semitic Catholicism and his child Protestantism.

53:7 "He was oppressed and he was afflicted, yet he did not open his mouth. Like a lamb that is led to slaughter, and like a sheep that is silent before its shearers, so he did not open his mouth." Note that in the prior chapter (Isa. 52), Israel is said to have been oppressed and taken away without cause (52:4-5). A similar theme is developed in Psalm 44, wherein King David speaks of the corporate nation of Israel and her faithfulness even in the face of gentile oppression (44:17- 18) and describes Israel as "sheep to be slaughtered" in the midst of the unfaithful gentile nations (44:22,11).

Regarding the claim that Yeshua "did not open his mouth" when faced with oppression and affliction, see Matt. 27:46, Jn. 18:23, 36-37.

53:8 "From dominion and judgment he was taken away." Note the correct translation of the Hebrew. The Christians are forced to mistranslate, since - by Yeshua’s own testimony - he never had any rights to rulership or judgment, at least not on the "first coming." See, e.g., Jn. 3:17; Jn. 8:15; Jn. 12:47; Jn. 18:36.

53:8 "He was cut off out of the land of the living."

53:9 "His grave was assigned with wicked men." See Ez. 37:11-14, wherein Israelis described as "cut off" and God promises to open its "graves" and bring Israel back into its own land. Other examples of figurative deaths include Ex. 10:17; 2 Sam. 9:8; 2 Sam. 16:9.

53:8 "From my peoples' sins, there was injury to them." Here the Prophet makes absolutely clear, to anyone familiar with Biblical Hebrew, that the oppressed Servant is a collective Servant, not a single individual. The Hebrew word "lamoh", when used in our Scriptures, always means "to them" never "to him" and may be found, for example, in Psalm 99:7 - "They kept his testimonies, and the statute that He gave to them."

53:9 "And with the rich in his deaths." Perhaps King James should have changed the original Hebrew, which again makes clear that we are dealing with a collective Servant, i.e., Israel, which will "come to life" when the exile ends (Ez. 37:14).

53:9 "He had done no violence." See Matt. 21:12; Mk. 11:15-16; Lk. 19:45; Lk. 19:27; Matt. 10:34 and Lk. 12:51; then judge for yourself whether this passage is truly consistent with the New Testament account of Yeshua.

53:10 "He shall see his seed." The Hebrew word for "seed", used in this verse, always refers to physical descendants in our Jewish Scriptures. See, e.g., Gen. 12:7; Gen. 15:13; Gen. 46:6; Ex. 28:43. A different word, generally translated as "sons", is used to refer to spiritual descendants (see Deut. 14:1, e.g.).

53:10 "He will prolong his days."

Answer for yourself: Not only did Yeshua die young, but how could the days be prolonged of someone who is alleged to be God?

53:11 "With his knowledge the righteous one, my Servant, will cause many to be just." Note again the correct translation: the Servant will cause many to be just, he will not "justify the many."

The Jewish mission is to serve as a "light to the nations" which will ultimately lead the world to a knowledge of the one true God, this both by example (Deut. 4:5-8; Zech. 8:23) and by instructing the nations in God's Law (Isa. 2:3-4; Micah 4:2-3). This mission, however, has been tragically circumvented by the Roman Church throughout history by the editing and adulterating the documents we call the New Testament today. What was once a Torah centered faith has become a religion based upon "believing in the identity of a man" instead of "living a life in obedience to the Law/Commandments of God." Today "grace" had completely nullified "personal accountability before God." Needless to say the "light" of Divine Truth as been replaced by Gentile Christianity's Catholic Church Council's decisions upon the "identity" of Yeshua as it evolved over the first 500 years of the church. The identity of the Servant of God, the Jewish People, who paid in their blood the price that I might know God today, has been completely obliterated by Christian theology whereby "one man" has replaced an entire nation.

53:12 "Therefore, I will divide a portion to him with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the mighty."

Answer for yourself: If Yeshua is God, does the idea of reward have any meaning?

Answer for yourself: Is it not rather the Jewish people - who righteously bore the sins of the world and yet remained faithful to God (Ps. 44) - who will be rewarded, and this in the manner described more fully in Isaiah chapters 52 and 54? That is what we will see as we examine the Hebrew texts which were later corrupted and altered in the Greek and later English versions we have today!

In the following articles in this series we will examine in depth many of the above items for your study and evaluation. When we finish you will no longer have any doubt or confusion regarding the correct interpretation of Isaiah 53 and whether it refers to Yeshua or not. Who Is The Servant of God?

Let us continue in the 2nd article in this series.

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT IN THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #2

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

ISAIAH'S USE OF SERVANT IN REFERENCE TO ISRAEL-THE NATION

In order to begin our study with the proper background it is important that you familiarize yourself with the following Scriptures and the meaning of the prophet Isaiah in writing them. The following are every mention of "servant" from Isaiah. 40-66. Please read and see if Isaiah is consistent throughout the book by describing the nation of Israel as the servant and not a man. This is of utmost important that we understand the context of the prophet Isaiah due to all the improper teaching we have heard during our lives that have preconditioned us to "read into the passage" meanings not ever intended by the Prophet Isaiah.

I ask that you take the time to read each of the chapters listed below in order for you to get the context. Then, and only then, can you be certain that the "servant" in question is not an individual man, but a collective of people: namely; the people of Israel which included Yeshua, but never was intended to reference him to the exclusion of the whole of the Jewish people.

Isa 41:8

8 But thou, Israel, art my servant, Jacob whom I have chosen, the seed of Abraham my friend. (KJV)

Isa 41:9

9 Thou whom I have taken from the ends of the earth, and called thee from the chief men thereof, and said unto thee, Thou art my servant; I have chosen thee, and not cast thee away. (KJV)

Isa 42:1

1 Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles. (KJV)

Isa 42:19

19 Who is blind, but my servant? or deaf, as my messenger that I sent? who is blind as he that is perfect, and blind as the LORD's servant? (KJV)

Isa 43:10

10 Ye are my witnesses, saith the LORD, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me. (KJV)
[notice the explicit reference to the servant in both the singular and plural in the same verse]

Isa 44:1

1 Yet now hear, O Jacob my servant; and Israel, whom I have chosen: (KJV)

Isa 44:2

2 Thus saith the LORD that made thee, and formed thee from the womb, which will help thee; Fear not, O Jacob, my servant; and thou, Jesurun, whom I have chosen. (KJV)

Isa 44:21

21 Remember these, O Jacob and Israel; for thou art my servant: I have formed thee; thou art my servant: O Israel, thou shalt not be forgotten of me. (KJV)

Isa 44:26

26 That confirmeth the word of his servant, and performeth the counsel of his messengers; that saith to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be inhabited; and to the cities of Judah, Ye shall be built, and I will raise up the decayed places thereof: (KJV)

Isa 48:20

20 Go ye forth of Babylon, flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth; say ye, The LORD hath redeemed his servant Jacob. (KJV)

Isa 49:3

3 And said unto me, Thou art my servant, O Israel, in whom I will be glorified. (KJV)

Isa 49:5

5 And now, saith the LORD that formed me from the womb to be his servant, to bring Jacob again to him, Though Israel be not gathered, yet shall I be glorious in the eyes of the LORD, and my God shall be my strength. (KJV)

Isa 49:6

6 And he said, It is a light thing that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth. (KJV)

Isa 50:10

10 Who is among you that feareth the LORD, that obeyeth the voice of his servant, that walketh in darkness, and hath no light? let him trust in the name of the LORD, and stay upon his God. (KJV)

Isa 52:13

13 Behold, my servant shall deal prudently, he shall be exalted and extolled, and be very high. (KJV)

Isa 53:11

11 He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied: by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many; for he shall bear their iniquities. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: What have we seen in these above passages over and over again?

By now you should be able to see for yourself that the Prophet Isaiah intended the "nation of Israel" be understood as the Servant of YHVH and NOT one person, and it is this nation of Israel who is the "Suffering Servant" of Isaiah 53.

Now we continue in the 3rd article in this series.

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT IN THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #3

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

I suppose Isaiah 53 is possibly the most misunderstood and misused passages in the whole Bible. The reason as you will quickly come to see is partly due to the purposefully misquoting of the Jewish Masoretic text whereby the verses have been terribly altered. This not only destroys the original meaning intended by Isaiah but substitutes a "foreign" meaning instead.

Ever since I was a child I was told to believe that this passage refereed to Yeshua. Does it? You might be surprised when you study it in detail as I have. If you undertake to read these series of articles the results you will discover will reveal a completely different understanding from what many of you supposed that Isaiah, as recorded in your Christian Bibles, actually means. Besides the reason "highlighted" above, another reason why we did not understand this passage correctly as most of us grew up in the church is that our spiritual authorities chose to "read into the text" ideas that could not be "drawn from the text". Let me explain.

In Seminary I learned that there are laws of interpretation that must be applied to the text of scripture if one wanted to arrive at the truth of what the passage is saying. There is only one problem outside of the Seminary classroom; namely few pastors or church adhere to such rule and laws of interpretation of scripture. I learned that there is a big difference between "exegesis" and "eisegesis." Let me explain by looking at the definitions of these two very important words.

Exegesis, [from exegeomai in the Greek, to explain-ex, and hegeomai, to lead, to guide] The exposition or interpretation of any literary production, but more particularly the exposition or interpretation of Scripture; also the principles of the art of sacred interpretation; exegetics; hermeneutics.

Eisegesis noun : personal interpretation of a text (especially of the Bible) using your own ideas. In other words, reading into the text concepts and ideas totally foreign to the text.

As you can see for yourself if we follow the laws of eisegesis we can be assured of arriving at an erroneous interpretation of the text and lose the truths the prophet or writer intended to convey. Conversely, only by rigid application of the laws of exegesis can we be assured of arriving at the truths God desires we both understand and possess. Let us go on.

Since this article is intended for Christian readers, I will not go into depth regarding the traditional interpretation that the "Suffering Servant" has been taught to be Yeshua in the Isaiah 52 and especially the Isaiah 53 passages by the Christian Church for centuries. I would only ask that you read these series of articles closely and limit your "eisegesis" (reading into the text your personal interpretation received through sermonizing) and let the truths of the passage derived from "exegesis (whereby we explain, interpret, and critically examine the text) speak to you and determine what your religious belief system should be in light of the facts as they are "taken from the passage" and not "read into" the passage. After you have completed these articles the decision will be up to you what you believe Isaiah 53 is teaching. But until you read these articles and see this information for yourself you are limited by the knowledge withheld from you and are sadly unable to make an intelligent decision. With this as my motive let us begin a critical examination of the text.

ISA 52:13---ISA 53:12...(AS TAKEN FROM THE MASORETIC TEXT [THE JEWISH BIBLE] AND NOT THE ALTERED OLD TESTAMENTS FROM MOST CHRISTIAN'S BIBLES (THE KJV FOR EXAMPLE)

13. Behold, My servant shall prosper; he shall be exalted and lifted up, and shall be very high.

14. As many wondered about you, "How marred his appearance is from that of a man, and his features from that of people!"

15. So shall he cast down many nations; kings shall shut their mouths because of him; for what had not been told to them they shall see; and that which they had not heard they shall consider.

Let me interject that the word for "nations" in the Hebrew is as follows:

1471 gowy rarely (shortened) goy- as a noun, masculine: nation, people

- a) nation, people
- 1) usually of non-Hebrew people
- 2) used of descendants of Abraham
- b) used of a swarm of locusts or other animals (figurative) as a proper noun, masculine:
- c) Goyim? = "nations"

Now back to the text....

1. Who bath believed our report? And to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?
2. And he came up like a sapling before it, and like a root from dry ground, he had neither form nor comeliness; and we saw him that he had no appearance that we should have desired him.
3. Despised and forsaken by men, a man of pains and accustomed to illness: and as one who hides his face from us; despised, and we esteemed him not.
4. Indeed, he bore our illnesses, and our pains - he carried them, yet we accounted him as plagued, smitten by God and oppressed.
5. But he was pained from our transgressions, crushed from our iniquities; the chastisement of our welfare was upon him, and with his wound we were healed.
6. We all went astray like sheep, we have turned, each one on his own way, and the Lord accepted his prayers for the iniquity of all of us.
7. He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he would not open his mouth; like a lamb to the slaughter he would be brought, and like a sheep that is mute before her shearers, and he would not open his mouth.

8. From imprisonment and from judgment he is taken, and his generation who shall tell? For he was cut off from the land of the living; because of the transgression of my people, a plague befell them.
9. And he gave his grave to the wicked, and to the wealthy with his kinds of deaths, because he committed no violence, and there was no deceit in his mouth.
10. And the Lord wished to crush him, He made him ill; if his soul makes itself restitution, he shall see seed, he shall prolong his days, and God's purpose shall prosper in his hand.
11. From the toil of his soul he would see, he would be satisfied; with his knowledge My servant would vindicate the just for many, and their iniquities he would bear.
12. Therefore, I will allot him a portion in public, and with the strong he shall share plunder, because he poured out his soul to death, and with transgressors he was counted; and he bore the sin of many, and interceded for the transgressors.

WE MUST DECIDE WHO IS DOING THE "SPEAKING" IN THESE VERSES IN ORDER TO INTERPRET THEM CORRECTLY

Isaiah 52:15-53:

- Isa. 52:15. So shall he cast down many nations; the kings shall shut their mouths because of him; for that which had not been told to them they shall see; and that which they had not heard they shall consider.
- Isa. 53:1. Who hath believed our report? And to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

Notice first with me "certain" words. They are in the "plural." Kings of nations (Gentile kings of non-Jewish nations) are speaking here in their numbed astonishment. For what they are finally witnessing is in stark contrast to everything they had ever heard and considered (or even heard preached about the Jews). Understandably, the first question on their lips is, "Who would have ever believed such a thing?" These Gentile leaders and "kings" are utterly astounded that the Jewish people, whom all the non-Jewish nations have together despised and molested, will be vindicated and enjoy the promised salvation of God. This is totally foreign to their theologies and what they were accustomed to hear taught and preached and what they expected to happen to the Jewish people. In other words these thoughts and beliefs about the fate of the Jewish people and their salvation have been totally in error as held by these non-Jewish people. Understand that the vast majority of Christianity today, if asked, will say the Jewish people are damned to hell if they don't believe in the Messiah or the blood of Yeshua. Let us go on.

The palpable shock that the gentile nations will experience and express at the end of days is a common theme throughout the Bible. But this fact can only be know if you spend a lot of time in the Hebrew Scriptures, and lets face the truth, most Christians today spend the vast majority of their time reading only the New Testament and find little use for the Jewish Scriptures.

Bear in mind that nowhere in scripture do the prophets foretell that the Jewish people will ever proclaim shock, or admit any mistake to the gentiles in the messianic age. On the contrary, the Bible clearly testifies that in the messianic age ten gentiles of different languages will grasp the shirt of a Jew and say, "Let us go with ,YOU, for we have heard that God is with ,YOU." (Zechariah 8:23)

Micah 7:15-16

15 According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt will I show unto them marvelous things. 16 The nations (non-Jewish peoples) shall see and be confounded at all of their might: they shall lay their hands upon their mouth, their ears shall be deaf.

Isaiah 41:11

11 Behold all those who were incensed against you shall be ashamed and confounded; those who quarreled with you shall be as naught and be lost.

Jeremiah 16:19-20

19 O Lord, my strength, and my fortress, and my refuge in the day of affliction, the Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the earth and shall say, "Surely our fathers have inherited lies, vanity, and things wherein there is no benefit. 20 Shall a man make Gods unto himself, and they are no Gods?

Please listen. As a Seminary graduate with a Master's degree no less, the tools I received while at Seminary were put to further use after I graduated as I proceeded to be involved with in-depth study of Biblical language, Biblical history, culture, etc. I must admit that upon 15 years of in-depth research and study, sometimes up to 10 hours a day, I have found that I have fulfilled Jeremiah 16:19-20. I have come to the conclusion that Jeremiah is totally correct: my non-Jewish forefathers, having accepted the legacy of Nicea and Constantine, and others who replaced a Jewish faith with one of Rome, and who altered the manuscripts to make sure that all subsequent non-Jewish followers accept "their" brand of religion, propagated religious lies, vanity, and vain worship. Faced with such knowledge which most have not had the opportunity to be exposed to themselves, I endeavor to reach out to others to inform them of the truths long held from the Christian community in order that their knowledge and faith in both God and Messiah be correct and not after the traditions of men.

REGARDLESS OF WHAT YOU HAVE HEARD PREACHED IN YOUR CHURCH....WHO DOES ISAIAH IDENTIFY AS "THE SERVANT"?

Isaiah 41:8-9

But thou, Israel, art My servant, Jacob whom I have chosen, the seed of Abraham My friend. 9 Whom I grasped from the ends of the earth, and from it nobles I called you, and I said to you. "You are My servant"; I chose you and I did not despise you.

Isaiah 44:1-2

1 Yet hear now, O Jacob My servant and Israel, whom I have chosen. So said the Lord your Maker, and He who formed you from the womb shall aid you. 2 Fear not, My servant Israel, and Jeshurun whom I have chosen.

Isaiah 44:21

21 Remember these, O Jacob and Israel, for thou art My servant, I have formed thee; thou art My servant, O Israel, thou shalt not be forgotten of Me.

Isaiah 45:4

4 For the sake of My servant Jacob, and Israel My chosen one, and I called to you by your name...

Isaiah 48:20

20 Leave Babylon, flee from the Chaldeans; with a voice of singing declare, tell this, publicize it to the end of the earth; say, The Lord has redeemed His servant Jacob."

Isaiah 49:3

3 And said to me, thou art My Servant, O Israel, in whom I will be glorified!

Psalm 136:22

22 Even a heritage unto Israel His servant; for His mercy endures forever

Jeremiah 30:10

10 Therefore fear not, O My Servant Jacob, says the Lord, neither be dismayed, O Israel: for, behold, I will save you from afar....

Answer for yourself: So what do we learn about the identity of the "Servant" of God?

The Suffering Servant of God is the nation of Israel and not an individual; that is, the Suffering Servant of God is a collection of people and not just one person.

Answer for yourself: What are the implications of reading only "one" person into Isaiah 53 then?

Simply, we are guilty of not drawing out of the passage the intended meaning of the prophet (exegesis), but rather, misinterpreting the passage by "reading into" the passage a preconceived belief formed by what others have said (eisegesis) which cannot be supported by critical examination of the text. Our religious belief system is in error, and often this leads us to vain worship.

Answer for yourself: If we read "Yeshua" into Isaiah 53 and not understand that the "suffering servant" is the collective nation of Israel, then are we not guilty of "reading into the text our personal interpretation" irrespective of the intended meaning of the prophet and guilty of "eisegesis"? We sure are.

THE ONLY CONCLUSION WE CAN RIGHTFULLY DRAW FROM TRUTHFUL EXAMINATION OF THE TEXT IS THAT THE IDENTITY OF THE "SERVANT" IN THE PROPHET'S FOURTH SERVANT SONG, ISAIAH 53, MUST BE THE NATION OF ISRAEL AND NOT ONE INDIVIDUAL

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #4

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

In the previous article I made a strong case for correctly interpreting the "Suffering Servant" of Isaiah 53 in the plural and not the singular [the "servant" is the corporate nation..and not one individual]. That means if we want to correctly interpret the Bible we cannot any longer read "Jesus" into Isa. 53 no matter what our theology is at present. Let us now examine more concrete testimony which validates the interpretation of Isaiah 53 as referring to the nation of Israel and not just one man.

THROUGHOUT THE SERVANT SONGS THE "NATION OF ISRAEL" IS SPOKEN OF IN THE SINGULAR...BUT THE PRONOUN IS UNDERSTOOD AS THE "NATION"

As I grew up in the church I was continually told that since Isaiah 53's references to the Servant is in the singular that this conclusively proves that this chapter is speaking of a single individual rather than the entire nation of Israel.

To say that the "singular" reference, as applied to the Suffering Servant in Isaiah 53, definitely refers to Jesus disregards the entire context and surrounding poetic motif of Isaiah 53.

I cannot ask you to believe this unless I can prove it to you. So let us investigate the matter in detail.

In Isaiah 43:10, the prophet clearly identifies the "servant" (singular) as God's "witnesses" (plural).

Notice that the "servant" is plural thus referring to more than one individual. Also, all Christians agree that the two chapters that sandwich Isaiah 53 (52 and 54) consistently speak of the Jewish people as a single individual. When considering that "Isaiah 53" actually begins in the latter part of the 52nd chapter, Christianity's argument becomes increasingly weak. Furthermore, as I will show you momentarily, the prophet alternately speaks of the servant in Isaiah 53 in both the singular and plural.

As the book of Isaiah progresses into the 54th chapter, it continues to speak of the Jewish people as though they are a single individual. This barren woman, a picture of a tormented Israel, will be saved from her affliction and jubilate wholeheartedly in her final vindication.

Isaiah 43:10

10 Ye are My witnesses saith the Lord, and My servant whom I have chosen: that you may know and believe Me, and understand that I am He: before Me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after Me.

Notice how the plural "witnesses" refers to only "one servant" (singular).

Isaiah 52:1-2

1 Awaken, awaken, put on your strength, O Zion; put on the garments of your beauty, Jerusalem the Holy City, for no longer shall the uncircumcised or the unclean continue to enter you. 2 Shake yourselves from the dust, arise, sit down, O Jerusalem; free yourself of the bands of your neck, O captive daughter of Zion.

Isaiah 54:1

"'Sing you barren woman who has not born, burst out into song and jubilate, you who have not experienced birth pangs, for the children of the desolate one are more than the children of the married woman," says the Lord.

DOES THE WRITER OF THE GOSPEL OF MATTHEW TAKE VERSES OUT OF CONTEXT TO CREATE HIS UNIQUE THEOLOGY? YES...HE DOES!

Matthew does to Hosea precisely what other Christians do to Isaiah. In Hosea 11:1, the prophet is referring to national Israel (plural) in the singular as God's son. The writer of the Gospel of Matthew 2:15 takes half the verse out of context, and quotes this verse as if it is speaking about the messiah (singular).

Similarly, the context of Isaiah 53 reveals that Isaiah is speaking of national Israel (many people) in the singular, yet I was led to believe that this chapter is speaking about Jesus. Such is not the case.

Hosea 11:1-2, 5

1 When Israel was a child, then I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son (referring to a nation). 2 The more they called them, the more they went from them, they sacrificed unto the Baalim, and offered to graven images

5* He shall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Assyrian shall be his king, because they refused to return.

Again you can see that the prophet is referring to the nation of Israel (numbering in hundreds of thousands" in the singular with the use of "he"along with the plural use of "they."

Exodus 4:22

22...thus saith the Lord, Israel is My son, My first born.

So you can see that the nation, numbering thousands and thousands, is referred to collectively in the singular. Thus the Suffering Servant, as revealed as the nation of Israel continues to be the collective people of Israel in Isaiah 53 and to refer to Jesus alone is a grievous error of interpretation.

LET US NOT FORGET WHO IS SPEAKING IN ISAIAH 53...WHO IS?

As we prepare to delve into the text of Isaiah 53 we must at the beginning come to an accurate understanding of who is speaking. Without such an understanding we can be assured we will interpret the passages of Isaiah 53 incorrectly and thereby attribute meanings to them that the original author never intended.

Let me state right up front that the original manuscripts, even copies of manuscripts we have discovered, never had chapter divisions within them. These were added much later by the Church. So often we find chapter divisions put in the most unlikely of places. Sometimes the chapter division obscures the meaning of the text as well as who is doing the actual speaking as I will show you in Isaiah 53. Failure to notice who is speaking in Isaiah 53 is compounded by the chapter division which was artificially created centuries after the text was originally written. Search as you will, you will not discern the identity of the speaker by reading Isaiah 53 because the identity of the speaker is given in the verses above the chapter division of Isaiah 53. Failure to look to Isaiah 52 to discern the true speaker will cause you to believe that since Isaiah is the writer, he must be speaking himself and we erroneously connect such a concept in our minds to the idea that he is speaking for Israel. Nothing could be further from the truth. To this very important issue we now turn.

The following is taken from the Jewish Scriptures and the Tanakh [and not the corrupted Old Testaments in the Christian Bibles]

Isa 52:13-15

Indeed, My servant shall prosper. Be exalted and raised to great heights. 14 Just as the many were appalled at him So marred was his appearance, unlike of man, His for, beyond human semblance- 15 Just so he shall startle many nations. Kings shall be silenced because of him, For they shall see what has not been told them, Shall behold what they never heard.

Now notice the next verse...called Isaiah 53:1

“Who can believe what we have heard? Upon whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed?...

Answer for yourself: Did you notice anything different between the translation in the Tanakh and the KJV?

Well, the Tanakh makes note that Isaiah 53:1 is a quote from the Gentile kings and nations. What follows in Isa. 53 is the testimony of the Gentile Kings which represent the Gentile Nations. The Christian Bible, the KJV, does not make this as plain and we tend to think that Isaiah is speaking; thereby making the following testimony apply to the Jews when it refers to the non-Jewish world! This is very, very important!

One immediately notices, since put on the alert what to look for it, that the speaker is designated in Isaiah 52 just a few verses before Isaiah 53. The kings/rulers of the nations are engaged in a dialogue concerning the Jewish people. It is the Gentile kings of the nations which are speaking and not the Jewish people. For too long now Christians read Isaiah 53 without noticing in the latter part of Isaiah 52 that the speaker is not Isaiah or the Jewish people, but rather the Gentile nations. Failure to notice this guarantees misinterpretation of Isaiah 53!

Not only should we notice this, but in the Jewish translation given above we should take note of the quotations surrounding the verses which literally the Gentile kings are speaking. This further makes certain we understand that the following dialogue is from a Gentile's perspective and not a Jewish perspective. This again is of paramount importance. The "incrimination" of the testimony that follows in Isaiah 53 is not the testimony of the Jews, but rather the testimony of the Gentiles of the world regarding the nation of Israel. Such quotations are absent in my KJV bible. The failure to note this helps one mistranslate Isaiah 53.

Bearing constantly in mind that the servant of God has, and will be shown to be corporate Israel, let us look at some passages in a KJV Christian Bible.

Isaiah 52:13-15

Behold, my servant shall deal prudently, he shall be exalted and extolled, and be very high.

As many were astonished at thee: his visage was so marred more than any man, and his form more than the sons of men:

So shall he sprinkle many nations ; the kings shall shut their mouths at him: for that which they had not been told them shall them see; and that which they had not heard shall they consider.

We are told that the nations of the world (non-Jewish nations) along with their kings/rulers will consider God's servant. We are told they are in line for revelation concerning God's servant (Israel). Understanding that the servant is again the Jewish people, the non-Jewish people and their authorities will come to an understanding concerning the Jewish people that they did not possess earlier. Their consideration of the Jewish people is enumerated for us beginning at Isaiah 53:1.

Isaiah 53:1

Who hath believed our report? And to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

Remembering chapter divisions are artificial creations, if we read Isaiah 52:13-15 consecutively along with Isaiah 53:1 we see the beauty of the continuing story. The kings/rulers and Gentile nations will see what they had not previously seen and will hear what they had not previously heard. Understanding these Gentile kings and nations get revelation concerning the Jewish people we have their response to such new insights beginning in Isaiah 53:1. The KJV does not put this verse in quotes as noted earlier. The Jewish Scriptures does! Isaiah 53 needs to be understood as the Gentile response to new revelation as God lifts their blindness to see and understand the role of God's servant, Israel, through the ages. This new insight goes against what they had previously been told to believe. Such will probably be your response as well.

These Gentile kings are literally saying "who is going to believe this…who is going to believe what we now see in light of what we were taught as well as taught about the Jewish people?" These Gentile rulers and nations are literally saying "who else sees the truth considering the Jewish people to which we were once blinded but not see?" These Gentile kings and nations begin in Isaiah 53:2 to delineate the role of Israel as they now comprehend it in truth. This new enlightenment concerning Israel as the servant of God causes a massive repentance in both their perspective and religious belief system. These Kings of Gentile nations [in Isaiah 53] recount for us the tragic story of Israel and how she has been mistreated, persecuted, and rejected by the Gentile nations throughout history. These Gentiles admit their guilt. Line upon line of Isaiah 53 is the unfolding of the tragic truth concerning the barbarism of the Gentile nations toward their Jewish neighbors. Yet the role God gave Israel never changed. She was faithful to be a light to the non-Jewish nations. With this understanding, all of Isaiah 53 must be re-read, for if we fail to remember who is speaking verse after verse, which is easy to do because of our past erroneous teachings, we will miss entirely what God wished we see through the eyes and pen of the Prophet Isaiah.

CHRISTIANITY WILL HAVE TO FINALLY ADMIT THEY WERE WRONG...ABOUT THE JEWS AND ABOUT THEIR "THEOLOGY"

Notice that the surprised kings of nations will witness the final vindication and salvation of Israel irrespective of what they though or believed about the Jews previously. That means our narrow theology as Christians, and that of our religious leaders regarding the salvation of the Jewish people will one day crumble in the light of God's truth which will finally be forced upon the non-Jewish nations by Divine intervention and the ultimate salvation of Israel. Woe to men like the early anti-Semitic church fathers, and men like Luther and Calvin which helped shape theology today which denies the people of Israel their place in God's plan of salvation of the world.

With that understanding let us continue noticing who is speaking in these verses.

Isaiah 53:1

1. Who hath believed our (non-Jewish nations) report, and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

The common anthropomorphic reference to the arm of the Lord throughout scripture signifies the spiritual and military salvation of the Jewish people from the gentile nations.

Answer for yourself: Did you hear that? This is salvation from gentile nations and gentile theology!

Israel's final vindication and redemption in the eyes of the world's nations is the central theme of the last 27 chapters of the book of Isaiah (40-66).

Notice in the following verses the theme in Isaiah 52 which "sandwiched" between Isaiah 53 and Isaiah 54.

Isaiah 52:9-12

9 Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord bath comforted His people, He hath redeemed Jerusalem. 10 The Lord hath made bare His Holy Arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God! 11 Turn away, turn away, get out of there, touch no unclean one; get out of its midst, purify yourselves, you who bear the Lord's vessels. 12 For not with haste shall you go forth and not in a flurry of flight shall you go, for the Lord goes before you, and your rear guard is the God of Israel-

Isaiah 54:7-10

7 "For a small moment have I forsaken you, and with great mercy will I gather you. 8 With a little wrath did I hide My countenance for a moment from you, and with everlasting kindness will I have compassion on you," said your redeemer, the Lord. 9 "For this is to Me [as] the waters of Noah, as I swore that the waters of Noah shall never pass over the earth, so have I sworn neither to be wroth with you nor to rebuke you. 10 For the mountains shall depart and the hills totter, but My kindness shall not depart from you, neither shall the covenant of My peace totter," says the Lord, Who has compassion on you.

So you see that throughout the chapters that surround Isaiah 53, the prophet is speaking of the salvation of the afflicted Jewish nation in the presence of their persecutors, the gentile nations with their anti-Semitic hatred for the Jewish people.

Deuteronomy 7:19

19 The great miracles that you saw with your own eyes - the signs, the wonders, the mighty hand and the outstretched arm with which God brought you out of Egypt.

Again, the subject is the nation and not an individual. Thus the astonishment of the Gentile rulers and kings, including the religious rulers among the Gentiles, when God supernaturally intervenes and saves the nation of Israel despite what the Gentiles have taught theologically about the Jewish people.

THROUGHOUT THEIR PERILOUS EXILE, ISRAEL (THE NATION AND NOT JUST ONE PERSON) STRUGGLED AS A YOUNG TREE GROWING ON A PARCHED LAND

Isaiah 53:2

2 And he (the nation and not an individual) came up like a sapling before it, and like a root from dry ground, he had neither form nor comeliness; and we saw him that he had no appearance that we should have desired him.

Now you are beginning to see that this does not refer to Yeshua, but the Jewish people in total. Just be honest with yourself for a moment.

Answer for yourself: Does Christianity today desire to learn from the Jewish people?

Answer for yourself: Does Christianity today desire to keep the Jewish Sabbath which is different from their own which can be shown to be a creation of Rome in reaction to the Jewish Sabbath?

Answer for yourself: Does Christianity today desire to keep the Biblical Festivals or does it have its own Roman calendar filled with pagan holidays to which Yeshua's name has been added?

Let it not be misunderstood that for the most part, non-Jewish Christianity today views the nation of Israel, God's Suffering Servant, and sees little within it that they desire.

Hosea 14:6-8

6 I will be as the dew unto Israel: he shall grow as the lily, and cast forth his roots as Lebanon. 7 His branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the olive tree, and his smell as Lebanon. 8 They that dwell under his shadow shall return; they shall revive as the corn, and grow as the vine: the scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon.

Again further proof that the nation of Israel [corporate] is described in the singular [see above the "his" and its connection with "Israel"]. But also notice this, those who allow the branches of Israel to spread whereby they dwell under Israel's shadow shall return.

Answer for yourself: Return to what?

The true faith of God where we are truly grafted into Israel and correctly understand the Hebrew Scriptures.

Answer for yourself: Why do we as former Christians need to return to the faith once given to the saints?

Simply...

Jeremiah 16:19-20

19 O Lord, my strength, and my fortress, and my refuge in the day of affliction, the Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the earth and shall say, "Surely our fathers have inherited lies, vanity, and things wherein there is no benefit. 20 Shall a man make Gods unto himself, and they are no Gods?

One such lie is that Isaiah refers to Yeshua as God's only Suffering Servant in Isaiah 53. Hopefully by now God is opening your eyes to the beauty of the Jewish people and their Torah and the wonderful role they play and always have played at God's true Suffering Servant.

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT IN THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #5

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

In our previous articles we have demonstrated that the Suffering Servant in Isaiah is to be understood as the collective peoples of Israel and not just one person. Thus to say that Isaiah 53 refers to Yeshua is to misinterpret the intended meaning of the prophet Isaiah.

As we continue along we noticed that the Gentile rulers, both political and spiritual will be utterly amazed as the events in the future when God intervenes and saves the Jewish people in spite of what Christianity has taught about the Jewish people.

We again showed that pronouns used in Isaiah 52, 53, and 54, normally in the singular, in reality does not refer to Yeshua but again to the collective nation of Israel.

Now in this article we will deal with common misconceptions and misinterpretations of Isaiah 53 which erroneously have been applied to Yeshua, when again if we correctly interpret the passage, refers to the corporate nation once again.

THE NATIONS OF THE WORLD DESPISED, ABANDONED, AND AFFLICTED ISRAEL...NOT ONE PERSON [JESUS]

3 Despised and forsaken by men, a man of pains and accustomed to illness: and as one who hides his face from us; despised, and we esteemed him not.

Answer for yourself: With the understanding brought by the previous two articles, can you begin to see that the singular "man" and "him" must refer collectively to the nation of Israel as shown in the previous two documents?

Answer for yourself: Can you now better understand why I began the first article with stressing the differences between eisegesis and exegesis (reading into the text something not there or allowing the texts and context surrounding the Biblical text to define its meaning)? I hope so.

ISAIAH 49

The 49th chapter of Isaiah stands out as one of the most stirring sections of the Bible, and continues to set the stage for Isaiah 53. Its verses contain a moving conversation between Israel and God. As in all the Servant Songs, Isaiah repeatedly refers to nation of Israel in the singular.

Throughout this chapter the Jewish remnant cries out to God; the nation feels forsaken, afflicted, and abandoned. These passages do not refer to Yeshua (one person) and his passion but the Jewish peoples of all ages. These are the very same descriptions of torment that the Servant endures in Isaiah 53.

In response to their agony, the Almighty reassures His distressed nation that His love for His people even exceeds the intense affection a new mother feels for her hurting infant. As in Isaiah 53, the final vindication and salvation of the Jewish people is the chapter's central theme.

Isaiah 49:3, 7-8, 13-15

3 And said to me, thou art My servant, O Israel in whom I will be glorified!

7 For so said the Lord, the redeemer of Israel, his Holy One, about him who is despised of men, about him whom the nation abhors, about a slave of rulers, "Kings (understood as nations) shall see and rise, princes, and they shall prostrate themselves, for the sake of the Lord Who is faithful, the Holy One of Israel, and He chose you (understood as the nation and not one person)." 8 So said the Lord, "In a time of favor I answered you, and on a day of salvation I helped you; and I will watch you, and I will make you for a people of a covenant, to establish a land, to cause to inherit the desolate heritages. 13 Sing, O heavens, and rejoice, O earth, and mountains burst out in song, for the Lord has consoled His people, and He shall have mercy on His afflicted. 14 But Zion said, "The Lord has forsaken me, and the Lord has forgotten me." 15 Shall a woman forget her suckling child, from having mercy on the child of her womb? These too shall forget, but I will not forget you (again referring to the nation).

Isaiah 54:4-7, 11, 14, 17

4 Fear not, for you shall not be ashamed, and not embarrassed, for you shall not be put to shame; for the shame of your youth you shall forget, and for the humiliation of your widowhood you shall no longer be remembered. 5 Nor your maker is your husband; the Lord Hosts is His name, and your redeemer the Holy One of Israel shall be called the God of all the earth. 6 For like a wife who is forsaken and afflicted in spirit has the Lord called you, and a wife of one's youth who was rejected, said your God. 7 For a small moment have I forsaken you, and with great mercy will I gather you.

11 O thou afflicted, who was not consoled, behold I will lay thy stones with fair colors, and lay thy foundations with sapphires.

14 With righteousness shall you be established, for you will be far from oppression, for you will not fear; and from ruin, for it will not come near you.

17 No weapon that is formed against you will prosper, and any tongue that rises against you in judgement, you shall condemn; this is the heritage of the servants of the Lord and their righteousness is from Me, says the Lord.

Understandably, one's familiarity with the chapters that precede and follow Isaiah 53 will determine the conclusions individuals come to regarding this crucial scriptural text. Those who are only familiar with this chapter (Isa 53) often wonder how anyone can conclude that Isaiah is speaking of anyone else but Yeshua. On the other hand, those who read Isaiah 53 in context, with its surrounding chapters as its backdrop, have difficulty understanding how anyone can honestly conclude that Isaiah 53 is speaking of anything else but the nation of Israel.

Isaiah 60:14-15

14 The sons of them (Gentiles) that afflicted you shall come bending unto you; and all they that despised you shall bow themselves down at the soles of your feet; and they shall call you, the city of the Lord, Zion of the Holy One of Israel. 15 Whereas you have been forsaken and despised, with no passerby, I will make you an everlasting pride, the joy of every generation.

Isaiah 40:2

2 Speak to the heart of Jerusalem and call to her, for she has become full from her host, for her iniquity has been appeased, for she has taken from the hand of the Lord double for all her sins (from the Gentiles).

Zechariah 1:15

15 And I am very angry with the nations that are at ease, for I was wroth a little, and they helped to do harm.

Isaiah 52:4-5

4 For so said the Lord God, "My people first went down to Egypt to sojourn there, but Assyria oppressed him without cause. 5 And now, what have I here," says the Lord, "that My people have been taken for nothing, his rulers boast," says the Lord, "and constantly all day My name is blasphemed."

Isaiah 62:2-4, 12

2 And the Gentiles shall see your righteousness, and all kings your glory, and you shall be called a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall pronounce. 3 And you shall be a crown of glory in the hand of the Lord and a Kingly crown on the land of your God. 4 No longer shall "Forsaken" be said of you, and "Desolate" shall no longer be said of your land, for you shall be called "My desire is in her," and your land, "Inhabited," for the Lord desires you, and your land shall be inhabited.

12 And they shall call them the holy people, those redeemed by the Lord, and you shall be called, "Sought, a city not forsaken."

These above passages, some before Isaiah 53, and some afterwards, all show one thing. The Gentile nations of the world despised, abandoned, and afflicted God's Servant. All passages have one thing in common as well....namely; that those who were called "desolate, forsaken, afflicted, humiliated, despised, etc., refer to the collective people of Israel and cannot be applied as if referring to one man...namely Yeshua.

HAS THE TRANSLATION OF ISAIAH 52 IN YOUR CHRISTIAN BIBLE BEEN ALTERED FROM WHAT IT ORIGINALLY READ IN THE HEBREW MANUSCRIPTS FROM WHICH IT WAS TRANSLATED? YEP!

It is sad to say, but attempts of many Gentile Christians over the ages, in order to change the original messages of the Hebrew prophets, have altered the text of your Bible and its translation to create their own theology. This is every evident to the "informed believer." You can investigate this for yourself not only below in this website when we deal with the alteration of the "Messianic prophecies" in the Christian's Bibles, but at the following websites:

Let us investigate on a smaller scale in this article.

It was shocking for me to finally admit that many Christian Bible translators have altered the texts of the Christian's Bible for ulterior motives and goals. It occurs way more often than you could imagine. For example, Isaiah 52 was altered by Christian translators because this chapter is crucial as it serves as an indictment against the Christianization of Isaiah 53. The close relationship between Isaiah 52 and 53 is outstanding because the theme, poetic structure and motif of Isaiah 53 closely mimics the illustrative language of Isaiah 52. In addition, the chapter break between Isaiah 52 and 53 is completely artificial. If Isaiah 52 is translated correctly, it is difficult to ignore the parallelism between these two chapters. Corresponding to Isaiah 53, Isaiah 52 clearly identifies Israel in the singular, suffering innocently as a result of the destructive arrogance and spiritual recklessness of the gentile nations as well as Gentile Christianity.

The (KJV) King James Version of the Bible and the (NIV) New International Version translators were certainly concerned about how Bible readers would accept the notion that Isaiah 53 is referring to Yeshua, when Isaiah 52 so clearly describes the corporate nation of Israel as a single individual, innocently suffering as a result of the iniquity and sinful behavior of the nations of the world.

Answer for yourself: How did Christianity deal with this when printing their own Bibles..the Bibles like you most likely carry?

Get ready! Unscrupulous Christian translators, in effort to preserve their theology over truth, reconstructed crucial parts of the first half of Isaiah 52 so as not to resemble Isaiah 53's theme and poetic language.

For example, in Isaiah 52:4 the prophet recounts that "Assyria oppressed him [Israel the corporate nation as again spoken of in the singular] without a cause" As I have already attested, this concept that the nation of Israel innocently suffering as a single individual in Isaiah 52 is precisely the underlying theme of Isaiah 53.

Again, in Isaiah 52:4 the prophet speaks of the Jewish people in the singular as does Isaiah 53. Thus the NIV altered the text by removing the most offensive words of this verse. The NIV therefore reads: "lately, Assyria has oppressed them." The crucial words "without cause" have been removed.

Again, and even more important, the KJV as well as the NIV change the singular pronoun "him" in this verse to "them."

Answer for yourself: Why would they change the Hebrew "him" into "them" in Isaiah 52:4?

Answer for yourself: Again, can you begin to see that we who owned Christian Bibles were set up in hopes when we read Isaiah we might not make the connection that the singular pronoun "him," as used in such close proximity in Isaiah 52 where it means the corporate nation of Israel, would carry over in our thoughts when we read Isaiah 53?

In Isaiah 52:5 the Hebrew word "moshlov" means "his rulers," referring to the nation of Israel's rulers. The nation of Israel once again is spoken of in the singular. Therefore, the KJV and NIV translators again change the singular pronoun "his" into the plural "them."

Isaiah 52:4 in Hebrew

Assyria oppressed him without cause

Isaiah 52:4 in the KJV

the Assyrian oppressed them without cause

Isaiah 52:4 in the NIV

lately, Assyria has oppressed them

Answer for yourself: Do you see for yourself the efforts expended in changing the Word of God so as to destroy your ability to connect the singular pronouns of Isaiah 53 with corporate Israel?

Isaiah 52:5 in Hebrew

his rulers boast

Isaiah 52:5 in the KJV

they that rule over them make them howl

Isaiah 52:5 in the NIV

and those who rule them mock

Answer for yourself: Can you again see such lengths taken (changing "his" [singular] to "them [plural] by Christian Bible translators to change the Holy Word of God in order that you will accept their interpretation (that Isaiah 53 refers to Yeshua instead of Israel) instead of what God originally intended the texts to teach?

Answer for yourself: Can you begin to see how such drastic steps were take as altering, adding, and deleting from the Word of God in order to make sure that when your read Isaiah 52 you don't interpret the Suffering Servant as the nation of Israel?

The KJV therefore reads, "rule over them." The irony of all this Bible-tampering is that these Christian translators changed the singular reference to Israel in Isaiah 52 into the plural and the plural references in Isaiah 53 into the singular. All this was done in the name of religion. Such is the strength of anti-Semitism masquerading in religion.

Answer for yourself: So how come as Christians we don't know this when we read our Christian Bibles?

The answer is quite simple. When we bought a Bible we went to a Christian Book Store and bought what we were told and believed to be the infallible written Word of God. But as I have shown you, unless you compare the Old Testament writing in your Christian Bible with the Jewish Scriptures from the Jewish Publication House and their Hebrew Bible, we cannot know if there are errors or changes in our Christian Bibles that led us astray from the intended meaning of the text when first given by God.

Answer for yourself: How many of you can actually say that when you go to church you compare every passage quoted in the New Testament from the Hebrew Scriptures with the original Jewish Scriptures?

Answer for yourself: Before now, were you aware that such alterations, additions, and deletions occurred in your Christian Bibles?

Answer for yourself: Can we be confident that when reading from a Christian Bible that the passage we are reading in the Old Testament is accurately translated from the Hebraic original? No! The examples given in this article is but the tip of the iceberg! If you have any doubt then the other articles on this website should enlighten you to the degree of the deception to which we have been exposed in the Christian Church.

Let us continue in the 6th article in this series.

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT IN THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #6

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

- In our previous three articles we have demonstrated that the Suffering Servant in Isaiah is to be understood as the collective peoples of Israel and not just one person. Thus to say that Isaiah 53 refers to Jesus is to misinterpret the intended meaning of the prophet Isaiah.
- As we continue along we noticed that the Gentile rulers and nations of the world despised, abandoned, and afflicted Israel. We noticed that the imagery as well as the pronouns used by the prophet in Isaiah 52 through 54 applied to the nation of Israel and not to only one man. We noticed that although Christianity does not interpret Isaiah 53 correctly today, that both the world political and spiritual leaders will one day be utterly amazed at the events in the future when God intervenes and saves the Jewish people in spite of what Christianity has taught about the Jewish people.
- We showed repeatedly that pronouns used in Isaiah 52, 53, and 54, normally in the singular, in reality does not refer to Jesus but to the collective nation of Israel.

Now in this article we will continue to deal with common misconceptions and misinterpretations of Isaiah 53 which erroneously have been applied to Jesus which rightfully apply to the nation. We will discover that it was not Jesus who suffered as a result of the iniquity of the world, but that the nation of Israel suffered as the result of the sins of the Gentile nations. We will also examine if it was Jesus who interceded for the world or if it was the nation of Israel. Lastly we will examine if Jesus was the sacrifice Isaiah 53 was speaking about, or if the remnant of Israel was the one massacred like sheep for the slaughter.

ONE DAY CHRISTIANITY AND ALL GENTILE WORLD LEADERS WILL REALIZE THAT THE NATION OF ISRAEL AND THE JEWISH PEOPLE SUFFERED AS A RESULT OF THEIR SINS

To make sure we don't lose focus of who is speaking in Isaiah 53 let me ask again this simple question which was already asked.

Answer for yourself: Let us ask once again...who is speaking? The Gentile political and spiritual leaders of the world

Isaiah 53:4-5

4 Indeed, he [corporate nation of Israel] bore our illnesses, and our pains - he [corporate nation of Israel] carried them, yet we accounted him [the corporate nation of Israel] as plagued, smitten by God and oppressed.

5. But he [corporate nation of Israel] was pained because of our transgressions, crushed because of our iniquities; the chastisement of our welfare was upon him [the corporate nation of Israel], and with his [the corporate nation of Israel] wounds we were healed.

Answer for yourself: Most likely your whole life you have been told that Isaiah 53, when it said "he bore our illnesses" and "was smitten by God and oppressed," was referring to Jesus. Now what do you think since reading the past three articles?

Answer for yourself: When Isaiah [as shown repeatedly before in the first three articles when he repeatedly uses singular pronouns to refer to the corporation nation of Israel], refers to God's Suffering Servant as the singular nation of Israel, whose identity are we now to think of [Jesus or Israel] when we see the prophet saying "he was wounded because of our transgressions, crushed because of our iniquities; the chastisement of our welfare was upon him, and with his wounds we were healed"?

"ARE" HEALED OR "WERE" HEALED?

In order to stress the ongoing and ever-current atonement of Jesus, Christian Bibles incorrectly translate "with his wounds we are healed," in the present tense. Actually, the nations are speaking here of Israel's past suffering, therefore the verse correctly reads "we were healed."

Ezekiel 36:6-9, 15

6 Therefore, prophesy about the land of Israel and say to the mountains and to the hills, to the streams and to the valleys: Thus says my Lord, God: Behold! In My jealousy and in My anger I have spoken, because the shame of the nations you have borne. 7 Therefore, thus says my Lord, God: I have lifted My hand in an oath. Surely the nations which surround you - they will bear their shame. 8 But you, O mountains of Israel - you shall shoot forth your branches and bear your fruit for My people Israel, when they are about to come. 9 For behold! I am for you, and I shall turn to you; then you shall be tilled and sown.

15 And I shall no longer cause the ridicule of nations to be heard about you, and the shame of the nations you shall no longer bear, of your nations you shall never again be bereaved - the word of my Lord, God.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that there is a time limit for Israel carrying the iniquity of the nations?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that there is a time limit where Israel will no longer atone for the sins of the world?

Jeremiah 30:8-13

8 And it shall be on that day, says the Lord of hosts, (that) I will break his yoke off your neck, and I will break your thongs, and strangers shall no longer enslave them [the nation of Israel].9 And they shall serve the Lord their God and David their king, whom I will set up for them. 10 And you [servant nation], fear not, My servant Jacob, says the Lord, and do not be dismayed, O Israel, for behold I save you from afar and your seed from the land of their captivity, and Jacob shall again be silent and at ease, and no one will frighten them. 11

For I am with you, says the Lord, to save you, for I will make an end of all the nations where I dispersed you, but of you I will not make an end, but I will chasten you in measure, and I will not completely destroy you. 12 For so said the Lord: Your bruise [the nation's bruse] is painful, your wound [nations's wound] grievous. 13 No one deems your wound [nation's wound] to be healed, you have no healing medicines.

As you can readily see the evil manner in which the Gentile nations, as well as Christianity over the centuries, have treated the Jewish people have contributed to the sufferings of Israel. Such sufferings at the hands of Gentiles and Gentile nations is described in Isaiah 53:4-5(my paraphrase)..."Israel bore the pains inflicted upon them by the Gentile nations who misunderstood them, and such suffering was incorrectly interpreted by the oppressors as if Israel had been forsaken by God. Because of the Gentiles' sins against Israel the peoples of God were crushed, and the Gentiles thought they were doing God a favor by persecuting and killing the Jewish people."

IN SPITE OF SUCH CRUEL TREATMENT BY THE GENTILE NATIONS OF THE WORLD...ISRAEL PRAYED FOR THEIR OPPRESSORS

Remembering what we have already learned...that singular pronouns in the Servant Songs of Isaiah refer to the nation of Israel and not to only one person like Jesus, we find the following verses even the more astonishing.

Isaiah 53:6

6 We all went astray like sheep, we have turned, each one on his own way, and the Lord accepted his [the corporate nation of Israel] prayers for the iniquity of all of us.

Jeremiah 29:7

7 And seek the peace of the city where I have exiled you [nation of Israel] and pray for it to the Lord, for in its peace you shall have peace.

Now let us never again under estimate the importance of the prayer service in the Jewish synagogues of the world for by it atonement came for Gentile sins.

THE REMNANT OF ISRAEL HAS BEEN MASSACRED LIKE SHEEP FOR THE SLAUGHTER

Answer for yourself: Are we not led to believe, according to Christianity that Jesus as Messiah was rejected by the people of Israel and ultimately killed by them? Sure are.

Although the Bible explicitly and repeatedly describes the Jewish people [Suffering Servant as corporate Israel] as afflicted and despised by the Gentile nations, there is not even one clear reference to the Messiah as afflicted or despised anywhere in all of the Jewish Scriptures.

In light of what we have discovered about singular pronouns referring to corporate Israel, it is easy to see that is was the nation of Israel again which was afflicted. Just a brief overview of anti-Semitism from the annals of Church history is enough to make you sick. Notice the references below which describe the Jewish nation as afflicted by the Gentile nations.

Isaiah 53:7

7 He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he would not open his mouth; like a lamb to the slaughter he would be brought, and like a sheep that is mute before her shearers, and he would not open his mouth.

Psalm 18:28

29 For you will save the afflicted nation; and you will bring down haughty looks.

Psalm 44 describes the plight of the righteous remnant of Israel. Notice how the language used here to describe the condition of the Jewish people parallels that of Isaiah 53.

Psalm 44:12, 14-15, 22

12 You have delivered us like sheep for the slaughter, and among the gentiles you have scattered us.

14 You made us a disgrace to our neighbors, the mockery and scorn of those around us. 15 You made us a byword among the nations [Gentile nations] to shake their heads.

22 Because for Your sake we are killed all day long, we are considered as sheep for the slaughter.

Ezekiel 34:15-15

15 I will tend My sheep, and lay them down-the words of my Lord, God. 16 The lost, I will seek out; and the banished, I will retrieve; the wounded, I will heal, and the frail, I will strengthen. But the fat one and the strong one, I will destroy. I will shepherd them with justice.

Zechariah 11:4-5, 7

4 So Said the Lord, my God: Tend the flock of the slaughter, 5 whose buyers shall lay them and not be guilty; and whose sellers shall say, "Blessed be the Lord, for I have become wealthy"; and whose shepherds shall not have pity on them.

7 And I tended the flock of slaughter, indeed, the poor of the flock.

THE GENTILE NATIONS ACKNOWLEDGE THAT AS A RESULT OF THEIR INIQUITY TOWARD THE JEWS (THEIR BOTHERS) THAT ISRAEL SUFFERED

Isaiah 53:8 [REMEMBER THE GENTILE KINGS REPRESENTING THE GENTILE NATIONS IS DOING THE SPEAKING IN THESE VERSES]

8 From imprisonment and from judgment he is taken, and his generation who shall tell? For he was cut off from the land of the living; because of the transgression of my people, a plague befell them.

Answer for yourself: Who is again speaking in Isaiah 53? The rulers and kings of the Gentile nations.

Answer for yourself: Whose trangressions? The Gentile nations toward the Jewish people!

Answer for yourself: Can you see for yourself that one day the Gentiles will face up to what they have done to the Jewish people and how they have sinned against them and altered their Jewish Scriptures?

Answer for yourself: To whom did a plague fall? The Jewish people. The nation of Israel who happens to be the subject of the Servant Songs of Isaiah.

The prophet's use of the word (lamo) "them" as a pronoun for the Suffering Servant presents a monumental problem for Christian Bible translators committed to making Jesus fit the Servant of Isaiah 53. Poetically, the prophets often speak of the Jewish nation in the singular to accentuate the nation's distinctive corporate destiny. The prophets, however, never speak of an individual in the plural. Therefore, the use of the Hebrew word (lamo) "them", for the Servant of Isaiah 53, reveals that the Servant is NOT a single individual.

The KJV, and NIV and other Christian Bibles solve this problem by mistranslating the word "them" as "him" in the singular.

Since discovering that the Hebrew Scriptures correctly render "lamo" as "them," then let us look at how the Christian Bible does great injustice to the text by purposely mistranslating the verse to fit their erroneously theology. They change "them" to "him"!

In each of the examples following the Jewish Scriptures tanslate the word as "them" but our Christian translations have "him instead....why?

Isaiah53:8b KJV

for the transgressions of my people was he stricken

Isaiah 53:8b Modern Readers Bible for the transgression of my people was he stricken

Isaiah 53:8b NIV

for the transgression of my people he was stricken

Isaiah 53:8b Living Bible

it was their sins that he was dying for - that he was suffering their punishment

Nowhere in these above examples was the pronoun intended to be rendered in the singular as "he," rather, the correct interpretation is the plural as "them." Who changed the Jewish Scriptures and why?

If we fail to realize who is speaking in Isaiah 53, then it is easy to see why Christians try to make this death spoken of in Isaiah 53 atone for the sins of the Jewish people, when in reality it is the death of the righteous remnant of Israel [corporate nation] which was due to the result of the sins of the Gentile nations.

But you see, if somehow you make Isaiah 53 to refer to Jesus [by failing to understand who is doing the speaking in Isaiah 53 and who is making a confession of "guilt" toward the Jewish people as well as changing the pronouns "them" to "him"] which I repeatedly have shown you occurred...then and only then can you make a case for Jesus being the "subject" of Isaiah 53.

Dear ones...tampering with the Holy Word of God to make our "theology" fit is a sin and brings God's anger because of us changing His Word [your shall not add or take away...remember?]!

WE SEE THAT CHRISTIAN BIBLE TRANSLATORS CHANGED THE HEBREW WORD "LAMO" WHICH MEANT "THEM" TO THE SINGULAR "HE" IN ISAIAH 53 BECAUSE OF THEIR THEOLOGY...DID THEY DO THE SAME ELSEWHERE? NO...SO WHY IN ISAIAH 53?

Well the answer is simple....it did not serve their "theological" purpose to not do so!

Deuteronomy 32:35 (King James)

32...for the day of their calamity is at hand, and the things that shall come upon them make haste.

Deuteronomy 33:2 (King James)

2 ...He shined forth from Mount Paran, and he came with ten thousands of saints: From His right hand went a fiery law for them

Job 6:19 (King James)

19 The troops of Tema looked, the companies of Sheba waited for them

Job 14:21 (King James)

2 His sons come to honor, and he knoweth it not; and they are brought low, but he perceiveth it not of them

Job 24:17 (King James)

17 For the morning is to them even as the shadow of death: if one know them...

Psalms 2:4 (King James)

4 He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision.

Psalms 44:4 (King James, 44:3)

4 For they got not the land in possession by their own sword, neither did their own arm save them

Psalms 119:165 (King James)

165 Great peace have they which love Thy law: and nothing shall offend them

Isaiah 16:4 (King James)

4 Let Mine outcasts dwell with thee, Moab, be thou a covert to them from the face of the spoiler: for the extortioner is at an end, the spoiler ceaseth, the oppressors are consumed out of the land.

Isaiah 23:1 (King James)

1 The burden of Tyre. Howl, ye ships of Tarshish, for it is laid waste, so that there is no house, no entering in: from the land of Chinim it is revealed to them

Isaiah 44:7 (King James)

7 And who, as 1, shall call, and shall declare it, and set it in order for Me, since I appointed the ancient people? And the things that are coming, and shall come, let them show unto them

Isaiah 48:21 (King James)

21 And they thirsted not when he led them through the deserts: He caused waters to flow out of the rock for them*:* He calve the rock also, and the waters gushed out.

Lamentations 1:19 (King James)

19 1 called for my lovers, but they deceived me: my priests and mine elders gave up the ghost in the city, while they sought their meat to relieve their souls.

Habakkuk 2:7 (King James)

7 Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee, and awake that shall vex thee, and thou shalt be for booties unto them*?*

I find it amazing that the same Bible translators who changed the meaning of the Hebrew pronoun for "them" to "he" in Isaiah 53 in order to read into the text the identity of Jesus [individual instead of a corporate nation] instead of the correct meaning of the nation of Israel which the prophet intended, did not follow their own laws of interpretation elsewhere when confronted with the same word. For in the examples given above, they saw no need whatsoever to change the plural "them" to "he" as they did in Isaiah.

Answer for yourself: How reliable are our Christian Bibles when those we trust to accurately translate the Scriptures are changing the very tense of the words to match their pre-formed theologies? Could our beliefs concerning Jesus as connected with Isa. 53 be wrong as Christians?

Answer for yourself: If the Christian Gentile Bible translators had not wished to read into Isaiah 53 the identity of Jesus, do you think they would have felt the need to change the tense of the pronoun from "them" to "he" in Isaiah 53?

The bottom line for all Christians to understand is that we have heard way too much preached about Jesus and far too little studied from the texts of the Jewish Bible which tell us exactly and accurately what he believed as well as his original mission. If we had studied the original sources available to us, we would not be so mixed up theologically in Christianity today which boasts over 2000 different denominations all maintaining they have the truth about Jesus while at the same time being the most violent and crime ridden nation in the world. May God forgive our laziness to let others tell us what to believe instead of us studying to show ourselves approved unto God.

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT IN THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #7

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

- In our previous articles we have demonstrated, beyond any doubt, that the "Suffering Servant" in Isaiah is to be understood as the collective peoples of Israel [the nation] and not just one person. Thus to say that Isaiah 53 refers to Jesus is to misinterpret the intended meaning of the prophet Isaiah.
- As we continue along we noticed that the "speaker" in Isaiah 53 is not Isaiah, or the Jewish people, but rather that the speaker was the Gentile Kings and rulers of the world.
- We also saw that Isaiah is a "testimony" or "confession" from these Gentile leaders amounting to the fact that they had totally misunderstood the Jewish people and their "religious ideas" concerning them had been wrong.
- We saw that the Gentile rulers and nations of the world despised, abandoned, and afflicted Israel. History testifies to this.
- We noticed that the imagery as well as the pronouns [the use of "singular" pronouns to represent the "corporate" nation] used by the prophet in Isaiah 52 through 54 applied to the nation of Israel and was not meant to apply to only one man. We showed repeatedly that pronouns used in Isaiah 52, 53, and 54, normally in the singular, in reality does not refer to Jesus but to the collective nation of Israel.
- We noticed that although Christianity does not interpret Isaiah 53 correctly today, that both the world political and spiritual leaders will one day be utterly amazed at the events in the future when God intervenes and saves the Jewish people in spite of what Christianity has taught about the Jewish people.
- We noticed that the "transgressions" of Isaiah 53:8 refer to the Gentiles and not the Jewish people.
- We saw how the Christian Bibles and their translation of Isa. 53 purposefully alter the pronouns by using "him" for "them" in order to make it more difficult for the reader to see that Isaiah was not speaking about one individual, but the whole nation of Israel as the "Suffering Servant." We saw by falsifying and corrupting Isaiah 53 the Christian Bible translators artificially made the text refer to "one" person and of course that person is to be Jesus to the Christian, but that was never the "message" of Isaiah in the first place.

Now in this article we will continue to deal with common misconceptions and misinterpretations of Isaiah 53 which erroneously have been applied to Jesus which rightfully apply to the nation. We will examine if Jesus died once or many times. This may sound preposterous but just wait. Also we will examine if Jesus' blood or the knowledge of God that went to the Gentile world because of his death brought vindication to the world. This is very important information for the Biblical believing Christian. So without further ado...

THROUGHOUT THEIR PERILOUS EXILE THE JEWISH PEOPLE ENDURED MARTYRDOM FOR THEIR FAITH...

As has been done to many verses before as exposed in the previous articles in this series, the plural references to the Servant of Yahweh is once again deliberately altered by Christian translators into the singular. The Hebrew word (b'mosov) is plural and correctly translated means "deaths." The KJV, NIV and other Christian translations of Isaiah again change the tense of the word....in order for it to read "death;" again purposefully altering the text in order to conceal the identity of the Servant as the nation of Israel as a "plurality."

Answer for yourself: Did Jesus die once or twice, or three times or more than that? Did Jesus die a "death" or did he die "deaths"?

Let's investigate the matter in detail.

ISAIAH 53:9 FROM THE HEBREW SCRIPTURES...& NOT FROM THE CHRISTIAN'S CORRUPTED OLD TESTAMENT

Isaiah 53:9

9 And he gave his grace to the wicked and to the wealthy with his kinds of deaths, because he committed no violence, and there was no deceit in his mouth.

Answer for yourself: How many times did Jesus die and other than crucifixion is there recorded for us a different type of death that he endured?

Answer for yourself: Presuming you have read the prior 4 articles in this series, are you better equipped now to properly understand that the "deaths" spoken of in the plural in this verse describes the deaths of the Jewish people at the hands of the Gentile nations who misunderstood them or rejected them and their ways of godliness?

HOW DOES THE KJV IN THE CHRISTIAN BIBLE HANDLE ISAIAH 53:9

Isaiah 53:9

9 And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death; because he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth.

Answer for yourself: Did you catch the difference for yourself?

As has been done to many verses before as I have carefully documented for you in the previous articles in this series, the understanding of the plural references to the Servant of Yahweh is once again deliberately altered by Christian translators into the singular. In this instance the plural "deaths" in the original become the singular "death" in the Christian Bible. Let me state again the fact that the Hebrew word (b'mosov) is plural and correctly translated means "deaths." The KJV, NIV and others change it to read "death" in order to conceal the identity of the Servant as the nation of Israel.

IS THERE ANY OTHER REFERENCES TO THE SUFFERING SERVANT OF GOD AS THE NATION OF ISRAEL NOT HAVING DECEITFUL SPEECH?

Zephaniah 3:12-17, 19-20

12 And I will leave over in your midst a humble and poor people, and they shall take shelter in the name of the Lord. 13 The remnant of Israel shall neither commit injustice nor speak lies; neither shall deceitful speech be found in their mouth [notice the plural once more], for they shall gaze and lie down, with no one to cause them to shudder. 14 Sing O daughter of Zion! Shout, O Israel! Rejoice and jubilate wholeheartedly, O daughter of Jerusalem! 15 The Lord has removed your afflictions; He has cast out your enemy. The king of Israel, the LORD, is in your midst - you shall no longer fear evil. 16 On that day it shall be said to Jerusalem, "Have no fear! O Zion, Let your hands not be slack. 17 The LORD thy God is in your midst -a Mighty One Who will save. He will rejoice over thee with joy. He will be silent in His love.

19 He will jubilate over you with song." Behold, I wreak destruction upon all those who have afflicted you at that time. And I will save the one who limps, and I will gather the stray one, and I will make them a praise and a name throughout all the land where they suffered shame. 20 At that time I will bring them, and at (that) time I will gather you, for I will make you a name and a praise among all the peoples of the earth when I restore your daughters before your eyes, said the Lord.

Answer for yourself: Are you beginning to see that what you have been mistakenly taught referred to Jesus in Isaiah 53 really refers to the whole of the nation and not one person?

As you can see for yourself here the prophet Zephaniah describes vividly the righteous remnant of Israel [corporate Israel and not a single person] in precisely the same fashion as the prophet Isaiah did in the 53rd chapter: "The remnant of Israel [afflicted Israel by the Gentile nations] shall neither speak lies; neither shall deceitful speech be found in their mouth."

TO THE REPENTANT GOD PROMISES CHILDREN IN ISAIAH 53, LONG LIFE, AND DIVINE HELP

Isaiah 53:10 in the Jewish Scriptures vs Isaiah 53:10 in the Christian Bibles...what is the truth?

10 And the Lord wished to crush him [corporate Israel..remember?] He made him ill; if his soul makes itself restitution, he shall see seed, he shall prolong his days, and God's purposes shall prosper in his hand.

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that the promise of "seed" or children is conditional to restitution and obedience?

Now understand this is the "text" as taken from the Jewish Bible.

Answer for yourself: Do you know that the Christian translations of Isa. 53:10 are completely different? Why is that? Let us examine it from the KJV version of Isaiah 53:10 as taken from my personal Christian Bible.

Isa 53:10-11 10 Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand. 11 He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied: by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many; for he shall bear their iniquities. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Where does the idea of "atonement" and "making a soul an offering for sin" come from when it is not in the Jewish Bible and the Jewish Scriptures?

Answer for yourself: Did someone make this up [soul an offering for sin] when they translated the manuscripts from the Hebrew or added it later in the ?

Answer for yourself: Is someone attributing to Isaiah the prophet things he did not say to give Prophetic authority to religious doctrines [like a false atonement connected to Jesus] that were never written by him in the first place? They sure are.

Answer for yourself: Now, has God previously told "corporate Israel" the same thing; namely, that if they were obedient to Him then they would prosper and see their "seed?" He sure has!

Deuteronomy 30:8-10, 19-20

8 You will repent and obey God, keeping all His commandments, as I prescribe them to you today. 9 God will then grant you a good surplus in all the work of your hands, in the fruit of your womb, the fruit of your livestock, and the fruit of your land. God will once again rejoice in you for good, just as He rejoiced in your fathers. 10 All this will happen when you obey [conditional] God your Lord, keeping all His commandments and decrees, as they are written in this book of the Torah, and when you return to God your Lord with all your heart and soul.

19 I call heaven and earth as witnesses! Before you I have placed life and death, the blessing and the curse. You must choose life, so that you and your seed will survive. 20 If you choose to love the Lord your God, to obey Him, and to attach yourself to Him. This is the sole means of survival and long life when you dwell in the land that God swore to you' fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, [promising] that He would give it to them.

So we find nothing new here to force upon the interpretation of Isaiah 53:10 a meaning foreign to the text. The message is simple. If the children of God obey Him and His commandments, they will proper both physically (offspring--see their seed) and spiritually. "If his soul (life) makes restitution (repent) then he shall prolong his days in the land and receive blessing. If not, then further exile. What we must never fail to remember is that God often used Gentile nations to chastise His people and bring them to repentance. Such is the message hidden within Isaiah 53.

WITH HIS KNOWLEDGE THE SERVANT-CORPORATE ISRAEL-BRINGS VINDICATION TO ALL MANKIND...THAT MEANS THE GENTILES OF THE WORLD (ie. Christians)

Isaiah 53:11

11 From the toil of his soul he would see, he would be satisfied; with his knowledge My servant would vindicate the just for many, and their iniquities he would bear.

Maybe you need to read that again.....now understanding that the "subject" of Isaiah 53 is the corporate nation of Israel and not just "one person," Isaiah is specifically saying that through the knowledge of the Jewish nation (their Torah and their Bible) that they VINDICATE and BEAR THE INIQUITIES of many. WOW!

Answer for yourself: What does it mean "With his "knowledge"?

In Christian theology it was not Jesus' knowledge that vindicated the world. It was, according to Christian theology it was his blood. Isaiah is not, however, speaking of a crucified messiah in his 53rd chapter. The prophet is referring to the Almighty's Servant Israel and not just one person, who, by their corporate knowledge of God and His precious Torah are witnesses to the world that there are no other gods (Isaiah 43:10-11) and through this Torah (Hebrew for instruction) they, by both witnessing it and sharing it with others (me and you) help redeem the world (conditional that I accept and believe it and live it)!

ISRAEL'S FUNCTIONS AS A PRIEST FOR THE GENTILES...A "ROYAL PRIESTHOOD"...REMEMBER?

Exodus 19:5-6

5 Now if you obey Me and keep My covenant, you shall be My special treasure among all the nations, because all the world is Mine. 6 You will be a kingdom of priests and a holy nation to Me. These are the words that you must relate to the Israelites.

Immediately before the Ten Commandments were given at Sinai, the nation of Israel was told that they are to be a "Kingdom of priests" (Ex. 19:5), as in Isaiah 61:6. Now it was up to them to live up to their "calling."

Isaiah 61:6-9

6. And you shall be called "The Priests of the Lord, Servants of our God": shall be said of you; the possessions of the nations you shall eat, and with their glory you shall succeed (them). 7 Instead of your shame, which was two fold, and your disgrace, which they [the Gentile nations for rejecting them] shall inherit two fold; they shall have everlasting joy. 8 For I am the Lord, Who loves justice, hates robbery in a burnt offering; and I gave their wage in truth, and an everlasting covenant I will make for them. 9 And their seed shall be known among the gentiles, and their offspring among the nations; all who see them shall recognize them that they are seed that the Lord blessed.

Isaiah 42:6

6 I am the Lord; I called you with righteousness and I will strengthen your hand; and I formed you, and I make you for a people's covenant, for a light to the nations.

Isaiah 49:6

6 And He said, "Is it too light a thing for you to be My servant? To establish the tribes of Jacob and to bring back the besieged of Israel, but I will make you a light of nations, so that My salvation shall be until the end of the earth."

Isaiah 60:3

3 And nations shall go by your light and kings by the brilliance of your shine.

Proverbs 6:23

23 For a commandment is a candle, and the Torah is light.

Zechariah 8:13, 23

13 'And it shall come to pass that as you were a curse among the Gentiles, O House of Judah and House of Israel, so will I save you - and you shall be a blessing. Fear not; may your hands be strengthened!

23 So said the Lord of Hosts: In those days, when ten men of all the languages of the gentiles shall take hold of the skirt [prayer shawl] of a Jewish man, saying, "Let us go with you, for we have heard that God is with you."

Answer for yourself: How can we be, as Christians and followers of Jesus, enlightened by Israel's light, their Torah, their Bible, and by Israel as God's Priesthood, when our translations of their writings are not faithful to what the Hebrew originally said?

Answer for yourself: How can we be ministered to by God's "Royal Priesthood" when our translations of their Holy Book are corrupted on purpose in order to infect us with solar and sun-worship dressed up like Judaism and "divine prophecies" by Rome and other?

Answer for yourself: How can we "go by their light" when we don't have it and when we even try to read our Bibles we don't know that were are reading purposefully corrupted passages that leads us far from the truth that Isaiah originally communicated to others that he received by revelation of HaShem?

HOW DOES GOD VIEW US....WHEN WE HAVE ACCEPTED A REPLACEMENT RELIGION AND CORRUPT TEXTS OVER HIS HOLY WORD?

Numbers 18:1

'And God said to Aaron, "You and your sons, and your father's house with you, you must bear the Iniquity against the sanctuary, and you and your sons must bear the iniquity against your priesthood.

Answer for yourself: What is our remedy? Simply; we must repent of our false beliefs when shown we are wrong!

Isaiah 2:2-5

2 And it shall be at the end of days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be firmly established at the top of the mountains, and it shall be raised above the hills, and all the nations shall stream to it. 3 And many nations shall go, and they shall say, "Come, let us go up to the Lord's mount, to the house of the God of Jacob, and let Him teach us of His ways, and we will go in His paths, " for out of Zion shall the Torah come forth, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem..." 50 house of Jacob, come let us go in the light of the Lord".

THE SERVANT IS FINALLY VINDICATED

Isaiah 53:1 2

12. Therefore, I will allot him [the corporate nation of Israel] a portion in public, and with the strong he shall share plunder, because he poured out his soul (life..in bringing knowledge of God to non-Jews) to death, and with transgressors he was counted; and he bore the sin of many (received the sinful treatment of many non-Jews and Christians through the centuries), and interceded for the transgressors (daily prayers-prayer book..Amidah).

Maybe you need to read that again...real slowly!

Ezekiel 34:27, 29-30

"And the tree on the field will yield its fruit, and the earth will yield its produce, and they shall remain securely upon their ground. Then shall they know that I am God, when I break the bars of their yoke and save them from the hands of those who enslave them (from Gentiles)... 29 And I shall establish for them a plantation of renown, and they shall no more be gathered in by famine in the land, and they shall no more bear the shame of the nations. 30 Then they shall know that I, God their Lord, am with them, and they are My people, the family of Israel - the words of my Lord, God.

WHAT YOU WERE NEVER TAUGHT BY YOUR CHRISTIAN CHURCH…THE TRUTH ABOUT ABOUT ISAIAH 53 #8

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF VERSES FROM ISAIAH 53

As I grew up in church as a child, and even as a young adult, I was assured repeatedly by my spiritual leadership in our church that Isaiah chapter 53 referred to Yeshua. It seems that this one chapter from the Jewish Scriptures kept coming up in church regularly for discussion. In sermon after sermon, I heard that the Prophet Isaiah was referring to Yeshua in this chapter and that Yeshua "fulfilled" Isaiah chapter 53. I heard over and over that Yeshua is the "suffering servant" of Isaiah chapter 53. In fact I was told that I was to use this particular chapter in witnessing to unbelievers. I was even told that all Jews before the Middle Ages recognized this chapter as "messianic," but due to the efforts of a Rabbi Rashi that belief changed. In fact that is what Jews for Jesus claim and publish in their literature. There is only one problem with what Jews for Jesus teach regarding this and other thing; it is a lie and it can be proven so by reading the ancients. We will look at that later in a concluding article on this subject on this website. I suppose if you have an "organization" you can say what you will and people will believe you. Christendom has done that for centuries.

I can remember also being told when I was young that the moon was made out of cheese. Seriously, I was willing to accept all these above statements as fact without a personal inquiry on my part to see if these things be so. After many years of Bible study and research I realize that such beliefs attached to Isaiah 53 were in error, and most likely, you have made the same mistake. Later in life I did examine Isaiah 53 in detail for myself as well as the whole book of Isaiah [from the Jewish texts and not just from my Christian sources], and the results I found are the subject of this article. We at Bet Emet Ministries would like to share with you our research in hopes of assisting you in coming to the correct interpretation of a chapter which has become the cornerstone of Christianity let alone evangelism to the Jewish people. Please understand that if what we were told about Jesus and Isaiah 53 cannot stand the test of critical inquiry, then the very foundation of Christianity is rocked and maybe, oh maybe, the Jewish people and scholars have been right all along. Well, get ready, for if you will truly will bow your knee to truth then your legs will have bent before this article is over.

LET EVERY MAN BE A LIAR BUT LET GOD'S WORD BE TRUE!

Answer for yourself: Do you ascribe to the above phrase?

The Jewish sages teach that "whoever saves a single soul is considered as if he had saved an entire world." How precious is the soul! Though the Bible study which you have begun and yet follows is a lengthy one, we have prepared it realizing that the subject matter is of a very sensitive nature, and that most will not take kindly to someone tampering with their religious belief system, let along showing them that the very core of it is totally incorrect. We at Bet Emet hope that you too will value your soul highly enough to prayerfully ponder that which follows. God's truth is not always easy to discern, but we are possessors of a Divine promise; "you will find Him if you search after Him with all your heart and all your soul" (Deut. 4:29). As faithful Jews have attested for over 3500 years, it's worth the effort. And now - on with the search!

PRELIMINARY ISSUES INVOLVED IN CORRECTLY INTERPRETING ISAIAH 53

Before continuing our examination of Isaiah 53 itself, some preliminary issues must be considered. First is the issue of circular reasoning. Even if we interpret the chapter as most Christians do (forgetting for a minute the mistranslations and distortions of context which you have already seen and will continue to be noted below), the most that could be said is this: Isaiah 53 is about someone who dies both "because of" and "for" the sins of others. Right in the beginning I have to pose for you a very big question.

Answer for yourself: Understanding that the people were familiar with their own Bibles, then when Jesus died, did the people perceive he was dying for their sins?

Answer for yourself: Did the people who watched Jesus die understand his death as fulfilling Isaiah 53, or was this interpretation of his death conceived later by the Gentile Church, and read backward into the accounts of his death?

Answer for yourself: If Jesus' death was the "final sacrifice" for sins according to the Hebrew writer, then why does James instruct Paul to fulfill a nazarite vow in Acts 21 fully knowing that to do he has to bring blood sacrifices for sin offerings and atonement? Did you know that? Maybe you should put together Numbers chapter 6 and Acts 21 and see what the "picture" tells you. Those who crafted the New Testament and its replacement theology should have done a better job ridding themselves of such incriminating facts. Granted such knowledge is beneath the context of Acts 21 but it is there if study and "think."

Answer for yourself: For a moment do you think James would have instructed Paul to do that if he, the spirit-filled leader of Jesus' church, thought or knew for example that Jesus' death was some form of atonement of that Jesus was the long-awaited fulfillment of Isa. 53?

Answer for yourself: Would you have done the same (bring blood sacrifices for atonement) with such a faith "in Jesus" for your sin? I think not!

Answer for yourself: People may have seen Jesus die, but did anyone see him die as an atonement for the sins of others? James and the first church sure did not because this "vow" was 25 years after Jesus' death.

Answer for yourself: Don't you think that within 25 years or so the Holy Spirit would have told James and the mother church the "facts" about Jesus' death [that he was the fulfillment of Isa. 53] as we have come to be instructed if it were "true?"

These are some of the biggest questions you will ever have to answer for yourself. If we are to believe, as we have been taught in the Christian Church, that Isaiah 53 was speaking of the Messiah who was to die for the sins of others, then Jesus' followers, knowing this passage and longing for its fulfillment one day, should not been shocked at the idea of himself going to his death. But they were!

Answer for yourself: Is it possible that James and the mother church did not believe what we are taught about Jesus and Isa. 53 in our Christian Churches today?

The answer is simply they did not for 2 reasons:

- First...their Jewish Scriptures (in Isaiah 53 and elsewhere) did not read like our corrupted translations today in our Christian Old Testaments so they would not have believed such things about "anyone" let alone Jesus.
- Second...their actions, based upon their beliefs, show they did not believe Isa. 53 referred to Jesus as some form of final atonement.

Acts 21 reveals they did not (when you put that with Numbers 6 where sin offerings and atonements are connected with the nazarite vow that Paul took). The problem is not only the two-faced Paul who performs a "righteous act" that contradicts what he had been teaching but that James, Jesus' hand-picked leader, commands it to be done. Evidently James did not believe like Christians today. Who was right? It is pretty simple when you see the corruptions of the Jewish Bible that we have already exposed previously in these articles on Isa. 53 along with what yet follows.

Answer for yourself: How do we reconcile the supposed Christian's expectation of the Messiah's death for sin against the shock of the followers of Jesus at the announcements of his soon coming death?

Answer for yourself: Would they have not been looking forward for such redemption if that was the promise of the Prophets?

Answer for yourself: Since when is "atonement" connected with the Passover and not with Yom Kippur?

Answer for yourself: Can you find for yourself where atonement for sin is connected to a Passover Lamb" in the Jewish Scriptures? Its not! Many animals were sacrificed as offerings at all times of the year as well as when different situations came up in one's life. But not all of the animals sacrificed carried the idea of "atonement."This may be a shock to you but "atonement" was never, I said never, connected with the death of the lamb at Passover. This should make you wonder about the "types and shadows" we have always connected to the life of Jesus.

Answer for yourself: If Jesus is the Lamb of God, and understanding that the Passover lamb of Israel never atoned for the sins of the people, then how do we make the connection of atonement with the death of Jesus?

We cannot make such a connection between atonement for sin and the Passover regardless that the writers of the New Testament ascribe such a concept to his death as if Isaiah had taught the same thing. Isaiah did not and you are seeing that for yourself! If you have studied with us for a while you have seen for yourself that the original followers and apostles of Jesus had little if anything to do with the writings of the Gospels. Their names were "officially" attached to the anonymous writings by the Church in the fourth century. The first "quote" that names a Gospel by name is found not earlier than 200 A.D.

Answer for yourself: How can that be? Again it is simple. The names of the apostles were later attached to these documents which can easily be shown to have been written by non-Jewish writers much later than supposed by the Church.

Only if you already accept the New Testament teachings, and the corrupted Old Testament passages in your Christian translations, and only if you have been brainwashed since childhood to believe such "things" about Jesus can you accept the current theology of Jesus and his connection to Isa. 53. Any truthful analysis of the Jewish Scriptures and the Jewish Bible (the Old Testament Massoretic text) will reveal that such beliefs about Jesus are misplaced at best. In order to believe that Jesus' death had a non-visible, spiritual significance, you must use your Christian translation and "read into the passage" what you have been conditioned to believe from false preaching since you were a child. Only then can you approach your corrupted Christian Old Testaments and the corrupted book of Isaiah within it and say: "see - the Prophet predicted what I already believe." Isaiah 53, in the Christian Bible then, is in reality no "proof" at all, but rather a set-up intended to deceive the reader. It works well because I fell prey to such beliefs until I began a serious study of the manuscript evidences that make up our Bibles. I found it by accident. But God's leading is no accident. The real test comes in the courage necessary to teach the truth once you find it. Isaiah 53 in the Christian's Bible is little more (in selected places) than a contrived confirmation for someone who has already chosen Christianity and accepted what they have only heard over and over which they never checked out for themselves to see if "these things be so." I have and they are not what they appear in the Christian's Isaiah in is Bible.

WHY WAS THE MESSIAH'S DEATH - AS ATONEMENT OF SIN - NOT KNOWN BY THE JEWS WHO FOLLOWED JESUS?

Consistent with all Jewish teaching at the time, Yeshua's own Jewish disciples didn't view Isaiah 53 as a messianic prophecy. "Not so" you say. Well, it is quite understandable that the followers of Jesus were well versed with their own Jewish Scriptures. Just a cursory study of the manners and customs of the Jewish people reveal that at 5 year old the Jewish child had his first book of the Bible memorized (Leviticus). I said "memorized." To think that the Jewish people would not be conversant with their own Prophets is absolutely ludicrous. But that is what the New Testament writers would have us believe. What comes next might shock you so you may need to set down.

For example, after Peter identifies Jesus as the Messiah (Matt. 16:16), he is informed that Jesus will be killed (Matt. 16:21). His response is not "thank God…for we are dead in trespasses and sins and without your sacrifice for our sins we are lost." No not at all. He says rather remarkably: "God forbid it, lord! This shall never happen to you" (Matt. 16:22). This passage is very alarming and very telling in its scope.

Answer for yourself: Why was this idea of a dying Messiah of such news to Peter? It sure seems to be!

Answer for yourself: Had he forgotten the message of Isaiah 53 which every child knew, or is our Christian concept of a suffering servant being "Jesus," which we have been fed all our lives, really not contained in Isaiah 53?

Mark 9:31-32

- 31 For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man is delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him; and after that he is killed, he shall rise the third day.
- 32 But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Do you find it rather hard to believe that in the first century, with Messianic fervor raging everywhere, that the followers of a presumed Messiah would not understand their own Scriptures, especially those referring to the Messiah who would be killed and resurrected?

Answer for yourself: How could the followers of a presumed Messiah have overlooked something as important in their Scriptures as the death of the coming Messiah?

Mark 16:10-11

- 10 And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept.

- 11 And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Do you find it rather hard to believe that in the first century, with Messianic fervor raging everywhere, that the followers of a presumed Messiah (remember they had already called him the "Christ") would have expressed non-belief at the report of Yeshua's resurrection if they had believed, according to their Scriptures, that the Messiah was to die according to the Prophets and be resurrected in the first place?

John 20:9

9 For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Do you find it rather hard to believe that in the first century, with Messianic fervor raging everywhere, that the followers of a presumed Messiah would not know their own scriptures? The reason they did not is again simple; such a Scripture in the Jewish Bible does not exist!

Answer for yourself: If it was common knowledge that Isaiah 53 had spoken of a Messiah who was to die for the sins of people as their atonement, then why was this news to Peter and why would he try and prevent such a wonderful thing?

Answer for yourself: Could it be that they did not hold the same beliefs about Isaiah 53 as we have attributed to them as Christians?

Answer for yourself: Do you want to know why they didn't hold the same beliefs about Isaiah 53 as we were taught, and could they have been correct and us wrong [especially in light that I have shown you how our translations of Isa. 53 have been forged on purpose and added to on purpose to create an artificial theology about Jesus]?

EVEN JESUS DIDN'T KNOW OF A DYING MESSIAH EITHER!

Even Jesus didn't see Isaiah 53 as crucial to his messianic claims.

Answer for yourself: Why did Jesus request that God "remove this cup from me" (Mk. 14:36) - didn't he know that a "removal of the cup" [escape an atoning death long awaited for by Israel and the world] would violate the future Christian-Gentile understanding of Isaiah 53?

Answer for yourself: Even if we accept the gentile Christian interpretation of Isaiah 53, where is it indicated (either in Isaiah 53 or anywhere else in our Jewish Scriptures) that you must believe in this "Messiah" to be "saved" or be in right-standing with God His Father? It is nowhere to be found!,

CONTEXT OF ISAIAH 40-66 EXAMINED...BACK TO THE TEXTS

Since any portion of Scripture is only understood properly when viewed in the context of God's revelation as a whole, some additional study will be helpful before you "tackle" Isaiah 53.

Look at the setting in which Isaiah 53 occurs. Earlier on in Isaiah, God had predicted exile and calamity for the nation and the Jewish people. Chapter 53, however, occurs in the midst of Isaiah's "Messages of Consolation", which tell of the restoration of the nation of Israel to a position of prominence and a vindication of their status as God's chosen people. In chapter 52, for example, the nation of Israel is described as "oppressed without cause" (v.4) and "taken away" (v.5), yet God promises a brighter future ahead, one in which the nation of Israel will again prosper and be redeemed in the sight of all the nations (v.1-3, 8-12).

Chapter 54 further elaborates upon the redemption which awaits the nation of Israel. Following immediately after chapter 53's promise of a reward for God's servant in return for all of its suffering (53:10-12), chapter 54 describes an unequivocally joyous fate for the Jewish people. Speaking clearly of the Jewish people and their exalted status (even according to all Christian commentaries), chapter 54 ends as follows: "`This is the heritage of the servants of the L-rd and their vindication is from Me,' declares the L-rd."

What I hope you noticed is that previously to Isaiah 53 [Isaiah 52], and afterward [Isaiah 54], the subject of the discourse is still the "people of Israel;" the "nation of Israel" and not an individual. What I hope you also noticed is that following chapter 53 Isaiah is still speaking of the "people" of Israel and not an individual. The context and subject of Isaiah 53 is the same as it has been since Isaiah 40… namely; the corporate nation and the people of Israel. The subject is "plural" and not singular! What throws a lot of people off is that from chapter 40 onward the writer used both "singular" and "plural" pronouns to refer to the "plural" nation of Israel, and used them interchangeably. If one misses this use of pronouns in relationship to the subject of Isaiah 40-66, then his whole interpretation of Isaiah, let alone Isaiah 53, will be in error! If one is not familiar with the subject and context of Isaiah 40 through 66, it is easy to see a passage where a singular pronoun ("he" for example) is used and mistakenly think that the author is speaking of only one person, when previously he has set a precedent of referring to the nation in the singular by describing them as a "he". This is where most make their mistakes in interpreting Isaiah 53.

ISAIAH'S SERVANT - LOOKING AT THE EVIDENCE THAT IT IS THE NATION AND NOT A PERSON

In the original Hebrew texts, there are no chapter divisions, and Jew and Christian alike agree that chapter 53 is actually a continuation of the prophecy which begins at 52:13. Accordingly, our analysis must begin at that verse.

52:13 "Behold, My servant will prosper." Israel in the singular (notice that the nation is referred to in the "singular") is called God's servant throughout Isaiah (the nation "plural" is called the "singular" servant), both explicitly (Isa. 41:8-9; 44:1-2; 45:4; 48:20; 49:3) and implicitly (Isa. 42:19-20; 43:10) - the Messiah is not.

Isa 41:8-9

- 8 But thou, Israel, art my servant, Jacob whom I have chosen, the seed of Abraham my friend.
- 9 Thou whom I have taken from the ends of the earth, and called thee from the chief men thereof, and said unto thee, Thou art my servant; I have chosen thee, and not cast thee away. (KJV)

Isa 44:1-2

- 1 Yet now hear, O Jacob my servant; and Israel, whom I have chosen:
- 2 Thus saith the LORD that made thee, and formed thee from the womb, which will help thee; Fear not, O Jacob, my servant; and thou, Jesurun, whom I have chosen. (KJV)

Isa 45:4

4 For Jacob my servant's sake, and Israel mine elect, I have even called thee by thy name: I have surnamed thee, though thou hast not known me. (KJV)

Isa 48:20

20 Go ye forth of Babylon, flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth; say ye, The LORD hath redeemed his servant Jacob. (KJV)

Isa 49:3

3 And said unto me, Thou art my servant, O Israel, in whom I will be glorified. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Can you see for yourself that in every instance the "servant" (used in the singular) refers to the corporate nation of Israel numbering millions and does not pertain to just one person (Jesus)?

Isa 42:19-20

19 Who is blind, but my servant? or deaf, as my messenger that I sent? who is blind as he that is perfect, and blind as the LORD's servant?

20 Seeing many things, but thou observest not; opening the ears, but he heareth not. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Understanding the traditional teaching of Christianity considering Jesus as the Suffering Servant, are you about to say that the above passage from Isaiah 42:19-20 referring to a non-hearing, non-observing, and non-obedient Servant refers to Jesus?

Isa 43:10

10 Ye are my witnesses, saith the LORD, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me. (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Can you see for yourself from the Isa. 43:10 passage that the plural "witnesses" (referring to the nation of Israel, in the plural) is referred to in the singular as "my servant" as before?

Without a doubt the "servant" (used in the singular) refers to the corporate nation of Israel numbering millions, and it is this same meaning which should be rendered when reading Isaiah 53!

Other references to Israel as God's servant include Jer. 30:10 (note that in Jer. 30:17, the servant Israel is regarded by the nations as an outcast, forsaken by God, as in Isa. 53:4); Jer. 46:27-28; Ps. 136:22; Lk. 1:54.

Jer 30:10

10 Therefore fear thou not, O my servant Jacob, saith the LORD; neither be dismayed, O Israel: for, lo, I will save thee from afar, and thy seed from the land of their captivity; and Jacob shall return, and shall be in rest, and be quiet, and none shall make him afraid. (KJV)

Jer 46:27-28

- 27 But fear not thou, O my servant Jacob, and be not dismayed, O Israel: for, behold, I will save thee from afar off, and thy seed from the land of their captivity; and Jacob shall return, and be in rest and at ease, and none shall make him afraid.
- 28 Fear thou not, O Jacob my servant, saith the LORD: for I am with thee; for I will make a full end of all the nations whither I have driven thee: but I will not make a full end of thee, but correct thee in measure; yet will I not leave thee wholly unpunished. (KJV)

Ps 136:22

22 Even an heritage unto Israel his servant: for his mercy endureth for ever. (KJV)

Luke 1:54

54 He hath helped his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy; (KJV)

Answer for yourself: Also, given the Christian view that Jesus is God as well as the Suffering Servant, in Jeremiah 30:10 is God saving Himself?

Answer for yourself: Understanding the traditional Christian teaching that Jesus never sinned, well then if we are to believe that God's Servant is Jesus, then why is Jeremiah 46:27-28 speaking of him being punished?

Answer for yourself: Did you notice that even the New Testament refers to the nation of Israel as the Servant?

READING YOUR THEOLOGY INTO THE VERSES, OR LETTING THE VERSES DETERMINE YOUR THEOLOGY? THE LATTER OR COURSE!

In any conversation there is always at least two parties. One is the speaker and the other the hearer. If we fail to understand who is actually speaking in Isaiah 52 then we will fail to interpret Isaiah 53 correctly. This is where most get it wrong from the get-go! Instead of Israel speaking it is the Gentile kings who are speaking and who are astonished at the errors of their perspective toward the Jewish people when corrected in the Messianic Age…the Gentiles admit their anti-Semitism and theologies have been wrong!

Isaiah 52:15 - 53:1 "So shall he (the servant) startle many nations, the kings will stand speechless; For that which had not been told them they shall see and that which they had not heard shall they ponder. 'Who would believe what we have heard?'" History is full of examples where the Gentile Church thought they were doing God a favor by persecuting the Jewish people. Boy, will they be surprised!

Quite clearly, right here in the beginning of this discourse the speaker is identified. It is none other than the Gentile nations and their rulers and kings which will be amazed at what happens to the "servant of the L-rd" (the Jewish people), and they will say "who would believe what we have heard? " It is right here that most position themselves to incorrectly interpret Isaiah 53 but mis-identifying the speaker in these texts. The future meanings of these verses depend entirely upon who is speaking, and if this is not correctly discerned, then the misinterpretation of the Isaiah 53 passage is ensured. It makes a big difference whether the Gentiles are speaking about the Jewish people or the Jewish people speaking in these texts. But in order to correctly interpret Isaiah 53 we have to go backward into Isaiah 52 to determine who is speaking, for the same speaker will be speaking in Isaiah 53 as well.

Besides Isaiah 52:15 telling us explicitly that it is the nations of the world, the gentiles, who are doing the talking in Isaiah 53, but Micah 7:12-17 is a parallel passage and likewise speaks of the gentile nations' astonishment when the Jewish people again blossom in the Messianic age.

Micah 7:12-17

- 12 In that day also he shall come even to thee from Assyria, and from the fortified cities, and from the fortress even to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain.
- 13 Notwithstanding the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, for the fruit of their doings.
- 14 Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage, which dwell solitarily in the wood, in the midst of Carmel: let them feed in Bashan and Gilead, as in the days of old.

- 15 According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt will I shew unto him marvellous things.
- 16 The nations shall see and be confounded at all their might: they shall lay their hand upon their mouth, their ears shall be deaf.
- 17 They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like worms of the earth: they shall be afraid of the LORD our God, and shall fear because of thee. (KJV)

Now back to Isaiah as we exegete the verses:

53:1 "And to whom has the arm of the L-rd been revealed?"

In Isaiah, and throughout our Scriptures, God's "arm" refers to the physical redemption of the Jewish people from the oppression of other gentile nations (Isa. 52:8-12; Isa. 63:12; Deut. 4:34; Deut. 7:19; Ps. 44:3).

Let us look at examples to see if the arm of the lord refers to salvation from Gentile persecutors:

Isa 52:8-12

- 8 Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing: for they shall see eye to eye, when the LORD shall bring again Zion.
- 9 Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the LORD hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem.
- 10 The LORD hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.
- 11 Depart ye, depart ye, go ye out from thence, touch no unclean thing; go ye out of the midst of her; be ye clean, that bear the vessels of the LORD.
- 12 For ye shall not go out with haste, nor go by flight: for the LORD will go before you; and the God of Israel will be your rereward. (KJV)

Isa 63:12

12 That led them by the right hand of Moses with his glorious arm, dividing the water before them, to make himself an everlasting name? (KJV)

Deut 4:34

34 Or hath God assayed to go and take him a nation from the midst of another nation, by temptations, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a stretched out arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? (KJV)

Deut 7:19

19 The great temptations which thine eyes saw, and the signs, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the stretched out arm, whereby the LORD thy God brought thee out: so shall the LORD thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid. (KJV)

As you can see for yourself, in each of the above quotes the reference concerns Israel being delivered either from Egypt who persecuted them unto death, or the return from captivity in Gentile lands. Definitely, and without a doubt, the references to the "arm of the Lord" have to do with the nation of Israel being delivered and saved from the grasp of Gentile nations [and not one person].

WAS YESHUA DESPISED AND REJECTED OF MEN?

53:3 "Despised and rejected of men."

While this is clearly applicable to the Jewish people and the nation of Israel (Isa. 60:15; Ps. 44:13-14), it cannot be reconciled with the New Testament account of Jesus, a man who was supposedly "praised by all" (Lk. 4:14-15)

Isa 60:15

15 Whereas thou hast been forsaken and hated, so that no man went through thee, I will make thee an eternal excellency, a joy of many generations. (KJV)

Ps 44:13-14

- 13 Thou makest us a reproach to our neighbors, a scorn and a derision to them that are round about us.
- 14 Thou makest us a byword among the heathen, a shaking of the head among the people. (KJV)

Matt 4:25

25 And there followed him great multitudes of people from Galilee, and from Decapolis, and from Jerusalem, and from Judaea, and from beyond Jordan. (KJV) who would later acclaim him as a prophet upon his triumphal entry into Jerusalem (Matt. 21:9-11).

Matt 21:9-11

- 9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.
- 10 And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?
- 11 And the multitude said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee. (KJV)
- Even as he was taken to be crucified, a multitude bemoaned his fate (Lk. 23:27).

Luke 23:27

27 And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him. (KJV)

Jesus had to be taken by stealth, as the rulers feared "a riot of the people" (Mk. 14:1-2).

Mark 14:1-2

- 1 After two days was the feast of the passover, and of unleavened bread: and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death.
- 2 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest there be an uproar of the people. (KJV)

Such was his popularity.

ISRAEL'S ADVERSARIES ARE FREQUENTLY LIKENED TO SICKNESSES

53:3 "A man [speaking in context of the nation of Israel] of pains and acquainted with disease."

Let us examine passages like Isa. 1:5-6; Jer. 10:19; Jer 30:12.

Isa 1:5-6

- 5 Why should ye be stricken any more? ye will revolt more and more: the whole head [nation] is sick, and the whole heart faint.
- 6 From the sole of the foot even unto the head there is no soundness in it; but wounds, and bruises, and putrefying sores: they have not been closed, neither bound up, neither mollified with ointment. (KJV)

Jer 10:19

19 Woe is me for my hurt! my wound is grievous: but I said, Truly this is a grief, and I must bear it. (KJV)

Jer 30:12

12 For thus saith the LORD, Thy [the nation] bruise is incurable, and thy wound is grievous. (KJV)

ISRAEL AS BEARING THE BRUNT OF THE GENTILE NATION'S HATRED AND MALICE TOWARD THEM

53:4 "Surely our (remember the Gentile rulers of the nations are speaking) diseases he (the nation of Israel was described in the singular remember?) carried and our pains he (the nation of Israel) bore."

In Matt. 8:17, this passage from Isaiah 53:4 is recorded as being ”fulfilled” in Yeshua's healing of the sick, yet this Matthew passage is totally foreign to the original author’s intention.

Answer for yourself: Was it really fulfilled by Jesus?

This is another blatant misquotation of a Jewish Scripture taken out of context and twisted to bring a different meaning in the New Testament which was totally foreign to the original writer. Where as Isaiah was referring to the nation of Israel being the recipient of Gentile anti-Semitism for centuries whereby the nation of Israel carried the insults and physical pain of Gentile persecution (“surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows”- bearing the Gentile diseases, afflictions, suffering), we are led to believe in this supposed “fulfillment” in the New Testament that the meaning of Isaiah was that Jesus was to “carry the diseases of the people who physically healed.” Nothing could be farther from the mind of Isaiah. Instead of Isaiah’s original meaning of Israel being brutalized by the Gentile nations and powers of the world, the quote from Isaiah I stripped from its original context, the meaning twisted, and now in the New Testament it is supposed to mean Israel is blessing others through physical healing. This is absurd. But if you don't look up the quote yourself, read the context from where the quote is taken for yourself, you like I are relegated to reading the New Testament and accepting at face value everything it says without questioning anything. Such is foolish as we are showing you. This is absolutely no “fulfillment” of anything in Matthew 8:17. Saying so does not make it happen. Biblical ignorance is our enemy! You must face the fact that Matthew 8:17 is totally inconsistent with the text from Isaiah.

Not only did the writer take the quote out of context his uses of it in the New Testament, but to apply this verse of Isaiah to Jesus is impossible as we have already shown that the servant is the nation and not an individual!

ISRAEL'S PLIGHT IS MISUNDERSTOOD AND MISJUDGED IN THE EYES OF THE GENTILE NATIONS

- 53:4 "Yet we ourselves (remember the gentile nations are speaking) esteemed him stricken, smitten of G-D and afflicted."
- Jer. 30:17 - of God's servant Israel (30:10), it is said by the nations, "It is Zion; no one cares for her."

ISRAEL WOUNDED BY THE SINS OF THE GENTILE NATIONS...NOT FOR THEM AS SOME TYPE OF GENTILE ATONEMENT

53:5 "But he was wounded from (NOTE: not for) our transgressions, he was crushed from (AGAIN: not for) our iniquities."

Whereas the Gentile nations had thought the Servant (Israel) was undergoing Divine retribution for its sins at their hands (53:4) [they were helping God out by punishing the Jews], the Gentile nations now realize that the Servant's (Israel's) sufferings stemmed from their own (Gentiles) actions and sinfulness. This theme is further developed throughout the Jewish Scriptures such as Jer. 50:7; Jer. 10:25.

Jer 50:7

7 All that found them have devoured them: and their adversaries said, We offend not, because they have sinned against the LORD, the habitation of justice, even the LORD, the hope of their fathers. (KJV)

Jer 10:25

25 Pour out thy fury upon the heathen that know thee not, and upon the families that call not on thy name: for they have eaten up Jacob, and devoured him, and consumed him, and have made his habitation desolate. (KJV)

Also we must notice that the Messiah "shall not fail nor be crushed till he has set the right in the earth" (Isa. 42:4).

ISRAEL'S VOICE IS NOT HEARD...NO ONE TO TAKE UP FOR HER

53:7 "He was oppressed and he was afflicted, yet he did not open his mouth. Like a lamb that is led to slaughter, and like a sheep that is silent before its shearers, so he did not open his mouth."

It is important to note that in the prior chapter (Isa. 52), Israel is said to have been oppressed and taken away without cause (52:4-5). A similar theme is developed in Psalm 44, wherein King David speaks of Israel's faithfulness even in the face of gentile oppression (44:17- 18) and describes Israel as "sheep to be slaughtered" in the midst of the unfaithful gentile nations (44:22,11).

Regarding the claim that Jesus "did not open his mouth" when faced with oppression and affliction we have a different testimony from Jn. 18:23, 36-37.

John 18:23

23 Jesus answered him, If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: but if well, why smitest thou me? (KJV)

John 18:36-37

- 36 Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.
- 37 Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice. (KJV)

These are not the only references, but this proves the point. I think you will have a hard time proving that Jesus "opened not his mouth" to his accusers and that he was "silent before his shearers."

Again in the hands of the New Testament writers reference is made to this being fulfilled in the ministry of Jesus, but let me remind you that originally the quote was used in a corporate or national sense and not an individual sense.

WAS YESHUA EVER RECOGNIZED AS A RULER?

53:8 "From dominion and judgement he was taken away."

We must take note of the correct translation of the Hebrew in this passage. Without a doubt Israel is the apple of God's eye. It is to them God called to be a Kingdom of Priests, a holy nation, to lead all other nations to God. Israel has always had preeminence. From this exalted status and position they were repeated taken into captivity and subjugated to Gentile cruelty and debasement. Instead of being the ruler and example (the scepter shall not depart from Judah), the nation of Israel became ruled and dominated by those to whom they were sent.

Most Christians writers are forced to mistranslate this verse, since - by Yeshua's own testimony - he never had any rights to rulership or judgement, at least not on the "first coming."

John 18:36

36 Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence. (KJV)

The King James version of the Bible states in Isaiah 53:8 that "he was taken from prison." There is no record of Yeshua ever "doing time" in prison to the best of our knowledge.

"FIGURATIVE" OR A "LITERAL" DEATH?

- 53:8 "He was cut off out of the land of the living."
- 53:9 "His grave was assigned with wicked men."

Ez. 37:11-14 describes Israel being "cut off" and God promises to open its "graves" and bring Israel back into its own land. Other examples of figurative deaths include Ex. 10:17; 2 Sam. 9:8; 2 Sam. 16:9.

CONFIRMATION OF PLURALITY AND NOT SINGULARITY

53:8 "From my peoples' sins (remember the Gentile nations are speaking), there was injury to them (the Jewish people)."

Here the Prophet makes absolutely clear, to anyone familiar with Biblical Hebrew, that the oppressed

Servant is a collective Servant, not a single individual. The Hebrew word "lamoh", when used in our Scriptures, always means "to them" never "to him" and may be found, for example, in Psalm 99:7 - "They kept his testimonies, and the statute that He gave to them."

"ONE" DEATH OR "MANY" DEATHS?

53:9 "And with the rich in his deaths."

Perhaps King James should have changed the original Hebrew, which again makes clear that we are dealing with a collective Servant, i.e., Israel, which will "come to life" when the exile ends (Ez. 37:14).

Ezek 37:14

14 And shall put my spirit in you, and ye shall live, and I shall place you in your own land: then shall ye know that I the LORD have spoken it, and performed it, saith the LORD. (KJV)

NON-VIOLENCE AT THE HANDS OF THEIR PERSECUTORS?

53:9 "He had done no violence."

One need only look at Matt. 21:12; Mk. 11:15-16; Lk. 19:45; Lk. 19:27; Matt. 10:34 and Lk. 12:51; then judge for themselves whether this passage is truly consistent with the New Testament account of Yeshua.

Matt 21:12

12 And Yeshua went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves, (KJV)

Mark 11:15-16

15 And they come to Jerusalem: and Yeshua went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves;

16 And would not suffer that any man should carry any vessel through the temple. (KJV)

Luke 19:45

45 And he went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought; (KJV)

Luke 19:27

27 But those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me. (KJV)

Matt 10:34

34 Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword. (KJV)

Luke 12:51

51 Suppose ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, Nay; but rather division: (KJV)

This certainly does not lend well to pacifism.

WHERE ARE YESHUA'S PHYSICAL CHILDREN?

53:10 "He shall see his seed."

The Hebrew word for "seed", used in this verse, always refers to physical descendants in the Jewish Scriptures. (Gen. 12:7; Gen. 15:13; Gen. 46:6; Ex. 28:43). A different word, generally translated as "sons", is used to refer to spiritual descendants (Deut. 14:1, e.g.). The New Testament paints a picture of Yeshua as unmarried. This is rather surprising since Christianity teaches that Yeshua never sinned, forgetting that the first positive commandment is to procreate. For Yeshua not to be married and have children literally would be a violation of the Law, and I John 3:4 tells us that transgression of the Law is sin.

DID YESHUA LIVE A LONG LIFE?

53:10 "He will prolong his days."

Answer for yourself: Not only did Yeshua die young and childless, but how could the days be prolonged of someone who is alleged to be God?

CAUSE OTHERS TO BE JUST OR JUSTIFY THE UN-GODLY?

53:11 "With his knowledge the righteous one, my Servant, will cause many to be just."

Please notice again the correct translation: the Servant will cause many to be just, he will not "justify the many."

The Jewish mission is to serve as a "light to the nations" which will ultimately lead the world to a knowledge of the one true God, this both by example (Deut. 4:5-8; Zech. 8:23) and by instructing the nations in God's Law (Isa. 2:3-4; Micah 4:2-3).

Deut 4:5-8

- 5 Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it.
- 6 Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.
- 7 For what nation is there so great, who hath God so nigh unto them, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for?
- 8 And what nation is there so great, that hath statutes and judgments so righteous as all this law, which I set before you this day? (KJV)

Zech 8:23

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; In those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will go with you: for we have heard that God is with you. (KJV)

Isa 2:3-4

- 3 And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
- 4 And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. (KJV)

Micah 4:2-3

- 2 And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
- 3 And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. (KJV)

As you can see, we Gentiles are not "just" by something Israel does in our place; rather, we are just because we learn from them the principles, ordinances, and laws of God contained in God's Torah, which when obeyed and kept, makes one righteous before God. God's ways are enumerated in His Law: 248 positive commandments, and 365 negative commandments. Each individual Law is a part of a Covenant foundation; whether it be the laws pertaining to the Covenant of God with the Jews or the non-Jews of the world. Each of these laws are Covenant stipulations whereby when obeyed we maintain right-standing before God.

HOW CAN GOD GIVE HIMSELF ANYTHING...HE HAS IT ALL!

53:12 "Therefore, I will divide a portion to him with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the mighty."

Answer for yourself: If Yeshua is God according to traditional Christian teaching, does the idea of reward have any meaning?

Answer for yourself: Is it not rather the Jewish people - who righteously bore the sins of the world and yet remained faithful to God (Ps. 44) - who will be rewarded, and this in is described more fully in Isaiah chapters 52 and 54?

Only one more article to go in this series. Let us continue in the 9th and final article in this series.

THE ONLY CONCLUSION WE CAN RIGHTFULLY DRAW FROM TRUTHFUL EXAMINATION OF THE TEXTS IS THAT THE IDENTITY OF THE "SERVANT" IN THE PROPHET'S FOURTH SERVANT SONG, ISAIAH 53, MUST BE THE NATION OF ISRAEL AND NOT ONE INDIVIDUAL...NOT YESHUA BY HIMSELF...AND YESHUA IS NOT THE FULFILLMENT OF ISAIAH 53

DID THE JEWS ALWAYS INTERPRET ISAIAH'S SUFFERING SERVANT OF CHAPS. 52 & 53 AS THE NATION....OR DID RASHI CHANGE THE INTERPRETATION AS THE CHRISTIANS SAY?

Jews for Jesus publish in their literature that Rashi, a Jewish Rabbi around 1000 A.D., is responsible for the altering of the interpretation of Isaiah 53 for all of Israel whereby they, after his influence, no longer interpreted Isaiah 53 as an "individual" but as a "nation."

Answer for yourself: Is such a statement made by Jews for Jesus accurate?

The following is from Contra Celsum 1:55 …from around 248 C.E./A.D. [long before Rashi] by the early Church Father Origen:

"Now I remember that, on one occasion, at a disputation held with certain Jews, who were reckoned wise men, I quoted these prophecies (Isaiah 52:13-53:8); to which my Jewish opponent replied, that these predictions [referring to Isaisa 52 and 53] bore reference to the whole people, regarded as one individual, and as being in a state of dispersion and suffering, in order that many proselytes might be gained, on account of the dispersion of the Jews among numerous heathen nations. And in this way he explained the words, "Thy form shall be of no reputation among men;" and then, "They to whom no message was sent respecting him shall see;" and the expression, "A man under suffering." Many arguments were employed on that occasion during the discussion to prove that these predictions regarding one particular person were not rightly applied by them to the whole nation. And I asked to what character the expression would be appropriate, "This man bears our sins, and suffers pain on our behalf;" and this, "But He was wounded for our sins, and bruised for our iniquities;" and to whom the expression properly belonged, "By His stripes were we healed." For it is manifest that it is they who had been sinners, and had been healed by the Saviour's sufferings (whether belonging to the Jewish nation or converts from the Gentiles), who use such language in the writings of the prophet who foresaw these events, and who, under the influence of the Holy Spirit, applied these words to a person. But we seemed to press them hardest with the expression, "Because of the iniquities of My people was He led away unto death." For if the people, according to them, are the subject of the prophecy, how is the man said to be led away to death because of the iniquities of the people of God, unless he be a different person from that people of God? And who is this person save Jesus Christ, by whose stripes they who believe on Him are healed, when "He had spoiled the principalities and powers (that were over us), and had made a show of them openly on His cross?" At another time we may explain the several parts of the prophecy, leaving none of them unexamined. But these matters have been treated at greater length, necessarily as I think, on account of the language of the Jew, as quoted in the work of Celsus."

Now if you read this close you see two opinions concerning the interpretation of the text: the Jewish and the Gentile Church Fathers. But without a doubt, the Jews, at this early date, believed that the Isaiah 52 and Isaiah 53 passages dealt with corporate Israel and not an individual.

This is all the more important because the Christians [Jews for Jesus] teach that the Jews interpreted Isa. 53 as referring to the Messiah (individual) until the medieval commentator Rashi who began to explain it as referring to the people of Israel, thus changing the prior interpretation that the passages referred to only an individual. Nothing could be further from the truth. The evidence speak for itself. So when Christians claim that it was only with the commentary of Rashi (1040-1105) that the Jews began to refer to Isaiah 52:13-53:12 as referring to the entire nation of Israel then they are in error and their message is false.

This misconception began with Edward Pusey, who wrote in his 1876 introduction to The Suffering Servant Of Isaiah According To Jewish Interpretations (trans. Driver and Neubauer, New York: Hermon Press, 1969) that "The new interpretation began with Rashi" (p. XLIV).

As you have seen the interpretation of corporate Israel for Isa. 52 and 53 is neither new, nor did it begin with Rashi. Over 800 years before Rashi the Church Father Origen records for us that the Jews contemporary with him interpreted this passage as referring to the entire nation of Israel.

This material can be found on the Internet or by obtaining Contra Celsum, trans. Henry Chadwick, Cambridge: Cambridge Univ. Press, Book 1:55, 1965, p. 50).

So the bottom line is this: Jewish Biblical exegesis subscribing to the belief that the people of Israel was the suffering servant spoken of throughout the entire passage pre-dates Rashi by many centuries and Jews for Jesus, or anyone who says different is simply wrong. Shalom.

DID THE JEWS ALWAYS INTERPRET ISAIAH'S SUFFERING SERVANT OF CHAPS. 52 & 53 AS THE NATION....OR DID RASHI CHANGE THE INTERPRETATION AS THE CHRISTIANS SAY?

I need to preface that this study is done from a "literal-historical" perspective and done so in order to contrast the differences between Jewish views of the Messiah and Messianic prophecy (Isaiah 53) and later Gentile Roman views of the Jewish Messiah and Messianic prophecy.

Jews for Jesus publish in their literature that Rashi, a Jewish Rabbi around 1000 A.D., is responsible for the altering of the interpretation of Isaiah 53 for all of Israel whereby they, after his influence, no longer interpreted Isaiah 53 as an "individual" but as a "nation."

Answer for yourself: Is such a statement made by Jews for Jesus accurate?

The following is from Contra Celsum 1:55 …from around 248 C.E./A.D. [long before Rashi] by the early Church Father Origen:

"Now I remember that, on one occasion, at a disputation held with certain Jews, who were reckoned wise men, I quoted these prophecies (Isaiah 52:13-53:8); to which my Jewish opponent replied, that these predictions [referring to Isaiah 52 and 53] bore reference to the whole people, regarded as one individual, and as being in a state of dispersion and suffering, in order that many proselytes might be gained, on account of the dispersion of the Jews among numerous heathen nations. And in this way he explained the words, "Thy form shall be of no reputation among men;" and then, "They to whom no message was sent respecting him shall see;" and the expression, "A man under suffering." Many arguments were employed on that occasion during the discussion to prove that these predictions regarding one particular person were not rightly applied by them to the whole nation. And I asked to what character the expression would be appropriate, "This man bears our sins, and suffers pain on our behalf;" and this, "But He was wounded for our sins, and bruised for our iniquities;" and to whom the expression properly belonged, "By His stripes were we healed." For it is manifest that it is they who had been sinners, and had been healed by the Saviour's sufferings (whether belonging to the Jewish nation or converts from the Gentiles), who use such language in the writings of the prophet who foresaw these events, and who, under the influence of the Holy Spirit, applied these words to a person. And who is this person save Jesus Christ, by whose stripes they who believe on Him are healed, when "He had spoiled the principalities and powers (that were over us), and had made a show of them openly on His cross?" At another time we may explain the several parts of the prophecy, leaving none of them unexamined. But these matters have been treated at greater length, necessarily as I think, on account of the language of the Jew, as quoted in the work of Celsus."

Now if you read this close you see two opinions concerning the interpretation of the text: the Jewish and the Gentile Church Fathers. But without a doubt, the Jews, at this early date, believed that the did the jews always interpret isaiah 52 and 53 as the "nation" or did rashi change the interpretation as christians say?

Isaiah 52 and Isaiah 53 passages dealt with corporate Israel and not an individual.

This is all the more important because the Christians [Jews for Jesus] teach that the Jews interpreted Isa. 53 as referring to the Messiah (individual) until the medieval commentator Rashi who began to explain it as referring to the people of Israel, thus changing the prior interpretation that the passages referred to only an individual. So the bottom line is this: Jewish Biblical exegesis subscribing to the belief that the people of Israel was the suffering servant spoken of throughout the entire passage pre-dates Rashi by many centuries and Jews for Jesus, or anyone who says different is simply wrong and not telling the truth. Shalom.
